13 minute sound film.

Rental, $3 from CIO Film Division, 718 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

Shows what a life of poverty, disease and lack of education does to human beings in underdeveloped countries, and how they turn to the United Nations for help.

THAILAND TODAY

10 minute ECA/MSA sound film.

Available free on loan from A. F. Films, 1600 Broadway, New York 19, N.Y.

Describes sympathetically the combination of old and new in an ancient country, Siam, as they plan for the future.

U. N. SCREEN MAGAZINE #4

10 minute sound film.

Rental, $1.50 from CIO Film Library; $2.50 from U. N. Film Division, United Nations, New York.

Shows the U. N. Fellowship Program, a program of exchange through which skilled people of our country can bring knowledge and know-how to another country and in that way help build for peace.

I.L.O.

10 minute sound film.

Produced by the National Film Board of Canada. Rental, $1.50 from CIO Film Division and from WEB Film Library, 724 Ninth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Tells how the International Labor Organization was founded over 30 years ago, and how it functions today in raising the standard of work, health and safety for workers throughout the world.

THE SHOEMAKER AND THE HATTER

15 minute color cartoon film.

Available free on loan from A. F. Films, 1600 Broadway, New York 19, N.Y.

$1 from CIO Film Division, and WEB Film Library.

Shows through fantasy the importance of mass production and free trade compared with scarcity and tariff walls.

For Eye and Ear

BREAKTHROUGH

18 minute ECA/MSA sound film.
Rental, $1 from CIO Department of Education and Research Film Division, 718 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington 6, D.C., and from AFL Workers Education Bureau Film Library, 724 Ninth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Deals with the development of a power project in the mountains of Norway. Slow-moving, but shows importance of electric power to men today.

Visual Material

FOLD-O-GLOBE

Los Angeles Chapter, American Association for the United Nations, Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, Calif. 60¢. (Quantity rates.)

An interesting and effective cardboard map of the world in color, which can stand as a globe or be used folded flat; when flat, sections fold over to show any part of the world. Stands 10 inches high.

POSTERS

Along with its other available posters, the CIO Education and Research Department (718 Jackson Place N.W., Washington 6, D.C.) has reprinted the poster of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, containing in color the ICFTU's MANIFESTO. Inquire concerning rates.

Effective posters on the UNITED NATIONS can be obtained from the Division of Public Liaison, U. S. Department of State, Washington, D.C.

Colorful posters on the Specialized Agencies of the U.N. -- FAO, UNESCO, etc.— are available through the Labor-International Office, American Friends Service Committee, 20 S. 12 Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.

Posters illustrating the different sections of the Declaration of Human Rights, together with the texts, are available from the Sales and Circulation Department, Division of Public Information, United Nations, New York. 10¢ each for the 4 sheets that make up the set, entitled HUMAN RIGHTS PICTURE PRESENTATION.

PHOTOGRAPHS AND PICTURE SHEETS

Visual Information Section, Department of Public Information, United Nations, New York. Free of charge to editors.

Effective documentary photographs (glossy print, 8x10 inches) of people and activities all over the world have human interest. Large sheets of pictures dealing with particular countries or problems, and containing explanatory texts, are also available and can be used as wall newspapers.

POINT FOUR -- BUILDS FOR TOMORROW

Visual-media, Div. of Public Liaison, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C
Loaned free of charge to labor groups (except for return transportation).

This is a two-panel exhibit, made for a recent ALES Conference on International Affairs showing that technical aid for better health and education lays the ground-work for technological aid in the use of machinery by the workers of underdeveloped countries.

For Eye and Ear

A DAY'S WORK

Mutual Security Agency, 800 Connecticut Ave., Washington 6, D.C. Loaned free of charge to labor groups (except for return transportation).
This is an "electric book" whose pages (about two feet square) turn automatically, showing pictures in the lives of workers of different countries, as they go to work, work on the job, take time out for lunch, go home to their families at night, work together in their union activities, etc. Prepared for a recent ALES Conference.

HAVE YOU SEEN ---

--- the new issue of the ALES Bulletin?

Bulletin. July 1952. 4 pp. Single copy free of charge from the American Labor Education Service, 1776 Broadway, New York 19, N.Y. It tells about current phases of the ALES program, including the activities carried on through the International Project.

--- the article by the editor of the Machinists' Journal, interpreting the IAM-ALES Conference on International Affairs?

"Experiment in St. Louis: Around the World in Two Days" By L.O. Thomas, Machinists Monthly Journal, July 1952, pp. 206-211. Single issue, 25¢. Reprint will be available from ALES. The Conference is described largely in terms of the educational techniques and values that were involved, and the significance of these for the labor movement.

--- a new leaflet for discussion leaders?

THINKING TOGETHER: TEN TIPS FOR DISCUSSION LEADERS. American Labor Education Service, 1776 Broadway, New York 19, N.Y. 1952. 4 pp. Free of charge.
Compiled to answer requests from the field, it brings together suggestions for carrying on informal group discussion. Of use to union committee chairmen and others dealing with education carried on in small groups.

--- a new manual for union education committees?

PLANNING A LOCAL UNION EDUCATION PROGRAM
By John J. Pearce, Jr. and Irvine L. H. Kerrison. Institute of Management and Labor Relations, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J. 1952. 24 pp. Single copy free of charge in N. J.; otherwise 10¢.
A matter-of-fact manual on how to set up the committee, plan the work, obtain assistance, keep the program going. While the list of resources was drawn up with special reference to the state of New Jersey, the pamphlet has general value.

--- a new look at ourselves?

LABOR AND THE AMERICAN WAY
By Mark Starr. Oxford Book Company, New York. 1952. 76 pp. 30¢
This booklet provides a good basis for understanding the nature of unionism as it has developed in the American scene. In addition to presenting facts the author discusses some of the problems and controversies that unions face. Written originally for use in highschools, it will be useful to union members here and abroad interested in an overall picture of American labor.

Labor Education in Kentucky

1952
1951
1950
1949
1948
1947
1946

Since 1946, the Department of Research & Education of the Kentucky State Federation of Labor has conducted 578 classes in labor subjects for A.F.L. Unions in Kentucky. Subjects include Labor History, Collective Bargaining, Parliamentary Law, Public Speaking, with particular emphasis on STEWARDS TRAINING.

The Department's services cover the State. The following cities have had classes since 1946:

Ashland, Berea, Carrollton, Covington, Frankfort, Harrodsburg, Henderson, Hopkinsville, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lexington, Liberty, Louisville, Middletown, Morehead, New Haven, Olive Hill, Owensboro, Owenton, Paducah, Richmond, Somerset, Williamstown. Classes have also been conducted in Jeffersonville and Speed, Indiana; Logan, Ohio and Huntington, West Virginia.

Every year the Department mails questionnaires to all affiliated local unions. Kentucky A.F.L. Locals affiliated with the Kentucky State Federation of Labor pay no fee for labor classes.

INSTITUTES

In addition to a year 'round program of night classes throughout the State, the Department frequently sponsors week-end labor training Institutes.

Since 1946, the Department has conducted 36 Institutes in Paducah, Louisville, Frankfort, Lexington, Ashland, and Olive Hill, and Huntington, W. Va.

Total attendance for the 36 Institutes: 1,541.

ARBITRATIONS

Since the Department was set up in 1946, the Staff has assisted Kentucky A.F.L. locals in 18 arbitrations – PARTICULARLY SMALL LOCAL UNIONS THAT CANNOT AFFORD FULL-TIME REPRESENTATION!

NEGOTIATIONS

The Department Staff has assisted directly in 22 contract negotiations since 1946. This does not include assistance in drawing up contract clauses, research on wage-control problems, cost-of-living data, Taft-Hartley Act.

ORGANIZATION DRIVES

The Department of Research & Education has rendered service in organization drives for Bakery Workers, Woodworkers, Firemen & Oilers, Hotel & Restaurant Employees, Chemical Workers, Engravers, Butchers, Dairy Workers, Ironworkers, Automobile Workers International, Office Employees, Textile Workers, Carpenters, Electrical Workers, Teachers, Barbers, Stagehands, State, County & Municipal Employees, Metal Polishers, Coopers – and others – as well as direct assistance to AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR drives. The Staff assists by speaking at meetings, assisting with handbills and other publications, working with organizers on NLRB problems, showing movies, film-strips . . .

The Department has published and copyrighted the organizational leaflet "8 Million Strong". To date, over 20,000 copies of the leaflet have been distributed in A.F.L. organization drives throughout the country. Other printed organization material is available from the Department's offices.

NLRB HEARINGS

The Staff of the Department represents A.F.L. unions in hearings before the National Labor Relations Board on NLRB elections and unfair labor practices preferred against employers from time to time. This saves a substantial legal fee in many instances. The Staff keeps an active file on NLRB procedure together with the many necessary forms and petitions. Free notary service is available to all A.F.L. Locals in Kentucky. Two members of the Staff are "notaries at large" for the entire State of Kentucky.

Kentucky Labor Schools Top Them All

The Kentucky State Federation of Labor is the ONLY state federation conducting its own LABOR SCHOOL. The K.F.L.'s Department of Research & Education has conducted SEVEN annual TWO-WEEK Labor Schools at Richmond, Morehead, and Louisville.

For a nominal fee, A.F.L. locals, central bodies, trades councils, and internationals, may provide their officers and members with the finest labor training available.

394 Diplomas have been issued to students of the 7 Kentucky Labor Schools held since 1946.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The K.F.L. Department of Research & Education considers the field of public relations to be an important task and never overlooks an opportunity to lecture at high schools, colleges and universities, or before civic and fraternal organizations. The Staff of the Department of Research & Education, since 1946, has appeared on 64 radio and television programs concerning labor! The Department mails labor publications regularly free of charge to instructors in Kentucky colleges and universities.

Since July, 1947 the Department has mailed monthly newsletters of its activities and available services to all Kentucky affiliates, as well as Kentucky Labor School alumni.

STAFF

The Advisory Board of the Department of Research & Education meets six times a year to chart the course of the labor education training program of the A.F.L. in Kentucky. These trade unionists serve without compensation, and are elected by Convention to serve two-year terms.

SAM EZELLE, Director

JIM WOLFE, Assistant Director

ADVISORY BOARD

EARL BELLEW, Chairman
HOWARD HAYNES, Sec.-Treas.
R. A. DuVALL, Committeeman
V. O. COTTENGIM
CHARLES GOVAN
PAUL McAVOY
MARGARET RICKERT
FRANCES RITCHIE
FRANCES STILL
THELMA STOVALL
EARL WAGNER
J. E. WARD
JESSE WEBSTER
SALLY WILES

DEPARTMENT OF RESEARCH & EDUCATION
KENTUCKY STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR

312 Armory Place — Louisville 2, Ky. — CLay 7761

Labor in Israel NEWSLETTER

January, 1953

GROWTH OF HISTADRUT At the Histadrut National Council meeting last October, it was reported that Histadrut had 503,000 members. With their families Histadrut members total about 750,000, or more than half the population of Israel. The percentage of organized labor in Israel is very high. About 75% of all organizable workers and wage-earners are organized in Histadrut. Some 10% more are organized in three smaller Unions, two of which are incorporated into the Trade Union activities and Health Insurance plans of Histadrut. All of them joined Histadrut in creating the General Labor Exchange, run jointly by the Unions and Government, which controls practically the entire Labor market. Only 15% of all workers and wage-earners in Israel are as yet unorganized.

PROBLEMS OF IMMIGRATION While Israel has doubled its population in the past 4½ years, Histadrut has nearly tripled its membership during the same period. Two out of three of our members are newcomers, the bulk of whom had not been workers in countries of their origin and possess no skill or profession and our organization has to see to it that the new member learns a trade and improves his skill.

PROBLEMS OF INFLATION Due to the great influx of immigrants and the inadequate rise in capital investments, we have been living under the shadow of inflation for the last few years. The government has adopted deflationary measures in its financial and fiscal policy, which have changed the situation. Histadrut has been successful in obtaining through overall bargaining, an automatic sliding wage scale adjusted quarterly to the official index of commodity prices. But the worker in Israel understands well enough that a fatter pay envelope in itself does not meet his needs. Our organization has adopted the policy of linking a higher income to a higher output, without invalidating the present sliding wage scale. We are in the process of establishing joint production boards in all industries in order to give the worker say in how to raise efficiency and thus solve some problems of our national economy and incidentally achieve higher wages.

HISTADRUT AS A COLONIZER AND AN ENTREPRENEUR Our functions are much wider than those of a Trade Union. For the last two or three decades our Labor movement had to help build the economy of the country, hand in hand with building its Union. We found in Palestine a devastated, deserted country that could be reclaimed only through great pioneering efforts. Labor pioneers established a vast network of cooperative agricultural settlements. But later on, when new frontiers had to be opened in difficult and dangerous parts of our old-new country, Labor had to provide capital besides manpower. No private person was prepared to take the risk of a doubtful investment. Thus a wide network of cooperatives and economic institutions in agriculture, building trades, transport services, housing, marketing, distribution, insurance, banking, came into being. The result is that today 155,000 Histadrut members belong to cooperatives or are employed in one of our own enterprises.

Fraternally yours,

Moshe Bitan

Moshe Bitan, American Representative
Executive Board of Histadrut in Israel

HISTADRUT HOUSE • 33 East 67th Street, New York 21, N. Y. • Tel.: REgent 4-6010

393

JEWISH LABOR COMMITTEE

25 East 78th Street New York 21, N. Y.

Telephone: LEhigh 5-3700

Memorandum

To: WORKERS' EDUCATION & CIVIL RIGHTS COMMITTEES

From: BETTY KAYE

Subject:

Date: March 9, 1953

Enclosed you will find a copy of an editorial and statement on Soviet Anti-Semitism signed by 35 prominent Catholic lay and religious leaders, which we are now distributing in co-operation with COMMONWEAL. Up to 50 additional copies are available free of charge from the Jewish Labor Committee.

It will undoubtedly interest you to know that the National Catholic Welfare Conference is distributing copies of this reprint to the 5000 members of its Social Action Committee.

* * * * *

oeiu-153

RECEIVED
MAR 19
Southern Regional Council

341

A Catholic Statement on Soviet Anti-Semitism

Reprinted from the February 20th, 1953 issue of THE COMMONWEAL

THE BEGINNING AGAIN

PERSECUTION indeed has been the terrible destiny of the Jewish people, for more than any others they have borne the wrath of blinded man, as he makes anger and despair into a creed.

Now it happens again in the Communist-dominated world. Anti-Semitism has been in the past an occasional tool for Communism, but now, in Prague and Moscow, the Soviets have openly begun a campaign against the Jews.

The outside world can only protest. Conceivably, a protest could be made which would influence Soviet policy. The outraged opinion of the non-Communist world might slow the Soviets; not even Hitler would have gone to the ghastly limit of gas-chambers, multilation and human experimentation had his people fully known what was happening, and had the world spoken loudly when persecution began. We are now at the beginning again. It is particularly important that non-Jews speak, for there must be a solidarity of free men in something like this. When Jews are threatened, we are threatened; just as the arrests of priests and the subversion of Catholic churches behind the Iron Curtain cast a shadow of threat on the Jews, the next group with independent allegiance and a devotion to something beyond Caesar.

If we protest, and make the Soviet and satellite peoples, those who have radios to hear with, know what is beginning, then we have at least a chance to prevent a repetition of the Hitler years. If we fail to speak out, we will forfeit the only opportunity we can expect to be given, and must share an implicit responsibility for whatever may come.

On the following page, certain American Catholics make such a protest. Catholics representing almost every part of the American community and almost every shade of political opinion join this magazine in condemning Soviet policy, and in commiserating with the Jewish world in its new agony. Those who signed this statement were arbitrarily chosen because they were prominent in a great variety of callings.

We are sorry that more could not have been invited to sign, but obviously every Catholic who really believes his profession of faith shares in the convictions of this statement, so these representative names must be taken as the names of a multitude of American Catholics.

We speak out; but against fratricide words are miserably weak. For whatever it may accomplish, we are on record to the world of men. The only other words can be addressed to God, Who listens to those who suffer, and to those who fast and pray.

A Catholic Statement on Soviet Anti-Semitism

WE call upon the conscience of the world through governments and the United Nations to protest against the outrageous new Anti-Semitism of the Communist world, and in David's words we pray that God will deliver the Jews from the hands of their enemies and from those who persecute them. Having seen our fellow Catholics persecuted by the Soviets, we offer special sympathy to Jews in their new trial, in this latest threat of genocide in our time.

John S. Burke
President, B. Altman & Co.

Bing Crosby
Actor, Singer

Edward Curley
President, Association of Catholic Trade Unionists

Mrs. William H. Dalton
President, National Council of Catholic Women

Dorothy Day
Editor, The Catholic Worker

William J. Donovan
Attorney, Former Head, Office of Strategic Services

Eddie Dowling
Actor, Producer

Martin P. Durkin
United States Secretary of Labor

Rt. Rev. Baldwin Dworschak, O.S.B.
Abbot, Saint John's Abbey, Collegeville, Minn.

James A. Farley
President, Coca Cola Export Co.

Robert Giroux
Editor, Harcourt, Brace

J. Peter Grace, Jr.
President, W. R. Grace & Co.

John F. Kennedy
United States Senator from Massachusetts

Walter Kerr
Drama Critic, New York Herald Tribune

Rev. John LaFarge, S.J.
Associate Editor, America

Emmet Lavery
Playwright, Screen Writer

Clare Boothe Luce
Writer, Ambassador-Designate to Italy

Sister Mary Madeleva, C.S.C.
President, Saint Mary's College, Notre Dame

Jacques Maritain
Philosopher, Princeton University

Eugene J. McCarthy
United States Representative from Minnesota

Very Rev. Laurence J. McGinley, S.J.
President, Fordham University

George Meany
President, American Federation of Labor

Rev. Thomas A. Meehan
President, The Catholic Press Association

Jo Mielziner
Theatrical Designer

Stephen A. Mitchell
Chairman, Democratic National Committee

James A. Mulvey
President, Samuel Goldwyn Productions

James E. Murray
United States Senator from Montana

Francis I. Nally
President, National Council of Catholic Men

Rt. Rev. Msgr. John O'Grady
Secretary, National Conference of Catholic Charities

George N. Shuster
President, Hunter College

Otto Spaeth
Board of Directors, Americans for Democratic Action

Harold A. Stevens
President, Catholic Interracial Council

John E. Swift
Supreme Knight, Knights of Columbus

Allen Tate
Poet, Critic

Jane Wyatt
Actress

The Editors of The Commonweal

386 FOURTH AVENUE
NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

Labor in Israel NEWSLETTER

VOLUME ONE - NUMBER TWO

February, 1953

How Histadrut Functions

The structure of Histadrut differs considerably from that of the American trade union movement.

A new member does not join a specific trade union but the Histadrut as a whole; only then does he automatically become a member of a local and national trade union.

The member pays his dues to the Histadrut, not to his Union. The reason for this overall priority of the general federation is that Israel is a country of mass immigration and the labor movement wishes to keep its doors open to all the newcomers.

Histadrut has set up local Labor Councils (corresponding to your City-Councils) which handle all the affairs of the workers in a given locality, which have jurisdiction over the local unions.

As can be seen from the chart, the trade union activities are only one of the functions of Histadrut. Israeli labor is deeply interested and therefore active in the field of social security, constructive economic enterprises, culture, vocational training, education and others indicated on the chart.

The pure trade union matters are handled on three levels: local, through the local union which operates under the local labor council; national, through one of the 23 existing national trade unions; and the overall level, dealing with such matters as wage policy, laid down by the Trade Union Department operating under the Executive Committee.

Officers are elected by direct, secret ballot of the individual workers. Candidates are put forward by various parties within the federation, and chosen on the basis of proportional representation. The General Convention is convoked every four years.

The Convention elects the GENERAL COUNCIL, which in turn elects the EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. This body then names its EXECUTIVE BUREAU and GENERAL SECRETARY, who are responsible for the daily conduct of business. Each of the departments listed on the chart is headed by a member of the Executive Committee.

Labor in Israel NEWSLETTER

VOLUME ONE - NUMBER FOUR

April, 1953

Israeli Trade Unions

Our General Federation of Labor has been in existence for 32 years. I should like to try here to tell you briefly what we have achieved as a trade union over these years.

We have succeeded in organizing farm labor and industrial workers as well as the white collar workers and the professions. Of 503,000 regular Histadrut members at the end of October, 1952,

348,000 were employed by private capital and to a smaller extent in government service;
95,300 were self-employed as members of farming, industrial, marketing or service cooperatives;
45,200 were employed by Histadrut-owned companies in industry, construction work, etc.;
14,500 were Histadrut and Sick Fund employees (administrative, medical, etc.).

Histadrut members are organized by occupation in 30 national unions. The largest of these are the Agricultural Workers Union, Building and Building Trades Union, Union of Government Employees, Clerical Union, Metal Workers Union, Textile Workers Union, Woodworkers Union and Teachers Union.

Wage Conditions

Our trade union policy is based on collective bargaining. Practically every trade has its own fixed wage scale. Having organized 75% of the country's workers, Histadrut naturally has a decisive say in all matters of wage policy. The worker's pay envelope includes basis wages, cost-of-living allowances, production bonuses, length-of-service increments and family allowances (based on the number of dependents). Workers are hired through labor exchanges which are run jointly by Histadrut and three smaller independent unions. Hiring through these labor exchanges gets much the same results as you do through your "union shop." Dismissal of workers is regulated by our contracts, which call for a stated period of notice and provide for the order in which employees may be dismissed.

Social Benefits

Our accumulated social benefits run as high as 25% and sometimes as high as 40% of gross wages. These benefits naturally vary from one industry to another and sometimes from one union to another. About half of all Histadrut members get two weeks paid vacation a year, but many get three weeks or more. A new law guarantees a minimum of 12 days paid vacation a year. Most of our contracts provide for paid holidays, paid maternity leave (up to two months of full

0393

Virginia

Trends in Employment Hours and Earnings

VIRGINIA STATE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR AND INDUSTRY

In cooperation with
U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

Volume 3 - No. 8 August 26, 1953

VIRGINIA NONFARM EMPLOYMENT HIGHER IN JULY

Virginia nonagricultural employment increased by 1,600 workers to a level of 902,100 in July, according to Edmond M. Boggs, Commissioner, Virginia Department of Labor and Industry in a report prepared in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Virginia nonfarm employment is strongly influenced by seasonal factors. Employment gains have been made each month since February, 1953, the seasonal low point. If the employment trend follows the pattern of previous years, employment should continue to increase until the end of the year.

VIRGINIA MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES

Approximately 400 workers were added to manufacturing payrolls between mid-June and mid-July. During the same period, however, the average manufacturing workweek declined by 1.8 hours.

Durable goods employment increased by 500 workers reflecting gains of 500 employees in transportation equipment, 100 in saw mills and planning mills, and 200 in miscellaneous durable goods industries which more than offset declines of 200 workers engaged in manufacturing household and office furniture and 100 employees of stone, clay, and glass plants. Although the durable goods workweek declined 1.1 hours over-the-month, it continued in July to exceed a 40 hour average, indicating that overtime work in durable goods industries is still widespread.

Employment in nondurable goods industries dropped by 100 workers during the month. An 800 reduction in textile workers, centered in broad woven fabric mills and yarn and thread mills, and a 300 worker decline in food employment, with major reductions in canneries, more than counterbalanced rising employment in other nondurable goods industries. Employment was up in apparel, leather, tobacco, printing, and chemicals industries. Helping to raise chemicals employment was a seasonal up-swing in activity in plants processing animal and vegetable oils.

The 220,400 production workers employed in Virginia manufacturing establishments, earned an average of $54.46 per week, worked an average of 38.9 hours per week, and were paid an average of $1.40 per hour. Contrasted with a year ago, the average workweek was 1.9 hours shorter, average weekly earnings were sixty cents higher, and average hourly earnings were eight cents higher.

VIRGINIA NONMANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES

Nonmanufacturing employment reached a level of 647,700 in mid-July as a result of an over-the-month addition of 1,200 workers. Seasonal expansion in employment in contract construction, trucking, and financial institutions boosted the nonmanufacturing total. Soft coal mining, trade, and government were lower this month.

HOURS AND EARNINGS IN THE RICHMOND STANDARD METROPOLITAN AREA

The 30,400 production workers in manufacturing establishments in the Richmond Metropolitan Area earned an average of $58.31 a week, worked an average of 39.4 hours a week, and were paid an average of $1.48 per hour. Compared with last year, the average workweek was .6 hours shorter, average weekly earnings were seventy-one cents higher, and average hourly earnings were four cents higher.

HOURS AND EARNINGS IN THE NORFOLK-PORTSMOUTH STANDARD METROPOLITAN AREA

The 12,900 production workers in manufacturing establishments in the Norfolk-Portsmouth Metropolitan Area, earned an average of $60.15 a week, worked an average of 41.2 hours per week, and were paid an average of $1.46 per hour. In relation to the same month last year, the average workweek was .2 hours shorter, average weekly earnings were $4.67 higher, and average hourly earnings were twelve cents higher.

ESTIMATED HOURS AND EARNINGS IN MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES
RICHMOND METROPOLITAN AREA

INDUSTRY GROUP	AVERAGE WEEKLY EARNINGS			AVERAGE WEEKLY HOURS			AVERAGE HOURLY EARNINGS
	July 1953	June 1953	July 1952	July 1953	June 1953	July 1952	July 1953	June 1953	July 1952
ALL MANUFACTURING	$58.31	$58.51	$57.60	39.4	39.8	40.0	$1.48	$1.47	$1.44
Durable Goods	59.00	59.73	56.10	43.7	43.6	42.5	1.35	1.37	1.32
Lumber and Wood Prod. (except furniture)	46.64	46.22	49.72	42.4	42.8	44.0	1.10	1.08	1.13
Fabricated Metals Industries	71.07	71.07	62.93	44.7	44.7	43.1	1.59	1.59	1.46
Fabricated Structural Metal Products	60.18	59.88	54.32	41.5	41.3	38.8	1.45	1.45	1.40
Nondurable Goods	58.06	58.05	57.77	38.2	38.7	39.3	1.52	1.50	1.47
Apparel and other Finished Products	47.34	49.34	44.23	36.7	37.1	35.1	1.29	1.33	1.26
Food and Kindred Products	53.54	56.01	52.12	41.5	44.1	41.7	1.29	1.27	1.25
Tobacco Products	48.93	48.64	56.23	34.7	34.5	39.6	1.41	1.41	1.42
Cigarettes	56.16	51.92	63.99	36.0	33.5	42.1	1.56	1.55	1.52
Paper and Allied Products	66.37	57.51	53.15	48.8	42.6	41.2	1.36	1.35	1.29
Printing, Publishing, and Allied Products	65.10	65.45	58.66	41.2	40.4	37.6	1.58	1.62	1.56
Chemicals and Allied Products	77.11	72.44	70.45	40.8	39.8	41.2	1.89	1.82	1.71

Note: Data cover approximately 30,400 production workers and are computed on a gross basis. These are affected by such factors as premium pay for overtime and shift differential, as well as changes in basic hourly and incentive rates of pay.

AVERAGE WEEKLY
ESTIMATED HOURS AND EARNINGS IN MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES
NORFOLK-PORTSMOUTH METROPOLITAN AREA

INDUSTRY GROUP	AVERAGE WEEKLY EARNINGS			AVERAGE WEEKLY HOURS			AVERAGE HOURLY EARNINGS
	July 1953	June 1953*	July 1952	July 1953	June 1953*	July 1952	July 1953	June 1953*	July 1952
ALL MANUFACTURING	$60.15	$58.46	$55.48	41.2	40.6	41.4	$1.46	$1.44	$1.34
Lumber and Wood Products	44.20	44.40	39.90	42.1	41.5	40.3	1.05	1.07	.99
Fabricated Metals Industries	60.64	62.25	60.51	37.9	39.4	38.3	1.60	1.58	1.58
Transportation Equipment	82.34	80.04	72.52	43.8	42.8	43.2	1.88	1.87	1.68
Chemicals and Allied Products	60.18	56.94	58.42	41.5	40.1	43.6	1.45	1.42	1.34

Note: Data cover approximately 12,900 production workers and are computed on a gross basis. These are affected by such factors as premium pay for overtime and shift differential, as well as changes in basic hourly and incentive rates of pay.

* Revised

ESTIMATED EMPLOYMENT IN NONAGRICULTURAL INDUSTRIES IN VIRGINIA

INDUSTRY GROUP	EMPLOYMENT (In Thousands of Employees)			NET CHANGE FROM
	July 1953	June 1953	July 1952	June 1953	July 1952
NONAGRICULTURAL	902.1	900.5	891.0	1.6	11.1
MANUFACTURING	254.4	254.0	242.6	.4	11.8
Durable Goods	89.2	88.7	84.3	.5	4.9
Primary Metals Industries	3.6	3.6	3.6	0	0
Fabricated Metals Industries	7.2	7.2	6.0	0	1.2
Fabricated Structural Metal Products	4.1	4.0	3.2	.1	.9
Transportation Equipment	19.9	19.4	19.3	.5	.6
Lumber and Wood Products (except furniture)	28.9	28.8	28.5	.1	.4
Wooden Containers	3.2	3.2	3.1	0	.1
Furniture and Fixtures	14.1	14.3	13.0	- .2	1.1
Household and Office Furniture	13.1	13.3	12.0	- .2	1.1
Stone, Clay, and Glass Products	7.0	7.1	7.2	- .1	- .2
Concrete, Gypsum and Plaster Products	3.2	3.2	3.4	0	- .2
Other Durable Goods*	8.5	8.3	6.7	.2	1.8
Nondurable Goods	165.2	165.3	158.3	- .1	6.9
Textile Mill Products	38.8	39.6	40.2	- .8	- 1.4
Broad Woven Fabric Mills	23.6	24.3	24.8	- .7	- 1.2
Knitting Mills	7.2	7.2	7.0	0	.2
Apparel and Other Finished Products	19.1	18.9	17.5	.2	1.6
Men's and Boys' Clothing	12.0	11.8	10.9	.2	1.1
Leather and Leather Products	5.7	5.6	5.8	.1	- .1
Footwear (except rubber)	4.2	4.1	4.2	.1	0
Food and Kindred Products	24.9	25.2	23.6	- .3	1.3
Tobacco Products	13.5	13.4	13.3	.1	.2
Cigarettes	7.4	7.7	7.6	- .3	- .2
Paper and Allied Products	10.8	10.8	10.3	0	.5
Pulp, Paper and Paperboard Mills	6.7	6.7	6.6	0	.1
Printing, Publishing and Allied Products	7.5	7.5	7.6	0	- .1
Newspapers and Periodicals	4.1	4.0	4.0	.1	.1
Chemicals and Allied Products	43.8	43.1	39.1	.7	4.7
Industrial Organic Chemicals	33.6	33.4	29.6	.2	4.0
Fertilizer	2.1	2.2	1.9	- .1	.2
Other Nondurable Goods	1.1	1.2	.9	- .1	.2
NONMANUFACTURING	647.7	646.5	648.4	1.2	- .7
Mining	17.4	17.8	20.8	- .4	- 3.4
Bituminous Mining	14.1	14.5	17.6	- .4	- 3.5
Contract Construction	64.8	63.9	70.2	.9	- 5.4
Transportation, Communication, and Other Public Utilities	86.6	86.2	84.2	.4	2.4
Railroads (interstate)	33.7	33.7	32.5	0	1.2
Telephone, Telegraph and Related Service	12.0	11.8	11.5	.2	.5
Electric and Gas Utilities	8.7	8.7	8.3	0	.4
Trade	199.8	200.3	195.5	- .5	4.3
Wholesale	46.4	46.6	41.3	- .2	5.1
Retail	153.4	153.7	154.2	- .3	- .8
General Merchandise Stores	30.0	30.3	30.1	- .3	- .1
Department Stores	16.5	16.7	17.0	- .2	- .5
Limited Price Variety Stores	7.4	7.7	7.5	- .3	- .1
Food and Liquor Stores	25.7	25.9	25.3	- .2	.4
Finance, Insurance and Real Estate	36.3	34.9	33.4	1.4	2.9
Services	85.0	84.7	85.1	.3	- .1
Hotels	9.9	9.7	9.8	- .2	- .3
Personal Services	21.1	21.4	22.4	- .3	- 1.3
Government	157.8	158.7	159.2	- .9	- 1.4
Federal	76.6	75.9	80.3	.7	- 3.7
State and Local Government	81.2	82.8	78.9	-1.6	2.3

Note: Current month's estimates are preliminary. Previous month's figures subject to revision. Estimates include all full-time and part-time wage and salary workers who worked during or received pay for the pay period ending nearest the fifteenth of the month.

* Includes machinery, professional, scientific, and controlling instruments, and miscellaneous manufacturing.

 Includes products of petroleum and coal, and rubber products.

ESTIMATED HOURS AND EARNINGS IN MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES
VIRGINIA

INDUSTRY GROUP	AVERAGE WEEKLY EARNINGS			AVERAGE WEEKLY HOURS			AVERAGE HOURLY EARNINGS
	July 1953	June 1953*	July 1952	July 1953	June 1953*	July 1952	July 1953	June 1953*	July 1952
ALL MANUFACTURING	$54.46	$57.39	$53.86	38.9	40.7	40.8	$1.40	$1.41	$1.32
Durable Goods	56.42	57.13	54.18	40.3	41.4	42.0	1.40	1.38	1.29
Primary Metals Industries	65.76	64.78	62.36	40.1	39.5	41.3	1.64	1.64	1.51
Fabricated Metals Industries	73.04	71.28	62.31	44.0	44.0	42.1	1.66	1.62	1.48
Fabricated Structural Metal Products	74.69	73.10	61.70	42.2	42.5	39.3	1.77	1.72	1.57
Transportation Equipment	84.25	85.90	79.06	41.3	41.7	45.7	2.04	2.06	1.73
Furniture and Fixtures	42.78	46.34	45.67	37.2	40.3	41.9	1.15	1.15	1.09
Household and Office Furniture	42.55	46.23	45.78	37.0	40.2	42.0	1.15	1.15	1.09
Stone, Clay, and Glass Products	52.42	52.04	48.72	41.6	41.3	40.6	1.26	1.26	1.20
Nondurable Goods	53.72	57.77	52.65	38.1	40.4	39.0	1.41	1.43	1.35
Textile Mill Products	47.52	47.35	49.63	35.2	35.6	37.6	1.35	1.33	1.32
Broad Woven Fabric Mills	45.75	46.33	48.60	34.4	35.1	37.1	1.33	1.32	1.31
Knitting Mills	41.89	42.84	45.24	35.2	36.0	37.7	1.19	1.19	1.20
Apparel and Other Finished Products	38.48	39.54	36.26	36.3	37.3	35.2	1.06	1.06	1.03
Men's and Boys' Clothing	35.54	37.40	33.12	35.9	37.4	34.5	.99	1.00	.96
Leather and Leather Products	44.49	48.20	46.62	37.7	40.5	42.0	1.18	1.19	1.11
Footwear, (except rubber)	39.38	43.82	44.62	36.8	40.2	42.9	1.07	1.09	1.04
Food and Kindred Products	49.62	50.98	48.02	41.7	43.2	41.4	1.19	1.18	1.16
Tobacco Products	48.69	47.74	51.61	35.8	35.1	39.1	1.36	1.36	1.32
Cigarettes	56.24	51.79	60.71	37.0	34.3	41.3	1.52	1.51	1.47
Paper and Allied Products	63.80	66.40	60.44	41.7	43.4	41.4	1.53	1.53	1.46
Pulp, Paper, and Paperboard Mills	69.47	75.60	65.47	41.6	45.0	41.7	1.67	1.68	1.57
Printing, Publishing, and Allied Products	69.55	69.81	67.07	41.9	41.8	41.4	1.66	1.67	1.62
Chemicals and Allied Products	66.80	66.57	62.24	40.0	40.1	39.9	1.67	1.66	1.56
Industrial Organic Chemicals	69.78	69.48	64.78	39.2	39.7	39.5	1.78	1.75	1.64
Fertilizer	52.93	53.20	53.62	39.5	40.0	42.9	1.34	1.33	1.25

Note: Data cover approximately 220,400 production workers and are computed on a gross basis. These are affected by such factors as premium pay for overtime and shift differential, as well as changes in basic hourly and incentive rates of pay.

* Revised

Labor, Education

SECOND

SOUTHERN AFL LABOR SCHOOL

University of Oklahoma
Norman, Oklahoma
October 4-9, 1953

FACULTY

Dr. Paul Brinker, Associate Professor of Economics
University of Oklahoma
Norman, Oklahoma

John D. Connors, Director
Workers Education Bureau, AFL
1525 "H" Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Tom Duncan, Assistant Director
Labor's League for Political Education
1525 "H" Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Arthur A. Elder, AFL Tax Consultant
Director, ILGWU Training Institute
2 W. 16th. Street
New York, New York

Michael Magee, Instructor in Collective Bargaining
Extension Division
Wayne University
(member of American Federation of Teachers)
9966 Yellowstone
Detroit, Michigan

George S. Mitchell, Exec. Director
Southern Regional Council
906 Lullwater
Atlanta, Georgia

Jim Robinson, Specialist in General Education
Extension Division
University of Oklahoma
Norman, Oklahoma

GUEST SPEAKERS

Andrew J. Biemiller, Member, National Legislative Comm., AFL AFL Building
Washington, D. C.

Dr. George S. Counts
Dept. of Social and Philosophical Foundations of Education
Teachers College, Columbia Univ.
New York, N. Y.
(Past President, American Federation of Teachers, AFL)

Ted Williams, Director of Research and Education
Alabama State Federation of Labor
Instructor in Workers Education
University of Alabama
Box 1426
Birmingham, Alabama

J. L. Rhodes
Regional Director, AFL 416 Hurt Building
Atlanta, Georgia

STUDENT DELEGATES

ALABAMA

M. M. Boone
Int'l Representative
Int'l Brotherhood of Papermakers
507 (C) Craft Highway
Chickasaw, Alabama

L. T. Gourley, AFL Organizer
1564 Center Street
Mobile, Alabama

Joe C. Morgan, President
Amal. Ass'n St., Elec. RR,
Div. 1314
2152 16th Avenue South
Birmingham, Alabama

ARIZONA

K. S. Brown
Arizona State Federation of Labor
512 W. Adams
Phoenix, Arizona

Mrs. Fara M. Darland, Chairman,
Educational Committee
Arizona State Federation of Labor
2829 E. Ind. Sch. Road
Phoenix, Arizona

ARKANSAS

Ted Brewer, Vice President
Arkansas State Federation of Labor
1206 Rice Street
Little Rock, Arkansas

Lawrence Deuerling
IBEW, Local 1136
Route 2, Box 38B
Little Rock, Arkansas

John Dudley
Arkansas State Federation of Labor
1209 Linden
Texarkana, Arkansas

A. L. Page, Business Mgr.
IBEW, Local 647
209½ W. 2nd Street
Little Rock, Arkansas

ARKANSAS (continued)

S. V. Zinn, Sec.-Treas.
Arkansas State Federation of Labor
1017 Pyramid Building
Little Rock, Arkansas

FLORIDA

Miss Elmina Crews, President
Cigarmakers, Local 86
455 E. 17th Street
Jacksonville, Florida

Mrs. Anna M. Denham, Rec. Sec'y.
Central Trades & Labor Assembly
419 Hugh Street
Tampa, Florida

Maximilion Hunzeker, AFL Organizer
P. O. Box 342
Dundee, Florida

R. R. Kyle, Bus. Mgr.
IBEW, Local 682
1801 First Street, South
St. Petersburg, Florida

Chris C. Roos, Jr., Sec.-Treas.
Florida Federation of Labor
3300 San Pedro Street
Tampa, Florida

Charles T. Walsh
Polk County CLU
615 Prado Place
Lakeland, Florida

GEORGIA

Charles K. Murphy
IBEW, Local 779 (Columbus, Ga.)
1430 Knowles Street
Route 2, Box 27
Phenix City, Alabama

J. L. Rhodes, AFL Regional Director
416 Hurt Bldg.
Atlanta, Georgia

LOUISIANA

E. J. Bourg, Sec.-Treas.
Louisiana State Federation of Labor
743 Napoleon
Baton Rouge, Louisiana

A. H. Carter, Vice President
Aluminum Workers, Local 225
1339 France Street
New Orleans, Louisiana

Wiley P. D'Antonio
Aluminum Workers, Local 225
6425 St. Claude Street
New Orleans, Louisiana

E. C. Eeds, Bus. Rep.
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters, Local 610
Cullen, Louisiana

Jack McCarthy, Director of Publicity
Louisiana State Federation of Labor
2211 State Street
New Orleans, Louisiana

W. B. Parish
Central Trade & Labor Council
2800 Devaughn St.
Shreveport, Louisiana

August Rossi, Jr., Fin. Sec-Treas
Construction Laborers, Local 689
201 Bienville Street
New Orleans, Louisiana

J. H. Terrell
Central Trade & Labor Council
3411 Milton Street
Shreveport, Louisiana

E. H. Williams, President
Louisiana State Federation of Labor
908 Gladstone Street
Shreveport, Louisiana

Anthony R. Ziegler
IBEW, Local 130
528 Bienville Street
New Orleans, Louisiana

MISSISSIPPI

Leslie I. Claypool, Fin. Sec'y.
Glass Bottle Blowers, Local 230
Jackson, Mississippi

W. L. Hines, President
Miss. State Federation of Labor
206 Dearborn Street
Hattiesburg, Mississippi

W. M. Jackson, President
Glass Bottle Blowers, Local 41
3805 Walker Avenue
Jackson, Mississippi

Robert Morrison, Bus. Mgr.
IBEW, Local 605
454 Woodie Drive
Jackson, Mississippi

Clevie Vanlandingham
IBEW Local 985
800 University Street
Cleveland, Mississippi

MISSOURI

Anton E. Kubicki, Regional Director
Upholsters International Union
913 Tracy
Kansas City, Missouri

Roman Lapczuk
Austrian Trade Union Fed.
Student-Worker, WSTP
(Int'l Ass'n of Machinists)
5553 Maple Avenue
St. Louis, Missouri

NORTH CAROLINA

D. G. Garland, AFL Organizer
1442 No. Cherry Street
Winston-Salem, North Carolina

E. C. Gordon, AFL Organizer
Zinzendorf Hotel
Winston-Salem, North Carolina

D. H. Woodall, Regional Director
Upholsterers' Int'l Union
228 Hinkle Street
Thomasville, North Carolina

OKLAHOMA

James Blonigen, Bus. Agt.
Hod Carriers Local 495
317½ D. Avenue
Lawton, Oklahoma

Claude Cox, President
IBEW No. 785
1429 W. Eufaula
Okmulgee, Oklahoma

William Harrold
Tulsa Trades Council
(Sec'y-Treas. Amal. Ass'n. St.,
Electric RR, Division #892
304 South Urbana
Tulsa, Oklahoma

Owen Lawson, Bus. Mgr.
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters No 205
1530 E. 11th Street
Tulsa, Oklahoma

J. C. McGuire
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters No 362
317½ D. Avenue
Lawton, Oklahoma

Raymond K. Johnson
Operating Engineers, No. 670
Route 2
Comanche, Oklahoma

Maurice Nagle
Mailers Union No. 30
415 N. W. 26th
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Claude T. Smith, Bus. Mgr.
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters, No. 369
414 N. W. 7
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Eldon C. Thompson, Bus. Mgr.
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters, No. 351
403-4 Metropolitan Building
Muskogee, Oklahoma

Miss Elizabeth Totten
Trade and Labor Council
(Typographical Union No. 283)
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

SOUTH CAROLINA

J. H. Lee, Bus. Agt.
Iron Workers, No. 601
27 Olympia Street
Charles Heights, South Carolina

TENNESSEE

Maynard Baird, AFL Organizer
2833 E. 5th Avenue
Knoxville, Tennessee

Taylor Blair
International Representative
IBEW
Chattanooga, Tennessee

E. F. Dean, Vice President
Tenn. Federation of Labor
(V. P., UTWA)
Route 6
Johnson City, Tennessee

C. P. Frye
Fed. Labor Union No 23,328
1126 Vermont Avenue
Knoxville, Tennessee

Charles M. Houk, Sec.-Treas.
Tennessee Fed. of Labor
602 Sudekum Building
Nashville, Tennessee

Ewing King
Teamsters Local 327
Route 2
Brentwood, Tennessee

Edward T. Lee, Sec'y.
Central Labor Union
109 Henley Road
Oak Ridge, Tennessee

Everett Light, President
Bindery Workers, Local 82
1652 Woodside Drive
Kingsport, Tennessee

W. E. Manning
IBEW Local 760
332 Morelia Avenue
Knoxville, Tennessee

TENNESSEE (continued)

W. C. Presley, President
Fed. Labor Union No. 21,754
2619 Buffat Mill Road
Knoxville, Tennessee

William A. Richardson
Teamsters, Local 327
1982 Lavergne Street
Nashville, Tennessee

H. N. Smart, Sec'y-Treas.
Trades & Labor Council
571 Beale
Memphis, Tennessee

Stanton E. Smith, President
Tenn. Federation of Labor
540 Vine Street
Chattanooga, Tennessee

W. B. Williams, Gen. Chairman
Railway Carmen, Lodge No. 477
Box 395
Erwin, Tennessee

TEXAS

Doris Baker
Office Employees, Local #129
U of H Village
Building 4, Apt. 2
Houston, Texas

Charlie J. Birdwell, Sec'y-Treas.
Trades Council
1308 Palo Duro Rd.
Austin, Texas

H. S. Brown, Vice President
Trades Council
126 North Street
San Antonio, Texas

N. E. Coward
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters, Local 211
2211 Pomona
Pasadena, Texas

Joe A. Fatta
Sign & Pictorial Painters, Local 550
1705 Bell
Houston, Texas

TEXAS (continued)

Alfred Goodson
Operating Engineers, #826
507 Runnels
Big Springs, Texas

Jerry R. Holleman
Texas Federation of Labor
412 Littlefield Building
Austin, Texas

A. R. Johnson, Bus. Agt.
IBEW #324
Box 1255
Longview, Texas

T. W. Keyes
Carpenters, Local 2190
1609 E. Tyler
Harlingen, Texas

Ralph D. Lemons, Financial Sec'y.
Painters, Local #544
2906 Fillmore
Amarillo, Texas

W. A. Mask
Plumbers & Pipe Fitters, Local #211
3014 McKinney Avenue
Houston, Texas

M. M. McKnight
Trades Assembly
(Typographical #198)
3313 Avenue J
Fort Worth, Texas

H. C. Pillsbury
Trades Assembly
3855 Brandon
Beaumont, Texas

Ernest J. Pomarici
Southwestern Representative
Insurance Agents, Int'l Union
122 So. Waverly Drive
Dallas, Texas

A. L. Spring, Recording Sec'y.
Carpenters Local #198
1702 Presidio
Dallas, Texas

TEXAS (continued)

F. E. Swales, President
Trades Council
322 Hot Wells Blvd.
San Antonio, Texas

M. F. Thomas, Bus. Mgr.
Boilermakers, Lodge #74
8203 Leander
Houston, Texas

L. A. Townsend
Central Labor Union
2102-44
Galveston, Texas

D. V. Wible
Central Labor Union
(Typo. #525)
412 E. 9th Avenue
Amarillo, Texas

VIRGINIA

L. T. Boggs, Bus. Mgr.
Electrical Workers, No. 1340
821- 28th Street
Newport News, Virginia

W. B. Hayre
Amal. Ass'n. St., Elec. RR, #1220
2029 Elmsmere Avenue
Richmond, Virginia

J. S. Smith, President
Virginia State Federation of Labor
109 W. Grace Street
Richmond, Virginia

VISITORS

Mrs. Charles M. Houk & son
Mrs. R. R. Kyle
Mrs. W. E. Manning
Mrs. Chris C. Roos, Jr.
Mrs. J. S. Smith
Mrs. M. F. Thomas & son

Harry Fleischman, Secretary
National Labor Service
11 Wedgewood Lane
Wantagh, New York

VISITORS (continued)

Lester Graham, Reg. Dir., AFL 354 Majestic Building
Fort Worth, Texas

Francis W. Marburg, Interpreter
German Delegation
U. S. Department of Labor
Room 4213
Washington, D. C.

Delegation of German Chemical Workers

Eugen Fromm
Bunsenstrasse 3
Ludwigshafen, Rhein, Germany

Johann Jung
Stamnheimerring 62
Cologne-Stammheim, Germany

Bernhard Miske
Holbeinstrasse 3
Hannover, Germany

Otto Mozkus
Gerade Strasse 20
Hamburg, Germany

Ernst Parthenschlager
Spiegelfabrik 301
Mannheim, Germany

Kurt Primo
Grotestrasse 25
Hannover, Germany

Johann Quirl
Teepferstrasse 25
Duesseldorf, Germany

Eugen Schneider
Schulstrasse 36
Leverkusen, Germany

DELEGATION FROM NORWAY

Aksel Zachariassen, Gen. Sec'y
of The Workers Educational Ass'n of Norway
Etterstad Nord, Blokk 10A
Oslo, Norway

News Letter

WORKERS EDUCATION BUREAU
American Federation of Labor
1525 H Street, N. W., Washington 5, D. C.

VOL. XV, No. 11 NOVEMBER, 1953 Ten Cents

RECEIVED NOV 12 Southern Regional Council

Outstanding Southern AFL Labor School in Oklahoma

Students and Faculty of School at Norman

Ninety delegates from Southern state federations and city central bodies, with one Austrian and eight German trade unionists, plus an interpreter, and the general secretary of the Norwegian Workers Educational Association, made up the student body of what all agreed was one of the best AFL labor schools ever held. The second Southern AFL Labor School, held from October 4 to 9 on the campus of the University of Oklahoma in Norman, even surpassed the 1952 session held in Florida.

Great credit is due to the board of control, composed of the presidents and secretary-treasurers of the Southern state federations of labor, whose executive committee had drawn up a program which included classes taught by seven experts and evening sessions with guest speakers. Consultants on the entire program were J. L. Rhodes of the organization staff of the AFL and John D. Connors, director of its Workers Education Bureau.

At a meeting of the board of control held during the session of the School, Stanton E. Smith, of Tennessee, formerly secretary-treasurer, was unanimously elected president; E. J. Bourg of Louisiana, secretary-treasurer; and J. S. Smith of Virginia and S. V. Zinn of Arkansas, members of the executive committee. Re-elected unanimously as vice-president was W. L. Hines of Mississippi.

The School opened officially on Sunday evening, October 4, with a dinner meeting, at which the various leaders were introduced. In the unavoidable absence of President Cross of the University, Dr. Thurman White, dean of the extension division, extended his greetings. He told the group that 40,000 people used the Adult Education Center, where the School was held, in the course of a year and the University was most happy to have the AFL group using it.

Biemiller Discusses 83rd Congress

The keynote speaker at the Sunday evening session was Andrew J. Biemiller of the National Legislative Committee of the AFL, formerly Congressman from Wisconsin, who discussed "The Reactionary Attack on Social Legislation". In reporting on the first session of the 83rd Congress, he called attention to the cuts in the various government departments, particularly those in the Department of Labor, where one fourth of the inspectors of the Wages and Hours Division have been dropped, as well as one third of the attorneys. He attacked the administration's "give away" program, in connection with grazing lands, mineral rights, offshore oil, etc. Referring to the last named, he said he could understand why senators in the states immediately concerned might vote against the Lister Hill amendment to the Tidelands Oil Bill, but could not see why the senators from 44 other states did so. Mr. Biemiller pointed out that the TVA was under attack, as was the whole federal program of dam-building and river control. How, he asked, can the 29 states now operating in the red carry on the additional

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

George Meany.....President
Wm. F. Schnitlzer.....Sec'y.-Treas.

WORKERS EDUCATION BUREAU

JOHN D. CONNORS, Director • BESS K. ROBERTS, Editor

Republication of matter contained in this News Letter, with due credit, is invited. Readers' comments and critictisms are solicited. Subscribers are requested to give prompt notice of change of address. Published monthly at 1525 H Street, N. W., Washington 5, D. C. A. F. of L. affiliates receive this periodical free; others may subscribe at $1.00 a year. Single copies, 10c.

Printed in the United States of America under union conditions.

Vol. XV 17 17 No. 11

services being turned back to them by the federal government?

Stressing the fact of the ever-present lack of adequate funds for education, Mr. Biemiller pointed out that the further cuts in such funds will produce a still greater crisis in this important field. Another social service which is threatened is the health and hospital program for merchant seamen, which the federal government started back in 1798.

Summing up, he stated that, with the "hard money" policy, the threat of a sales or manufacturers' tax, the turning over to private industry at 20¢ on the dollar of the synthetic rubber plants developed by the federal government, the picture was dark and foreboding.

On Tuesday evening J. L. Rhodes opened the session with a talk on "The New Look in the AFL" under the dynamic leadership of the new officers. He described the new set-up of the Organization Department, under which there are 14 regions in the country, with three of these in the Southern states; and then gave a brief report of the highlights of the St. Louis convention.

Following Mr. Rhodes's talk, a panel of officers of state federations told what their organizations were doing in the field of workers' education.

Labor Films Shown

Monday and Wednesday evenings were devoted to community singing, led by Jack Smith, president of the Virginia State Federation of Labor, and the showing and discussion of films. On Monday evening the two films shown were "The Seafarers" and "Labor 1953"; while on Wednesday evening the delegates saw and discussed "What Is a Co-op?" and "The UAW-AFL Story".

At the last evening session of the School, the students were privileged to hear an eloquent presentation of "The Challenge of Communism to Democracy" by Dr. George S. Counts of Teachers College, Columbia University, former president of the American Federation of Teachers.

In the classes, five of which held daily sessions during the School, the student-delegates gained much valuable knowledge which they could put into practice back in their home states.

Problems of taxation were considered by Arthur A. Elder, tax consultant of the AFL. He traced the development of the income tax as an effective instrument of progressive tax policy and analyzed the recent successes and continuing efforts of special interest groups to weaken the income tax. Local and state limitations on property taxes, combined with limited taxes on personal and business income throughout the South, were cited as favors leading to heavier dependence on taxes on consumers which were not providing revenue sufficient to meet needs.

There was general agreement that state and local services were not being adequately nor equitably supported and that the federal government with its greater taxing power should face up to its responsibility for assisting both local and state units of government in providing necessary services.

Five interesting sessions on Public Speaking were taught by Professor Robinson of the Department of Speech of the University of Oklahoma.

Michael Magee, in his course on Collective Bargaining, declared that magicians often prove that the hand is quicker than the eye, but their deception of spectators is harmless and even enjoyable. However, the deceptions practiced by many "magicians" employed by big corporations to hornswoggle unions in collective bargaining are not harmless—their "tricks" cost YOU money. He gave examples of tricky contract phrasing which succeeded in denying to workers benefits that had been agreed upon at the bargaining table.

Among other problems discussed were the psychological effects of time study and the pitfalls of settling for "guaranteed" overtime instead of setting decent wage rates. Company prerogatives in current contracts came under examination—with stress upon the danger of runaway shops and the recurrence of ghost towns due to the company's right to locate or move plants at will. The human relations training now being given foremen in many plants was analyzed, and the growing importance of fringe benefits in contracts was discussed.

Students brought up their own actual contract problems and all agreed that the exchange of information was mutually beneficial. It was further agreed that the collective bargaining agreement can be only as good as the existing laws will allow.

In Mr. Connors's course on Workers' Education, which had to be condensed into two sessions because of his other commitments, he had the assistance of Ted Williams, director of education and research of the Alabama State Federation, as resource person. He discussed the types of programs conducted by state federations: those with a full-time education and research department; those with a director who must often combine other duties with educational work; and those which have to depend upon any spare time the state federation officers may have. Mr. Connors stressed the point that an educational program should always be under the control of the officers and executive board of the state federation and all programs must be integrated into the regular union program and help to implement it. He closed his sessions with a general discussion of the various methods and techniques which can be used in a workers' education program.

Political Action Reviewed by Duncan

In the three class sessions on Political Action, taught by Thomas Duncan of Labor's League for Political Education, there was much interest in the technical side of political activity—registration, qualifications for voting, the poll tax, getting voters to the polls, the use of telephones, automobiles, and literature at election time, and the importance of labor's getting into the political picture early enough to influence the selection of candidates.

Perhaps the outstanding features of the classes was the evidence from every state represented of a strong desire for some sort of unity on the political front between labor and farm organizations. Mr. Duncan asserted that today the farmer is suffering from a sly and complicated attack upon his standard of living by Agriculture Secretary Benson and Treasury Secretary Humphrey. He told of the cooperative efforts of farm and labor organizations and declared that every piece of labor legislation on the books, whether state or federal, was passed with the aid of votes from representatives of overwhelmingly rural areas. It was explained that gerrymandering by both political parties made it forever impossible for urban voters to be represented in the House of Representatives according to population. Accordingly, political cooperation between labor and farm groups in the House was a necessity, as it was in the state legislatures, where the same conditions existed.

The five classes on Labor Law led by Professor Brinker of the Department of Economics of the University of Oklahoma devoted two hours to the Taft-Hartley Act, and one each to anti-trust legislation, right-to-work bills, and such other labor laws as the Wages and Hours Law, the Social Security Act, Workmen's Compensation Laws, etc.

On anti-trust legislation, it was found that cases were decided primarily on the basis of the judge's viewpoint—whether he was conservative or liberal. Since the Supreme Court today is essentially liberal, the viewpoint is that unions are exempt from anti-trust laws, the only exception being that a union may be prosecuted if it engages in collusion with an employer.

Many sections unfair to labor were pointed out in the Taft-Hartley Law. For example, the definition of the word "employer" in Taft-Hartley is "an employer is anyone acting as an agent of an employer" instead of the former definition, "an employer is anyone acting in the interest of an employer". This permits outside organizations, such as vigilante groups, to engage in anti-union practices forbidden to employers, whereas a fair law would have made such practices illegal whether done by outsiders or employers. An analysis of this section and many others was made to determine their possible effects on unions. As regards picketing, Professor Brinker stated that the Supreme Court is leaning more and more to the view that restrictions placed on labor by state legislatures or, in the absence of legislation, by state courts are legal, on the grounds that any rights of people or unions may be modified in what the legislatures or the courts hold to be the general interest or welfare of the people.

In securing the passage of general welfare legislation, such as unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and the like, it was shown that labor had played a leading role. Political action by labor was stressed as a necessity to raise the pitifully low standard of living of the poor. Political action by labor was declared also necessary to ensure the presence on the bench of liberal judges, to prevent the anti-labor decisions so prevalent in the past and existing among many of the courts even today.

Mitchell Poses Southern Problems

Dr. George S. Mitchell, executive director of the Southern Regional Council, in his class on Special Problems of Organizing Southern Workers discussed the political, social, and legal implications of the differences between the four main economic sub-areas of the South, particularly in relation to state government. He took up the practical defects of "the farm ladder", objections to the system of annual oral leases, and systems of price control for farm products. He recommended that each Southern state federation offer to small farmers a program of rapid advance on which labor could give legislative cooperation.

The contrast was brought out between the early Southern plantation system and the industrial society of the North. The rules for an industrial economy are education for all, agreement by all, political democracy, and equality. The South adopted the industrial economy in 1880 and must learn that an industrial South cannot be run on rules worked out for its early slave society.

During Thursday's session discussion turned on how to obtain a healthy and well-housed South, and on segregation. Dr. Mitchell traced the history of segregation in the schools, arguments on both sides, and possible solutions to the problem.

The class was divided into six "buzz" sessions on Friday, each group discussing a specific question and reporting its answer to the whole class. To the question "How can labor help to get courts to give equal penalties, regardless of race or creed?", the group urged putting in practice what was learned at the School, educating labor through LLPE to elect liberals to judgeships, and keeping alert to aid in appealing unjust and biased decisions.

Among the answers to "How can we get more and better housing quickly?" were: raising the economic level of the worker, lower interest rate for low income housing; long-term loans and low down payments, slum clearance, etc.

"What policies could labor follow toward getting a more democratic pattern in Southern agriculture?" brought such suggestions as giving equal rights to all, breaking up monopolies, equal representation on all bodies, etc.

The answers to "What is best to do about segregation and the schools?" included education against the error of superiority, ending segregation in the colleges and gradually working it down to high and grade schools, and recognizing the real problem is not with the child but the parent.

To the question "Should all trades and crafts be opened now to Negroes?" the reply was that acceptance of qualified Negroes should be encouraged, but that international and local unions, as autonomous organizations, should decide for themselves.

The sixth group concurred in replying affirmatively to the question "Should labor actively help in getting able Negroes elected to City Councils, School Boards, and the like?", adding that Negro candidates should be supported where they could do most for the entire community.

Plans are tentatively being considered for two Southern AFL Labor Schools next year, one east and the other west of the Mississippi.

So great was the enthusiasm engendered by this second Southern AFL Labor School that prospects are bright for the wide expansion of a realistic program of labor education, which will inevitably lead to a greatly strengthened organized labor movement throughout the South.

SUPPORT L.L.P.E. IN '53! $1.00 DOES IT.

Successful Educational Conference Of Cement Workers

October 14 and 15 saw the initiation of a union-wide educational program by the Cement, Lime, and Gypsum Workers at a conference called by the International Office in Chicago. Participants were the salaried representatives of the International and ten rank-and-file members from each district council. John D. Connors of the Workers Education Bureau, George W. Brooks and Russell Allen, education directors of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the Paper Makers, respectively, served as advisers.

After a keynote address by General President William Schoenberg, in which he stressed the importance of education to a labor union, Mr. Connors reported on educational activities in the A. F. of L. and its affiliated organizations. He pointed out that more than thirty A. F. of L. unions now have active programs of education.

Felix C. Jones, assistant to the General President and director of the new program, outlined the plan already developed. He called attention to the educational packet for new members, which was being mailed to all local unions. This packet, which contains a brief history of the International, a copy of its Constitution and By-Laws, three small folders—"A More Abundant Life", "Where Your Money Goes", and "The Structure of Our Union"—will be supplemented in the local union by copies of its own Constitution and By-Laws and the contract with its employer; it is to be given to each new member.

Mr. Jones also presented and explained the "Manual for Use of Local Union Officers and Stewards", which contains information and suggestions for these officers and stewards to help in their day-to-day duties. The manual includes material on the application of the steward system to the Cement Workers' union and the duties of stewards in general.

The remaining day and a half of the conference was devoted to the Steward Training Program. George Brooks and Russell Allen conducted a demonstration session of the program in action, which was enthusiastically received. They also answered questions from the floor as to the success of the training program in their two unions.

The Cement Workers' educational program has been modeled on the joint program which has been carried on so successfully by the two unions in the paper industry for several years. Careful examination of various types of programs convinced the officials of the Cement Workers that this joint program most nearly suited their needs, since the structure of the two industries was similar.

On the second day of the conference the delegates formed into three groups of twelve to examine the training program more closely. These groups handled the material by means of role-playing and discussion techniques, as will be done in the local unions. The delegates enjoyed these group sessions especially and found that they got a great deal through this technique of learning by doing.

The Cement Workers' officers stressed the importance of proceeding slowly in presenting the new program, urging the need for setting up test classes before putting it into operation. The program is based primarily upon training local union instructors, who will then teach classes in their locals. These instructor training courses are to be set up in certain areas at the request of and under the direction of the General Vice-President in that area.

So well thought out and so realistically planned is this new educational program of the Cement, Lime, and Gypsum Workers that we prophesy for it great success.

Tenth Montana Institute This Month

The 10th Annual Montana Farmer-Labor Institute is scheduled for November 19 through 21 on the campus of Montana State University at Missoula, sponsored by the Montana State Federation of Labor, the Montana Farmers Union, and the University. Among outstanding persons taking part will be Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan and Senator James E. Murray. Panel discussion will cover taxation; power, land, water; social security; and the relationship of farm prices to wages earned by workers.

The California State Federation of Labor will hold its 4th Annual Press Conference on November 28 and 29 in Santa Barbara, with the joint sponsorship of the University of California at Los Angeles.

EDUCATION IS OUR ONLY POLITICAL SAFETY. OUTSIDE OF THIS ARK ALL IS DELUGE. — HORACE MANN.

Since space is at a premium this month, we are listing below some of the institutes and conferences held this month, which have not been mentioned in previous issues:

A Labor-Management Social Welfare Institute was held in Omaha on October 3, under the sponsorship of the newly-formed Labor Participation Committee of the United Community Services, composed of representatives of the A.F.L., C.I.O. R.R. Brotherhoods, and the Community Chest Board.

The Spanish-speaking members of I.L.G.W.U. Local 22 held a conference on union and minority problems on October 3 and 4 at Hudson View Lodge, Croton, N. Y. The same union vacation home was the site of a conference on international relations and the fight for free trade unions held on October 24 and 25 by I.L.G.W.U. Local 35.

An Educational Institute was conducted by the Department of Research and Education of the Kentucky State Federation of Labor on October 10 at Louisville for the Bakery Workers of that area.

The 5th Northwest Farmers and Workers Educational Conference, sponsored by the American Labor Education Service, was held at Camp Ihduhapi near Minneapolis October 16 to 18. The theme was "Food—People—Resources".

On October 17 a Week-End Labor Institute was held at Muscatine, Iowa, and one at Des Moines on October 31, sponsored jointly by the respective central bodies and the Iowa State Federation of Labor. A similar institute will be held in Keokuk on November 7. A meeting of Iowa labor editors and the State Federation's department of education took place in Des Moines on October 23.

A Leadership Training Institute was held in Los Angeles October 23 to 25 for the Los Angeles Sportswear Joint Council of the I.L.G.W.U. The Institute was conducted by the Los Angeles I.L.G.W.U. Education Department.

The Second Conference of the Negro Labor Committee met in Philadelphia on October 24. The conference theme was "Problems of the Negro Worker in the Community".

Labor Film for Maryland Schools

Maryland became the first of the 48 states to make an A.F.L. labor film available to all its public high schools. At a luncheon on October 1 of Maryland and Baltimore A.F.L. officers and education officials Dr. Thomas Pullen, state superintendent of education, accepted a print of "With These Hands", donated by the Baltimore Joint Board of the I.L.G.W.U. This climaxed a state labor education program sponsored by the Baltimore Federation of Labor.

FRANK EDWARDS WANTS TO TALK TO YOU. LISTEN TO HIM OVER MUTUAL NETWORK MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY AT 10:00 P.M. EST.

The Lehigh Valley Labor Education Council joined with the Allentown, Pa., I.L.G.W.U. in conducting a workshop for the Allentown High School's fifteen social studies teachers on September 10, during a week devoted to educational workshops of various types. The workshop aimed at familiarizing the teachers with the purposes, practices, and membership of the Allentown District of the I.L.G.W.U. as representative of the area's organized labor movement. The teachers declared the program decidedly worth while and recommended it be introduced to other districts.

The fall and winter Educational Program of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in New York includes many activities sponsored by the International and its locals. Among the International's courses are I.L.G.W.U. History, Economics of the Garment Industry, Public Speaking, Psychology, Movies That Matter, Music Appreciation, Mental Health, Slimnastics, Hispanic English, Chorus, and Handicrafts. In addition, the Thursday evening Educational-Recreational Center meets regularly at the Textile High School; it opened October 8 with a symposium on "American Ideals and Present Day Problems". The Saturday lectures at Hunter College opened on October 17 with a talk on "Influences on Our Behavior".

The International Chemical Workers held a Labor School on Catalina Island, Calif., October 18 through 23, for members in California, Arizona, Nevada, and New Mexico. Class subjects included collective bargaining, labor law, grievance procedures, and general union practices.

"TO BE MERELY ON THE RIGHT TRACK IS NOT ENOUGH. YOU MUST KEEP MOVING."

Jack Barbash, at one time education director of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, has been engaged to evaluate the three-year program of the Inter-University Labor Education Committee carried on with the cooperation of eight universities, which will terminate in the summer of 1954.

The sudden death of Lewis Corey in New York on September 16 brings sadness to the ranks of labor and labor educators. Brother Corey had been education director of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen and, earlier, of the I.L.G.W.U. He had been professor of political economy at Antioch College and was well known as an author.

On Friday, October 9, Mr. Connors addressed the convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in Los Angeles, describing A.F.L. workers' education activities.

That afternoon he met with Director Edgar Warren of the Institute of Industrial Relations of the University of California in Los Angeles and members of his staff, to discuss the program which UCLA is carrying on for labor.

On the morning of the 10th Mr. Connors met with the A.F.L. members of the UCLA Labor Advisory Committee.

Mr. Connors attended the UN Day luncheon sponsored by the Washington Central Labor Union on October 24. Among the speakers were George P. Delaney, international representative of the A.F.L., and Ralph Wright of the I.L.O.

On Friday, October 30, Mr. Connors motored to Arden House at Harriman, N. Y., to attend the American Academic Freedom Project Conference, sponsored by Columbia University from Friday evening through Sunday afternoon.

BOOK REVIEW

Carroll R. Daugherty and John B. Parrish. THE LABOR PROBLEMS OF AMERICAN SOCIETY. The Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass. 1952. 840 p. $6.00.

Reviewed by Marvin Friedman, Assistant in Research and Education, International Chemical Workers Union

Not too many years ago, organized labor and collective bargaining were of interest only to those who were part of the labor movement or intimately affected by the collective bargaining processes. However, in the past twenty years organized labor has had a tremendous impact on American life. So great and wide reaching has this impact been that today few people are not affected by what organized labor does.

In response to this ever-growing awareness more and more universities and colleges are offering courses dealing with labor. The students taking these courses are, for the most part, the new generation which has no recollection of the depression of the '30's, when the labor movement was almost the only hope for the worker. They know there is a labor movement but they are not quite sure why, nor do they know why it seeks what it does seek.

Since it is from textbooks like "The Labor Problems of American Society" that many of the new generation are learning about the labor movement, organized labor must concern itself with the scope and content of such books. Whether the students will learn to understand the real significance of industrial democracy and collective bargaining; whether they will understand that a strike, although unpleasant, is sometimes necessary; and whether they come away from the course with a real understanding of the principles and purposes of the labor movement may well depend upon the particular book used in the course.

The material in "The Labor Problems of American Society" is presented in an orderly fashion. The authors first discuss individual behavior—sociologic as well as economic—and the problems confronting the individual as a worker. The next sections of the book deal with the background, structure and policies of unions and employers, and with the collective bargaining processes. The final section discusses the role of government in labor relations and the student is given a bird's-eye view of legislation affecting labor.

The authors have made an effort to cover the field as well as possible and to expose the students to much that is important for an understanding of the topic. Students having read and absorbed the book will certainly have a better comprehension of the complexities of our industrial society. However, a textbook which seeks to survey so all-inclusive an area cannot help but omit what some might consider important, treat lightly what others might consider crucial, and delve deeply into what still others might consider insignificant. Also, certain statements of fact on the policies, problems and differences of the AFL and CIO are open to question.

Clearly, the authors do not devote sufficient space to any explanation of the full meaning of the union movement. Collective bargaining is only one phase of unionism. Today organized labor is in the forefront of the struggle at home and abroad for democracy, freedom, and plenty. It is a dynamic institution made up of people and concerned about people. It is alive. Only when this is realized will a student fully understand the trade union movement and, from that, the real nature of collective bargaining.

BE UNION! TALK UNION! BUY UNION LABEL!

By Caroline Hodgin

Two New UN Films and Kinescope of A.F.L. Labor Day Television Program Now Available from WEB Library

Afghanistan Moves Ahead—B&W, sound, 10 min., 1953. Produced by the United Nations. Apply: Workers Education Bureau. Rent: $2.00.

Afghanistan is an isolated country with a population of twelve million people, united by their common religion, Islam. The government is making strenuous efforts to change a way of life which has changed little in the past 1000 years and this film tells how the UN Technical Assistance Program is helping the people of this small, isolated area to develop and modernize their agriculture and industry.

To the mechanized society of the Western world, the primitiveness of Afghanistan seems almost incredible. The Technical Assistance Program introduced the scythe to replace the hand sickle and this simple tool has made it possible for the Afghan farmer to increase his harvest many times over. The same simple things have been applied in other fields. Elementary machinery has improved salt mining. The World Health Organization has introduced DDT to help the country stamp out malaria. Improved methods of breeding have increased the production of lamb's wool, one of the principal exports of Afghanistan.

This is an excellent film to show what can be done through technical assistance programs since it shows the application of assistance in its simplest and most elementary forms. It brings home the important lesson that technical assistance is not necessarily a big, costly operation involving tremendous plants and expensive machinery. It is as simple a thing as substituting a scythe for a sickle—and it must be kept to the level of the people if it is to be effective.

Indonesia Builds A Better Life—B&W, sound, 10 min., 1953. Produced by the United Nations. Apply: Workers Education Bureau. Rent: $2.00.

Indonesia, which became a republic in 1950, has a population of 70 million. It is a country made up of a vast group of islands lying between Asia and Australia and has long been famous for its age-old folk traditions and its tremendous natural resources, many of which were developed by the Dutch.

This film deals primarily with the Indonesian Government's mass education program to eradicate illiteracy. Hundreds of thousands of men and women are learning to read and write, especially in remote places where illiteracy used to be taken for granted. Whole villages are going to school and are showing an eagerness to learn. Certificates of literacy are given to those who successfully complete the courses. When the people have learned to read, the government helps them set up public libraries and reading rooms, so that reading, once learned, will not be forgotten.

Another aspect of Indonesia's efforts to build a better life is the program to eliminate framboesia, a widespread tropical disease commonly called yaws. Here the government is receiving assistance from the World Health Organization. This work is a promise of a healthier and happier life for the people of Indonesia and many other tropical countries.

This film is a good example of how people can help themselves, once they are given the opportunity. The Indonesians are obviously anxious to improve their living standards and have shown this by their acceptance of the literacy campaign and the efforts to eliminate yaws. This is an excellent film on the problems of an under-developed area and how some of these problems can be solved.

Labor 1953—B&W, sound, 30 min., 1953. Produced by the American Federation of Labor and CBS Television. Apply: Workers Education Bureau. Rent: $1.00.

This kinescope of the A.F.L. Labor Day television program shows President Meany; Boris Shishkin, research director; Nelson Cruikshank, director of social insurance activities; and Andrew Biemiller, A.F.L. legislative representative, discussing domestic and world problems. Technically, it is a poor production. The sound track is not good and the film sequences are blurred. It is an interesting presentation of the A.F.L. position on a number of issues, however, and as such has value.

NEW LABOR SONG RECORD AVAILABLE

A 33⅓ rpm, 10-inch record of Labor songs is available from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, 1710 Broadway, New York 19, N. Y., for $1.00. It is a record made by the Chorus of Local 91 at the last I.L.G.W.U convention and includes greetings by the General Manager of the Cloak Joint Board as well as the I.L.G.W.U. anthem and other references to the I.L.G.W.U. which may make it difficult to use with all groups. Other songs are: "Sing Workers Sing", "Bread and Roses", "So Join Up Brothers, Sisters", "We Are Building A Strong Union", "Solidarity Forever", "We Shall Not Be Moved", "Are You Sleeping", "Keep Us Safe the Union Way", "March On", "Twenty Years Ago" and "Hold the Fort".

NEW PUBLICATIONS IN THE AUDIO-VISUAL FIELD

Audio-Visual Materials: Their Nature and Use. Walter Arno Wittich and Charles Francis Schuller. Harper & Bros., 49 E. 33rd St., New York 16, N. Y. 1953. 564p. $6.00.

Covers the use of a wide variety of audio-visual materials in teaching situations—films, recordings, slides, filmstrips, chalkboard, flat pictures, graphics, globes and wall maps, three-dimensional materials, radio and television. Those in the field of workers' education will find much of value in its pages.

The Handbook of TV and Film Technique. Charles W. Curran. Farrar, Straus and Young, Inc., 101 Fifth Ave., New York 3, N. Y. 1953. 120p. $3.00.

Valuable for anyone contemplating a film production or a television show. The author explains technical matters in easy-to-understand language and this handbook may well save a number of headaches if read before embarking on a major film or TV production. Some of the chapter headings are: "What Kind of a Film Do You Need?", "Color or Black-and-White", "Selecting the Film Producer," "Some Hazards of Film Production," "Some Do's and Don't's of Film Making," and "What Should a Picture Cost?"

UNESCO Workers' Education Seminar

By Thomas R. Byrne, Education and Research Director
Glass Bottle Blowers' Association

During July and August, men and women in adult and workers' education under the auspices of UNESCO came from every continent to a chateau at La Breviere in the magnificent forest of Compiegne to examine common problems and advise UNESCO on how to encourage and guide the entire workers' education movement. Emphasis was placed on how to achieve international understanding as well as a careful consideration of the "methods and content of teaching in workers' educational movements best adapted, in the light of differing conditions from country to country, to foster a common conception of civic responsibilities in accordance with the principles of the United Nations and the Declaration of Human Rights".

A realization was fortunately attained that there is no rigidly correct and universal pattern of workers' education. Wherever workers' education exists, the movement has developed according to the social structure of the country, its traditions, and as an implementation of its educational system. For example, in the United States emphasis is usually placed on the development of better trade unionists; in Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries education is a continuation of workers' schooling; while in the less developed countries, the focus is on illiteracy.

There was immediate agreement on the need for better international understanding. The difficulties of the worker's life cause him to consider the immediate more imperative than the remote. Studying means of overcoming lack of international understanding, the participants became acutely aware of the difficulties within the international labor movement itself as well as those presented by the needs of economically less developed countries.

Responsibilities to Economically Less Developed Countries

One of the chief benefits of the seminar was the insight gained by the participants into their responsibilities toward the countries of Asia and Africa, whose difficulties constitute for the entire world a political and economic menace which threatens to reduce to naught all efforts toward international understanding.

The western world fears the rise of the under-developed countries, being generally unaware of the urgent need for a solution of their problems. Therefore, trade unions and workers' education organizations, though they may not succeed in promoting the Judaic-Christian principle of the brotherhood of man, must convince men that: (1) by neglecting these problems they make their solution more difficult; (2) the existence of abundant cheap manpower with a low living standard is contrary to their own interests.

In studying practical educational aspects, serious thought was given to the role of the state and university in workers' education. It was felt that both these sources could furnish more assistance in training teachers and developing research, provided objective teaching was safeguarded and all programs controlled by the labor movement.. The education of the migrant worker was also studied. In discussing the question of an international language there was agreement that true bi-lingualism where people not only speak but think in a second language, was preferable to the use of a universal, artificial language such as "Esperanto." Special committees discussed education in rural areas and economically less developed countries and the use of written teaching materials.

The press and cinema were reviewed as educational media for international understanding. Interest was shown in the workers' film discussion clubs. The participants were impressed by a film presented by Madame Blum on the life of a textile worker. Comparable films made in other countries might increase an understanding of the situation of workers in various countries.

It was frequently pointed out that most Hollywood films sent to Europe were producing an unfavorable attitude toward the United States. Satisfaction was expressed, though, with the quality and educational value of the documentaries and other films shown by the various embassies and especially the United States Embassy.

The United States and International Understanding

The United States, as the most powerful country in the free world today, was the target of much criticism. The stir caused in Europe by the Rosenberg case and McCarthyism is chiefly an expression of resentment of our uncompromising attitude towards Communism. Many of these people still believe that one can shake hands with the Russian bear and not be clawed. The United States' position against free trade is, in their view, chiefly responsible for their economic ills. However, out of the discussion came a recommendation for a sociological study on the need of protectionist methods.

One note struck should sound an alarm for the thinking American. In the second section of the seminar, special plenary sessions were devoted to the progress made on the United Nations document on the Declaration of Human Rights. Many participants, including most of the socialists, held that this document could not be based on fundamental principles, which in their estimation do not exist, but rather must be built on mutually agreed assumptions—it was brought out by some of the participants at the conference that assumptions crumble like the proverbial house built on sand with the first storm warnings. We in the United States, who have built our government on principles expressed in our Constitution, appreciate that this is why our country has been able to flourish. Therefore, if we are serious about promoting lasting international understanding we educators must take an increased interest in the formulation of this Declaration of Human Rights.

Even though the United States delegates could not approve every matter discussed, the seminar on the whole was a tremendous success. This brief report cannot indicate its real value: the deep understanding and good humor among people from many countries and the insight gained into some of the fundamental problems of our time.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

This listing of books and pamphlets does not necessarily constitute endorsement by the Workers Education Bureau or agreement with the views expressed therein.

BOOKS

Community Wage Patterns. Frank C. Pierson. University of California Press, Berkeley 4, Calif. 1953. 213p. $3.75.

Major economic influences, including unionization, which have shaped the inter-industry wage structure of Los Angeles. Concludes that "it is the economic environment, not the institution of collective bargaining, which largely controls wage relationships at the community level."

The Jeffersonian Heritage. Dumas Malone. Beacon Press, 25 Beacon St., Boston 8, Mass. 1953. 165p. $3.50.

Originally a series of radio programs, these scripts convey the breadth and depth of Jefferson's philosophy. His statements on problems that still face us today—the rights of free men, freedom of the press, freedom to disagree with the majority—make timely and worthwhile reading.

Problems of Economic Union. James E. Meade. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Ave., Chicago 37, Ill., 1953. 102p. $1.75.

An analysis of the economic problems of international federation. The author sees essential value in such a union but urges that we recognize the difficulties and proceed slowly, working through already established institutions such as NATO, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Monetary Fund, European Payments Plan, Sterling Area, etc.

Sources of Wage Information: Employer Associations. N. Arnold Tolles & Robert L. Raimon. N. Y. State School of Industrial & Labor Relations, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. 1952. 351p. $3.00.

Presents individual descriptions of 220 surveys of wages and related matters as conducted by 120 employer associations. As the authors suggest labor unions will find the study helpful in providing "standards for evaluating the wage figures they will confront in collective bargaining."

PAMPHLETS

American Labor Looks At The World. Free Trade Union Committee, A.F.L., Box 65, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y. 1953. 96p. 50c.

Compilation of A.F.L. pronouncements on foreign policy including resolutions adopted by the 1952 convention and statements by Matthew Woll, George Meany, and Jay Lovestone on Korea, Tunisia, co-determination, the cold war, the revolt of East German Workers, etc.

Butch Blows A Fuse. U. S. Dept. of Labor. Gov't. P't'g. Office, Washington 25, D. C. 1953. 13p. 10c.

Latest in the series of the misadventures of Butch who learns the hard way safe practices to use when working with electricity.

Civil Rights in the United States. American Jewish Congress, 15 E. 84th St., New York 28, N. Y., and National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, 20 W. 40th St., New York 18, N. Y. 1953. 151p. 40c.

The fifth "Balance Sheet of Group Relations" cites gains in two major areas—increase in Negro voting in the South and progress in the elimination of segregation in the armed forces. Lack of progress is evident in housing and in legislation. The report also cites "the continued abuse of the powers of Congressional investigations" which have had a "pervasive and intimidatory effect."

Europe's Quest for Unity. Saul K. Padover and L. Larry Leonard. Foreign Policy Ass'n., Inc., 22 E. 38th St., New York 16, N. Y. 1953. 63p. 35c.

A hopeful view of the chances for the formation of "some kind of European Federation" is expressed by the Dean of the Department of Politics of the New School for Social Research. L. Larry Leonard discusses the U. S.'s belief in the importance and urgency of European unity.

Facts About Union Security. Research and Education Dept., Int'l. Chemical Workers' Union, 1659 W. Market St., Akron 13, Ohio. 1953. 13p. No price listed.

Very good analysis of various types of union security and what the Taft-Hartley Act and state laws say on the subject. Also covers union security in ICWU agreements.

PAMPHLETS (Cont.)

Freedom and Authority in Labor Unions. Mark Starr. Education Dept., Int'l. Ladies Garment Workers' Union, 1710 Broadway, New York 19, N. Y. 1953. 15p. Single copies free.

Part of "Freedom & Authority in Our Time," the 12th symposium of the Conference on Science, Philosophy, and Religion. Points out the fallacy in considering labor monopolistic, but says also that it is necessary to examine individual freedom, group authority, security, and welfare in the operation of trade unions.

Health Insurance Plans. Committee for the Nation's Health, 2212 M St., N. W., Washington 7, D. C. 1953. 6p. 4c.

Leaflet explaining in simple terms the prerequisites of a good health plan, differences in health plans, and what unions can do to establish good plans and improve existing ones.

Keeping Our Schools Free. Gordon Hullfish. Public Affairs Pamphlets, 22 E. 38th St., New York 16, N. Y. 1953. 28p. 25c.

Outlines five basic principles for the protection of teachers against over-zealous investigators and special interest groups, pointing out that academic freedom is the educational need of a free society.

Labor Scholarships Abroad. American Labor Education Service, 1776 Broadway, New York 19, N. Y. 1953. 14p. 10c.

Outlines briefly and clearly the facts about scholarships open to American workers for study in other countries.

Questions and Answers—The Schools and the Courts. Southern Regional Council, 63 Auburn Ave., N. E., Atlanta 3, Ga. 1953. 16p. 15c. Quantity rates.

Twenty-two informative questions and answers on segregation in the public schools, designed to provide background material for discussion groups.

State Anti-Discrimination and Anti-Bias Laws. American Jewish Congress, 15 E. 84th St., New York 28, N. Y. 1953. 27p. 50c.

Useful check list of state anti-discrimination laws covering public and private employment, places of accommodation, education, housing, group defamation, and miscellaneous statutes.

State & Federal Labor Legislation Annual Digest. U. S. Dept. of Labor. Gov't. P't'g. Office, Washington 25, D. C. 1953. 53p. 20c.

Summary of laws affecting labor enacted in state and federal legislatures from Sept. 1951 to Sept. 1952. Significant legislation included general increases in workmen's compensation benefits in Kentucky, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Virginia; equal pay law in New Jersey; additional safety legislation in Massachusetts and New York.

Thirteen Years in a Labor School. Rev. Thomas J. Darby, Ph.D. Fathers Rumble & Carthy, St. Paul 1, Minn. 1953. 92p. 50c.

Interesting picture of the Catholic New Rochelle, N. Y. Labor School, the influence it has had, its efforts to combat A.F.L. suspicions that the Church was attempting to divide workers along religious lines, and the assistance which it gave to the anti-communist elements in the U.E.

Welcome, New Member. United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Int'l. Union, 3329 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago 24, Ill. No price listed.

Good packet of educational materials designed for new members which includes a brief history of the union, its constitution and by-laws, charts showing how dues are allocated and how the local operates, and a pamphlet on the structure of the union.

Women As Workers. A Statistical Guide. U. S. Dept. of Labor. Gov't. P't'g. Office, Washington 25, D. C. 1953. 112p. 50c.

Highly detailed study of women workers including number, occupations, industry and class of workers, unemployment, labor turnover, age and marital status, income and education. Points out that whereas the female population has tripled since 1890, the woman labor force has more than quadrupled.

Your Economics and Mine. California State Federation of Labor, 995 Market St., San Francisco 3, Calif. Monthly mimeographed bulletin. No price listed.

Issued monthly since February 1951, this series has covered to date such topics as "Credit Controls", "Parity and the Consumer", "Price Controls", "The Federal Budget", "The Worker and His Pension", "Health and the People." Valuable summaries of topics of vital interest to all workers.

Above books and pamphlets should be ordered direct from publishers.

Labor

At peak harvesting Florida now employs between 85,000 and 90,000 agricultural workers. Only about 10,000 of this number are Florida residents throughout the year.

To make up the difference, the Farm Placement Service provides 60,000 from two main migratory labor sources -- 45,000 from the eastern seaboard stream which moves from Florida up the coast to Maine with the seasons, and 15,000 under an exchange program with Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and South Carolina.

Another 5000 workers come from the Puerto Rican labor program, although the Puerto Rican government, fearing employers' racial discrimination, won't deal directly with the Florida State Employment Service. Growers associations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York contract for the workers from Puerto Rico and then recontract them to Florida employers.

BWI workers plus others from the Bahamas fill the remaining unmet needs.

Recruiting of labor, domestic and foreign, is done against firm job offers from employers, and certifications for the importation of foreign workers are made only after all domestic sources have been exhausted. This year's certification for 9000 off-shore workers is 3000 less than the growers' estimated labor needs at peak harvest.

Prime contractors of foreign labor in the state are the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, which employs 6700, and the Sugar Producers of Florida, who use 2000. The former association today is following an enlightened labor policy, this year taking an important pioneering step among farm groups by urging its members to do all hiring through Farm Placement Service.

Mil for Phoenix 8/1/55

Employers and state officials alike speak of the British West Indies workers in the highest of terms.

Negro workers make up 95% of Florida's farm labor, and the BWI Negro not only mixes well, but he has won considerable respect for his race among Florida whites. The average education of the BWI worker is 11th or 12th grade, whereas, as the result of discrimination, the average Florida Negro completes only the 3rd or 4th.

Despite the gloomy picture of race relations in many areas of Florida, the BWI program has, to date, not only been free of serious racial problems, but has actually worked to lessen racial tensions in areas where BWI workers are used.

Used to fair treatment in their homeland, Jamaican Negroes expect -- and get -- fair treatment here. Merchants have found them outstandingly courteous -- as well as ranking among their best customers.

Typical is "Needles" Michaels, a taylor, in Bryant, near the outstanding BWI camp at the U. S. Sugar Corp. "I've sold them over $100,000 worth of clothes since the program started," Michaels said. "And they keep on ordering from me by mail after they return to the West Indies."

Other businessmen in Bryant felt likewise. As a result, there is today an Inter-Racial Council in the city, which is doing much to improve conditions for U. S. Negro migrants.

The BWI Labor Program began in 1943 as the result of wartime labor shortages. Some 40,000 BWI workers were being used annually when the bilateral agreement between the U. S. and West Indies governments, under which the wartime program operated, terminated. Since that time, the number has been steadily falling to the present low, and never has exceeded 9000.

Government by Minority

the case for federal and state legislative reapportionment

CONGRESS OF INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATIONS
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION AND RESEARCH

53

HCF

Have 2 copies

Mat- Law Enforc.

POLICE AND MINORITY GROUPS

Based upon a tentative manual
by Prof. Gordon W. Allport, Harvard University

Outline For Training

In response to several requests received by the Essex County Intergroup Council for information on how police officers can be trained to work more effectively with minority groups, the following outline has been drawn together.

Hopefully the attached material will have value as a guide to municipal officials, citizen organizations, and the general public, in pointing up

(1) the opportunities which exist to enhance the effectiveness of police work in areas where minority groups exist

(2) the importance of having officers who are trained to prevent the development of incidents leading to conflict, increased hatred, loss of lives, and destruction of property, and

(3) human relations techniques which can be employed by police officers in the handling of tension situations should they arise.

This outline is offered as a guide only. It is recognized that much careful thought must go into the planning of training programs and the specific methods to be adopted in a given municipality. The Essex County Intergroup Council welcomes further inquiries on this subject.

ESSEX COUNTY INTERGROUP COUNCIL
30 Clinton Street, Newark 2, New Jersey MItchell 2-5720
January, 1952

POLICE AND MINORITY GROUPS

Role of the Police

The police play a vitally important role in race relations. No agency of government can be more effective in furthering good race relations and in preventing race riots than the police. POLICE CAN PREVENT RACE RIOTS. Not only can they prevent such riots from occurring, but should they occur, intelligent police methods can minimize their consequences. At the same time, lax police policies contribute to race riots and antiquated methods of coping with riots can greatly aggravate their consequences.

The role of the police officer in working with minority groups is admittedly a difficult one. On one hand, as a person, he is a product of the same social experiences to which all of us are exposed. It is likely, therefore, that he has absorbed some of the prejudices and antipathies toward minority groups that are so tragically widespread in our society. However it must be stressed that as an officer of the law and as a member of the police profession, he stands as the symbol of the impartial authority of society. There rests with him the task of peacefully mediating the antagonisms and conflicts between various segments of the community. He must bring under control his personal sentiments and prejudices and subordinate them in a truly professional spirit.

The necessary professional spirit in police work can only develop out of continued activity toward the setting up of performance standards. In these terms, the role of the police officer as a professional and as a private citizen must be sharply distinguished. There are two essentials in the encouragement of the professional attitude as it affects race and minority group problems.

FIRST, there must be brought into clearer relief the nature of the race and minority-group tensions with which a police officer may be confronted. He must be aware of the explosive elements in human relations and of the threat that such forces may be to the very integrity and well-being of the whole nation.

SECOND, the individual police officer must possess the most accurate and authenticated information on the nature of racial, nationality, and religious differences. He must understand the reasons for discrimination and bigotry. In addition, he must possess the best knowledge available regarding ways in which the police officer can function when incidents occur and in situations of great tension. Provided with a body of scientific data about race, religion, and nationality differences, and with a basic understanding of the reasons for bigotry and discrimination, the truly professional police officer can free himself from the influence of false beliefs about racial and religious groups.

Some Aspects of General Training

The proper handling of situations involving minority groups calls for good general police training. Special instruction should also be given in civil rights laws, background of minority groups and areas in which they live, and preventive policing methods. Such subjects should be made an integral part of the police training for recruits and also incorporated in an in-service training course.

NO DISCRIMINATION. In the first place, there should be absolutely no discrimination against any recruit in the department training program. Even the smallest points need to be watched to insure equal treatment of all trainees. The staff of instructors should be constantly vigilant to make maximum use for instructional purposes of any signs of friction between recruits who belong to different nationality, racial, or religious groups.

INDOCTRINATION IN CIVIL RIGHTS LAWS. All police trainees must of course receive a thorough indoctrination in the civil rights laws which they must uphold and which limit police authority. The "Bill of Rights" articles and amendments to the federal constitution, similar provisions in state constitutions, and summaries of federal and state legislation, as well as city ordinances, which have bearing on the rights and privileges of citizens, should be presented to all police recruits.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION. To understand the problems of minority groups, new recruits should be given background information about them and the neighborhoods in which they live. The specific background material to be used depends in part on what minority groups live in the city. Items in a required reading list should contain accurate and unbiased information, and be related to the educational and other requirements of the police officers.

PREVENTIVE POLICING. Police trainees should also be made aware during their training course of the important jobs of preventive policing they can do in the field of race relations. In order to be most useful to the police force in this capacity the man on the beat needs to understand the importance of rumors and unrectified complaints as symptoms of social unrest. If the patrolman is alert to such matters, he will be able to recognize variations in the seriousness of the complaints or rumors and will also be able to judge how widespread they are. New patrolmen also should be instructed about the handling of any immediate threats to public peace and safety. Every new recruit must be made to realize that prompt and proper action by him in a moment of crisis may well prevent serious trouble from developing.

A Special Training Program

In many communities it is advisable to supplement the long-term training program suggested above with a concentrated brief and practical in-service training course that could be quickly organized and administered to all police personnel.

This course should be developed by practical policemen and should be derived directly from their personal experience in successfully handling day-to-day police problems. There should be 10 or 12 men selected from the force who have been the most effective in working directly with the groups about whom it is feared serious trouble may center. The selection of these officers should include the recommendations from honest and trustworthy members of the minority groups involved.

The men thus selected to prepare the special training program should be relieved of their regular duties for a period of time. During this period they would meet daily with a social scientist who has both practical experience in dealing with minority groups and a broad understanding of their problems. The function of the social scientist would be to bring up general problems for discussion by the group of officers, to draw out the individual policemen as to their experiences, to help the group arrive at common agreements regarding the best methods to use in the various practical situations discussed, and to systematize the results of these conferences in an outline or syllabus that would become the basis for the special training program. In all the discussions of practical police problems particular efforts would be made to determine the methods that were most satisfactory to the people on the beat.

The special training course developed in this way could be organized as a series of lectures but probably would be more instructive as a series of demonstrations of incidents in which the trainees participate. Some of the men who put the material together might be detailed to help train the rest of the force. The number of trainees at any particular session should be small so as to encourage group discussion of the various points brought out. For this reason, it might be well to consider whether the special course might best be given in the various precinct stations of the city rather than at headquarters or at the police school.

TENTATIVE GUIDE FOR A TEN-WEEK'S POLICE TRAINING COURSE

SESSION I

SUBJECT: HAVE WE ANYTHING TO WORRY ABOUT?

From time to time throughout the country, glaring and violent incidents point up underlying race tensions and serious racial disorders. Incidents reaching such proportions as did the recent Cicero, Illinois riot and the Miami bombings are widely heard about and investigated, but daily countless other tension situations occur, and many remain unnoticed and unreported. The problem of the relations between various racial and nationality groups is one of major urgency throughout the world. Particularly in a democratic society it is vital to be constantly aware of forces and events working to undermine and weaken the individual's right, despite race, creed, color or national origin, to have equal rights. The deep-seated belief in the inherent work of every individual is the cornerstone of democracy and a faithful adherence to this belief can assure the continuance of the democratic way of life.

I. What is the American Tradition?

Square deal, fair chance, equality of opportunity.

II. Existing Threats to the American Tradition

A brief summary of anti-democratic forces to give general idea of some of "worries" justifying a course of this kind.

III. Picture of Local Situation and Problems

Ethnic and religious make-up of community (spot maps).

Relation of these groups and their leaders to the police.

What does this mean for our city?

SESSION II

SUBJECT: WHEN AND WHERE MOBS HAPPEN

A mob or panic is a flare-up of community sickness, and the police scientist can learn to diagnose its approach if he studies the signs and symptoms which have heralded its outbreak in the past.

I. When Do Riots Usually Occur?

A. Riots happen most frequently on Sundays because:

1. Sunday is usually a day of leisure and often even temporary idleness can breed mischief;

2. Sunday may mean that less policemen are on duty to nip incipient trouble in the bud.

B. Most riots happen in warm weather.

1. Invariably a riot is preceded by congregations of idle people on streets gossiping and swapping rumors.

2. In hot humid weather people's tempers are often frayed and a little incident may be enough to start a bout of violence.

C. Other conditions also tend to work against mutual tolerance and understanding.

1. Economic hardships.

2. Personal frustration.

3. Inadequate and restricted housing.

4. Denial of civil rights.

II. Where are Riots Most Likely to Occur?

A. In areas where there are diverse racial, religious, or national groups.

B. Where these diverse groups are living crowded together.

SESSION III

SUBJECT: WHY MOBS HAPPEN

We have seen when and where we ought to watch out for riots. The next question is, why do riots occur? A working knowledge of the psychology of crowd behavior is indispensable for effective police work.

I. Three Types of Crowds.

A. Throngs. (shopping crowd, crowds at sport events, etc.)

1. Not a serious police problem (most crowds of this peaceable order).

2. Throng is good-natured, easily controlled, and generally unaware that police are present.

B. Mobs

1. Dangerous and destructive, express common emotion of anger.

2. Certain conditions make for mob formations.

a. Some kind of long-standing hatred, or sense of grievance.

b. Some particularly acute event which causes long-buried grievance to flare up.

c. Rumor spreads.
(1) Practically every instance of mob violence is preceded by several hours or days of rumor spreading.
(2) Rumor creates anger which destroys moral checks that people usually have against committing violent acts.

d. People gather together.

e. The breaking point comes and something happens to touch off the explosive feelings.

f. Mob leaders who may not be present or identifiable, but nevertheless exist.

g. Psychological changes in the mob members (after mob gets started).
(1) Their normal moral sense is blocked by the excitement.
(2) Their hatreds and destructive impulses are released.
(3) They feel "righteous" and "holier than thou" because they are no longer self-critical.
(4) They attack any barriers that come between them and their destructive purposes.
(5) They feel confident that there is "safety in numbers" and that they as individuals won't get caught.
(6) They follow the leader, gladly letting him take the responsibility and regarding him as a hero.
(7) Their excitement mounts, owing to the cries, pushes, violent actions of others.

h. The peak of excitement is "front and center" in the mob, and it is this focal point that must be dispersed by the police.

3. Psychological suggestions for mob control. (in general)

a. In times of tension prevent throngs of people from forming.

b. Deflect and tire out a mob under way.
(1) A firm, assured manner is indispensable.
(2) Give sensible citizens tasks to do to help the police.
(3) A wild-goose chase in the wrong direction.

c. Forces of law and order must be self-controlled.
(1) Since it is the patrolman's duty to enforce the law impartially, a police officer should never mention the race or religion of people involved in riotous or other illegal acts.
(2) Under no circumstances should a police officer use abusive language such as "Kike," "Nigger," "Wop," etc.
(3) Mobs usually tire in a very few hours.

C. Panics

1. Dangerous and destructive, express common emotion of fear.

2. Panic behavior is simpler than mob behavior in that:

a. it requires no long period of frustration, and no long build up;

b. it requires no leader and seldom has one;

c. its underlying emotion of fear is individualistic, immediate -- "every man for himself;"

d. its only goal is escape.

3. People are panic-ripe when:

a. they cannot see the means of escape ("We're cut off!");

b. they are fatigued and confused, or physically below par;

c. they have been through hardship, discouragement, and disaster;

d. gruesome sights and previous anxiety have made them "jittery";

e. rumor has deteriorated morale and laid the groundwork for anxiety;

f. they see or hear an immediate threat (Fire! Gas!);

g. they lack discipline or preventive leadership.

4. In actual panic people are especially susceptible to emotional contagion. The excitement of others enormously enhances the fear.

5. Panic ceases when:

   a. people realize there is no danger;

   b. effective escape has occurred;

   c. extreme exhaustion and hopelessness have set in.

6. Psychological suggestions for panic control.

   a. Self-control in the leader who tries to quell a panic.

   b. If possible, shift people's attention.
      (1) Perhaps a loudspeaker to give continued reassurance.
      (2) Occasionally ridicule, laughter, or familiar commands will be effective in restoring discipline.

   c. Prevent throngs from forming in danger zones.

   d. The only sure way to stop a panic is never have it as all.
      (1) Discipline is chief preventive (i.e., fire drill).
      (2) Prepare well the defensive services on which citizens may rely (police, fire departments) and give reassuring publicity.
      (3) Duties assigned in advance to civilians. Keep them busy.
      (4) Expose, ridicule, and fight all rumors.
      (5) Prepare shelters, sanctuary, and well-marked avenues of escape wherever danger of panic exists.

II. Symptoms of Trouble in the Making.

   A. There are certain general symptoms "in the air" which usually indicate the imminence of group strife and violence to which police officers should be especially sensitive.

      1. A shift in the general climate of opinion showing a growth of hostile and aggressive sentiments.

      2. An increase in the number of rumors and the greater speed of rumor circulation, as well as a growth in the sensational character of the rumors.

      3. Intensification in the frequency and boldness of racial insults and incidents.

4. Intensified activity on the part of extremist organizations.

5. A visible rise in the juvenile delinquency rate as revealed in arrests and social work records.

6. Increasing distrustfulness and hostility toward police on the part of minority groups. (Watch minority press)

7. Increased tension on the labor front.

SESSION IV

SUBJECT: RUMOR

Almost invariably the outbreak of racial strife is preceded by a wave of rumors spreading with great speed through the affected district and preparing the ground for violent mob action. Experience has shown that sudden intensification in the violence and speed of rumor spreading is one of the most reliable symptoms of the imminence of serious trouble.

RUMORS THAT PRECEDE RIOTS

The rumor epidemic preceding a riot usually goes through the following stages:

(1) There is an increase in stories being circulated featuring insults, discrimination, and a wide range of misdeeds ascribed to the "scapegoated group." Among the favorite "pre-riot" rumors are stories of police brutality in making arrests and in "grilling" prisoners.

(2) Soon stories of impending violence appear. The other race or group (especially typical of anti-Negro rumors) is alleged to be arming and preparing for wholesale assaults. People are told that their homes and their children, their property and their jobs are threatened.

(3) After the crisis has reached a breaking point, inflammatory rumors continue to circulate. The incidents which have actually occurred are exaggerated out of all proportion. Stories of beatings, rapes, and murders are reported. As rumors spread from mouth to mouth, increasing numbers of gruesome details are added.

I. Demonstration of the distortions that occur in rumor ("Rumor Clinic" -- demonstration of a practical method for "bringing home" dramatically to people the ways in which rumors develop, why they need to be checked, and how people can help do it).

A. Simplification or loss of detail.

B. Sharpening or exaggeration.

C. Fitting our expectations to our emotional habits.

II. Rumors travel when knowledge is lacking and when subject is important to the person.

III. Rumors are of three types:

A. Pipe dream (wish);

B. Bogey (fear);

C. Wedge-driving (hostility).

IV. Why people peddle hostility rumors against groups.

A. To explain and justify their own hate.

B. To relieve their own hate.

C. To get attention.

D. Thoughtlessly to make conversation.

V. Tentative instructions to the police officer regarding rumor.

A. Never believe them unless unmistakable evidence is present (in which case the reports are not really rumors).

B. Report them when:

1. he hears them with unusual frequency on his beat;

2. the rumor contains any element of threat, such as "we will get that Nigger family");

3. the rumor states a specific plan of action, such as "the gang will meet tonight to clean up the Jew kids;"

4. the rumor is printed and slanders a race or religion. Such "publication" is an illegal act in some states;

5. rumors are inflammatory and fantastic, involving stories of rape, kidnapping, torture, or similar vicious behavior.

C. Relieve anxiety when:

1. a distressed citizen reports the rumor and asks for some action. (The patrolman may reassure the citizen by saying, "Well, you know these stories are usually exaggerated, but we'll look into the matter, and I'll try to tell you what we find out after investigation.")

D. Help fight rumor by:

1. never repeating them outside of official channels;

2. ridiculing in a good-natured way thoughtless rumor spreaders;

3. if necessary, reprimanding dangerous rumor spreaders.

VI. Illustration: Consequences of Rumor. Movie: "Fury"

Note: The dangerous consequences of rumor leading to the formation of a mob may be effectively illustrated with the aid of a motion picture. The condensed (17 minute) film, "Fury," showing how unfounded inflammatory rumors may lead to the formation of a lynching mob, is well suited for this purpose.

SESSION V

SUBJECT: SUCCESSFUL PREVENTION AND HANDLING OF RIOTS BY THE POLICE

Clever police work can prevent riots. When riots have started, good police control has kept them from getting worse. A review of some of the cases which illustrate effective steps that might be taken by the police of other cities can be found in the J. E. Wekler and T. E. Hall pamphlet: "The Police and Minority Groups." In this article, excepts from actual cases show instances where police action has been effective in such cities as Washington, D. C.; Flint, Michigan; Houston, Texas; Passaic, New Jersey; and New York City, New York.

I. The experience of the above five cities in the constructive handling of tense interracial situations indicates some lessons that may be useful in similar situations in other cities.

A. Prevention

1. Refusal of police officials to become panicky over wild rumors.

2. Police trust in the peaceful intentions of reputable groups of Negro citizens and insistence of police officials on upholding the rights of such groups to have public meetings or celebrations and the furnishing of police protection to such functions if necessary.

3. Meeting issues openly and publicly. The public reassurance by the high officials of Houston was probably at least as important in preventing disorder as the threat to arrest disturbers of the peace.

4. Special distribution of police when that step seems desirable to prevent the possibility of any disturbance. Washington protected the picketers and guarded certain streetcar lines during the period of tension.

5. Enlisting the cooperation of local military authorities when the situtation seems to warrant such a step.

6. Careful dispersal of threatening groups, if possible without the use of force.

7. Following up such dispersal by correcting, in so far as possible, the cause of the tension, thus preventing it from smoldering and perhaps breaking out again, and at the same time reducing the probability that a similar situation will recur.

8. Special efforts to prevent, minimize, or patch up clashes among school children, thus preventing children's quarrels from spreading to their parents and at the same time helping to develop good attitudes in the children.

9. Cooperation on interracial problems between the police, other city officials and departments, unofficial citizens' groups, and state or federal agencies.

B. Handling a Riot

1. Immediate recognition by the police of an unusual and dangerous situation; a quick report to headquarters.

2. Speedy mobilization of the police force.

3. Rapid effective steps, planned in advance, to prevent curiousity seekers or potential rioters from entering the trouble area.

4. Special precautions against excessive use of force, insistence on diplomatic and impersonal action.

5. Large reinforcements held in reserve but quickly available if needed.

6. Cooperation of neighborhood leaders enlisted, both to plan strategy and to appeal directly to rioters. Utilization of civilians as police auxiliaries.

7. Personal appeals to rioters by high officials.

8. High officials in direct command of efforts to restore order, staying on the job until it is finished.

SESSION VI

SUBJECT: COOPERATION WITH OTHER AGENCIES

In dealing with the problems of racial and religious strife, the police will find that other agencies interested in the same problem are ready to cooperate with them. Much can be gained through close cooperation between all parties trying to break down racial and group prejudice.

I. The following are examples of the help that the police can receive in handling minority problems.

A. The Newspapers.

1. Although many police complain that newspapers often exaggerate stories of racial and religious friction, newspaper publicity is nevertheless necessary for keeping a potentially dangerous situation before the public eye.

2. Since it is the duty of the newspapers to report events accurately and without bias, better understanding between the newspapers and the police would prevent exaggerated and inaccurate accounts from being printed.

3. Full reporting of good police work increases the confidence of minority groups in the police and reduces unhealthy tension.

4. Police headquarters should also be conscious of working toward good cooperation with the press by observing newspaper time schedules. Bad timing is responsible for the fact that some papers print news about an incident without carrying the police point of view.

B. The Schools.

1. Prejudices are learned, not inherited, but small children are perfectly tolerant of other children, regardless of their color or religion.

2. Since police are generally respected by children, police officers can do a great deal in working out programs in cooperation with the schools, i.e., a program of speaking in the schools.

3. The police officer can be on the lookout for fights of a racial or religious nature between children. He should not only stop such occurrences, but should shame the participants by making them understand the unpatriotic nature of such fights.

4. "Kid fights" should not be dismissed lightly, for young hoodlums can be organized by demagogues and "race-haters" into dangerous mobs.

C. Social Work Agencies (public and private).

1. The police may not have the time or personnel to work toward reforming kids' gangs, but this is one of the jobs of social work agencies.

2. The social agencies should make their services known to the police, and the police in turn should be aware of using these services by referring young people to the proper source for help.

3. Awareness and prevention should be the by-words of the police officer. Social work agencies are always ready to help out when they can and if they are contacted.

D. Local Commissions on Civil Rights.

1. More recently some cities have established civil rights commissions (appointed by mayor or chief executive of a municipality) which attempt to foster through community effort or otherwise, good will, cooperation and conciliation among the groups and elements of the inhabitants of the community.

2. Local commissions may also be empowered by the local governing bodies to make recommendations to them for the development of policies and procedures that will aid in eliminating all types of discrimination, based on race, creed, color, national origin or ancestry.

E. Community Relations Agencies.

1. Such agencies are working to safeguard and augment the basic American premise of civil rights.

2. Program development geared to the creation of better understanding between ethnic, race, and religious groups.

F. Others, such as: human relations councils, intergroup organizations (community councils, county councils, youth councils).

SESSION VII

SUBJECT: TYPICAL PROBLEMS AND CASES

Riot prevention and control, like all police work, is first and last a practical matter. The instruction of police officers in problems of racial and religious tolerance should therefore have as practical an emphasis as possible. The best source of practical material is the files of the police force itself.

I. Suggestions for the use of case material.

A. The cases selected for discussion should be as representative as possible, the type of problem that the policeman is likely to encounter in his work and with which he has to deal quickly and efficiently.

B. Present the case to the group as a problem. Selected policemen and outside experts discuss the case before the group, or it may be thrown directly to the audience for comment and criticism.

C. Maximum participation from the members of the discussion group is essential even if the comments wander from the central features of the case.

D. Point out the general implications of the case, showing how the experience gained could be applied and utilized in the future.

Note on the problem method. The problem method suggested here has long been recognized by educators as a most effective method of teaching. It helps (1) to obtain maximum interest and active participation from the members of the group and (2) it gives the material being studied meaning and significance in terms of the student's own experience. It applies the material to be learned to real life situations.

E. Cases might consist of dramatic episodes acted out in class (role-playing).

F. Cases might consist of nothing more than a simple question to test the patrolman's skill and knowledge, for example:

1. What would you do if a Negro complains that he is denied service in a restaurant?

2. What would you do if a citizen turns in a defamatory leaflet?

3. What would you do if a distressed Negro citizen comes in to complain that a Negro was handled with unnecessary roughness in effecting an arrest?

4. What would you do if some organization complains that the police in a certain division are unfair to minority groups?

5. What would you do in breaking up a boys' fight (two boys with partisan bystanders) which has an obvious racial or religious basis?

SESSION VIII

SUBJECT: LAWS REGULATING POLICE ACTION

Many states have laws designed to protect minority groups. Every police officer should possess a digest of these laws. Only by knowing what rights are guaranteed to minority groups can he play his part in securing them.

Taking one state by way of example, the following is a summary of the principal legislative enactments affecting race, color, religion, and nationality in the state of _____ (New Jersey).

Session on Laws

SESSION IX

SUBJECT: THE PSYCHOLOGY OF PREJUDICE

Prejudice and bigotry are not a new problem in American life. Like other nations we have had our share of group friction and strife. There have been several organized movements teaching prejudice and discrimination, i.e., the Know-nothing party of the 1850's (anti-Catholic); the Klu Klux Klan which came in the wake of the Civil War (anti-Negro); the imitators of the Nazi Party in Germany, the Silver Shirts and the Bund.

I. A Brief Psychology of Prejudice (general nature).

A. What makes a bigot? Why are so many people prejudiced?

1. Personal frustration.

2. Tabloid thinking.

3. Ignorance of other groups.

4. Visibility of the victim.

5. Projection of guilt.

Note: A visual aid in demonstrating the psychological characteristics of a bigot is the 32-minute film, "Black Legion."

B. How does prejudice start with children?

C. (Example) Bigotry in Germany under Hitler (mass surrender of maturity.

D. Discussion of wholesome and normal states of mind that lead to decent and friendly human relationships.

II. The Problem Today in our Country.

A. American resilience in the past.

1. Our country came into being as a refuge for the persecuted and oppressed. There developed the "American Creed" -- liberty and justice for all.

2. Former ever-expanding frontier.

B. Why America may be less immune now.

1. The "American Creed" seems to have a less powerful hold on the thinking of many of our people.

2. No longer an expanding frontier.

3. Effects of war and its aftermath.

SESSION X

SUBJECT: ARE MINORITIES REALLY DIFFERENT?

One of the basic roots of prejudice is the notion that racial and religious minorities are different from other people. This difference is usually thought to be one of inferiority in some respect. "The Negroes are less intelligent than whites." "The Jews are greedy and unscrupulous." "The Catholics are all narrow-minded."

I. What are the scientific facts concerning minority differences as stated in the above paragraph?

A. The plain truth of the matter is that such statements have no scientific facts behind them. Some Negroes are less intelligent than whites. So are some Jews greedy, and so are some Catholics narrow-minded. But so are some Irishmen greedy, some whites less intelligent than Negroes, and some Protestant narrow-minded.

B. Statements like these about all the persons in any group are always wrong. The great mistake is to refer to an entire group in terms which apply only to a few individuals.

C. The fact that a person is born with a pigmented skin, or of Jewish parents, or of Catholic parents does not automatically make him possess certain characteristics. What he becomes will depend upon the economic status of his family, the opportunities he has for education and a job, the way he is treated by other poeple, and a great many other factors which no one can predict in advance.

D. If we treat an individual as inferior, he will soon begin to feel inferior.

II. How can the police help the situation in relation to minority groups?

Discussion of role of the police. The police authority must have a special concern with the law as it affects human relations, for it is in the enforcement of the law that the police enter the picture. The police officer has duties and responsibilities which stem from the law. From this same body of law he derives his authority, and he is accountable for a fair and impartial exercise of that authority.

Laws vs. Communists in Schools and Colleges

Statement of President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University before a committee of the Massachusetts legislature, Feb. 9, 1948.

Reprinted by the
AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION
170 Fifth Avenue, New York City 10

181 May 1948

THE Joint Committee on Education of the Massachusetts legislature had before it for hearing on Feb. 9, 1948 a bill to prohibit employment of Communists as teachers.

President Conant, among many other educators, appeared in opposition. His striking statement of principle is generally applicable to all such proposals, and therefore deserves wide circulation. The bill was shelved by the Committee.

The bill read:

> "No person who is a member of the Communist Party or who by speech or in writing advocates its doctrines, or who by speech or in writing advocates the overthrow by force, violence or other unlawful and unconstitutional means of the government of the United States or of the Commonwealth, shall be employed as a teacher or otherwise in any university, college, or school, public or private, or in any position in the educational system of the Commonwealth or of any city, town, superintendency union or county.
>
> "Violation of the preceding by any public officer or by any person acting for an employer, or by any person accepting employment in violation of the preceding section, shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both."

I AM here today to speak on behalf of the President and Fellows of Harvard College in opposition to Bill 220. There are many sound reasons why this bill should be reported unfavorably by this committee; there are many cogent arguments which can be brought forward against any legislation of this type. I shall confine my remarks on this occasion, however, to one of the basic issues raised by this proposal; this issue concerns the relation of the state to public and private educational institutions.

There is no hint of this particular problem in the title of the bill. But I submit that the title is misleading. The bill carries the heading "An act to prevent Communists and others who advocate the overthrow of government by force, violence or other unlawful or unconstitutional means from being employed as teachers or otherwise in institutions of learning or schools or in the public educational system." After reading the second section of the bill, however, one might fairly conclude that a better title would be "An act to make it criminal for an individual to be a member of a school committee or board of trustees if said committee or board or their agents employ individuals who hold certain views."

The bill introduces a new concept in the relation of the state to those individuals who are charged with the responsibility of guiding public and private institutions. Even if the first section of the bill gave a clear-cut definition of prohibited employees in terms of criminal acts, the legislation would still be a menace to the welfare of this Commonwealth. For the healthy condition of education in the United States depends on the maintenance of the principle of local control of education. This in turn means placing unfettered responsibility for the proper operation of our schools and colleges on those who by law or by charter have been given this responsibility. To threaten criminal action against public spirited citizens who give their time freely to these matters is to jeopardize the whole structure of our educational system.

To my mind, the present proposals stem from two fundamental misunderstandings. The first arises from a failure to realize the significance of the American concept of the relation of the power of the organized community — the state — to education; the other originates from an erroneous appraisal of the true nature of the dangers which face the country in these days of international tension. Let me take up these two points in the order I have named.

1. The history of education in this Commonwealth and in other states shows clearly that the American people have always believed in the maximum degree of autonomy and decentralization as far as our schools and colleges are concerned. Even when the funds are provided by the state legislature, as in the case of the state university, the procedures which have been most successful have involved giving great authority to the boards of trustees whether they are appointed or elected. The American people have not wished to regulate and control their public educational system by direct action of the legislative bodies nor by means of powerful officials located in either the state capitals or in Washington. Contrary to the European ideas and the doctrine of totalitarian lands we have believed in giving to local officials (members of school committees and their agents) wide powers and almost unlimited discretion. We believe that over a period of years the community which knows a given system of schools is best able to run those schools by electing responsible members of the school committee. The use of my phrase "community" in connection with our public schools needs no explanation. I refer to the voters in our cities and towns.

When we turn to our chartered colleges and universities the same principles apply, but here the community is not a geographic entity but a body of interested citizens, the alumni. These men and women are a special electorate so to speak who operate on behalf of the entire Commonwealth, or for those institutions which have a national scope, for the entire nation. If there were any reason to suppose that unsatisfactory teachers were being appointed in our schools and colleges, the remedy lies in the hands of the bodies who have by a long tradition unhampered jurisdiction. I do not believe there is any reason for anxiety on this score, as I shall make plain in a moment, but if there were it would be a most unwise step for the legislature to prescribe rules governing the action of school committees and trustees and an almost revolutionary step to attach criminal penalties to these rules.

In short this bill is a complete reversal of the basic American notion of delegation of power to many small groups of citizens responsible for our schools and colleges. It would not be too much to say that the second section of this bill proposes to introduce new and dangerous doctrines into our American philosophy of education.

2. The proponents of this measure are clearly disturbed by the threat to the future of this republic which derives from the present divided world. And what thoughtful citizen can be complacent on this point? But as to the nature of the immediate danger, I believe the proponents are in serious error. They seem to imagine from the title of the bill and some of the wording of the first section that our schools and colleges are staffed to some degree with advocates of armed revolt. They seem to fear that if let alone our boards of trustees and school committees will employ teachers and even janitors who spread the doctrine of the overthrow of the government by force.

I know of no evidence whatsoever to support such fears. Indeed if they were justified, one may note, the law enforcement officers of the state and nation could be charged with grave dereliction of their duties. For by Massachusetts and Federal statute it is a crime to advocate "the overthrow by force or violence of the government." I do not believe that the proponents of this bill can prove the existence of any danger to the state or nation by reason of the existence of people who advocate the overthrow of government by force; I doubt if there are many such people in the Commonwealth in any form of employment and I know of none anywhere on our teaching staffs.

Not that I should wish to leave with this committee the impression that I see no danger to the future of this community inherent in the international situation. Quite the contrary. As I have said more than once, the present state of affairs can best be described as an armed truce. During an armed truce, secret agents of hostile nations may well be at work, and against them we should do well to take every reasonable precaution. But in so doing we must neither show a degree of fear that verges on hysteria or panic nor take steps which destroy the whole basis for our success in a worldwide competition with an alien and hostile ideology.

I trust I am under no delusion as to the type of wishful thinking that goes on on the other side of the iron curtain. I may be quite wrong, of course, but I imagine that the gentlemen in the Kremlin have high hopes that this democracy will fail. And if I were in their place I should seize on every bit of evidence that tended to support this view. I should eagerly await news that indicated the American people had begun to succumb to panic, that they had lost confidence in those historic principles which had guided their development in the past. I venture to believe, with all due respect to the patriotism and sincerity of the proponents of the bill before you, that the passage of this bill would bring such welcome news to the rulers of Soviet Russia.

Why? Because if the Communist rulers are shrewd analysts of the behavior of other peoples they must pin their hopes on a division of the American people consequent on a failure to believe in the doctrines which have supported this republic in the past. While I am convinced that history will prove the wishful thinking of the Russian Communists to be in error, still one must admit that there is always the possibility of disaster — not from a spread of doctrines of revolution but from the direction I have named, a fear approaching panic, an hysteria and consequent repudiation of all the basic principles that have guided the destiny of this republic.

Once we depart from our robust belief in those ideals which have been our goals for a century and a half and our confidence that these ideals will win in any ideological conflict in a free society, we may well be on the road to ruin. It is this possibility — a very remote but still real possibility — which makes me so determined in my opposition to this bill or any similar type of legislation. Once we start altering the basic framework of our society — and the second section of the bill does exactly that — once we start showing alarm at people's opinions and legislate against any views short of advocacy of criminal action — as does section one — we have given the world a danger signal. We have proclaimed to ourselves and to our neighbors, our friends and hostile critics that we have lost confidence in our future, that a wave of fear is mounting.

I cannot believe the General Court will pass any legislation that can be thus construed. Therefore I cannot but believe that this committee will render an adverse report on the bill before you.

NATIONAL CITIZENS CONFERENCE ON CIVIL LIBERTIES
Washington, D. C.
April 14, 1948

Report of Commission No. III on

STRENGTHENING ACADEMIC FREEDOMS

Dr. Alonzo Meyers, Chairman
Dr. Richard B. Kennan, Vice-Chairman

(Note: There were more than twenty-five members of this Commission representing at least twenty-five national organizations, only six of which are academic in nature.)

The Commission agreed to the following statements:

1. Academic freedom is the right of the teacher to teach the truth as he sees the truth. More specificially: (a) the teacher has the right to full freedom of research and publication, subject to the adequate performance of his other academic duties; (b) the teacher has the right to full freedom of discussion in the classroom; (c) teachers, as professional workers, have the right to organize to protect their group interests; (d) the teacher, as a citizen, has the right to speak and to write freely on any subject that interests him; (e) the teacher has the right to join any organization that is not illegal.

2. A teacher should be dismissed for what he does or does not do; he should not be dismissed for what he does or does not believe.

3. Without protection of a teacher's tenure of position there is no real guarantee of academic freedom.

4. Teachers should have the same freedom outside the classroom as is accorded other citizens and they also have the same responsibility of the exercise of citizenship. They have a responsibility to oppose legislation that would jeopardize academic freedom, and a right to promote legislation designed to advance the welfare of education and the teaching profession.

5. Institutions under denominational control should state clearly and have understood regulations restricting freedom of teaching before entering into an employment contract with a teacher.

6. If a teacher is to be dismissed, and if charges are to be preferred against a teacher, he should be entitled to a full and open hearing, to be represented by counsel, to cross-examine witnesses presented against him, and to subpoena witnesses in his own behalf. He should have the right of appeal to appropriate authority.

7. Academic freedom should be guaranteed to teachers on all levels of education from the university through the kindergarten; there is, however, a clear question of the propriety of discussing controversial issues in the lowest grades due to the immaturity of the pupils.

8. In teaching controversial subjects major emphasis should be placed on the scientific, open-minded approach to the question. Teachers should be supplied with a variety of textbook and supplementary material on important issues with which their classes may be concerned. Special interest groups must not interfere with the teachers' right to select material that will present points of view at variance with those of such interest groups.

9. Teachers and other citizens must recognize and make clear the distinction between facts and opinions; a good teacher will not "stack" the facts on any controversial question. No teacher has a right to propagandize for a special point of view in his classes under the cover of academic freedom, students have the right to freedom of opinion and to impartial presentation of the point of view of both sides of issues on which there is a division of opinion.

10. Teachers should make very clear in speaking outside of their classrooms that they speak as individual citizens rather than as representatives of institutions or organizations unless they are specifically empowered so to speak.

11. There is serious need for community wide conferences on the subject of academic freedom. The teaching profession alone cannot protect academic freedom in these troubled times.

12. Academic freedom should be understood, not as something separate and distinct from human freedom, but rather as an important part of the larger task of preserving democratic liberties, and especially of preserving the freedoms guaranteed in the Bill of Rights: freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, and freedom of the press. Either we adequately protect all of these freedoms or none is safe.

one encroachment

WASHINGTON MEMORIAL LIBRARY
MACON, GEORGIA

RECEIVED
JAN 15
Southern Regional Council

January 12, 1952

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Attn: Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant

Dear Miss Holden:

Thank you for your letter and the complimentary copy of NEW SOUTH. Within the framework of our state law, which provides for separate facilities, we give the following library service to Negroes in our community. We have a bookmobile, which is under the direction of a Negro librarian, that makes stops at Negro schools and community centers in Bibb County.

Sincerely yours,

Katherine M. Powers

Mrs. James E. Powers
Librarian

KMP:eem

TWENTY-SECOND REPORT

OF THE

North Carolina Library Commission

RECEIVED
FEB 4
Regional Council

JULY 1, 1950 — JUNE 30, 1952

STATISTICS

OF

NORTH CAROLINA

PUBLIC LIBRARIES
UNIVERSITY AND COLLEGE LIBRARIES

JULY 1, 1951-JUNE 30, 1952

COMPILED BY
THE NORTH CAROLINA LIBRARY COMMISSION
RALEIGH
1952

ARKANSAS LIBRARIES

Make your plans now to attend the annual meeting of the Arkansas Library Association, Hotel Marion, Little Rock, October 20-21, 1952.

Vol. 9, Series II | July, 1952 | Number 1

Issued Quarterly

ARKANSAS LIBRARY COMMISSION

In Co-operation With

ARKANSAS LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

DIRECTORY OF CITY AND COMMUNITY LIBRARIES
October 1, 1952

PLACE	LIBRARY	LIBRARIAN
Atkins	Atkins Public	Mrs. Faye Graydon
Bauxite	Bauxite Public
Bearden	Bearden Public	Mrs. Ola Gatling
Benton	Gann Memorial	Mrs. Ella Daugherty
Bentonville	Bentonville Public	Miss Anna L. Graves
Blytheville	Blytheville Public	Mrs. Ira Gray
Brinkley	Brinkley Public	Mrs. Teddie Baker
Camden	Camden Public	Mrs. Roy T. Smith
Corning	Corning Public	Mrs. J. H. Hardesty
Cotter	Cotter Public	Mrs. Robert Fielding
Dermott	Dermott Public	Mrs. C. D. Gist
DeWitt	DeWitt Public	Mrs. T. B. Hudson
El Dorado	El Dorado Public	Mrs. C. C. Wilking
Forrest City	Forrest City Public	Mrs. F. L. Proctor
Fort Smith	Carnegie City
Lake Village	Gatewood Memorial	Mrs. George Carlton
Little Rock	Little Rock Public	~~Mrs. Catharine Chew~~
Lonoke	Lonoke County	Miss Alberta Edmondson
Marianna	Marianna Public	Mrs. Arthur Cotter
Mena	Mena Public	Mrs. Walter Alley
Mountain Home	B & P W Club	Miss Elizabeth Boyd
Mountain View	Stone Mountain Memorial	Mrs. Edith Lowe
North Little Rock	North Little Rock Public	Miss Elsie Weisenberger
Paragould	Paragould Public	Miss Pauline Hooper
Pea Ridge	Pea Ridge Public
Piggott	Piggott Public	Miss Ruth Gwin
Prescott	Prescott Public	Mrs. Werner Hamilton
Rector	Rector Public	Mrs. Evert Randleman
Rogers	Rogers Public	Mrs. Dora Holyfield
Russellville	Russellville Public	Mrs. M. C. Hickman
Siloam Springs	Siloam Springs Public	Mrs. J. C. Denny
Stephens	Virginia Garner Public	Mrs. Ruth Melton Parten
Stuttgart	Stuttgart Public	Mrs. Sam Beard
Texarkana, Ark.-Tex.	Texarkana Public	Mrs. Georgia Taylor Parks
Van Buren	Van Buren Public	Miss Ione Harshaw
Waldron	Waldron Public	Mrs. Clyde Duke
Warren	Warren Public	Mrs. Louis Ederington
West Memphis	West Memphis Public	Mrs. M. B. Currie

December 22, 1952

Dr. Lawrence Reddick
Atlanta University Library
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Dr. Reddick:

Have tried with no success to reach you by phone.

Dr. Mitchell says that the survey of Negro library services in the South would be a good thing for the Council to do in its own name.

Will be out of town for the rest of this week but will call you early next week about the list of cities, addresses of state library associations and commissions, and so on.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

May Memorial Library

Burlington, N. C.

Serving Alamance County

ANNUAL REPORT 1951-52

YOUR LIBRARY OF THE FUTURE

May Memorial Library is attempting daily to provide better service for Alamance County residents. There are many needs that are recognized before its program can be considered adequate.

Here are some of them!

1. Public use of the library, while it is gaining annually, still is not used by the majority of residents. The people need the library, the library needs them.
2. There should be at least two books per person in the county.
3. More specialized books are needed in textiles, business, religion, agriculture, homemaking, shop work, etc.
4. A larger staff is needed to provide these expanded services.
5. Sections of the building not in use would double the floor space and should be renovated for use.
6. Records and films are needed on a wider variety of selections and subjects.
7. THE LIBRARY NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

MAY MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Circulation	125,540
Registered borrowers	10,424
Books	31,135
Books added	1,457

Bookmobile	550.56	etc.
Balance in Trust Fund		Balance	177.38
Dividends	4,579.83
Total	$31,142.06	Total	$31,142.06

Hours open 9:00 A.M.-9:00 P.M. Daily except Sat. 9:00 A.M.-6:00 P.M. No Sunday Hours
Telephone 6-4405

BOOKMOBILE
Total circulation	67,778
White	45,894
Colored	11,884
School circulation
White	19,578
Colored	6,338

MEBANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
Circulation	7,660
Children	2,927
Adults	3,196
Books added	182
Registered borrowers	563
Hours open 2-5 P.M. every day except Wed. and Sun.

LIBRARY OF THE PRESENT

Alamance County citizens used May Memorial Library, either in Burlington, the branch in Mebane or through the Bookmobile service, more in the fiscal year of 1951-52 than at any period in history.

LOOK AT THE FACTS

1. One out of every seven persons is a borrower.
2. There is one-half book per person now in the collection.
3. Each person in the county averaged reading two library books during the year 1951-52.
4. This service had to be provided from .35 per capita budget for all its operations.
5. During the year, there were 182 civic meetings held in the May Memorial Library club-rooms with no cost to the groups.
6. Staff and patients in all of the hospitals in the county had service once weekly from a library staff member and one Service League member. The League contributed time and purchased two hospital library trucks.
7. The county Bookmobile travelled 6,700 miles during the year in circulating 67,778 books to rural residents.
8. A phonograph record collection now passes 150 albums and circulated more than 3,000 records during the year.
9. Children read 58,000 books. This service was provided in addition to their Story Hours, Puppet Shows and other special programs.
10. On its 1951-52 appropriation the May Memorial Library purchased 1,500 new books, renovated the upstairs Club Room and added a staff room, redecorated both upstairs and the main floor. It purchased and put into operation a modern type Bookmobile which carries 1600 volumes all inside.
11. Mebane Public Library, branch service for the county, circulated 7,660 books, carried a story hour for children over six weeks during the summer and redecorated its building and added new shelving.
12. Gifts of furniture for the Club Room and staff room were made to the May Memorial Library by W. H. May, Sr.
13. Memorial gifts of books were made by many people.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Receipts		Expenditures
City of Burlington	$ 8,498.00	Salaries	$15,487.59
Alamance County	7,100.00	Books and periodicals	4,146.20
State Aid	4,067.56	Capital outlay	6,499.50
Endowment Income	4,760.72	Maintenance supplies	4,831.39
Gifts	138.60	Bookmobile operations etc.
Petty Cash	1,466.79	Balance	177.38
Special gifts for Bookmobile	550.56
Balance in Trust Fund Dividends	4,579.83
Total	$31,142.06	Total	$31,142.06

Hours open 9:00 A.M.-9:00 P.M. Daily except Sat. 9:00 A.M.-6:00 P.M. No Sunday Hours
Telephone 6-4405

BOARD MEMBERS

W. Clary Holt, Chairman
Term Expires 1953

Mrs. Robert Stratford, Vice-Chairman
Term Expires 1956

W. H. May, Jr. . . . . Term Expires 1954

Ralph H. Scott . . . . . Term Expires 1955

A. Howard White . . . Term Expires 1957

Mrs. Robert W. Barnwell
Term Expires 1958

☆

STAFF MEMBERS

Evelyn L. Parks . . . . . Librarian

Blanche McDade . . . . . First Assistant

Verna King . . . . . Circulation Asst.

Mrs. Georgia Wilson . . . . Night Assistant

Frances Durant . . . . . Night Assistant

Mrs. Lola Reid Lea . . In Charge of Repair

Mrs. E. D. Gregory . . . . Bookmobile Asst.

Betty Thompson . . . . . Student Assistant

Bob Phelps . . . . . Student Assistant

John Leath . . . . . Janitor

October 1952

TAMPA PUBLIC LIBRARY

reports a year of service
1951 ~ 1952

~~~~~~~~~~~

Books ~

Added 8,094 volumes to the collection. Circulated 259,129 books to 10,749 persons.

Pictures ~

Circulated 638 pictures and prints. Added 1,146 prints during the year, bringing the total collection to 11,240 items, many of which are 8 x 10 color prints of famous paintings.

Reference ~

Answered 10,589 reference questions. Added 371 volumes to the reference collection; added 2,160 pamphlets, 53 microcard titles, and 120 reels of microfilm. There are now over 11,000 sources of reference in this department.

We borrowed 18 volumes from other libraries for our patrons, and loaned four volumes to other libraries on interlibrary loan.

Record Collection ~

Fifteen albums and forty-five single records were added to this collection. There were 1,475 circulations. The collection now contains recordings of music, drama, dramatic readings and adaptations, and foreign language courses.

CONTINUED ON PAGE FOUR
~~~~~~~~~~~

STATISTICAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1951-1952

	MAIN	HYDE PARK	SEMINOLE	WEST TAMPA	YBOR
CATALOG REPORT
Books in Library first of year	50,933	13,799	11,825	8,525	5,647
Purchased	3,076	1,178	1,248	488	732
Gifts	379	35	39	18	13
TOTAL PURCHASES AND GIFTS	3,455	1,213	1,287	506	745
Transfers	142	3	-	1	-
Reinstated	22	2	26	2	2
TOTAL ADDED DURING THE YEAR	3,619	1,218	1,313	509	747
Worn out	1,749	588	230	75	229
Lost in circulation	351	54	42	22	65
Lost and Paid for	44	24	5	3	4
Transfers	65	51	-	39	5
TOTAL WITHDRAWN	2,209	717	277	139	303
Books in Library end of year	52,343	14,300	12,861	8,895	6,091
Catalog cards made	12,731	4,407	4,652	1,933	2,791
Books and magazines bound	487	220	173	40	70
Books mended	1,072	-	53	-	-
Periodicals subscribed for	116	17	13	6	11
Periodicals received free	61	1	-	-	-
Newspapers subscribed for	4	-	-	-	-
State & U. S. Documents paid for	42
State & U. S. Documents free	817
CIRCULATION REPORT
Books Loaned:
Adult — Fiction	44,680	27,918	22,839	4,266	4,275
Adult — Nonfiction	32,114	7,381	4,728	895	650
Adult — Periodicals	2,256	2,304	2,244	231	115
Adult — Pamphlets	1,368	34	10	5	-
Adult — Pictures	638	-	-	-	-
TOTAL ADULT BOOKS LOANED	81,056	37,637	29,821	5,397	5,040
Juvenile — Fiction	19,971	17,774	20,470	4,077	5,640
Juvenile — Nonfiction	6,476	4,038	5,697	1,899	2,780
Juvenile — Periodicals	413	225	95	-	151
Juvenile — Pamphlets	24	1	1		-
TOTAL JUVENILE BOOKS LOANED	26,884	22,038	26,263	5,976	8,571
TOTAL BOOKS LOANED	107,940	59,675	56,084	11,373	13,611
DIFFERENCE LAST REPORT	+ 10,529	+ 7,279	+ 2,581	+ 1,348	+ 1,214
REGISTRATION REPORT
Borrowers at end of year:
Men	1,744	312	250	74	91
Women	1,954	757	601	161	205
TOTAL ADULT BORROWERS	3,698	1,069	851	235	296
Boys	520	242	482	177	212
Girls	543	289	500	183	217
TOTAL JUVENILE BORROWERS	1,063	531	982	360	429
TOTAL REGISTRATION	4,761	1,600	1,833	595	725

EAST	WEST	GENERAL	TOTAL
2,654	2,004	20	95,407
313	213	118	7,366
11	17	-	512
324	230	118	7,878
16	-	-	162
-	-	-	54
340	230	118	8,094
86	33	-	2,990
79	27	-	640
-	-	1	81
1	1	-	162
166	61	1	3,873
2,828	2,173	137	99,628
1,216	825	574	29,129
29	1	-	1,020
134	-	-	1,259
8	9	-	180
-	-	-	62
2	1	-	7
			42
			817
1,870	587		106,435
775	342		46,885
224	135		7,509
-	-		1,417
-	-		638
2,869	1,064		162,884
2,203	2,241		72,376
1,047	869		22,806
87	66		1,037
-	-		26
3,337	3,176		96,245
6,206	4,240		259,129
- 742	+1,381		+ 23,590
34	18		2,523
83	45		3,806
117	63		6,329
322	137		2,092
370	226		2,328
692	363		4,420
809	426		10,749

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

1951 -- 1952

RECEIPTS
Cash on hand last report	$ 17,440.66
City tax distribution	80,068.01
Fines	3,221.80
Subscriptions	1,752.53
Lost Books	171.71
Total Receipts	$102,654.71

DISBURSEMENTS
Salaries	$ 54,224.35
Bond	10.00
Rent	1,750.67
Advertising	405.50
Postage, Telephone & Telegraph	588.25
Gas, Water, Electricity & Ice	2,684.42
Office Supplies & Bindery	4,380.25
Automobile Allowance	150.00
Clock Service	13.50
Automobile Expense	124.02
Laundry	10.09
Fuel	88.99
Janitor Supplies	198.45
Plant Foods	9.55
Magazines & Newspapers	2,398.85
Dues	20.00
Freight & Drayage	25.00
Maintenance of Buildings	691.24
Maintenance of Furniture	31.58
Repair of Equipment	125.72
Repair of Tools	2.44
Additions to Buildings	80.33
Additions to Furniture	2,317.45
Additions to Equipment	2,139.42
Additions to Tools	17.10
Books, etc.	18,008.39
Total Disbursements	$90,495.56
Unexpended Balance	12,159.15
	$102,654.71

Filmstrips ~

A library of filmstrips was started this year. Thirty-nine filmstrips circulated 94 times. This service is to be expanded in the next year.

Great Books ~

The Library sponsored a Great Books Discussion Group, with a membership of about 25. The purpose of this group is to read and discuss the books in the Great Books Course. The group is continuing with the second year readings in the current year.

Film Classics League ~

In cooperation with the General Extension Division of the University of Florida, the Library sponsored the Film Classics League of Tampa, with the purpose of bringing to the people of Tampa showings of foreign and American films of artistic merit. Three series of pictures were shown to a membership of 400. Since the same type picture has become available at the local theatres, the League is being discontinued.

Processes ~

Most of our procedures were revised during the year. Gaylord charging machines are used in circulation. Addressing machines and Keysort punched cards are used in our registration system. Punched card systems are also in use in the ordering of books and in the bookkeeping.

ARKANSAS LIBRARY COMMISSION
506½ Center Street
Little Rock, Arkansas.

January 1, 1953

DIRECTORY OF COUNTY AND REGIONAL LIBRARIES

LIBRARY	PLACE	LIBRARIAN	TAX SUPPORT M - ½ M
Ashley County	Hamburg	Mrs. Ann Veazey	½M
Clark County[1]	Arkadelphia	Mrs. Joseph Jackson	M
Cleburne-Independence Counties[1]	Batesville	Mrs. Terry Griffith	M
* Columbia-Lafayette Counties[2]	Magnolia	Miss Florene Jordan	M
Conway-Perry Counties[1]	Morrilton	Mr. E. H. Dahlke (Conway)	M
Craighead County[1]	Jonesboro	Miss Elizabeth Malone	M
Dallas County	Fordyce	Mrs. Graham Shannon	M
Faulkner-Van Buren Counties[3]	Conway	Mrs. Dula Reid
Fulton County	Salem	Mrs. Mabel Phillips	M
Garland County[1]	Hot Springs	Miss Evelyn Simpson	M
Grant County	Sheridan	Mrs. Clarice Johnson	M
Hempstead County[1]	Hope	Mrs. Hazel Prichard	M
Hot Spring County	Malvern	Mrs. F. R. Young (Malvern)	M
Jackson County	Newport	Mrs. Jessie Bach	M
* Jefferson County[2]	Pine Bluff	Mrs. Earle Spencer	M
Lawrence County[1]	Walnut Ridge	Miss Nadean Crockett	M
Logan County[3]	Booneville	Mrs. L. W. Yates	M
Mississippi County	Osceola	Miss Eula McDougal
North Arkansas Regional[1]	Harrison	Mrs. Georgiana Greeson
Ozarks Regional	Clarksville	Mrs. Jack Edens	M
Phillips County[1]	Helena	Miss Lucy Sanders	M
Poinsett County[1]	Harrisburg	Miss I. Jane Bradford
* Pulaski County[2]	Little Rock	Miss Mary Sue Shepherd	M
Randolph County[1]	Pocahontas	Miss Norah Martin	M
Sebastian County[1]	Greenwood	Miss Wilma Ingram	M
Sharp County[3]	Hardy	Miss Nina Turner	M
Southeast Arkansas Regional[3]	Monticello	Miss Elisabeth Huey	M
Southwest Arkansas Regional[1]	Nashville	Miss Mary T. Reid (Sevier) (Little River)	M ½M
Union County	El Dorado	Miss Lucille Slater	M
* Washington County	Fayetteville	Mrs. Hazel Deal	M
White County[1]	Searcy	Mrs. Inez Bishop
Woodruff County[1]	Augusta	Mrs. Dave Griffiths	M
Yell County	Danville	Mrs. Robbie Rowlett

1. Panel Truck — M - One mill tax
2. Bookmobile — ½M - ½ mill tax
3. Delivery Truck

* Outstanding service for Negro citizens.

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

RECEIVED
FEB 1

January 9, 1953

HAROLD J. SANDER
~~Miss Pearl R.~~ Hinesley, Librarian
Roanoke Public Library
722 Jefferson
Roanoke, Va.

Dear Miss Hinesley:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? yes although in practice they use their own branch.
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library? yes
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees? yes

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

The Virginia Library Association frequently meets in Roanoke. Last Fall there were quite a few Negroes in attendance. They came and were welcomed to general meetings and a dinner meeting.

Sincerely
Harold J. Sander
Director, Roanoke P.L.

Sent to cities other surveys showed having library service for Negroes from main library, plus all citiesof 20,000 or more population in Ala., Ark., Fla., Ga., La., Miss., NC, Okla., SC, Tenn. and Tex., plus all cities of 10,000 or morein Ky. and Va.

Total letters--172

Sent to state library associations in: Ala., Ark., Fla., Ga., Ky., La., Miss., NC, Okla., SC, TEnn., Tex and Va.; to state Negro library associations in Fla. and NC.

January 9, 1953

Mrs. Mildred G. Blattner, President
Virginia Library Association
1039 N. Irving St.
Arlington, Va.

Dear Mrs. Blattner:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering these questions about the situation in Virginia?

1. Are Negroes members of the State Library Association?

2. Please indicate those communities in which:
   a. Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries
   b. Negroes have free use of the main library
   c. There are Negroes on library boards or advisory committees.

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if you have any newspaper clippings or magazine articles describing library service for Negroes in Virginia, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

Sent to state agency concerned with state library service in: Ala., Ark., Fla., Ga., Ky., Va., La., Miss., NC, Okla., SC, Tenn., and Tex.

January 9, 1953

Miss Martha Parks, Librarian
Instructional Materials & Library Service
Tennessee Dept. of Education
Memorial Bldg.
Nashville, Tenn.

Dear Miss Parks:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people of the region.

Would you therefore be good enough to answer the following three questions about the situation in Tennessee?

Please indicate those communities in which:

(1) Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries.
(2) Negroes have free use of the main library.
(3) There are Negroes on library boards or advisory committees.

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if you have any newspaper clippings or magazine articles describing library service for Negroes in Tennessee, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report of a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

encl.

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

RECEIVED
JAN 15

January 9, 1953

Mrs. Lucille T. Dickerson, Librarian
Jones Memorial Public Library
Rivermont Ave.
Lynchburg, Va.

Dear Mrs. Dickerson:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? No
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library? No
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees? No

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Anna Holden
Research Assistant

Legal

1/14/53

AH: h This library is an endowed institution- the will of the donor stated encl. that this library was to serve at no charge the white population of the city of Lynchburg; so we have no facilities for the colored.

JONES MEMORIAL LIBRARY LYNCHBURG, VA.

Lucille T. Dickerson,
Librarian

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

January 9, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 16
Southern Regional Council

Miss Mabel Blackwell, Librarian
Gainesville Public Library
University Ave.
Gainesville, Fla.

Dear Miss Blackwell:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries?
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library?
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees?

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

1. We have no branch libraries
2. no
3. no

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.

ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

January 9, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 14
Southern Regional Council

Librarian
Lakeland Public Library
Lakeland, Fla.

Dear Madam:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? 1. They have their own branch (The only branch we have)
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library? 2. We serve Negroes in the rare instances when they apply for some special book or to do some special work.
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees? 3. We do not have a library board. We do not have an advisory committee.

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week. The items (newspaper clippings) may be too old to interest you. Are you interested in the early history of our service to Negroes? SBR

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

But they have their own very good collection, housed in the Branch building.

Jerma Bailey Ross
(Mrs. F. Perry Ross)
City Librarian
1/12/53

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

January 9, 1953

Mrs. Bessie Schuck, Librarian
Key West Public Library
319 Duval
Key West, Fla.

RECEIVED
JAN 16
Southern Regional Council

Dear Mrs. Schuck:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? none
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library? yes
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees? none

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

Key West Library is owned and operated by Womans Club. Negroes have a very good library in their high school and it is open to the public. They are not refused the use of ours but seldom ask it. Have no board, only a library chairman.

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE N.E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

January 9, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 15
Southern Regional Council

Miss Zella D. Adams, Librarian
Flagler Memorial Library
West Palm Beach, Fla.

Dear Miss Adams:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? They have their own branch with a negro librarian + page
No (2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library?
No (3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees?

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Anna Holden
Research Assistant

Edith Hogue
Librarian

AH: h
encl.

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

January 9, 1953

Miss Bertha Aldrich, Librarian
Miami Beach Public Library
2100 Collins Ave.
Miami Beach 39, Fla.

Dear Miss Aldrich:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries?
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library?
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees?

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation,

Sincerely,

Anna Holden

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

(OVER)

1-12-53

Dear Miss Holden:

Thank you for your letter of Jan. 9, 1953, and your interest in this vital problem. We beg to inform you that there are no negroes resident in Miami Beach. Those negroes desiring to use the Library, either for reference or circulation, are served entirely without prejudice.

Sincerely yours,

Bertha Aldrich

Bertha Aldrich
H.L.

Miami Beach Public Library
2100 Collins Avenue
Miami Beach 39, Florida

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

RECEIVED
JAN 15
Regional Council

January 9, 1953

Miss Pearl Sneed, Librarian
Jackson Carnegie Library
323 N. Congress
Jackson 38, Miss.

Dear Miss Sneed:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? (Colored branches)
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library? (Colored main library)
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees? No

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

(over)

The Jackson Public Library System includes - Central library, 2 Colored branches and one white. Books from time are sent in answer to special requests to the colored branch. All books are bought and processed centrally. The head of the negro service holds a master degree from University of Chicago. The two negro branches has about 7000 volumes, but as stated above the total collection is available.

Pearl Sneed, Librarian
323 North Congress

GERALDINE Le MAY
LIBRARIAN

MRS. R. WILLIS HEARD
CHAIRMAN BOARD OF MANAGERS

Savannah Public Library

SAVANNAH, GEORGIA

January 10, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 12
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

We have your letter of January 9, 1953 making inquiry about library service to Negroes in Savannah.

The Negro library, called the Carnegie Library, is entirely separate from the Savannah Public Library. Its building was presented by the Carnegie Corporation to the Negroes of Savannah and is not owned by the city. The appropriation for its upkeep is made by the city directly to the Board of Managers of the Carnegie Library. There is no administrative tie-up between the Carnegie Library and the Savannah Public Library, and consequently no joint service program at any of the libraries' service agencies.

Some years ago there was discussion of bringing the Carnegie Library into the Savannah Public Library system. It was retained as a separate administrative unit at the request of its own Board of Managers. This discussion took place before I came to Savannah as the librarian of the Public Library. It is possible that you may wish to get further details on this and other matters connected with the Carnegie Library from Miss Celeste Hatcher, the librarian. The address is 537 E. Henry Street.

Sincerely yours,

Geraldine Le May

Librarian

L-gc

Olivia Raney Library, Raleigh, N. C.

RALEIGH
JAN 1
530 PM
N. C.

THIS SIDE OF CARD IS FOR ADDRESS

JAN 12
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:
I am sending your inquiry of January 9 in regard to library service available to Negroes to Mrs. Mollie Lee, Librarian of the Richard B. Harrison Library. It is an excellent library for Negroes of Raleigh and Wake Co. She will be able to give you a much better report that I could possible give to you.

Sincerely yours,
(Miss) Clyde Smith, Librarian
Olivia Raney Library, Raleigh

Carnegie Library
Bessemer, Ala.
Jan. 12, 1953

Miss Anna Holden,
Southern Regional Council,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Miss Holden:

In answer to your letter of the 9th, the negroes of Bessemer have a library of their own with a board composed entirely of members of their own race. A member of the Carnegie Library Board acts in an advisory capacity, at their request.

This library is a deposit station of the Jefferson County Public Library, and also receives an appropriation from the City of Bessemer. Books are purchased through this library (Carnegie Library) to take advantage of a larger discount, from order lists submitted by the librarian and board of the Bessemer Negro Public Library. The Carnegie Library staff catalogs the books before sending on to them.

The answer to question 2 and 3 is in the negative.

Very truly yours,

Vera W. Latham Librarian

Portsmouth Public Library

PORTSMOUTH, VIRGINIA

MISS HELEN KIRKPATRICK
LIBRARIAN

January 12, 1953

Miss Ann Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to your inquiry of January 9th Negroes do not use our library (which has no branches) as there is a separate Negro library here, supported by city funds but entirely independent of us.

Sincerely yours,

Helen Kirkpatrick

Helen Kirkpatrick
Librarian

HK:ig

CITY OF GREENSBORO

NORTH CAROLINA

GREENSBORO PUBLIC LIBRARY

OFFICE OF
THE LIBRARIAN

January 12, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 13
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia.

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to the three questions in your letter of January 9, I should like to tell you first that Greensboro and Guilford County maintain two entirely distinct libraries for whites and Negroes. Appropriations from County, City and State Aid fund are divided in proportion to the population .

Students in the several Negro colleges and white colleges use the reference facilities of the public library when necessary. When students wish to borrow books for home use, they bring notes from college librarians stating that requested books are not available in their college libraries.

The trustees of the Carnegie Negro Library are appointed from their race by the City Council in the same way in which trustees of the Greensboro Public Library and all other City governing boards are appointed.

Bookmobiles serving schools and individuals are operated throughout the County by both libraries. Cordial relations exist between the two staffs.

If you have further questions, I shall be glad to try to answer them.

Sincerely yours,

Olivia B. Burwell

Olivia B. Burwell
Librarian

OBB/gf

GASTON COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

GASTONIA, NORTH CAROLINA

January 13, 1953

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to your letter of January 9 requesting information concerning library service available to Negroes in our county:

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries?
We have only one branch library in Gastonia-and it is the Negro Branch. This branch is open to any person in the county- but in addition all small towns, rural areas, and rural schools are served by the bookmobile. Service by bookmobile is to both white and Negro- schools, private homes, community centers, stops where service is direct to individuals, etc. One bookmobile is used and service is every two weeks.

(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library?

The answer to this must be qualified- Yes, to all resources of books , periodicals, audio-visual materials, reference facilities, etc. A No to free use of the main reading room- however, a conference room is made available to anyone wishing to work within the library and not withdraw the materials.

(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees?

There is not a Negro member on the county library board. There is a local Negro Library Board for the Negro Branch. This board or committee works with the county library board.

There is a trained Negro Librarian in charge of Negro branch library.

Very truly yours,

Barbara E. Heafner

(Mrs.) Barbara E. Heafner
Librarian

PUBLIC LIBRARY

of Charlotte and Mecklenburg County

310 NORTH TRYON STREET, CHARLOTTE 2, N. C.

January 13, 1953

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

About the only answer we can give to the questions you asked about our library is that day to day change is evident.

In 1903, the Legislature of North Carolina established our Library as a body corporate. One phrase in the enactment stated in substance that there should be one library for white people and one library for colored people. As a result, I have read that the library built for colored people was the first of its kind in the South and perhaps the first library to give free public service to colored people.

The above mentioned act of the Legislature still stands and we do not think it is wise to seek to have the act amended.

About ten years ago, we opened a film service at the Main Library and we began lending films from the Main Library to both Negroes and Whites. We have had no difficulty.

We are on the crest of a library buildings construction program. We will build a new Main Library and four new branch libraries in the City. Construction will begin on the branches this year, but the new Main will not be completed until 1955 or 1956. I cannot be certain, but it is my sincere belief due to the "change" I mentioned in my first paragraph that all segregated services will be ended by the time we move into the new buildings.

At present every book and film available in our library system is available to everybody, but Negroes have not had free use of the Main Library.

There are no Negroes on the Board of Trustees of the Library. We have no real branches in the City at present except the building constructed for Negro library service in 1905.

I am a midwesterner myself, but I have been working in Southern libraries for twenty years. I have watched the changes coming rapidly, and in Charlotte the change has been unusually rapid in recent years. I do not wish to be quoted, but it is my judgment that segregation in Charlotte won't last much longer. Any practice as deeply rooted as segregation cannot be changed over night.

Between now and 1955 or 1956, our library service will be in such a state of flux that few actions need be taken. We must vacate our Main Library going into storage while a new Main Library is being constructed on the same site. We hope to get branches into operation during this period, but by prediction is that segregation will end in library services when we move into the new buildings.

Very truly yours,

Hoyt R. Galvin

Hoyt R. Galvin
Director

SUFFOLK WOMANS CLUB PUBLIC LIBRARY
SUFFOLK, VA.
223 Bank Street

January 15, 1952

RECEIVED
JAN 19
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to your letter of January 9, please, let me say the negro schools have books and libraries in them comparable to the ones in the white schools. This applies to the Nansemond (negro) County schools also.

One specific school I do T. Foster (Negro - Nansemond County) which we have serviced a lot for the past ten years by giving them reference books, both fiction, and non-fiction have a good library.

Whenever a negro teacher has called on us for any service

SUFFOLK WOMANS CLUB PUBLIC LIBRARY
SUFFOLK, VA.

we have given them just the same as white teachers. This source has been tapped or used many times.

Hoping I have given you the information you want and with best wishes. I am

Sincerely yours
Harriet W. Hathorn
Librarian

MARION A. WRIGHT, LINVILLE FALLS
PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON B. HANCOCK, RICHMOND
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALFRED MYNDERS, CHATTANOOGA
VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, NEW ORLEANS
VICE-PRESIDENT
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE-DIRECTOR
KATHERINE STONEY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION
MRS. M. E. TILLY
IN CHARGE OF WOMEN'S WORK

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

January 9, 1953

Mrs. Harriet W. Hethorn, Librarian
Woman's Club Public Library
223 Bank
Suffolk, Va.

Dear Mrs. Hethorn:

We are attempting to get an accurate picture of library service available to Negroes in the South at the present time. This is part of a larger effort to bring more and better books to all people in our region.

Would you, therefore, be good enough to help us out by answering three questions about the situation in your city?

(1) Do Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries? We have no branch libraries
(2) Do Negroes have free use of the main library? ~~Yes~~ in reference to money
(3) Are there any Negroes on your library board or advisory committees? No

Any additional comment that you find time to give will be greatly appreciated. Also, if any newspaper clippings or magazine articles on your library system deal with service to Negroes, please let us borrow same for one week.

A report on a similar survey is enclosed.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

AH: h
encl.

Meridian PUBLIC LIBRARY

SERVING MERIDIAN AND LAUDERDALE COUNTY

JEANNE D. BROACH
LIBRARIAN

Meridian, Mississippi
January 17, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 21
REGIS
South

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council
Room 342
63 Auburn Avenue
North Atlanta 3, Georgia

My dear Miss Holden:

Below are the answers to the three questions you asked in your letter of January 9, 1953:

1. Meridian has only one branch library - one exclusively for the use of the Negroes.

2. Negroes do not have free use of the main library, but any book in the general collection is available to them on request from their branch library.

3. No Negroes are on the governing library board, but there is an advisory committee for the Negro branch which is composed entirely of Negroes.

I believe that I have no particular comment to make on our library service to Negroes except to say that we are well aware of the fact that for many years it was unforgivably sub-standard; we are, however, conscious of this fact and are doing all that we can to bring the Negro library service up to an acceptable standard.

Yours truly,

Jeanne D. Broach

Jeanne D. Broach

jdb/rl

CARNEGIE CITY LIBRARY,
318 North 13th Street,
FORT SMITH, ARKANSAS.

Carnegie City Library

Fort Smith, Arkansas

January 19, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 23
Southern Regional Council

Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Reginal Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3,Georgia

Dear Madam:

In reply to your letter to Mr. Hillard concerning the library service situation for Negroes in Fort Smith may I say:

(1) We have only one branch library in Fort Smith and it is the Negro branch, located in the Lincoln High School library.

(2) Negroes are served here at the Main library also. Any materials not available at the branch are loaned from here upon request.

(3) There are no negrees on our library Board. We have no clippings which deal into our service.

I hope I have been helpful.

Sincerely,

Gladys L. Krone

Gladys L. Krone
Librarian

January 20, 1953

Mrs. Emily Miller Danton, Director
Birmingham Public Library
Birmingham 3, Ala.

Dear Mrs. Danton:

Thank you for your prompt response to our recent questionnaire concerning library service for Negroes and for your interest in this project.

When a report on the findings is available we shall certainly send you a copy. We are attempting to cover more cities than the number you mentioned in connection with your own study, but as you no doubt noted, our questions are less detailed.

Our files list you as "Mrs. Emily M. Danton."

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

I checked her name in our files. It is listed correctly.

E.C.

BIRMINGHAM PUBLIC LIBRARY

MRS. EMILY MILLER DANTON, Director BIRMINGHAM 3, ALABAMA

January 13, 1953

RECEIVED JAN 14

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

Your inquiry interests me very much because in February 1948 I conducted a similar one among Southern cities and the results were published in the Library Journal. Recently I was asked for permission to reprint those findings somewhere, but I refused because 1) they are now out of date, and 2) they were somewhat garbled by the Journal in its attempt to condense them. I said I would repeat my inquiry as soon as I had time, and it was in my mind only yesterday to get out a simple questionnaire. Now it may be unneccessary, if you will pass on to me your findings in regard to libraries.

These were the questions I asked: 1. Does your Library give service to Negroes? On same basis as to whites, or segregated? 2. Are there Negroes on your staff? Do they participate in staff meetings? 3. If you have segregated service, are Negroes ever permitted to use your Central Library, and under what circumstances? 4. Are they ever invited to visit exhibits and special displays in the Central Library? I received replies to these questions from 21 cities, all of course in the South. The comments were interesting.

Now to reply to your questions as regards Birmingham:

(1) We have two branch libraries for Negroes, staffed entirely by Negroes, and they do not use other library facilities, except on rare occasions when one comes here (by permission through a branch, usually) to consult a microfilm or some reference work not otherwise accessible. Ordinarily we send a book needed to the nearer Negro Branch, when they have no copy of their own.

(2) Answered by No. 1

(3) It seems almost unnecessary to say that the answer here is negative. [Birmingham is perhaps the chief bulwark of segregation and will be the last city to abandon it, unless there is a drastic change at the City Hall.] There is certainly a growing feeling among the citizens favoring wider opportunities for Negroes, but legislation will have to be changed, and the temper of the City administration, before it can make itself felt. There is a bi-racial committee in the Jefferson County Council of Coordinating Forces, through which some slow progress is being made. They are working now for the addition of Negroes to the police force.

The above paragraph is of course not for publication. As a city official I cannot criticize the city administration in print. In fairness I should add that the Commissioners really do try to provide "equal service" to Negroes. We have plans for a large central Negro Library, and we are spending as much for books in our two present Negro branches as in the white branches of comparable size and circulation. Physical facilities are not as good, which fact is admitted and will in time be changed.

An attempt was made several years ago to admit Negroes to our state library association, but it failed under rather painful circumstances. The chief barrier, of course, is the convention hotel and the fact that Negroes could not join in the luncheons and the banquet. Some members honestly feel that Negro librarians prefer to remain outside, rather than subject themselves to embarrassment at conventions.

Sincerely yours,

Emily M. Danton

Director

EMD/jm

P.S. Your office has a way of dropping my last name and addressing me as Mrs. Miller. It is not important but perhaps I am so entered on your books.

Green copy

January 20, 1953

Mr. William S. Frieze, Librarian
Tampa Public Library
Tampa 2, Fla.

Dear Mr. Frieze:

Thank you for your prompt response to our recent questionnaire concerning library service available to Negroes.

We appreciate your interest in our survey and will be happy to send you a copy when the report is available.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

TAMPA PUBLIC LIBRARY
TAMPA 2, FLORIDA

WILLIAM S. FRIEZE, LIBRARIAN

15 January 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 19

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to your questionnaire concerning the library service to Negroes, the answer to all three questions is a qualified NO.

Negroes do not have free use of all neighborhood branches, nor do they have free use of the main library; we do not now have Negroes on the library board.

We have two branches in the city for Negroes. One of these branches, East Branch, is being built up with a general collection and a good reference collection. The activity of the other branch is mostly in children's work and circulation. [There is much to be done to get either branch up to any standard. There is much to be done but there has been a change in attitude within the past seven years with the result that the service is improving.] All books, circulating and reference, may be loaned to East Branch from the main library for the period in which they are needed.

I would appreciate receiving a copy of the results of this study.

Sincerely yours,

W. S. Frieze

Librarian

MIAMI PUBLIC LIBRARY
1 BISCAYNE BOULEVARD
MIAMI 32, FLORIDA

RECEIVED
MAR 5
Southern Regional Council

January 21, 1953

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.,
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

Mrs. Parsons has retired and Dr. Frank B. Sessa is our director. Mrs. Anne B. McCreary, the assistant director, asked me to answer your letter.

Negroes have free access to the main library since we moved into the big new Miami Memorial Public Library building (our new main library). There has been only one mention of it (it was mentioned in one of our Columnist articles) in the newspapers. As you know, Miami is very southern in some ways, and it was felt that the less publicity given to this extension of service the less likely we were to have repercussions. It has worked out just that way. Negroes use the library freely, children's room, as well as the adult department. Negroes also attend programs.

There is a special Negro branch which is one the border of a white district. The Negro librarian of this branch says that white people do use this library. I did a special story on this branch recently for the Negro newspaper because the librarian feels that she is losing patrons to the main library.

There are no Negroes on the Library Board and no advisory committees of Negroes. You might be interested in the Negro library in Ft. Lauderdale. Six years ago they had no service for Negroes in the city, even though there are many educated people in the community. At that time, we moved down from Indiana, and met the sister of a member of our Evansville Inter-Racial Committee. To make a long story short, several Negroes of Ft. Lauderdale, my mother and father and I got together, and formed a Library Committee, wrote appeals for books (our most recent gift was two boxes of books from Denmark). I cataloged them simply and trained a high school girl to serve the public. The Committee has changed and grown since its inception. The city has over a period of three years given first, shelves, then a little money for books, then little money for books, supplies and part-time librarian (high school girl). The city is now actively interested and is planning to build a library in the near future.

MIAMI PUBLIC LIBRARY
1 BISCAYNE BOULEVARD
MIAMI 32, FLORIDA

The story of the inter-racial board, and the development of this library is a very interesting story. If you like, I can give you more details.

If there are further questions that I can answer, please ask me.

Sincerely,

Helga H. Eason

Mrs. Helga H. Eason
Librarian, Adult Education

I'm sorry that this seems to have been mislaid. Is it too late to use.

HE

HHE:kaw
Enc. 1

State Department of Education
ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

M. D. COLLINS
STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVICE
STATE CATALOG SERVICE
LIBRARY EXTENSION SERVICE OFFICES AT 92 MITCHELL ST., S. W.

January 21, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 22
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

Several librarians whom I have visited in the past few days have told me that they have received a letter from you asking for information about library service to Negroes. Inasmuch as our latest full check on this service was made last year, I am sure that the information which you will get directly from the librarians will be more up-to-date than that which we now have.

of Choice

However, in reply to your recent inquiry sent to Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, I should like to point up several significant developments in the over-all state library program affecting this service.

State aid funds for library materials are allocated to counties on the basis of the total number of state paid teachers in each county. These funds are granted only for county or multi-county programs. Municipal or club libraries cannot qualify for the funds unless they are participating units of county-wide or regional service.

We have had a consultant on Negro library service on our staff for the past three years. This staff member is a graduate librarian and works under the supervision of our two chief library consultants. She is available for advisory and consultative service to both school and public libraries.

We maintain a travelling collection of library materials at the state level from which large loans of books are made to Negro schools and public libraries rendering service to Negroes.

There are now four Negro library bookmobiles in operation in the state which travel out of four of our regional library headquarters giving service to Negroes in ten counties. The majority of our regional libraries give library service to Negroes through either bookmobile service, branch libraries or deposits in schools and communities. Five of the regions have full-time Negro library assistants on their staffs. In two of these regions the Negro librarians qualify for a state salary. Regions are entitled to only one state salary for each county in the region. The regions not now giving library service to Negroes have plans for extending the service to all the people as rapidly as local funds and staff are available.

It will interest you to know that seven libraries in the state that give library service to Negroes have been included in the state-wide American Heritage discussion groups. We provided a two-day training program with all expenses paid for these seven Negro librarians and eight Negro lay leaders. This project was made possible through a grant to the State Department of Education from the Fund for Adult Education.

I trust that this information will be helpful to you in your study.

Sincerely yours,

Lucile Nix

Lucile Nix
Chief Library Consultant

LN:nb

January 22, 1953

Miss Dorothy Dodd
State Librarian
State Library Board
Tallahassee, Fla.

Dear Miss Dodd:

Thank you very much for your prompt reply to our recent request for information regarding public library service to Negroes in Florida.

When the findings of our survey are available in report form we shall be glad to send you a copy.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

DOROTHY DODD
STATE LIBRARIAN

ZELLA D. ADAMS
DIRECTOR OF LIBRARY EXTENSION

STATE OF FLORIDA
STATE LIBRARY BOARD

TALLAHASSEE

January 14, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 15
Southern Regional Council

W. H. ROGERS
CHAIRMAN
TALLAHASSEE
R. W. PATRICK
GAINESVILLE
R. KAY PORTER
PERRY

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Room 432, Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

I am replying to your letters of January 9, addressed to this office and to Mr. Paul A. Noon, the latter having been referred to us.

Negroes are not members of the Florida Library Association. Their separate association is the Florida State Library Association.

The following towns have branch libraries for Negroes: Bartow, Clearwater, Jacksonville, Lakeland, Miami, Orlando, Pensacola, St. Petersburg, Tampa and West Palm Beach.

Negroes have free use of the main libraries in Miami and Miami Beach.

We have no information concerning Negroes on library boards or advisory committees.

We have no clippings or articles describing library service for Negroes in Florida.

Sincerely yours,

Dorothy Dodd

Dorothy Dodd
State Librarian

DD/mn

January 22, 1953

Miss Martha Couty
Reference Librarian
State Library Commission
State Office Building
Jackson, Miss.

Dear Miss Couty:

Thank you very much for your prompt and complete reply to our recent request for information regarding public library service to Negroes in Mississippi.

When the findings of our survey are available in report form we shall be happy to send you a copy.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

Mississippi

State Library Commission

MRS. EUNICE ELEY
SECRETARY

STATE OFFICE BUILDING
PHONE 4-7831

Jackson

January 19, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 21
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In answer to your questions about library service to Negroes in Mississippi (1) Negroes do not have free use of the white branch libraries, but the libraries listed below have separate Negro branches:

Evans Memorial Library, Aberdeen
Northeast Regional library, Corinth
Meridian Public Library, Meridian
Greenwood LeFlore Public Library, Greenwood
Wm. A. Percy Memorial Library, Greenville
Gulfport-Harrison County Library, Gulfport
Hattiesburg Public Library, Hattiesburg
Pascagoula City Library, Pascagoula
Jackson Public Library, Jackson (2 branches)
Lincoln County Library, Brookhaven
Clarksdale Public Library, Clarksdale
First Regional Library, Hernando

(2) So far as we know, Negroes do not have free use of the main library in any town, and (3) the libraries which have Negro branches have Negroes serving on advisory committees.

The Lee County Library at Tupelo serves the Negro schools by bookmobile, as does the Clarksdale Public Library, and the Lincoln County Library. The First Regional Library has branches for Negroes in each of the four counties it serves.

The Mississippi Library Commission's book collection is available, and there is a special fund appropriated by the legislature ($25,000 for this biennium) to buy books for the use of Negroes.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Eunice Eley, Director
by

Martha Couty

Martha Couty
Reference Librarian

The Public Library
CITY OF ST. PETERSBURG, FLORIDA
"The Sunshine City" COUNCIL-MANAGER GOVERNMENT

HILDA M. GLASER
Librarian

January 24, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 26
Council

Miss Anna Holden:
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Ave. N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to your letter of January 9th, I can give you the following information on our service to Negroes. We have a branch library for them. It is located in a section of town where most of the residents are colored people. However, they are free to use the main library and borrow any material they need if it is not to be found at the James Weldon Johnson Branch.

We have books for all ages, but most of the users of the library are young children. We have special programs for them during the summer and at Christmas time.

Mrs. Helen Edwards, the librarian, is a negro. She has had little professional training, but is very efficient and dependable. This fall, she participated in classes we had for new employees and clerical help. When she has an opportunity, she is going to take a city civil service examination in order to increase her salary and qualify her to join the pension system.

We do not have a library board. We are a department of the city and directly under the city manager.

Very sincerely,
Mary Workizer
Mary Workizer, Acting librarian

ALABAMA LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

FOUNDED 1904

January 27, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 28
Southern R

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council
Room 432, 63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

I am forwarding your letter to Mrs. Lois R. Green, Director, Public Library Service Division, Montgomery, Alabama. Mrs. Green, if she has the information requested in the second question, will send it to you.

In reply to the first question, Negroes are not members of the Alabama Library Association.

Yours very truly,

Sybil Baird

Sybil Baird, President

copy to:

Lois Green

Little Rock Public Library

700 Louisiana Street

Little Rock, Arkansas

Board of Trustees

J. N. HEISKELL
RABBI IRA E. SANDERS
MRS. EDWARD CORNISH
MRS. D. D. TERRY
SHIELDS M. GOODWIN

MRS. CATHARINE T. CHEW
Librarian

MRS. MARGARET BURKHEAD
Executive Secretary

January 28, 1953

RECEIVED
JAN 30
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

The Little Rock Public Library system consists of a main library building and one branch library which gives service to Negroes only.

The Main Library of Little Rock was opened on January 14, 1951 to Negroes over sixteen and to students beginning with the seventh grade. The Children's Department is not open because it is already overcrowded and the branch library has a very good collection of children's books. There are no Negroes on the Little Rock Library Board and there is not an organized advisory committee of Negroes. However, when the board decided to give service to Negroes at the main library, a meeting was held with representative Negroes in the community to discuss the change in policy, and they were helpful in determining changes.

Sincerely yours,

Catharine T. Chew

Mrs. Catharine T. Chew
Librarian

THE ALBERTSON PUBLIC LIBRARY
CLARA E. WENDEL, LIBRARIAN
Orlando, Florida

January 30, 1953

RECEIVED
FEB 1
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 436
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In answer to your letter of January 9:

Improvement

The Negroes of Orlando have free use of one branch library which is centrally located in the section of town most populated by Negroes. The city this year made half of the necessary appropriation for the construction of a new building for this branch and we have every reason to expect the additional half next year.

The Negroes have access to the main library for use of any reference books not provided in the Negro branch. This fact is not, however, advertised nor are the Negroes encouraged to exercise that privilege. We feel that agitation on this matter would be to the disadvantage of the Negroes of our city at this time.

There are no Negroes on our library board, however there is an all Negro Friends of the Library Organization which concerns itself with the promotion of increased facilities for the Negro branch and with the greater use of that branch. This organization constitutes an advisory committee.

Thank you for your inquiry, and if we can supply you with further information we shall be glad to do so.

Sincerely yours,

Winston R. Henderson

Winston R. Henderson
Assistant Director

WRH:mmm

NORTH CAROLINA LIBRARY COMMISSION

RALEIGH

TRUSTEES

EX-OFFICIO:
CARRIE BROUGHTON, CHAIRMAN
CHARLES F. CARROLL
APPOINTED BY N.C.L.A.:
MRS. FORD S. WORTHY, WASHINGTON
SPENCER MURPHY, SALISBURY
APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR
MRS. T. LENOIR GWYN, WAYNESVILLE

ELIZABETH HOUSE
SECRETARY AND DIRECTOR

February 2, 1953

RECEIVED
FEB 4
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E., Room 432
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In reply to your letter of January 9, 1953, we are sending you a copy of our statistical report for 1951-52 which gives information on questions 1 and 2.

The answer to question No. 3 is as follows:

1. Member on library board
   Carnegie Public, Winston-Salem (Forsyth County)

2. Negro library board with 2 white members
   West Street Public, New Bern (Craven County)

3. Independent Negro library boards
   Richard B. Harrison, Raleigh (Wake County)
   Brown-Carver, Edenton (Chowan County)
   George Washington Carver, Greenville (Pitt County)
   Wilmington Colored, Wilmington (New Hanover County)
   I. B. Turner, Washington
   Martin County Negro, Williamston
   Carnegie Negro, Greensboro (Guilford County)
   Wilson County Negro, Wilson
   Warren County Community Center, Warrenton
   Hertford County Colored Public, Winton
   Stanford L. Warren Public, Durham (Durham County)

We do not subscribe to a clipping service, consequently our newspaper information on North Carolina libraries is limited. Enclosed is a copy of our Biennial Report for 1950-52.

Sincerely yours,

Elizabeth House

Elizabeth House
Secretary and Director

EH:lg
Enclosures

CUMBERLAND COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

FAYETTEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

February 6, 1953

RECEIVED
FEB 9
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

This letter is in reply to your questionaire of January 9th.

(1) There is a branch of this Library exclusively for Negroes. In addition, there are ~~many~~ stops at many Negro homes on our regular bookmobile route, and also at 18 Negro schools.

(2) Books are loaned to Negroes upon requests from the Main Library, but ~~these~~ requests are few, coming chiefly from faculty members at the Fayetteville State Teachers College. Negroes do not use the Main Library's reading room.

(3) There are no Negroes on the Library Board.

Yours sincerely,

Dorothy E Shue

Mrs. Dorothy E. Shue
Librarian

PENSACOLA FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY

PENSACOLA, FLORIDA

LIBRARY BOARD

C. A. WEIS
J. H. SHERRILL
S. P. LEVY
J. H. WORKMAN
J. E. D. YONGE

February 6, 1953

LIBRARIAN
LUCIA M. TRYON

RECEIVED
FEB 10
S.R.C.
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In answer to the three questions you asked these are our answers.

(1) We have only one branch library and it is the Negro branch.

(2) As far as possible we serve Negro borrowers when they come to the main library. Their membership, however, is in the branch.

(3) There are no Negroes on the library board, but there is a Negro advisory board for the branch.

Our Negro branch library is a new building, just opened in August, 1952. It is much used by the high school and junior college students and younger students. Adults seem to be somewhat slow about coming to borrow books. Just last week announcement was made of a gift to the branch of $500. Previously a hundred dollar check was given to buy a record player for use in the story hours each week. There is much interest and many gifts of books and magazines have been received. An interesting fact is that the adult books in circulation are mostly non-fiction rather than fiction. In purchases now, therefore, we are concentrating on non-fiction in all fields.

I hope this information will be of some help to you in your survey.

Very truly yours,

Lucia M. Tryon

Lucia M. Tryon
Librarian

C&P Bank Gives $500 to Library

Citizens and Peoples National Bank of Pensacola surprised the Negro branch library, the Alice Williams Library, with a gift of $500 Tuesday.

Given to the city library board but earmarked for the new branch, the money was accompanied by a letter from G. Wright Reese, president, who said that the money was to be used for permanent improvements or anything the board of trustees might deem wise.

Pine Bluff Public Library

Pine Bluff, Arkansas

Mrs. Earle Spencer, Librarian

February 9, 1953

RECEIVED
FEB 12
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

I hope this reply to your inquiry of January 9 is not too belated to be of value in your survey.

We feel that library service to Negroes in Pine Bluff and Jefferson County, Arkansas is more adequate and efficient today than ever before.

The new Pullen Street Branch has been in operation since December 19, 1950. Miss Thelma Gipson, graduate librarian of the University of Illinois, is in charge, with two assistants.

The book stock now numbers 8,458 volumes and will, no doubt, reach the 10,000th mark by the end of 1953, which is a normal growth.

Negro residents of the city and county receive service from the branch, while the 16 Negro county schools are serviced each month by bookmobile.

The Main library and the Branch library are on an inter-library loan basis, which is of assistance to both libraries.

The members of the Negro board are appointed by the Mayor and the County Judge - and meet with the members of the Main library board when such a combined meeting is so desired.

Under separate cover I am mailing to you a printed program used on our formal opening day.

The picture of the Branch library does not adequately illustrate its present attractiveness now, that the grounds are improved and awnings are installed. An additional brick building now stands at the rear of the library in which the bookmobile is stored.

I should be glad to have you return the program to me at your convenience.

4-30-53

Sincerely yours,

Ellice B. Spencer

Mrs. Earle Spencer, Librarian

EBS:mw

ATLANTA PUBLIC LIBRARY

JOHN C. SETTELMAYER
DIRECTOR

ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

February 11, 1953

RECEIVED
FEB 12
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E., Room 432
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

I sincerely regret the delay in replying to your inquiry of January 9, 1953, regarding the public library service picture to Negroes in Atlanta and Fulton County. However, because of illness throughout our library system the delay has been unavoidable.

The Atlanta Public Library operates three branches exclusively for the use of the Negroes of this area. In addition, we have arrangements whereby if a Negro goes to one of their branches and does not find the information he requires, a call is put into our white library agencies and material is sent to the Negro library immediately. In effect then, all the resources of the Atlanta Public Library are available to the Negroes of this area.

Good under that system LAB

The Negroes are allowed to use only their three branches and do not have physical access to the main library or the white agencies.

Within the last year we organized a Friends of the Library group among the Negroes, and this group serves as an unofficial library board for the Negro library service and also serves as an advisory group to the Board of Trustees of the Atlanta Public Library in matters dealing with service to the Negroes. This group has been instrumental in bringing to the attention of the Negroes of our community the library service available, and we feel that the increase in use in the year 1952 over that of 1951 was due in large measure to their efforts.

In our library system we have a separate department for service to Negroes which is headed by Mrs. A. A. McPheeters, who also serves as the Librarian of our new West Hunter Branch Library. I am asking Mrs. McPheeters to send to you the newspaper clippings which you requested in your letter for use for one week. Mrs. McPheeters, as have other members of our staff, has been very active in promoting the Negro libraries as centers of community activities. For example, we have started at our West Hunter Branch a discussion group patterned after the American Heritage principle.

If you should desire any additional information, please do not hesitate to call on us.

Sincerely yours,

JCS:mm

FORM 12-3

West Hunter Branch

ATLANTA PUBLIC LIBRARY

February 13, 1953

JOHN C. SETTELMAYER
DIRECTOR

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Dear Miss Holden,

I think the reprints which I am sending you will give an overview of the type of service which we have attempted in the Auburn, West Hunter and University Homes Branches. The rest of the material will serve as examples of some of the many activities we do to stimulate and enhance the services of the branches.

If I can be of further help kindly let me know, and when your findings are complete and ready for publication, I would like a copy.

Yours truly,
Annie L. McPheeters
(Mrs.) A.A. McPheeters

P.S. I might add that all activities in the Negro branches are conceived, planned and executed by the staff in these branches.

· AUGUSTA · · LIBRARY · of the Young Men's Library Association
540 TELFAIR STREET
AUGUSTA, GEORGIA
Telephone 2-4202

February 16, 1953

RECEIVED
FEB 17
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

I am sorry that I have been so slow in replying to your letter of January 9.

I hope that the following information on your questions will be useful to you and that it will not arrive too late.

(1) We have only 1 library branch, which we began to operate January 1952. It is a Negro Brandh, called The Wallace Branch. Our January report for this year showed an increase in circulation at that Branch from 653 in January 1952 to 1112 in January 1953. A remarkable increase, we think. It must be due in large part to the many new books which we have been able to locate there. They seem pleased with the improvements which we have been able to make.

(2) No, Negroes don't have free use of the main library. However, they can use the Reference collection here. If they want any of our other books in main collection, they can use them by having Wallace Branch borrow them for us.

(3) Our Library Board membership is set by law of several years ago. However, we do have several special non-voting members who represent special interests, such as the other 2 counties in our region. As one of the special members, the former president of the Colored library is invited to meetings of the Board. He has attended the past two months.

not really

Sincerely yours,

Jean D. Cochran

Jean D. Cochran
Director

MAY MEMORIAL LIBRARY

BURLINGTON, N. C.

February 23, 1953

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Augurn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dar Miss Holden:

In answer to you inquiry about the use of our libraries by the Negroes:

1. They use the branch libraries as much as the whites

2. They have access to the main library on the same basis as the whites

3. We do not have any Negro member of the library board and we do not have advisory committees

Since the middle forties this library has been open to the Negroes on the same basis as the whites. A resolution of the Board of Trustees set this as a policy. I can truthfully say that they have had this service in actuality as well as in the letter of the law during the past four years.

One of the branches passed a similar resolution in the past year. However, the staff of this library is "not encouraging" to the use of the library by the Negroes.

Our Bookmobile serves the Negroes and the whites on the same routes, with the same staff and the same books and has done so for many more years than the library has been open to them.

Sincerely yours

Evelyn L. Parks

Evelyn L. Parks
Librarian

NORFOLK PUBLIC LIBRARY
NORFOLK, VIRGINIA
ARTHUR M. KIRKBY, LIBRARIAN

March 2, 1953

RECEIVED
MAR 4
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

In response to your query about the Negro privileges in our Library, I am glad to say that Negroes have free use of neighborhood branch libraries and also the Main Library. We do not have any Negroes on our Library Board.

Yours truly,

Arthur M. Kirkby

Arthur M. Kirkby
Librarian

AMK:w

ARKANSAS LIBRARY COMMISSION
506½ CENTER STREET
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

RECEIVED
MAR 18
Southern Regional Council

March 16, 1953

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.,
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia.

Dear Miss Holden:

Miss Irene Mason has resigned her position as executive secretary and librarian at the Arkansas Library Commission. Prior to her resignation she had been on a year's leave of absence to do special library work for the United States Department of State in Bangkok, Thailand. She is planning to accept a second foreign appointment. While she awaits this appointment she is at her home 2813 East Michigan Avenue, Indianapolis 1, Indiana. Since the resignation of Miss Mason, I have been appointed executive secretary and librarian.

Miss Mary Sue Shepherd, Librarian, Pulaski County Library, Little Rock, Arkansas, is answering your questionnaire.

Separately I am sending you the directory of county and regional libraries, city and community libraries and a copy of the July 1952, issue of Arkansas Libraries.

Sincerely yours,

Frances Potter Neal

Mrs. Karl Neal
Executive Secretary and Librarian

FN:vg

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY
Jefferson City, Missouri

Career Conference

May 8, 1953

Dr. L. D. Reddick, Chief
Trevor Arnett Library
Atlanta University
273 Chestnut Street, S. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Reddick:

As you suggested, there is no study determining the extent of usage of public libraries by Negroes in Missouri, but there are probably some things that I can tell you which will be helpful.

According to a study now in progress, with Dr. Lowell A. Martin of Columbia as consultant, there are 985,317 Missourians with no library service at all. Approximately 1,025,140 receive limited library service, while 1,944,322 receive library service of considerable variety. There are 76 counties out of a total of 114 which lack county-wide library service. There are four regional units serving two or more counties. According to state law, no county library may discriminate and receive state aid. Most of the discrimination exists in the small city and town libraries. In Jefferson City, for example, the libraries serve both the city and county. Negroes use them freely. Across the river in Fulton, there is no county-wide library service, and Negroes are denied use of the public library, except that the members of the library staff sometimes slip books out for interested Negroes.

In Kansas City and St. Louis there is no segregation or discrimination in the use of any public library. There are 115 tax supported city libraries, with 3/4 of them serving less than 10,000 people each, and with incomes of less than $10,000 per year. One half of them have less than $5,000 a year.

I have just gotten wind that the AAUW has recently made a survey of library service to Negroes in the state which would indicate the kind of material you want is available. If I can get my hands on a copy, I will be glad to furnish you with one or a copy.

We have placed an order for the microfilm copy of the Savannah Tribune. Dr. Pride had written a letter to them but evidently they did not consider that an order.

Sincerely,

Sgd. A. P. Marshall
University Librarian

TREVOR ARNETT LIBRARY
ATLANTA UNIVERSITY
273 CHESTNUT STREET, S. W.
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

May 14, 1953

RECEIVED
MAY 17
Southern Regional Council

Dear Miss Holden:

Here are two letters that I trust will be useful to you in your library survey. If Mr. Marshall does send us a copy of the Missouri survey that he mentions in paragraph 4 of his letter, we will send it on to you immediately.

Sincerely yours,

L. D. Reddick
Chief

LDR/m

Encl: 2

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

TREVOR ARNETT LIBRARY
ATLANTA UNIVERSITY
273 CHESTNUT STREET, S. W.
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

CY 6431

October 5, 1953

Dear Miss Holden:

Here is our manuscript. Please make whatever changes you may wish in it and pass it on to the editor. Give me a telephone call and let me know about the changes some time soon.

Many, many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

L. D. Reddick
Chief

LDR/m

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

RECEIVED
FEB 19 1954
Southern Re

February 3, 1954

Dear Librarian,

Early in 1953 we wrote you for information regarding Negro use of the public library facilities in your community.

I am sure you will be interested in the enclosed report of that survey and a companion article "Where Can A Southern Negro Read A Book? "

We are most appreciative of the generous response to our inquiry.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

encl

Thank you for your copy of NEW SOUTH. However, I don't think that we are due any thanks for either we did not receive a query or else our reply wasn't used. We have answered a number of questionaires but I don't recall if yours was one.

We have a new library building recently opened and we allow unrestricted use of both the circulation department and the reading room by Negroes. We also have a branch for Negroes in one of the Negro sections of the city.

Sorry we didn't get included in your survey.

Lucy Hampton Bostick

Mrs. Hagood Bostick, Librarian
Richland County Public Library
Columbia, S. C.

LAWSON McGHEE LIBRARY
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

February 9, 1954

Dear Miss Holden:

Thank you for sending us a copy of the NEW SOUTH, including your report on service to negroes in Southern libraries. It is a very interesting report. Let us hope there can be another at a shorter interval which will show even greater progress.

Yours very truly,

Helen M. Harris

Helen M. Harris, Librarian

February 18, 1954

Mrs. Hagood Bostick, Librarian
Richland County Public Library
Columbia, S. C.

Dear Mrs. Bostick:

We are very glad to learn that Negroes have unrestricted use of the Richland County Public Library's facilities.

Since publication of the survey several other libraries not listed have written that they offer service to Negroes in their main building. We will probably run a list of these in a later NEW SOUTH, with Columbia included this time.

A questionnaire was sent to your library but was not returned.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

green copy

C. Holden

February 19, '54

Dear Mr. Shaw,

We are most grateful for your kind and helpful letter about the Houston main library.

Our original questionnaire to the Houston library was not replied to, and we accepted what was supplied us by the Texas State Library Commission, from a questionnaire which they had circulated. We should not have done that without a direct check, and I am sorry.

We will be printing in a few weeks a revised list, and I would greatly appreciate your supplying us with the results of whatever check you will contrive there in the city.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

February 19, '54

Dabney

Dear Virginius,

You are of course entirely right.

The mechanics of the slip were that the Richmond library didn't reply to our questionnaire (hardly blame them, questionnaires are too many!) and therefore the people who compiled the report had no record that the Richmond library is open. But I knew it, and I should certainly have caught the error, and corrected it.

We'll be putting out a revised list in a few weeks, and this time we'll get Richmond straight.

.....

I feel quite hopeful, at last, that means will be found to expand what we do. Our thanks to you for much real help.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

Richmond Times-Dispatch
PUBLISHED MORNING AND SUNDAY
RICHMOND 11, VIRGINIA

RECEIVED
FEB 18 1954
Southern Regional Council

VIRGINIUS DABNEY
EDITOR

February 16, 1954.

TELEPHONE 7-1851

Mr. George Mitchell,
Executive Director,
Southern Regional Council,
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.,
Atlanta, 3, Georgia.

Dear George:

I have enjoyed reading the latest issue of New South entitled "The Color Line in Southern Libraries".

Unfortunately, Richmond seems to have been entirely overlooked in the list of cities which give full service to Negroes at the main public library. We have been doing so since June 1, 1947, and have had no trouble whatever. I happen to be on the Library board.

Sincerely yours,

V

Virginius Dabney.

Harrodsburg, Ky.

~~Mrs.~~ Long On Library Board

L'HOUSE & INFM 8-6-54

Mrs. H. W. Long was recently appointed a member of the Live member Darlington County Library Board. Other members are white.

It is believed here that Mrs. Long is the only race member in such an office in the state. The board has control of library operations in the county.

March 23, 1954

Mrs. Gretchen Conduitte
Jackson Free Library
Jackson, Tenn.

Dear Mrs. Conduitte:

We are very glad to learn that the Jackson Free Library is doing everything that it can to give regular service to Negro patrons.

Since the publication of the survey several other libraries that failed to return questionnaires, or have changed policy since the query, have written to tell us that they too belong on the list. We are planning to list these in NEW SOUTH in the near future, among with the information that Darlington, S. C. has recently elected a Negro library board member.

Dr. Reddick and I have been exchanging responses from the two articles, and I know he will be particularly interested in your letter.

I sent two copies of the library issue to you separately on March 18th. We are able to distribute only a limited number of publications free and would appreciate your sending ten cents each for the issues.

Thank you for your interest and information.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

Jackson Free Library

JACKSON, TENNESSEE

RECEIVED
MAR 18 1954
Southern Regional Council

March 15, 1954

Miss Anna Holden, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

Thank you for your letter of February 3rd and for the report on your survey on Negro use of public library facilities.

Could you send me two more copies?

Our staff feels that this library should have been listed among the libraries giving Negroes regular service. At the time of your survey, however, certain aspects of it were not in force.

For your own information, on January 1st, 1954, this library began issuing regular readers' cards to the Negro patrons of this library. Heretofore, a limited number of faculty members and high school and college students and a few children had withdrawn books by special permission. We could not claim that we give full reference service even now because our seating capacity in the reading room is limited, but it is our intention and practice to give regular service to all patrons of the library within the restrictions of our physical plant and the size of our book collection. All books, magazines and newspapers are available to everyone.

We found your survey very interesting. I personally found Dr. Reddick's article of special interest because I was a member of the staff of the New York Public Library when he was curator of the Schomburg Collection.

Sincerely yours,

Gretchen Conduitte

(Mrs.) Gretchen Conduitte, Librarian

RECEIVED
APR 22 1954
Southern Regional Council

Kurth Memorial Library
MRS. ORA MCMULLEN, Librarian
LUFKIN, TEXAS

April 20, 1954

Miss Anna Holden,
Research Assistant,
Southern Regional Council, Inc.

Dear Miss Holden:

I was pleased to see the Lufkin Library listed in the New South as one of those Southern libraries that give limited service to Negroes. We began giving this service in 1933 when our library was first opened. Since 1952 we have been giving full service and to our surprise we have not had one word of criticism from our patrons. I have lived most of my life in this county and town. I have seen the time when such a move would have been entirely out of the question. I am sure that 25 years ago every citizen of Lufkin would have disapproved and shown it in one way or another. Now we have had no word of complaint. I believe this entire change of attitude is due to the attitude of the younger generation, from college students down to the grades. They do not demand a humble attitude from the Negro, but seem to take service to people, regardless of race, for granted.

Yours very truly,
Ora McMullen

OM/hj

Mississippi

Library Commission

MRS. EUNICE ELEY
DIRECTOR

403 STATE OFFICE BUILDING
PHONE 5-9361 — EXT. 559

Jackson

23 APRIL 1954

ANNA HOLDEN
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL
63 AUBURN AVENUE, N.E.
ATLANTA, GEORGIA (3)

DEAR MISS HOLDEN:

WE HAVE APPRECIATED THE THOROUGHNESS OF YOUR ARTICLE IN JANUARY, 1954, NEW SOUTH ON "THE COLOR LINE IN SOUTHERN LIBRARIES." AND WE SHARE WITH YOU A PRIDE IN ACCOMPLISHMENT ALONG THIS LINE AND SHARE WITH YOU, TOO, AN AWESOME COMPREHENSION OF THE DISTANCE WE STILL HAVE TO GO. WHILE THIS ISN'T VERY FAR ALONG THAT DISTANCE WE ARE PLEASED TO REPORT THAT LAST WEEK WE INAUGURATED BOOKMOBILE SERVICE IN ONE COUNTY IN THE STATE WHERE ALL OF THE PEOPLE ARE TO HAVE THAT MOBILE LIBRARY'S FULL SERVICES WITH THE SAME STAFF AND THE SAME BOOKS, ETC. THIS MAKES TWO INSTANCES OF SUCH INTEGRATED SERVICE IN THE STATE NOW - IN TWO COUNTIES, THAT IS. PLEASE DO NOT THINK THAT WE FAIL TO REALIZE THAT THERE ARE STILL 80 COUNTIES TO GO. BUT TO HAVE THE COURAGE TO TACKLE THE OTHER 80 WE HAVE TO LOOK FREQUENTLY AT THE 2.

I DO WANT TO CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO ONE ERROR IN YOUR ARTICLE THAT I AM SURE YOU WILL BE GLAD TO KNOW IS NOT TRUE. AT LEAST, WE CERTAINLY ARE GLAD THAT IT ISN'T TRUE. ON PAGE 8 IT STATES: "IN BUT ONE STATE - MISSISSIPPI - IS THE LIBRARY BY THE LAW OF THIS CATEGORY DEFINITELY TIED IN WITH THE SYSTEM OF PUBLIC EDUCATION." IF YOU ARE REFERRING TO THE PUBLIC LIBRARY SYSTEM, AND THE INFERENCE IS THAT YOU ARE, THEN IT IS NOT TRUE THAT WE ARE TIED IN WITH THE SYSTEM OF PUBLIC EDUCATION. IN MISSISSIPPI WE HAVE A DISTINCT AND SEPARATE PUBLIC LIBRARY LAW (COPY ENCLOSED) THAT HAS ABSOLUTELY NO RELATION TO THE SYSTEM OF PUBLIC EDUCATION EXCEPT THAT IT CONTAINS PERMISSION FOR A SCHOOL TO CONTRACT WITH A PUBLIC LIBRARY FOR SERVICE IF SAID SCHOOL WISHES TO DO SO. THERE IS A VAST DIFFERENCE IN THE SCHOOL'S HAVING PERMISSION TO CONTRACT WITH AN EXISTING LIBRARY AND IN THE SITUATION WERE IT REVERSED. IN THIS CASE THE POLICY OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY WHICH IS SET DEFINITELY BY LAW FOR THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES WOULD DETERMINE WHAT THE LIBRARY DID. THE LAW GIVES THE TRUSTEES OF THE LIBRARY EXCLUSIVE CONTROL OF THE LIBRARIES.

NOT ONLY DO WE HAVE A SEPARATE PUBLIC LIBRARY LAW EVEN THE

MISSISSIPPI LIBRARY COMMISSION IS NOT A DIVISION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION AS IS TRUE IN MANY OTHER STATES. WE DO NOT PRESENT, AT THIS TIME, ANY ARGUMENTS FOR OR AGAINST THAT HIGHLY DEBATABLE ARRANGEMENT; WE ONLY MENTION IT TO SHOW THAT AT NO LEVEL, STATE, COUNTY, OR LOCAL, ARE THE PUBLIC LIBRARIES AND THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM TIED TOGETHER. WE WORK TOGETHER IN MANY INSTANCES (AND I WOULD HOPE ALL INSTANCES) FOR THE COMMON PURPOSE OF RAISING OUR EDUCATIONAL STANDARDS, BUT THE POLICIES OF ONE ARE IN NO WAY AFFECTED BY THE OTHER.

WE DO NOT PRESENT THIS AS ANY DEFENSE OF WHAT WE HAVE DONE OR OF WHAT WE HAVE NOT DONE; BUT I DID THINK THAT YOU WOULD REJOICE WITH US THAT ONCE WE CAN MARSHAL PUBLIC OPINION AND MONEY ENOUGH WE WILL NOT BE ADDITIONALLY HAMPERED BY LEGISLATION IN OUR EARNEST DESIRE THAT ALL OF THE PEOPLE OF MISSISSIPPI SHALL HAVE EQUITABLE LIBRARY SERVICE.

BY THE WAY, IN PASSING, HAVE YOU SEEN THE NOTATION IN THE RECENT LAW (FIRST PASSED IN 1950) REGARDING THE METHODS OF USE OF SOME MONEY APPROPRIATED TO BUY BOOKS FOR THE COLORED PEOPLE. WE THINK THAT THE FOLLOWING UNDERSCORED PORTIONS OF THAT LAW WERE STEPS CERTAINLY IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

* Provided, however, that eight thousand seven hundred fifty dollars ($8,750.00) of the sum of fifty four thousand, eight hundred ninety dollars ($54,890.00) appropriated above, shall be used exclusively in the purchase of books for the use of the colored race, and for supplies, equipment and bookshelves for said books. Provided further, however, that such books, supplies and equipment shall be housed in the quarters of the state library commission in the Woolfolk State Office Building, and shall be distributed in like manner as such other books now under the control of said commission.

THEN, MAYBE YOU HAVE NOT SEEN THE ENCLOSED COPY OF LIBRARY NEWS.

THANK YOU AGAIN FOR THE ARTICLE. IT HAS BEEN HELPFUL ALREADY IN ONE INSTANCE TO BOLSTER A LIBRARY BOARD IN THEIR DESIRE TO MAKE THEIR FACILITIES AVAILABLE TO EVERYBODY WHO WANTED TO READ.

CORDIALLY YOURS

MISSISSIPPI LIBRARY COMMISSION

BY: Lura G. Currier

(MRS.) LURA G. CURRIER
FIELD REPRESENTATIVE

* The 1952 session of the legislature raised this sum to $25,000.00

April 27, 1954

Mrs. Lura G. Currier
Field Representative
Mississippi Library Commission
403 State Office Building
Jackson, Miss.

Dear Mrs. Currier:

Thank you for your letter of April 23rd.

It is indeed encouraging to learn that two counties in your state have inaugurated integrated book-mobile service. We will look forward to progress in the remaining eighty counties and in the community libraries in Mississippi.

Your comments on the relationship between the public library system and the public school system are also encouraging. The statement concerning the tie-up between the public school system and the public library system appeared in Dr. Reddick's article, and I am forwarding your letter on to him.

I had not seen the issue of MISSISSIPPI LIBRARY NEWS you enclosed, and read it with a great deal of interest.

I think you will be interested in the enclosed article "Literacy and the Free Mind" and in the supplementary list of libraries giving service to Negroes on page eight.

We appreciate your thoughtfulness in bringing all the items in your letter to our attention and would be very pleased to hear from you from time to time as other libraries in the state change their policy concerning service to Negroes.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

encl

October 19, 1954

Miss Lura Currier
Mississippi Library Commission
403 State Office Building
Jackson, Miss.

Dear Miss Currier:

We appreciated your referring Miss Wessells to "The Color Line in Southern Libraries" and have sent her three copies (see enclosure).

I am sending you several additional copies under separate cover.

You will be interested in the fact that Richmond, Va., Charlottesville, Va., Columbia, S. C. and Lufkin, Tx. now give full service to Negroes at their main public libraries.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

encl

October 19, 1954

Miss Helen E. Wessells
Editor, Library Journal
c/o R. W. Bowker Co., Publishers
62 W. 45 St.
New York 36, N. Y.

Dear Miss Wessells:

I am sending the enclosed copies of "The Color Line in Southern Libraries" at the request of Miss Lura Currier of the Mississippi Library Commission.

Should you want additional copies, we will be glad to fill your order. Back issues of NEW SOUTH, in which the article appeared, sell at ten cents each.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

encl

cc: Lura Currier

A. H.

Mississippi

Library Commission

MRS. EUNICE ELEY
DIRECTOR

403 STATE OFFICE BUILDING
PHONE 5-9361 — EXT. 559

Jackson

Return to ack

October 18, 1954

Miss Ann Holden, ~~Reserve~~ Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

At the recent meeting of the Southeastern Library Association in Atlanta I had a long and interesting conversation with Helen Wessells, Editor of Library Journal. During the course of our talk I asked her if she had seen your article "The Color Line in Southern Libraries". She hadn't. I promised to send her a copy but discover that I have only one. Much as I think of Miss Wessells personally and professionally I have no intention of parting with my copy. Will you send her one so that she may have this particular piece of the south's library service to fit into the pattern that she will see evolving in her study?

Sincerely yours,

Lura Currier

Lura Currier
Field Representative

LC/je
Cc: L. D. Reddick
Helen Wessells

Library Journal

Over 75 years of library leadership

62 WEST 45TH STREET · NEW YORK 36 · MU 2-0150

October 27, 1954

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

Many thanks for sending me the copies of The Color Line in Southern Libraries. They will be very useful and I am only sorry that I did not know about the publication before this.

Sincerely yours,

Helen E. Wessells

Helen E. Wessells
Editor

HEW:DJB

March 7, 1955

Mr. Paul Bixler, Secretary
Intellectual Freedom Committee, ALA
Antioch College Library
Yellow Springs, Ohio

Dear Mr. Bixler:

Thank you for your letter of March 4 inquiring about the practices of Southern public libraries concerning admission of Negroes.

I am enclosing a copy of the March, 1954 NEW SOUTH which carries a news note on several libraries that were not included in the January report. We have published no material on public library integration since the March NEW SOUTH, but learned from the librarian at Lufkin, Texas in April that the Kurth Memorial Library (public library at Lufkin) now gives full service to Negroes.

Miss Helen E. Wessells, Editor of the Library Journal, 62 West 45th St., New York 36, N. Y. recently wrote us for information concerning integration of public libraies in the South. I understood from her letter that she is currently engaged in research in this area. I am not aware that she has published anything along this line recently, but it would probably be worthwhile to check with her.

If we can be of further assistance, please feel free to call upon us.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Information Assistant

encl

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION
EXECUTIVE OFFICES: 50 EAST HURON STREET, CHICAGO 11
Sent from: Antioch College Library, Yellow Springs, Ohio

March 4, 1955

Mr. Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Mr. Harry Ashmore has referred me to you for information about the practices of Southern public libraries concerning the admission of Negroes. I have just received the January, 1954 New South on the subject. Do you have anything later or more complete than that?

Sincerely yours,

Paul Bixler

Paul Bixler, Secretary
Intellectual Freedom Committee

PB/gp

Oct 1964 ALA Bulletin
map showing operating expenditures for local lib services by state / cap/ta pop

Aug-Sept 1952

From → Dr. Golden's survey

Library	Main Library Service	Date	Branch Library Use	Date	Effect on Use
Wilmington, Delaware	Regardless of Race	1893 Library opened 1899	Regardless of race	1893		Interracial use taken as matter of course. No records by race. Certain that there was free use by Negroes by 1904, possibly since opening.
Washington, D.C.	" "		" "	1899
Tampa Public Library	White persons only		2 strictly Negro branches - other branches for whites			Apparently interracial use has been proposed but not approved. Reference to supreme Court decisions.
Jacksonville, Fla	Limited service to Negroes. Reference service extended at a table especially for use of Negroes.	This started in 1952.	1 Branch Library especially for Negroes.			Reference service used "only by students" since reference service at Negro branch is inadequate. No expressed negative reaction
Baton Rouge, La.	Regardless of race	Sept 1953	Regardless of race	Sept 1953		→ use has increased. No public fanfare over opening. Told personnel of colored branch of new policy & Negroes started using Library. Four of 5 board members approved opening, one abstained from voting
New Orleans, La. Shreveport	Regardless race	1954	Regardless of race. Negro branch for Negro citizens	1954	Increased.	Segregated service for 18 yrs prior to 1954. Board won't consider interracial use as long as schools are segregated
Charlotte, N.C.	Regardless of race	Gradual use: began 10-15 yrs ago.	Regardless of race	Gradual use over last 5 yrs.	Increased use.	Gradual increase in use by Negroes.
Tulsa, Okla.	Regardless of Race	1939	Regardless of Race	1939		No particular effect noted. No objection ever raised
Oklahoma City	Regardless of Race	Legally never been any restriction only recent yrs since Negroes used Main Library	Regardless of Race	started 30 yrs. More Negroes used		No answers —

Library	Main Library Serving	Date	Branch Library	Date	Effects
Austin, Texas	Regardless of Race	1951	Regardless of Race	1951	No effect on white use of Library. Negroes use main library a little more each year. Make much use of Carver Branch & seem to use it less each year. They use the Bookmobile more than branch. No disturbances
Corpus Christi Texas	Regardless of Race	1921	No branch library		Increased because of growth of City - No effect.
El Paso Texas	Regardless of Race	1st organized	Regardless of Race	1st organized	No figures as the situation has not changed since the library was built
San Antonio Texas	Regardless of Race	1949	Regardless of Race	1949	One one Negro branch & 2 sub-branches are being used by whites. Now — Negro patrons have always been served in Main library in special study rooms. No disturbances

Library	Main Library Service	Date	Branch Library	Date	Effect on Use
Chattanooga, Tenn	Regardless of Race	1949	Regardless of Race	Branch 1956 Formerly Negro Bookmobile 1949		No effect on the extent of use by white persons & the use by Negroes has grown gradually + the use of the library in all departments has continued to increase. People have forgotten that library was formerly open only to whites
Knoxville, Tenn	Regardless of Race	1958	Regardless of Race	1958
Nashville, Tenn	Adult Negroes only (Negroes requested access to Adult Collection only	1949	Negro Branch (Some white patrons) White Branch (Some colored borrows) (Serve anyone who comes in	1955		More Negroes - particularly Knoxville College students use main city library Negroes Exception without question. No effect on white use. Lost no readers. Negro use is small perhaps 30-60 a day - high school & College students. Sit anywhere they choose

Library	Main Library	Date	Branch	Date	Effect
Norfolk, Va	Regardless of Race	1947	Regardless	1947	Main	Library use is principally by students among Negroes, but there are others. Total Negro use of Library has increased. Total white also. No disturbances
Richmond, Va	" "	1947	Bowser Branch opened only to Negro. New branch will be opened in October when construction completed, Local station c[illegible] white which restricted to white school officials	October (1950)		Most of Negro use of main library is by high school & college students, use by general public growing. Many Negroes still prefer Negro branch. Disturbances - (minor) - Rest rooms operated by a troublemaker with a long record of complaints about practices not involving segregation issue

Library	Main Library	Date	Branch	Date	Effects
Memphis, Tenn.	Whites only		Whites only service for colored + one bookmobile for colored.
Atlanta, Ga.	Whites only Resources are available on request to borrower of 3 Negro branches Auburn, Atl. University + West Hunter

Sept 1956

RACIAL PRACTICES IN SOUTHERN LIBRARIES

The Library Committee of the Greater Atlanta Council on Human Relations engaged in a survey of racial practices in Southern libraries, in order to ascertain whether any trend existed in the South. Questionnaires were sent to the 31 Southern cities which have a population of 100,000 or over.[1] Twenty-eight questionnaires were returned.

The questionnaire attempted to find out whether these cities provided library service regardless of race or to white persons only, both in the main library and in the branches. The findings of the survey are as follows:

Of the 28 cities which returned the questionnaire, 18 give service in the main library regardless of race. The cities are: Austin, Tex.; Baton Rouge, La.; Charlotte, N. C.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Corpus Christi, Tex.; Dallas, Tex.; El Paso, Tex.; Fort Worth, Tex.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Miami, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Norfolk, Va.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; San Antonio, Tex.; Tulsa, Okla.; Washington, D. C.; and Wilmington, Del.. Three cities offer limited service to Negroes -- Jacksonville, Fla.; Nashville, Tenn.; and Richmond, Va. Eleven of these cities have brought about this change since 1947 -- a clear trend toward unsegregated service within the last 10 years. Only seven[2] of the 28 responding cities restrict their main library to white persons only.

Sixteen cities provide service regardless of race in their library branches. Two cities provide such service in one or more of their branches.

1The states included are those listed in the U.S. Census as "South Atlantic," "East South Central" and "West South Central." Population figures were taken from the 1950 Census.

2Atlanta, Georgia; Memphis, Tenn.; Mobile, Ala.; Montgomery, Ala.; Savannah, Ga.; Shreveport, La.; Tampa, Fla.

These libraries report that, since the change was brought about, the amount of use of the library has either remained the same or increased. There were no disturbances which interfered with the adjustment. In general, public opinion has been either neutral or favorable. In most cases the change was initiated and carried through by the Library Board; the next largest group consists of changes brought by the Librarian.

Joseph Golden

Joseph Golden, Ph.D
Library Committee
Greater Atlanta Council on Human Relations

Tennessee Library Association

U. T. M. B.
Martin, Tennessee

January 21, 1957

Miss Florence B. Irving
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Irving:

In response to your request of August 23, 1956, the requested information has finally been completed and is enclosed.

Very truly yours,

H. D. Ferris
President

HDF:cf

TENNESSEE STATE LIBRARY AND ARCHIVES

NASHVILLE 3, TENNESSEE

STATE LIBRARY DIVISION

December 7, 1956

Mr. H. D. Ferris, President
Tennessee Library Association
U.T.M.B. Library
Martin, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Ferris:

Enclosed is information compiled as a result of the Southern Regional Council, Inc. request for information on "the main branches of public libraries in Tennessee whose services are available to Negroes".

If you need further information or data before your reply to the Southern Regional Council, let me know. Percentages have not been computed as they were not requested, however this can easily be done if desired.

I hope everything is going well with you.

Very truly yours,

Eleanor

(Mrs.) Eleanor J. Burt
State Library Division

TENNESSEE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION
Public Libraries Section
October 19, 1956

TO: Tennessee Public Librarians

FROM: Public Libraries Section, Tennessee Library Association, Mrs. Eleanor J. Burt, Reporter.

SUBJECT: Questionnaire on Public Library Service to Negroes in Tennessee.

The Tennessee Library Association has been asked to compile information on public library service to Negroes in Tennessee for the Southern Regional Council, Inc.

Please fill-in and return the bottom part of this sheet as soon as possible.

Name_____ Title_____

Name of Library_____ County_____

Post Office Address of Library_____

ARE THE SERVICES OF YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY (MAIN BRANCH) AVAILABLE TO NEGROES?

	Adults	Children(under 14)
1. To check out books, records, etc.:	yes ____	yes ____
	no ____	no ____
2. To use reading rooms:	yes ____	yes ____
	no ____	no ____

REMARKS:

Return to: Mrs. Eleanor J. Burt, Tennessee State Library and Archives, Nashville 3, Tennessee

		NUMBER
1.	Libraries having ALL main branch services available to Negroes.	52
2.	Libraries having SOME main branch services available to Negroes.	15
3.	Libraries having NO main branch services available to Negroes.	25
4.	Libraries that did not answer "yes" or "no". (13 have no Negroes in their community)	16

LIBRARIES WITH NO NUMBER DID NOT RETURN QUESTIONNAIRE.

TENNESSEE
COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL LIBRARIES
November, 1956

Public Libraries NOT Affiliated with the Tennessee Regional Library System

COUNTY	P.O.ADDRESS OF LIBRARY	NAME OF LIBRARY	LIBRARIAN
Anderson	Oak Ridge	Oak Ridge Public Library	Mrs. Minnie Duncan
Blount	1 Maryville	A. K. Harper Memorial Library	Mrs. Kate Nance
Davidson	Old Hickory	Old Hickory Community Library	Mrs. Blanche Latimer
Dyer	Dyersburg	Dyersburg Public Library	Mrs. Walter Draper
Fayette	Somerville	Fayette County Free Library	Mrs. S. A. Wetzler
Greene	Greeneville	Greene County Library	Miss Kathleen Piper
Hamilton	1 Chattanooga	Chattanooga Public Library	Miss Elizabeth Edwards
Haywood	3 Brownsville	Brownsville Public Library	Miss Ethel C. Bain
Henry	3 Paris	Paris City Library	Mrs. Georgia Boice
Lake	Tiptonville	Tiptonville Public Library	Mrs. Margaret Newton
Lincoln	Fayetteville	Lincoln County Free Library	Mrs. Cyrus E. Moores
Madison	1 Jackson	Jackson Free Library	Miss Frances Smith
Sullivan	1 Bristol	Bristol Public Library	Mrs. Douglas Widener
	1 Kingsport	Kingsport Public Library	Mr. Kenneth F. Duchac
Washington	1 Johnson City	Mayne Williams Public Library	Mrs. George Fredericks
Williamson	1 Franklin	War Memorial Library	Mrs. Corinne W. Overton

Metropolitan Libraries which Carry on Certain County-Wide Activities under Contract with Tennessee State Library and Archives Commission

Davidson	2 Nashville	Nashville Public Library	Dr. Robert Alvarez
Knox	1 Knoxville	Knox County Library Community branches: Mascott, Tennessee Fountain City, Tennessee Inskip, Tennessee Powell, Tennessee	Miss Emma Suddarth
	1 Knoxville	Lawson McGhee Library	Miss Helen Harris
Shelby	3 Memphis	Memphis Public Library 258 South McLean Boulevard	Mr. Jesse Cunningham

Public Libraries Affiliated with the Tennessee Regional Library System

COUNTY	P.O.ADDRESS OF LIBRARY	NAME OF LIBRARY	LIBRARIAN
Anderson	1 Andersonville	Andersonville Public Library	Mrs. W. A. Irwin
	Briceville	Briceville Public Library	Mrs. Clarence Norman
	1 Clinton	Anderson County Library	Mrs. Sam Peters
	1 Devonia	Devonia Public Library	Miss Patsy Ruth Miller
	Lake City	Lake City Public Library	Mrs. Carl Alley
	1 Norris	Norris Community Library	Mrs. Gordon Colborn
Bedford	1 Shelbyville	Bedford County Memorial Library	Mrs. S. S. Moody
Benton	Camden	Benton County Library	Mrs. Edith Nunnery
Bledsoe	1 Pikeville	Bledsoe County Library	Mrs. Arthur Meyer
Bradley	Cleveland	Cleveland Public Library	Miss Ruth Chambers
	Cleveland	College Hill Colored Branch	Miss Henrietta Prigmore
Campbell	4 Caryville	Caryville Public Library	Mrs. Joe Ann Chambers
	4 Clinchmore	Clinchmore Public Library	Mrs. Olaf Jordan
	Elk Valley	Elk Valley Public Library	Mrs. Charlotte Welch
	1 Jacksboro	Jacksboro Public Library	Miss Vida Baird
	1 Jellico	Jellico Public Library	Mrs. Hugh P. Finley
	2 La Follette	La Follette Public Library	Mrs. J. D. Wender
	Morley	Morley Public Library	Mrs. Goldie Childers
Carroll	1 Huntingdon	Carroll County Library	Mrs. Pearl Harder
	3 McKenzie	McKenzie Public Library	Mrs. Lester Hines
Carter	2 Elizabethton	Elizabethton Public Library	Mrs. Maude P. Ingle
Claiborne	Tazewell
Cocke	2 Newport	Cocke County Library	Miss Lou Morrell
	Parrottsville	Parrottsville Public Library	Mrs. T. Ellison
Coffee	1 Tullahoma	Coffee County Public Library	Mrs. W. L. Raugh
	Manchester	Manchester Branch of Coffee County Library	Mrs. Richard Rowe
Cumberland	4 Crossville Box 262	Art Circle Public Library	Mrs. O. C. Eldridge
Decatur	3 Decaturville	Decatur County Library	Mrs. Grace Vise
DeKalb	1 Smithville	DeKalb County Library	Mrs. A. B. Hiser
Dickson	4 Dickson	Dickson County Library	Mrs. Albert Hines
Dyer	3 Dyersburg	Dyer County Library	Miss Linda Harness
	Trimble	Trimble Public Library	Mrs. Perry Baker
Franklin	1 Winchester	Franklin County Library	Miss May Richardson
Gibson	3 Humboldt	Humboldt Public Library	Mrs. Weldon Oliver
	3 Milan	Milan Public Library	Mrs. G. H. Dickey
	3 Trenton	Gibson County Library	Mr. Leslie Smith
Giles	2 Pulaski	Craig Library	Mrs. Mary H. Long
Grainger	1 Rutledge	Grainger County Library	Mrs. H. H. Waller
Grundy	1 Trace City	Grundy County Library	Mrs. Alton T. Geary
	1 Altamont	Grundy County Library	Mrs. H. B. Williams
	1 Palmer	Grundy County Library	Mrs. George Sandon
Hamblen	1 Morristown	Hamblen County Library	Mrs. Carrie B. Stuart
	2 Russellville	Russellville Public Library	Mrs. Hugh Patterson
Hancock	3 Sneedville	Hancock County Library	Miss June Seal
Hardeman	3 Bolivar	Bolivar-Hardeman County Library	Mrs. Vincent Black
Hardin	2 Savannah	Hardin County Library	Miss Pauline Hosea

COUNTY	P.O.ADDRESS OF LIBRARY	NAME OF LIBRARY	LIBRARIAN
Hawkins	Bulls Gap	Bulls Gap Library	Mrs. Calvin Long
	2 Church Hill	Church Hill Library	Mrs. Hale Thomas
	Church Hill, #4	Liberty Hill	Mrs. Taylor Vance
	Rogersville	Hawkins County Library	Mrs. Lillian Patton
	4 Bulls Gap	St. Clair	Mrs. Eunice Rowland
	1 Surgoinsville	Surgoinsville	Miss Patsy Elkins
Henderson	1 Lexington	Henderson County Library	Mrs. A. R. Wallace, Jr.
Henry	Paris	Henry County Library	Miss Ruth Smith
Hickman	3 Centerville	Hickman County Library	Mrs. W. E. Warren
Houston	1 Erin	Houston County Library	Mrs. J. C. Bunnell
Humphreys	1 Waverly	Humphreys County Library	Mrs. Bruce Crane
Jefferson	1 Dandridge	Jefferson County Library	Mrs. Jewell Hodge
	4 Jefferson City Box 14	Jefferson City Library	Mrs. John Formwalt
Johnson	2 Mountain City	Johnson County Library	Mrs. Tyler Wilson
Lauderdale	3 Ripley	Sugar Hill-Lauderdale County Library	Mrs. D. G. Dennie
Lawrence	3 Lawrenceburg	Lawrence County Library	Mrs. H. D. Derrick
Lewis	1 Hohenwald	Lewis County Library	Mrs. W. B. Sublette
Loudon	1 Lenoir City	Gen. L. D. Tyson Library	Mrs. Alice Perkey
	Loudon	Loudon Public Library	Mrs. Glen Goodwin
	Greenback	Greenback Public Library	Mrs. Roy M. Brooks, Jr.
McMinn	Athens	McMinn County Library	Mrs. H. L. Ray
	4 Etowah	Carnegie Public Library	Mrs. Roy Holtzclaw
Madison	1 Jackson	Madison County Library	Mrs. Sara Messner
~~Madison~~	~~Jackson~~	~~Jackson Free Library~~ on page 1	~~Miss Frances Smith~~
Marshall	2 Lewisburg	Marshall County Free Library	Mrs. Judith Steel
Maury	2 Columbia	Maury County Public Library	Mrs. May Evelyn Stephenson
	2 Mt. Pleasant	Maury County Public Library	Mrs. Paul Daniels
Meigs	1 Decatur	Meigs County Library	Miss Agnes Cross
Monroe	Madisonville	Monroe County Public Library	Miss Margaret Wilson
	2 Sweetwater	Sweetwater Public Library	Miss Jane Brown
	4 Tellico Plains	Tellico Plains Public Library	Mrs. B. L. White
Montgomery	3 Clarksville	Clarksville Public Library	Mrs. Fred Brown
	Clarksville	~~Montgomery County Library~~ (colored)	Mrs. Katherine Roberts
	Clarksville	~~Cobb Library Branch~~	Mrs. Edith A. Brooks
	New Providence	New Providence Library	Mrs. Maurice Johnson
Moore	1 Lynchburg	Moore County Public Library	Mrs. Mark Osborne
Morgan	4 Burrville	Burrville Public Library	Mrs. Emma Greer and Miss Blanche Broyles
	4 Coalfield	Coalfield Public Library	Mrs. Betty Carsons
	3 Deer Lodge	Deer Lodge Public Library	Mrs. Ibbie Pittman
	1 Oakdale	Oakdale Public Library	Mrs. R. A. Angel
	1 Petros	Petros Public Library	Mrs. Alice Whitus
	1 Oakdale	Pine Orchard Library	Mrs. Thelma Hatfield
	1 Sunbright	Sunbright Public Library	Mrs. Grace Jones
	3 Wartburg	Morgan County Library	Mrs. Jack Freytag
Obion	3 Union City	Obion County Library	Mrs. W. R. Harrigan
Overton	Livingston	Overton County Library	Mrs. Sarah Williamson

COUNTY		P.O.ADDRESS OF LIBRARY	NAME OF LIBRARY	LIBRARIAN
Perry	1	Linden	Perry County Library	Miss Ruth Godwin
Polk		Benton	Public Library of Polk County	Mrs. Ruth McKown
	2	Copperhill	Public Library of Polk County	Mrs. Ruth McKown
		Ducktown	Public Library of Polk County	Mrs. Ruth McKown
Putnam	1	Cookeville	Putnam County Library	Miss Clara Starnes
Rhea	3	Dayton	Dayton Public Library	Mrs. Boss Broyles
		Spring City	Rhea County Library	Mrs. Audrey Pack
Roane	1	Kingston	Roane County Library	Mrs. John Roberts
		Harriman	Harriman Public Library	Mrs. Harold Williams
	1	Rockwood	Rockwood Public Library	Mrs. Reba Edwards
Robertson	3	Springfield	Glenn Memorial Library	Miss Sue D. Taylor
Rutherford	2	Murfreesboro	Linebaugh Public Library	Mrs. Myla Parsons
Scott	4	Huntsville	Scott County Library	Mrs. Nona Lee Chambers
	3	Norma	Norma Public Library	Miss Ada Lawson
	3	Oneida	Oneida Public Library	Mrs. Oscar West
	4	Robbins	Robbins Public Library	Mrs. C. L. Kline
Sevier	1	Gatlinburg	Anna Porter Public Library	Mrs. Wade King
		Pigeon Forge	Pigeon Forge Library	Miss Helen Duggan
	1	Sevierville	Sevierville Public Library	Mrs. Stanley McMahan
Smith	1	Carthage	Smith County Public Library	Mrs. Mabel Thompson
Stewart		Dover	Stewart County Library	Mrs. Orlean Walter
Sullivan	1	Blountville	Sullivan County Public Library	Mrs. Mattie Parris
Sumner		Gallatin	Gallatin Friendship Library	Mrs. John B. Brown
	4	Hendersonville	Beech School	Mrs. Ed Lanier
	4	Portland	Portland Community Library	Mrs. R. D. Gilliam
Tipton	3	Covington	Tipton County Library	Mrs. Blanche Shelton
Union	4	Maynardville	Maynardville Public Library	Mrs. Mary Nell Hurst
Van Buren	4	Spencer	Van Buren County Library	Mrs. Louise Miller
Warren	1	McMinnville	Wm. H. & Edgar Magness Library	Mrs. David Ray
Wayne		Waynesboro	Wayne County Library	Mrs. Helton
Washington	1	Jonesboro	Washington County & Jonesboro Public Library	Mrs. Panhorst Cooke
Weakley	3	Dresden	Weakley County Library
	1	Greenfield	Greenfield Public Library	Mrs. Essie Barton
	3	Martin	Martin Woman's Club Library	Mrs. Irene Coffman
Wilson	1	Lebanon	Wilson County Library	Mrs. Willie Boyd

Compiled and Issued by Public Libraries Division
Tennessee State Library and Archives
Nashville 3, Tennessee

10/25/56 BK 100 cys.

The enclosed questionnaire was sent to the 142 public libraries in Tennessee which are on the most recent list issued by the Public Libraries Division of Tennessee State Library and Archives.

TABULATION OF RESPONSE:

142.....Number of questionnaires sent.

108.....Number of replies received through December 5, 1956.

52.....Libraries replying that all main branch services and facilities are available to Negroes.

15.....Libraries replying that some main branch services and facilities are available to Negroes.

25.....Libraries replying that no main branch services and facilities are available to Negroes.

16.....Libraries that did not answer the questions, but made remarks.

TABULATION OF REPLIES BY QUESTION:

Are the services of your public library (main branch) available to Negroes?

		Adults	Children (under 14)
1. To check out books, records, etc.:	yes	67	64
	no	25	28
2. To use reading rooms:	yes	58	52
	no	34	40

REMARKS:

1. Among the remarks made by libraries having all main branch services and facilities available to Negroes are the following:

   "very few have taken advantage of it"

   "available if desired"

   "available to all citizens"

   "Negroes do use our library, and the same courtesy is shown them as to white people. So far they have not used the reading room, but could if they wished."

   "All library services are available to all regardless of race."

REMARKS:

1. continued-

"very few avail themselves of the provilege"

"very little use is made ... perhaps [because] we have not advertised the service"

"Very few of them do sit down in the reading room, but they are at perfect liberty to use it. We have never had a single complaint from the white readers..."

2. Among the remarks made by libraries having some main branch services and facilities available to Negroes are the following:

"we always help, never refuse"

"I have been instructed by our library board not to refuse books to any Negro requesting them."

"We do not refuse service to Negroes."

3. Among the remarks made by libraries having no main branch services and facilities available to Negroes are the following:

"decided against for the present"

"Have endeavored to establish stations for Negroes ... asking someone of their number to look out for the books ... trust we may be able to help them to help themselves."

"the building that furnishes our space is for the use of white people only except for the Tennessee Employment Security"

"we have had no requests from the Negroes here"

"we buy ... books each year [for the Negro school library]"

"we do not have any Negroes"

"If they want anything special I let them have it."

"Negroes have their own library ... and they have never requested books from our library."

"We have a branch library for Negroes."

REMARKS: continued-

4. Among the remarks made by libraries that did not answer the questions were the following:

"No Negroes live in this community."

"We do not have this problem."

"[This] library has never had a request for books from a Negro."

"[We] have had only two Negroes to check out books [in my 10 years here]. One did not return the book."

BOOKS AND LIBRARY SERVICE

ARKANSAS LIBRARY COMMISSION
506½ Center Street
Little Rock, Arkansas

Y O U R Library Commission Serves

1. Individuals—living in areas without a public library.

2. Clubs and service organizations—in areas without a public library.

3. Libraries — county, regional, city, community.

4. Schools in areas without county or regional library—supplementing school collections.

HOW YOUR LIBRARY COMMISSION GIVES THIS SERVICE

DIRECT LOAN SERVICE BY MAIL

Lends books, pamphlets, and magazines to individuals without access to local library service.

to county, regional, city, community and school libraries.

Answers reference questions.

EXTENSION OF LIBRARY SERVICE

Helps to initiate and establish new regional libraries.

Provides professional advice on library problems to any library in the state upon request.

Aids in the improvement of school libraries.

Maintains THREE SPECIAL COLLECTIONS of books at headquarters in addition to the central collection:

PUBLISHERS EXHIBIT COLLECTION containing copies of new books for children and young people. These books are loaned to groups and individuals for examination before purchase.

BOOKS RECOMMENDED FOR FIRST PURCHASE by Children's Catalog and Standard Catalog for High School Libraries. This is a non-circulating collection. Librarians, teachers, parents, interested citizens are invited to use this collection at headquarters.

ARKANSAS COLLECTION—Notable books by Arkansans and about Arkansas.

Y O U can help us

Let us know what YOU want

ASK—librarian in your community

WRITE—directly to us if no library is available

Arkansas Library Commission
506½ Center Street
Little Rock, Arkansas
Telephone 4-3954

TELL your friends and newcomers in your community about the services

B O O K S
for

ARKANSAS LIBRARY COMMISSION

Headquarters

506½ Center Street
Little Rock, Arkansas
Telephone 4-3954

Hours

Monday - Friday
8:00 a.m. - 5 p.m.

YOUR ARKANSAS LIBRARY COMMISSION

has

Books and library materials

* * *

70,000 volumes
And receives 100 magazine subscriptions

* * *

1,909,511 people to be served, (1950 census)

* * *

81,270 books and magazines were circulated from headquarters July 1951—June 1952.

* * *

There are 33 county and regional libraries serving 46 counties in Arkansas

* * *

If you do not have library service write or call:

Arkansas Library Commission
506½ Center Street
Little Rock, Arkansas
Telephone 4-3954

1-29-53

59 Replies (34%)
20 more 4-10-53

79 — 46%

46
172) 79.00
68.8
1020 1032
172) 59.08
516
7488
6888

8

Sent to cities other surveys indicated having library service from main library for Negroes (37), plus all cities of 20,000 or more population in Ala., Ark., Fla., Ga., La., Miss., NC, Okla., SC, Tenn., and Tex., plus all citiesof 10,000 or more in Ky. and Va. (Total letters sent--172)

American Lib. Directory, 1924

R. Bowker Co.

62 W. 45th St.

NY 19

1954 lack 3 years

$12.50

$1.00

Lake —

60 E. Huron St.

Chicago 11, Ill.

I. Significance of the Problem

A. Relation of the Unit to Student Needs

High up on the list of loyalties, knowledges and the disciplines necessary to free men in a democratic society have been placed those which have to do with the feee men's relation to other individuals. The free man is loyal to the principle of human equality and brother-hood; he has a knowledge of the history of mankind and of the long struggle to liberate the human mind and civilize the hum an heart; and he entertains a conception of welfare that embraces all elements of the population.[1] That this conception of the general welfare must be grounded upon some knowledge of all of the elements in the population foreswears discussion.

Numerous experiments have been conducted to determine the attitude of children toward the Negro.[2] Not all of these have been experiments to measure the attitudes held by children of other than Negro groups. Many of them were aimed at discovery of the attitudes which Negroes held about themselves[3] - attitudes which, when held by others toward Negroes, are often described as prejudiced.[4]

---

1. For a discussion of the loyalties, knowledges and disciplines essential to free men see George S. Counts, The Education of Free Men in American Democracy. Educational Policies Commission. Wash. D.C. 1941. This statement has been adapted from that account.
2. For a description of the racial attitudes of children see Bruno Lasker. Race Attitudes in Children New York. Henry Holt and Co. 1929. See also: Donald Young. "Some Effects of a course in American Race Problems on the Race Prejudices of 450 undergraduates at the University of Pennsylvania, "Journal of abnormal and social psychology.22:235-242 (1927); J.M. Reinhardt, "Students and Race Feeling" Survey 61:239-240 (1928).
3. H.W. Baumgardner "Measuring Negro Self-Respect" Journal of Negro Education 4:490-9, Oct. 1935. Thomas E. Davis. "Some Racial attitudes of Negro College and grade school students. "Journal of Negro Education VI-157-165 April, 1937.
4. Ira De A. Reid. The Negro Immigrant New York, Columbia University Press, 1939 pp. 107ff.

It is generally agreed that a lack o knowledge about another or one's own group may be one factor in the retention of stereotypes and the promotion of prejudice, expecially when that prejudice assumes the role of "race" hate. It is only reasonable to assume, then, that knowledge of the peoples against whom we have prejudicws is indispensable to the disintegration of prejudice. But the mere acquisition of knowledge does not mean and the end of prejudice, for prejudiced attitudes have shown an amazing resiliency and ability to survive in the presumably hostile atmosphere of widespread factual information. Indeed it is not uncommon to find individuals in the possession of great quantities of factual information retaining their own prejudices even though many of these may be grounded in the basest of ignorant beliefs and superstitions. If the researches of Lichtenstein,[5] Rosander,[6] Wrighstone,[7] Eckert and Mills,[8] and a host of other writers[9] on the correlation between the amount of knowledge which the pupil has or to which he has, through formal courses, been subjected and his attitude toward certain issues are to be accepted as valid, then the emphasis upon knowledge must be qualitative rather than quantitative.[10]

To accept this shift in emphasis from quantitative to qualitative knowledge is to imply the rather close relationship between attitudes (which are to be affected by knowledge) and value patterns (which may determine the manner in which knowledge is used). We may assume, then, that "our conception of race or ethnic prejudice is rooted in a series of dogmas of the rights of man and of the equality of man".[11] Ethnic prejudice may then be defined as a general term pointing to behavior by members of one ethnic group toward another ethnic group in society contrary to the norm that is held for the relations among the groups".[12] Thus the primary function of the school may standards and the creation of new and additional democratic ones - and in

5. Arthur Lichtenstein. Can Attitudes be Taught? Johns-Hopk ins University Studies in Education, No.21. Baltimore: Johns-Hopk ins Press, 1934.
6. A. C. Rosander. "A Quantitative Study of Social Attitudes". School Review xliii. October, 1935. p.616.
7. Ruth C. Eckert and Henry C. Mills. "International Attitudes and Related Academic and Social Factors". Journal of Educational Sociology.IX November, 1935. pp. 142-153.
8. J. Wayne Wrighstone. "Civic Beliefs and Correlated Intellectual and Social Factors". School Review XLII. January, 1934. pp. 53-58.
9. For a discussion and summary of each of the preceding and many other studies see Lavone A. Hanna. The Development of Value Patterns. Stanford Social Education Investigation. Bulletin No. 13. Stanford University. May 1941.

10. For a discussion of the qualitative approch to knowledge see Robert Lynd, Knowledge for What. Princeton. Princeton University Press. 1939
11. Alfred L. Severson. "What is Prejudice?" Journal of Educational Sociology Feb. 1943-344
12. Ibid p. 345. Dollard describes race prejudice as a conflict between the sominant American mores as expressed in the Declaration of Independence (the equality of man concept) and the regional mores of the South (the concept of the superiority of one race or the inequality of man). See John Dollard. Caste and Class in a Southern town. New Haben. Yale University Press. 1937 Chapter 1.

be conceived as the implementation of the desirable value patterns to which pupils already subscribe and the institution of new ones in the place of those which are undemocratic and therefore undesirable. It is to this end that the school must make use of its opportunities and promote the knowledges of pupils. Information (Knowledge) then has value only in proportion as it achieves these goals and is intelligently used in the democratic solution of our problems: thus, in the same degree as it provides some experiences for the implementation of existing de ocratic value patterns, the displacement of undemocratic standards and the creation of new and additional democratic ones - and in proportion -- as it s pplies the information necessary to the solution of a problem on the basis o democratic ideals is a unit on the Negro or any other group or subject justifiably included in a school program designed to educate free mento live in a free world. Because we believe the study of the Negro meets these criteria we offer this resource unit and relate it to the needs of the pupils.

There are, however, other and extraneous reasons why we have developed this unit. They concern themselves primarily with Negroes. It has been observed that....

> "Race may not dominate but at least it throws its shadow across every phase of the Negro youth's life in the North and envelopes every aspect of it in the South. From birth to death his is not only an outer environment of social and economic problems and adjustments, but also an inner environment of being Negro. Both of these environments are real, effective and inescapable. They not only determine the status of Negroes but they also create the Negro personality.....[13]

We have already indicated that Negro children are themselves often the victims of the stereotyped beliefs which are prevalent about Negroes. The rather low opinions which numerous tests have shown they hold of the group (and, though they may not realize it, of themselves as indistinguishable members of the mass) may provide us with a key to an understanding of one reason for a feeling of not belonging. It is permissible to assume that much of this group feeling arises from a lack of knowledge of themselves as members of the group and the group as one of the contributing elements to American live. There are those who would charge that this failure to include the contributions of the Negro to American life and history when retelling the story of the nation is the result of a conspiracy deliberately designed to rob Negro youth of their historical heritage and at the same time give the semblance of historical truth to the "hewers of wood and drawers of water" shibboleth.[14] But whatever the reasons for the failure to givedue credit to the contributions of the Negro to American life, it has served to rob Negro Youth of that degree of status which follows upon one's knowledge that he, too, is a member of a group whose contributions have helped to make our nation great. The study of Negro life and history, past and present, serves to close this gap in the educational experiences of Negro youth. (Thus a basic psychological need of the Negro student is, in part, served.)

B. The Relation of the Unit to the Sequence

Some consideration should be given to the study of the peoples who make up the American population at each of the grade levels in the school. The present sequential organization of the social education experiences of youth which place the study of family and school relations (problems of immediate concern) in the seventh grade, problems of community life (often labeled American History) in the eighth grade, problems of adjustment and selection in the ninth grade, and the more remote problems of world civilization (usually confined to a study of European history) in the tenth grade, returning in the eleventh grade to the stud of American history and culminating in the twelfth grade with a study of American problems admirably lends itself to the consideration of the relation of minority groups, especially ethnic minorities, to the total body of a democratic society.

13. Ira De A. Reid. In a Minor Key. Washington American Council on Education. 1940. p. 4.
14. See W. E. B. DuBois Black Reconstruction. New York. Harcourt, Brace and Co. 1935. Chapter 17. See also Helen Boardman. "Racial Attitudes in American History Textbooks" Journal of Negro History XIX, pp.257.

While the seventh, eighth and ninth grades should each give some consideration to the study of minority groups in American life, it is in the eleventh and twelfth grades that the intensive study of these groups should take place. The growing tendency to discontinue the study of the Negro as a separate entity and to include him in the study of minority groups in American life possesses certain inherent dangers. First there is the danger that pupils in their eagerness to get a proper perspective of the problem of minority groups and of the Negro as a part of them will assume for themselves tasks which are too time consuming and too all inclusive to be handled in a really effective manner. The result then is often a mere enumeration of individuals and events in the lives o the several minority groups, giving at best an opportunity for only the most cursory examination of the real problem. The second danger arises out of the nature of the Negro question itself. The Negro is not a voluntary immigrant nor a second or third generation American.

Neither is he in possession of culture traits which must be fused before he can become completely assimilated. He has no language difficulties, no foreign ties. In short, he is already an American in every sense of the word and his rejection rests not on the fact that, like certain other minorities, he seeks to retain certain indigenous cultural traits foreign to the American patter, but upon the biological traits (skin color, hair, tec.) which mark him as different and easily distinguishable. Thus the approach to the study of the Negro must be different from the approach taken in the study of the immigrant French, Czech, Italian or Mexican. It is this that the class which lumps the Negro along with other minority groups for study may overlook. It would appear, therefore, that the study of the Negro in relation to other minority groups might best serve to acquaint pupils on the lower grade levels with the introductory survey facts about minority groups in American while the work on the upper grade levels would be of a more intensive nature and, when dealing with the Negro, treat him in a separate study.

While the seventh, eighth and ninth grades should each give some consideration to the study of minority groups in American life, it is in the eleventh and twelfth grades that the intensive study of these groups should take place. The growing tendency to discontinue the study of the Negro as a separate entity and to include him in the study of minority groups in American life possesses certain inherent dangers. First there is the danger that pupils in their eagerness to get a proper prespective of the problem of minority groups and of the Negro as a part of them will assume for themselves tasks which are too time soncuming and too all inclusive tobe handled in a really effective nammer. The result then is often a mere enumeration of individuals and events in the lives o the several minority groups, giving at best an opportunity for only the most cursory examination of the real problem. The second danger arises out of the nature of the Negro question itself. The Negro is not a voluntary immigrant nor a second or third generation American.

Neither is he in possession of culture traits which must be fused before he can become completely assimilated. He has no language difficulties no foreign ties. In short, he is already an American in every sense of the word and his rejection rests not on the fact that, like certain other minorities, he seeks to retain certain indigenous cultural traits foreign to the American patters, but upon the biological traits (skin color, hair, etc.) which mark him as different and easily distinguishable. Thus the approach to the study of the Negro must be different from the approach taken in the study of the immigrant French, Czech, Italian or Mexican. It is this that the class which lumps the Negro along with other minority groups for study may overlook. It would appera, therefore, that the study of the Negro in relation to other minority groups might best serve to acquaint pupils on the lower grade levels with the introductory survey facts about minority groups in America while the work on the upper grade levels would be of a more intensive nature and, when dealing with the Negro, treat him in a separate study.

The primary justification for the intensive study of the unit at the eleventh and twelfth grade levels rests on the assumption that students at these levels have reached a degree of social and intellectual maturity which will enable them to give sustained attention to, delelop effective insights in and effectively hypothecate solutions for problems. This does not mean that pupils, because they have reached the upper grade levels, are always more capable in these skills than those at lower levels, nor can it be considered an argument in support of the contention that adolescents can find the answers to all of our problems. Neither does the suggestion that the periods of intensive study be reserved for the eleventh and twelfth grades reduce to any degree the very great responsibility of the classroom teacher at every grade level to work continuously for the development among pupils of those attitudes toward all peoples of differing races, nationalities and cultures which man honestly be labeled democratic.

C. The Unit in Relation to Other Units in the Curriculum

The suty of the problem of the integration of the Negro may rather easily follow a unit on democracy. Pupils could readily be guided into recognition of the relationship between the problem of the integration of the Negro and the ultimate achievement of democracy in the United States. The discussion mighto follow a nuit on civil liberties or, in a more formal American history class, the whole question of Reconstruction may give rise to an attempt at an evaluation of the role of the Negro during that period and a study of his subsequent development. A unit on labor would afford a real opportunity to study the Negro-a virtually untapped source of labor.[15]

15. The ideal to be hoped for, of course, is that time when the teaching of American history will proceed normally to include the contributions of all groups to that history, thus making it unnecessary to include units of study on the contributions of various groups to American history in the curriculum as footnotes to be "dragged in by the eyebrows". Until that time arrives, however, we must continue to devise new and better ways of achieving the same ends within the present framework.

D. The Unit in Relation to the Democratic Philosophy

We have already remarked that the Negro is a problem in the United States because he precipitates a conflict between our philosophically accepted ethical values and our methods of dealing with peoples. The former is rooted in our veneration for the past and in our conception of the nature of man and his relation to the Supreme Being, while the latter is anchored in our historic tendency to compromise. The one finds its expression in our articles of faith (the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and the Constitution) and conceives of democracy as a way of life while the other finds its expression in a laissez faire philosophy and rugged individualism and conceives of democracy as a mechanism - the doctrine of majority rule. The resultint clash between ideal and practice has posed for us the crucial test of the strength of our ideals.

There was a moment in history when the manner in which a nation resolved its internal problems was of relative insignificance in the determination of the attitudes of other peoples toward that nation. But that was a fleeting moment. Today modern transportation and communication facilities, the resurgence of the ideals of human decency as apposed to the excessed of the racists and the undemocratic tendencies in democratic and totalitarian countries alike, have all served to dissipate space and bring men closer together, to emphasize their interdependence and to make more vocal and vociferous the voices which, throughout history, have answered Cain's eternal question with a loud affirmative. The present world conflict with its subdued but pervasive emphasis on race has only served to make more imperative the resolution of the cultural conflict in accord with democratic ideals. For today a riot in Detroit, a lynching in Florida or a police murder in Los Angeles are no longer mere incidents in our domestic life but potent weapons used against us by our enemies. These things not only aid our enemies but they frighten our friends. For whether we like it or not the United States has become the curcible in which the strength of our faith is being tested under the watchful eyes o friends and foes alike. The way in which we meet that test will determine in large part the attitudes which others will hold toward us in the post-war years.

The shcool which is concerned with the preservation of the democratic ideal must actively seek to promote the ideal as a way of life for all Americans and conceive of mechanistic democracy as but a means to aid in the achievement of the ideal. Such a school will not long ignore the questions raised by the presence of the Negro in America and will lend its weight to those who work for a solution to the problem in accord with the democratic goals in America .

II Anticipated Outcomes

A. In terms of Student Behavior

The Criterion for the successful evaluation of any unit of work should be the changes in student behavior wihich occur as a result of the study of the unit. Teachers and pupils about to engage in the study of a unit bearing on the Negro and his relations to American life will naturally want to formulate their own objectives and to work with these in mind. Any listing of objectives here then would be quite out of order were they not designated as purely suggestive or indicative of the kinds of behaviors teachers and pupils might want to work for. (It is important however, that teachers and pupils state their objectives in terms of anticipated observable changes in behavior).

1. Knowledges and understandings. The effective democratic citizen has a knowledge of and increasingly understands:

1.1. the evolutionary concept of history.

1.2. the techniques for combatting intolerance.

1.3. the basic social and psychological factors which make for group prejudices.

1.4. the meaning and use of pressure groups.

1.5. the nature of the social order and the coercive influence of tradition upon modes of action.

1.6. the basic problems of group survival in a nation that tends toward the democratic ideal.

1.7. the issues involved in the present war and their relations to race.

1.8. the basic economic, political and social problems affecting his group status in American life.

1.9. the contributions of others to American life.

1.10 the meaning of the democratic ideal.

1.11 the responsibilities of an American citizen.

2. Habits, skills, and abilities. The effective democratic citizen:

2.11 consciouly develops and proposes hypothetical solutions to group problems accepting modifications, changes and discarding theirs entirely when the evidence seems to warrant it.

2.2. makes the necessary adjustments and accommodations in his every day living but seeks constantly to eliminate those forces which make undemocratic adjustments and accommodations necessary.

2.3. sees his group problem in its proper historical perspective and views it objectively.

2.4. actively supports the efforts of all groups seeking to make universal in practice the democratic ideal.

2.5. tries to create favorable impressions about himself and his group in the minds of others.

2.6. pleads his cause in an intelligent yet forceful manner.

2.7. discriminates between races anf racism.

2.8. chooses his leadership with care-ignoring the demogogues, the agitator and the messiah who would prey upon his emotions.

2.9. increases his ability to discover and eradicate his own weaknesses and attempts to eliminate ignorance in his group.

2.10. increases in his ability to face his wown and his group problems realistically but escapes self-pity.

2.11. increasingly works to over come the barriers which prevent the full realization of democracy.

2.12. resents insults to his dignity and self respect but expresses that resentment in an intelligent and effective manner.

2.13. reserves judgment on all issues until there is sufficient evidence on which to base a conclusion but is always willing to re-examine that conclusion in the light of new evidence or valid criticism.

3. Value Pattersn - attitudes, appreciations and interests. The effective democratic citizen:

3.1. unfailingly rejects revolutionary and violent means as a method in effecting desirable changes.

3.2. increasingly uses his talents, skills and abilities to promote individual, national and group progress always subordinating individual progress to the achievement of the greater goodfor the whole.

3.3. works actively to change institutional behavior to fit the needs of the group and to promote the national ideal.

3.4. appreciates and understands the meaning of human freedom and uses that appreciation and knowledge to effectively promote the democratic way of life.

3.5. works with others in the extension and improvement of the democratic way of life and in so doing guarantees the ultimate full participation in that way of life by all groups.

3.6. appreciates and takes pride in the past experiences of his group and its contributions to world culture but is not a racial chauvanist.

3.7. takes a positive stand in the present war and recognizes it as a war of survival and actively seeks to promotes the full utilization of all our manpower and other resources in its conduct.

3.8. recognizes the essential unity of all men, rejecting any doctrine that ascribes peculiar traits of character and intelligenee to province of a particular race, and seeks to implement the doctrine of the brotherhood of all men through the utilization of all the forces at his command.

3.9. is developing and constantly re-inforcing a sustaining belief in existence of a moral law of the universe and uses this belif to create for himself a personal philosophy of life.

3.10. asserts and maintains his own dignity and self respect and respects the dignity of others.

3.11. effectively assails rumor-mongers and the carriers of cliches that tend to smear or blacken the characters of others.

3.12. recognizes the great strides in progress made by Negroes during the past seventy-five years but knows that this progress was possible only in a democracy.

B. In Terms of Generalizations.

Generalizations may be thought of as guide line for the selections of subject matter content for they are the broad concepts or understandings which the teacher wants the students to get.[16] Hanna describes useful generalizations as being of four kinds: "some are descriptive in that they aummarize a number of facts or situations; some show the cause and effect relationship revealed through the examination of many situations; others state principles which if understood and accepted serve as guides for futureaction; while a fourth type may be described as conclusions to a course of action to be adopted after all the reliable and pertinent data have been examined."

The generalizations which the teacher has may not be the ones which the pupils finally adopt. No democratic teacher will attempt to impose his own generalized ideas upon the pupils and on a question about which there is so wide a range of opinion as the present one the forceful imposition o teacher opinion upon students would be an educational catastrophe. So too would be the attempt to set up a list of generalizations as the ones which teachers should accept. This list then may be viewed in its true light as a suggestive one and in no way an exhaustive one.

1. Economic.

1.1. The basis for choosing employees should be merit, ability to perform required tasks, ability to work cooperatively, and responsibility rather than race.

1.2. While segregation has forced the Negro to develop his own institutional organizations e.g. insurance companies, banks, stores, etc., this is not a valid reason for the continuance of segregation.

1.3. The statement "the Negro is the first to be fired and the last to be hired" is a truism in American life and reflects much of the pattern of the economic life of Negroes.

1.4. While the employment opportunities for Negroes have increased during the present war the pattern of Negro employment has changed only slightly.

1.5. The precedent established during the period of the operation of the National Industrial Recovery Act of giving official government sanction to the principle of wage differential based on race is a dangerous one, the recent War Labor Board decision abolishing such differentials notwithstanding.

---

16. Lavone A. Hanna. Resource Unit on Health. Stanford Social Educatio Inves. Stanford University

1.6. The establishment of the Fair Employment Practices Committee to handle cases involving race prejudice and job descrimination in industry is a legitimate exercise of governmental authority in an effort to establish the basic Am. idea

1.6. The practice o writing racial protective clauses in national and state legislation is made necessary by the acts of groups who would deny Negroes equality of employment opportunities, but it is dangerous in practice for the minimum may fast become the maximum.

1.7. The use of legislative coercion to prevent the full and equal employment of Negroes in governmental agencies is a grave threat to democracy.

1.8. The full utilization of the available Negro manpower is essential to winning the war.

1.9. The disappearance of the traditional "Negro job" and the closing of other job opportunities to Negroes create grave problems of ecomomic stability for them.

1.10 The Negro laborer was early forced into the role of strikbreaker by the attitude of labor unions toward him.

1.11 The Negro farmer has been steadily losing out as a farm owner since 1920

1.12 The theory of collective bargaining is predicated on the assumption that every worker should have a right to join the bargaining agency. Then labor unions bar Negroes from membership they weaken the principle of collective bargaining and violate the spirit of democracy.

1.13 Much race friction is basically economic.

1.14 The Negro is a capable, efficient and loyal employee when given an equal opportunity to work.

1.15 The use of "vagrancy laws" in some states to force Negroes to work at low wages has often brought them into conditions of semi-peonage.

1.16 The attempts to restrict the mobility of Negro labor in the South are gross violations of the democratic traditions.

1.17 The Fair Employment Practices Act brought increased wage incomes to thousands of Negro laborers, particularly those in the South.

1.18 Negroes suffered most during the depression the denial of job opportunities and the discriminatory practice of relief agencies.

1.19 Groups, like business concerns, should strive to obrain a balance between productive and non-productive wealth. A large portion of the Negro's wealth is in non-productive enterprises.

1.20 The economic problems of the Negro are in large measure a part of the total economic problems of the nation but the problem is made more acute for the Negro through economic discrimination.

1.21. Labor unions as the spokesman for all laborers are a part of a democratic system.

2. Social:

2.1. Some of the prejudice against Negroes arises out of the recency of their slave heritage.

2.2. Race riots, lynchings, and other forms of lawless violence undermine and tend to destroy the Negro's faith in America's belief in democracy.

2.3. A denial to the Negro of equal opportunity in any area is a negation of the democratic ideal.

2.4. There is general and widespread discrimination against the Negro in all sections of the United States.

2.5. Negroes have contributed and are yet contributing to every field of scholarly and intellectual endeavor.

2.6. While a few individual Negroes have broken through the barriers set up against the group, the continued denial to Negroes of certain elementary opportunities deprives the nation of the many contributions a larger group could make.

2.7. The appearance of such characters as Father Divine, "Elder" Michauz, and others reflect the uncertainty and confusion among Negroes during the depression and recovery years.

2.8. To the reconstruction legislatures can be traced the firm establishment in the South of the system of universal free education.

2.9. Real estate zoning laws and restrictive residential covenants which prohibit any American citizen from living in a given area because of race are denials of the democratic principle.

2.10. All reacial, national anc cultural groups have contributed to the growth of the American Nation and should share equally in its privileges.

2.11. A free, equal and universal system of public education is a fundamental tenet of democracy.

2.12. The denial to any group of an equal opportunity in any area is a violation of democratic principles.

2.13. The National Youth Administration and Civilian Conservation Corps served to rehabilitate thousands of Negro youth.

2.14. The life expectancy of Negroes is shortened from five to seven years as a result of the conditions under which they are born and have to live.

2.15. The low cost housing program financed by the U. S. Government has greatly improved the living conditions of thousand of Negro families.

2.16. The spectre of an overwhelming increase in the Negro population has no basis in fact.

2.17. The medium size of the Negro family is smaller thanthat of the white.

2.18. Southern cities are particularly lax in their concern for the sections of the city populated largely by Negroes.

2.20. There are no valid tests proving the innate inferiority of any racial, national or cultural group.

2.21. Environmental conditions are primarily responsible for the high crime rate among Negroes but to this must be added the undemocratic practices of local courts and police agencies in dealing with Negroes.

2.22. There is little or no correlation between lynching and the actual commission of a specific crime.

2.23. The "fee system" of paying the local law enforcement agents in inherently dangerous to democracy.

2.24. Juvenile delinquency among Negroes, as in all other groups, has increased as a result of the war.

2.25. The lack of public library facilities for Negroes is a factor conditioning their further intellectual progress.

2.26. The high cost of medical care is a grave threat to the health of the nation and agravates the gravity of the health situation among Negroes.

2.27. Mortality and morbidity rates are highest among Negroes in the lease favored environmental conditions. This reflects the general pattern of mortality and morbidity which are high among any people whose environmental conditions are poor.

2.28. There is an inadequacy of Negro professionals in every category except the ministry.

2.29. The most significant single contribution to American folk music is the Negro spiritual.

2.30. Recreational facilities for Negroes are inadequate in every section of the U. S. but this inadequacy is heightened in the South by the discriminatory policies regarding the use of available public facilities.

2.31. The Negro church, which once served as the focal point of Negro activities, interests and programs is fast losing its influence over the group.

2.32. Illiteracy among Negroes has decreased steadily since 1880.

2.33. In no Southern state are there sufficient financial resources for the support of an adequate system of public education but the inadequacies of the system are aggravated for Negroes by the discriminatory policies of public education officers.

2.34. The matriarchal pattern of the Negro family reflects the economic and social conditions under which Negroes live.

2.35. The economic insecurity of the Negro family makes for a greater degree of family disorganization.

2.36. The historian's disregard for the role the Negro has played in American history deprives children of a full knowledge of the contributions Negroes have made.

2.37. There is no scientific evidence to support the theory that Negroes are innately more musical than other groups.

2.38. Attitudes, customs, and mores become more coercive with traditions, therefore, no sudden and overwhelming change in these should be expected.

2.39. A knowledge of the role the Negro has played in the total history of the U. S. is necessary before any valid evaluation of his contributions to American society and culture can be made.

2.40. Negroes are not unique asa people of slave heritage. Every racial group has been subjected to this institution at various periods in history.

2.41. Negroes have a long history as fighters for liberty.

2.42. The Negro has completely absorbed American cultures. Except for color there is no distinguishable difference between him and any other native American.

3. Political.

3.1. The creation of laws designed to infringe upon the rights of any American citizen is a violation of the democratic ideal.

3.2. The political apathy of large numbers of Negroes in the South is, in part, the result of a series of disappointing experiences in attempting to exercise the franchise.

3.3. The use of the ballot to achieve immediate and long term gains is the potent weapon not yet clearly understood or exercised by Negroes even in those communities where they are relatively free to do so.

3.4. The passage of a Federal Anti-lynch law would probably serve to reduce the numbers of lynchings only if it were vigorously enforced.

3.5 The policy of "race voting" may serve temporarily to achieve specific goals but is dangerous in principle.

3.6. Political action will solve many group problems but not all of them.

3.7. The dramatic shift of Negro voting strength in 1932 meant the assertion of political independence by large numbers of Negroes.

3.8. The ballot is a sacred trust and should be used to promote the democratic pattern for all.

3.9. The political power of Negroes (asmeasured in potential voting strength) is declining.

3.10. The organization of the Negro political party in those states having large Negro populations does not seem practical.

3.11. The continued existence of the one party system in the South is a grave threat to democratic progress.

3.12. Political parties are quasi-public organizations and should be open to all regardless of race.

3.13. While the Communist party has secured some Negro converts it has never appealed very storngly to the Negro masses.

3.14. "Lily-whiteism" in politics is an undemocratic practice.

3.15. It is impossible to legislate attitudes but it is possible to legislate against undemocratic actions based on undemocratic attitudes.

3.16. Pending the repeal of discriminatory legislation denying the ballot to large numbers of citizens, congress should re-apportion, for purposes of representation, the various states.

3.17. The U. S. Supreme Court through its interpretation of the Constitution has prevented many discriminatory laws from becoming binding. On the other hand the court has given legality to segregation and thereby promoted, indirectly, discrimination.

3.18. The existence of large numbers of Negroes in a compact area of an urban community often leads to "gerry mandering" which leaves the group politically impotent.

3.19. The doctrine of States' Rights prevents federal action in certain areas and has often been used to impede democratic progress.

3.20. The Bill of Rights and the Constitution offer real protection to every American citizen but Southern Courts of law often ignore and violate these guarantees in dealing with Negroes.

3.21. The policy of taking "judicial notice" of current practices has given legality to many acts of opression in the South.

3.22. Corruption and debauchery in government do not necessarily follow the entrance of the Negro in politics.

3.23. There is a class structure, though not a highly rigid one, among Negroes.

3.24. Religion is a strong determinant of a people's culture. The Negro has accepted the religion of the dominant group giving it his own in erpretation and emphasis but in no way creating a new religion.

3.25. There are two principal kinds of majority and minority grouping, quantitative and qualitative. One may shift in his role as a quantitative minority or majority but can seldom shift his status as a member of a qualitative minority.

3.26. Acculturation refers to the process of cultural borrowing or the inter-change between cultures.

3.27. Associational contacts between peoples on an equal plane lead to an understanding and appreciation not possible where such association is forbidden.

3.28. There have been many proposed "solutions to the Negro problem" but most of these have been outside the pale of democratic principles and have therefore been rejected.

III. Approaches to the Problem.

Teachers in different school situations and viewing the larger problem of how we best can promote the full integration of the Negro in American life from varying points of vantage may decide upon any one of several possible approaches. As stated here the problems approach is assumed but the question lends itself equally to the chronological or topical approach. The teacher who views the problem from the point of view that the most effective method for securing the necessary information is the chronological organization of historical facts will probably use that approach. For the teacher who favors the topical approach the following sugrestions may have merit:

The Negro as a factor in the Civil Warand Reconstruction periods.
The Negro and the National Defense Effort.
The Segregated School Systems of the South.
The Negro's Participation in American Politics.
The problems of Health among Negroes.
Job opportunities for Negro youth.
Recreational facilities for Negroes in the Unites States.
Slavery and the abolition movement.
The Negro press and race relations.
Negro uplift organizations.
The slave insurrections.
The growth of Negro Colleges and Universities.

Even the teacher who makes use of the problems approach may want to narrow the range of study to a consideration of the immediate local aspect of the unit. Such a teacher may find these suggestions of help:

How can we improve our own health habits and raise the health index of the community?
What can we do to promote the full use of Negro labor in the local war industry?
How can we best promote inter-racial understanding in the local community?

What can we do to help secure the right to vote if not for our partents now, then for oursevles in later years?
What can we do to provide our Negro community with better recreational facilities?

Whatever the approach the teacher should strive to insure that the study involve more than mere academic calisthenics. There should be some conclusions drawn, some solutions proposed, some understandings, skills and habits acquired, and where practical, some overt action taken. Teachers should not however, steer clear of the study of a unit of this king on the grounds that intensive study will lead to no more than further frustrations because of an apparent inability to act. Overt action does not have to follow the process of problem solving.[17] Indeed neither overt, immediate or direct action need follow a problem solving unit. In many instances all forms of immediate, direct and overt action about a given problem may be taboo. Pupils and teachers together however, can obtain a degree of satisfaction from the knowledge that the study has broadened their own outlook through improved skills, changed attitudes and a real desire to improve the situation.

IV. Suggested Activities

A. Initiatory Activities

Upon the initiatory experiences offered the pupil entering upon the study of a new unit may well depend the ultimate success of the whole unit. Teachers should therefore, plan their initiatory experiences in such a way as to conserve the already indicated interest of the pupil and at the same time create a more powerful and dynamic interest which will sustain him as he and the teacher cooperatively plan the details of the work together. Each teacher must know her pupils and her local situation if she wishes to get the highest type of pupil response as she launches out on a new unit. In this task a third person can go no further than to suggest a number of activities any one of which or none of which may be of help. It is with their fact clearly in mind that the following activities are suggested:

1.0. Pre-Tests:

1.1. Attitudes tests. An attitudes test given a t the outset of any unit dealing with any aspect of race has two distinct advantages. 1). It can be used to determine, in part, pupil prejudices and thus serve as the first step in the evaluation of the work under the unit. 2) it will aid the teacher in determining "clusters of opinion" on which work might or might not need to be done depending almost entirely upon whether those opinions are negative, neutral, uncertain or positive. The teacher must be careful however, in the discussion of the test results with the class not to identify any individual point of view as revealed by the test for to do so not only violates the confidence of the pupil but might serve to defeat the purpose of the test.

1.2. Informational tests. Informational tests worked out by the teacher and designed to discover the quantity and quality of information already in the possession of the pupil may be used to discover the areas or weakness of strength. The results of these tests in terms of the strengths and weaknesses revealed may be used in a class discussion to initiate the unit. While there are no standardized information tests on the Negro, suggested question items might be obtained from the Association for the study of Negro Life and History, 1538 Ninth Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. and from the ~~Commission on Inter-racial Co-operation~~, 703 Standard Building, Atlanta, Georgia

Southern Regional Council

2.0. Radio programs. Recordings and phonograph records. Often pupil interest can be aroused and directed toward a given subject through the judicious use of radio transcriptions. While there are not many such recordings dealing with Negroes there are some excellent ones available at little or no cost to the teacher. These recordings do however, require special turntable equipment. There are some agencies that rent the necessary equipment. while the Secondary School Study which owns the equipment of the kind needed has been very generous in making it available to the schools of the South. Teachers desirous of borrowing this machinery should write Mr. W. A. Robinson, Driector-Secondary School Study-Atlanta University-Atlanta, Georgia for information about this service.

2.1. Play the recording of the program "The Negro in America" (Immigrants All-Americans All Series) ask pupils to identify the names they recognize. Urge them to submit bits of information about the Negro which they already have been included in the radio presentation. Suggest that they begin the collection of data in order to present a similar "radio program" to the whole school.

2.2. As an alternative recording the teacher might use the first twelve minutes of the first program in the Freedom's People series.

2.3. Play the recorded version of the first program in the Brown Heroines series of radio programs heard over a nationwide hookup. Since this series deals with the role of Negro women in American history and particularly in the present war, raise questions dealing with the nature of a minority group. Ask pupils if they can see any relationahip between our insistence upon woman's inferior role in American life and the role of the Negro. A discussion of the tactics used by women in the early suffragette movement may be used to create interest in a discussion of the techniques that might be employed by American Negroes to gain a measure of equality.

2.4. Play the recording The Story of Toussaint L'Ouverture. Ask the students their ppinion of L'Ouverture and the Haitian revolt. Raise with the pupils the question as to the probable reasons for the success of the Haitian revolt and the repeated failures of the slave insurrections in the Un S. (A word need be said here though about exercising care in the handling of the material dealt with in the recording for it can easily lead children to a desire for consideration of the life of L'Ouverture thus setting in motion a unit for which the teacher is unprepared. While the study of Haiti is a romantically interesting one and one with which the children ought to be slightly familiar, it must be remembered that the object here is to initate a unit on the methods of integrating the Negro into American Life. Recording no longer available but script sent free on request to N. B. C.

3.0. Phonograph records-ordinary phonograph records have value also as initiatory aids.

3.1. Play the Paul Robeson recording of Ballad for Americans. Raise with pupils the value of such a recording. What does it express in terms of the American ideals to them? What reasons can they suggest for the selections of Robeson to introduce the song?

3.2. Play several carefully selected records illustrative of the gradual evolution of modern swing music from the early blues songs and the itinerant Negro jazz bands of an early period. Raise with pupils the balue of such contributions to American music and to American life in general. Ask if music is the only area to which Negroes have contributed.

3.3. Play the musical numbers Summertime and I've Got plenty of Nothing. Ask the pupils to describe the mental picture of the Negro which the lyrics of these songs create. Have the class make a composite of the pictures thus described and use this as a point of departure in initiating the unit.

3.4. Play the spiritual Swing Low Sweet Chariot and the second movement from Dvorak's New World Symphony. Ask the pupils if they can recognize any similarities in theme. Point out that much of the New World Symphony is bases on variations in the themes of several spirituals. Ask the pupils if they recognize any others. Raise with them the question of the influence of the spiritual upon American folk music.

3.5. Read selected portions of Stephen Benet's narrative poem John Brown's Body using the story of John Brown to illustrate to pupils 1) the kind of driving zeal which led many a lover of human liberty to defend at all costs the rights of an oppressed people and 2) the futility of precipitate action in attempting to wreak change upon a cultural institution.

3.6. Secure a copy of the Saturday Review of Literature for Dec. 19, 1942 and read the articles on the Negro press (Reprinted in the Readers Digest January, 1943). Secure also a copy of the magazine Common Ground (Spring Issue '43) and read Roi Ottley's reply to the articles in the Saturday Review of Literature. Ask the class to discuss the relative merits of the articles - points raised, conclusions reached and the validity of the arguments. This should lead to a discussion of the function of a newspaper and the reasons for the existence of the Negro press.

3.7. In cooperation with the Librarian and art teacher arrange an attractive display on Negro life in the United States. Put books and other materials on the display shelf so students can pick them up and handle them. Raise questions in class about the display, its purposes, important events and personages represented and steer the discussion in the desired direction.

3.8. Read to the class from Rackam Holts Biography of George Washington Carver the story of the exchange of the boy for the horse. (The story is also told in Readers Digest February, 1937) Raise questions concerning the relative value of animals (horses) and human beings at the time of the exchange. Inquire of pupils their guesses as to what might have happened to this scientific genius and southern farm life had he not been exchanged for a horse on this particular Sunday morning. Inquire of them about the wastage of human resources because of prejudices which prevent their discovery and development and the full utilization of their potentialities.

3.9. Read to the class the article "What a Negro Mother Faces" published in Forum magazine for August 1938. Relate the pupils discussion to the basic American creed of the right of every citizen to a free and equal existence. Are the mother's fears justified? Does the situation she describes epist-generally or is it an isolated situation? Do pupils understand the basic facts underlying the real and imaginary fears of the expectant mother?

3.10. Recount for pupils the story of the refusal of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to permit Marian Anderson to appear in conert at its Hall and her later dramatic appearance on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial before an audience of 75,000. Raise with the pupils the question of the ideals of the "founding fathers" as expressed in various documents (notably the Declaration of Independence) and the denial of those values in the names of these "fathers" by their great grandaughters. What were the attitudes of Jefferson, Washington, Franklin, Morris and others towards slavery in a democracy? Ask pupils if they think that the 75,000 people who attended the Anderson Concert were conscious of a positive reaffirmation of faith in the democratic ideal.

3.11. From the report of the Director of the Selective Service read to the pupils the statistics on the number of Negroes rejected for armed service and the reasons therefor, ask pupils if they know or feel that they understand the basic reasons for these rejections.

3.12. Secure a copy of the pamphlet Black Justice (American Civil Liberties Union 31 Union Square W. New York, N. W. price 10¢) and read from it factual stories relating to the treatment of Negroes before the courts. Ask pupils if the denial to Negroes of basic constitutional guarantees does not impede the progress of democracy in the United States.

3.13. Recount the story surrounding the death of Juliette Derricote because of discrimination in the administration of public health facilities (the most complete and detailed report of the facts surrounding this incident is contained in the Report of the Commission on Inter-Racial Cooperation regarding the automobile accident in Dalton, Georgia, November 6, 1931. (Free) For a critical analysis of this report see the editorial appearing over the signature of W. E. B. DuBois in the Crisis magazine for March, 1932).

3.14. Read the poem "Lift Every Voice and Sing". Ask the pupils their opinion about its use as the anthem of the Negro group in America. Do Negroes need a separate anthem? Why do they often regard the music of this poem as their national anthem? (A verse from the poem and a statement about its use is given in Time for the week of September.

3.15. Display the large map "America- a nation of many people from many countries". (The map may besecured from the Council against Intolerance, 60 East 42 Street, NewYork City; Free). Ask pupils to suggest some reasons for the relative lack of occupational diversity among Negroes: Why are the greatest number of Negroes living in the South?

3.16. Read excerpts of the War Labor Board opinion in the case of Abolishing wage differantials based upon race. Why is the decision hailed as a great democratic victory? What were the reasons for the establishment of wage differentials? Were these reasons justifiable in a democracy? Does the decision end all wage differentials based on color?

3.17. From the pamphlets Story of Civil Liberty (secured from the American Civil Liberties Union, 42nd Street W. New York, N. Y. 10¢) The strange Case of Mrs. Eaton (also secured from the Civil Liberties Union; Free). Tampa-Tar and Terror (committee for the Defense of Civil Rights in Tampa-Tampa, Fla; Free). Recount gactual stories that illustrate prejudices against other than racial minorities. Ask pupils what makes a minority: What causes prejudices?

3.18. In cooperation with the English, Art and Drama teachers have the students of another class, perhaps another grade, present in dramatic form the story of some outstanding achievement by a Negro, (the work of Dr. Drew of Howard University Medical School in developing the blood Bank System for the American Red Cross is an example), the story of a lynching or perhaps narrate, through the use of public address system, the story of one of the slave uprisings, the undreground railroad, life of an individual, or some event of interest.

3.19. Secure copies of the Durham Resolutions (write Dr. Charles S. Johnson, Fisk University-Nashville, Tennessee). The platform of the March on Washington Movement (write A. Phillip Randolph, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.) and the Detroit Statement of Issues of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (69 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.). Extract from each of these the pertinent materials dealing with proposed solutions. Present them to the class for consideration and discussion. Point out that each of these was based upon the group's interpretation of the facts of the situation. Suggest that the class make a similar survey of facts in order to evaluate the proposals.

4. Motion Pictures- Motion pictures are a great initiatory aid. By dramatizing a dituation they give life to it. Often the film shown at the commercial theatre will present questions of race stereotyping which can be used to arouse and stimulate discussion. But for the controlled group situation, the teacher can more nearly guarantee a common b ackground of pupil experiences through the use of films secured for that purpose and whose material has been definitely integrated into the work pattern of the unit. The following films are suggested for use as initiatory experiences.

4.1. The Liberian Republic This film tells the story of the founding of Liberia as a haven of refuge from American slavery. Modern developments are shown and the president of the Republic is shown addressing the legislative body and performing the normal functions of his office. (Bell and Howell Co. 1801 Larchmont Ave. Chicago, Illinois).

4.2. Henry Browne-Farmer (United States Department of Agriculture). A Negro farmer is shown making his contributions to the war effort through increased production. A son is in training at the nearby Army Aviation Training Center at Tuskegee. Brief shots of the Center are included. Canada Lee star of Native Son is the narrator.

4.3. They all go to Evander-(American Film Center, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y.) Shows democracy in action as a group of children of different races, cultures, and nationalities engage in cooperative activities. Comments on American democracy.

4.4. World we Want to Live In (National conference of Christians and Jews 381 Fourth Avenue, New York, N.Y.) Depicts the growth of religious and racial intolerance durin g the past decade. A Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish child play on an American beach while across the ocean intolerance against minority groups grows. There is a discussion of some of the kinds of intolerance that have grown in the United States. Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey, Charles Evans Hughes, Eddie Cantor and Alfred E. Smith speak out for a greater degree of tolerance in America.

4.5. One Tenth of Our Nation - (College Film Center, 59 E. Van Buren Street, Chicago Illinois) This is an attempt at a documentary film on Negro life in the United States. It has been widely used in schools of the nation. Attempts to present an over all picture of development. A little unbalanced on the education side.

4.6. Three Counties Against Syphilis (United States Public Health Service) Here is shown a concertrf attack upon venereal disease. Has merit here because it portrays, by implicationk the high incidence of syphilis a ong Negroes. Teachers s ould warn students that though Negroes are shown in the greater number of sequences, they ar æ not the only victims of the disease nor are al l Negroes infected .

4.7. Housing in Atlanta (Atlanta Housing Authority-University of Georgia Extension, 223 Walton St., N. W. Atlanta, Georgia) A clear picture of the effect of poor housing upon a community and the way in which improved housing will affect community standards. Numerous shots of the pre and post development periods in Negro areas.

4.8. Negro Colleges in Wartime (Office of War Information, Washington). The contributions of Negro Colleges to the War effort.

4.9. Work of the Jeanes Teachers (Harmon Foundation, Inc. 140 Nassau St. New York, N. Y.) Work being done by the Jeanes supervisors to improve educational facilities and living conditions in the rural South.

4.10. We work Again. (American Film Center, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y.) Negro work activities under the Federal Work Program.

4.11. Sharecroppers (March of Time, 1936) Brief shots of living concitions among sharecroppers in the South, White and Negro. One or two scenes showing improved conditions after farm loans have been made.

4.12. Story of Dr. Carver (Teaching Film Custodians, may be secured from any depository). The life story of Dr. Carver, Some scenes from his laboratory and an enumeration of his contributions to Southern agriculture.

4.13. Y.W.C.A. Harlem New York (The Harmon Foundation Inc. 140 Nassau St. N.Y.C.) Depicts scenes in the life o an urban Negro youth, as a girl writes a letter home describing life in the Metropolis.

5. Non fiction books often raise questions on which there is considerable disagreement or they make analysis and proposals which meet with immediate debate. The teacher can frequently make use ofthese to initiate units. The assumption here of course is the pupils have a common background-having read the book themselves or having listened to the reading of it in the class.

5.1. Historical fiction is perhaps better adapted to serve as an initiatory activity than the ordinary novel for the historical novel carries with it an aura of authenticity not shared by the ordinary novel. The historical novel therefore is likely to have more real influence upon the pupil-especially if it treats of a period or of events with thich he has had some contact through other courses or other experiences. The teacher might provide the necessary common background from a piece of hsitorical fiction by reading a part of the dialogue, a description of an event, or by retelling the plot.

5.2. The short story though often lacking in the same elements as the historical novel can be used frequently in the same manner as the former. For the short story often carries a moral or hidden meaning which can be with a minimum of difficulty extracted and presented to the class as a point of departure.

6.0. Written materials - Various kinds of written materials can be used to initiate a unit. Short stories, historical fiction, poems, news items, columns and editorials amd magazines articles each have value. Particularly do newspaper stories, editorials and magazine articles often arouse considerable pupil interest in issues relating to race. Such sources should be used. A work of caution is added, however. The appearance of a news article, editorial or magazine article seldom, if ever, co-incides with the exact moment when the teacher and the class are about to launch upon a unit connected with that subject and teachers should not, no matter what pupil interest may be, interrupt and leave unfinished an activity upon which they have cooperatively entered and are thus committed in order to capitalize on this initial interest to inaugurate a new unit comtemplated for the future. Instead, such materials should be collected, filed away, and brought out again at the proper moment when the new unit is about to be launched. To skip from unit to unit in order to capitalize on pupil interest in new areas at any and all given times is to destroy a basic educational goal...the planning and execution of a program.

7.0. Holidays - National observances.
Various holidays and national observances can be used to initiate a unit. The observance of Lincoln's birthday, National Negro Health Week, and the preparation for the observance of Negro History Week each offer initiatory opportunities.

8.0. Essay Contests
The interest engendered by essay contests may also be used to initiate a unit. Each year the American Legion, the American Magazine and other agencies sponsor Nationwide essay contests dealing with some aspect of Americanism.

The attention of pupils can be directed to a discussion of the extension of basic democratic privileges as a part of Americanism. In this way a new unit may be begun. More direct incentibes for a study of the Negro are offered by the annual National Urban League and National Association for the Advancement of Colored People essay contests promoted and sponsored through their respective house organs- Opportunity and Crisis. The teacher should make use of these stimuli and at the same time not ignore that perennial promoter of units on the Negro-the annual essay contest sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association.

Phylon

B. Developmental Activities - For the purpose of collecting data

The developmental activities of a unit have a two-fold purpose (1) to gather data and (2) to present data. This does not mean to imply the subordination of other educational objectives basic to the unit such as the development of specific skills, attitudes, habits, etc., to the process of data collection and presentation. Rather does the collection and presentation of data constitute a most effective technique for the promotion of these objectives.

No attempt has been made here to compile a complete list of developmental activities for the possibilities are unlimited. Further, the resourceful teacher will utilize her own imagination plus the combined imaginativeness of all of here pupils and produce her own list of activities. These must, of necessity, be better suited to her situation for she will decide upon them only after due consideration has been given all of the factors influencing the teaching of any unit and particularly, a subject so fraught with dangers as the one herein suggested. The question posed for consideration in this unit is one which will require the teacher in those areas where the subject creates an emotional tension - to use the utmost skill and tact. The collection and presentation of data (here I include as a part of the data-the conclusions and recommendations of the class) must be done in such a manner as not to arouse undue hostility in the community. Yet it is this latter phase of the work which, in terms of community needs, needs most widespread dissemination not only in the class but throughout the community for it is only through the use of fact finding techniques and intelligent but widespread open forum and discussion that the question posed in this unit will be answered. Nevertheless the teacher must take into consideration the exigencies of the moment and accept a less agressive definition of action. The promotion of critical thinking about a pressing problem which must be solved within the democratic framework is action.

There are several patterns of classroom organization which the teacher might use. One is an organization of the class as committee of the whole to study one phase of the unit permitting each pupil to make individual contributions to the group effort. Another pattern is that in which the class organizes itself as a deliberative body, electing a chairman or president, etc., and assigning responsibilities to to various persons or groups. Still another pattern is one in which the class divides itself into groups accourding to common or allied interests each group assuming the responsibility for the collection and presentation of data bearing on its particular problem. Thus one group might work on the economic problems facing the Negro, another the origin and meaning of race, the historical and psychological bases of race prejudices and antagonisms, the meaning of certain sociological concepts and their application to the American scene, while other groups may concern themselves with a study of such problems as occupational, and population distribution, health, housing, juvenile delinquency and recreational facilities. Care should be taken, however, to preventthe development of the rather stereotyped grouping typical of so many studies of this kind - a group to work on the Negro in Music and Art, Science and Invention, etc. While such groups do have a definite place in the study of the unit their research has a different purpose. These groupings have a tendency to be mere information gathering agencies often with no view in sight other than the presentation to the class of the newly discovered information. In the study of this unit these groups will operate to collect information as evidence necessary to the intelligent formulation of an hypothesis in answer to the problem raised.

1.0. Surveys are a useful method of collecting data. The class might decide to survey:

1.1. the gross revenue potentialities of new business concerns coming into the areas occupied primarily by Negroes. On the basis of this data they might organize a campaign to urge the employment of Negroes in these concerns.

1.2. the recreational facilities available to Negroes in the local community. As a part of this procedure they m ight use a questionnaire to determine the types of facilities desired by the students in the school.

1.3. the housing, recreational, library and other facilities available to Negroes in those sections of the community where the largest number of crimes are committed. A similar study could be made with regard to juvenile delinquents.

1.4. Occupational needs, trends and patterns in the community and draw-up an index of qualifications necessary to enter successfully those occupations.

1.5. the kinds of public services offered the customers by the local department stores and the extent to which these services (e.g. rest room facilities, drinking fountains, elevator service) are available to the Negro customers.

1.6. job losses sustained by Negroes of the community over a given period of time.

1.7. the number of Negro lawyers, doctors, and dentists in a given community and the average income of the group.

1.8. the types of business establishments owned and operated by Negroes and the approximate volume of business.

1.9. the housing facilities for Negroes in the nation, in the community.

1.10. population shifts in the community. This data could be used to suggest the location of new or additional business establishments, schools and revisions in zoning laws.

1.11. the types and numbers of businesses (industries) that have migrated to or recently established in the community and the kinds of job opportunities they offer Negroes.

1.12. the number of Negro homes in the c mmunity that have private libraries, the types of books owned and the number o f books in the community.

1.13. the number of Negroes owning homes in the community, the types of homes, and the assessed and market values of the homes.

1.14. the reading habits of all the pupils in the school.

1.15. the number of automobiles (make, model and purchase price) radios, electric refrigerators, and other modern household appliances owned by Negroes

1.16. the health facilities available to the community and the number available to Negroes.

2.0. Projects-Individual groups may work on specific projects other than those reading and writing. Among others the groups might work on such projects as the following:

2.1. A study of educational opportunities for Negroes in the South.

2.2. A compilation of the number of homicides among Negroes over a given period of time. This can be done very effectively through studying newspaper reports and police blotters.

2.3. Keep a clipping file or other record of cases of police brutality with the immediate environs.

2.4. The compilation of a set of criteria for the efficient operation of various business concerns and apply that criteria in judging the quality of Negro business concerns.

2.5. A collection of restrictive residential covenants and city ordinance barring Negroes from various parts of various communities.

2.6. A follow up study of the graduates of the school during the past few years.

2.7. Work with the local Ministers Alliance in effecting a program of community service for the church.

2.8. Sponsor a clean up-brush up-campaign in the community.

2.9. Begin the collection of free and inexpensive materials relating to the Negro as a permanent addition to the library.

2.10. Begin the collection of old phonograph records of early Negro jazz bands in order to build a permanent collection illustrative of the evolution of swing music.

2.11. Make an analysis of its own and a number of other American history textbooks to determine the author's attitude toward the Negro.

2.12. Set up an information clearing center which would take the responsibility for clearing all requests for new materials and distributing the available and additional materials of all groups on an equitable basis.

2.13. Take the responsiblity for the bulletin board and use it to psot items of interest on the Negro.

2.14. Begin the collection of reproductions of works of Negro artists and works of other artists which depict some aspect of Negro life and add these to the library collection.

2.15. Begin a clipping service and provide information on the Negro to all areas of the school.

2.16. Develop and administer attitudes tests to members of the class or others.

2.17. Read and analyze some of the speeches made by Negro legislators during the reconstruction period.

3.0. Interviews.

The use of interview techniques to gain information can be very effective if the students have a clear conception of the kinds of information they want, have skill in evaluating the answers given by persons interviewed and can so direct the interview as to obtain the maximum amount of desired information in a minimum of time. A very important element of success lies in the correct selection of the "interview". This is no way implies that the average high school student must attain the skill of an expert trained in interview techniques before he can be permitted to conduct an interview. He needs only have, for the initial experience, a fair dedree of tact, courtesy, a definiteness of purpose, a pleasing personality, appearance and the normal exurbance of youth. Among the persons whom the pupils might interview are:

3.1. The local newspaper editor to ascertain his ideas concerning the role the Negro should play in national life and particularly the role he thinks he should play in the local community. Pupils might use this opportunity to present a program for community development to the editor and ask his support of the project. Again the pupils might seek the interview to discuss his newspaper's policy in general towards race relations in the community or to protest an editorial or news item or to state the "other side" of a question.

3.2. E-slaves or old persons in the community who might have first hand knowledge of the Slavery and Reconstruction days. (Such interviews should be carefully recorded for they have real historical value.)

3.3. Local Negro leaders for the purpose of ascertaining their programs of action.

3.4. The officers in various fraternal and uplift organizations for purposes of ascertaining the problems their organizations face.

3.5. Labor leaders for the purpose of ascertaining the policies of their union in dealing with Negroes. How are jobs assigned by the Business Agent? What grievance procedures has the Union set up?

3.6. The local minsters for the purpose of ascertaining the extent of their interest in and program for thedevelopment of the church as an active agency for community service.

3.7. Leaders in the white community such as the president of the Bar Association, the president of the Rotary or Kwianis Club for the purpose of ascertaining the program of their organizations for the improvement of the total group living in the community.

3.8. The Chief of Police and the Mayor for the purpose of ascertaining their attitudes on police brutality, crime, police protection for Negroes and the role which they are willing to play in the extens on of democracy to in clude all the people.

3.9. The officers in the organizations of white women such as the Missionary Society, the League of Women Voters, Daughters of the Confederacy for the purpose of ascertaining their attitudes about and willingness to help secure for Negroes more democratic rights in the community.

3.10. The officers of the Salvation Army for the purpose of determining the attitude of their organization toward Negroes....The number of Negroes they serve and their willingness to extend Christian democracy to them.

3.11. The ministers of the white Methodist, Baptist and Presby terian churches for the purpose of ascertaining the sincerity of their "Everybody Welcome" signs and the degree of support they are willing to give to the program of the commission on Inter Racial Relations of the Federal council of Churches in Christ.

3.12. A Jewish leader for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of prejudice he feel operating against him and his willingness to promote the cause of democratic liberties for Negroes in the nations and the community.

3.13. A Negro laborer for the purpose, if a member of a union, of ascertaining the kinds of treatment he has received at the hands of the Union or, if not a member of a Union his opinion toward labor union?

3.14. The probate judge for the purpose of ascertaining the disposition of Negro juvenile delinquents who are held over by the courts.

4.0. Reading Activities, Reading activities are yet one of the most, if not the most effective method of collectingdata. But reading, like all other activities, should have a definite purpose. There are many types of things about which pupils will want to tto read. The following are purely suggestive of the kinds of things about which pupils might read:

4.1. The rise and development of the Negro College.

4.2. The history of the Underground Railroad.

4.3. The attitude of labor unions towards Negroes.

4.4. The basic causes of the race riots of 1917, 1918, and 1919.

4.5. The anti-slavery movement in the U. S.

4.6. The Post Reconstruction efforts of the South to disfranchise the Negro.

4.7. The attitude of the frames of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution toward the Negro and slavery.

4.8. The attitude of the church toward slavery during various periods.

4.9. The participation of Negroes in America's wars.

4.10. The development of the Ku Klux Klan.

5.0. Visitors to the Class.
The class might invite any of the persons interviewed to visit or it might dispense with an interview procedure and use the class invitations instead. But whatever combination is used these additional persons ought to be invited to appear before the class:

5.1. The president of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to explain the policy and procedures of the Association in handling various issues.

5.2. The secretary of the local Urban League to outline the work of his organization and to differentiate between its work and that of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

5.3. The Manager of the local office of the U. S. Employment Service to explain the policy of his agency in the matter of Negro work referals.

6.0. Excursions:
While the war has put an end to the practice of many secondary schools in engaging in excursive tours that carried them over wide areas or great distances away from school and has drastically curtailed the use of automobile facilities for excursions of any kind there is still some opportunity for short tours away from schools. The students might make any of the following

6.1. A trip to the areas of greatest crime and delinquency in the community to observe living conditions in the homes, and the general environmental situation.

6.2. A trip to the local hospital to see what facilities are provided for Negro patients.

6.3. A trip to the local court to observe the manner in which accused persons are treated.

6.4. Attend the local church services in order to collect data on the practical social significance to the community of the sermons.

6.5. A trip to the county welfare offices to observe the procedural setup for handling the cases of Negro relief clients.

7.0. Movies - Motion pictures shown during the course of a study can supplement in a most effective manner the materials being used. These films might be used: (all are 16 mm. sound).

7.1. We Work Again. (American Film Center, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y. $1.00) A description of Negro work activities under the Federal Work program.

7.2. A Day in Virginia. (American Film Center, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N. Y.) Negro Civilian Conservation Corps workersat work. Emphasis upon rehabilitation aspects of the work.

7.3. Sharecroppers (March of Time-1936. Division of General Extension, University System of Georgia, 223 Walton Street, N. W. Atlanta. $1.00). A graphic description of the economic plight of the South. The government sends money to pay cotton planters for restricted production, the landowners pocket the money. Unrest grows and landowners make use of prejudices to prevent tenants from organizing. Southern Tenant Farmers Union distributes handbills on wage demand. A woman organizer and sympathetic minister severely beaten by landowners. Conclusion states: The fault lies in the one crop system, not individuals.

7.4. The American Way. (American Film Foundation. University System of Georgia Division of General Extension, 223 Walton St., N. W. Atlanta,). A dramatization of the American Constitutional System emphasis upon the Bill of Rights and their "Universal" application in the United States. Excellent for raising questions and promoting future study.

7.5. Fury(M.G.M. Division of General Extension, University System of Georgia. 223 Walton St., S.W. Atlanta). There are three excerpts from this major theatre production. The lynching sequence shows how circumstantial evidence is used to arrest an innocent man. The community passions are aroused and a mob forms. The mob sets fire to the jail with the victim trapped inside. The second excerpt indicates the governors responsibility in preventing acts of violence-illustrates how the governor's vacillation in this instance contributed to the death of an innocent man. The third sequence illustrates the manner in which a whole community will often perjure itself to protect lynchers.

7.6. Art in the Negro Schools. (Harmon Foundation, Inc. 140 Nassau St., New York, N.Y.) A misnomer this film gives a rapid survey of the rise of the Negro since 1865. A map of the U. S. shows the location of schools available to Negroes in the South. Some slight reference to the growing tendency to provide opportunities for art study in these schools .

7.7. Black Legion (Warner Brothers. Division of General Extension. University System of Georgia. 223 Walton St. N. W. Atlanta). There are two excerpts from this major production. One of these shows how undemocratic groups seize upon the economic fears to promote prejudice and unlawful action. The second of these deals with the acts of violence perpetrated by undemocratic organizations.

C, Developmental activities for the purpose of presenting data.

1.0. Charts-graphs and tables.
Students may present their findings through the use of charts-graphs and tables. A composite of these might show .

1.1. The income distribution among Negroes in the local community as compared to the nation.

1.2. the extent and distribution of various kinds of health facilities for Negroes.

1.3. the occupational distribution among Negroes.

1.4. the extend of Negro participation as soldiers ineach of America's wars.

1.5. the incidence of crime and juvenile delinquency among Negroes.

1.6. the incidence of various diseases among Negroes.

1.7. the number of disfranchised potential voters among Negroes.

1.8. the number and distribution o Negro College graduates.

1.9. inequalities in educational facilities for Negroes in the South.

1.10. the total wealth of Negroes at various periods since 1865.

1.11. the number of Negro unemployed employables.

1.12. the rates of infant mortality among Negroes.

1.13. the number and distributions of Negro labor union members.

1.14. the life expectancy of the average Negro.

4.0. Maps can be used to indicate:

4.1. the extent and location of the Negro voting population.

4.2. the course of Negro migration over a given period of time.

4.3. the location of homicides in a given community.

4.4. the states which have civil rights laws.

4.5. the location of cities having restrictive residential covenants.

4.6. the areas of great concentration in the Negro population.

4.7. the location of Negro colleges and universities.

4.8. the migration and relocation of industry.

4.9. the areas of great labor reserves.

4.10. the states least able to provide for adequate educational facilities.

4.11. the states having restrictive laws regulating the social relations between groups.

4.12. the political complexion of the nation as determined by various national elections.

4.13. the states in which Negroes served in Reconstruction legislatures.

4.14. the areas of soil erosion, tenant farming, and low health standards.

4.15. the states involved in the election dispute of 1876.

4.16. the location of early slave uprisings.

D. Culminating activities

A study of a unit on integrating the Negro in American society might culminate in any of the following activities.

A series of Community Forums in which the students would present their findings. conclusions and recommendations to the members of the community.

A panel discussion before the whole student body allowing for questions and comments from the audience.

A series of dramatizations based on historic events or personages and highlighting various achievements of the group.

A Credo in which the students would set forth their essential findings, conclusions and recommendations in mimeographed form and proclaim these as their basis of future action or thought. (While this is a very good way in which to culminate a unit the teacher must exercise reasonable care in using it for such an activity may arouse a community to such hostility as to lead to acts of violence against the pupils, their parents or the teacher or all Negroes).

A radio program in which the students present their findings, conclusions, and such recommendations as they are permitted to make over the local or nearby radio station. (With the payment of a small fee, an electrical recording of the program may be had from the radio station which can be placed in the library as a permanent addition).

A quiz program of the popular type in which the students from the class constitute a "Board of Experts" answering questions from students in the audience.

Written reports from individual pupils or groups embracing the findings, conclusions and recommendations of the pupils or the group.

A debate or "town meeting" discussion in which students take opposing sides and discuss various proposals for the solution of the problem.

A display of materials in which pupils would place on exhibition the materials used in their study-copies of various paintings and work of art by Negroes-books by and avout Negroes-their findings, conclusions and recommendations.

An awards program in which pupils would state their criteria for a democratic citizen actively working to promote better race relations and announce the election of individuals in the community to their Honor Roll of Race Relations .

V. Evaluation

There are many approaches to the problem of evaluation each of which may have value. The techniques used by a given teacher will, in all probability, reflect, in part, the basic educational philosophy to which the teacher subscribes. If her approach to evaluation is entirely in terms of measuring the amount of information which the pupil has acquired then, we may reasonably conclude that she believes the transmission of knowledge to be the principal function of a school. If she approaches the problem from the point of view of measuring the manipulative skills of the pupils then we may, with equal reasonableness, assume her educational philosophy to place an emphasis upon the development of manipulative skills. If, on the other hand, the teacher approaches evaluation from the point of view of one who wishes to measure changes in skills and sttitudes only we may conclude, depending upon our own philosophy, that this teacher has a broader and more appropriate philosophy of education. But in neither instance would we feel that the teacher had developed an effective evaluation program. To say therefore that the evaluation program must be in terms of the objectives is not enough. We must go on from that point to say that the effective evaluation program is both a quantitative and qualitative measurement of the objectives as well as a quantitative and qualitative measurement of the total growth of the pupil. Few techniques are so poorly understood by teachers as the techniques involved in the construction of instruments of evaluation. In recent years there has been a growing recognition of this fact and a number of efforts have been made to change the situation. Workshops in evaluation have been held, bulletins circulated, magazine articles published, and not a few books. Notwithstanding this the masses of teachers are still looking for some techniques for the development of simple, yet reliable, insturments for the measurement of growth in pupils. The simple instruments of measurement attached hereto do not answer the larger question, but are illustrative of the kinds of instruments that can, with some care, be deleloped by any teacher.

Factual Test

Directions: In the following questions check the answer which you think correctly completes the statement.

1. The Kansas-Nebraska Act-

   ( ) repealed the Missouri Compromise and left the question of slavery to popular sovereignty.
   ( ) outlawed the Whig party.
   ( ) granted popular sovereignty to new states but reasserted the principles of the Missouri Compromise.

2. The Supreme Court in the Dred Scott decision-

   ( ) made Negroes free and equal citizens.
   ( ) approved of Jim-Crow laws.
   ( ) declared the Negro had no rights the white man had to respect.

3. The Fair Employment Practices Committee was created-

   ( ) as an Executive Agency to locate jobs for Negroes.
   ( ) as an independent agency to enforee the minimum wage and maximum hour law.
   ( ) as an Executive Agency to investigate complaints of jobs discrimination based on race and religion.

4. The so-called "Grandfather clasue" legislation

   ( ) permitted only those Negroes to vote who had been slaves.
   ( ) barred Negroes and poor whites from the polls.
   ( ) set up ancestral qualifications which Negroes could not meet and therefore could not vote.

5. The North opposed the Black Codes because -

   ( ) they robbed Southern whites of the right to vote.
   ( ) they granted the Negro full civil and political rights.
   ( ) they were discriminatory acts against Negroes.

6. Seward opposed the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation because -

   ( ) he feared its effect upon British public opinion.
   ( ) he did not want to see Negro slavery abolished.
   ( ) he felt Negroes incapable of becoming worthwhile citizens.

7. The process bywhich a people are sent or voluntarily return to their native soil is called -

( ) ostracism.
( ) isolation.
( ) repatriation.

8. The African Negro Kingdoms reached the height of their civilization and culture.

( ) in the 11th and 12th centuries.
( ) in the 13th and 14th centures.
( ) in the 16th and 17th centuries.

9. The doctrine of "States Rights" received its most serious set back before the Civil War.-

( ) in the nullification controversy.
( ) in the passage o the Compromise of 1850.
( ) in the publication of the "Ostend Manifesto".

10. The Supreme Court of the U. S. has appellate jurisdiction

( ) in cases arising out of disputes between this country and other nations.
( ) in cases involving federal questions.
( ) in cases of equity.

11. The basic law of the United States is set forth-

( ) in the Declaration of Independence.
( ) in the Constitution.
( ) in the Constitutions of the various states.

12. The "Negro Seamen Acts" of South Carolina-

( ) prohibited Negroes from working as sailors
( ) provided for the arrest of all Negro sailors entering South Carolina Ports
( ) fixed the hours and wages of Negro sailors.

13. The founder of the "Universal Negro Improvement Association" was ( ) Marcus Garvey.

( ) Booker T. Washington.
( ) Benjamin Banneker.

14. The first organized convention of the Republican party was held in - ( ) 1848

( ) 1854
( ) 1860

15. The American Colonization Society favored

( ) the abolition of slavery and the settlement of all Negroes in a separate part of the United States.
( ) the prohibition of free Negroes owning slaves.
( ) the establishment of a free Negro colony outside the U. S.

16. The slave trade was legally obolished in-

( ) 1828
( ) 1789
( ) 1808

17. The three-fifths compromise in the Constitutional Convention

( ) resulted in a total disregard of slaves.
( ) provided for the enumeration of slaves to fix representation from the states.
( ) granted suffrage to three-fifths of the free Negroes.

18. The last nation to abolish slavery in the Western hemisphere was-

( ) the United States.
( ) Brazil
( ) Santo Domingo.

19. The Emancipation Proclamation -

( ) freed all Negro slaves.
( ) freed only the slaves in the territory.
( ) freed all salves then in territory occupied by Union armies and in the rebellious states.

20. The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution

( ) Made the Negro a citizen but did not grant him the right to vote.
( ) did not grant the Negro immediate citizenship but outlined the stept by which he could become a citizen.
( ) granted the Negro citizenship and the right to vote.

20. The Northwest Ordinance of 1787.

( ) legalized i slavery in the Northwest territory.
( ) prohibited slavery in the Northwest territory.
( ) prohibited the further importation of slaves in the Northwest territory.

22. The War Labor Board decision in the Texas Shipbuilding Case.

( ) granted war industries the right to make differential wage payments based on color.
( ) abolished wage differentials based on color in all industries.
( ) abolished wage differentials based on race only in those industries having war contracts.

23. The average public school expenditure per Negro child in the Southern states in 1939 was nearest

( ) $45.00
( ) $17.30
( ) $ 9.20

24. The approximate ratio of Negro medical doctors to the Negro population is -

( ) one to every 3,125.
( ) one to every 4,602.
( ) one to every 2,892.

25. The approximate percentage of Negro schools of the 1, 2, or 3 teacher variety

( ) 65% of the total.
( ) 38% of the total.
( ) 90% of the total.

26. The median size of the Negro family is -

( ) 5.2
( ) 2.3
( ) 3.1.

27. The approximate amount of wealth in the hands of Negroes in 1861 was-

( ) 25,000,000.
( ) 15,000,000.
( ) 20,000,000.

28. The Supreme Court declared the conviction of Angelo Herndon illegal

( ) the judge was prejudiced.
( ) the law under which he was convicted was unconstitutional.
( ) Negroes did not serve on the Grand Jury.

29. The Negro death rate from Tuberculosis for the age group 10 to 14 during the period 1911-1935.

( ) was approximately twice that of whites.
( ) was approximately five times that of whites.
( ) was approximately ten times that of whites.

30. In Mississippi there are more than 1,000,000 Negroes. They have access-

( ) to 8 of the 22 public libraries in the state.
( ) to none of the 22 public libraries in the state.
( ) to 2 of the public libraries in the state.

Sources of Information

The sources of information on the Negro are practically inexhaustible. The references listed below are, with some exceptions, of general use to teacher and pupil alike. The list is selective only in the sense that everything is not included.

Bibliographies

State Department of Education, Nashville, Tennessee. The Negro, A Selected List for School Libraries of Books by or about the Negro in Africa and America.

Nashville: 1941. Selected Bibliography on the Negro. New York: National Urban League, 1942.

New York Public Library. The Negro-A Selected Bibliography. New York: 1940

Russell Sage Foundation. Negro Housing in Towns and Cities 1927-1937. New York: Russell Sage Foundation, 1937

Work, Monroe. A Bibliography of the Negro in Africa and America. New York: The H. W. Wilson Co., 1928.

Yearbooks and Annuals

Murray, Florence. (Editor). The Negro Handbook. New York: Wendell Mallice & Co. 1942.

Work, Monroe, Editor. The Negro Yearbook: An Encyclopedia of the Negro. Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Books

Baker, Paul E. Negro-White Adjustment: an investigation and analysis of methods in the inter-racial movement in the U. S. Pittsfield, Mass. The Sun Printing Company, 1934.

Benedict, Ruth. Race-Science and Politics. New York: Modern Age Books, 1940.

Bond, Horace Mann. The Education of the Negro in the American Social Order. New York: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1934. The most nearly complete over-all account yet published.

Brown, J.B., & Roucek, J. S. Our Racial and National Minorities. New York: Prentice-Hall, 1939

Brown, Sterling A., Davis, Arthur P. and Lee, Ulysses. The Negro Caravan. New York: The Dryden Press, 1941.

Davis, Allison and Dollard, John. Children of Bondage: The Personality Development of Negro Youth in the Urban South. Wash: Amer. Council on Ed. 1942.

Delafosse, Maurice. Negroes of Africa (Translated by F. Fligelman) Washington: The Associated Publishers, Inc., 1930.

The Most readable and best documented source on the subject.

Detweiler, Frederick G. The Negro Press in the U. S. Chicago: Univ. of Chicago Press., 1922.

Dollard, John W. Caste and Class in a Southerntown. New Haben: Yale Univ. Press, 1939.

Doyle, Bertram W. The Etiquette of Race Relations in the South: A Study of Social Control.

Brief, but authentic and interesting.

DuBois, W.E.B. Black Reconstruction. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 1935

An over-all picture from one of the nation's most brilliant pens. The chapter on the propaganda of history will interest pupils

DuBois, W.E.B. Black Folk Then and Now. NewYork: Henry Holt & Co., 1939

Feldman, Herman. Racial Factors in American Industry. Harpers, 1931. A discussion of racial discrimination in industry and a suggested remedial program.

Frazier, E. Franklin. The Negro Family in the United States. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1939.

Indispensable source for a study of the historical, socio-economic and psychological problems of the Negro family. Has been described as the greatest single contribution to the sociology of the family during the past two decades.

Frost, Stanley. Challenge of the Klan, New York: Bobbs-Terrill Co,, 1923.

An easily read treatment of the activities of the Ku Klux Klan against Negroes, Jews and Catholics.

Gallagher, Buell G. American Caste and the Negro College. New York: Col. Univ. Press, 1930.

The President of Talladega College defines the problem and sets forth the task of the Negro college.

Gosnell, Hareld F. Negro Politicians: the rise of Negro politics in Chicago. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1935.

Harris, Abram L. The Negro as Capitalist. Philadelphia: The American Academy of Political and Social Science. 1936

The first real attempt at an exhaustive study of the subject. Can be used most effectively by advanced pupils.

Hays, Arthur Garfield. Trial by Prejudice. New York: Covici-Friede, 1933.

An analysis of a number of celebrated legal cases in which social or political prejudice has influenced the decisions of courts.

Herskovits, Melville J. The Myth of the Negro Past. N.Y.: Harper and Bro., 1941

Hopkins, Ernest Jerome. Our Lawless Police. N. Y.: The Viking Press, 1931

A description of the law enforcement agencies showing how they themselves are often guilty of crimes in the name of the law.

Johnson, Charles S. Growing up in the Black Belt. Wash: Am. Council on Ed., 1941.

The personality development of Negro youth in the deep South. Socio-economic approach.

Johnson, Charles S. The Negro in American Civilization. New York: Henry Holt & Co. 1930.

The favorite over-all source. Basically sound, though not yet brought up to date.

Johnson, Charles S. Shadow of the Plantation. Chicago: Univerisy of Chicago Press, 1934.

Poverty in the seep South. Illustrated with interesting case studies. Pupils working on farm tenancy will find it of real value.

Johnson, James Weldon. Negro Americans, What Now? N.Y. The Viking Press, 1934

A stimulating and thought provoking analysis of the several "next step".

Johnson, James Weldon, The Autobiography of an Ex-Colored Man. N.Y. A.A. Knopf, 1927.

Johnson, James Weldon. Black Manhatten. N.Y. A.A. Knopf., 1930.

Klineberg, Otto. Racial Differences. New York: Harpers, 1935.

An expose. An analysis of the various "test" proofs of the inferiority of groups. Disposes of the myth of superiority.

Lasker, Bruno. Race Attitudes in Children. N.Y. Henry Holt & Co., 1929.

Combines most of the research done prior to 1928 plus that of the author. A good source in which to discover how, why and when children get their attitudes toward races and groups.

Lewinson, Paul. Race, Class and Party. a History of Negro suffrage and white politics in the South. New York and London: Oxford Univ. Press, 1933.

Locke, Alain. The New Negro: an Interpretation. New York: A. and C. Boni, 1925.

Locke, Alain and Stern, Bernard J. When Peoples Meet: A study in race and culture contacts. New York: Progressive Education Association, 1941.

Mangum, Charles S. The Legal Status of the Negro. Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 1940.

Interprets legal status almost entirely in terms of staturoty law, ignoring that body of "law" which, if extra legal, is binding.

Miller, Kelly. Out of the House of Bondage. N.Y. The Neal Publishing Co., 1914.

McCuiston, Fred. Graduate Instruction for Negroes in the U. S. Nashville: George Peabody College for Teachers, 1939.

* A statistical survey made for the Rosenwald Fund.

National Emergency Council. Report on Economic Conditions in the South. Washington: U. S. Governmemt Prit ing Office, 1938.

The much discussed report which led to the classification of the South as the nation's number one economic problem.

Odum, Howard. Southern Regions of the U. S. Chapel Hill: Univ. of N. Carolina Press, 1933.

A compendium of information about the South. May be used by most advanced students.

Raper, Arthur. The Tragedy of Lynching. Chapel Hill: University of N. C. Press, 1933.

Analyze the socio-economic forces involved in a lynching. Shows relation between price of cotton and the incidence of lynching. Illustrative case studies.

Raper, Arthur and Reid, Ira De A. Sharecroppers All. Chapel Hill: Univ. of N.C. Press. 1941.

Utilizes the interesting styles of both writers to present a running account of southern share croppers, urban and rural.

Reid, Ira De A. In A Minor Key. Washington: American Council on Education, 1940

An indispensable summarization of many pertinent facts.

Shrieke, B. F. Alien Americans. New York: Viking Press, 1936.

Smith, Denny Samuel. The Negro in Congress. Chapel Hill: Univ. of N.C. Press, 1940

*Southerland, Robert L. Color, Class and Personality. Washington, D.C.: American Council on Education 1942.

Spero, Sterling D. and Harris, Abram L. The Black Worker: the Negro and the labor movement. New York: Columbia University Press, 1931.

Stephenson G. T. Race Distinction in American Law. N. Y.: D. Appleton & Co., 1940.

The classic work on this subject. Shows the overt and apparent distinctions written into American law. The work of Mangum, q.v. is a more limited a study of the subject.

Vance, Rupert Bayles. Human Gregraphy of the South. Chapel Hill: University of N. C. Press. 1932. A description.

Van Deusen, J. G. The Black Man in White America. Washington: The Associated Publishers, 1938.

Washington, Booker T. Up From Slavery, N.Y.: Doubleday Page and Co., 1915

The classic autobiography of Booker T. Washington.

Wiggins, Lydia. The Life and Works of Paul Lawrence Dunbar. Naperville, Illinois. Nichols and Co., 1907.

Whipple, Leao. Story of Civil Liberty in the U. S. New York. Vanguard Press, 1927.

Most comprehensive survey of civil liberties as they operate in the U. S. yet published. Includes digests of many cases involving violations of the civil liberties.

Woodson, Carter G. Negro Orators and Their Orations. Washington: The Associated Publishers, 1925.

Woodson Carter G. The Education of the Negro Prior to 1861: a history of the education of the colored people of the United States from the beginning of slavery to the Civil War. N.Y: C.P. Putnam's Sons, 1915.

The nearest approach to an adequate treatment.

Woofter, T. J. Landlord and Tenant on the Cotton Plantations. Wash. Research Monograph V Division of Social Research, Works Progress Administration, 1936.

Good for a description of the plantation system. Excellent tables.

Wright, Richard. 12 Million Black Voices. N. Y. Viking Press, 1941.

*Primarily for teacher-use.

Some sources of Pamphlet and other Materials on the Negro.

Much of the material dealing with the Negro is issued in pamphlet form. Some of this material is free upon request while in most instances the cost seldom goes higher than $0.25 for a single pamphlet with reduced rates for bulk orders. Teachers should be alert to take advantage of new pamphlet issued and can do much to build up a collection on practically any phase of Negro life. Agencies dealing primarily with Negroes and issuing occasional[1] material: The Association for the Study of Negro Life and History 1538 Ninth Street, N. W. Washington. Publishers during each of the school year The Negro History Bulletin, a bulletin of from twelve to twenty pages written on the secondary school level and dealing largely with important events, personalities and phases of Negro history in Africa, Europe, and the United States. (Sub. price is $1.50 per year). The Association also publishes a scholarly quarterly The Journal of Negro History.

Associates in Negro Folk Education - 1326 R. St., N. W. Washington D.C. The Associates are responsible for an occasional bulletin. These are usually well edited and easily read. There are plans laid for an ambitious publication program for the future.

National Negro Congress - 717 Florida Ave. N. W. Washington D.C. An active organization lobbying for Negro interest. Publishes an occasional bulletin.

1. A similar and longer listing will be found in Ira De A. Reid In A Minor Key.

National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. 69 Fifth Ave. N. Y. Frequently issues statements bearing on the Negro. Publishes regularly each month a magazine Crisis which presents news of developments in the nation as they affect Negroes. Short stories, poems, editorials, and news of the activities of the various organizational branches are also included. (Sub. $1.50 per year).

National Urban League - 1133 Broadway, N. Y. Publishes occasional studies on the economic and social problems of the Negro in urban communities. Publishes each month Opportunity: Magazine of Negro Life. Includes short stories, poetry, book reviews, and news of developments on the industrial front as they affect Negroes.

Negro Rural School Fund - Anna T. Jeanes Foundation, 726 Jackson Place, N.W. Washington, D.C. Works primarily with rural schools of the South and issues an occasional bulletin of some phase of life in the rural south.

Inter-Racial and other agencies that issue occasional material on the Negro. American Civil Liberties Union, 31 Union Square West, New York, N.Y.

Catholic Inter-racial Council - 20 Vesey St., New York, N.Y.

Commission on Inter-racial Cooperation 710 Standard Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia.

Common Council for American Unity, 222 Fourth Ave. N. Y.

Council against Intolerance in America, 60 E. 42nd St., NewYork.

Council for Democracy, 11 W. 42nd St., New York.

Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in American Division of Race Relations 105 East 22nd St., New York, N. Y.

Friendship Press, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York.

General Education Board, 49th St., New York.

Harmon Foundation Inc., 140 Nassau, New York, N. Y.

International Labor Defense, 80 E. 115th St. New York, N.Y.

Inter-cultural Education Workshop, 204 E. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Methodist Episcopal Church-Board of Home Missions, 1701 Arch St. Philadelphia, Pa.

National Conference of Christians & Jews, 381 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.

National Council of Student Christian Associations, 347 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

National Recreation Association-Unit of Colored Work, 315 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.

National Tuberculosis Association, 50 W. 50th Street, New York, N. Y.

Negro Yearbook Associates, Monroe Work, Editor, Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Phelps-Stokes Fund, 101 Park Ave. New York. N. Y.

Public Affairs Committee, Inc. 30 Rockefeller Plaza, N. Y.

Julius Rosenwald Fund, 4901 Ellis Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

A partial list of some representative Negro Newspapers and Magazines.

The Atlanta Daily World, Scott newspaper syndicate publisher-Atlanta, Ga.

Baltimore Afro-American. Carl Murphy Publisher, Baltimore, Maryland.

Chicago Defender, John Robert Sengstacke, Publisher, Chicago, Ill.

Norfolk Journal and Guide, P. B. Youn , Sr. Publisher, Norfolk, Va.

People's Voice - People's Voice Inc. Publisher - New York, N. Y.

Pittsburg Courier - Ira Lewis Publisher, Pittsburg, Penn.

Magazines.

The Journal of Negro Education. Charles Thompson, Editor, Howard University press, Washington, D. C. Published quarterly this is an ably edited magazine that treats of developments in the education of Negroes.

Phylon The Atlanta University Review of Race and Culture. W.E.B. DuBois Editor. Atlanta University Press, Atlanta, Georgia. Quarterly. One of the most ably edited magazines in America. Publishes both scholarly research papers and articles on contemporary affairs. The chronicle of race relations contained in each issue is the most comprehensive world wide coverage of race in any magazine in America, $1.00 per year.

Magazines which frequently publish material bearing on the Negro.

Common Ground & Common Sense - Common Sense Publishing Co. N.Y. $250 Monthly

Fortune & Time Inc. Chicago Illinois. Monthly $10.00 Special rate for teachers when sent to school address. $7.50.

Nation. Nation Inc. N. Y. Weekly $5.00 per yr. 13 weeks introductory offer $1.00

New Republic. See Below.

Social Forces Division of Social Sciences University of N.C. Chapel Hill, N. C. $4.00 (Quarterly).

Social Frontier - Commission on Inter-racial Cooperation, 701 Standard Bldg. Atlanta, Ga. $0.25 per year.

The South Today Miss Lillian Smith, Editor, Clayton, Georgia, $1.00 (Quarterly)

Survey Graphic - Survey Associates, Inc. Monthly $3.00 Occasionally offers special introductory rates.

Agencies from which films and information about audio-visual aids to a study of the Negro may be obtained: (Teachers are advised to write for catalogues).

American Film Center 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York.

Bell & Howell Co. Films and Educational Divisions, 1811 Larchmont Ave. Chicago, Ill.

College Film Center, 59 E. Van Vuren St., Chicago, Ill.

Directory of U. S. Government Filsm U.S. Office of Ecucation. Washington D. C. Lists all government filsm available for distribution.
Division of General Extension, University System of Georgia, 223 Walton St., N. W., Atlanta, Georgia

Erpi Classroom Films, Inc. 1841 Broadway, New York.

Film Forums, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York.

Federal Radion Education Committee-United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Walter O. Gutlohn, Inc. 25 W. 45th St. Dept. X-4, New York.

Harmon Foundation, Inc. 140 Nassau St., New York.

National Council of Young Men's Christian Association-Motion Picture Bureau 347 Madison Avenue, New York.

Office of War Information-Bureau of Motion Pictures-Washington, D. C.

New Republic Editorial Publication, Inc. New York, N. Y. $5.00 Weekly. 13 Weeks introductory offer $1.00

Visual Aids for Instructional Use in Schools.

Pamphlet No. 80 (revised 1941) U.S. Office of Education, Washington D. C. This pamphlet lists over 1000 agencies from which various kinds of audio-visual aids may be secured. May be obtained from Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C.

II. Dr. Herbert A. Miller is a prominent sociologist. In 1931, Dr. Miller was dismissed from his position as Professor of Sociology at Ohio State University. Dr. Miller has been an out spoken advocate of complete racial equality and was known as a liberal thinker. (As a result of his work he had participated in revolutions in Ireland, Czechoslovakia, Korea, India, and Mexico). In the spring of 1931, he was already in disfavor with the Board of Trustees for his views. In the Spring of that year he took a group of students to Wilberforce University (a Negro school) where some of the white girls danced with Negroes. The Ohio State Journal demanded Dr. Miller's dismissal. In view of his disfavor with the Board Dr. Miller should-( ) have refrained from any further expression of his beliefs on race and liberal movements.

( ) have publicly reprimanded the girl for dancing with the Negro.

( ) have resigned from the faculty since his views were unpopular.

( ) have continued his positive expressions of his belief in racial equality even though this lead to his dismissal.

III. Iowa State College is located in Ames. Only a small number of Negroes attend the college. The college maintains dormitories for girls and strictly supervises the private homes in which undergraduate girls live. Traditionally Negro girls are not permitted to live in the dormitories. In 1930 two Negro girls were without rooms and reported their predicament ot the chief of the Housing Bureau. Rooms were available in the college dormitory for girls.

The chief of the Housing Bureau should-( ) break precedent and place the Negro girls in the dormitory.

( ) Advises the girls to withdraw from the college since there were no living accommodations available.

( ) appeal to the white citizens of the community to provide space for the girls.

( ) assume no reponsibility in the matter whatever and let the girls fend for themselves.

IV. In 1931 the George W. Hamilton Memorial Hospital located in Dalton, Georgia. had no ward for colored patients. The hospital was supported out of public tax funds. On November 6, 1931, Miss Juliette Derricotte, Dean of Women at Fisk University, (colored) was severly injured in an automobile accident near Dalton. A passing motorist rushed her to Dalton to the Hamilton Memorial Hospital. Because there was no ward for Negroes, the receiving surgeon was disturbed as to the correct course of action. The Doctor should-( ) break precedent and admit the injured woman to the hospital.

( ) administer temporary relief and send her to Chattanooga (40 miles away) for examination and hospitalization.

( ) refuse any kind of treatment or advice.

( ) refuse admission to the hospital, but send her to a local doctor's office.

V. ( ) Among the largest and most modern hotels in Detroit is the Book-Cadillac. In November, 1930 the Executive Committee of the Student-Faculty Conference signed an agreement with the management under the terms of which the hotel agreed to provide accommodations for an expected delegations of 1200 persons. It was pro vided in the contract that all delegates, white and Negro, were to have equal access to all the facilities of the hotel except the main dining room. Upon arrival of the delegates the Negroes were segregated, refused service in the Coffee Shop and otherwise discriminated against. The conference protested the hotel's violation of its written agreement. The manager of the hotel pointed out that he had not been manager when the contract was signed, that some of the Negro delegates had made themselves obnoxious to other guests of the hotel, and that the conference had only 800 delegates instead of the promised 1200. He refused to serve the Negro delegates in the Coffee Shop but agreed to serve them in the conference dining room at Coffee prices and agreed further, to place the Negro delegates throughout the hotel. Upon investigation it was found that the Wolverine Hotel would grant all of the conditions of the conference and guaranteed against any similar situation, The conference should-( ) continue in the hotel, making use only of those services equally available to all delegates.

( ) move to the Wolverine Hotel where a policy of Non-segregation and non-discrimination was guaranteed.

( ) sent a strongly worded protest to the hotel management restating the conference's attitudes on race and calling attention to the embarrassment caused by the hotel.

( ) take no official action, but leave each member free to do as he chose.

Old list

Service to Negroes at Main Libraries

ARKANSAS

Little Rock. Open to Negroes over 16 or enrolled in 7th grade or higher in the public schools. ATLANTA JOURNAL, 1-15-51

FLORIDA

Miami. Full privileges. NAIRO REPORTER, 10-51

KENTUCKY

Covington and Kenton County. Full privileges. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

Lexington and Fayette County. Partial service. Gleason, SOUTHERN NEGRO AND THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Louisville. Full privileges at main library since 1948; in all divisions of Louisville public library system, 1952. ATLANTA WORLD, 4-17-52

Newport. Partial service (borrow but not full privileges). Gleason

Paducah. Partial service (borrow but not full privileges). Gleason

Paris. Partial service (borrow but not full privileges). Gleason

OKLAHOMA

Ponca City. May have cards (no other information available). Gleason

TENNESSEE

Chattanooga. Full privileges. CHATTANOOGA TIMES, 5-4-49

TEXAS

Austin and Travis County. Full privileges in main library; segregation in Carver Branch abolished at same time. NAIRO REPORTER 2-52

Brady and McCulloch County. Full Privileges and also station in Negro section. Gleason

Corpus Christi. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947.

Dallas. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947.

El Paso. Full privileges. Gleason

Ft. Worth and Tarrant County. Partial service and also stations in the Negro section. Gleason

Lufkin. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

Missions. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

Pecos. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

Port Arthur. Partial service, summer only. Gleason

San Antonio and Bexar County. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

(Texas)

Stinnett and Hutchinson County. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

Wharton and Wharton County. Service through regular channels. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

VIRGINIA

Boydton and Mecklenberg County. Full service privileges but separate reading room. Gleason

Charlotte Court House and Charlotte County. Full service privileges but separate reading room. Gleason

Charlottesville, Va. Full privileges. Charles S. Johnson, INTO THE MAINSTREAM

Galax and Grayson County. Borrow books but not use reading room. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

Halifax and Halifax County. Full service privileges but separate reading room. Gleason

Lynchburg. Separate reading room. BLACK DISPATCH, 12-22-51

NewPort News. Full privileges. ATLANTA WORLD, 7-17-52

Norfolk. Full privileges. BLACK DISPATCH 12-22-51

Petersburg. Room in main library with separate entrance. NEGRO HANDBOOK 1947

? Richmond. (Janes notes)

Replies from Communities

Questionnaires sent to following communities:

(1) those where main library gave service to Negroes according to other sources

(2) Cities of 20,000 or more population in Ala, Ark, Fla, Ga, La, Miss, NC, Okla, SC, Tenn, and Tex

(3) Cites of 10,000 or more in Ky and VC.

Total sent — 172

Returned — 79 (46%)

Memo FROM THE DESK OF MARGE MANDERSON

See Race Relations Law Reporter as source for texts of all segregation legislation.

Pol

BOOKS ON WHEELS

By EDITH FOSTER, Director West Georgia Regional Library, Carrollton, Georgia.

She is in the seventh grade now. She has just finished reading the life of Helen Keller. Seven years ago she had only copies of a "yellow-sheet" magazine before her eyes at home, she said. In the six and one-half years since the bookmobile first touched her life, she has read 741 books. She prefers books about real people. Her eyes sparkle with vision . . .

Six and one-half years ago it was only a dream – a pioneering dream of service; now it is a forceful library program with a heart and soul, whose purpose has been to offer educational facilities to all the people – a program on wheels, traveling some 2,000 miles per month to library stations over 1,000 square miles. To work and plan together, to hunt out our needs, to discover our potentialities, to pool our resources, to shape an effective rural library service irrespective of race or creed – that has been the driving force behind the creation and organization of the West Georgia Regional Library program.

The first concrete step was a careful survey of our territory under the guidance of I. S. Ingram, President of West Georgia College, and two county school superintendents, J. H. McGiboney and N. A. Rogers. The survey showed that the all-rural territory was a fertile field. For one thing, West Georgia College was performing a very effective and practical service through its fine educational program. The two original counties (we are now three, and probably by the time this article appears we shall comprise four counties) were already closely drawn into the circle of direct influence of West Georgia College. Since its beginning West Georgia College has not only successfully trained teachers for rural schools but has also lifted the educational morale of the surrounding counties by shaping its program as a college program for the people.

Another vital point the survey indicated was that there is no geographic barrier – or any other for that matter. The pattern of life involved would be fairly stable and easily recognized. The focal points of meeting in "the country," it was noted, are definitely the church and the school – to a lesser degree, the cross-road store.

The director journeyed for three months all over the rural sections, studying programs, meeting the average citizen, visiting the schools, weaving a service pattern. There were many things to consider, such as distances, types of roads, size of communities and schools, variety of businesses, existing library resources.

In the fall of 1944, after making a careful analysis of the findings of the survey and the on-the-spot study, the director drew up a proposed plan of library service. The plan called for an eventual over-all program but an immediate service to schools via some sort of bookmobile. The library would build a foundation for a finer tomorrow – beginning with today. Through the media of the school personnel and the school programs, touch would inevitably be made with Mr. and Mrs. Average Rural Citizen . . .

"Help us plan our P. T. A. program for the year . . . Please gather material for my sixth grade to use in a unit on 'Trees-Soil Conservation'. . . I'm a scout. Can you advise me on books about making birdhouses to sell? I want to go to summer camp and I must help pay my way . . . Please – I need help on how to behave when dating . . . Grandpa said please get him another book as good as the one he had about George Washington . . ."

The county boards of education were so eager to have permanently-at-hand good reading materials in their schools and for their school patrons that they immediately allocated local school funds to the regional library budget. Carroll Service Council, civic clubs, P. T. A.'s and other groups participated in the fund-raising projects so that at least a minimum budget might be maintained.

West Georgia College assumed responsibility for maintaining headquarters, offered a car to be used for two years as a bookmobile and secured $3,100 over a period of two years to aid in initiating the program. The Library Division of Georgia's Department of Education (of which all regional libraries in the state are field agencies for direct service) approved the proposed plan, accepted the Carroll County Board of Education as the regional library's legal board, and released immediately funds allocated to our regional library under the state plan.

State consultants — well-known and respected in national and international library circles, Lucile Nox, Sarah Jones and Beverly Wheatcroft, among them — consistently served the region with warm-hearted devotion to Georgia's new all-out library effort. They took a keen personal interest in each developing program, feeling that all the state's regional librarians must work as a team towards a better way of life through library service.

The initial years found the library bearing growing pains—doing a tremendous job with few materials and small staff. The dream, however, began to take on the shape of actuality. Using a record player and recordings, the librarian conducted "story hour" everywhere to break down the feeling of strangeness in the thinking of the children. From 775 books "borrowed" from the State Library Extension Service, the stock grew by the end of the first year to 5,463 new volumes, with circulation totaling about 34,000. The end of the sixth year found 30,000 volumes moving over the region in two bookmobiles, and to answer immediate needs, a mail service was started resulting in a total circulation exceeding 260,000! Other materials included a ceiling projector with 50 microfilmed books to lend to the ill and bedridden, and a fine collection of film strips for educational purposes.

Through cooperative school and library effort direct public library service was achieved even in the most remote districts. Library stations were established all over the region in stores, filling stations, homes, churches and in one "rolling store." These stations expanded the service vastly beyond the powers of the bookmobile acting alone, for in order to cover the territory the bookmobile must make relatively short stops, and those infrequently. All this was made possible by the active support and interest of J. Hubert Griffin, Carrollton's progressive Mayor and Chairman of the regional library's executive board, by the city council, the Carroll County Commissioners and many civic clubs. For best results the program should be tax-supported.

The Negro program has brought about a fine example of race relations. A committee composed of Negro and white citizens started it. The city of Carrollton gave the land for the library. A garden club (white) landscaped the library property, bought shrubbery and planted it. Through cooperative efforts of the races, King Street Branch (Negro) rose in simplicity and dignity on the brow of the hill. To a marvelous extent, the success of this effort can be directly accredited to the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., and its Iota Chapter (Atlanta) under the leadership of Dr. Virginia Lacey Jones, Administrator of the Library School, Atlanta University.

A very exciting day in the life of the rural school. "Yonder she comes!"

Attracted by the Iota Chapter to a study of our program for Negro library service, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority recently designated our service emanating from King Street Branch the outstanding Negro library effort in the nation, awarding us a new Ford Vanette Bookmobile equipped with new books, a moving picture projector and a record player. A graduate Negro librarian is to be added to the regional library staff in September. Through such excellent understanding and assistance, we feel that shortly the Negro rural library service in our area will prove to be effective and wholesome.

From King Street Branch via bookmobile goes a collection of new, carefully processed materials to answer the needs of the schools and communities. Into King Street Branch constantly pour groups of Negroes to hold all kinds of cooperative meetings whose purpose is a bettering of life for all. Up to its doorway drives the Bloodmobile, which often is seen side by side with the Bookmobile, as if to say to the world: "We learn; we serve."

The definite purpose of any over-all regional library program is to have sufficient materials to meet all felt needs and achieve complete library service for the area; to safe-guard the materials and activate services under trained personnel; to cut out overlapping in expenditures; and to equalize educational opportunity through library service.

260,166 circulation! What does that mean? Wide area of reading? Yes. Many books? Yes. One would never have dreamed these rural people would read so much, when they were at last given the opportunity. This implies a human value that is not to be measured; it is the resource of having a regular and dependable supply of reading matter, of professional advice and information about what is available, and free choice concerning subject matter and area of interest. If we may judge by our six and one-half years of experience it seems certain a library service that really reaches rural districts will both spread the benefits that come from the habit of reading and raise the intellectual level of reading and consequently of living.

Parent-Teacher group plans to hold a clinic in the library.

DECEMBER 1947

SURVEY GRAPHIC

40 CENTS A COPY

OURS THE FOOD: THEIRS THE HUNGER

HELEN HALL AND PAUL KELLOGG

CHRISTMAS BOOK SECTION

AGRICULTURAL LIFE AND LABOR Bulletin

NATIONAL COUNCIL ON AGRICULTURAL LIFE AND LABOR
1751 N Street, N. W. Washington 6, D. C.

Number 15 April 1953

THIS IS THE MONTH OF THE THIRD ANNUAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN WASHINGTON, D. C., ON APRIL 22 - 23.

The conference will meet at Pierce Hall, All Souls Church-Unitarian, 16th and Harvard Streets, N.W., Washington, D. C. See pages two and three of this bulletin for information about the program.

Registrations can still be received. If no registration blank is at hand, it will be enough to send your name and address; the name of your organization, and a check. The registration fee is $3.00 ($1.00 for single sessions). The luncheon is $1.25.

THE OPENING SESSION OF THE CONFERENCE WILL DISCUSS MIGRANT LABOR.

Several NCALL members who have been closest to the migrant labor scene this year, will tell us at this session not only of any changes observed but of any new ideas that have come to them as to how the conditions of migrant labor can be improved. It will be an afternoon for discussion of issues and of strategy for progress. The panel and the audience will participate throughout.

DELEGATES FROM THE SOUTH WILL BE PRESENT FOR THE DISCUSSION OF LOW INCOME FARMERS AND FARM WAGE WORKERS IN THE SOUTH TODAY.

NCALL members who have been working with migrant labor families in Florida of late have been interested in the fact that many of the migrant workers of Florida and the "low income farmers" of Alabama (or some other nearby state) are the same people. These matters will be interpreted to us by several delegates as well as by Dr. George S. Mitchell, director of the Southern Regional Council, who will make a principal address.

Dr. Ernest E. Neal of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, and Professor Harry W. Roberts of Virginia State College, Petersburg, Virginia, will attend. They are authorities on the problems of farm wage labor and low income farmers in the South. Mr. J. D. Rust of the Rust Foundation of Pinebluff, Arkansas, will be a delegate also. Mr. Rust is one of the brothers who invented the mechanical cotton picker and whose thought about the machine has been that it should be a liberator of humanity.

THIRD ANNUAL CONFERENCE
of the
NATIONAL COUNCIL ON AGRICULTURAL LIFE AND LABOR

April 22-23, 1953

Pierce Hall, All Souls Church-Unitarian
16th and Harvard Streets, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

PROGRAM (To be completed)

Wednesday
April 22

1:00 P.M. Registration.

2:00 P.M. Welcome and Introductory Statement - Rev. Shirley E. Greene
Chairman of NCALL

2:30 P.M. FARM LABOR SESSION - THE MIGRANT LABOR SITUATION, 1952-53
THE TRAVELERS REPORT

The Travelers

Rev. Shirley E. Greene - Council for Social Action
Congregational-Christian Church

Mrs. Monica Owen - Division of Home Missions
National Council of Churches, USA

Mr. Sol Markoff - National Child Labor Committee

Mr. Clarence Senior - Migration Division
Department of Labor
Commonwealth of Puerto Rico

Mr. H. L. Mitchell - National Agricultural Workers Union, AFL

Resources for Discussion of Issues

Miss Beatrice McConnell - Bureau of Labor Standards
U. S. Department of Labor, on status of legislation affecting migrant labor.

Dr. Eleanor Hadley - National Consumers' League - on Trends in Importation of Foreign Labor.

Mrs. Katherine P. Ellickson - Associate Director of Research, Department of Education and Research, CIO, on Recommendations of the Labor Advisory Committee to the Farm Placement Service.

7:30 P.M. LOW INCOME FARMERS IN AMERICAN AGRICULTURE

Presiding - Dr. Howard A. Dawson, Director of Rural Service
National Education Association

Hand Labor in Agriculture - Relation to Tenure Practices
- Dr. Joe R. Motheral, Head: Farm Labor
Section of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Low Income Farmers and Farm Wage Workers in the South Today.
- Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council

Thursday
April 23

9:30 A.M. THE PROBLEMS OF LOW INCOME FARMERS: PROPOSALS FOR SOLUTION

Presiding - Mrs. Gertrude Folks Zimand
General Secretary
National Child Labor Committee

Credit: The Keystone of a Plan

Address: The place of credit in a program for underdeveloped farms. - Mr. Robert W. Hudgens, Director International Development Services

Some Aspects of the Question:
Mr. John Baker, National Farmers Union
Mr. Theodore Norman, Jewish Agricultural Society
Others Invited

Team Work between the Social Services and Economic Programs

Miss Eunice Minton - Chief of Welfare Service, Standards Branch; Division of Programs, Standards & Development; Bureau of Public Assistance, Federal Security Agency

Mrs. Amber Arthun Warburton - Director, Alliance for Guidance of Rural Youth

Representative of the Agricultural Extension Service (invited)

12:30 P.M. CONFERENCE LUNCHEON

Presiding - Mr. Paul Sifton, United Auto Workers-CIO

The Stake of the Family Farmer and of the American People in Adequate and Stable Farm Income

A Free-for-All Question Period on Agricultural Issues which have made the headlines during this session of Congress

Authorities:
Senator James E. Murray of Montana (invited)
Mr. Gus F. Geissler, National Farmers Union
Mr. Wayne Darrow, Editor "Farm Reports"

2:00 P.M. THE STAKE OF FAMILY FARMERS AND FARM WAGE WORKERS IN FEDERAL POLICIES CONCERNING RURAL ELECTRIFICATION: CONSERVATION, FLOOD CONTROL AND IRRIGATION.

Presiding - Rev. Shirley E. Greene, Chairman of NCALL

Mr. Benton Stong, Public Affairs Institute - Chairman of Panel
Honorable Howard S. Miller, Representative from the First Congressional District of Kansas
Mr. J. T. Sanders, Legislative Counsel, The National Grange
Dr. Clay Cochran, National Rural Electric Cooperative Association

SOME ANGLES ON THE CONFERENCE DISCUSSION OF IRRIGATION AND FLOOD CONTROL

REPRESENTATIVE HOWARD S. MILLER WILL TELL THE CONFERENCE HOW THE FARMERS WON.

An exciting thing happened in the 1st Congressional District of Kansas last fall. The farmers in the Blue River Valley were up in arms because the Army Engineers' theory of flood control was to build the big Tuttle Creek Dam which would have flooded out the farms of the valley permanently. Howard S. Miller, farmer and lawyer of Brown County, Kansas, challenged the incumbent Congressman Cole on the issue of the farmers' plan: to wit:-small dams and conservation practises which, according to their views, would provide more effective flood control for the cities, would not flood the farmers out, and would increase the fertility of the soil. Mr. Miller won. He is now Congressman Miller and will tell the conference what the story means. He has introduced a bill in the House, HR 2730, which is titled:

A BILL
To Provide for the abandonment of the flood control project for the construction of the Tuttle Creek reservoir, Kansas.

"LET'S NOT SAVE AT THE SPIGGOT AND LET OUT AT THE BUNG".

To translate that old country saying - "Let's not save at the small hole in the barrel and let out at the big hole". At the closing session of the conference, we will hear one application of this saying to the problems of migrant labor. The 50 year old Reclamation Act says that when dry land is irrigated at government expense, a single farmer can have water for 160 acres and no more. If the efforts to break this down succeed, large scale industrialized agriculture will zoom in scope, and the pressures to import more and more foreign labor will be heavier. While working for labor standards for the farm labor force which now exists, it would be too bad, if, when nobody was looking, the problem were greatly magnified by breaking down the Reclamation Act.

THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE HAS SUBMITTED HIS BUDGET PROPOSALS

Secretary Benson's proposals represent cuts in most of the Department Programs with two principal exceptions. The Agricultural Extension Service budget stands without cuts. The Forest Service is given a non-recurring extra sum for beetle control.

With the limited knowledge available at the moment, it seems fair to ask questions about the cuts but not to make assertions.

1. Will the cut in the school lunch appropriation have the effect of asking children to consume farm surpluses rather than giving them a balanced diet?

2. In cutting the housing program of the Farmers' Home Administration does Secretary Benson express the policy of the Eisenhower administration when he says -

> "Of this sum, 2.5 million (one half of the cut) would be applied against the authorization for farm housing loans. This is generally in keeping with the policy of curtailing federal government housing activities, both urban and rural."

2. (continued)

The appointment of ex-Congressman Cole as head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, has caused apprehension. When he was in Congress, Mr. Cole had a consistent voting record of opposition to the government's having a role in housing.

3. Is the cut in the Rural Electrification budget not only likely to reduce the volume of the R.E.A.'s loans to new electric cooperatives but also to make it difficult to help established electric cooperatives meet their sound and necessary expansion requirements?

THE LIBRARY SERVICES BILL HAS BEEN INTRODUCED IN THE SENATE AND IN THE HOUSE.

Letters are now appropriate to your Senators and Congressmen stressing the need for this legislation for rural areas.

The Library Services Bill would benefit families residing on farms and in small villages. This bill is designed to stimulate the State library agencies to extend public library service to rural areas now without such service or with inadequate service. Federal grants-in-aid would be allotted to the States on a matching basis for a five year period. The State library agencies would have complete jurisdiction in the selection of books and other library materials, as well as the selection of personnel.

There are more than 30 million people (mostly rural) in the United States without access to public library service and almost as many more have inadequate service. These people would be greatly assisted by the passage of this measure.

In the House of Representatives, thirteen members have introduced identical Library Services Bills on March 16 and these have all been referred to the House Education and Labor Committee. Sponsors of the bill are:

Republicans	Democrats
Congressman Harold C. Hagen (Minn.)	Congressman Charles R. Howell (N.J.)
Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins (Ohio)	Congressman Carl D. Parkins (Ky.)
Congressman Charles J. Kersten (Wis.)	Congressman Cleveland Bailey (W.Va.)
Congressman Chester E. Merrow (N.H.)	Congressman Tom Steed (Okla.)
Congressman Thor C. Tollefson (Wash.)	Congressman Carl Elliott (Ala.)
Congressman Ruth Thompson (Mich.)	Congressman Wright Patman (Texas)
	Congressman(Mrs.)Elizabeth Kee(W.Va.)

In the Senate, the Library Services Bill, S. 1368, was introduced on March 18 by Senator George D. Aiken (R. Vt.) for himself and Senators Frank Carlson (R. Kansas), Irving M. Ives (R., N.Y.), John Sherman Cooper (R., Ky.), William Langer (R., N.D.), Lister Hill (D., Ala.), Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.), Henry M. Jackson (D. Wash.), and Mike Mansfield (D., Montana). This bill has been referred to the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE ON THE NEEDS OF CHILDREN AND YOUTH IN MIGRANT FAMILIES: HELD AT ALBUQUERQUE, NEW MEXICO, IN EARLY MARCH.

This conference, the first of its kind in the area, was a mile stone in southwestern history. Over a year of planning went into the conference which included representatives from the nine Southwestern states and a range of state and federal agencies, as well as citizens representing various aspects of the migrant problem.

Principal credit for bringing the group together belongs to Mr. Frank Angel of the New Mexico Department of Education. Mr. Angel was ably assisted by a New Mexico Citizens Committee and an inter-state sponsoring committee. Mr. Miguel Trujillo of the Laguna pueblo was general conference chairman.

Much of the conference time was devoted to working groups on health, housing, child labor, education, recreation and welfare, -- all with reference to the needs of children and youth. Plans were outlined and adopted, before the conference ended, for its repetition another year, probably in another state.

The opening general session was addressed by Dr. Varden Fuller, University of California, and former Executive Secretary of President Truman's Commission on Migratory Labor. Dr. Fuller painted the migratory labor scene in broad perspective, as seen by the President's Commission. He characterized it as "a chaotic and inefficient form of social and economic organization".

Miss Lazelle Alway of the National Child Labor Committee addressed the first luncheon meeting, describing the "grim merry-go-round" on which migrants are caught. She pointed out how their lack of opportunity hampers their educational and social achievement, which in turn limits their opportunity in a vicious circle extending through the generations. She spoke in detail about the various attempts to avoid, circumvent or actually to repeal the effective provisions of the federal Fair Labor Standards Act which prohibit employment of children in agriculture while schools are in session.

At a dinner meeting, Rev. Shirley E. Greene, Chairman of the National Council on Agricultural Life and Labor, described the migrant child as caught in a "no-man's land" between several cross-fires. He is the ultimate victim, according to Mr. Greene, of many of the problems of public schools, growers, migrant families and communities. Describing the prevailing attitudes which he has encountered among these groups in the course of a current study on the education of migrant children, he said the school men are baffled, the growers are defensive, the migrant families are divided and the communities are unaware.

Addresses on the second day featured certain constructive programs currently in progress. Mrs. Martha A. Skaggs of Las Cruces, N.M., described a simple Spanish-English phrase book which she has devised to help Mexican importees and their employers to understand each other. Mrs. I. H. Teilman and Mr. Martin Gunderson of Fresno County, California, described a significant community-sponsored program in behalf of agricultural workers in the recently developed cotton labor camps of Fresno county. Health clinics and child care centers are outstanding features of this program which has joint support of growers, agency and professional personnel and general citizens.

The closing session heard, discussed and accepted reports from the work groups. They were not adopted by the conference; merely accepted. Some minor amendments were made by the group as a whole, but no substantial changes.

U S Armed Forces

REJECTION RATES FOR FAILURE TO PASS ARMED FORCES QUALIFICATION TEST

1950 – 1951

Less than 10 percent

10 and under 20 percent

20 and under 30 percent

30 percent or more

The highest rejection rates occurred in -- areas which contain the greatest concentration of both low farm-family living levels, and low per capita income -- The Armed Forces Qualification test "is used to estimate a man's ability to absorb training and perform effectively -- it is believed that generally speaking, success on the test is related to his total educational experience."

Quoted from bulletin published by the Bureau of Labor Standards, United States Department of Labor.

PUBLICATIONS AND BIBLIOGRAPHY

SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY ON MIGRATORY AGRICULTURAL LABOR - National Child Labor Committee, 419 Fourth Avenue, New York 16, N. Y.

A growing number of college and high school students, as well as organizations, are writing to the NCALL office asking for material on migratory labor. The up-to-date bibliography published by the National Child Labor Committee gives the major basic references such as Reports of Study Commission, Congressional Hearings, Other Reports and Publications on Migratory Labor, Reports of State Departments and Agencies, Magazine Articles, Films, Stories and Plays.

PAMPHLETS FOR USE IN DISCUSSIONS OF RURAL ELECTRIFICATION:

"The People's Fight for Low Cost Power" is the report of the Electric Consumer Conference held in Washington in May 1952. This can be secured for 25¢ from the Electric Consumers Information Committee, 1303 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington 6, D. C. It contains the proceedings of the discussions and the speeches made at the conference.

"The Farmer Takes a Hand: The Electric Power Revolution in Rural America" by Marquis Childs. Introduction by Senator George D. Aiken. Mr. Childs tells the story of how 15 years ago hardly ten percent of American farms had electric power. Today more than eighty percent have electricity and the labor saving devices that go with it. The book tells how it happened. It can be secured for 25¢ from the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, 1303 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

AGRICULTURAL LIFE AND LABOR BULLETIN

Issued by

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL ON AGRICULTURAL LIFE AND LABOR

1751 N Street, N. W. Washington 6, D. C. Tel: NOrth 7-3979

Chairman: Rev. Shirley E. Greene
Vice Chairman: Thomas B. Keehn
Vice Chairman: George Sanchez
Secretary: Gertrude Folks Zimand
Treasurer: Howard A. Dawson
Executive Secretary: Elizabeth B. Herring

The National Council on Agricultural Life and Labor is a voluntary federation of religious, farm, labor and civic organizations. The Council focuses its attention on the welfare of individuals and families- migrants, sharecroppers, tenants and family farmers- who earn their living through agricultural pursuits. Because the problems of farm workers and operators are closely related to the welfare of agriculture and the economy generally, the Council is also concerned with questions of economic and social import affecting rural areas.

25 FACTS ABOUT Saskatchewan

INFORMATION BULLETIN NO. 5

Saskatchewan

First and Only PROVINCE TO ENACT A COMPREHENSIVE FARM SECURITY ACT TO PROTECT THE FARMER'S OWNERSHIP OF HIS HOME QUARTER.

First and Only PROVINCE TO RELIEVE FARMERS FROM MORTGAGE DEBTS WHEN A CROP FAILURE HAS BEEN SUFFERED.

First and Only CANADIAN PROVINCE TO PROVIDE FREE DIAGNOSIS, TREATMENT, AND HOSPITALIZATION FOR CANCER.

First and Only PROVINCE TO PROVIDE FREE DENTAL, MEDICAL, SURGICAL AND HOSPITAL CARE FOR ALL OLD AGE AND BLIND PENSIONERS.

First and Only PROVINCE TO PROVIDE FREE DENTAL, MEDICAL, SURGICAL AND HOSPITAL CARE FOR ALL RECIPIENTS OF MOTHERS' ALLOWANCES AND THEIR DEPENDENTS.

First and Only PROVINCE TO PROVIDE THESE FREE HEALTH SERVICES FOR ALL THE MENTALLY ILL.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ABOLISH ORDINARY HOSPITAL BILLS THROUGH A PROVINCE-WIDE HOSPITALIZATION SCHEME.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ADD TO THE SECURITY OF THE PEOPLE BY ESTABLISHING AN AIR AMBULANCE SERVICE TO PICK UP EMERGENCY CASES AND TRANSPORT THEM TO MEDICAL CENTRES.

First and Only PROVINCE TO CO-OPERATE FULLY WITH THE PHYSICAL FITNESS PROGRAM BY ESTABLISHING A COMPREHENSIVE RECREATIONAL MOVEMENT.

First and Only PROVINCE TO SET UP A DEPARTMENT OF CO-OPERATION AND CO-OPERATIVE DEVELOPMENT-

First and Only PROVINCE TO PROMOTE CO-OPERATIVE FARMING BY ENCOURAGING A LARGE VETERANS' CO-OP FARM AT MATADOR AND OTHER CO-OPERATIVE FARMING VENTURES THROUGHOUT THE PROVINCE.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ESTABLISH A DEPARTMENT OF RECONSTRUCTION AND REHABILITATION TO RE-ESTABLISH RETURNED MEN AND WOMEN INTO CIVIL LIFE.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ENTER INTO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS WITH ITS EMPLOYEES ASSURING THEM FULL UNION SECURITY INCLUDING PROTECTION FROM ARBITRARY DISMISSAL.

First and Only PROVINCE TO BACK LABOUR 100 PER CENT. BY ENACTING AND ENFORCING AN ADVANCED TRADE UNION ACT GUARANTEEING UNION RECOGNITION, EFFECTIVE PREVENTION OF UNFAIR LABOUR PRACTICES AND FULL UNION SECURITY.

First and Only PROVINCE TO EXTEND WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION TO 75 PER CENT. OF WAGES, HIGHEST RATE OF BENEFITS IN THE WORLD.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ENACT LEGISLATION PROVIDING FOR A 44-HOUR WORKING WEEK WITH THE SAME TAKE-HOME PAY.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ESTABLISH A MINIMUM WAGE OF $1,200 A YEAR FOR PERMANENT TEACHERS-

First and Only PROVINCE TO GUARANTEE TO EVERY CITIZEN COMPENSATION FOR FINANCIAL LOSS RESULTING FROM INJURY OR DEATH IN A MOTOR ACCIDENT, AND BENEFITS FOR PROPERTY DAMAGE RESULTING FROM HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS.

First and Only PROVINCE TO EXTEND THE MUNICIPAL FRANCHISE IN CITIES, TOWNS, VILLAGES AND RURAL MUNICIPALITIES TO ALL ADULTS REGARDLESS OF PROPERTY OWNERSHIP.

First and Only PROVINCE TO UNDERTAKE COMPREHENSIVE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL PLANNING THROUGH ITS ECONOMIC ADVISORY AND PLANNING BOARD.

First and Only PROVINCE TO OPERATE THE PROVINCE'S BUS TRANSPORTATION LINES AS A PUBLIC SERVICE, THE SURPLUSES OF WHICH ARE RETAINED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE PROVINCE.

First and Only PROVINCE TO EMBARK UPON A CONCRETE PROGRAM OF GOVERNMENT-SPONSORED INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT TO UTILIZE NATURAL PRODUCTS AND CREATE NEW EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ESTABLISH A RESEARCH COUNCIL TO CO-ORDINATE AND ACTIVELY PROMOTE RESEARCH WITH EMPHASIS ON THE PHYSICAL SCIENCES

First and Only PROVINCE TO PROVIDE GOVERNMENT MARKETING SERVICES FOR PRODUCTS OF THE TIMBER, FUR AND FISHING INDUSTRIES.

First and Only PROVINCE TO ENACT A BILL OF RIGHTS, GUARANTEEING TO EVERY CITIZEN OF SASKATCHEWAN BASIC FREEDOMS AND RIGHTS IRRESPECTIVE OF RACE, RELIGION, COLOUR, OR ETHNIC OR NATIONAL ORIGIN.

Socially-owned Projects

In Operation

GOVERNMENT WOOLLEN MILL - -	MOOSE JAW
GOVERNMENT SHOE FACTORY - - - -	REGINA
GOVERNMENT TANNERY - - - - - -	REGINA
SASKATCHEWAN GOVERNMENT INSURANCE OFFICE . - - - - - - - -	REGINA
SASKATCHEWAN POWER COMMISSION -	REGINA
GOVERNMENT BRICK PLANT - - - -	ESTEVAN
GOVERNMENT SEED CLEANING PLANT -	MOOSE JAW
GOVERNMENT PRINTING COMPANY - -	REGINA
GOVERNMENT TELEPHONES - - - -	REGINA
SASKATCHEWAN TIMBER BOARD -	PRINCE ALBERT
GOVERNMENT BOX FACTORY - -	PRINCE ALBERT
SASKATCHEWAN FISH BOARD - -	PRINCE ALBERT
GOVERNMENT FISH PLANTS -	LAC LA RONGE BEAVER LAKE MEADOW LAKE
GOVERNMENT BUS LINES - - - - - -	REGINA
GOVERNMENT SODIUM SULPHATE DEVELOPMENT - - - - - -	CHAPLIN
SASKATCHEWAN FUR MARKETING SERVICE -	REGINA
GOVERNMENT RECONSTRUCTION HOUSING CORPORATION - - - - - - -	REGINA
GOVERNMENT RECONSTRUCTION CORPORATION - - - - - - -	REGINA

Backed Financially

CO-OPERATIVE HORSE PROCESSING PLANT - - - - - -	SWIFT CURRENT

Industrial Development

Aims

1. TO UTILIZE INDUSTRIALLY SASKATCHEWAN'S NATURAL RESOURCES AND OTHER PRIMARY PRODUCTS.

2. TO PROVIDE GREATER EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE PEOPLE OF SASKATCHEWAN THROUGH INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY.

Social Services

Aims

1. ADEQUATE HEALTH SERVICES FOR ALL.

2. INCREASED EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES AND OPPORTUNITIES, ESPECIALLY IN RURAL AREAS.

3. ADEQUATE PROVISIONS FOR THE HEALTH, COMFORT AND DECENCY OF ALL THOSE WHO THROUGH AGE, ILLNESS, OR PHYSICAL OR MENTAL DISABILITY ARE UNABLE TO CARE FOR THEMSELVES.

For Free Booklets

DESCRIBING VARIOUS ASPECTS OF SASKATCHEWAN GOVERNMENT ACTIVITY:

Write THE BUREAU OF PUBLICATIONS,
LEGISLATIVE BUILDING,
REGINA, SASKATCHEWAN.

SPECIAL BULLETIN

RE: FARM LABOR BILL IN HOUSE

FROM: Veniette C. Weil, Executive Secretary, National Council on Agricultural Life and Labor

As reported by the Council, HR 3283 calling for the further importation of foreign farm workers has been given a rule by the House Rules Committee. This action was taken last night by the Committee. This means that the Poage Bill will probably reach the floor of the House the middle of next week.

The bill contains very serious defects and inadequacies and does little, or nothing, towards solving the very serious problem of migratory labor in the United States. An attempt is being made by Congressman McCarthy and other sympathetic Congressmen to improve HR 3283.

You have already received a copy of a letter to the Council from Congressman McCarthy explaining the course of action to be taken by the Congressman in his fight to improve the House bill (a copy of which we have sent you). You have also received an analysis of the bill passed by the Senate calling for the importation of foreign farm workers. I am enclosing a reprint of the New York Times articles by Gladwin Hill on illegal Mexican immigration. It is the hope of the Council that the material we have provided will give you the necessary background for taking whatever action you may deem essential.

It is suggested that those organizations wishing to alert their people in the field do so immediately. Letters to Congressmen embodying the improvements suggested by Congressman McCarthy in his letter will in many instances aid members of the House in deciding in favor of improving the bill. For those organizations which can take legislative action it is suggested that they contact Congressmen directly.

An attempt will be made to improve HR 3283 so as to accomplish the following purposes:

"1. To discourage the use of so-called 'wetback' Mexican labor, i.e. Mexicans who enter this country illegally and are subsequently employed in agricultural work principally in the west and southwest.

2. To insure adequate standards of wages, working conditions and housing for the migratory worker.

3. To provide that the cost of this program will be borne by the farmers who employ the imported labor and will not require a United States subsidy.

1939

Ladies and Lynchings

by LEWIS T. NORDYKE

The remarkable story of the campaign against lynching which is being carried forward by forty thousand southern women, backed by two million members of social, civic and religious groups. A Texas journalist reports on the promise of better human relations which distinguishes this quiet but determined movement for "self-reconstruction."

MOB VIOLENCE, MASQUERADING AS THE CHAMPION OF SOUTHern womanhood, is petering out below the Mason and Dixon Line. And the weaker sex is largely responsible. Nine years ago a small group of thinking women who had long realized that there was more bloodthirst than knight-errantry in howling mobs, organized the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching. Today, backed by women's social, civic and religious groups that have more than two million members in the southern states, the women are massed in one of the most effective social programs ever attempted in the United States and certainly one of the most vital and constructive movements in the South — that of preventing white men from lynching Negroes for any cause whatsoever.

The word "southern" in the association's name is significant, for the program is a native one, conceived, developed and expanded into a South-wide movement by southern-born women. In a strict sense, the movement is part of the final work of reconstruction, the righting of wrongs growing out of slavery and the Civil War.

The accomplishments of these southern women are not widely known, even in the South. The women have worked quietly—very quietly in comparison with the notoriety of lynching mobs bent on murder. Through personal effort, pressure on state officials and peace officers, and with the help of church, social and other organizations, they have greatly affected the South's whole approach to the problem of race relations.

Demolishing the Myth of Mob Chivalry

STATISTICS TELL PART OF THE DRAMATIC STORY OF THE PAtient anti-lynching campaign. In the eight years previous to the founding of the women's association, there were 211 lynchings in the nation. In 1930, the year the association was founded, there were twenty-one lynchings in the South. Records of Tuskegee Institute show that in the first eight years the women were organized there were 105 lynchings, only half as many as in the previous eight years. There were thirteen lynchings in 1931, eight in 1932, twenty-eight in 1933, fourteen in 1934, twenty in 1935, eight in each of 1936 and 1937 and six in 1938, the lowest year on record.

Moreover, the records show that in forty instances sheriffs and police officers, many of them committed in writing to the women's program, prevented lynchings in 1938—saving three white men, forty-nine Negro men and a Negro woman from mobs. In each of these officially recorded cases, the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching was on the job, not up front in a dramatic, headline way, but quietly functioning where action counted.

To outsiders the most surprising thing about the anti-lynching drive is that southern women are responsible for it. The remark of one northerner who heard for the first time of the association's program was, "Why, that is peculiar. Isn't the primary purpose of lynching to protect white women?" To this question thousands of southern women have answered for nearly ten years with an emphatic, "NO."

The first thing the association's organizers set out to do was to destroy the fiction that men lynch in women's names. Here is the organization's declaration and personal pledge:

We declare lynching is an indefensible crime, destructive of all principles of government, hateful, and hostile to every ideal of religion and humanity, debasing, and degrading to every person involved. Though lynchings are not confined to any one section of the United States, we are aroused by the record which discloses our heavy responsibility for the presence of this crime in our country. We believe that this record has been achieved because public opinion has accepted too easily the claim of lynchers and mobsters that they were acting solely in the defense of womanhood. In the light of facts, we dare not longer permit this claim to pass unchallenged nor allow those bent upon personal revenge and savage-

What One Woman Can Do To Prevent Lynchings

1—She can study all available material on lynchings and make the information her own.

2—She can present her material to missionary societies and clubs, applying her remarks to the purposes and programs of each group.

3—She can secure signatures of the members of the organizations before which she speaks.

4—She can ask each organization to appoint one member to serve with her in this work.

5—She can take signatures of citizens and, accompanied by one member of her committee, go to the Court House and discuss with the Sheriff, the Judge, and other officers of the law mobs, lynchings, and their prevention. She can ask for the signatures of the officials to a special resolution against lynching.

6—She can visit the local newspaper and inform the editor of the work undertaken by the women, and ask for the sympathy and cooperation of the local press.

7—She and members of her committee can talk to the preachers of the town. She can plan with them some specific projects of education through the Church, Sunday School, and young peoples' organizations.

8—She and her committee can open the way for speakers before the civic, commercial, and service clubs of the men of the town.

9—She can talk over with the School Superintendent the project of reaching young people through the schools, either in assembly talks or in class room talks.

10—She and her committee can list all county wide organizations of men and women, the dates of the meetings, the nature of the work and the program of each. With this information she can identify the educational project against lynching with interests of the organizations before she will try to speak.

Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching

Reprinted from SURVEY GRAPHIC, November 1939 for ASSOCIATION OF SOUTHERN WOMEN
FOR THE PREVENTION OF LYNCHING
710 Standard Building, Atlanta, Georgia

ry to commit acts of violence and lawlessness in the name of women. We solemnly pledge ourselves to create a new public opinion in the South, which will not condone, for any reason whatever, acts of mobs or lynchers. We shall teach our children at home, at school and at church a new interpretation of law and religion; we will assist all officials to uphold their oath of office; and, finally, we will join with every minister, editor, school teacher and patriotic citizen in a program of education to eradicate lynching and mobs forever from our land.

That pledge is not an idle one. Nearly 40,000 of the leading white women of the South have signed it and have fought for the principles involved, including the statement that men do not lynch in the South to protect the flower of southern womanhood.

When, on November 1, 1930, two dozen southern-born women met in Atlanta, some amazing facts about lynchings were placed on the council table. Guarding against possible consequences of acting in haste on what might be a half-baked idea, the small group had made an exhaustive survey of lynching. Here are some things they learned:

Since 1886, a total of 4297 persons had been lynched in the United States, most of them in the South—but only 21 per cent of the victims had been lynched for crimes against white women.

Women had been present at all lynchings of recent years and in a number of cases had participated. Some of the women were mothers with young children who, on several occasions, were actually balanced precariously on parents' shoulders so as to have a better view. Young boys and girls were contributing their numbers to the mobs, both as spectators and as leaders.

From 1922 to that autumn of 1930, there had been 211 lynchings, 204 of them in the South. But only 29 per cent of the victims had been accused of crimes against white women.

Then came the questions that electrified the conference: What did the other 71 per cent of the victims do to provoke the murderous wrath of mobs? Why do white men lynch Negroes? In a tense moment, the women saw what had been traditionally known as southern chivalry stripped down to sadistic barbarism. In the economic, social and racial significance of the problem lay the real challenge.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames of Atlanta, today executive director of the association, an even dozen of that pioneer group pledged themselves to do all within their power to prevent lynchings and to change public opinion to abhor instead of countenance mob murder. The women decided they had two jobs. First to carry on an educational program between outbursts of violence; second, to act quickly when a mob formed, or when there was a threat of a mob. The first they considered of greater importance, and they wrote into their minutes:

The time to prevent lynchings is before the mob forms. Investigations have disclosed that no county in the South is free from the shadow of a possible lynching. Because the county is the important unit of government, intensive activities are planned to be carried out by women in each county seat before a mob ever threatens.

And this the women set out to do. Each of the dozen original members was prominent in church work and each knew that in the South church women are beyond any doubt the dominating force. So to the church organizations the women went for assistance. The response was great. Hundreds of southern women offered their aid. Prominent women like Mrs. Attwood Martin of Louisville, who is well known as a novelist under the name of George Madden Martin, joined actively in the work and placed their influence behind the program.

Then the women started work—talking, writing letters, distributing printed circulars, interviewing officers and state officials, addressing organization meetings—with the ambitious goal of interesting every organization of men and women in every county in the South in the campaign against lynching.

There was ridicule. There were threats. Organizations which had made the terrorizing of Negroes their chief business since the Civil War opposed the women, inspired sinister warnings or sent them under their own official letterheads. In no few communities the women were ordered not to speak. In other communities officials demanded that talks be written and censored locally before the women might speak.

"Many of the women were threatened," Mrs. Ames said. "I know women who wouldn't tell their husbands of the threats because they feared their families would insist that the women quit the work. Women went into communities in which there had been lynchings. Many of the people were surly, belligerent. When we take into consideration the fact that some of the lynchings had grown out of politics and crooked business deals, we can understand that the women were by no means safe at all times. They knew of the constant danger, and they didn't forget to pray."

The Momentum of Education

By good chance the women struck at an opportune moment. For years some of the leading newspapers of the South had fought mob murder. Such editors as Grover Hall of the Montgomery Advertiser, Mark Ethridge of the Louisville Courier-Journal, Virginius Dabney of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and many others had made a strong fight against lynching.

State officials, particularly the governors, in several states had taken a reasonably firm stand against lynching and held sheriffs responsible for lynchings in their counties. In the cities of the South other individuals and organizations, such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, had long been waging anti-lynching campaigns. There was a growing awareness of the social and economic implications of the spirit created by lynching. "Outside" criticism had begun to offend the sensibilities of southern people and make them more self-conscious about charges that lynching was the act of barbarians. In short, public opinion was not unprepared to accept the surprise move made by the southern white women. And, from the start, the women gave thankful credit and offered their full cooperation in all anti-lynching movements, except the drive for a federal anti-lynching bill, which, because of the women's program of applying pressure to southern sheriffs, they neither favored nor opposed.

Perhaps the most important part of their work — the part that shocked a large section of the public into a changing view of the lynching problem — was that of gathering and publicizing facts about lynchings. The records in Mrs. Ames' office in Atlanta show that in more than one instance innocent Negroes were lynched on non-existent grounds at the instigation of white men who coveted the crops the Negoes had cultivated.

Here are some of the officially recorded facts the women publicized in newspapers and in printed circulars:

Nine of the 84 mob victims in the 1931-35 period were not accused of any crime and 25 others were accused of minor offenses.

Near Moultrie, Ga., Bo Brinson, an unaccused Negro, was killed at his home by a mob looking for John Henry Sloan, who had killed a white man.

In Baker County, Ga., a Negro killed a white bootlegger at a Negro dance. When the "right man" couldn't be found, two unaccused Negroes were lynched as an object lesson.

In Cheatham County, Tennessee, a Negro was lynched for slapping a white woman who was drinking beer in a Negro store.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., a helpless Negro paralytic was lynched on the charge of attempted rape.

In Greenville County, S. C., a Negro was shot to death in his home at midnight by a masked mob after he had repeatedly asked for a settlement for his crop.

Revelation of such facts, Mrs. Ames said, aided the association in battering down opposition and winning popular public approval; and this, of course, represented a decided change in public opinion. As a result, the ranks of the women crusaders increased by thousands.

Mrs. Mullino Prevents a Lynching

HOW DO SOME 40,000 CRUSADING SOUTHERN WOMEN WORK?

On Christmas Day, 1934, Mrs. Ames was preparing for holiday festivities. Her telephone rang. An Associated Press editor informed her that a Negro had killed an officer in Schley County, Georgia, and that a mob was forming. Mrs. Ames rushed to the office. She discovered that the association had no signatures in Schley County. But in adjoining Macon County lived a member of the Georgia Council of the Association, Mrs. F. M. Mullino of Montezuma. Mrs. Ames telephoned Mrs. Mullino, who stopped preparation of her Christmas dinner and started telephoning everyone she knew in Schley County, urging each to bring pressure on the sheriff to prevent a lynching.

A short time later, Mrs. Mullino was informed that the Negro was in a swamp in her own county. She called the sheriff and his deputies, and a number of ministers and other public-spirited citizens, urging them to aid in preventing mob action. Until mid-afternoon she stayed at her telephone. Finally the Negro was captured — by officers. That Christmas Day was not blackened by a lynching in Georgia. The law took its course. Had Mrs. Mullino gone to the mob and pleaded for restraint she would have been taunted. She knew that. She knew, too, that a sheriff, even though disposed to carelessness in such cases, couldn't afford to take any chances after dozens of influential voters had demanded that every possible precaution be taken to insure a constitutional trial for the accused Negro.

That is only one of dozens of examples of the women's quick work. Early in their campaign they realized that the sheriff was the key man. It was up to him to handle any mob forming in his county. The women approached practically every southern sheriff, asked each to sign a pledge to do all within his power to prevent lynchings. Some of the sheriffs shrugged off the matter as "just another one of them things." But the women did not stop there. They went about their work of obtaining the signatures of influential persons, of talking anti-lynching in schools, churches and at public meetings, of distributing circulars giving facts on lynchings and asking the public to help prevent mob law.

Southern women know local politics. No strange woman from the central state office called on a sheriff in the counties of the fifteen states. Nothing like that. A woman voter living in each sheriff's own county went to him about the lynching matters, and that is about as firm political pressure as can be applied. Each time there was a crime, or an accusation which might lead to a lynching, the women went into swift action. The sheriff started getting calls from influential voters and visits from prominent men and women who demanded that he protect the Negro, take him to an unnamed jail if necessary. Some of these calls came from governors who had been informed by association members of possible attempted violence. In some southern states a governor can remove a sheriff who loses a prisoner to a mob. In certain instances southern governors have called out the militia to protect accused Negroes.

A Basic Approach to Race Relations

AT THE END OF 1937 THE SOUTHERN WOMEN ISSUED A startling statement entitled, "Where Were the Peace Officers?" It declared: "All eight victims of lynchings in 1937 were in the hands of peace officers. In seven of the lynchings, investigations indicate, officers were either in the mob or were in collusion with the mob."

Here is a typical message sent all persons who have committed themselves to the anti-lynching program: "Do you know your sheriff? Have you talked with your sheriff? If it is an election year, have you talked with the candidates for sheriff? Have you asked each candidate what he will do to prevent lynchings if elected? The voters will decide for or against lynchings this year."

The results have been extraordinary. To date 1229 southern peace officers in fifteen states have written their signatures to pledges to educate against lynching and to prevent mob action.

Many sheriffs have volunteered their pledges. In asking the sheriffs to sign pledges the women do not intend to intimate they think the sheriffs would countenance lynchings. All they want is cooperation, and most peace officers are giving it. A recent issue of the Texas Sheriffs Association's monthly magazine bitterly attacked lynching as murder and urged Texas sheriffs—there are 254 of them—firmly to aid in stamping out all such outrages.

The women have not limited their pressure to sheriffs. They have used the same methods on governors, legislators and other state officials. In Kentucky, 2000 women demanded repeal of the "gallows festival" law, which provided public hangings for men convicted on charges of rape. The law was repealed. The law, which made the crime of rape punishable by hanging in the county where the offense was committed, had been intended to quench the lynching spirit by demonstrating publicly that the law had taken its course, but the practice became distorted and was marked by many shockingly shameful celebrations, at which, as one southern newspaper pointed out, morbid appetite grew by what it fed on.

The women's work has included some activities more strenuous than signing petitions and applying pressure. They have faced howling mobs bent on lynching Negroes. Their pleadings were seldom heeded or even heard, but the women did all they could. Another dangerous job has been that of visiting the scenes of lynchings and collecting the real facts.

In cases — particularly those actually involving crimes against white women—in which the association has stepped into the scene, members have been taunted with:

"What if it were your daughter? What if it were you?"

To these jeering questions the women can reply with facts from the records. In 1936, the seven-year-old daughter of an Alabama woman, who was committed to the program, was attacked by a Negro. The mother, clinging tenaciously to her ideals and principles at a time when it would have been understandable had she succumbed to a profoundly human desire for revenge, prevented mob violence by her appeal that the law take its course.

Two aged sisters, who had only read of the southern women's program, pleaded with a posse of men in a Texas village in 1938 not to attempt to lynch a Negro who had attacked them. The sisters made their plea from beds in which their injuries confined them.

The association has its central council in Atlanta with Mrs. Attwood Martin as chairman and Mrs. Ames as director. There are thirteen council members at large, and each of the fifteen states has an independent council. The women work without pay and have planned their organization so shrewdly that it has none of the drawbacks common in ordinary guilds. They have carefully avoided strict rules of organization. "Much of the ineffectiveness of reform movements," said Mrs. Ames, "arises from the determination of the leaders to set up an organization into which are gathered only like-minded people, thereby cutting them off from making converts." And they have carefully avoided the mistake of getting too far ahead of public opinion. "Knowing at the start," said Mrs. Martin, "that if we went too fast, moved ahead of public opinion in a particular locality, it would be the Negro population that would suffer, we have refrained from overzeal until sure of our support."

And all along, every day of the year, the quiet educational program in which thousands of women have relayed the association's message to high schools and colleges, Sunday schools and churches, social, religious and patriotic clubs has been carried forward. Even the drama has been used in this earnest educational campaign. The association sponsored a one-act play contest, in which the subject was limited to anti-lynching. "Country Sunday" by Walter Spearman, teacher of journalism in the University of North Carolina, and "Lawd, Does Yo' Undahstan'?" by Ann Seymour, teacher in the schools of Palestine, Tex., were the winners. The plays were widely produced by Little Theater groups, and Miss Seymour's play was included in "Representative One-Act American Plays of 1938," which had a circulation of more than 20,000. The women have not been able to estimate the number of persons the message of the plays reached, nor do they have any idea how many thousands their constant flow of printed circulars on lynching and its prevention have affected.

The central office now sends out more than 10,000 pieces of literature upon direct request each year. Requests for information on the work have come from India, China, Africa, England, and the Philippines.

In order to accelerate the work, the association has requested Mrs. Ames to develop a study book of methods on the education of the public against lynching and its prevention. All the methods the women have found in ten years to be successful—ways of carrying on the educational program when there is no mob to combat, and action necessary when there is danger of a mob—will be included in the handbook. In addition there will be factual discussions of the racial problem in the South. With this book in the hands of thousands of women, each worker will benefit by the association's past experience in combating lynching. And the goal of the women is 100,000 signatures and pledges of cooperation from every sheriff in the South.

It is the hope, the prayer, the intention of these thousands of southern women that not far in the future they will look at the first page of their morning newspaper and see an item something like this:

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., Dec. 31 — (AP) — The Tuskegee Institute reported today that for the first time since the Civil War no lynchings occurred during a year in the United States.

Signature Pledges Against Lynching

State	Counties	Towns	Women	Men	Officers
Alabama	55	173	1356	54	20
Arkansas	29	52	789	69	3
Florida	51	137	2136	332	46
Georgia	154	386	7006	352	250
Kentucky	93	191	2895	144	111
Louisiana	51	109	886	36	135
Mississippi	81	294	5093	526	146
Missouri	39	84	738	36	4
North Carolina	95	337	4361	109	15
Oklahoma	43	93	1212	31	23
South Carolina	46	205	2082	21	37
Tennessee	71	59	3535	259	202
Texas	198	592	5808	51	93
Virginia	46	89	1025	59	137
West Virginia	28	61	469	11	7
Total	1074	2862	39,391	2090	1229

Acme

LILLY STEIN, THE LITTLE CASINO, FREDERICK DUQUESNE
Some customers came for something besides Wiener Schnitzel.

power." Short-wave radio messages, courier service via Clipper planes, code messages in secret ink, intricate financing of conspiracies—they used them all. Their clearing house: the Little Casino Bar.

Proudly announcing the arrests, Mr. Hoover said his sleuths had been on the trail for two years, called it the greatest spy roundup since World War I.

RADICALS

The New Party Line

Oh, Franklin Roosevelt told the people how he felt,
We almost believed him when he said:
"Oh, I hate war,
And so does Eleanor,
But we won't be safe till everybody's dead."

That was a popular Communist song, until last week. Then, at a secret meeting in Manhattan, the national committee of the party announced the new party line: dropping the anti-war campaign, favoring aid to Britain, lend-lease help to Russia, higher wages, the right to strike, organization of the unorganized—in short, a return to the Popular Front that the Communists junked when the Hitler-Stalin non-aggression pact was signed. Said Comrade William Z. (for nothing) Foster: "A victory for Russia will enormously strengthen democracy throughout the world."

A Russian victory would strengthen U.S. Communists. But a Soviet defeat, which was far more probable, might leave U.S. Communists not only men without a country but men without a creed—because all their ideas have come from Russia. The comrades were pretty sick, for Communist propagandists know how weak Russia is.

When Germany invaded Poland and World War II began, Comrade Mike Gold, foremost Communist pundit in the U.S., exulted: "I feel like a boy again!" Last week Comrade Gold confided how he felt when he heard of the invasion of Russia: "The first hour was awful—I shall never forget it. Now it had come—the thing we so feared for five, ten, 20 years."

Meanwhile the U.S. showed no disposition to give up the job of rooting out domestic Reds because Stalin was fighting Hitler (although anti-Communists were alarmed at Washington reports that prosecutions were to be dropped):

▶ In Manhattan, Morris U. Schappes, City College tutor, ex-Communist and a leader of the College Teachers' Union, Local 537, was convicted of perjury.

▶ In Oklahoma City, Mrs. Ina Woods, wife of the Oklahoma secretary of the Communist Party, was sentenced to ten years in prison for criminal syndicalism.

▶ In Washington, New York's Congressman John Taber, charging fellow-traveling in Henderson's OPACS, named Robert Brady ("He is one of those birds in the price-fixing outfit under Henderson.") and Brady's wife ("She was the business manager of a magazine known as Friday which ties right into the Communist front."). Also under fire was the U.S. Housing Authority, whose Bernard Ades was once Communist candidate for Governor of Maryland.

Nobody expected the Communist Party to fold up at once. There were some arguments that if Russia fell quickly, and Stalin was succeeded by a Muscovite Darlan, Hitler could take over the Communist International, make even more effective use of U.S. Communists than Stalin had been able to. But the general belief was that the mainspring of U.S. Communism would be broken.

RACES

Judge Lynch Overruled

Over the little town of Eastman, Ga. lay the dead pall of fear and hatred that comes over Southern towns when everybody knows what is going to happen. In the town square, hard-eyed, determined men came together, waiting for darkness. There was going to be a lynching.

The heat lay heavily on the paved sidewalks, the trim houses beside the highway. In a cell in the county jail a young Negro waited too. Eddie Lee Spivey, 28, a sharecropper with a good reputation, married, with two children, had been arrested for rape the night before. Up in his farming community of Mt. Airy, a 65-year-old white woman had been attacked as she crossed a field to her son's house. Bloodhounds had followed tracks from the scene of the crime to a spot near Spivey's house.

The Negro prayed. The other prisoners looked through the barred window at the growing mob, and told him to come look. Spivey talked with his Lord and asked Him to save him. He told the Lord that he was going to tell the truth; suddenly he was no longer scared or worried, and lay back on his bunk and slept. About dark the boys woke him. He looked through the bars at the scene swimming in the hot Southern twilight, a string of 100 cars drawn up before the jail, 700 white men circulating under the trees. Strong in his faith, he lay down again and slept. It was 10:15 when the mob's leaders, with keys taken from the sheriff, unlocked the cell door. Spivey knew they had come to kill him. He held up his hands and waited.

Half a dozen men held him by the arms and legs and dragged him out to their car. It streaked over the eight miles of road to the scene of the crime, other cars following. Out in the woods beside the field, somebody built a bonfire. Somebody asked Spivey if he had raped Mrs. Peacock. He said he had not seen her in five years. Somebody asked Spivey if he knew where his potato patch was, near there. When Spivey said he did not, the man said, "You're a God-damned liar" and hit him on the head with the butt of his pistol. The man swung again, missed, hit a white man beside him.

Spivey sat on the ground. A double plowline was fastened around his neck. The blow had deafened him; he could not hear the questions. Somebody kicked him in the back and on the head. He was rolled over on his face, and his legs twisted. Blood was running into his nose and mouth from the cut on his head. He heard something about gasoline and knew they were going to burn him. He said he did not do it. He said it again. Somebody yelled: how many want to kill him? How many want to take him back to jail? He heard the roar for his death. He said, "Go ahead and kill me but then keep looking for the man who done it."

The mob hesitated. The men who were likkered up wanted to get it over with. An hour passed while the fire burned down. Some piney-woods law-giver thought of an answer. Two of the raped woman's sons were there, Elzie and Early. So the crowd said for Elzie and Early to decide.

This focusing of responsibility troubled Elzie and Early. They crossed the fields to ask their mother what to do. She told them to take the Negro back to jail and let the law take its course. At midnight, bruised but still unafraid, Spivey was back in his cell. The boys in his cell said they had figured there was a better chance of seeing their mothers come back from the grave than of ever seeing him alive again.

For the first time, as far as anybody could recollect, Judge Lynch had been overruled.

TERRITORIES

Another Norway

As Adolf Hitler's Armies slogged toward Moscow last week (see p. 17), Representative Warren Magnuson of Seattle, Wash. was thinking about Alaska. Mr. Magnuson's thoughts were not as far-fetched as they may have seemed. They were based on the following strategic and geographic facts: 1) if Hitler beats Russia, he gets the Trans-Siberian Railway; 2) whoever has the Trans-Siberian Railway controls Siberia; 3) Siberia is little more than a Cyclopean stone's throw from Alaska.

From Big Diomede Island, where Russia has a new air base, to rocky Little Diomede, which belongs to the U.S., is less than five miles. With Russia's Siberian bases in German hands, Alaska could become another Norway. Congress has authorized $90,000,000 for Alaskan defense, expects to appropriate from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 more in the next few months. The Army is hard at work building new airfields; Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said the Navy's new base at Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutian Islands, will be ready Sept. 1.* But air and naval bases alone cannot transport or supply the kind of army that would be needed to protect Alaska from invasion.

Wide World

BIG DIOMEDE (left), LITTLE DIOMEDE
Narrow water was an argument for a long road.

Ever since his election in 1936, Warren Magnuson has been trying to get Congressional funds for a highway from Seattle to Alaska. He is chairman of the Alaskan International Highway Commission, has helped survey the wild terrain through which the road would pass, has flown over every mile of the proposed route.

Cost of a gravel-top road, under a bill introduced in the House by Delegate Anthony Joseph Dimond of Alaska, would be about $25,000,000—roughly the price of a new 10,000-ton cruiser. Until last week the whole plan sounded pretty far-fetched to the House. But with Hitler's shadow coming east against the sun, it began to look as if others besides Warren Magnuson might begin to think about Alaska.

TEXAS

Close Thing

Two days after election day last week, after one of the hottest political campaigns in the history of Texas, nobody knew who had won the late Morris Sheppard's seat in the U.S. Senate. Lanky, 32-year-old Representative Lyndon Johnson, endorsed by President Roosevelt, started out with a seemingly secure 13,500-vote lead in a field of 25 candidates. But as the count piled up, folksy Governor Wilbert Lee ("Please Pass the Biscuits, Pappy") O'Daniel slowly ate into Lyndon Johnson's vanishing plurality.

As the last returns trickled in this week, from backwoods counties where Lee O'Daniel is strongest, Roosevelt's Johnson was still leading. But his margin was so fabulously small—77 out of a total of 566,551 votes counted—that it could be considered virtually a dead heat. Although Texas law considers a plurality of one vote sufficient in a special election, the Election Bureau took it for granted that a recount would be demanded, that it might be weeks before Texas knew the winner.

Win or lose, Lyndon Johnson, like his competitors, had given Texas quite a show. His great contribution to campaign entertainment was a political version of cinema's Bank Night. At a Johnson rally, listeners sat with lottery tickets clutched in their moist palms. The lucky numbers won defense bonds.

For the first time since the disastrous Roosevelt "purge" of 1938, the President had taken a bold and active hand in a State election. Lyndon Johnson, who first announced his candidacy from the steps of the White House, was backed three times during the campaign by letters and telegrams from Franklin Roosevelt, his "very old and close friend."

On election eve Governor O'Daniel tried to include himself in the President's blessing, suggested to Franklin Roosevelt that Texas should have its own Army and Navy. It was a "breath-taking" idea, the President told Pappy. Then he wired Lyndon Johnson, said the idea was "preposterous."

Meanwhile, the one forgotten man of Texas' election was the man who held the seat for which Johnson and O'Daniel were fighting. In Baltimore, two days before his successor was to be chosen, death came to 87-year-old interim Senator Andrew Jackson Houston, son of Texas' Liberator Sam Houston (see p. 40).

TAXATION

Pay As You Go

The U.S. Treasury this week was working on a plan to collect income taxes in advance. Some time after July 4, tax-anticipation certificates will go on sale, permitting taxpayers to invest their money in taxes the same year they earn it.

Blond, dapper John L. Sullivan, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, told newsmen that these tax certificates will probably come in denominations starting at $1 or $5, will bear interest (probably 2%) in the form of a discount, like defense bonds. Treasury officials said the certificates will not be transferable or subject to use as collateral for bank loans. Thus banks and private investors will not be

* State Department officials this week emphatically denied a story that the U. S. is working on a deal with Russia to acquire the use of Siberia's air bases.

LYNCHING RECORD - 1941

4

January

February

20, Georgetown, South Carolina, Bruce Tisdale, Negro; charge: Tisdale was employed by lumber mill on job previously held by white men; beaten over the head in a fight with five white men and died in hospital five days later. (1)

March

April

13, Gaston County (near Cherryville), North Carolina; Robert Melker, Negro; charge: Altercation with white men; shot to death in his home by four men. (1)

May

6, Blakely, Early County, Georgia; Robert Sapp, Negro; charge: Suspected of stealing from his employer, flogged with a club and a piece of machine belting, (1)

13, Quincy, Gadsen County, Florida; A. C. Williams, Negro; charge: Attempted rape upon a 12-year-old white girl, beaten and body riddled with bullets. (1)

Williams was first taken from jail by a group of armed men and his body riddled with bullets and left for dead. He was later discovered at a Negro residence severely wounded. He was placed in an ambulance for transfer to a hospital in Tallahassee 25 miles away. Five miles out of Quincy, a masked band stopped the unguarded ambulance and removed the wounded Negro. His bullet-riddled body was found the next day on a creek bridge north of Quincy.

June

July

August

September

October

November

WHAT IS A LYNCHING?

1940-5

March 7, 1940 - Atlanta

Ike Gaston was flogged and left in such a state of exhaustion that he was unable to make his way home, and died of exposure. The Grand Jury of Fulton County investigated Gaston's murder and though they have connected it with the men who have been indicted for floggings, they have not yet tried any one for his death.

May 9, Fairfield, Jefferson County, Alabama; O'Dee Henderson, Negro; charge: Altercation with white man; beaten and shot to death by three officers of the law and one civilian.

June 22, Brownsville, Haywood County, Tennessee; Elbert Williams, Negro; charge: Attempting to qualify to vote ("interest in Negro affairs"); murdered and body thrown into the Hatchie River.

June 28, Luverne, Crenshaw County, Alabama; Jesse Thornton, Negro; charge; Overheard speaking of a local peace officer by his first name without using Mr.; shot to death and body left in a remote spot on the bank of a stream.

September 8, LaGrange, Troup County, Georgia; Austin Callaway, Negro; charge: Attempted attack on a white woman; taken from jail and shot to death by band of masked men.

Was charged with attempting to qualify to vote - trouble developed. He next morning his body was found in the Hatchie River. He had been shot.

Lynchings Committed
1939

Florida

April 1, Panama City, Bay County.
Miles W. Brown, white, was shot to death after being taken from the jail by a band of four or five masked men. Brown was convicted of first degree murder of his former employer, with a recommendation for mercy, which carried a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment. Governor Cone ordered a complete investigation of the lynching. The Grand Jury reported it had insufficient evidence on which to base an indictment. (1 W) taken from jail mob of 4 or 5 masked shot to death

Fed murder

April 29, Daytona Beach, Volusia County.
An automobile driven by Lee Snell, colored taxi driver, struck and killed ~~almost instantly~~ Benny Blackwelder, 12-year-old white boy who was riding a bicycle. Constable James Durden, after swearing out a warrant against Snell, started with the prisoner for DeLand. About four miles out from Daytona Beach, Everett and Earl Blackwelder, brothers of the slain boy, overpowered Durden. As Snell attempted to run, several shots were fired into his body. The Blackwelder brothers were arrested and indicted on charges of first degree murder, but were ~~freed~~ cleared of the charge. (1)

In hands of law shot by two brothers

V
no charge
a white part of mob

Mississippi

May 8, Canton, Madison County.
The body of Joe Rogers, Negro, was found in Pearl River with the hands tied behind and the legs tied together. There were no bruises on the body. It was understood locally that there had been some difficulty between the Negro and one of the foremen at the sawmill a few days before the body was found. (1) body found in river

II no charge difficulty with white employer

Prevented Lynchings

~~There were 18 reports of instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. All of these instances reported were in Southern states. In all instances, the persons were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. A total number of 25 persons, 5 white men and 20 Negro men, were thus saved from the hands of mobs.~~

Lynchings Committed
1938 - 6

Florida August 9, Perry, Taylor County.
Otis Price, Negro was put to death by a mob of undetermined size for alleged rape. His body was riddled with bullets. Sheriff S. L. Wilson had Price under arrest and was taking him to jail when the mob attacked and seized the prisoner. "no charge against the Negro." (1)

"group of men in several cars."

Georgia July 6, Arabi, Crisp County.
John Dukes, Negro, shot and killed officer sent to arrest him for drunk and disorderly. Sheriff from Cordele came down but left in an hour since Dukes was near death as a result of wound received from slain officer. A mob gradually formed and about an hour after, Sheriff J. H. Pitts left, it took the Negro, still alive but unconscious, down the road several hundred yards, saturated his body with gasoline and burned him. Mob estimated at a hand full to several hundred. (1)

Louisiana October 13, Ruston, Lincoln Parish.
R. C. Williams, 19-year-old Negro, was taken by a mob and hanged to a tree, riddled with bullets and set afire - "to check his fingerprints with those found on the automobile of the slain man." Williams was accused of murdering a white man and raping his companion. (1)

Mississippi - July 6, Rolling Fork, Sharkey County.
Tom McGehee, Negro blacksmith, was killed in gun battle with a posse of about seventy-five men after the murder of a white planter for whom he worked. Later a mob seized the body, poured gasoline over it, set it on fire, tied it to an automobile and hauled it down to Rolling Park. (1)

November 21, Wiggins, Stone County.
Wilder McGowan, Negro, "was lynched by a mob of 200 men for the alleged choking, assaulting and robbing of a 74-year-old white woman. It was an "orderly lynching." Sheriff H. C. Hinton was sure there was "no shooting and no disorder in the mob." Hanged. "Economical measure." save expense of trial.

MISSISSIPPI

Canton, Madison County

July 27, 1938: Claude Brooks shot by officers when he speeded up his car and refused to halt when ordered. The officers had closed off streets looking for person stabbing and robbing a white man. Brooks' companion, Jones, was placed in jail. Officers said both Negroes were innocent of any offense. (1)

Shot by officers by mistake refused to halt when ordered

no charge

no crime

no mob

LYNCHINGS BY STATES

1937-~~38~~
8

ALABAMA

Abbeville, Henry County

February 2: Wes Johnson - 18 - Negro accused of criminal assault on a white woman; taken from custody of Sheriff J. L. Corbitt. Attorney General of Alabama declared that he would prove "the wrong Negro was lynched." Impeachment proceedings brought against Sheriff, who was exonerated by a 4 to 2 vote. Hanged and body riddled with bullets by a mob in 25 cars. (1)

taken from jail
mob - hanged
riddled with bullets
25 cars

criminal assault
F.S.

FLORIDA

Tallahassee, Leon County

Richard Hawkins and Ernest Powders, Negroes, charged with stabbing an officer, were taken from the jail two blocks from the court house and shot to death by a mob of four masked men. Governor Cone said, "This is a murder, not a lynching," and declared that those guilty must be brought to justice. Sheriff Frank Stoutamire, upon receipt of reports from FBI office in Washington that bullets taken Negroes bodies did not come from guns belonging to any of Tallahassee's policemen, said: "In my opinion there isn't much more we can do." (News clipping, Aug. 3.) (2)

taken from jail
mob of 4 - shot to death

stabbed an officer
Gun F.S.

Milton, Santa Rosa County

October 3. J. C. Evans, Negro, accused of "unnatural crime" against a white boy and robbery of a filling station was taken from Sheriff Joe Allen on highway and shot. As in the Tallahassee lynching, the mob consisted of only four men, none of whom the Sheriff recognized. Prisoner had been held at Panama City for safekeeping until time for his trial; He was being brought back to Milton for trial when the mob got him. (1)

taken from officers
mob of 4 - shot to death

unnatural crime
F.S.

GEORGIA

Bainbridge, Decatur County

May 25—Willie Reed - 20 - Negro - accused of murdering two white women and assaulting one of them, was killed by local officers, H. G. Pollock and R. A. Stephens, who were returning him to Bainbridge from Dothan, Alabama. His dead body was seized from a Negro undertaking establishment by a mob of 100 and burned, after being dragged through the town behind an automobile.

MISSISSIPPI

Duck Hill, Montgomery County

April 13—Roosevelt Towns and Bootjack McDaniels, two Negroes accused of murdering a white storekeeper, were taken from the Sheriff, E. E. Wright, and burned to death with blow torches. A young boy of about twelve applied blow torch first. They were indicted at Winona on this date and were to have been returned on the fifteenth for trial. They were seized as they were being led from the courthouse after indictment proceedings. District Attorney Clarence E. Morgan said, immediately after the lynchings: "I am of the opinion that the lynching was planned and led by persons who are not citizens of this country." As to an investigation, he said: "We are doing everything we can, but I fear nothing will come of it."

TENNESSEE

Covington, Tipton County

August 17—Albert Gooden, Negro, accused of slaying an officer of the law, taken from the Sheriff, W. J. Vaughan, who was returning him from Memphis (where he had been held for safekeeping after a mob had tried to take him immediately following the crime) to Covington for trial. Six men were in this mob. Governor offered reward of $5,000 for assistance that would lead to apprehension and conviction of the lynchers. Tipton County Grand Jury adjourned on September 2 without making a report on the case.

LYNCHING - 1936

-8- Attach addd

MARCH 14: CUSSETA, GEORGIA:

Philip Baker, accused of attacking two white women (arrested in December for assaulting one white woman and beating another and a Negro woman) was hanged and his body was riddled with bullets by a mob which took him from Chattahoochee County officers, while he was being transferred from Macon to Columbus. (1)

taken from officers
mob. riddled with bullets interracial

criminal assault
fid

APRIL 28: DANIELSVILLE, GA.

Negro saved from lynching on April 11 through the pleas of an aged judge, was shot to death by a mob of forty men 8 hours before he was to go to trial on a charge of attempted criminal assault.
The mob broke into the jail at Royston, Ga., where Lint Shaw had been taken for safekeeping. The jail was the third in which Lint had been held since he was identified by two white girls as having attempted to attack them. (1)

taken from jail
mob of 40.
hanged attempted criminal assault -

fid

APRIL 29: LEPANTO, ARK.: Willie Kees, Negro, 19 yeas old, accused of an attempted attack on a white woman, was taken from the City Marshal by a masked mob and shot to death. The youth had been accused of attempting to attack the white woman on April 18, whipped and ordered to leave town. He returned on April 27 and was arrested on April 29. On the way to jail the mob appeared. (1)

taken from officer
mob. shot to death
white woman

attempted criminal assault
fid

MAY 3: PAVO, GEORGIA:

John Rushin, 55-year-old farmhand, was snatched from a deputy sheriff by a mob of 200 men and shot to death, in revenge for the slaying of a white man. (1)

taken from officer
mob. of 200
shot -

murder
fid

MAY 13: DETROIT, MICHIGAN:

May 22: Seven members of the Black Legion, a secret society of robed nightriders, faced murder charges for the execution of Charles A. Poole, 32-year-old WPA worker, who was found shot to death beside a suburban road on May 13 . . .
Four of the men held confessed participation in the "ritual slaying" of Poole after he was accused of kicking and beating his wife.

SEPT. 6: DALTON, GEORGIA:

A mob lynched A. L. McCamy, twenty-one-year old Negro, accused of an attempted attack on a white woman after seizing the prisoner from the Whitfield County jail. Sheriff J. T. Bryan said the crowd of about 150 men stormed the jail, forced the jailer to hand over his keys at the point of pistols and seized the prisoner. The sheriff found the body four hours later on a roadside beneath a tree from which the man had been hanged. (1)

taken from jail
150 - mob - hanged

attempted Criminal assault.
House breaking
F.B.I.

SEPT. 11: GREENVILLE, FLA.:

Governor Dave Sholtz's office on September 26 directed that every effort be made to apprehend the lynchers of Buckie Young on September 11, charged with attack on a white woman. Young was shot to death. Coroner refused an inquest. (1) taken from hands of law

mob - shot to death

Criminal assault
F.B.I.

SEPT. 12: ATLANTA, GEORGIA:

Tom Finch, for 10 years orderly at the Grady Hospital, was taken from his home under the pretense that he was under arrest. Twenty minutes later his wife was called and told that his body had been dumped at the hospital door. The police department claimed that the Negro had resisted arrest and made an attempt to harm an officer; and that he was shot while fleeing. However, upon examination of the hospital authorities, statement read: "Was shot five times in the breast."

taken from home by 5 car loads shot - died in hospital

III
— 54 cases —
Resisting arrest -

GEORGIA

✓ Atlanta, Fulton County

II

"Mack Henry Brown, the 35-year-old apartment house janitor, whose bullet-riddled, handcuffed and foot-bound body was found floating in the Chattahoochee River at Roswell, Ga., December 23, several weeks after he allegedly insulted an Atlanta white woman by kissing her hand, came to his death as the result of two bullets fired into his body by a party or parties unknown, a coroner's jury decided Tuesday afternoon following a two-day inquest conducted by Paul T. Donehoo, coroner for Fulton County." (1)

Body found in Chattahoochee shot unknown insulting white woman no charges body found

LYNCHINGS BY STATES

1935 - 20 - California - Details written for -

TENNESSEE

Taken from constable by 5 male relatives - body found - shot

White Bluff, Dickson County

November 4: Baxter Bell, Negro struck a white woman who was in a Negro drinking joint. Arrested for assault and battery he was being taken to Ashland to jail when five men, husband and four relatives, overpowered constable, took Bell across into Cheatham County. He was found thirty minutes later, dead shot once through the lungs. Acquitted. (1)

Slapped white woman in drinking joint

Fed

TEXAS

Taken from officers - mob of 700 hanged

Columbus, Texas, Colorado County

November 11: Ernest Collins, 15, and Benny Mitchell, 16, Negroes were taken from Sheriff Frank Horgemeyer and deputies by a mob of 700 and hanged to a liveoak tree. They were being brought from Houston to Columbus to be tried for criminally assaulting and murder. County Attorney O. P. Moore said, "I do not call the citizens who executed the Negroes a mob. I consider their action an expression of the will of the people." (2)

Criminal assault + murder

Fed

MISSISSIPPI

Taken from officers mob of 35 hanged

Columbus, Lowndes County

July 15: Dooley Morton, 18, Bert Moore, 21, Negroes accused of attempted rape were taken from Deputy Sheriff Parker Harris by a motorcade mob of thirty-five men and hanged. (2)

attempted rape Fed

Mob of 50 taken from jail

Oxford, Lafayette County

Sept. 17: Elwood Higgenbotham, 28, Negro was taken from jail at 9:30 P. M. where he awaited the verdict of the jury in his trial for murdering a white man, and hanged by a mob of 50 men. The jury had retired at 6 P. M. (1)

Murder Fed

Taken from jail Size of mob not given

Pittsboro, Calhoun County

August 5: Bodie Bates, Negro, suspected of attempting to attack a white girl was taken from the Calhoun County jail and hanged from a Yalobusha River bridge. Sheriff Jack W. Powell had meager information about the lynching. (1)

attempted assault Fed

MISSISSIPPI (Continued)

captured by mob of 300 - hanged & shot with bullets

Wiggins, Stone County
June 22, R. D. McGee, 25, was captured by a mob of 300, hanged to an oak tree near the graveyard, filled full of bullets, cut down and hanged to another tree near the highway. He was accused of criminally assaulting a 11 year old white child. (1)

Criminal assault on child
Fed

Mob of 50 not in hands of law -

Slayden, Marshall County
March 12: Ab Young, 29 years old Negro, was captured by a mob of about fifty men at Rossville, Tennessee, brought back and hanged in a school yard three miles east of Slayden. He was accused of killing a white highway employee. (1)

Killing white highway employee
Fed

shot to death
body found (2)

Near Hernando, DeSoto County
March 28: Negro- activities in organizing sharecroppers - shot to death. body found. (II)

Labor organizer
No charge - Body found

FLORIDA

taken from officers by mob of 100 men, shot to death

Fort Lauderdale, Broward County
July 19: Reuben Stacey, 37 years old, Negro, was taken from Deputy Sheriff Virgil Wright by a mob of 100 masked men, hanged and shot 17 times. He was accused of a murderous assault on a white woman. (1)

Murderous assault on white woman.
Fed

take from jail by 8 men - 6 city policemen, beaten unconscious - died in hospital

Tampa, Hillsborough County
December 4: Joseph Shoemaker, socialist labor leader, white, was taken from jail in police cars, carried to nearby woods, beaten and left on the ground half clothed and taken to a hospital where he died a week later. Eight men, six of whom were city policemen, were indicted. No convictions. (1W)

Labor leader
Fed

GEORGIA

taken from sheriff by mob in 4 cars, hanged & shot dead

Vienna, Dooley County
September 28: Lewis Harris, Negro, 50 years, resisting arrest and forcing Sheriff Bos Vinson to relinquish prisoner. Sheriff overpowered by mob in four cars who took prisoner, hanged him and filled the body with bullets. (1)

Resisting arrest
Fed

Killed by "posse"

Moultrie, Colquitt County
October 17: "Bo" Bronson, Negro, was beaten and shot by a posse hunting for another Negro, believed to have murdered a white man. (1)

~~Mistaken~~
No charge - Lynch posse

Moultrie, Colquitt County (Continued)
Bronson died shortly after being admitted to a hospital. He was not implicated in the murder of the white man.

1 CALIFORNIA

Mob - 25.50 taken from jail hanged white crime robbery

August 3, 1935:—
Yreka - Cal - C. L. Johnson white - taken from jail by a mob of 25 - 50 men and lynched him for the murder of Chief of Police - F. R. Daw of Dunsmuir - Johnson was taken 12 hours after the funeral of his victim. "I suppose they tacked it over on the funeral and got up the mob" - Deputy Sheriff Joe Clark said. Johnson had been moved from Dunsmuir to Yreka for safe keeping - robbery white man

NORTH CAROLINA

5 Louisburg, Franklin County
August 3: Govan Ward, 25 years old, mentally deficient Negro, was taken from Sheriff J. T. Moore by a mob of Negroes and white men, hanged and his body riddled with bullets. He had chopped off the head of a white farmer with an ax in what Sheriff Moore said was apparently a mad frenzy.

taken from sheriff mob of Negroes + whites hanged riddled with bullets

murder

Louisiana 2 Franklinton, Franklin ~~County~~ Parish
Jan. 11: Jerome Wilson, Negro, was shot to death in his cell in the parish jail. The mob of six or eight men then took the body three miles outside of town and dumped it in a ditch. The Supreme Court of the United States had granted a new trial to Jerome. He was charged with the murder of officer Delos C. Wood. Sheriff J. C. Brock said "There wasn't any lynching. There wasn't any mob . . . There were just about six or eight men who were going about their business."

shot to death in jail by 6 or 8 men, taken and dumped in ditch

Murder - U S Supreme Court had granted a new trial lynching denied

LOUISIANA

taken from jail by mob of whites hanged riddled with bullets

Maringuoin, Iberville ~~County~~ Parish

March 3: After he had whipped a white man who had drawn a gun on him, Anderson Ward, Negro, was taken from jail by a mob of whites, riddled with bullets and hanged to an oak tree where his body dangled for several hours before relatives were allowed to cut it down for burial. (1)

Whipped white man who had drawn gun on him Fel shot to death in cell - mob of 3

Gretna, Jefferson ~~County~~ Parish

November 1: Two Negro men - removed from mob proof Parish jail at New Orleans across river to town of Gretna - shot to death in cell - attempted rape. 3 in the mob. (2)

attempted rape Fel

LYNCHINGS BY STATES

1934 - 15

ALABAMA

Birmingham, Jefferson County

August 23: Attempted hold-up of three women by an unidentified Negro man. Shot and later died in hospital. Officers not present.

Three women crossing a park on the way to church were held up by a Negro. Two of them were thrown as they scuffled to get hold of the gun. One ran about a block to a tent meeting to give the alarm. Men hurried from the tent and began chasing a Negro who almost made his escape because of darkness. He was cornered in an alley and shot. He died in the hospital next day without regaining consciousness. All three women identified him. "Police have not decided who fired the fatal shot."

FLORIDA

Tampa, Hillsborough County.

January 24: Robert Johnson, Negro, under arrest for stealing chickens. Shot to death.

Johnson, suspected of guilt in connection with rape on a young white woman was questioned by officers and released on insufficient evidence. He had confessed to stealing chickens some time before. On this charge he was arrested and held. T. M. Graves, Deputy Constable, came at 2:15 A. M. to remove Johnson from the city to the county jail. He was overpowered by a mob in cars, his own car captured, and he, with Johnson, were driven about six miles from Tampa, where Johnson was shot down with five bullets from one gun belonging to the officer, Graves. Governor Scholtz ordered an investigation.

Marianna, Jackson County

October 26: Claude Neal, Negro, accused of rape and murder. Tortured to death by small group of men, later hanged on Marianna Court House lawn. Taken from officers.

FLORIDA (Cont'd)

Marianna, Jackson County

A young farm girl was found murdered and reported raped. Claude Neal living near by was caught and taken to the jail at Marianna. Pursued by a mob, he was removed to Chipley and then to Panama City. He was put on a boat and taken to Pensacola, and was later removed to Brewton, Alabama. From Brewton he was taken by a mob into Florida to a hidden place on the Chipola River.
The Negro's body, horribly mutilated, was strung up on the Jackson County Court House lawn. A riot of mobsters, the next day, "pretty well likkered up," according to the Mayor of Marianna, tried to run all Negroes off their jobs. Troops were called to restore order and protect property. The Mayor said that he "regretted the necessity for the lynching." Sheriff Chambliss of Jackson County was exonerated in this lynching.

KENTUCKY

Hazard, Perry County.

January 24; Rex Scott, Negro, accused of striking a white man; taken from officers. Hanged and shot.

striking white man
Fed

Rex Scott, in jail for striking a white coal miner was taken by a mob of coal miners from Knott County, carried to a place opposite a grave yard, hanged and his body riddled with bullets. (1)

taken from jail by mob of coal miners hanged & riddled with bullets

LOUISIANA

Bastrop, Morehouse Parish.

July 9: Andrew McLeod, Negro, accused of attempted rape, taken from jail, hanged on courthouse square and throat cut. (1) accused of ~~attempted~~ rape

Fed

taken from jail, hanged on court house square, throat cut

Bethany, Caddo Parish, August 3: One Negro, Grafton Page, suspected of an attack upon Negro girl, flogged to death by members of own race. Not taken from officersof the law. (1) suspected attack on Negro girl flogged to death by own race

MISSISSIPPI

Lambert, Bolivar County

June 8: Two Negroes, Joe Love and Isaac Thomas, accused of attempted rape were taken from officers and hanged.

Bolton, Hinds County

July 16: James Sanders, a Negro, was shot by a mob of three for writing an indecent letter to a white girl. Not taken from officers.

Three men, father, uncle, and cousin of the white girl to whom the letter was written, made the following sworn statement in court: After driving the Negro out a certain distance from town, they stopped the car. "The Negro grabbed the pistol from the pocket of the father of the girl and began shooting, so they had to shoot the Negro in self defense." The District Attorney "was present at the trial and recommended that the case be dismissed." A business man said, "It was something that just had to be done."

Pelhatchie, Rankin County.

July 25: Henry Bedford, Negro, was flogged to death by a mob of ~~three~~ 4 for speaking disrespectfully to a young white man. Not taken from officers.

A land owner named Cawthorn had rented a small place to Henry Bedford, an old Negro. Benny Cawthorn, his son, charged that the Negro had talked disrespectfully when they disputed over a rental agreement. Four white men, Alec Murray, John Scales, Benny Cawthorn, of Pelahatchie, and M. M. Dodson of Shilo, took the old Negro to a secluded spot about three or four miles from town and whipped him with a leather strap. The sheriff was notified by Benny Cawthorn, one of the men who had participated in the tragedy, a few hours after it occurred. The Sheriff and Benny Cawthorn took the Negro to town and gave him medical treatment. The Negro died the following night. The four white men were arrested immediately. They were given trial in the city court but released several days later on bond to await the meeting of Grand Jury which convenes second Monday in January.

MISSISSIPPI (Cont'd)

Michigan City, Benton County,
August 13: Two Negroes, Robert Jones and Smith Houey were taken from officers by a mob and hanged. (2)

~~Ashland, Mississippi, Benton County~~
~~August 13: Mobs snatched two Negroes from the hands of deputy sheriffs in Benton County, today and hanged them from a tree near Michigan City.~~

TENNESSEE

Manchester, Coffee County.
June 24: A Negro, Richard Wilkerson, was ambushed by a mob of eight and shot for striking a white man. Not in the hands of the law.

A party of white men went to a Negro dance. They had some trouble with Wilkerson in regard to their conduct, reports say, toward a Negro girl. Wilkerson struck one of them. On his way home after the dance, Wilkerson was ambushed by eight white men, shot, stripped of his clothing, and beaten on the head with an axe.

These eight men were convicted of manslaughter and sentenced in September. (1)

TEXAS

Newton, Newton County.
June 21: A Negro, Sonny Griggs, hanged for associating with white girl. (1)

LYNCHINGS BY STATES

1933 - 28

ALABAMA

Tuscaloosa, Tuscaloosa County

August 13: Dan Pippen, 18, and A. T. Hardin, 15, were taken from officers by a mob of fifteen men and shot. They had been arrested on suspicion in the murder of a white girl. (2) Suspected of murdering girl

Taken from officers by mob of 15 shot

Sept. 24: Dennis Cross, a paralyzed Negro, was decoyed from his home at 2 A. M. by a group of six or seven and shot to death. He was out under bond on a charge of assaulting a white woman. (1) out on bond shot to death by mob of 6 or 7

CALIFORNIA

San Jose, Santa Clara County.

Nov. 27: John M. Holmes and Thomas H. Thurmond, white, were taken from jail by a mob estimated as over 6,000 and hanged in the public square. The two men were under arrest for kidnapping and murdering another white man. (2) white kidnapping + murder

Taken from jail by mob of 6000 white (2 W)

GEORGIA

Newton, Baker County.

June 12: T. J. Thomas was taken from his home hanged and shot a week after a white man died from a gunshot wound in a fight with Negroes. Two Negroes arrested at the time were removed for safekeeping. T. J. Thomas was not in the fight. (2) II innocent shot by mob unknown

No charge — sex of mob unknown — examples to other Negroes — II

June 17: Richard Marshall, Negro, was taken by a mob and carried to the place where a white man had been killed the previous December. He was shot and hanged. No cause for lynchings were given other than as "examples". (1)

shot by mob unknown

No charge — sex of mob unknown

Lumpkin, Stewart County

October 23: Cephus Davis, 45 year old Negro, was beaten and shot to death by a mob which took him from the Richland city jail. Davis had assaulted an officer who arrested him for drunkenness. (1) assaulted an officer

Taken from jail by mob shot to death

GEORGIA

Warrenton, Warren County

May 11: Will Kinsey, Negro farm tenant, was taken from a doctor's office, where he had gone to be treated for gun shot wounds, and shot to death by a mob of fifty. Kinsey was accused of firing the shot that killed a white man in a gun battle between two Negroes and four white men, one the landlord.

wounded Negro taken from doctor's office by mob of 50 shot to death accused of killing white man in gun battle

LOUISIANA

Homer, Claiborne Parish

Jan 12: Fell Jenkins, 20, Negro, flogged to death by three white men, according to the coroner's report. The report was made without recommendation and no arrests made.

flogged to death by 3 white men

no charge

Ringgold, Bienville Parish

February 19: Nelson Nash, 24, Negro, was taken from officers about an hour after he had confessed to burglary, murder and attempted rape. He was hanged at the scene of the crime and about fifty bullets shot into his body.

size of mob 3

burglary murder-rape

taken from officers hanged - shot with fifty bullets

Opelousas, Saint Landry Parish

Sept. 26: John White, young Negro was taken from officers by a mob and shot to death, his body riddled with bullets. He was accused of rape.

rape

taken from officers by mob

Labadieville, Assumption Parish

October 11: Freddie Moore, young Negro, was taken from jail by a mob of unknown size.- Sometime after midnight and hanged from a bridge. He was accused of the murder of a young white girl.

murder of white girl taken from jail - hanged from bridge

MARYLAND

Princess Anne, Somerset County

Oct. 18: George Armwood, Negro, was taken from the jail by a mob of over 5000 men, women, and children, dragged a mile through town and hanged from a tree on the main street and his body burned. Armwood was accused of attacking a 71 year old white woman.

attacking white woman

taken from jail by mob of 5000, hanged & body burned

MISSISSIPPI

Winter City, Leflore County

Sept. 18: Richard Roscoe, 39, Negro farmer, was seized at his home by a mob, and shot. His bullet-filled body was fastened to an automobile, dragged through town and then taken back and depositied in the yard. He was accused of striking a white man in a fight and being too smart.

Taken from home by mob — body filled with bullets — dragged through town striking white man & being too smart

Louisville, Winston County.

July 18: Reuben Micou, 70 year old Negro, taken from his home by a mob of 17, flogged, shot and body thrown into a drainage canal. Micou had engaged in an "altercation" with one of the 17 - a man of 30.

mob of 17, flogged, shot, body thrown in canal altercation with white man

II

no charge

Size of mob 17

Caledonia, Lowndes County

About July 10: Unidentified Negro was seized by a "band of men" when he was coming in from the fields, held until after dark, then hanged and body weighted, thrown into a nearby creek. The Negro was accused of improper conduct toward a white woman. It was some ten days or more after the Negro disappeared when the body was found.

II

improper conduct toward white woman

No charge

body found

Dragged and held in smokehouse until after dark. Hanged, body weighted, and to fence rail thrown in creek.

MISSOURI

St. Joseph, Buchanan County

Nov. 29: Lloyd Warner, 19 year old Negro, was taken from jail by 4 men, hanged, and his body burned, while a mob of 7000 looked on. He was in jail on an charge of rape.

Charged with rape

Fed

Taken from jail by 4 men, hanged & body burned in presence of 7000

NORTH CAROLINA

Willard, Pender County

August 27: Doc. Rogers, Negro farmer, was killed by posse in a gun battle in which a deputy sheriff was wounded. The posse dragged the body around the courthouse square. Later Rogers' house was burned. The Negro and a white bootlegger had an altercation in which Negro fired into the bootlegger's house.

IV

had altercation with white bootlegger

Killed by posse whole dragged body around court house square later burned Rogers house

SOUTH CAROLINA

Ninety-six, Greenwood County

October 9: Bennie Thompson, young Negro, was taken from jail by four men and beaten to death. He was lodged in jail on a charge of drawing a pistol on one of the white men.

drawing gun on white man

Fed

Taken from jail by 4 men flogged to death

SOUTH CAROLINA

Taken from jail by 4 men hanged

Clinton, Laurens County

July 4: Norris Bendy was taken from the county jail by four men and hanged. His body was found by Deputy Sheriff Thad Moore seven hours later badly beaten and still hanging . Bendy had been shot once. (1) altercation with white man

Fed

[redacted]

Flogged to death by 4 white men

Aiken, Aiken County

Feb. 19: George Jeter, Negro, was flogged to death by four white men who accused him of stealing their bootleg liquor, selling it and keeping the money. (1)

II

stealing bootleg selling money

No Charges

Sign of mob

F. 4

SOUTH CAROLINA

Taken from home shot to death by masked band of more than 10

Greenville, Greenville County

November 16: George Green, 73 year old Negro, was shot to death by a masked, robed band of more than ten after he had been taken from his home. Authorities said they knew of no reason for the slaying. (1)

II

No reason

No charges

TENNESSEE

Taken from home by mob of 7 men hanged

Columbia, Maury County

December 15: Cord Cheek, 2o year old Negro, was kidnaped by a mob of 7 and hanged near the scene of an alleged criminal assault on a 11 year old white girl. The Maury County Grand Jury had released Cheek earlier in the day for lack of evidence to indict him. (1) released by grand jury lack of evidence

Suspicion crimes against

VI

Huntsville - June 8th

Scott County - 1 2 white men accused of murder - shot - mob of armed several men - taken from jail. (2)

Jerome Boyette & Harvey Hinchester

Fed

TEXAS

Cornered & killed by officers & mob

Attempted rape

Carthage, Panola County

May 23: W. C. Lovell, 17 year old Negro, was cornered and killed instantly by officers and a large mob less than ten minutes after he had attacked a white woman. (1)

Attacking white woman

Killed by officers while resisting arrest, mob of 400 seized body, dragged it around for 2 hours, dismembered it & burned in bonfire in Negro districts

Kountze, Hardin County

December 7: David Gregory, 25 year old Negro, charged with assaulting and killing a white woman was killed by officers while resisting arrest. The mob of about 400 seized the body, dragged it around for two hours or so, then dismembered and burned on a bonfire in the Negro district. (1)

IV

Attempt to murder of white woman

LYNCHINGS BY STATES

1932

TEXAS

Crockett, Houston County

April 2: Dave Tillis, Negro, being carried to Crockett by landlord to turn over to sheriff - allegedly entered white woman's bed room. Seized by four men, hanged to Black jack tree. Five men arrested, following investigation by Sheriff J. L. Hazlett. (1)

OHIO

Ironton, Lawrence County

June 11-32: Luke Marion, Negro, taken from crowd - battered down door. Four white men arrested - 12 more suspected - body found in river badly battered - threatening two white men with knife - six indicted. (1)

ARKANSAS

Crossett, Ashley County

Sept. 15: Frank Tucker, 24, Negro - taken from jail - hanged from light pole near center of business district - slashed throat of Deputy Sheriff. (1)

LOUISIANA

Wisner, Franklin County

Nov. 20-32: William House, Negro, 26, insulting two white women - found dangling from tree twenty-four hours after band of fifteen men took him from officers. Taken from Town Marshall R. L. Graham. (1)

KENTUCKY

Princeton, Cladwell County

June 1-32: Walter Merrick, white, 48, removed from county jail - unidentified. group. Merrick charged with dynamiting store at Hopson. Crime in February. Six automobiles - late at night - carried him into Princeton-hanged.

group. ~~Merrick charged with dynamiting store at Hopson. Crime in February. Six automobiles - late at night - carried him into Princeton-hanged.~~

KANSAS

Atwood, Rawlins County.

April 18: Richard Read, white, 53, attacker and slayer of eight-year-old white girl - hanged - ~~taken from jail - mob of 200~~. Crime in Colby County. Taken ~~from jail - mob of 200.~~ ~~Crime in Colby County~~. Taken ~~from jail~~ Cheyenne County, - ~~lynched in third~~.

Taken from jail, mob of 200 hanged

White - assault murder of 8 year old girl

He was taken from jail by mob of 200 & hanged

FLORIDA

Jasper, Hamilton County

June 6: Henry Woods, Negro, robbery and murder, body riddled with bullets and burned. Killed by arresting posse.

Killed by arresting posse - body burned robbery & murder

VIRGINIA

Hume, Fauquier County

In the early morning of July 12, a farmer and his wife were attacked while sleeping in their home at Hume, Va. The report was that the farmer was struck over the head, stunned by a stick of stove wood, and his wife dragged and left in a semi-conscious condition in which she was found later about a half mile from their home. The suspected attacker had been sought in connection with the crime. On September 15 his body was found near Linden, hanging from a tree. The coroner was immediately notified and viewed the body. The body, therefore, came into the hands of the law. The law, however, did not retain possession of it, but permitted it to come into the hands of a mob which burned the body, distributing the victim's teeth as souvenirs, and placed his head on exhibition in the town of Warrenton.

Murder husband & wife

Body of suspected attacker found hanging two months later - Body in hands of law taken by mob, burned, teeth distributed as souvenirs, head placed on exhibition

Seven of the victims were in the hands of the law - four were taken from jails - three from officers. Two were white--six were Negroes.

LYNCHINGS BY STATES

1931

ALABAMA

Hayneville, Lowndes County

August 5: Negro boy, 16, attempted criminal assault - 11-year girl by posse of citizens. Shot thirty-two times ~~by~~ Sheriff W. E. Meadows. ~~Sh~~ was delayed by arrival of blood hounds. Negro attempted assault at 7 A. M. - child walking to grocery store about half mile away - Sandy Ridge - no arrests.

MISSISSIPPI

Vicksburg, Warren County

March 29-31: Eli Johnson, 25, Negro, attempted attack white woman of Red Bone community by "a mob". Body found, bullet hole in head riddled with buck shot - Sheriff Tucker. Woman going to church Sunday afternoon with two children. Negro is alleged to have flourished shotgun - Struck woman in head - carried to hospital, probably fractured skull. Coroner's Jury- "Violence at the hands of unknown parties."

Inverness, Sunflower County

March 22-31: Steve Wiley, Negro, taken from officers by mob - an attempted assault - hanged - no arrests.

FLORIDA

Blountstown, Calhoun County

:Two Negroes released on bond - attacking Forest Ranger. Richard and Charley Smoke, father and son, fusillade of rifle and pistol shots. Negroes - turpentine workers - bailed out by employer - on way home seized by mob.

MARYLAND

Salisbury, Wicomico County

taken from hospital by officers mob of 2000
whole case

December 4: Mack Williams, Negro, shot and killed his employer - mob of 2000 - Negro wounded in attempted suicide, taken from hospital cot - hanged - body cremated. Sheriff G. Murray Phillips held off mob in front of hospital, six men slipped in from rear - dragged almost unconscious man to courthouse and joined by mob - hanged - body cut down by sheriff after twenty minutes - mob "retrieved" body and took it to lot nearby - soaked it with gasoline and burned - nothing done. (1)

murder
fed

WEST VIRGINIA

taken from jail
mob of 50

Lewisburg, Greenbrier County

December 10: Two Negroes. Mob of fifty masked men
Tom Jackson - 48 -) hanged them from cross over George Banks - 26 -) telephone pole - riddled body in jail) with bullets occured three weeks after Negroes arrested - charged with slaying Constable Joseph H. Myles and Jack Brown. When officer attempted to quiet revelry at Negro house - Negroes tied to each end of rope - first off ground swung over telephone. (2)

murder officer
fed

MISSISSIPPI

taken from convict cage - size of mob

Columbus, Lowndes County

Nov. 6: Coleman Franks, Negro, taken by a band of men from cage in convict camp where he was held pending trial for wounding Clyde Bell after a row. Clyde Bell was a white farmer. He escaped.

wounding white farmer
fed

MISSOURI

taken from sheriff on way to trial several 1000

Maryville, Nodaway County

Jan 19: Raymond Gunn, Negro, rape and murder - taken from Sheriff Havere English on way to courthouse for trial, by mob - ~~took him~~ armed to school house site of crime - where ~~chained and~~ handcuffed. he was chained ~~Negro~~ to roof tree - which was soaked with gasoline ~~poured on and around~~ him - ~~roof~~ and set on fire - several 1000 witnesses rape & murder

fed

LOUISIANA

taken from jail
size of mob —
unknown

Pointe a La Hache, Plaquemines County

August 3: Oscar Livingston, Negro, 22, taken from jail - body riddled with buck shot by mob of masked men - attempted rape.

attempted rape
fid

NORTH DAKOTA

taken from jail
mob of 80

Schafer, McKenzie County

Jan 29: Charles Bannon, white, accused of murder of a family of 6 was taken from McKenzie County jail by a mob of eighty men and hanged from bridge. No shots were fired.

(IW) murder of 6

fid

TENNESSEE

taken from jail -
mob - several hund

Union City, Obion County

George Smith, Negro, 20, was hanged in the courthouse jail by a mob of several hundred people at 2:30 P. M. He was accused of attempted criminal assault on a young white girl.

This was the third capital offense. One murder and two rape in a month here

(1)

attempted criminal assault
fid

Lynchings

Memo . . . FROM THE DESK OF

. . . . EMILY H. CLAY . . . .

From Tuskegee Institute reports on lynching:

1939—	3	lynchings,	25	prevented	lynchings
1940—	5	"	22	"	"
1941—	4	"	22	"	"
1942—	5	"	15	"	"
1943—	3	"	11	"	"
1944--	2	"

8/28/44

DARBY-ATLANTA

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

69 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, 3, N. Y.

Telephone Algonquin 4-3550

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta, Baltimore, Berkeley, Calif., Birmingham, Ala., Boston, Charleston, W. Va., Chicago, Cleveland, Des Moines, Ia.
Eugene M. Martin, Carl Murphy, Buell G. Gallagher, Dr. E. W. Taggart, Dr. John B. Hall, Julian D. Steele, T. G. Nutter, Earl B. Dickerson, Bishop W. J. Walls, Hon. Harry E. Davis, L. Pearl Mitchell, S. Joe Brown

Detroit, Falls Village, Conn., Greenwich, Conn., Hartford, Conn., Ithaca, N. Y., Newark, N. J., New York
Louis C. Blount, R. J. Thomas, Dr. William Allan Nielson, Alfred Baker Lewis, Dr. Allen F. Jackson, Major Robert E. Treman, Grace B. Fenderson, Lillian A. Alexander, Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, Marion Cuthbert, Hon. Hubert T. Delany, Douglas P. Falconer

New York
Lewis S. Gannett, John Hammond, Rev. John Haynes Holmes, Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, Dr. O. Clay Maxwell, Mary White Ovington, Hon. Charles Poletti, A. Philip Randolph, Rev. James H. Robinson, Amy E. Spingarn, Arthur B. Spingarn

New York, Northampton, Mass., Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., St. Louis, Topeka, Kans., Washington
Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Hon. Charles E. Toney, Dr. Louis T. Wright, S. Ralph Harlow, Roscoe Dunjee, Isadore Martin, Theodore Spaulding, Dr. J. M. Tinsley, Sidney R. Redmond, Hon. Arthur Capper, William H. Hastie, Dr. Elizabeth Yates Webb

357

August 17, 1944

Lynchings 1944

LYNCHING OF MINISTER LAST MARCH REVEALED BY SON'S AFFIDAVIT

New Orleans, La.--A lynch-killing of a 66-year-old minister last March 26 in Amite county, Miss. , because he hired a lawyer to safeguard his title to a 220-acre debt-free farm, has just been revealed in an affidavit sworn to by Eldridge Simmons, son of the murdered man.

Rev. Isaac Simmons was going peacefully about the business of running his farm and had no trouble until it began to be suspected that there was oil on his land. Whites then tried to "muscle in" and take his property away. When they found he had consulted a lawyer they got together a small mob and killed him in the presence of his son, who was later driven from the county.

Eldridge Simmons sent his affidavit to the NAACP in New York which in turn has asked Governor Thomas L. Bailey of Mississippi to investigate. The NAACP also has asked Attorney General Francis Biddle to examine into the possibility that Federal conspiracy statutes have been violated.

The dramatic story of the lynching is told in the following paragraphs from the affidavit:

"Between 11 a.m. and 12 o'clock noon, March 26, 1944--which was on a Sunday--a group of white men including Noble Rider, two of his brothers, Harper Dawson, Rabbit Spillman, and a man I did not know, came to my house which is located about a mile from my father's house, both being on property owned by us.

"The men asked me if I knew how the property line ran. I told them I thought I did. They told me to come and show them.

"I went down the road with them for some distance then we came to a car. The car was a late model Studebaker, I believe, with the gear shift on the steering wheel. It was grayish in color.

"I got in the back seat of the car and they drove about a quarter of a mile from my father's house. The man I didn't know did the driving. They kept telling me that my father and I were 'smart niggers' for going to see a lawyer.

"Three of them remained in the car with me; three walked up to my father's house.

"Some time later, I saw the three men returning with my father. They were Noble Rider, Harper Dawson, and another man (I can't remember whether it was one of the Rider brothers or Spillman).

"Noble Rider and the other man were walking on either side of my 66-year-old father, Isaac Simmons, while Dawson walked behind him kicking and punching him.

"When they reached the car, they made my father get in the front seat. They all got in the car.

"My father begged them and prayed with them not to hurt him or me as they drove down the road. Two of them kept beating me as I sat in the back seat.

"Some distance down the road they stopped the car near a side road where there were lots of thickets. 'Let's take them down here,' one of the white men said.

"They told my father to get out of the car. He got out and started to run from the road. One of the men leveled the shotgun and fired twice at my father. One reloaded the gun, the other two ran in the direction my father had taken. The man who reloaded the gun ran off in that direction also, then I heard another shot. I begged the men in the car to spare my life.

"A while later, the other three returned. They all talked in low tones behind the car.

"Finally, they came around and told me, 'Alright, nigger, we're going to let you go.'

"One of them told me to get out of the car; another said, 'I'll tell him when to get out.'

"Noble Rider asked me 'You don't want to get beat up any more, do you?'

"I answered, 'I sure don't.'

"He said, 'If this comes up again, you had better not know anything about it.'

"They told me that they gave me ten days to get off the place and clear off my tenants. I had two tenants, Willie Huff, and A. B. Robinson, who worked for me. And also an old man, S. B. Moton, who had no other place to stay.

"When they put me out of the car, I was bloody, ragged and half-blind. I went to my sister's house and told what had happened.

"The news spread. Church meeting broke up and we all went down to where my father lay in the thickets. That was about 1 o'clock p.m.

"When we got to the thickets, we saw my father dead, lying half on his side. He had been shot three times in the back and some one said his arm was broken. Nearly all of his teeth had been knocked out, and his tongue was cut out.

"Some one went and got Constable George Hazelwood. The constable went and got the high sheriff.

"They held an inquest and gave the verdict that my father had met his death at the hands of unknown parties."

In the letter to both the Governor and the U. S. Attorney General, the NAACP pointed out "This case clearly represents a conspiracy on the part of certain individuals (named in the affidavit) to injure, threaten, and intimidate these citizens in the free exercise or enjoyment of rights secured to them by the United States Constitution."

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., TREASURER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
W. C. BEEBE
ALGERNON BLAIR
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
WALTER G. CRUMP
EDMUND E. DAY
JESSE JONES
E. B. NORTON
BASIL O'CONNOR
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
H. C. STOCKHAM
C. E. THOMAS
GEORGE E. WARREN
CHARLES A. WICKERSHAM
J. R. WINGFIELD

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALABAMA December 27, 1944

For release December 31, 1944

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynchings for the year 1944. I find, according to the information compiled in the Department of Records and Research, there were 2 persons lynched in 1944. This is 1 less than the number 3 for the year 1943, 3 less than the number 5 for the year 1942, 2 less than the number 4 for the year 1941, and 3 less than the number 5 for the year 1940.

One of the persons lynched was a 65 year old minister-farmer who was taken about a mile from his home and shot to death by a mob; the other, a 17 year old trusty at the Tennessee State Training and Agricultural School (a reformatory) was taken from jail and shot to death by a mob.

Both persons lynched were Negroes. The offences charged were: hiring a lawyer to safeguard his title to a debt free farm through which there was possibility that an oil vein ran, 1; murdering wife and daughter of the superintendent of the reformatory, 1.

The states in which the lynchings occurred and the number in each are as follows: Mississippi, 1; Tennessee, 1.

Very truly yours,

F. D. Patterson

F. D. Patterson
President

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., TREASURER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
W. C. BEEBE
ALGERNON BLAIR
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
WALTER G. CRUMP
EDMUND E. DAY
JESSE JONES
E. B. NORTON
BASIL O'CONNOR
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
H. C. STOCKHAM
C. E. THOMAS
GEORGE E. WARREN
CHARLES A. WICKERSHAM
J. R. WINGFIELD

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALABAMA

RECEIVED
DEC 28 1945
Southern Regional Council

December 27, 1945

For release December 31, 1945

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynching for the year 1945. I find according to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute that there was 1 person lynched in 1945.

This is 1 person less than the number 2 for the year 1944; 2 less than the number 3 for the year 1943; 4 less than the number 5 for the year 1942; and 2 less than the number 3 for the year 1941.

The person lynched was a Negro farm hand. He was removed from the county jail by a mob, which is said to have entered the unguarded jail with a key. He was then taken about seven miles from town and shot to death.

The charge was assault with attempt to rape, and the state in which the lynching occurred was Florida.

Very truly yours,

F. D. Patterson

President

NUMBER OF LYNCHINGS 1938-1945

Year	White	Negro
1938	0	6
1939	1	2
1940	1	4
1941	0	4
1942	0	5
1943	0	3
1944	0	2
1945	0	1

Southern Regional Council
January, 1946

PARTIAL LIST OF CONVICTIONS FOR LYNCHING

According to Chadbourne[1], careful study of the lynching records kept by the Department of Records and Research at Tuskegee Institute disclosed that for the period 1900-1930 there were 18 instances in which a total of 67 individual convictions for lynching were secured. In this period, only about .8% of the lynchings committed were followed by convictions. For the states which obtained convictions, the percentages were as follows:

Alabama	4%
Georgia	.8%
Oklahoma	3%
Virginia	4%
Minnesota	33%
Texas	.7%
Illinois	7%
Missouri	3%

In addition, in the same period, there were a number of convictions obtained for attempted lynching:

Convictions for Attempted Lynching, 1900-1930[2]

Year	State	Number Convicted	Sentence
1914	South Carolina	2	Unknown
1920	Tennessee	8	$50 and costs
	Virginia	2	$25 and 10 days
1921	North Carolina	1	4 years
	Tennessee	3	Unknown
	Virginia	1	$100 and 1 year
1924	Georgia	4	3 to 4 months
1925	Illinois	1	$100 and 30 days
	North Carolina	11	4 to 8 years
	TOTAL	33

1. James H. Chadbourne, Lynching and the Law, Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina, 1933, p. 13.
2. Ibid., p. 15.

Convictions for Lynching, 1900-1930[3]

Year	State	Number Convicted	Sentence
1900	Alabama	3	10 years to life
1903	Missouri	?	10 years
	Illinois	11	Indeterminate
1919[4]	Alabama	28	$100 to 15 years
1920	Alabama	3	$100 and 3 months
	Alabama	3	15 years to life
	Minnesota	1	Unknown
	Texas	3	2 years. Suspended.
1922	Georgia	3	1 to 4 years
	Oklahoma	7	Life
1923	Virginia	2	1 and 2 years
1924	Alabama	1	18 years. Reversed on appeal. (Lancaster v. State, 106 Sou.609, 617, 618, Ala., 1925.)
1926	Georgia	2	4 years to life
	TOTAL	67

Convictions for Lynching, 1930-1946

Year	State	Number Convicted	Sentence
1930[5]	Texas	2	2 years
	Georgia	2	Life
1931[6]	Ohio	1	1 to 10 years
1934[7]	Missouri	1	1 year
	Tennessee	8	3 to 5 years
1941[8]	North Carolina	4	14 to 25 years
1942[9]	North Carolina	5	12 to 18 months
1943[10]	Georgia	3	3 years and $1000. Later freed in retrial after case remanded to lower court by U.S. Supreme Court.
1946[11]	Illinois	9	$200.
	TOTAL	35
1948[10]	Georgia	1	Death (appeal still pending)

3. Ibid., p. 14
4. There are no records for the years 1903-1919.
5. Arthur Raper, The Tragedy of Lynching, Chapel Hill, Univ. of N.C. Press, 1933, p. 16.
6. Commission on Interracial Cooperation, The Mob Still Rides, Atlanta, Ga., 1936, p. 11.
7. Ibid.
8. Negro Yearbook, 1947, Department of Records and Research, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, 1947, p. 310.
9. Ibid.
10. Ibid.
11. Ibid.

Total Convictions, 1900-1946

Convictions for attempted lynching, 1900-1930	33
Convictions for lynding, 1900-1930	67
Convictions for lynching, 1930-1946	35
TOTAL	135

8-1946

The attached information on lynchings in Georgia since 1931 is taken from a study made by the Commission on Interracial Cooperation and from material in the files of the Southern Regional Council which absorbed the Commission in 1944.

All of the cases listed here were classified as lynchings by the Tuskegee Institute, whose statistics on lynchings are recognized as the most authoritative compilation. However, the McIntosh County case listed under 1934 is open to serious question as a lynching.

The definition of lynching is admittedly difficult. On this point see page 22 in the attached booklet, for the definition as given in the proposed Anti-lynching Bill, and page 29 for a supplementary definition agreed upon at a conference which was held at Tuskegee Institute in December, 1940.

From - Guy B. Johnson, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.

August 3, 1946

Inf. from Changing Character of Lynching - given Atlanta Journal -

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Telephone Longacre 3-6890

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

RECEIVED
AUG 12 1946
Southern Regional Council

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta
Baltimore
Berkeley, Calif.
Birmingham, Ala.
Boston
Chicago
Cincinnati
Des Moines, Ia.
Detroit
Eugene M. Martin
Carl Murphy
Dr. Buell G. Gallagher
Dr. E. W. Taggart
Dr. John B. Hall
Julian D. Steele
Earl B. Dickerson
Bishop W. J. Walls
Theodore M. Berry
Ike Smalls
Dr. James J. McClendon
R. J. Thomas
Falls Village, Conn.
Greenwich, Conn.
Hartford, Conn.
Hyde Park, N. Y.
Jamaica, N. Y.
Los Angeles, Calif.
Newark, N. J.
New York
Dr. William Allan Neilson
Alfred Baker Lewis
Dr. Allen F. Jackson
Eleanor Roosevelt
Dr. John A. Singleton
Norman Houston
Grace B. Fenderson
Lillian A. Alexander
Hon. Jane M. Bolin
Elmer A. Carter
Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers
Marion Cuthbert
New York
Russell W. Davenport
Hon. Hubert T. Delany
Douglas P. Falconer
Lewis S. Gannett
John Hammond
Rev. John Haynes Holmes
Hon. Fiorello H. LaGuardia
Hon. Herbert H. Lehman
Dr. O. Clay Maxwell
Mary White Ovington
Rev. James H. Robinson
Amy E. Spingarn
New York
Northampton, Mass.
Oklahoma City
Philadelphia
Richmond, Va.
St. Louis
Topeka, Kans.
Washington
Arthur B. Spingarn
Dr. Channing H. Tobias
Hon. Charles E. Toney
Dr. Louis T. Wright
Prof. S. Ralph Harlow
Roscoe Dunjee
Theodore Spaulding
Dr. J. M. Tinsley
Sidney R. Redmond
Hon. Arthur Capper
William H. Hastie
Charles H. Houston

25

August 8, 1946

MONEY AND PROTESTS OF LYNCHINGS FLOOD NAACP OFFICES

New York, August 8th--The savage murder of two Negro farmers and their wives in Georgia has aroused the wrath of thinking people everywhere. Local branches of the NAACP have daily sent assurances to the national office that they are carrying forward the fight to end such criminal violations of the Constitution. Several branches have sent in more than the $10 each asked for as its share of the $10,000 reward offered by the NAACP for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the arrogant Georgia lynchers.

From the Louisville, Ky., branch of the NAACP a check for $500 was contributed toward the reward offered for the lynchers' capture. The Los Angeles branch has pledged from $100 to $1,000 toward the fund.

In Houston, Texas, on the night of August 5th, all Negro residences and places of business were closed and the doors draped with black crepe so that everyone could attend a memorial service for the mob victims at the Baptist Church. At the NAACP demonstration, the first protest meeting in Texas since the lynchings, a resolution was passed asking for immediate anti-lynching legislation. Texas Negroes are well aware that the Klan can operate against them as well as in Georgia.

In Philadelphia, the local branch of the NAACP declared August 2nd a day of mourning in connection with the lynchings. Many organizations in the city cooperated. Their actions were publicized by closing all stores for an hour at noon, wearing black arm bands, silencing all radios for thirty seconds, and by requests that all individuals pray silently in their homes for the two slain couples. Telegrams and letters were sent to President Truman and to Attorney General Tom Clark asking the Federal Government to bring the culprits to justice.

A man in California mailed in his check for $25, though "he could ill afford it" to apprehend the "foul murderers".

The NAACP has received many similar letters and telegrams expressing sympathy and indignation over the recent wave of lynch terror sweeping the South. Typical of the feelings expressed in many of them is the one reproduced below, from a white woman in Oregon.

"Enclosed you will find my check for five dollars to aid in the work of hunting down and punishing the lazy white savages that rule our southern states.

"Either the United States should declare martial law in those outlaw states where no Negro is safe from attacks by these white beasts, or else every Negro should be armed by the government so that he can defend himself and his home.

(Continued)

"I lived in the South once and listening to white loafers talk about 'lazy niggers' used to nauseate me. Never, all the time I was in the South, did I see a white man work. He seemed to think his job was to stand around and watch the Negroes work, or else look around for Negro women to attack. The Negro men are powerless to protect their women.

"And never did I ever hear of a white woman attacked by a Negro. It was always the other way around -- white men raping Negro women.

"And, in using the word 'loafe' in connection with white southern men, I do not mean the underprivileged whom the so-called southern 'gentleman' scornfully calls 'poor white trash', but the soft spoken brute himself, who lives on the labor of the Negro....

"I have traveled abroad and have always been ashamed of the South, whose savagery I could not defend. If I were a southerner I'd get rid of my accent so that no one would know I was a native of such a disgraceful part of the U. S.

"I am sending a copy of this letter to the Governor of Georgia so that the white governor can know whan an Oregonian thinks of a Georgian -- the white kind whose hands are never soiled with honest work."

LAWRENCEBURG TRIAL
SET FOR AUGUST 13TH August 8, 1946

Nashville, Tenn.,August 8th--In spite of the public outcry against proceeding with the trial of 25 Tennessee Negroes in Lawrenceburg county, where tension and anti-Negro feeling is high, Z. Alexander Looby, NAACP defense counsel, reports that motion for change of venue has been denied. Indicted last February in connection with the famous disturbances in Columbia, the men will stand trial on August 13th.

A motion for postponement of the trials which was requested in view of chief defense counsel Thurgood Marshall's illness, also was denied. Mr. Marshall became ill during the trials in Columbia and, although running a dangerous temperature,continued cross-examining witnesses up to the last day. He was rushed to the hospital in New York soon after and it was hoped that the trials could be postponed until his recovery.

On Tuesday, August 13th, a motion will be filed to quash the jury panel, on the ground that Negroes are excluded. It is expected that this motion will be argued the following day.

WALTER WHITE SPEAKS
AT THEATRE PROTEST MEETING August 8, 1946

New York, August 8th--The cast of Anna Lucasta" called a meeting of fellow actors and actresses on August 6 at the Belasco Theatre, to arrange a benefit and to act in other ways against mob terrorism, particularly the Georgia lynchings and the blinding of Isaac Woodard.

Walter White addressed the gathering. Other speakers were Herman Shumlin, Harry Wagstaff Gribble, Alan Correlli of Theatre Authority, and Frank Silvera, a member of the cast of "Anna Lucasta", who also presided. Another speaker was Captain Martin Kamin, New York publisher, just released from the Army.

All of the speakers urged that action be taken to stem the rising tide of hate in the South. Walter White told the group specifically what is being done in the case of the Georgia lynchers and about the offer by the NAACP of a $10,000 reward for information leading to their apprehension. He revealed that NAACP investigators have secured evidence against at least six of the mob which has been turned over to the Justice Department. Information leading to the arrest of the men who blinded Isaac Woodard is also in the Federal Government's hands.

(Continued)

The group voted to form a committee to stage a monster benefit to raise funds to assist in the fight for justice.

ISAAC WOODARD INDUCTED INTO
BLINDED VETERANS ASSOCIATION August 8, 1946

New York, August 8th--Isaac Woodard, Army veteran whose eyes were brutally gouged out by Aiken, South Carolina, troopers three hours after his discharge from service, was inducted into the Blinded Veterans Association on Thursday, August 8th. This organization is open only to those veterans who lost their sight in the service of their country. Lloyd H. Greenwood, Executive Director of the Association, feeling Woodard had earned his right to belong, made him a member.

Meanwhile, from all over the United States, contributions for the Isaac Woodard Trust Fund have been sent in by citizens who are shocked and enraged to discover in America the kind of vicious cruelty usually associated with only Nazis.

Contributions to date total $1,386.89. Of this sum, the newspaper PM has received $698.75 from its readers. Other individuals and organizations sent contributions direct to the NAACP national office.

As evidence of the interest aroused by the case, this is an encouraging sum. It is, however, hardly enough to compensate Woodard for the needless torture inflicted on him by lawless Southern terrorists. It is hoped that, in time, the Fund will be sufficient to bring to this blind victim of mob violence some peace and security in the future.

Word has been received that The Texas Farmers Union protested Woodard's beating before he was brought to trial to both the Governor of South Carolina and to Attorney-General Tom Clark.

Lynching

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Telephone Longacre 3-6890

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

RECEIVED
SEP 7 1946
Southern Regional Council

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta
Baltimore
Berkeley, Calif.
Birmingham, Ala.
Boston
Chicago
Cincinnati
Des Moines, Ia.
Detroit

Eugene M. Martin
Carl Murphy
Dr. Buell G. Gallagher
Dr. E. W. Taggart
Dr. John B. Hall
Julian D. Steele
Earl B. Dickerson
Bishop W. J. Walls
Theodore M. Berry
Ike Smalls
Dr. James J. McClendon
R. J. Thomas

Falls Village, Conn.
Greenwich, Conn.
Hartford, Conn.
Hyde Park, N. Y.
Jamaica, N. Y.
Los Angeles, Calif.
Newark, N. J.
New York

Dr. William Allan Neilson
Alfred Baker Lewis
Dr. Allen F. Jackson
Eleanor Roosevelt
Dr. John A. Singleton
Norman Houston
Grace B. Fenderson
Lillian A. Alexander
Hon. Jane M. Bolin
Elmer A. Carter
Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers
Marion Cuthbert

New York

Russell W. Davenport
Hon. Hubert T. Delany
Douglas P. Falconer
Lewis S. Gannett
John Hammond
Rev. John Haynes Holmes
Hon. Fiorello H. LaGuardia
Hon. Herbert H. Lehman
Dr. O. Clay Maxwell
Mary White Ovington
Rev. James H. Robinson
Amy E. Spingarn

New York

Northampton, Mass.
Oklahoma City
Philadelphia
Richmond, Va.
St. Louis
Topeka, Kans.
Washington

Arthur B. Spingarn
Dr. Channing H. Tobias
Hon. Charles E. Toney
Palmer Weber
Dr. Louis T. Wright
Prof. S. Ralph Harlow
Roscoe Dunjee
Theodore Spaulding
Dr. J. M. Tinsley
Sidney R. Redmond
Hon. Arthur Capper
William H. Hastie
Charles H. Houston

25

September 5, 1946

BREAK EXPECTED IN LOUISIANA LYNCHING

New York, September 5th--What is described by an NAACP official as "a most dramatic break in the current wave of lynch terror hovering over southern Negro communities" is expected almost momentarily. The lynching of John C. Jones, Negro war veteran whose mutilated body was found in a Louisiana swamp, may provide the opening wedge in the desperate drive being conducted by the Association to drive lynch mobs out of existence.

Focal point in the drive is Albert Harris, shy, gangling 17-year-old Negro youth who owes his life to the bungling of Louisiana "law enforcement" officers and the Louisiana lynch mob which apparently possessed a rather startling knowledge of developments in the local sheriff's office.

The testimony of young Harris and his father, who fled with him from what would have been certain death in Minden, Louisiana, was of such a positive nature as to virtually assure immediate federal action The youth, whose body bears a raw pattern of unhealed scars from the lynchers' clubs, ropes and leather straps, unhesitatingly named several members of the mob, all of whom he has known for many years.

The most damaging part of the dramatic story told by the youth, which provides a basis for federal intervention, clearly implicates the Minden deputy sheriff. According to testimony which has been made available to the Department of Justice by the NAACP, Sheriff Haynes released young Harris and his cousin, veteran John Jones, from the local jail, after having held them for several days despite the fact that the woman whom the youth had allegedly planned to rape refused to charge them with any crime. By a remarkably strange coincidence, the mob knew exactly when Sheriff Haynes planned to release the youths so that when they appeared in the door leading from the jail the mob had already assembled. Young Harris then stated that the men who grabbed Jones seemed to have trouble forcing the struggling veteran into one of the cars. It was at this point that Haynes, sworn protector of law and order, helped force Jones into the lynchers car.

According to Robert Carter, NAACP counsel, the action taken by Sheriff Haynes in assisting the lynchers appears to be a clear-cut violation of civil rights granted citizens under the 14th Amendment. Since the sheriff, a responsible representative of the state's law enforcement agency, acted as an accomplice to the act, it becomes a matter demanding federal intervention.

Walter Winchell, in his radio broadcast of August 29th, stated:

"A war veteran who was lynched here had his hands chopped off and a blow torch was held to his face as he lay down. If the Department of Justice will protect six available eye-witnesses, Walter White will produce them all. If necessary, federal troops should be ordered, I think, to protect those witnesses

(continued)

September 5, 1946

so that they can take the stand in court. Department of Justice has a complete case. Until this mob goes to trial, the Justice Department itself is on trial. Of course the lynch mob -- if it is wise to precedent -- will demand to be tried together in a group like the 26 alleged seditionists. That will keep them out of jail."

'LEASED' OIL RIGHTS
POSSIBLE LYNCH MOTIVE September 5, 1946

New York, September 5th--A sordid but familiar story of oil rights obtained under peculiar circumstances may emerge as a possible motive in the blow torch, cleaver, torture lynching of John C. Jones, a Negro veteran who fought valiantly in the Battle of the Bulge. Jones, lynched by a mob in Minden, Louisiana, August 5th, was a grandson of the former owner of several oil wells which were discovered on his property and later "leased" to a powerful oil syndicate.

According to Albert Harris, Sr., father of young Albert Harris, who escaped death at the hands of the same mob which tortured his cousin, the 76-year-old grandfather of the two youths "leased" his wells many years ago, although he remained poverty-stricken. One large well is still pouring thousands of barrels for which the aged Negro receives $1.50 per month. The circumstances under which these rights were obtained were considered odd according to Mr. Harris, who said the aged man could neither read nor write.

It was also learned from a reliable source that careful efforts had been made to mislead newsmen who first reported the Jones lynching. In stories released throughout the nation's press through the wire services it was reported that photographs of nude white women had been found in the lynched veteran's pockets. Most of the stories clearly implied that this had been a possible motive in the lynching which was actually played down. It has since been established that both Jones and Harris were thoroughly "frisked" by law enforcement officers during their stay in the Minden jail. The mob captured them as they were released from the jail.

Significantly the press services reported the finding of the nude pictures but failed to mention the fact that Jones had been tortured with a blow torch and horribly mutilated by the lynchers.

Tribute was paid the NAACP investigators who worked in the Minden area by several radio commentators. It was pointed out that these men, working under a constant threat, had doggedly tracked down clues which may play an important part in final apprehension of the guilty parties. The Association also disclosed the fact that the entire Harris family had been evacuated from the area which is in the heart of the Louisiana oil fields. Plans have been made for settling the family in a middlewestern community where they may be safe from retaliation. Their whereabouts is a closely guarded secret for obvious reasons. Walter White, NAACP Executive Secretary, stated, "These people have been through so much that the NAACP feels it a duty to protect them and to give them a start in what shall be a better life" Mr. White referred to them as "refugees from Bilboism". The family which has been evacuated by the NAACP includes the father, Albert Harris; Mrs. Harris; Albert, Jr., who escaped the mob, and three young daughters.

NAACP UNDER ATTACK
FROM BILBO FOLLOWERS September 5, 1946

New York, September 5th--Walter White and the NAACP were the objects of a vicious newspaper and political attack by Mississippi reactionaries acting under the sting of local political defeat, it was disclosed here today.

(continued)

September 5, 1946

The attacks against the National Association and its militant leader seemingly originated in the recent Mississippi swamp battle in which several Negro veterans and their families fought off a howling lynch mob until their ammunition was exhausted. At that time Mr. White wired Acting Governor Wright urging him to use his authority to avoid lynch action against the Negroes who were charged with having fired upon a passing white motorist and later of having ambushed a sheriff and several men. It has since been established that the Negroes were in no way involved in the shooting. Several white Mississippians have since been arrested in connection with the incident. All of the Negroes have not been released, however.

In spite of these developments, the acting governor sounded off the first shot against the NAACP in a letter addressed to Mr. White. In it the governor stated:

> "Prior to receipt of your telegram, I had already determined to . . .obtain first-hand information on the situation. . .although I was confident that the reports we were receiving from your section of the country were, as usual, untrue and deliberately designed to give an unfavorable picture of the South."

The governor's letter then continued, charging that his personal investigation had revealed that the Negroes had run amuck, firing upon whites and shooting four peace officers. The governor further stated that there was no racial tension in Mississippi since "we in Mississippi are not given to hatred between the races despite the efforts of outside agitators. . .organizations such as yours should acquire true facts of incidents before beating the drums of racial propaganda".

Mr. White thanked the governor for his illuminating letter and then called his attention later to wire service releases from Mississippi in which it was reported that there had been no altercation between whites and Negroes; that the white men had been shot by white men and in the confusion and hysteria the lynch mob had formed against the Negroes. "Inasmuch as your own statement and the reports of the various press wire services bear out in fullest detail each of the above statements, would you be good enough to indicate in what way they are 'untrue and deliberately designed to give an unfavorable picture of the South?'"

The actual issues behind the attack on the NAACP were clarified in an editorial appearing in the Jackson Daily News of August 31st under the headline, "Impudence of a Negro Leader". Walter White was referred to as "a high, yaller (sic) Yankee member of his race. . .always impudent, insolent, and arrogant (who) had the triple-plated gall and sublimated audacity to telephone Acting Governor Fielding Wright demanding that adequate protection be given the Negro outlaws... White was chiefly concerned with the worthless hides of Negro outlaws".

Further along in the editorial the writer declared, "What think ye of that, white citizens of Mississippi. . .concerning the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People now staging a fight against the re-election of Congressman McGehee and urging Negroes to go to the polls for that purpose? The best way to express your thought on the subject, and likewise your righteous indignation, is to get your poll tax receipts ready right now and make up your minds you are going to the polls".

In an A.P. release from Jackson, Mississippi, it was learned that six-term Mississippi Congressman McGehee had been swept out of office by a one-armed former combat pilot. McGehee bitterly complained that he had been the target of opposition from Negro voters and the CIO-PAC. The 27-year-old veteran, John Bell Williams, was the victor after a run-off in the Democratic primary in the Seventh District, thus depriving the Bilbo machine of one stalwart.

(Continued)

Prevented Lynchings

Press Release, Sept 19

PROMPT NAACP ACTION ALERTS
N.C. GOVERNOR TO LYNCH THREAT September 19, 1946

New York, Sept 19th--Vigilance and prompt action on the part of the NAACP and the North Carolina police on September 17th saved the life of a Negro veteran accused of having assaulted a white man, after words had passed between them on a lonely road. It is alleged that the white man was knocked down by the veteran, whom he cursed, and that the man walked off and later died in a hospital. Medical reports indicate that the real cause of his death was a heart condition--but word spread quickly of "murder" throughout the white community of Sylva and Waynesville. Two white men followed the bus taken by the Negro after the altercation and, at its first stop, tried to get him. The police of Sylva had been alerted, however, and they too, followed the bus in their squad car. At the bus stop, the police stepped in ahead of the other two pursuers, arrested the Negro and placed him in a jail in Sylva. There, a lynch mob of about 350 persons from the rural and country areas tried to get the prisoner and "take care of him." He was then transferred for safekeeping to Waynesville.

Hearing a radio report that the mob, which had dispresed overnight, had returned and was storming the Waynesville jail, the NAACP wired Governor R. Gregg Cherry to intervene, if he had not already done so, to prevent a lynching. The telegram stated that it was reported that the police chief refused to permit the mob to take the prisoner as he was innocent. The Governor immediately telegraphed Walter White, Secretary, NAACP, that he had ordered an investigation and had received a report that "there is not the slightest disturbance or trouble in Waynesville today and there has been no violence of any sort there last night or today. The prisoner is safely in jail and there is no move to disturb him."

To this assurance, which contradicts radio and on-the-spot reports received by the National Office NAACP, Mr. White wired the Governor "This Association thankful for intelligent level-headed action local police. Hope you will use every effort insure fair trial."

The prisoner is now in jail in Asheville.

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Telephone Longacre 3-6890

RECEIVED
OCT 19 1946
Southern Regional Council

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta
Baltimore
Berkeley, Calif.
Birmingham, Ala.
Boston
Chicago
Cincinnati
Des Moines, Ia.
Detroit
Eugene M. Martin
Carl Murphy
Dr. Buell G. Gallagher
Dr. E. W. Taggart
Dr. John B. Hall
Julian D. Steele
Earl B. Dickerson
Bishop W. J. Walls
Theodore M. Berry
Ike Smalls
Dr. James J. McClendon
R. J. Thomas
Falls Village, Conn.
Greenwich, Conn.
Hartford, Conn.
Hyde Park, N. Y.
Jamaica, N. Y.
Los Angeles, Calif.
Newark, N. J.
New York
Dr. William Allan Neilson
Alfred Baker Lewis
Dr. Allen F. Jackson
Eleanor Roosevelt
Dr. John A. Singleton
Norman Houston
Grace B. Fenderson
Lillian A. Alexander
Hon. Jane M. Bolin
Elmer A. Carter
Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers
Marion Cuthbert
New York
Russell W. Davenport
Hon. Hubert T. Delany
Douglas P. Falconer
Lewis S. Gannett
John Hammond
Rev. John Haynes Holmes
Hon. Fiorello H. LaGuardia
Hon. Herbert H. Lehman
Dr. O. Clay Maxwell
Mary White Ovington
Rev. James H. Robinson
Amy E. Spingarn
New York
Northampton, Mass.
Oklahoma City
Philadelphia
Richmond, Va.
St. Louis
Topeka, Kans.
Washington
Arthur B. Spingarn
Dr. Channing H. Tobias
Hon. Charles E. Toney
Palmer Weber
Dr. Louis T. Wright
Prof. S. Ralph Harlow
Roscoe Dunjee
Theodore Spaulding
Dr. J. M. Tinsley
Sidney R. Redmond
Hon. Arthur Capper
William H. Hastie
Charles H. Houston
25

PRESS RELEASE OCTOBER 17, 1946

LYNCH VICTIM RETURNS TO SCENE-UNDER U.S. PROTECTION

New York, N. Y., Oct 17th--Albert Harris, Jr., and his father, Albert Harris, Sr., are today safe in their home in the midwest after a dramatic return visit to Louisiana, where on August 8th John Jones was brutally murdered by a sadistic mob and young Harris pitilessly beaten before he made his escape. The Harrises are alive today, however, because they made the trip closely guarded by U.S. marshalls, following a request addressed to the NAACP by the Justice Department that they be present when the Department presented the evidence of their investigation to the Grand Jury in Monroe, Louisiana, last Saturday.

Since Monroe is notorious for its Ku Kluxism and mob violence, Walter White told the Justice Department that an NAACP representative would accompany the Harrises to Monroe, but insisted that the Justice Department assume full responsibility for the Harrises' safety from the minute they left the midwestern state where they are now living, under the care of the NAACP, until their return.

To do this, it was necessary for the Harrises to place themselves voluntarily in the protective custody of the U.S. Government as material witnesses. They, therefore, were required to appear, at a closed hearing, before a Federal judge in the midwest, so that no one would know about their plan to go back to Louisiana. In that State, they risked facing the mob which the NAACP knew would stop at nothing to close young Albert Harris's mouth forever, as he was an eye-witness to the lynching and can positively identify some members of the mob, which included deputy sheriffs.

The Harrises traveled to Louisiana in a drawing room, accompanied by the Executive Secretary of one of the NAACP branches, and guarded by several U.S. marshalls at all times.

They testified before the Grand Jury on Monday, and left immediately afterward for their home in the midwest. The announcement that they had testified was withheld by the Justice Department until their safe return was established.

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Telephone Longacre 3-6890

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta Eugene M. Martin
Baltimore Carl Murphy
Berkeley, Calif. Dr. Buell G. Gallagher
Birmingham, Ala. Dr. E. W. Taggart
Boston Dr. John B. Hall
Julian D. Steele
Chicago Earl B. Dickerson
Bishop W. J. Walls
Cincinnati Theodore M. Berry
Des Moines, Ia. Ike Smalls
Detroit Dr. James J. McClendon
R. J. Thomas
Greenwich, Conn. Alfred Baker Lewis
Hartford, Conn. Dr. Allen F. Jackson
Hyde Park, N. Y. Eleanor Roosevelt
Jamaica, N. Y. Dr. John A. Singleton
Los Angeles, Calif. Norman Houston
Newark, N. J. Grace B. Fenderson
New York Lillian A. Alexander
Hon. Jane M. Bolin
Elmer A. Carter
Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers
Marion Cuthbert
Russell W. Davenport
New York Hon. Hubert T. Delany
Douglas P. Falconer
Lewis S. Gannett
John Hammond
Rev. John Haynes Holmes
Hon. Fiorello H. LaGuardia
Hon. Herbert H. Lehman
Dr. O. Clay Maxwell
Mary White Ovington
Rev. James H. Robinson
Amy E. Spingarn
Arthur B. Spingarn
New York Dr. Channing H. Tobias
Hon. Charles E. Toney
Palmer Weber
Dr. Louis T. Wright
Northampton, Mass. Prof. S. Ralph Harlow
Oklahoma City Roscoe Dunjee
Philadelphia Theodore Spaulding
Richmond, Va. Dr. J. M. Tinsley
St. Louis Sidney R. Redmond
Topeka, Kans. Hon. Arthur Capper
Washington William H. Hastie
Charles H. Houston

25

RECEIVED
OCT 28 1946
Southern Regional Council

FOR RELEASE - October 25, 1946

FEDERAL GRAND JURY INDICTS SIX IN JONES LYNCHING

New York, Oct. 24th--Six men named by Albert Harris, Jr., as members of the mob which lynched his cousin, John Jones, and beat Harris, in Minden, La., on August 8th, were indicted on Oct. 18th by a Federal Grand Jury for violation of civil rights statutes. Young Harris and his father, Albert Harris, Sr., made a dramatic trip to Monroe, La. las week, under the protection of U. S. marshals, and accompanied by the Executive Secretary of an NAACP branch, to present their evidence to the grand jury.

The indictment charged that Chief of Police B. Geary Gantt, Deputy Sheriffs Charles Edwards and O. H. Haynes, Jr. deprived the Negroes of their Constitutional rights by "causing them to be released from jail and handed over to a mob which inflicted a beating upon both. The others named were Samuel Maddry, Sr., H. E. Perry and W. D. Perkins

The indictments followed an investigation by the FBI at the request of the civil rights section of the Justice Department, before whom Albert Harris, Jr., presented his testimony last August after his escape from the lynch mob through NAACP intervention.

In a letter to Attorney General Tom Clark, Walter White, Executive Secretary of the NAACP stated:

"The NAACP is very happy about the Federal Grand Jury's indictments of six men who participated in the lynching of John Jones, and the beating of Albert Harris, Jr. in Minden, La., on August 8th. We feel, however, that the only way to insure a full and correct presentation of the case would be through the appointment of a Special Prosecutor by you.

"The record of United States Attorney Malcolm LaFargue, in regard to Negroes, which is well-known to you and to us, seems to make this imperative."

Lynchings

December 17, 1946

Memo to Dr. Guy B. Johnson

Subject: Conference With Mrs. Jessie P. Guzman on Lynchings for 1946.

On December 11, I called at the office of Mrs. Jessie P. Guzman, Director of the Department of Records and Research at Tuskeegee Institute Alabama.

Mrs. Guzman was compiling the list of lynchings for the current year. She seemed to be quite certain about six. Namely, the one of Leon McTady at Lexington, Mississippi on July 22, the four in Walton County on July 25, and the one at Minden, Louisiana of John C. Jones on August 8. She was not certain about the incident involving James Walker, Jr. at Alco, South Carolina on August 12, J.C. Farmer of Simms, North Carolina on August 3, and the one involving George Hill at Toombsboro, Georgia on October 18. She had listed as a lynching that of Alonzo Rush, Indianola, Mississippi May 11, 1946, electrocuted following a "kingaroo court" trial by a group of white men on the charge of intimacy with a white woman, who refused to press the charges and admitted that the relationship was voluntary on her part.

I gave her all the information which we had in our files on these cases and she decided to pursue her investigation farther.

Mrs. Guzman gave me the definition of a lynching agreed upon by a group of persons meeting in Tuskegee some five or six years ago. The criteria are as follows: 1. There must be a dead body. 2. Death must have come through illegal methods. 3. At least three persons must have been involved in administering the punishmnet. 4. Under pretext of service to justice, race or tradition.

Mrs. Guzman is considering the advisability in compiling a list of instances of police brutality of the prevention of lynchings. I told her that I thought that both of these objectives would be in line with the major objective with the SRC for the coming year which is, law enforcement.

She also wanted to know if the SRC would collaborate with the Department of Records and Research of Tuskeegee on these three items for the coming year.

(Harold Fn88?)

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., TREASURER

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O'CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
W. C. BEEBE
ALGERNON BLAIR
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
EDMUND E. DAY
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
E. ROLAND HARRIMAN
JESSE H. JONES
A. R. MEADOWS
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
H. C. STOCKHAM
C. E. THOMAS
GEORGE E. WARREN
CHARLES A. WICKERSHAM
J. R. WINGFIELD

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALABAMA

H. L. T.
R. W.

RECEIVED
DEC 21 1946
NEGRO DIVISION
Home Federal Council

December 21, 1946

Please do not release until December 29, 1946

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynchings for the year 1946. I find according to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of Tuskegee Institute that there were 6 persons lynched in 1946.

This is 5 more than the number 1 for 1945; 4 more than the number 2 for the year 1944; 3 more than the number 3 for the year 1943; 1 more than the number 5 for the year 1942.

There are 4 borderline cases which are not included in the total number of lynchings for 1946 because to date sufficient evidence concerning them has not been obtained.

There were at least 17 instances in which lynchings were prevented. 14 of these were by officers of the law and 3 were by persons not connected with the law. 16 of these instances were in the Southern States and 1 was in the Northern States. A total of 22 persons, 21 Negroes and 1 white person, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

All of the 6 persons lynched were Negroes. The offences charged were: stealing a saddle, 1 (two other persons later confessed this crime); stabbing a man, 1; no charge, 3 (were in automobile with one of the victims); attempting to break into a house, 1 (jailed, but later released).

The States in which lynchings occurred and the number in each State are as follows: Mississippi, 1; Georgia, 4; Louisiana*, 1.

Very truly yours,

F. D. Patterson
President

*Another victim of the same mob later regained consciousness and escaped.

Lynching

SRC
2/20/47

Lynchings

STATISTICS ON LYNCHING

1939—3	lynchings,	25	prevented	lynchings
1940—5	"	22	"	"
1941—4	"	22	"	"
1942—5	"	15	"	"
1943—3	"	11	"	"
1944—2	"		?
1945—1	"		?
1946—6	"	17	"	"

****

1942—1 Missouri;	1 Texas;	3 Mississippi
1943—1 Florida	1 Georgia	1 Illinois
1944—1 Mississippi	1 Tennessee
1945—1 Florida
1946—1 Mississippi	1 Louisiana	4 Georgia

****

Year	White	Negro
1938	0	6
1939	1	2
1940	1	4
1941	0	4
1942	0	5
1943	0	3
1944	0	2
1945	0	1
1946	0	6

****

In 1944 the Mississippian lynched was a 65 year old minister-farmer (Negro). He was taken about a mile from his home and shot to death by a mob. The offence charged was hiring a lawyer to safeguard his title to a debtfree farm through which there was a possibility that an oil vein ran.

The Tennessean lynched in 1944 was a 17 year old trusty at the Tennessee State Training and Agricultural School (a reformatory). He was taken from jail and shot to death by a mob. The offence charged was murdering the wife and daughter of the superintendent of the reformatory. (From press release by Tuskegee Institute, December 31, 1944)

In 1945 the Floridian lynched was Jesse James Payne, Negro. The charge was assault with attempt to rape.

****

The Mississippian lynched in 1946 was accused of stealing a saddle. Two other persons later confessed this crime.

Of the four Negroes lynched in Walton County, Georgia, in 1946, only one was actually accused of a crime--stabbing a man. The other three persons (one man and two women) were in the automobile with the accused. A ll four persons were shot.

The Negro lynched in Louisiana was accused of trying to break into a house. He was jailed but later released. (Another victim of the same mob later regained consciousness and escaped. Maden County

There are 4 borderline cases not included in the total number of lynchings for 1946 beca use to date sufficient evidence concerning them has not been obtained. (From press release by Tuskegee Institute, December 29, 1946)

22 - Lynchings

The Case of "Peg" Gilbert, Troup County, Georgia, May 4, 1947.

These are the facts as they have come to this office:

1. May 4, 1947; Troup County, Georgia
Olin Sands, a white farmer, was killed by "Gus" Davison, a Negro boy during a dispute over who killed a calf owned by Sands. Davison escaped and is still at large.

2. Henry "Peg" Gilbert, a respectable Negro leader and owner of a 110 acre farm in Troup County was accused according to rumor of concealing "Gus" Davison in his home.
The rumor was traced to a drunken boy who admitted to Troup County Sheriff Hillyer that he had no factual basis for the rumor.

3. May 20: Harris County Chief of Police E. H. Buchanan had "Peg" Gilbert arrested on charge of harboring a criminal; took him to Harris County jail at Hamilton; then to Columbus jail (Muskogee County) presumably to make him talk; then back to Harris County hail (Gilbert was resident of Troup County)

4. May 22: Gilbert was killed in Harris County jail supposedly because he assaulted Chief Buchanan. Gilbert's body showed numerous bruises, five bullet wounds, and a broken left leg.

5. May 18: Lovett Davison (father of "Gus") his wife, 2 daughters (13 and 15), and 2 sons (18 and 11) residents of Harris County were arrested, taken to Columbus jail, then on Monday, May 19, back to Hamilton (Harris County) jail. They were arrested without warrant and are still held without charge.
The 11 year old boy was whipped brutally to make him talk.
The two little girls were whipped brutally and often before the father to make him talk.

6. About three weeks after the jail killing of Gilbert his wife was arrested and charged with harboring a criminal. She is out on bond.

7. There is no evidence to show that the Gilberts harbored "Gus" except the word of Lovett Davison who, it is said, made the accusation under duress.

8. The entire Negro population of Troup and Harris Counties is being terrorized.

9. There is no evidence that Gilbert was ever carried before a Committing Magistrate to determine probable cause.

Facts leading up to the homicide of Henry Gilbert, and the arrest of Henry Gilbert's wife, May Gilbert, on a charge of "harboring a criminal."

On the first Sunday in May 1947, sometime after dark on said day, a negro boy by the name of Davidson, killed a white farmer by the name of Sands, in a dispute over a calf. On this Sunday, a negro Baptist church, was holding its monthly services. This church was located over one mile from the place where Sands was killed. Both the location of the church and the place where Sands was killed are in Troup County, Georgia.

Henry Gilbert, was the chairman of the Board of Deacons and Treasurer of the Baptist Church. He was also worshipful Master of the Negro Masonic Lodge of the community. Gilbert was married, and had a wife and four daughters. One of his daughters is married and lives in Detroit, Michigan. Three of the daughters were in high school in La Grange, Georgia, the county seat of Troup County. Since it was several miles from where Gilbert and his family lived to La Grange, the three girls boarded in LaGrange and returned to their home only on the week-ends. One of the daughters graduated from the negro high school in La Grange in June of this year. All in all Henry Gilbert and his family were far above the average negro family. Henry was a leader of his people, was looked upon by them as an example and was respected by the more en-lightened white people of the community.

After the murder of Sands, Davidson escaped. Bands of white men assembled in the roads of this section of Troup County. A posse was formed to look for Davidson.

The negroes were frightened and went to their homes.

Sheriff Hillyer and Chief of County Police, Robinson, together with a State Patrolman immediately went to the scene of the homicide and and began an investigation. Sheriff Hillyer and Chief Robinson are of the opinion that Davidson escaped that night and left the community.

Just across the line from Troup County, in Harris County, Davidson's father, mother, one grown brother and others brothers and sisters lived in a shanty house, owned by one Luke Sturdivant, who owns and operates a country store in addition to his farming interests.

Three or four days passed and Davidson was not captured. Small bands of men roamed the roads at night. Ugly talk was sudible and they spoke of "killing a few niggers." There were frequent meetings at Sturdivant's store. Among those who attended these meetings was County Chief of Police Buchanan of Harris County. There was a rumor floating around in the neighborhood that Henry Gilbert was concealing Davidson in his home. Sheriff Hillyer of Troup County heard the rumor and immediately went into the neighborhood and made an investigation. He went to the home of Davidson's father and talked with him. He went to other places, but he was convinced that Davidson was not in that section of Georgia. He finally found a drunken boy who started the rumor. This boy later admitted to Sheriff Hillyer that he has no facts upon which to base the rumor, that he had not even seen Davidson or Gilbert.

This was enough, however, to turn all eyes to Henry Gilbert. Bilbert was not suspected of participating in the homicide. Everyone knew that at the time of the homicide Gilbert was presiding at the meeting of the Baptist Church, of which he was a member and a leader. Gilbert hardly knew the Davidson boy who had engaged in a dispute with Sands over the killing of a calf. Gilbert was a landowner and approximately 30 years older than Davidson, and there had been trouble between Gilbert and Davidson's brother some years before.

Feeling mounted, however, and the men who wanted to capture Davidson, being unable to do so, decided some two weeks after the homicide to arrest Henry Gilbert. At approximately 3 a.m. Tuesday morning, May 20th, Luke Sturdivant called Sheriff Hillyer at his home in La Grange and told the Sheriff that the Chief of Police of Harris County was at his store and had a warrant for Henry Gilbert, issued by a Justice of the Peace of Harris County, Georgia, accusing Gilbert of harboring a criminal, and that he wanted him to come and serve the warrant (please note that the crime was committed in Troup County, Georgia, that Henry Gilbert lived in Troup County, Georgia, and that he would have had to harbor Davidson in Troup County, Georgia, that the Superior Court of Troup County, Georgia had jurisdiction over the offense and the offenders). Sheriff Hillyer immediately went to Luke Sturdivant's store, got the warrant and went to Henry Gilbert's home, aroused him out of bed, and delivered him to the Chief of Police, Harris County, Georgia. There is no record that Henry Gilbert was ever carried before a Committing Magristrate to determine whether probable cause existed for the warrant. Gilbert was first lodged in the Harris County jail at Hamilton, Georgia. He was then carried to Muskogee County, Georgia and confined in the jail at Columbus and was later returned to the Harris County jail. Four or five days after Gilbert's arrest, Gilbert's family were notified that he had been killed while he was incarcarated as a result of an alledged assault Gilbert made upon Chief of Police Buchanan. The pictures of Gilbert's body disclose that he had been severly beaten in the head and that the left side of his chest had been crushed and he had been shot five times. His left leg was broken and he had been otherwise beaten.

Two days prior to the arrest of Henry Gilbert, Lovett Davidson, the father of the Davidson boy who killed Sands, was arrested and placed in the Harris County jail. He was arrested by Harris County officers. Immediately after his arrest, his wife and two small children were arrested and placed in the Harris County jail. An older son was arrested by the Harris County officers and placed in the Muskogee County jail. It is stated on good authority that this grown son of Davidson's, not the one who is alleged to have murdered Sands, has been severly beaten and mal-treated. Lovett Davidson and all members of his family except his wife are still incarcrated. Lovett Davidson was in the Harris County jail on the night that Henry Gilbert was killed, unless he had been carried from the confines of the jail by officers. It is known that he was in jail on the morning after the killing of Gilbert and was in jail on the afternoon before the killing of Gilbert. Lovett Davidson, in any event, knew that Gilbert had been killed by Chief of Police Buchanan while he was being held, in Harris County jail. Three weeks after the murder of Henry Gilbert, a person by the name of Hayman, a white man, who resides in Muskogee County, Georgia and who is the brother of the wife of Sands, swore out a warrent in Troup County, Georgia against May Gilbert, the wife of Henry Gilbert, in which it was alleged that she participated in the harboring of Gus Davidson, the alleged murderer of Sands. Sheriff Hillyer reluctantly, but in pursuance of his duties, made the arrest and permitted her to make a bond and assigned the warrant for a hearing before a Committing Magistrate for June 27, 1947 in the Troup County Courthouse at La Grange, Georgia. May Gilbert was represented by Counsel at this hearing.

The only evidence produced against her at this hearing was Lovett Davidson, the father of Gus Davidson, who testified that some four or five days prior to the time that Henry Gilbert was arrested, he had gone to Henry Gilbert's home and had talked with Gus Dividson, his son, in the presence of Henry Gilbert and his wife, May Gilbert. At the time Lovett Davidson testified to these facts, he was then in custody of the Harris County officers, whom he knew had killed Henry Gilbert, in fact, they were standing within 10 feet of him while he was testifying. He knew that the other members of his family were in jail. There and in Muskogee County. He was unable to state whether he had been committed for any offense and when asked why he had been arrested, he stated "day told me dey was going to lock me in my family up and keep us dere until dey recluded de boy." Lovett Davidson was visibly upset during the time he was testifying and undoubtedly had been coached as to what he should say.

Luke Sturdivant, the person for whom Gus Davidson worked and on whose place he lived, testified that he had told Sheriff Hillyer that Gus Davidson was hiding in the home of Henry Gilbert. Sheriff Hillyer testified positively and unequivably that Luke Sturdivant never intimated to him that Gus Davidson was hiding in Henry Gilbert's home and that during his investigation, he had been unable to disclose any evidence that Henry Gilbert had harbored Gus Davidson. It was established that during the ten-day period that Gus Davidson was supposed to have taken refuge in Gilbert's home that he worked upon his farm of 110 acres each day. That he left his home and transported a sick person to a hospital in La Grange. That the three daughters who were at their home from Friday night to Monday morning, May 23rd until May 26th, are positive that Gus Davidson was no where a out their place. May Gilbert swore positively that she had not seen Gus Davidson for some six weeks prior to the killing of Sands, nor had she seen him since that date. She stated that Lovett Davidson did come to their home one night prior to the arrest of her husband, but that he did not come inside of the house but that he stood at the door and talked to her husband for only a few minutes and left.

It is very apparent that after Gilbert was killed by Chief Buchanan it became necessary to produce some evidence to show that there were some grounds for incarcerating Gilbert.

The Committing Magistrate who heard the evidence to determine whether probable cause existed for the warrant of May Gilbert, had no alternative but to bind her over to the grand jury of Troup County since there was positive evidence given by Lovett Davidson that she had knowledge of and was present in the house while Gus Davidson was there on a date subsequent to the killing of Sands. May Gilbert was bound over under $1000 bond to the Grand Jury of Troup County.

QUESTION OF FEDERAL JURISDICTION

Federal authorities have in the past successfully prosecuted police brutality. The right of the Federal authorities to prosecute has been upheld by the Federal Courts. The Supreme Court of the United States recently stated in a case "There are village tyrants as well as village Hampdens-but none who acts under color of loaw is beyond the reach of the Constitution." These rights which are protected by the Constitution flow from the Fourteenth Amendment. A prisoner being held under legal process has the right under the Federal Constitution to "equal protection of the law." The jurisdiction of the Federal Authorities to prosecute such violations as were practiced upon Henry Gilbert and such violations as are now being practiced upon Lovett Davidson, his family and May Gilbert may be found in Section 51, title 18 and Section 52, Title,18, which are as follows:

"If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, orintimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same, they sall be fined not more Than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years, and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to amy office, or place of honor, profit, or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States."

"Whoever, undercolor of any low, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, wilfully subjects, or causes to be subjected, any inhabitant of any State, Territory, or District to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States, --- shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

Then there is section 88 of the U. S. Code language which I believe gives Federal Officials authority to prosecute for the violation of Civil Rights. This Section is in part as follows: "any two or more persons who conspire to commit any offense against the United States or to defraud the United States in any manner of for any purpose ....." It can be successfully established, I believe, that after the killing of Henry Gilbert that the persons who were responsible for his arrest and for his death, conspired to force Lovett Davidson to testify falsely against May Gilbert. This certainly was a deprivation of the rights of Lovett Davidson and resulted in a deprivation of the rights of May Gilbert. Since both Lovett Davidson and May Gilbert are entitled to protection under the Fourteenth Amendment and under the above states Sections of the U. S. Code Item, such conspiracy to deprive them of their rights was certainly a violation of Section 88 and a crime against the United States.

This case and all of its ramifications is a glaring example of how local law is impotent to protect the rights of the negro population in the face of rising public feeling. The laws on the Statute books of Georgia are only paper rights that never come to life when there is a need for them to be available in behalf of a member of the negro race. Public officials are timid to enforce the rights of a negro whose rights are being

5-22-47

Rw

(Statement on the acquittal of the Greenville, S.C. lynchers, issued to the press on May 22 by the Southern Regional Council)

Atlanta, May 22---"The acquittal of the accused lynchers of Willie Earle in Greenville, S.C., is a burden to the conscience of the South," the Southern Regional Council said today in a statement issued by its director, George S. Mitchell. "And although many people think so, it is not in line with the best of Southern justice."

The statement said the acquittal also showed "the educational problem the South faces in its efforts to free itself from the fear and prejudice that hamper its progress." It also stated that credit was due the state of South Carolina for pressing for arrest and conviction of the lynchers, and that Judge Robert Martin, who presided over the trial, deserved commendation for refusing to admit appeals to race prejudice in the arguments.

The Council's statement said:

"It may be that the jurors in the Greenville trial thought that they were 'upholding southern tradition' by setting scot-free the defendants in this case. If so, they were badly wrong. The record shows many convictions in the South for the crime of lynching. Some white men have received life sentences -- in the South -- for the lynch murder of Negroes.

"To acquit these men in the face of evidence and many signed confessions strikes a hard blow at the South's already weak foundations of respect for law and justice for all men. It is just such irresponsibility as this that makes the Nation feel that Federal laws are needed to insure the rights of all citizens, regardless of race. Certainly, if many southerners are so morally bankrupt as to condone crimes of violence against a helpless minority, the rest of the Nation cannot ignore it.

"This failure of justice is a failure of the people. Most of us still believe that the majority of white southerners abhor these crimes of violence against Negroes. Yet this majority is guilty of failure, too -- failure by neglecting to speak out and work together for justice. In a way, all of us in the South must share the blame. For so long as we fail to fight the brutal actions of the comparatively small number of people who perpetrate and condone crimes like the Greenville lynching, so long shall they give the South a bad name and a bad conscience

(rw-5-22-47)

NOTE -- The following is a summary of a talk made by William S. Howland to the A.M.A. Interracial Institute at Fisk University, July 18, 1947. End note.

First of all, I would like to explain that I am a professional reporter, not a sociologist. As a reporter I am trying to speak of events as they happen, not as they should happen in some ideal state.

I also would like to explain that I am a Northerner, Yankee, that is, born in New York city, reared in upstate New York, educated in New England and New Jersey. I have a Southern background in that my mother is a South Carolinian.

As a reporter I have been working in the South, by my own choice, since a cool autumn day in 1923 when I first came to Nashville. Then very fresh and green from four years in a leading Eastern university, I stopped off briefly in Nashville to visit my cousin, who is now Chief Justice of the Tennessee supreme court, and went to work as a reporter on The Tennessean.

It was not long before I had personal experience with racial friction and racial violence. I had been working on The Tennessean only a few months when a young Negro man, who had shot a country storekeeper and in turn had been shot while attempting a robbery, was lynched by a mob near Nolensville. It was a shocking incident. The Negro, who had been seriously wounded, as had the white man, was under arrest and was chained to a bed in the Nashville general hospital. An armed gang entered the hospital, held up the staff, cut the wounded man's chains, spirited him away into the night.

A few minutes later the Tennessean city editor was called from the hospital. He correctly guessed that a lynching was under way at the scene of the shooting. With two older editors and a photographer I raced out the Nolensville pike.

We arrived at the scene just in time to see the bullet riddled body of the young Negro swinging from the limb of a great, gaunt tree. I have never been able to forget the way blood was dripping from his toes as the limp, skinny body gyrated at the end of the rope.

While I stood staring, open mouthed, nauseated, someone sidled up to me, stuck a gun in my saide, said, "Bub, you don't recognize nobdoy, do you?" I was thankful that I could stammer, truthfully, "No".

Apparently others much more familiar with the scene and the people than I was were not able to recognize anyone, either, because no one, so far as I know, was ever even questioned or arrested in connection with this lynching which was, as are almost all incident of mob violence, completely uncalled for. The lynch victim had been arrested, accused and jailed. He would certainly have received proper legal punishment if the mob had not mocked the law.

That incident was more than 20 years ago, but the picture we printed the next day on The Tennessean's front page, showing that ghastly tree with its all too familiar fruit, still burns in my memory.

Despite that memory, and despite the many outbreaks of racial violence which I have since reported, I want to make the strong point that in nearly a quarter of a century of covering the South's news, I have seen steady improvement in racial relations in the South.

The fact that this interracial institute is being held for the fourth successive year in Nashville and is receiving widespread notice in Southern newspapers is proof positive of improvement. I think that the older members of the institute will agree with me that when I came to Nashville in 1923, no such meeting could have been held anywhere in the South, not even in such a comparatively prejudice free, enlightened a city as Nashville.

But during the past five years, even while the late Gene Talmadge and the fading Bilbo were deliberately and desperately beating the tom toms of racial prejudice for their own selfish political advancement and for the advantage of their big business backers (and I might mention in passing that there have been persistent rumors that much of this backing came from above the Mason-Dixon's line), I have attended meetings like this in Atlanta as well as Nashville. At these meetings men and women of both races have sat down together, have broken bread together, thought together and worked together to determine what treatments can be best applied to cure the cancer of racial friction which eats away at the body of our democracy.

Again -- and without wanting to sound like a starry-eyed wistful thinker or dreamy do gooder, I regard such meetings--and have so reported them--as unmistakable evidence of the South's progress toward better racial understanding and better racial relations--slow and painful, to be sure, but also steady. I also regard these meetings where men and women from all sections of the nation sit down and try to work out practical solutions of problems as doing much more to advance the cause of improved race relations than the frenetic actions of some Southerners who like to make bombastic utterances above the Mason-Dixon line or the plaints of some professional Southerners who continually whine, "Leave us alone and we will work out our own problems." In this connection, it is my opinion as a reporter who attempts to gather and write facts that the sooner all of the South comes to the realization that it is not something special but a part of the United States, the quicker and more easily will racial problems approach solutions. Conversely, it is my opinion that the sooner the rest of the nation realizes that the racial relations problem is not something special for the South, but is a national problem, undoubtedly National Problem No. 1, also the quicker and more easily will solutions be approached. There is far too much talk in the South about Northern interference and far too much looking down the nose in the North at the South. After all, are we not all Americans?

Actually, the South and the North and East and West have come a long way since the close of the first World War.

You need not take my word for that. The figures tell the story. Without wishing to bore you with another load of statistics, I would like to point out a few facts and figures for comparison purposes.

The older members of the institute will recall the bloody race riots which followed the close of World War 1 in Chicago, St. Louis and Washington. They were much worse than any in recent years--even than the Detroit riot.

Now as for figures--in 1918, sixty Negroes and four white persons were lynched. In 1919, the score was 76 Negroes, 7 white persons. In 1920, 53 Negroes, 8 white persons; in 1921, 59 Negroes and 5 white persons.

In those four years, years that followed a war which we fought and won to make the world safe for democracy, it was not safe in our own democracy for 248 Negroes and 24 white persons.

But in 1945, the year in which we finished winning a second war against the enemies of our way of life, only one person died by mob violence in the United States. Don't mistake me on that--it is a mockery of our way of life that in our democracy, this one person, a Negro should lose his right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness by the action of a mob of his fellow men. But that was one death in 1945 as compared to 64 in 1918. And in 1946, despite the international finger of shame pointed at the world's greatest democratic nation as the result of the instances of mob violence which occurred, only six persons, all Negroes it is true, died by lynching. Again, these deaths, any deaths decreed by Judge Lynch, are a blot on America's name--but the total of 6 is much less than the total of 83 in 1919. So far this year, the record is even better--only one that I know of so far.

Yes, the figures show that the South and the nation have made remarkable progress in the past quarter of a century. As a reporter I could not truthfully say otherwise, although during the past two years I have been repeatedly sickened, as I was last week in reporting the brutal killing of eight Negro prisoners at a Georgia highway work camp, by my job of covering outbreaks of racial violence and racial cruelty.

Black skins still make too many persons with white skins see red. There still are far too many examples of so called white supremacy turning into white savagery. And too many people who forget that all human blood is red no matter whether the color of the skin which contains it is white, or brown, or yellow or black.

But despite all this there has been, during the past quarter of a century and particularly during the past ten years, steady progress toward the Christian ideal of the brotherhood of man--no matter what the color of his outside covering. This progress is still going on. Nothing can stop it, although many things can and do delay it.

Now I would like to discuss briefly some of the racial incidents which have occurred since the white and yellow and brown and black men of the United Nations prevailed over the white men and brown men and yellow men of the Axis powers two years ago.

Before going into this discussion I might explain that at the time of the Japanese surrender I was a war correspondent with the U.S. Navy in the western Pacific. In the three months following the surrender I was one of the first correspondents to visit Burma, China, Malaysia and Indonesia. As such I obtained a very clear personal impression of what it is to be a member of a minority race. I was a badly frightened member of the white minority in Siam, Indo-China and Java. In Java particularly, where I was caught in the midst of the revolt against the Dutch, my white skin made me a conspicuous target. That there are no holes in that skin--and that I am here talking to you--is due to the good sense and good will of the coffee colored men of Java.

Now to take up some of the major racial incidents of the past two years.

The first outburst of the racial tension which was boiling under the nation's surface occurred in Columbia, Tennessee, in February, 1946.

There has been so much written and spoken about the Columbia incident, that I will not go into it further except to say that as a reporter present there, it was clear to me that had not good sense and good judgment finally prevailed on both sides, there easily could have been a full out race riot with many persons killed.

The next newsworthy incident was the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in the spring of 1946 that segregation must end in the seating of passengers on interstate buses in Virginia. This important decision did not receive very much notice, but it was put to bad use--so far as the South is concerned--in the Bilbo and Talmadge campaigns then warming up. You may recall that the late Gene Talmadge shouted to his followers that if an attempt were made to put such a law into effect in Georgia he would post guards at all borders of the state to enforce segregation. The decision came out at an unfortunate time for those attempting to defeat two white supremacy demagogs in the South.

Two of the major events of the last year in the South were the Bilbo and Talmadge campaigns. In both, the bloody shirt of racial prejudice was waved aloft from beginning to end. I did not cover the Bilbo campaign but I was told by those who did cover it that had there been concerted opposition and smart campaigning The Man could have been defeated, even in the state where the Negro population most closely approached the white population.

I did cover the Talmadge campaign and saw how desperately Gene and his followers worked to whip up the issue of white supremacy, how they grasped at every straw which could be woven into the web of prejudice in which they were attempting to enmesh the people of Georgia. And despite the most amateurish campaign of opposition I have ever seen in a major state race, Talmadge failed to get the majority of votes. He was elected only through the peculiarities of Georgia's county unit system whereby three little counties with perhaps a total vote of 5,000 can nullify the will of Atlanta and Fulton county, with more than half a million population.

I think the fact that the majority of Georgians--I repeat the majority--voted against Talmadge and racial prejudice, is an encouraging sign of progress in the South. Another encouraging sign was that for the first time in the South's history Negroes actually participated in mass voting in a Democratic primary. At least 75,000 - perhaps 100,000 voted - not only in Atlanta but all over the state. It was an impressive demonstration of Democracy in action. On election day I visited a number of the Atlanta polling places with Tom Stokes, a native Atlantan, the Pulitzer prize columnist. We both agreed that we never expected to see such a thing happening in our lifetime. And the voting went off without any of the clashes which backers of Talmadge had so direfully predicted.

But the week after so many thousands of Negroes stood in line with white persons and voted, five Negroes, three men and two women, died by violence in Georgia. The first was Macio Snipes, the only Negro in the Rupert precinct of rural Taylor county to vote. A week after he voted he was called out of his house by four white men in a car, shot down. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that one of the white men killed him in self defense.

Then on July 25, 1946, occurred one of the most shocking lynch crimes in our history. On that sweltering afternoon, an ex-convict white farmer was returning to his farm in Oconee county, near Monroe, Georgia. In the back of his car was a young Negro named Roger Malcolm, his wife, a war veteran named George Dorsey and his wife, who was Malcolm's sister. As the car approached a rickety bridge over the Apalachee river, according to what Harrison told me and all others who questioned him later, a band of unmasked men stopped him, took the two men from the car, put ropes around their necks and started down a sandy road beside the river. One of the women screamed out the name of one of the mob. They came back and hauled the women from the car. A few moments later a volley of shots rang out -- It sounded like a fire in the canebrake, a cripped farmer who lives a half mile away told me the next day -- and more red blood from black bodies stained the red earth of Georgia. I saw the blood when I visited the scene early next morning.

And as you know, despite months of intensive investigation by a large crew of FBI men, no one has yet been arrested for that crime although a special federal grand jury was called to consider evidence.

As you may recall, the incident which led to this quadruple murder was an altercation between Malcolm and a white man, in which the white man was stabbed. But Malcolm was arrested, jailed and out under bond when lynched. In discussing this lynching, the Louisville-Courier Journal said editorially: "This is nothing new. It is repetition of an old, old pattern. A federal anti-lynching law might stop it now. Time and tolerance and education which are slow workers will stop it some day. But they will not bring back those four lives and they will not redeem the murders of Georgia."

I do not think it is far-fetched to say that the campaigns of white supremacy prejudice which had been waged in Mississippi and Georgia last summer share the blame of the Walton county lynchings.

The Walton county lynchings far outshadowed other racial news last summer, but there was another shocking lynching in Mississippi for which a group of white men were brought to trial, without conviction.

Not a racial incident, except in a very minor way, was perhaps the greatest law and order disturbance of the year. This was the election revolution executed at Athens, Tennessee, last August 1st by a group of ex-service men who were provoked beyond reason by a corrupt county political machine. A contributing cause to the explosion which blew the machine politicians out of office and almost out of existence was the act of one of

of their henchmen in shooting a respected Athens Negro in the back as he walked away from a polling place after being refused permission to vote. The young GI's told me afterward they had not fought overseas to stand for any such treatment of any American, white black or yellow. Incidents like that which occurred all during election day led to the final armed action by the GI's which took over the government of McMinn county. As one of the reporters on the scene I still wonder why at least 100 persons were not killed.

You are all too familiar with the governorship battle which raged in Georgia after the death of Governor-Elect Gene Talmadge last December for me to go into that. It is sufficient to say that the good sense and good name of Georgia was preserved by the courageous action of the state supreme court after two of the wildest months any state ever has experienced.

During the time that Hummon Talmadge was occupying the governor's chair, his henchmen pushed through the legislature the so-called misnamed white primary bill, whose aim was to prevent Negroes or in fact anyone except Talmadgeites from voting in Georgia. Although the bill passed with crushing majority, the hearings on it held by the Senate brought forth a thrilling demonstration of good will, good thinking and courage on the part of Georgians. I will never forget the Reverend Rabun, a combat Marine chaplain who is pastor of the Baptist church in Talmadge's home town, as he came into the Senate chamber so ill with 'flu that I had to help him stand to denounce the bill as undemocratic, unChristian and unworthy. He was but one of many Georgians, young and old, who attacked the bill as against everything America stands for. Their voices were vain then, but they will not be forgotten.

But all the incidents of last summer and last winter were only the preliminaries for the greatest racial drama of recent years. Probably one of the greatest court dramas of all time. That was the trial of 31 white men in Greenville, South Carolina, on charges of murder, accessory before the fact, accessory after the fact and conspiracy growing out of the savage lynching of Willie Earle, a tough young Negro, in front of a slaughterhouse some four miles from Greenville.

I was one of the reporters covering that trial and I never hope to cover a more exciting, discouraging, interesting event.

As you no doubt recall, the lynching occurred on the morning of February 17th. On the previous Saturday night, February 15th, Earle had engaged Thomas Watson Brown, a middle aged, crippled taxi driver, to take him to his mother's home some 20 miles out in the country. Later Brown's taxi was found in a ditch, Brown was found dying from stab wounds several hundred yards away. From Brown, tracks led to Earle's mother's home. Some hours later Earle, still wearing a bloodstained jacket, was arrested in a gravel pit about a mile from his mother's home, and put in the Pickens county jail, which county adjoins Greenville county. Brown was taken to a Greenville hospital where he was visited by many of his fellow drivers.

During Sunday, as brought out by signed statements from 28 of the defendants, a plan to take Earle from jail began to take shape. Late Sunday night taxi drivers met, passed around bottles, then went in a long procession to Pickens, took Earle from the aged jailer, questioned him, beat him, slaughtered him and went back to Greenville to drink coffee and brag of their deed. As they were bragging Driver Brown died.

During the next few days FBI men, state constables, Greenville city police and Greenville county sheriff's deputies gathered taxi drivers until finally signed statements telling of participation in the mob, but all denying any part in the actual shooting to death of Earle, were collected from 28 of the 31 men held. Then a Greenville county grand jury indicted all 31 on the four charges mentioned.

But a legal blunder was committed by the prosecution which later worked against the prosecution in the trial. The defendants were all allowed bail, without obtaining sworn affidavits from all 31, as is required in South Carolina unless the solicitor (prosecuting attorney) assents. The Greenville solicitor consented, in the absence of the stern young judge who presides at Greenville and before an easy going old judge in Pickens. As result of this error, 3 of the 31 went on trial without any personal statements and under rules of evidence not subject to anything contained against them in the statements of the 28 defendants who did sign statements.

So on a steaming hot May morning 31 white men, including two young men of the so-called better class in Greenville, went on trial on charges of murder. I have never seen a trial conducted with more fairness nor with more dignity under the circumstances. Judge Robert Martin, Jr., a 37 year old, former football guard, made it clear from the first that he would not stand any foolishness that would prejudice justice for the men on trial. He barred photographers because he knew that taking of pictures would be prejudicial against the men on trial.

For eight tense days the men were on trial. Each of their 28 statements telling how the party was formed to take Earle out of the jail, telling of how Earle was beaten and shot, of how they stopped on the road to question him and of other details was read to the jury. And each time attorneys for the defense, including a former assistant U.S. district attorney and a strange character who poses as the leading liberal of South Carolina, attacked the statements as having been obtained by force, attacked the FBI men as meddlers and third degree workers.

And then, after Special Prosecutor Sam Watts, who was sent in to assist in the prosecution by the state attorney general, had brought all the evidence he had against the defendants, the defense rested the case without putting a single one of the defendants on the stand.

In their final arguments to jury, Attorneys Tom Wofford, the former federal district attorney, and John Bolt Culbertson, who boasted to me that he represented the CIO, The AFL and the UMW in Greenville and had been called in by Jess Mitchell, head of the Textile workers union whose two son-in-laws were defendants, descened to depths of prejudice I have never heard equal. Culbertson shouted, "Yes, Willie Earle is dead and I wish to God thousands like him were dead." Wofford shouted, "You know what these G-men suffer from. It is meddler's itch."

By contrast, Judge Martin, in his charge to the jury, delivered one of the most striking appeals for tolerance and fairness I have ever heard. Here is a paragraph from

Judge Martin's charge: "A court of law recognizes no color, no creed. Therefore, gentlemen, under your oaths as jurors, you are not to allow any so-called racial issue to enter into your deliberations in this case in any respect. Likewise, gentlemen, you will recall that I in your presence ruled the fact that the deceased Willie Earle may have, may have not confessed any crime could not be argued to you in justification, mitigation or excuse to the charges contained in this indictment."

Five hours and 15 minutes after Judge Martin finished his charge the jury reported it had reached a verdict. Then in as weird a scene as anyone ever witnessed in court, while defendants and wives sat, the jury reported four not guilty verdicts. After the 28 names had been read four times--once for each verdict--Judge Martin rose to his six feet four, said sternly, "Gentlemen, your service is finished. The clerk has your checks ready", turned his broad back, went out.

The ended the Greenville trial--as many expected it would end. But I regard the fact that it was held as one of the greatest advances in the South in many many years. As I walked away from it with a New York newspaperman he said to me, "Next time there may be a mistrial and the next time a conviction. The South is going forward".

And I agree with his thought. The South is going forward, in the improvement of race relations, despite the brutal killings which occurred in a Georgia state highway work camp last week and despite the raw deal handed to a Negro by the Ahoskie Kiwanis club in North Carolina.

As milestones of progress in conclusion, I would like to point to the following; in addition to the fact that the Greenville trial was held and held fairly:

1. First and most significant, the decision by Federal District Judge Waring, a South Carolina aristocrat if there are any such, last Saturday that Negroes are entitled to vote in the South Carolina democratic primaries no matter what action the state takes to label the Democratic party a white man's club. I recommend to you that you read his decision and the favorable editorial comment which has sprung up all over the South on it.

2. The action of the North Georgia Methodist conference last week in denouncing injection of racial prejudice in political campaigns.

3. Action of the Georgia Baptists last fall, at the instigation of Reverend Rabun, in condemning racial intolerance.

4. Action by Georgians in breaking up the potentially dangerous Columbians Inc. in Atlanta. A New York organization seeks to claim credit for that--and it did furnish some help--but the move against the Columbians and against the Ku Klux in Georgia was instigated and executed by state and local official.

5. Installation of two Negro educators as presidents of two important educational institutions in the South--Fisk and St. Augustine. And in passing I might say that the publication of Dr. Johnson's picture on the front page of a Nashville newspaper is an indication of great progress in racial relations.

6. And lastly a thrilling example of what courageous officers of the law can do in the South to stop a lynching. On July 1, at Carrollton, Georgia, a 60 year old deputy sheriff, without a gun, and four other officer halted a mob of 300 seeking to take a Negro from the Carroll county jail. They did the hard thing--protected their prisoner, prevented violence.

When we get more law officers like those at Carrollton, we will stop lynchings and make good our claim that we can handle our own affairs.

In conclusion as a Northerner who prefer to live in the South, and as a factual reporter, I see unmistakable signs that we are moving forward, perhaps at a crawl when many from elsewhere think we should fly, toward the goal of racial understanding and goodwill. But the point is we are going forward.

-end-

File

Lynchings

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., TREASURER

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O'CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
W. C. BEEBE
ALGERNON BLAIR
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
EDMUND E. DAY
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
E. ROLAND HARRIMAN
JESSE H. JONES
A. R. MEADOWS
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
H. C. STOCKHAM
C. E. THOMAS
GEORGE E. WARREN
CHARLES A. WICKERSHAM
J. R. WINGFIELD

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

December 29, 1947

Please do not release until December 31, 1947.

RECEIVED
DEC 31 1947
Southern Regional Council

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynching for the year 1947:

Number of Lynchings. According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of Tuskegee Institute, I find that 1 person was lynched during the year. This is 5 less than the number 6 for 1946; equivalent to the number 1 for the year 1945; 1 less than the number 2 for the year 1944; and 2 less than the number 3 for the year 1943.

The lynch victim was Willie Earle, a 24-year-old Negro, charged with stabbing and robbing a white taxi driver. He was taken from jail by a mob, which mutilated his body with knife and bullet wounds. The state in which the lynching occurred was South Carolina.

Borderline Cases. There were 6 borderline cases which are not included in the total number of lynchings for 1947 because, to date, sufficient evidence concerning them has not been obtained. These cases are as follows: Joe Nathan Roberts, at Sardis, Ga.; Red Marks, Tobe Marks, Joe Nickerson, and an unnamed Negro, at Oakwood, Fla.; and Charlie (Bud) Smith, in or near Angier, N. C.

Lynchings Prevented. There were at least 31 instances in which lynchings were prevented--24 by officers of the law; 4 by persons who saved themselves from mobs; 2 by persons not officers of the law; and 1 instance in which the victim, left as dead by the mob, survived bullet wounds. Of these instances, 27 were in the Southern States and 4 were outside of the South. A total of 39 persons--33 Negroes and 6 whites--were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Punishment of Lynchers. During the year, 44 persons were under indictment as participants in lynchings or attempted lynchings; and 44 were freed.

Very truly yours,

PRESIDENT

1947

LYNCHINGS IN THE THIRTEEN SOUTHERN STATES

Map A; 1900--1915

Map B: 1916--1947

Key: The numbers below denote the number of times a "lynch party" or mob violence has occurred in a county resulting in the death of one or more victims. In cases where the number of men killed in one lynching are exceptionally high (2, 3 and over) the total number of persons killed in the county is marked within a circle.

1--2 lynchings

3--4 lynchings

5 or more lynchings (number given--men killed--if over five)

States in Which the Lynching Locality is Undetermined:

STATE	1900-1915	1916--1947
Alabama	12	1
Arkansas	7	0
Florida	5	0
Georgia	11	3
Kentucky	(all lynchings known)
Louisiana	11	3
Mississippi	8	0
North Carolina	(all lynchings known)
Oklahoma	" " "
South Carolina	3	0
Tennessee	1	0
Texas	2 (11 killed)	0
Virginia	(all lynchings known)
	60	7

1941 missing

4 Negroes lynched that year

Lynchings in Georgia

Appling

Atkinson

Bacon

+ Baker 3. 3. 3. 21. 33. 33. 43.
3/3

√ Baldwin 25.
0/1

Banks

√ Barrow 22.
0/1

√ Barton 16. 30.
0/2

Ben Hill

Berrien

+ Bibb 12. 13. 19.
2/1

+ Bleckley 9. 12. 15. 15. 15. 19. 23.
5/2

Brantley

+ Brooks 1. 13. 17. 18. 18. 18. 18. 18. 18.
2/7

— Bryan 1. 1. 2.
3/0

— Bullock 1. 4. 4. 4. 4. 4. 8. 8
8/0

Burke

— Butts 12.
1/0

+ Calhoun 3. 15. 16.
2/1

√ Camden 16.
0/1

Campell: 1
1/0

√ Candler 17.
0/1

Carroll

Catoosa

Charlton

— Chatham 2.
1/0

√ Chattahoochee 36.
0/1

Chattooga

Cherokee

+ Clarke 10. 17. 21.
1/2

— Clay 8. 11.
2/0

Lynchings in Georgia---2

Clayton

Clinch

— Cobb: 0. 15
2/0

+ Coffee: 0. 20. 20. 20. 26.
1/4

√ Colquitt 18. 21. 22. 35.
0/4

+ Columbia 0. 0. 4. 10. 12. 13. 14. 15. 22.
8/1

Cook

Coweta

— Crawford: 0.
1/0

+ Crisp 3. 12. 12. 18. 24. 37.
3/3

Dade

Dawson

+ Decatur 3. 3. 5. 5. 15. 16. 37.
5/2

Dekalb

Dodge 3. 6. 8. 15. 15
5/0

√ Dooley 19. 20. 35.
0/3

— Dougherty 10.
1/0

Douglas

— Early 8. 9.
2/0

Echols

√ Effingham 20.
0/1

— Elbert 1.
1/0

+ Emanuel 6. 11. 11. 18.
3/1

Evans

— Fannin 9. 9. 9. (white
1/0

√ Fayette 18.
0/1

— Floyd: 0. 1. 2.
3/0

— Forsyth 12.
1/0

— Franklin 4.
1/0

√ Fulton 36. 36. 40.
0/3

Lynchings in Georgia---3

Gilmer

√Glascock 21.
0/1

Glynn

Cordon

=Grady 3.10.
2/0

√Greene 20.
0/1

—Gwinnett 11.
1/0

—Habersham 13.
1/0

Hall

√Hancock 23-23.
0/2

—Haralson 2.
1/0

—Harris 6. 12.12.12.12.
5/0

Hart

—Heard 13.
1/0

Henry

+Houston 3.7.9.13. 23.
4/1

Irwin 30.
0/1

Jackson

+Jasper 2. 15. 15. 15. 15. 19.
5/1

Jeff Davis

—Jefferson 8
1/0

√Jenkins 19.
0/1

—Johnson 2.
1/0

+Jones 15.15.15. 18.
3/1

Lemar

Lanier

+Laurens 11.11. 18.19.
2/2

—Lee 19.
0/1

+Liberty 9.11. 22.22.
2/2

—Lincoln 9
1/0

Lynchings in Georgia---4

Long

+ Lowndes 1. 8. 15. 16. 18.

Lumpkin

— McDuffie 7.

√ McIntosh 30 34

— Macon 10. 10.

√ Madison 36.

+ Marion: 0. 19.

+ Meriwether 11. 13. 24.

√ Miller 22.

Milton

+ Mitchell 11. 17. 17.

+ Monroe 6. 22.

— Montgomery 1. 9. 9. 9. 30

√ Morgan 19.

Murray

— Muscogee: 0. 12.

Newton

— Oconee 5. 5. 5. 5. 5.

√ Oglethorpe 19.

Paulding

Peach

Pickens

√ Pierce 18.

+ Pike 0. 0. 0. 4. 18. 20

Polk

— Pulaski 8. 8.

Putnam

— Quitman 1.

Rabun

Lynchings in Georgia---5

+ Randolph 1.1.9. 16.

— Richmond 11.11.

Rockdale

+ Schley 11.11.11. 22.

+ Screven 10. 25.

Seminole

— Spalding 3.

— Stephens 15

✓ Stewart 33.

— Sumter 12.13.

+ Talbot 4.4.9.9. 20.

+ Taliaferro 11.18.

— Tattnall 7.7.7.7.7.

Taylor

✓ Telfair 19.

Terrell

+ Thomas 0.17.20.30.30.36.

— Tift 4.8.

— Tommbs 8.10.

Towns

Truetlen

✓ Troup 40

— Turner 4.10.10.

Twiggs

Union

— Upson 4.

✓ Walker 16.

— Walton 11.11. 46.46.46.46.

— Ware 8.8.

+ Warren 9. 19.33.

✓ Washington 16.22.22.

Lynchings in Georgia---6

Wayne 8. 22.

Webster

Wheeler 10.

White

Whitfield 7. 36.

Wilcox 14. 19.

Wilkes 11. 19.19.19.

Wilkinson 1. 19.

Worth 16.16.16.16.20.

Unknown: Berryville, Ceswell, Willaston, 1900.2-1902.1903.1904. Lakewood 1906.1907. Cowen 2-Goldsborough 1908. Vera, 1911. / 1921.1921.1921. 1921.

2

Lynching

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., TREASURER

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O'CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
FORREST G. BRIDGES
EDMUND E. DAY
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
A. R. MEADOWS
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
C. E. THOMAS
GEORGE E. WARREN
CHARLES A. WICKERSHAM
GEORGE C. WILKINSON
J. R. WINGFIELD

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

December 29, 1948

Please do not release
until December 31, 1948

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynching for the year 1948.

Number of Lynchings. According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of Tuskegee Institute, I find that 2 persons were lynched during the year. This is 1 more than the number 1 for 1947; 4 less than the number 6 for 1946; 1 more than the number 1 for 1945; and equivalent to the number 2 for 1944.

One of the victims was William H. Turner (alias Wilson Turner), a 26-year-old white farm tenant of Meriwether County, Georgia, charged with stealing cattle from his landlord. He was placed in jail but later released for lack of evidence. Upon leaving the jail, he was chased from Meriwether County into Coweta County by a group of white men, led by the owner of the stolen cattle, seized, beaten and his body burned.

The other victim was Robert Mallard, 37-year-old Negro of near Lyons, Toombs County, Georgia. There was no charge against him. His apparent offense was he had incurred the enmity of his white farm neighbors because of his prosperity. Motoring home late at night accompanied by his wife, baby and two of his wife's young relatives, he was waylaid by a group of white men, who blocked the road and shot him to death.

Borderline Cases. There was 1 borderline case, not included in the total number of lynchings for 1948 for the reason that in one respect only it does not conform to criteria used. This victim was Isiah Nixon, 28-year-old Negro, who insisted on voting in Georgia's Primary election after being advised not to do so. On the evening of the same day he voted, two brothers, white, went to Nixon's home and shot him. He died two days later in a hospital.

Lynchings Prevented. In at least ~~7~~ 6 instances lynchings were prevented by officers of the law. All of these were in the Southern States. A total of ~~19~~ 18 persons, all Negroes, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Punishment of Lynchers. For participating in the lynching of William H. Turner, 1 person received the death sentence and 3 persons were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Very truly yours,

F. D. Patterson

President

2/1/49 Lynching

LYNCHINGS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

1928-48

DETAILED RECORD (From record compiled by the Assoc. of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Appil 24, 1930	Greene, Allen (Negro)	Walhalla, Oconee County	Attempted Rape
June 21, 1930	Jenkins, Daniel (Negro)	Union, Union County	Rape
July 4, 1933	Dendy, Norris (Negro) (Taken from county jail, shot, and hanged.)	Clinton, Laurens County	Striking white man
Feb. 19, 1933	J eter, George (Negro) (Flogged to death by 4 white men.)	Aiken, Aiken County	Stealing bootleg liquor
Octo9, 1933	Thompson, Benj. (Negro) (Taken from jail, beaten to death by 4 white men.)	Ninety-Six, Greenwood Co.	Arguing with white men
Nov. 17, 1933	Greene, George (Negro) (Shot to death by masked, robed band of more than 10 men.)	Taylors, Greenville Co.	Cause unknown
Feb. 20, 1941	Tisdale, Bruce (Negro) (Beaten by 5 white men and died in hospital 5 days later. 3 of the 5 white men convicted for manslaughter. The case was appealed, and there is no record of time served.)	Andrews, Georgetown Co.	Cause unknown
~~1947~~ Feb. 16, 1947	Earle, Willie (Negro) (All 28 defendents acquitted by Greenville jury although 26 out of the 28 had signed confessions of guilt.)	Greenville, Greenville County	Attempted murder of taxi driver to be inserted

Total Lynchings, 1928-48: 8

Lynchings in S. C. by Race, 1882-1948 (From 1947 Negro Yearbook*, to which I have added the Willie Earle lynching in Greenville, 1947.)

Whites	Negroes	Total
4	156	160

Lynchings by Region, 1882-1948 (Negro Yearbook, to which I have added the 1 lynching of 1947 and the 2 of 1948, all in the South, as reported by Tuskegee Institute.)

	Whites	Negroes	Total	Per Cent of U. S. Total
Northeastern States	3	8	11	0.2
North Central States....	270	154	424	9.0
Southern States.....	661	3,247	3,908	82.8
Western States.....	358	18	376	8.0
Total, All Regions....	1,292	3,427	4,719	100.0

Negroes lynched in the Southern states account for 68.8% of total U.S. lynchings, 1882-1948.

*Negro Yearbook gets its figures from Dept. of Research + Records, Tuskegee.

22 - Lynching

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., BUSINESS MANAGER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O'CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
FORREST G. BRIDGES
EDMUND E. DAY
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
RALPH MCGILL
A. R. MEADOWS
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
GEORGE E. WARREN
GEORGE C. WILKINSON
J. R. WINGFIELD

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

RECEIVED
DEC 28 1949
Southern Regional Council

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

DECEMBER 29, 1949
PLEASE DO NOT RELEASE UNTIL
DECEMBER 31, 1949

DEAR SIR:

I SEND YOU THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION CONCERNING LYNCHING FOR THE YEAR 1949.

NUMBER OF LYNCHINGS. ACCORDING TO RECORDS COMPILED IN THE DEPARTMENT OF RECORDS AND RESEARCH, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, I FIND THAT 3 PERSONS WERE LYNCHED DURING THE YEAR. THIS IS 1 MORE THAN THE NUMBER 2 FOR 1948; 2 MORE THAN THE NUMBER 1 FOR 1947; 3 LESS THAN THE NUMBER 6 FOR 1946; AND 2 MORE THAN THE NUMBER 1 FOR 1945. THUS, FOR THE 5-YEAR-PERIOD, 1945-1949 INCLUSIVE, 13 LYNCHINGS HAVE BEEN RECORDED.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS WAS CALEB HILL, JR., 28-YEAR-OLD NEGRO CHALK MINE WORKER OF IRWINTON, WILKINSON COUNTY, GEORGIA, CHARGED WITH CREATING A DISTURBANCE AND RESISTING ARREST. LODGED IN JAIL, HE WAS REMOVED BY A GROUP OF MEN, BEATEN AND SHOT TO DEATH.

THE SECOND VICTIM WAS MALCOLM WRIGHT, 45-YEAR-OLD NEGRO TENANT FARMER OF NEAR HOUSTON, CHICKASAW COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI, WHO IS REPORTED TO HAVE "HOGGED THE ROAD" AND OF NOT MOVING HIS WAGON OVER FAST ENOUGH TO PERMIT A GROUP OF WHITE MEN, RIDING IN A MOTOR CAR, TO PASS. HE WAS BEATEN TO DEATH.

THE THIRD VICTIM WAS HOLLIS RILES, 53-YEAR-OLD PROSPEROUS NEGRO LANDOWNER OF NEAR BAINBRIDGE, DECATUR COUNTY, GEORGIA, FOUND DEAD WITH A NUMBER OF BULLET HOLES IN HIS BODY AFTER AN ARGUMENT WITH A GROUP OF WHITE MEN, WHO HAD BEEN FISHING IN HIS POND WITHOUT PERMISSION. IT WAS REPORTED THAT SOMETIME PREVIOUSLY RILES' HOME HAD BEEN RIDDLED WITH BUCKSHOTS FIRED FROM AN AUTOMOBILE.

THE STATES IN WHICH THE LYNCHINGS OCCURRED AND THE NUMBER IN EACH STATE ARE AS FOLLOWS: GEORGIA, 2; MISSISSIPPI, 1.

PUNISHMENT OF LYNCHERS. TWO MEN JAILED IN CONNECTION WITH THE LYNCHING OF CALEB HILL, JR. WERE LATER FREED FOR LACK OF SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE TO BRING THEM TO TRIAL.

LYNCHINGS PREVENTED. IN AT LEAST 14 INSTANCES, LYNCHINGS WERE PREVENTED—4 IN THE NORTH AND 10 IN THE SOUTH. ONE PERSON ESCAPED FROM A GROUP OF MEN BENT ON LYNCHING HIM BY JUMPING INTO A RIVER; IN THE 13 OTHER INSTANCES, OFFICERS OF THE LAW GAVE PROTECTION. A TOTAL OF AT LEAST 17 PERSONS WERE THUS SAVED FROM MOB VIOLENCE. OF THESE, 6 WERE WHITE PERSONS AND 11 WERE NEGROES.

ALTHOUGH THERE ARE THREE CLEAR-CUT CASES OF LYNCHING REPORTED FOR 1949 ACCORDING TO CRITERIA NOW USED, ATTENTION SHOULD BE CALLED TO OTHER KILLINGS WHICH ACCORDING TO ALL INTENT AND PURPOSE WOULD SEEM TO FALL INTO THIS CATEGORY. THESE INCLUDE MURDERS REPORTED AS BEING COMMITTED BY LESS THAN THREE PERSONS; KILLINGS BY SPECIALLY DEPUTIZED POSSES, WHO IN SOME INSTANCES APPEAR TO BE COMPOSED OF IRRESPONSIBLE PERSONS BENT NOT ON UPHOLDING LEGAL INSTITUTIONS BUT ON VENGEANCE; PRISONERS MEETING VIOLENT DEATH IN JAILS AFTER CONFINEMENT; AND OTHER CASES OF POLICE BRUTALITY.

VERY TRULY YOURS,

F. D. Patterson

PRESIDENT

LYNCHINGS, 1942-1951
(Supplement to "Changing Character of Lynching")

Date	Locality	Victim	Charge or Incident
Jan. 25, 1942	Sikeston, Mo.	Cleo Wright, Negro	Attempted criminal assault. Dragged through streets behind auto, body burned.
July 13, 1942	Texarkana, Tex.	Willie Vinson, Negro	Suspected of attempted rape. Dragged behind auto, hanged.
Oct. 12, 1942	Near Paris, Ill.	James E. Person, Negro	"Molesting" people in community. Body riddled with bullets.
Oct. 12, 1942	Quitman, Miss.	Charlie Lang and Ernest Green, 14-year old Negroes	Attempted rape. Hanged
Oct. 17, 1942	Laurel, Miss.	Howard Wash, Negro	Received automatic life sentence when jury failed to agree on punishment on murder charge. Taken from jail and hanged.
Jan. 30, 1943	Newton, Ga.	Robert Hall, Negro	Resisting arrest on charge of theft. Beaten to death.
June 16, 1943	Near Marianna, Fla.	Cellos Harrison, Negro	Killing filling station operator in robbery attempt. Taken from jail, clubbed to death.
Nov. 7, 1943	Near Camp Ellis, Ill.	Pvt. Holley Willis, Negro soldier	Insulting white women over telephone. Shot
Mar. 26, 1944	Liberty, Miss.	Rev. Isaac Simmons, Negro	Was hiring lawyer to safeguard title to a debt free farm through which an oil vein possibly ran. Shot
Nov. 23, 1944	Pikesville, Tenn.	James Scales, Negro	Murder. Taken from jail and shot.
Oct. 12, 1945	Madison, Fla.	Jesse Payne, Negro	Assault with intent to rape. Taken from jail and shot.
July 22, 1946	Lexington, Miss.	Leon McTatie, Negro	Stealing a saddle. Flogged to death.
July 25, 1946	Monroe, Ga.	Roger Malcolm and wife Dorothy Malcolm; George Dorsey and wife Mae Dorsey, Negroes	Roger Malcolm charged with stabbing his employer. Others innocent of any charge, except the fact that one of the women recognized a member of the lynching mob. Shot to death.

Lynchings, 1942-1946

Date	Locality	Victim	Charge & Incident
Aug. 8, 1946	Near Minden, La.	John C. Jones, Negro	Attempting to enter house of a white woman. Tortured and beaten to death.
1947	Greenville, S.C.	Willie Earle, Negro	Stabbing and robbing white taxi driver. Taken from jail, body mutilated with knife and bullet wounds.
1948	Coweta County, Ga.	William H. Turner (alias Wilson Turner) white	Stealing cattle. Body beaten and burned.
1948	Near Lyons, Ga.	Robert Mallard, Negro	His prosperity apparently incurred the enmity of white farm neighbors. Shot.
1949	Irwinton, Ga.	Caleb Hill, Jr., Negro	Creating disturbance, resisting arrest. Taken from jail, beaten and shot.
1949	Near Houston, Miss.	Malcolm Wright, Negro	"Hogging road," not moving his wagon over fast enough to permit white men to pass. Beaten to death.
1949	Near Bainbridge, Ga.	Hollis Riles, Negro	Argued with white men who fished in his pond without permission. Body riddled with bullets.
Feb. 22, 1950	Pell City, Ala.	Charlie Hurst, white	No charges. Mob apparently got the "wrong man." Shot
Aug. 18, 1950	Near Gay, Ga.	Jack Walker (alias Jack Kendall), Negro	Was said to have known too much about illegal whisky traffic. Shot to death.
Mar. 28, 1951	Near Winter Garden, Fla.	Melvin Womack, Negro	Unknown. Beaten and shot on night of Mar. 28, died three days later.

NUMBER OF LYNCHINGS 1938-1945

Year	White	Negro
1938	0	6
1939	1	2
1940	1	4
1941	0	4
1942	0	5
1943	0	3
1944	0	2
1945	0	1

Southern Regional Council
January, 1946

Lynchings in Alabama

Counties:

- Autauga 2.
- Baldwin 4. 8. 19.
- Barbour 11. 11. 14. 22.
- Bibb 10. 9. 33. 33.
- Bullock 7.
- Butler 1. 15. 20.
- Calhoun 0. 9. 10.
- Chambers
- Cherokee
- Chilton
- Choctaw 8. 12. 21.
- Clarke 9. 9. 15. 19.
- Clay
- Clebourne
- Coffee 1. 4.
- Colbert 2. 18. 18
- Conecuh
- Coosa
- Covington 1. 6. 7. 10. 18. 20.
- Crenshaw 23. 40.
- Cullman
- Dale
- Dallas 1. 1. 1. 4. 13.
- Dekalb
- Elmore 0. 0. 12. 15.
- Excambia
- Etowah 4. 6. 12.
- Fayette
- Collier 9. unknown

Map Key:

1 + 2
3 - 4
5 + over

1900 - 1915

~~1 + 2~~
~~3 - 5~~
~~6 + over~~

~~1915 - 1940~~

Lynchings in Alabama---2

Franklin

+ Geneva 0.7.20

Greene

Hale

✓ Henry 20.37.

— Houston 0.8.10.12.

— Jackson 3.

+ Jefferson 1.1.7.8.9.12.12. 23.34.40

Lemar

— Lauderdale 7.

— Lawrence 1.1

— Lee 0.2.

— Limestone 1.

+ Lowndes 14.17.31.19.19.19.20.25

Macon

— Madison 0.4

— Marengo 9.

Marion

Marshall

— Mobile (6.6.) 7.9.10

— Monroe 1.5

— Montgomery 10.(15.15.15).

Morgan

Perry

+ Pickens 7.17.17

Pike

Randolph

— Russell 7.

— St. Clair 10.

— Shelby 1.10

Lynchings in Alabama——3

+ Sumter 12. 16. 30 =

Talladega 7.

Tallapoosa

✓ Tuscaloosa 19. 33.

✓ Walker 21

— Washington 7. 7.

— Wilcox 4. 5. 5.

Wilson

Unknown: Selo Hatchel 0. South Side 1. 2. 2. 4. Taylorsville Bakers
4. 4. 4. Rienzi 6. Bolivar 9. 12. 13. Bartow 15.
15. 20. 20. Collier

12. Lynch parties
14 men killed
1 Lynch party
2 men killed

12

Lynchings in Arkansas--1900- 1915

1915-1940

Counties:

+ Arkansas (13-4) 16 · 16
13/2
+ Ashley 4 · 4 · 8 · 27 · 32
3/2
Baxter

Benton

✓ Boone: 28 ·
//
+ Bradley 3 19 ·
//
Calhoun

Carroll

✓ Chicot 21 ·
//
— Clark 0 · 3
2/
Clay

Cleburne

Cleveland

Columbia

+ Conway 12 · 22 ·
//
✓ Craighead 20
//
Crawford

+ Crittenden 0 · (10 · 10) · 17 · 18 ·
3/2
— Cross 2 2/
Dallas

+ Desha 21 ·
//
✓ Drew 21 ·
//
+ Faulkner 5
//
Franklin

Fulton

+ Garland 6 · 10 · 13 18 · 22 ·
3/2
— Grant 3
//
Greene

+ Hempstead 5 · 9 · 10 · 15 21 · 22 ·
4/2

Lynchings in Arkansas——2

√ Hot Springs 22.
1/1
Howard

Independence

Izard

+ Jackson 5. 14. 18.
2/1
— Jefferson 9. 10.
2/
— Johnson: 1.
1/
+ Lafayette 3. 7. 26.
2/1
Lawrence

+ Lee 0. 5 19.
2/1
— Lincoln 10. 19. 19.
1/2
+ Little River 2. 10. 17.
2/1
Logan

+ Lonoke 15. 17.
1/1
Madison

Marion

+ Miller 6. 17. 22.
1/2
+ Mississippi 1. 3. 21. 26.
2/2
— Monroe 2-15.
2/
Montgomery

+ Nevada 1. 16.
1/1
Newton 19.
0/1
+ Ouachita 2 25
1/1
Perry

√ Phillips 19. 19. 19. 19. 21. 27.
0/6
Pike

√ Poinsett 36.
0/1
+ Polk: 1. 16.
1/1
+ Pope 12.
1/0
— Prairie 9.
1/0

Lynchings in Arkansas---3

+ Pulaski 6·13·27·
2/1
— Randolph: 1·
1/0
+ St. Francis 2·11·15·19·
3/1
Salina

Scott

Searcy

Sebastian

Sevier

Sharp

Stone

+ Union 10·19·23·
1/2
Van Buren

Washington

— White 0·0 ·0
3/0
— Woodruff 7·11
2/0
Yell

Unknown: 1902· 3·3 ·1905· Elmath, Pillor 6·6· 10·10
1912·

7 Lynch parties
9 men killed

1900-1915 / 1916-1940

Lynchings in Florida

Counties

+ Alachua 2·2·4·8·15 16·16·16·16·16·16·23·26·
5/8
√ Baker 20·20·20·20·
0/2
+ Bay 8·8 39·
2/1
— Bradford 3·21
1/1
— Brevard 26·
0/26
Broward 35· off map
0/1
+ Calhoun 13 31·31·
1/2
Charlotte

— Citrus 6·6·
2/0
Clay

Collier

+ Columbia: 0·19·29· 11·11·11·11·11·11·
7/2
Dade 18·20·23·
0/3
+ DeSoto 9·9 17
2/1
Dixie

+ Duval 9 19·19·23·23·
1/4
— Escambia 2·3·8·9·10
5/0
Flagler

Franklin

√ Gadsden 29·
0/1
Gilchrist

Glades

Gulf

+ Hamilton: 0 24·32·
1/2
√ Hardee 21
0/1
Hendry

+ Hernando 0 26·29·29·
1/3
Highlands

+ Hillsborough 3 10·10·10·10·10·10· 12· 30·34·35·
7/3
— Holmes 10·10·10·10·10·10·
6/0

Lynchings in Florida---2

√ Indian River 26.26.
0/2

— Jackson 0.0.5.10.10.11.34.43.
6/1

Jefferson

+ Lafayette 10.12.22
0/1

√ Lake 24.24.
0/2

√ Lee 24.24.28
0/3

+ Leon 9 37.
1/1

+ Levy 4 23.23.23.23.
1/4

Liberty

+ Madison 1.1.3.6.8.19.21.36.45
5/3

— Mantee 3.12
2/0

+ Marion 1.12.12.15.15.16.21.25
5/3

Martin

√ Monroe 21
0/1

Nassau

Okaloosa

Okeechobee

√ Orange 20.22.25
0/3

— Osceola .15
1/0

√ Palm Beach 23.26.
0/2

+ Pasco 1.1.2
3/0

+ Pinellas 14.28.
1/1

+ Polk: 0.1.3.3.4.6.9.9.10.13.14.3.20.21
12/2

Putnam

St. Johns

St. Lucie

+ Santa Rosa 13.19.22.37
1/3

Sarasota

√ Seminole 25
0/1

— Sumter: 0
1/0

Lynching in Florida——3

Suwannee: 0.18
1/1

Taylor 4.8.8.9.22.22.38.
4/3

Union

Volusia 39.
0/1

Wakulla

Walton

Washington: 1.16.
1/1

Unknown: 1906.1906. 1908. 1910. Yellow River 1913. Gordonville 1914.
6/0

Lynchings in Kentucky

Adair

Allen

Anderson

Ballard 1. 1. 1. 3. 15.

Barren

Bath

Bell

Boone

Bourbon 9. 20.

Boyd

Boyle

Bracken 13.

Breathitt 29.

Brekinridge 2. 2.

Bullitt 4.

Butler

Caldwell 15. 32.

Calloway

Campbell

Carlisle

Carroll

Carter

Casey

Christian 9.

Clark

Clay

Clinton

Crittenden

Cumberland

Daviess

Lynchings in Kentucky—— 2

Edmonson

Elliott

Estill

Fayette

Fleming

Floyd 24.

Franklin 9.

Fulton 2. 2. 4. 15. 18.

Gallatin

Garrard

Grant 0.

Graves 15.

Grayson 13.

Green

Greenup

Hancock 5.

Hardin 2.

Harlan

Harrison

Hart

Henderson 15.

Henry

Hickman

Hipkins

Jackson

Jefferson

Jessamine 2.

Johnson

Kenton

Knott

Knox

Lynchings in Kentucky---3

Larue 1.

Laurel

Lawrence

Lee

Leslie

Letcher 2 7.

Lewis

Lincoln

Livingston

Logan 8. 8.

Lyon

Madison

Magoffin

Marion

Marshal

Martin

Mason 3. 17.

McCracken 16. 16.

McCreary

McLean 1.

Meade 2.

Menifee

Mercer

Metcalf

Monroe

Mongomery

Morgan

Muhlenberg

Nelson

Lynchings in Kentucky---4

Unknown: Spysfield 2. 4.
Maple Grove 7. Goff 10.

Nicholas

Ohio

Oldham

Oqwn

Owsley

Pendleton

Perry 34.

Pike

Powell

Pulaski

Robertson

Rockcastle

Rowan Russell

Scott

Shelby 1. 1. 11. 11. 11.

Simpson 8. 8. 8. 8

Spenser 5.

Taylor

Todd 4. 5. 26.

Trigg 6. 9.

Trimble

Union

Warren

Washington

Wayne 8.

Webster 8.

Whitley

Wolf 11. 11. 11. 11.

Woodford 20.

Lynchings in Louisiana

— Arcadia 1.

Allen

Asdension

√ Assumption 33.

+ Avoyelles 7. 15. 16.

Bauregard

+ Bienville 6. 7. 33

+ Bossier 1 1. 1. 3. 3. 7 12. 12. 12 18. 19. 22. 22. 25.

+ Caddo 1. 1. 1. 3. 6. 8. 9. 12. 13. 13. 13. 14. 14. 14. 14. 17. 19. 23. 34.

+ Calcasieu 1. 27.

√ Caldwell 18. 21.

Cameron

— Catahoula 8.

+ Claiborne 2. 5. 8. 11. 21. 24. 33.

— Concordia 2 3. 3.

— DeSoto 12

— East Baton Rouge 0. 12.

East Carroll

— East Feliciana 1. 6. 7

Evangeline

+ Franklin 11. 21. 22. 32. 35.

Grant

— Iberia 2. 8

+ Iberville 3. 6. 35.

— Jackson 5.

√ Jefferson 35.

— Jefferson Davis 1. 13.

— Lafayette 6.

Lafourche

LaSalle

√ Lincoln 38.

Lynchings in Louisiana--2

Livingston 0.10.

Madison 6.

Morehouse 2.7.9.18.19.34.

Natchitoches 2.

Orleans 0.0.0.0.0.0.0.0

Ouachita 6.7.7.9.10.13.14.14.14.14.18.18.19.

Plaquemines 31.

Pointe Coupee 5.

Rapides 0.0.3.4.7.7.7.28.28.

Red River 0.6.15.19.

Richland 1.9.9.10.10.11.12.18.18.18.18.

Sabine

St. Bernard

St. Charles 3.

St. Helena 9.

St. James

St. John the Babtist 17.

St. Landry 1.11.16.33.

St. Martin

St. Mary

St. Tammany 14.

Tangipahoa 0.0.0.0.5.17.17.17

Tensas

Terrebonne

Union

Vermilion

Vernon

Washington 19.

Webster 1.

West Baton Rouge 0.21.

Lynchings in Louisiana---3

— West Carroll 2. 8. 9. 9.

— West Feliciana 4.

— Winn 2. 2. 14.

Unknown 1. Ballstown 2. 3. Millview 3. 8. Grand Prairie 9. G.P. 9. Slabtown 9. 12.
Campville 13. Sylvester 14. Syl. 14. Fawndale 18.
Humphreys 18. 21.

Lynchings in Mississippi

Adams

+ Alcorn 0. 2. 3. 20. 20.

+ Amite 0. 0. 2. 4. 44.

Attala

✓ Benton 33. 34. 34.

+ Bolivar 1. 3. 4. 4. 5. 5. 13. 30. 34. 34.

Calhoun

+ Carroll 1. 1. 1. 1. 7. 35.

— Chickasaw 4. 7. 9. 13.

Choctaw

Claiborne

✓ Clarke 18. 18. 18. 18. 20. 20. 42.

+ Clay 15. 16.

+ Coahoma 0. 2. 5. 8. 8. 15. 15. 19. 24. 25.

+ Copiah 8. 16. 22.

Covington

+ De Soto 0. 5. 7. 8. 14. 14. 14. 19. 25. 35.

+ Forrest 3. 5. 5. 21. 24. 28.

Franklin

— George 6.

✓ Greene 27.

Grenada

Hancock

+ Harrison 0. 0. 3. 4. 8. 20.

+ Hinds 0. 1. 1. 6. 12. 30. 34.

+ Holmes 10. 19. 23. 25.

Humphreys

Lynchings in Mississippi--2

Issaquena 0.0.3.4.6.

Itawamba

Jackson 1.1.8.8.8.

Jasper

Jefferson 13.13.

Jefferson Davis 6.

Jones 2.6.19.42

Kemper 6.9.9.9.9.12.15.24.30.30.

Lafayette 8.35.

Lamar 20.

Lauderdale 5.10.11.21.21.

Lawrence

Leake 2.

Lee 6.

Leflore 7.8.9.16.23.25.25.33.

Lincoln 3.8.8.28.28.

Lowndes 6.15.22.31.33.35.35.

Madison 21.21.38.39.

Marion 17.17.19.

Marshall 14.14.35.

Monroe 14.15.22.

Montgomery 37.

Neshoba 1.

Newton 8.8.8.11.

Noxubee 1.1.12.15.27.27.27.29.

Oktibbeha 12.12.

Panola 23.

Pearl River 9.18.21.25.

Perry 0.1.19.23.

Pike 2.2.21.28.

Lynchings in Mississippi---3 Ozark: 4.4.4.

√Pontotoc 22.22

Prentiss

+ Quitman 2.7.13.13.19.22.

+ Rankin 5. 21.21.21.34.

Scott

√Sharkey 38.

— Simpson 6.10.

— Smith 3.3.3.3.3.

+ Stone 7.19.35.38.

— Sunflower 3.4.4.4.4.13.13.28.31.

— Tallahatchie 0.0.0.5.5.5.

Tate

Tippah

Tishomingo

+ Tunica 0.0.0.0.0.1.7.7.7.8.8.23.

√Union 25.

√Walthall 20.20.25.

+ Warren 0.3.7.15.19.21.30.

— Washington 1.1.1.3.5.9.12.14.

√Wayne 23.

— Webster 4.

— Wilkinson 3.3.5.5.6.

+ Windston 13.15.27.27.33.

√Yalobusha 21.25.

+ Yazoo 7.7.7.8.21.22.23.25.27

Unknown: 0. Cuckhusha 1. Griffith 2. Cross Roads 3. Stouts Crossing. 4. 9. Mustadon 10. Armory 10.

Lynchings in North Carolina---1

√Alamanance 20

Alexander

Alleghany

Lynchings in North Carolina---2

— Anson 1. 6.

Weh4Avery

— Baufort 2.

√ Bertie 18.

Bladen

Brunswick

— Bucombe 6.

Burke

Cabarrus

Caldwell

Camden

Carteret

— Caswell 10.

Catawba

√ Chatham 21.

Cherokee

Chowan

Clay

Cleveland

Columbus

— Craven 5.

Cumberland

Currituck

Dare

Davidson

Davie

Duplin

Durham

√ Edgecombe 30.

Forsyth

Lynchings in North Carolina---3

√ Franklin 19. 19. 35

Gaston

Gates

Graham

Granville

Greene

Guiford

Halifax

Harnett

— Haywood 0.

Henderson

Hertford

Hoke

Hyde

Iredell

Jackson

— Johnston 8.

Jones

Lee

√ Lenoir 16. 21.

Lincoln

McDowell

Macon

Madison

Martin

— Mecklenburg 3. 10. 13.

Mitchell

Montgomery

— Moore 0. 12.

Nash

Eaton Clearcopy Onion Skin MADE IN U.S.A.

LYNCHINGS IN NORTH CAROLINA---4

NEW HANOVER

— NORTHHAMPTON 4.

✓ ONSLOW 19. 19.

ORANGE

PAMLICO

PASQUOTANK

✓ PENDER 33.

PERQUIMANS

✓ PERSON 20.

PITT

POLK

RANDOLPH

RICHMOND

ROBESON

ROCKINGHAM

— ROWAN 2. 6. 6.

— RUTHERFORD 0.

SAMPSON

SCOTLAND

STANLY

STOKES

SURRY

SWAIN

TRANSYLVANIA

TYRRELL

UNION

VANCE

+ WAKE 14. 18.

✓ WARREN 21. 21.

WASHINGTON

Esleeck
Clearcopy Onion Skin
MADE IN U.S.A.

Lynchings in Oklahoma

Counties:

Bryan: 1907

Caddo: 1913

Carter: 1913, 1913

Cleveland: 1915

Comanche: 1916

Creek: 1910, 1911

Grady: 1906, 1930

Grant: 1901

Hughes: 1917, 1920

Latimer: 1909

McClain: 1911, 1914

McCurtain: 1916

McIntosh: 1914, 1923

Marshal: 1918

Muskogee: 1907

Nowata: 1916, 1916

Okfuskee: 1910, 1911, 1911

Oklahoma: 1906, 1920, 1922

Pontotoc: 1909, 1909, 1909, 1909

Pottowatami: 1915

Seminole: 1913

Sequoyah: 1912

Tulsa: 1920

Wagoner: 1914, 1915

Unknown: 1901, 1911

LYNCHINGS IN NORTH CAROLINA---5

WATAUGA

+ WAYNE 2. 16. 20.

WILKES

WILSON

YADKIN

YANCEY

LYNCHINGS IN SOUTH CAROLINA---1 Unknown: Basket Mills 0. Rose Station 3. Mont Willing 6.

+ ABBEVILLE 5. 16. 19.

+ AIKEN 3. 21. 31. 26. 26. 26. 33.

✓ ALLENDALE 21.

+ ANDERSON 1. 18.

— BAMBERG 12. 12. 12.

+ BRANWELL 1. 5. 5. 18.

— BAUFORT 1.

BERKELEY

CALHOUN

— CHARLESTON 2.

— CHEROKEE 12. 12.

CHESTER

— CHESTERFIELD 3. 4.

— CLARENDON 13.

COLLETON

DARLINGTON

DILLON

— DORCHESTER 4.

— EDGEFIELD 7.

— FAIRFIELD 15.

— FLORENCE 4. 9. 14.

GEORGETOWN

+ GREENVILLE 3. 11. 33. 47.

LYNCHINGS IN SOUTH CAROLINA----2

GREENWOOD 2.2.6.33.

HAMPTON 1.8.14.

HORRY

JASPER

KERSHAW 4.

LANCASTER

LAURENS 4.13.20.33.

LEE

LEXINGTON 9.21.

MCCORMICK 21.

MARION 7.

MARLBORO

NEWBERRY 6.10.12.

OCONEE 30.

ORANGEBURG 3.3.9.12.14.24.

PICKENS

RICHLAND

SALUDA

SPARTANBURG

SUMTER 14.

UNION 0.1.6.30

WILLIAMSBURG 22.

YORK 17.

LYNCHINGS IN TENNESSEE----1

ANDERSON

BEDFORD 12.12.12.

BENTON 22.22.

BLEDSOE 44.

BLOUNT

BRADLEY

CAMPBELL 3.

LYNCHINGS IN TENNESSEE----2

CANNON

CARROLL 11

CARTER

CHEATHAM

CHESTER

CLAIBORNE

CLAY

COCKE

COFFEE 5. 34.

CROCKETT 29.

CUMBERLAND

DAVIDSON 24. 35.

DECATUR

DEKALB 11

DICKSON

DYER 1 2. 2. 13. 17.

FAYETTE 15.

FENTRESS

FRANKLIN 1 18. 18.

GIBSON 19.

GILES 8.

GRAINGER

GREENE

GRUNDY

HAMBLEN

HAMILTON 6.

HANCOCK

HARDEMAN 8.

HARDIN

HAWKINS

LYNCHINGS IN TENNESSEE - 3

+ HAYWOOD 4. 40

✓ HENDERSON 18.

HENRY

HICKMAN

HOUSTON

HUMPHREYS

JACKSON

JEFFERSON

JOHNSON

KNOX

— LAKE 0. 1. 7. 8. 8. 8. 10. 10.

+ LAUDERDALE 0. 0. 0. 0. 3. 4. 6. 17.

LAWRENCE

✓ LEWIS 16. 16.

LINCOLN

LOUDON

MCMINN

MCNAIRY

— MACON 11.

MADISON

— MARION 0.

— MARSHALL 1. 1. 1. 1. 2 3. 3.

✓ MAURY 27. 33

— MEIGS 2.

MONROE

— MONTGOMERY 14.

— MOORE 2. 3.

— MORGAN 8.

✓ OBION 31.

OVERTON

Esleeck
Clear Copy Onion Skin
MADE IN U.S.A.

LYNCHINGS IN TENNESSEE---4

Unknown: Walnut Log 8.8.

[redacted]

PERRY

PICKETT

POLK

PUTNAM

RHEA

ROANE

— ROBERTSON 1.12.

— RUTHERFORD 8.

✓ SCOTT 21. 33.33.

SEQUATCHIE

SEVIER

+ SHELBY 5.11.12.17.27.

— SMITH 1.

✓ STEWARD 26.

SULLIVAN

— SUMNER 11.

✓ TIPTON 37.

TROUSDALE

UNICOI

✓ UNION 18.

VAN BUREN

WARREN

WASHINGTON

— WAYNE 11.

— WEAKLEY 15.

WHITE

— WILLIAMSON 0.

✓ WILSON 16.

LYNCHINGS IN TEXAS----1

ANDERSON

ANGELINA

AUSTIN

BASTROP 5.
Baylor: 16
BELL 10.17.

BEXAR

✓ BOWIE 16.22.40

✓ BRAZORIA 3.3.9.14. (20.20.20.20) 20.22.

✓ BRAZOS 22.23.30.

BURLESON

CALDWELL 2.2.4.5.

CALHOUN
Cameron: 15.16.22
✓ CAMP 21.

— CASS 8.

CHAMBERS

— CHEROKEE 3.10.

— COLLIN 11.

COLLINGSWORTH

✓ COLORADO 2.4.4.35

— COOKE 1.

COTTLE

— DALLAS 10.

DELTA

✓ DENTON (22.22)

DEWITT
Eastland 29
— ELLIS 5.

— FALLS 6.9.

✓ FANNIN 30.

✓ FAYETTE 23.

LYNCHINGS IN TEXAS----2

✓ FORT BEND 18.

FRANKLIN

✓ FREESTONE 22. 22. 22. 22 22.

✓ GALVESTON 17.

GOLIAD 5. 7.

GONZALES

✓ GRAYSON 30.

+ GREGG 2. 8. 19. 21. 23. 23.

+ GRIMES 8. 14. 17. 22.

GUADALUPE

✓ HARDIN 21. 33.

+ HARRIS 8. 17. 19. 26. 26. 26 28.

+ HARRISON 3 9. 9. 9. 9. 11. 12. 12. 17.

HAYS

HENDERSON

Hidalgo- 19.

✓ HILL 15. 15. 15. 15. 15. 15. 22

— HOPKINS 5. 5. 15.

✓ HOUSTON 24. 32

HUNT

JACKSON

JASPER

— JEFFERSON 0. 3. 8. 10.

JOHNSON

Karnes: 1.

KAUFMAN 3.

KING

KINNEY

+ LAMAR 1. 1. 13. 20. 20.

— LAVACA 15.

LEE

— LEON 6. 7. 10.

LYNCHINGS IN TEXAS----3

LIBERTY

LIMESTONE 6. 18. 21.

McLENNAN 5. 9. 16. 21. 22.

MADISON

MARION 0. 0. 0. 14.

MATAGORDA 16.

MILAN 7. 11.

MITCHELL

MONTGOMERY 8. 8. 8. 22. 22. 27.

MORRIS 8.

MOTLEY

NACOGDOCHES

NAVARRO 1. 10. 16.

NEWTON 13. 22. 34

NUECES 23.

ORANGE 17.

PANOLA 3. 33.

POLK 6.

RAINS

RED RIVER 5. 11. 13. 16.
Reeves: 6.

REFUGIO

ROBERTSON 13. 14. 29. 29.

ROCKWELL 9.
Runnels: 21

RUSK 5. 5.

SABINE 8. 8. 8. 8. 8. 8. 8.

SAN AUGUSTINE

SAN JACINTO

SHELBY 20. 28.

SMITH 12.

LYNCHINGS IN TEXAS----4

TARRANT 20. 21.
Terrell: 16
TITUS

TRAVIS

✓TRINITY 26.

+ TYLER 1. 9. 18. 20.

+ UPSHUR 5. 16. 19.
Val Verde .7
VAN ZANDT

VICTORIA

+ WALKER 5. 18. 18. 18. 18. 18. 18.

— WALLER 2. 2. 2. 8. 16.

WASHINGTON

WHARTON

WICHITA

WILBARGER
Willacy: 26.
WILLIAMSON

+ WOOD 1.

Unknown: Harrison: 5 Negroes 1901
San Bonito & Edenburg - 6 Mexicans 1915

✓Runnels 21.

✓~~Willacy 26.~~
~~Eastland 29.~~

~~Brazoria 16.~~

✓~~Terrell 16.~~

Lynchings in Virginia

Counties:

Albermarle: 1910

Amherst: 1902

Brunswick: 1901, 1921

Culpeper: 1918

Fauquier: 1932

Greensville: 1900, 1900

Halifax: 1901, 1905

Henrico: 1912

Laudown: 1902

Nelson: 1900, 1904

Northumberland: 1917

Shenandoah: 1902

Southampton: 1900

Sussex: 1904, 1925

Tasewell: 1900

Warwick: 1902

Wise: 1920, 1927

Wythe: 1900, 1926

Esleeck
Carbon Copy Onion Skin
MADE IN U.S.A.

Lynching

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., BUSINESS MANAGER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O. CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
A. G. GASTON
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
RALPH MCGILL
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
THOMAS D. RUSSELL
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
W. J. TERRY
GEORGE E. WARREN
GEORGE C. WILKINSON
R. W. WOODRUFF

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

RECEIVED
DEC 29 1952
Southern Regional Council

December 31, 1952

Please do not release until December 31, 1952

Dear Sir:

Continuously since 1913, Tuskegee Institute has issued an annual report to the nation on the subject of lynching, thus spotlighting public attention on this national problem. For the period, 1913-1952, our records show 896 cases of lynching, broken down by decades as follows:

Lynchings By Decades 1913-1952

Years	Number	Percent
1913-1922	597	66.6
1923-1932	175	19.5
1933-1942	103	11.5
1943-1952	21	2.3
Total	896	100.0

Tuskegee Institute has no lynchings, as such, to report for 1952, according to criteria used in our Department of Records and Research. This is the first time such a report has been made in the 70 years of lynching record keeping, 1882-1952. The 5 years, 1948-1952, show a total of 8 cases.

One case of "Lynchings Prevented" was listed. From Columbia, South Carolina came the report that in March of this year the relatives of a 16-year-old Negro school girl had to talk fast to keep about 50 men from storming the county jail and lynching William Felder, about 28, who allegedly shot the young student to death, after a rape attempt. We find that even where officers of the law have been brave enough to thwart mob action, in some cases they prefer not to make this fact known. The term "lynching" is becoming more and more unpopular.

However, in this our 40th annual report, it appears important to the welfare of the country to state that while lynching as one form of extra-legal punishment seems to be steadily declining, other rather similar forms of violence and lawlessness have not declined. Indeed, there appears to be too many cases of unnecessary brutality and killings by officers of the law of persons suspected or guilty of crimes; and a resurgence of the mob spirit as expressed in beatings, floggings, incendiarism, bombing and the like.

In a report as brief as this, it is not possible to present data on all of these patterns of violence, but we think it pertinent to focus attention upon at least one of them, the use of the bomb.

BOMBINGS AND ATTEMPTED BOMBINGS. During the past few years, these activities have been directed against homes, schools, religious and other community institutions. As they relate to Negroes, bombing of homes and other property has taken place mainly where members of the race have moved or attempted to move into what were considered white neighborhoods. In a few cases, bombing has occurred where Negro leaders were thought to be too active in improving the status of their people.

In regard to religion, Jewish religious and welfare institutions and at least one Catholic church have been the targets. Homes and property of other whites, who in one way or another had incurred the enmity of the bombers, have not been exempt from blasts.

The potential for destruction of life and property by this form of violence is incalculable. To-date, two lives have been snuffed out--that of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Moore of Mims, Florida on December 25, 1951. Occupants of other bombed homes have been more fortunate and no fatalities have been reported from houses of religious worship. Only chance has kept human casualties low, although property destruction has been high.

Bombing is confined to no section of the country. Recently, it has become more prevalent in the South. While the data presented below are not intended to be a complete coverage of all cases of bombing (those connected with strikes and other labor disputes are not included here) they are indicative of the big task of education in human relations still to be accomplished in our democracy.

For the 4 years, 1949-1952, at least 68 instances of bombing or attempted bombing were recorded, connected in the main with racial and religious tensions: 49 of these were directed against Negroes; 10 against whites and public institutions; at least 8 against Jewish synagogues, schools and community centers and 1 against a Catholic church.

Bombings have happened in the following places: ALABAMA--Birmingham, Crossville, Cottonwood, Dothan, Phenix City; CALIFORNIA--Los Angeles; FLORIDA--Bartow, Jacksonville, Orlando, Miami, Mims; GEORGIA--Atlanta, Bainbridge, Rome; LOUISIANA--New Orleans; MISSOURI--Kansas City; ILLINOIS--Cairo, Chicago; OHIO--Warren; NORTH CAROLINA--Charlotte, Oxford; PENNSYLVANIA--Philadelphia; TENNESSEE--Chattanooga, Nashville; TEXAS--Dallas; VIRGINIA--Ashland, Norfolk.

This makes a total of 13 states and 27 cities and towns.

Very truly yours,

W. W. Patterson

President

g

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., BUSINESS MANAGER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O'CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
FORREST G. BRIDGES
EDMUND E. DAY
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
RALPH MCGILL
A. R. MEADOWS
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
GEORGE E. WARREN
GEORGE C. WILKINSON
J. R. WINGFIELD

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

RECEIVED
DEC 28 1950

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

December 31, 1950

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynching for the year 1950.

NUMBER OF LYNCHINGS. According to records compiled in the Department of Records and Research, Tuskegee Institute, I find that 2 persons were lynched during this year. Recorded lynchings for the past 5 years were:

1950.....2
1949.....3
1948.....2
1947.....1
1946..... ..6

Total.....14

One of the victims was Charlie Hurst, white, 39-year-old rolling store operator of Pell City, St. Clair County, Alabama. He was mortally wounded on February 22 in his front yard by a group of unmasked men. They had come to his home at bedtime and tried to force him into their car. His 19-year-old son, who came to his father's assistance, was also wounded. Hurst had previously told his son that "it looks like the Kluxers are after me." There were no charges against the victim. It seems that the mob got the "wrong man."

The other victim was Jack Walker, alias Jack Kendall, also known as Clinton Walker, a 40-year-old Negro laborer of near Gay Meriwether County, Georgia. His body was found on August 18 in a creek near the Flint River by a group of fishermen. He had been shot to death by three men for whom he worked. Walker is said to have known too much about illegal whiskey traffic.

(See next page)

LEGAL PUNISHMENT FOR LYNCHING. During the week of March 16, Greenville County, South Carolina paid to the estate of Willie Earle, lynched in that county in 1947, the minimum sum of $2,000 as compensation under a South Carolina law providing for such payment.

On April 4, in the Calhoun County, Mississippi, Circuit Court, James Moore, age 20, white, was found not guilty in the slaying of Malcolm Wright, Negro, near Houston, Chickasaw County, Mississippi on July 2, 1949. Moore claimed self-defense. Wright was a well respected tenant farmer in that area.

On June 28, in the St. Clair County, Alabama Circuit Court, Charlie Carlisle, Jr., 24 years old, white, was sentenced to five years in prison for his part in the slaying of Charlie Hurst of Pell City, Alabama on February 22, 1950. He was later released on a $3,000 appeal bond. Three other men indicted for the same crime were released on a $5,000 bond. Another person was tried and cleared.

On September 7, in the Meriwether County, Georgia Supreme Court, Warner Hannah and Jack Dunn drew life sentences and Herbert Dunn was given three to five years in prison for the slaying of Jack Walker, alias Jack Kendall, also known as Clinton Walker, Negro, of near Gay, Meriwether County, Georgia on August 18, 1950. The three men, all white, had entered pleas of guilty.

On November 3, John Wallace, white, was electrocuted for the slaying of William (alias Wilson) Turner, a 26-year-old white tenant farmer of Meriwether County, Georgia in 1948. Three other men are serving life sentences for their part in the crime.

LYNCHINGS PREVENTED. Lynchings were prevented in at least 7 instances--6 in the South and 1 in the North. Of the persons saved from mobs, 3 were white and 4 were Negroes.

Very truly yours,

F. D. Patterson

President

PLEASE DO NOT RELEASE UNTIL
DECEMBER 31, 1950

Lynching

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., BUSINESS MANAGER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O. CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
HENRY S. BOWERS
A. G. GASTON
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
RALPH MCGILL
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
THOMAS D. RUSSELL
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
W. J. TERRY
GEORGE C. WALLACE
GEORGE E. WARREN
GEORGE C. WILKINSON
R. W. WOODRUFF

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

December 31, 1951

Please do not release
until December 31, 1951

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information on lynching for the year 1951.

NUMBER OF LYNCHINGS. According to records compiled in the Department of Records and Research, Tuskegee Institute, I find that one lynching was recorded for the year. Lynchings for the past five years follow:

1951	1
1950	2
1949	3
1948	2
1947	1
Total	9

The 1951 victim was Melvin Womack, 26-year-old Negro of Winter Garden, Orange County, Florida. He died on March 31 in an Orlando hospital of wounds received after being forced by masked men from his home. The day following his seizure, he was found in an orange grove by an officer of the law. Taken to the hospital, he died two days later. Reports state he did not know his assailants or why he had been kidnapped. It is thought the night riders lynched the wrong man.

THE GROVELAND, FLORIDA CASE. Though technically not considered a lynching, this release feels called upon to direct attention to the November 6 slaying of Samuel Shepherd and the critical wounding of Walter Lee Irvin, Negroes, by an officer of the law near Umatilla, Florida. Handcuffed together, they were being removed from the Raiford State Prison to Tavares, Florida for a new trial that had been granted them by the United States Supreme Court.

The two victims, accused with two others in July, 1949 of raping a 17-year-old white girl, had been sentenced to death. The third, a 16-year-old boy, was given life imprisonment. The fourth youth was shot to death shortly after the alleged crime by a posse.

Reversing the decision of the State court, the United States Supreme Court ordered a new trial on the basis that "this trial took place under conditions and was accompanied by events which would deny defendants a fair trial before any kind of jury."

The officer of the law is reported to have said the "prisoners 'jumped'him' when he stopped to repair a flat tire" on a lonely road. The surviving victim reported that both he and the dead prisoner were shot without provocation. The sheriff concerned was absolved from all blame by a Coroner's jury. This is a glaring instance where an officer of the law seems unnecessarily to have killed a prisoner and wounded another with whose care he was entrusted.

LYNCHINGS PREVENTED. Lynchings were prevented in at least three instances: On June 21, near Brundidge, Alabama, Forrest Jones, 35-year-old Negro farmer, saved himself from a mob by fleeing. A rumor had been spread that he had "kidnapped a white woman." The truth of the matter was he had been given a ride to town by the young farm mother, who, on the way, had an automobile accident in which her baby was injured. Out of gratitude for the ride, Jones had carried the bleeding baby to a doctor's office. Upon arriving home, he found the mob awaiting him. As he fled, he was shot in the hand. Shortly thereafter, the sheriff took Jones into custody and the mother verified Jones' story of what had actually happened.

On September 2, at Colonial Beach, Virginia, a town policeman, Charles White and a special officer were saved by other officers of the law from a mob approximating 500 persons who became incensed over the alleged mistreatment of a prisoner. The officer had been called to quell a disturbance at a restaurant.

On November 22, near Washington, North Carolina, Lafayette Miller, 21-year-old Negro on parole, was removed from the jail at Greenville to an eastern North Carolina prison because "he probably would have been lynched." He was charged with killing a young white farmer and abducting the victim's wife in the trunk of the stolen automobile.

SIGNIFICANT LEGISLATION PROPOSED. Two states in 1951 proposed anti-lynching bills of significance. In South Carolina, a House of Representatives majority passed an anti-lynching bill, after a decisive second reading, on a 51-34 vote. The bill would give punishment of death for "first degree" lynching; that is, where mob action resulted in the victim's death. Recommendation of mercy by a jury would mean 5 to 40 years imprisonment. The bill also takes cognizance of non-fatal mob action or "second degree" lynching. Punishment under this charge would result in imprisonment from 3 to 20 years. Thus intention to lynch would be penalized.

The Florida Legislature also proposed an anti-lynching bill somewhat similar to the South Carolina proposal, also giving death as the maximum punishment for "first degree lynching," each participant in the lynching being equally guilty. Minimum penalty for the crime would be 5 years' imprisonment. "Second degree lynching" could be punished by a maximum of 10 years imprisonment.

Very truly yours,

H. W. Matthews

PRESIDENT

Lynching

F. D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT

L. H. FOSTER, JR., BUSINESS MANAGER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O. CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
WINTHROP W. ALDRICH
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
A. G. GASTON
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
RALPH MCGILL
F. D. PATTERSON
JOHN H. PINSON
WILLIAM ROSENWALD
THOMAS D. RUSSELL
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
W. J. TERRY
GEORGE E. WARREN
GEORGE C. WILKINSON
R. W. WOODRUFF

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

RECEIVED
DEC 29 1952
Southern Regional Council

December 31, 1952

Please do not release until December 31, 1952

Dear Sir:

Continuously since 1913, Tuskegee Institute has issued an annual report to the nation on the subject of lynching, thus spotlighting public attention on this national problem. For the period, 1913-1952, our records show 896 cases of lynching, broken down by decades as follows:

Lynchings By Decades 1913-1952

Years	Number	Percent
1913-1922	597	66.6
1923-1932	175	19.5
1933-1942	103	11.5
1943-1952	21	2.3
Total	896	100.0

Tuskegee Institute has no lynchings, as such, to report for 1952, according to criteria used in our Department of Records and Research. This is the first time such a report has been made in the 70 years of lynching record keeping, 1882-1952. The 5 years, 1948-1952, show a total of 8 cases.

One case of "Lynchings Prevented" was listed. From Columbia, South Carolina came the report that in March of this year the relatives of a 16-year-old Negro school girl had to talk fast to keep about 50 men from storming the county jail and lynching William Felder, about 28, who allegedly shot the young student to death, after a rape attempt. We find that even where officers of the law have been brave enough to thwart mob action, in some cases they prefer not to make this fact known. The term "lynching" is becoming more and more unpopular.

However, in this our 40th annual report, it appears important to the welfare of the country to state that while lynching as one form of extra-legal punishment seems to be steadily declining, other rather similar forms of violence and lawlessness have not declined. Indeed, there appears to be too many cases of unnecessary brutality and killings by officers of the law of persons suspected or guilty of crimes; and a resurgence of the mob spirit as expressed in beatings, floggings, incendiarism, bombing and the like.

In a report as brief as this, it is not possible to present data on all of these patterns of violence, but we think it pertinent to focus attention upon at least one of them, the use of the bomb.

BOMBINGS AND ATTEMPTED BOMBINGS. During the past few years, these activities have been directed against homes, schools, religious and other community institutions. As they relate to Negroes, bombing of homes and other property has taken place mainly where members of the race have moved or attempted to move into what were considered white neighborhoods. In a few cases, bombing has occurred where Negro leaders were thought to be too active in improving the status of their people.

In regard to religion, Jewish religious and welfare institutions and at least one Catholic church have been the targets. Homes and property of other whites, who in one way or another had incurred the enmity of the bombers, have not been exempt from blasts.

The potential for destruction of life and property by this form of violence is incalculable. To-date, two lives have been snuffed out--that of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Moore of Mims, Florida on December 25, 1951. Occupants of other bombed homes have been more fortunate and no fatalities have been reported from houses of religious worship. Only chance has kept human casualties low, although property destruction has been high.

Bombing is confined to no section of the country. Recently, it has become more prevalent in the South. While the data presented below are not intended to be a complete coverage of all cases of bombing (those connected with strikes and other labor disputes are not included here) they are indicative of the big task of education in human relations still to be accomplished in our democracy.

For the 4 years, 1949-1952, at least 68 instances of bombing or attempted bombing were recorded, connected in the main with racial and religious tensions: 49 of these were directed against Negroes; 10 against whites and public institutions; at least 8 against Jewish synagogues, schools and community centers and 1 against a Catholic church.

Bombings have happened in the following places: ALABAMA--Birmingham, Crossville, Cottonwood, Dothan, Phenix City; CALIFORNIA--Los Angeles; FLORIDA--Bartow, Jacksonville, Orlando, Miami, Mims; GEORGIA--Atlanta, Bainbridge, Rome; LOUISIANA--New Orleans; MISSOURI--Kansas City; ILLINOIS--Cairo, Chicago; OHIO--Warren; NORTH CAROLINA--Charlotte, Oxford; PENNSYLVANIA--Philadelphia; TENNESSEE--Chattanooga, Nashville; TEXAS--Dallas; VIRGINIA--Ashland, Norfolk.

This makes a total of 13 states and 27 cities and towns.

Very truly yours,

W. W. Patterson

President

g

L. H. FOSTER, PRESIDENT

H. K. LOGAN, BUSINESS MANAGER

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BASIL O'CONNOR, CHAIRMAN
WILLIAM JAY SCHIEFFELIN, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS
A. A. ALEXANDER
DANIEL W. ANDREWS
CLAUDE A. BARNETT
MRS. FRANCES P. BOLTON
L. H. FOSTER
A. G. GASTON
TRYGVE GUNDERSEN
JESSE H. JONES
RALPH MCGILL
JOHN H. PINSON

Please Do Not Release Until
December 31, 1953

Tuskegee Institute

FOUNDED BY BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, 1881

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

RECEIVED
DEC 28
Southern Regional Council

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

WILLIAM ROSENWALD
THOMAS D. RUSSELL
HENRY NEILL SEGREST
SHERMAN J. SEXTON
ALEXANDER B. SIEGEL
FRANK S. TENNILLE
W. J. TERRY
GEORGE E. WARREN
A. V. WIEBEL
R. W. WOODRUFF

F. D. PATTERSON
PRESIDENT EMERITUS

① HCP ✓
② AH ✓
③ KSV
④ D.T.

December 31, 1953

Dear Sir:

According to criteria used in the Department of Records and Research, Tuskegee Institute, for the second consecutive year, has no lynchings to report. The 5 years, 1949-1953, show a total of 6 lynchings.

Lynchings Prevented. However, in at least 3 instances lynchings were prevented. Reports on these follow:

On January 17, near Mobile, Alabama, Henry Lee Brown, 17 year old Negro, escaped from Sheriff's deputies while being taken to Kilby Prison at Montgomery. Convinced that he was about to be lynched when his handcuffs were removed and the deputies stopped their cars, the prisoner jumped from the car in which he rode and ran into the swamps, while shots were fired at him. He later gave himself up, was tried and acquitted of the charge of slaying a white woman.

In March, near Willcox, Arizona, Arthur Thomas, 29 year old Negro migrant cotton worker, accused of murdering a white woman storekeeper, was saved from lynching by an officer of the law.

On May 24, at New York City, Edward Cartagena, 42 year old Puerto Rican, was rescued from a mob by two umpires of a baseball game and the mounted police. Before several hundred persons watching the game in Central Park, Cartagena stabbed his estranged common-law wife to death. Players and spectators tried to kill him.

New Index to Race Relations to be Issued. Lynching as traditionally defined and as a barometer for measuring the status of race relations in the United States, particularly the South, seems no longer to be a valid index to such relationships. This is due to significant changes in the status of the Negro and to the development of other extra-legal means of control, such as bombings, incendiarism, threats and intimidation, etc.

We believe that a new standard for measuring race relations is needed. This can and should be as objective and as factual as were the lynching reports. This standard, we think, can best be established in such areas as employment and other economic conditions; in political participation; in education; in law and legislation; in health and perhaps in other fields.

We propose then, in future annual releases, to issue a statement with information as significant for the present times as was the Annual Lynching Letter in the past.

The Department of Records and Research, which has recorded lynchings for the last forty-one years, will continue to do so and will furnish such information to those who may request it.

Very truly yours,

L. H. Foster

L. H. Foster
President

g

SOME FACTS ABOUT LYNCHING

How Many Since 1889?

Fairly reliable lynching statistics have been available since 1889. The figures on the number of persons lynched are as follows, 1889-1946 inclusive:

Negroes	3060
Whites	799
Total	3859

Lynching Has Declined

In the fifty-year period, 1889-1938, the nimber of Negroes lynched was 3033, or an average of 61 per year. The number of Whites lynched was 797, or an average of 16 per year. In the past eight years, 1939-1946 inclusive, 27 Negroes and 2 Whites have been lynched.

But It Is Still Here

During the War lynching almost disappeared. In 1943 there were 3 lynchings; in 1944 only 2; in 1945 only 1. But in 1946 there were 6. All the victims were Negroes, and four of them were slain in the Walton County, Georgia, atrocity of July 25. Lynchers have changed their tactics. They operate quietly and, usually, in small groups. It is becoming harder and harder to define "lynching".

Accusations Against Victims

Contrary to popular notions, less than one-fourth of the persons lynched since 1889 were accused of assaults on women. The following figures on accusation will be of interest:

Rape and Attempted Rape	24%
Murder	37%
All others	39%

Keep Informed

For further information, read such books as The Tragedy of Lynching, by Arthur Raper, and the pamphlets distributed by The Southern Regional Council. Keep up with current efforts to strengthen state and federal laws to control lynching, and let your elected representatives know where you stand.

Published by

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.,
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.,
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Sherman, Texas - May 9, 1930 -

Body burned after death in negro section of town.

5050

Honey Grove, Texas - May 18, 1930 -

Body burned after death in front of negro church.

Jasper, Florida - June 6, 1932 -

Body burned after death by shooting

Bainbridge, Georgia - 1937

Body burned after death

Crisp County, Georgia - 1938

Body saturated with gasoline and burned while still alive but unconscious

Ruston, Louisiana - 1938

Body burned after death

Mississippi - 1938

Body burned after death

Maryville, Missouri - 1931
Chained to roof of schoolhouse alive; schoolhouse burned

Lucas - 1933
Burned after death

Virginia - 1932
Burned after death

Lynching

SECURITY OF THE PERSON IN THE SOUTH

Summary: With the decline of lynching in the South, other forms of extra-legal violence have come to the fore. Mob violence in its traditional aspects has largely been supplanted by acts of murder, brutality and terrorism committed by small groups conspiring secretly, or in some cases, by law enforcement officers themselves. Southern public opinion, however, is showing itself less and less willing to tolerate, much less condone, such acts of violence, whether committed under cover of law or not. The accute need is for modern police systems which will reflect these improved public attitudes in all their operations.

(1) Lynching: The annual report of the Department of Records and Research at Tuskegee Institute listed only one lynching for 1951. There were two in 1950, three in 1949 and two in 1948. In comparison, Tuskegee recorded 64 lynchings in 1921, 61 in 1920 and 83 in 1919.

Lynchings have not only decreased drastically in number in the last thirty years; the pattern of lynching has undergone a transformation. The traditional lynch mob, publicly hunting and torturing its victims, has been replaced by a smaller group that plans and kills quietly. With the technical definition of lynching requiring three or more participants, it becomes increasingly hard to distinguish between bonafide lynchings and "just murders."

Down through the years the number of lynchings per years came to be used as an index of the status of racial tensions. This is no longer the case. With public opinion frowning on old-fashioned lynching violence and law officers taking action against lynching participants, the number of lynchings has declined to the point of near disappearance. But the number of floggings, shootings in the "course of arrest," police brutality and particularly, bombings, has increased tremendously. The lawlessness of the lynch mob has been diverted to new forms of interracial violence.

(2) Bomb Violence: Since the close of World War II the bomb and the dynamite stick have come to the forefront as instruments of violence. Records of the Southern Office of the Anti-Defamation League--admittedly incomplete--show that 59 bombings have occurred in just six Southern states since Jan., 1950. Many others took place between 1946 and 1950. Yet to date there is no record that any of the terrorists setting off these blasts have been convicted, and only in a few instances have the guilty persons been apprehended.

The great majority of these bombings have been concentrated in Southern cities whe e Negro housing is still pitifully inadequate and Negro families are attempting to buy and build in neighborhoods formerly offupied by whites. Dallas, for example, has had 13 such bombings; Birmingham, 10; Atlanta and Chatanooga several each. Left-over white housing, vacated as more and more families push out toward the suberbs, is generally the only housing available to the urban Negro. But the first sign of Negro occupancy in "white" neighborhoods often results in a period of suspicion and tension, ultimately climaxed by bombing of the Negro's new home.

Recognizing the extent to which the housing shortage in the South is germane to the problem of bomb violence, a conference of Southern human relations agencies, called together by the Southern Regional Council this spring, urged civic-minded individuals and groups to join in the following efforts: (1) Organize local fact-finding committees to survey housing needs; (2) Give minority groups representation on planning bodies; (3) Give support to efforts to develop expansion areas for those inadequately housed; (4) Foster recognition of the fact that Negroes can pay decent prices for decent housing and that the presence of Negro residents does not in itself destroy "property" values; (5) Urge public officials to provide for public housing and slum clearance; (6) Explore special federal and private credit devices to enable private housing to expand; and (7) Keep informed on municipal housing standards. Also concerned with the present lethargy of law enforcement agencies in bombing cases, the group called for insistence on prompt and impartial police handling of housing tensions.

While most of the Southern bombings have been related to housing pressures, some can be traced to other tensions. Notable exceptions include the Mims, Fla. bombing which resulted in the death of Harry T. Moore and his wife; the series of Miami bombings of synagogues; and the blasting of a Negro polling station in Jacksonville, Fla. in May of this year.

(3) Police Brutality: During the past year hardly any Southern state has been free of incidents involving alleged police brutality. In August a federal court in Macon, Ga. indicted a sheriff, his deputy and a state highway patrolman on charges of jailing and beating a Negro man and woman in violation of their civil rights. About the same time a Roanoke, Va. lawyer filed suit against four members of the Lynchburg police department, charging false arrest, unlawful imprisonment, assault and battery of a 19-year-old Lynchburg youth. Not long after, a 25-man deputized posse killed an excaped Negro prisoner suspected of rape near Chiply, Fla. Nor have Southerners concerned with justice forgotten the shooting of the two suspects in the Groveland, Fla. rape case by Sheriff McCall last November.

Police violence of any sort, but expecially police violence against Negroes is most difficult to prove. The police officer's word usually carries more weight in a courtroom than that of the plain citizen, and witnesses are reluctant to testify against policemen. There are, of course, situations when police officers must use force to protect themselves and others.

The special difficulties of curbing police violence against Negroes, plus the general indifference of the white community, have produced a rather tolerant attitude toward this form of legalized crime. Eventually the tolerance may backfire. White people in Birmingham, Ala., for example, became victims of an outburst of police brutality toward the end of 1951. Negroes in Birmingham had been protesting police violence since 1948--indeed, Emory O. Jackson, editor of the Birmingham World, reported that 26 Negroes were killed by city police between 1948 and 1951--but not a singlempoliceman had been indicted for unjustifiable homicide.

Improved police training is an obvious need in securing individual safety for the Southern Negro. Training designed to professionalize police forces, to develop in the policeman an attitude of impartiality of the law above personal prejudice, if widespread, would act as a preventative measure for many of the violences against the person being committed at present.

A major step toward modern police training for the South has already been taken. In 1951 the Southern Police Institute of Louisville, Ky. was organized with the aim of raising professional police standards in the region. Serving the states of Arkansas, Alabama, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia, the Institute offers three 12-week courses per year. Curriculum, as described in an Institute prospectus, includes "a broad course covering not only essentials of police science but also embracing law, administration and sociology." There is a special unit entitled "Socio-legal Problems of the Southern Region" which emphasizes the background of racial tensions and the role of the police in dealing with tensions.

There are also indications that more Southern police departments will provide training in human relati ns as a part of their regular personnel instruction. This year, for instance, the New Orleans police department prepared a handbook for their human relations training program and recently mailed it to police chiefs throughout the South.

A second important influence in the improvement of police practice is the employment of Negro policemen and policeowmen. Regarded as a daring experimant less than 10 years ago, the employment of Negro police is now generally accepted as a practical common sense aid to law enforcement. Latest tabulations show that a total of 571 Negro police are now on forces in 96 Southern cities and 6 counties. In the past two years "Negroes have begun to serve as deputy sheriffs, a further indication of the acceptance and effectiveness of Negro police.

Police chiefs attending the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs in Miami last November were unanimous in their praise of Negro police. Miami Chief Walter Headley spoke for many Southern police departments when he declared, "In the seven years since the first of our Negro officers were sworn in crimes of violence in our Negro communities have been reduced about 50%."

(4) Klan Violence: At the close of World War II the South experienced a revival of the Ku Klux Klan somewhat similar to the revival following the first world war. This time, however, the period of growth and enthusiasm for the Klan was short-lived, with public sentiment turning against the Klan within a couple of years.

The present Klan is broken up into three splinter groups in Georgia, Florida and South Carolina. Most of the Klan activity outside the Carolinas has been confined to public demonstrations and cross-burnings, with scattered and apparently uncoordinated acts of brutality and terrorism.

The fate of the South Carolina Ku Klux and its leader Tom Hamilton made headlines recently. Most determined of all Klan figures, Hamilton vowed he would build such a powerful organization that law forces would not dare touch him. Successful night-flogging raids in Horry County, S. C., particularly near the Myrtle Beach area in 1949 and 1950, encouraged Hamilton to move across the state line and set up a klavern at Fair Bluff, N. C. He also attempted to organize a Klan unit in Charlotte but met with stiff opposition from local authorities, quick passage of an anti-Klan ordinance and general public indignation.

Hamilton initiated a reign of terror and fear in Columbus County, N. C. on the night of Jan. 18, 1951 with the flogging of a Mrs. Evergreen Flowers, who he said was "running around with white men." Later victims were whites, beaten for supposed offenses ranging from excessive drink to non-payment of debts.

In Feb., 1952 the FBI moved in and, using the Lindbergh kidnapping act, started large-scale prosecution. By August Hamilton and 62 of his followers were sentenced to jail terms ranging upward to six years or payment of fines totaling $16,300. As ring-leader, Hamilton got a jail sentence with a maximum penalty of four years. Sentences covered 158 indictments for crimes of violence against citizens of Columbus County.

Prior to the FBI action Sheriff C. E. Stasser of Horry County, S. C. waged a continuous and unsuccessful battle against the South Carolina Association of Klans.

Southern public opinion has of late been strongly opposed to the Klan and its principles. Proof of this is found in the passage of anti-Klan and anti-mask laws in four Southern states and 52 Southern cities. The new state laws enacted by Alabama, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina have "teeth," as do the anti-Klan laws put on the statute books in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas during the surge of Ku Kluxism in the 1920's. Tennessee still has a weak anti-Klan measure dating back to Reconstruction days and Arkansas, a weak law passed in 1909. Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia are thus the only Southern states without specific legal devices for stamping out the Klan. Newspapers, church groups and civic organizations have been outspoken against the hooded order and were active in exerting pressure for anti-Klan legislation.

Despite its organizational weakness and loss of prestige, the Klan nevertheless remains influential as a symbol of lawlessness. As such it continues to inspire fear in the hearts of Negroes living within its reach and to bolster violence-minded individuals to take the law into their own hands.

(5) Race and Law Enforcement: The problem of security of the person in the South is therefore largely a problem of acheiving impartial law enforcement, and at the same time strengthening the trend of public sentiment to value individual safety above racial prejudice.

The Southern Regional Council is now in the midst of a southwide effort to get at the core of the problem. In February the Council published a booklet "Race and Law Enforcement: A Guide to Modern Police Practice," designed to familiarize the citizen with modern police standards and with techniques for securing improved police practice in his own community. Copies were distributed to SRC membership and through other human relations agencies in the South with a twofold purpose in mind: to educate public opinion to the need for improved police practice; and to initiate action programs on the local level.

Currently the Fellowship of the Concerned--an organization of Southern churchwomen headed by Mrs. M. E. Tilly--is in the process of getting churchwomen in each of the Southern counties to visit their sheriff, discuss the police standards outlined in "Race and Law Enforcement" and give the sheriff a copy of the booklet. The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church is cooperating with SRC and the Fellowship of the Concerned in this project, and to date 128 sheriffs have been interviewed.

Bibliography

"Blighted Housing and Bomb Violence," New South, June-July, 1952

"Law Gains Ground: Lynching, 1950," New South, Dec.-Jan., 1950-1951

"Race and Law Enforcement: A Guide to Modern Police Practice," Southern Regional Council, Feb., 1952

"Round-up of Bomb Violence," New South, Jan., 1952

Swertfeger, Jack, "Anti-Mask and Anti-Klan Laws," Journal of Public Law, Vol. 1, No. 1 (Spring, 1952). Reprints available from Emory University Law School, Emory University, Ga.

Tilly, Mrs. M. E., "Know Your Courts as You Know Your Schools," World Outlook, Oct., 1952

"Vital

. . . to the stability of a democratic society is the right of each individual to physical freedom, to security against illegal violence, and to fair, orderly legal process."

(President's Committee on Civil Rights, October, 1947)

* * *

The Lynching Situation in the U. S.
Some Churches and Editors Condemn It.
What You Can Do To Help Abolish It.

Lynchings

Lynching and Mob Violence Persist in the United States

At the same time that the Nation celebrated Brotherhood Week, February, 1947, a mob of 35 men dragged Willie Earle, 25, Negro, from the Pickens County Jail, Greenville, South Carolina, and lynched him. In a court trial which followed later in the year, the confessed lynchers were acquitted by an all-white jury.

Mobs sprung up in other sections: At Jackson, North Carolina, a Negro youth outran a shooting posse; In Clinton, North Carolina and Columbia, South Carolina, Negro youths in both places, accused of rape, were removed to the penitentiary for safekeeping from mobs. Mayor Hugh Vann of Hurtsboro, Alabama, out-talked a mob there on June 10, saving the prospective Negro victim's life when the rope was already in place. The deputy sheriff at the county jail at Carrollton, Georgia, during July, held off 300 members of a mob until reinforcements arrived and rescued a Negro murder suspect. A mob of twenty tried to lynch a Negro the night of October 26, in Aberdeen, Mississippi, and left him wounded, apparently thinking he was dead. Police Chief said the Negro apparently was the "wrong man."

Eight Negro convicts were shot to death on July 11 at the Glynn County prison camp near Brunswick, Georgia. In a Federal court indictment the warden and four guards at the camp were charged with depriving the convicts of their life without due process of law; a special committee of the State Legislature reported to the Governor that the slaying of the men was necessary to end a mutiny and prevent a mass escape. At the trial, November 4, the jury which deliberated only 13 minutes acquitted the warden and four guards.

During August, 1947, six young white college students, working on a credit union project in Columbia, N. C. and living in a Negro home there, were ordered to leave town, by a group of 200 or more white men and women. A special police detail was assigned to a northwest Atlanta (Ga.) section on October 23, 1947, after officers reported white men had set fire to a house in a white residential area, into which a Negro family had just moved.

* * *

According to figures from the records of Tuskegee Institute (Alabama), there were at least 31 instances in which lynchings were prevented during 1947: 24 by officers of the law; 4 by persons who saved themselves from mobs; 2 by persons not officers of the law; and 1 instance in which the victim, left as dead by the mob, survived bullet wounds. 44 persons were under indictment during 1947 as participants in lynchings or attempted lynchings; and 44 were freed.

The Church Should Mould Public Opinion Against Lynching and Mob Violence

The Church believes that God revealed by Jesus Christ is the Father of all races; that the practice of justice must apply to all men regardless of race; that the dignity and worth of human personality should be respected regardless of race; that lynching and mob violence contradict and destroy the operation of these principles in society.

What Have Some Churches Said Against Lynching and Mob Violence?

The North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Church:

"Resolved, That we appeal to our Methodist people and to all citizens to discourage by every possible means the injection of race or class prejudice into political campaigns. . . .

"It is further patent to all that prejudice and race hatred are a constant threat to law and order and the fruitful source of acts of violence and the detestable crime of lynching. . . ."

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the North Georgia Conference, The Methodist Church, Atlanta, Ga., March 27, 1947:

"We urge and will continue to expect full justice to be given in all our courts to all citizens regardless of station in life, creed or color, and we urge all Methodist women to lift their voices both in support of good government and law enforcement and in protest against any acts of unfairness or brutality on the part of any officer of the law and against injustice wherever found. . . ."

The North Carolina State Baptist Convention meeting at Asheville, N. C., November, 1946:

"Faced with the grim reality of . . . lynchings and the demonstrated hopeless inadequacy of laws to cope justly with this barbaric disgrace, we advocate the immediate passage by the Congress of the United States of a Federal Anti-Lynching law."

The General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, Tennessee, June, 1947:

"We deplore and heartily condemn lynchings."

Annual Meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention, St. Louis, Missouri, May 7-11, 1947, adopted an interracial charter. Under Principles of Conduct in the charter the Convention said:

"We shall be willing for the Negro to enjoy the rights granted to him under the Constitution of the United States including the right . . . to receive justice in the courts, to be free from mob violence. . . ."

The Mecklenburg (N. C.) Baptist Interracial Commission, May 31, 1947:

"Therefore, be it Resolved: . . .

"That we lament the fact that certain enraged groups have taken upon themselves the prerogatives of law enforcement which rightfully should be executed by the state; . . . That we take cognizance of the fact that if such promiscuous miscarriage of justice is allowed to prevail in the South where racial tension is increasingly ominous, . . . the future relationship between the two races will be jeopardized and the progress of mutual understanding and goodwill will be impeded."

The Saxon Baptist Church, Spartanburg, S. C., (June 1, 1947) after the acquittal of the 28 lynchers at Greenville, S. C.:

"Resolved: 1) That we go on record as advocating a Federal anti-lynch law as an aid in protecting all citizens and as an instrument for meting out proper punishment to all who undertake to be a law unto themselves; 2) That we give the press a copy of this resolution and that a copy of it be sent to our Congressmen and our Senators with a request that they use their influence to have enacted a Federal anti-lynch bill."

The Greenville (S. C.) Christian Ministers Association, March 1947:

"Resolved: that the Greenville Christian Ministers' Association does hereby go on record as deploring the lawlessness exhibited in the recent lynching murder of Willie Earle. We desire to state our emphatic disapproval of this act of infamy as being contrary not only to the principles of Christianity but to the American standards of fairness and justice for all."

The Virginia Council of Churches (June 20, 1947):

"New lynching outbreaks concern the church . . . In the light of its Christian convictions and its desire to abolish lynching, The Virginia Council of Churches urges its constituent churches to take the following action to:

Educate the people of their community against lynching.

Develop an enlightened opinion by getting other organizations to take similar action.

Work for legislation that will secure all persons equal protection under the law.

Request their ministers to set forth the evils of lynching.

Urge church members to pray and act for its elimination.

Ask church members to write letters to daily newspapers denouncing the crime."

The Executive Committee of The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America:

Voted March 16, 1948, that the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches authorize the Department of Race Relations to appear before any hearings in Congress on the anti-lynching bill on the basis of the resolution adopted March 23, 1934, in which the Executive Committee declared that it

"believes that national legislation is a moral necessity to bring the Federal Government into prompt and effective cooperation with the state and local authorities in the prevention of lynching and the prosecution of lynchers."

The action at the March 16, 1948 meeting was adopted by a vote of 28 to 8. The representatives of the Presbyterian Church in the United States asked to be recorded as dissenting from the advocacy of Federal legislation. This action was forwarded in letters to the Chairmen of the House and Senate Judiciary Committees, respectively, for record.

Recognizing the reduction in the number of actual lynchings and the progress made in centering the attention of the Nation on Civil Rights, the Executive Committee at this meeting also voted unanimously that "While there is difference of opinion among us as to the best method of eliminating lynching, we are one in our resolve to eliminate it."

Organization Needed.

Information from Greenville, South Carolina, indicates that while many church people deplored both the lynching and the subsequent acquittal of the twenty-eight lynchers they were powerless to prevent either because the churches were not organized for action against lynching and mob violence.

Is Not The Lack of Action a Sin of Omission?

Public Opinion Registered Against Lynching.

The Richmond (Va.) Times Dispatch, May 1947:

"Mobs which seek to take the law into their own hands are the forerunners of anarchy. Whenever a mob sets itself up as judge, jury and executioner, it undermines the foundation of the state."

Events and Trends in Race Relations, (Race Relations Institute, Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.) June 1947:

"The month of May (1947) was marked by an unprecedented number of editorials, with almost one half of a total of 556 clippings dealing with the Greenville, South Carolina, lynching trial and the attempted lynching at Jackson, N. C. Geographical classification of these clippings concerned with the lynchings showed that out of 257 editorials 143 were from Southeastern states; 81 from the Northeast; 13 from the Middle West; 11 from the Far West; 8 from border states; one from the Northwest."

In the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal, July 7, 1947, Ralph McGill says:

"We cannot for a moment condone lynchings or murder. We cannot excuse violence and not do great and lasting damage to our personal moral values and to the values of our whole program of law, upon which our civilization is based. They are, when they occur, our crimes and our responsibilities."

Public Opinion Favors Anti-Lynching Legislation.

A release of July 1, 1947 by George Gallup, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion, reports that 69% of a true cross-section of the voters of the 48 states favored federal anti-lynching legislation, allowing the United States Government to step in if the state doesn't deal with the crime justly; 20% voted no and 11% had no opinion.

The release pointed out this in contrast with the Institute poll of the country on the Gavagan Anti-Lynching Bill (debated by Congress in 1940) when it was found that 50% favored passage and 41% were opposed.

(Richmond (Va.) Times Dispatch, July 1, 1947.)

The Kannapolis (N. C.) Independent, May 14, 1947:

". . . The trial in Greenville is not alone for . . . white men who are accused of lynching a Negro. The whole south is on trial. The south has claimed that it can handle its own problems justly without interference from the federal government or modern carpet-baggers. The south now must prove it."

The Macon (Ga.) News:

". . . We are not ourselves too enthusiastic over a Federal anti-lynching bill. But it is a fact that state laws are impotent against the lynching evil and we are willing to take the best way we can get which, under the circumstances, seems to be a Federal law. . . .

"In any case, a Federal anti-lynching law, whatever its defects, is better than unrestrained and unpunished murder. Without it we can't do worse, and with it we might do better." (quoted from The New South, July 1947.)

"Devastating Consequences."

Said the Report of President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights, published October, 1947:

"While available statistics show that, decade by decade, lynchings have decreased, this Committee has found that in the year 1947 lynching remains one of the most serious threats to the civil rights of Americans. . . .

"The devastating consequences of lynchings go far beyond what is shown by counting the victims. When a person is lynched and the lynchers go unpunished, thousands wonder where the evil will appear again and what mischance may produce another victim. . . ."

Decisive Action Needed

Said President Truman in his Message on Civil Rights to Congress on February 2, 1948:

"A specific Federal measure is needed to deal with the crime of lynching — against which I cannot speak too strongly. . . . It is a principle of our democracy, written into our Constitution, that every person accused of an offense against the law shall have a fair, orderly trial in an impartial court. . . . So long as one person walks in fear of lynching we shall not have achieved equal justice under law.

"I call upon the Congress to take decisive action against this crime."

* * *

Bills Against Lynching — Past and Present

The period between 1921 and the present has been marked by repeated efforts to secure Federal anti-lynching legislation. Three times anti-lynching bills have passed the House of Representatives: the Dyer Bill in January, 1922; the Gavagan Bill, April 15, 1937; and the Gavagan-Fish Bill in January, 1940. The Dyer and Gavagan bills failed in passage by the Senate because of a filibuster. Although the Gavagan-Fish bill was reported favorably to the Senate, it did not reach the floor during that session of Congress.

Many bills were introduced in the 80th Congress, the two claiming the most attention being the Wagner-Morse Bill S.1352, and the Case Bill H.R.5673 (practically identical).

The Case Bill was favorably reported by the House Judiciary Committee.

It is directed against not only lynching but violence or attempted violence by an assemblage of two or more persons upon a person or his property because of race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, religion; or because the victim is suspected of or charged with a criminal offense. Any person aiding or inciting a mob, or any member of a mob shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $10,000, by imprisonment not exceeding 20 years, or both. Officers of the law wilfully failing to prevent lynching or to prohibit lynchers shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5000 or by imprisonment, or both. The bill provides for compensation to families of the lynch victims. Criminal prosecution will be brought in a Federal Court.

What You Can Do

Ministers should still preach sermons against the evil.

Editors and magazine columnists should still write against this violation of human rights.

Study should be made of the entire Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights and community plans projected for its implementation. (Obtain from Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., $1.00)

Community committees should be organized to prevent lynching and mob violence and to demand effective enforcement of the law.

Make inquiry concerning the activities against lynching of such organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, 20 West 40th St., New York 18, N. Y.

Send to the Department of Race Relations, Federal Council of Churches, 297 Fourth Ave., New York 10, N. Y. a brief report of what you are able to do in your church and community in this effort.

Published by

DEPARTMENT OF RACE RELATIONS
THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST
IN AMERICA
297 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y.

Interracial Publication No. 70

5 cents — $4.00 a hundred.

SOUTHERN NEGRO YOUTH CONGRESS
526 Masonic Temple Building
Birmingham 3, Alabama

WHO ARE THE LYNCHERS OF JESSE J. PAYNE

On the answer to this question depends the security of our nation and the safety of the Negro people. The answer must be given by Governor Millard Caldwell and Attorney General J. Tom Watson of Florida.

According to an Associated Press release dated October 12, Jesse James Payne was lynched at Madison, Florida, on October 10 or 11. The story which referred to Payne as a "youthful Negro" stated that he was arrested on July 4, ten days after an alleged attack on a white child of five. He had pleaded innocent to the charges. At the time of his arrest, Jesse James Payne was attacked and wounded by a posse. Subsequently he was removed to the state prison. On the day of the lynching, the prisoner was returned to the county jail at Madison. According to the statement of the Sheriff, Lonnie Davis, the prison was located on a lot adjacent to his (Davis') house and was left unguarded at night. (There were four or five other prisoners in the jail on October 11.) Jesse James Payne's body was found on the highway 10 miles away from the jail. The coroner's jury which met on Saturday October 13 reached the conclusion that Jesse James Payne met his death at the hands of persons unknown.

This lynching occurs in northwest Florida, one of the most benighted sections of our country. In 1933, the lynching and mutilation of Claude Neal took place in this area at Mariana. A year ago, 3 Negro youth were railroaded to the electric chair in this region after a trial at Gainesville which was a mockery of justice.

Now the habitual lynchers have struck again. Jesse James Payne is their victim. If the criminals are not identified and brought to summary justice in this case, the signal will have been given to lynch minded fascists throughout the South and the nation. The Ku Klux Klan groups which are organizing will know that they can launch their attacks against the lives of Negroes without fear of prosecution. The white supremacists who have threatened to "keep the Negro veteran in his place" will feel encouraged to provoke assaults against our ex-service men without fear of prosecution. The fomenters of the hate strikes in Northern schools will find justification for their evil doings.

The lynchers of Jesse James Payne can be exposed and convicted. They are undoubtedly known to many people in northwest Florida. An indignant American people must demand action.

You are called upon to send wires and letters and to get your friends and organizations to do the same to Governor Millard Caldwell and Attorney General J. Tom Watson at State Capitol, Tallahassee, Florida;

(1) Demanding apprehension and prosecution of the lynchers, and

(2) Demanding that all facts in the case be made public;

(a) How old was the 'youthful Negro'? Was he 16, 18 or 20? Was he of legal age? Could he have been a child?

(b) Why was the jail unguarded when it was known the prisoner had been assaulted and wounded at the time of his arrest?

(c) On whose charge was Payne arrested 10 days after an alleged attack on a five year old child?

(3) Demanding that the State of Florida provide adequate and full indemnity for the family of the murdered youth.

The fight for justice in this case is the fight for our future, for the democracy which millions of fighting men sacrificed and died to preserve. We must combine with this struggle a renewed effort to secure passage of a federal anti-lynch bill and of the G I Assault bill, which would make it a federal offense to attack a member of the armed forces.

Most important of all WE MUST ACT NOW. The lynching of Jesse James Payne may be the signal for a new wave of lynch terror in the South. Every letter, every wire counts. Please let this office know what action you take.

Memo to: All Lovers of Freedom and Justice

From: Louis E. Burnham, Organizational Secretary.

Memo from GUY B. JOHNSON

to

1942 — 5 Mo. 1 Tex. 1 Miss. 3

1943 — 3 Fla. 1 Ga. 1 Ill. 1

1944 — 2 Miss. 1 Tenn. 1

1945 — 1 Fla. 1

15/19 11.26
15 40
30
100
90

Memo from GUY B. JOHNSON

to 7-31-46

Lynchings, Ga.

1931	0
32	0
33	4	Talmadge
34	1
35	2
36	6
37	1	Rivers
38	1
39	0
40	2	(1 wh.)
41	1	Talmadge
42	0
43	1	Arnall
44	0
45	0
46	4	on July 25

Ga. Tenn.: Sept. 8, 1940, Cantron Cadenway, Negro, charged with attempted attack on a wh. woman, taken from jail at night by pistol armed men and shot.

Bedford, Early County, May 6, 1941, Robt. Sapp, Negro, suspected of attacking farm girl employer, was beaten unconscious by 3 men. Died several days later.

Jan. 20, 1943, in Baker County, Ga., Robt. Hall, accused of stealing a tire, beaten to death by Sheriff & 20 other white men

Memo from GUY B. JOHNSON

to

Talmadge's Terms

persons lynched

1st Term, 1933-34 —— 5 ~~lynchings~~

2nd term, 1935-36 —— 8 ..

3rd term, 1941-42 —— 1 ..

all of the victims were Negroes.

Memo from GUY B. JOHNSON

to

Mr. Talmadge was quoted in the press yesterday as saying, "During my three terms as Governor there was not a lynching in the State." Unfortunately Mr. Talmadge was in error. There were actually fourteen persons lynched in Georgia during his three administrations. Here are the figures, taken from the most reliable sources, showing the lynchings

Memo from GUY B. JOHNSON

to

in Georgia during the various governors' terms since 1931.

Gov. Richard B. Russell, 1931-32 - - - - 0

.. Eugene Talmadge 1933-36 - - - - 13

~~1941-36 - - -~~ 8

.. E. D. Rivers, 1937-40 - - - - 4

.. Eugene Talmadge 1941-42 - - - - 1

.. Ellis Arnall, 1943 to present - - 5

[1 in 1943, 4 on July 26, 1946]

Until the recent multiple lynching, there had been only one case during Arnall's administration ~~of~~ ~~and~~ this occurred in 1943, and was followed by a period free from any lynchings until July 25, 1946.

1882 through 1930, Georgia had 508 lynchings, for an average of 10.3 per year. From 1931 through 1945, Georgia had 19 lynchings, or an average of 1.3 per year. In six of the past fifteen years, Georgia had no lynchings.

~~During the Talmadge three terms there were 14 lynchings.~~

~~Dering~~

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E.
ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

Lynchings in Georgia

1885 - 1894
1895 - 1904
1905 - 1914
1915 - 1924
1925 - 1934
1935 - 1944

LYNCHINGS [redacted]

1900-1934

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Mar. 4	Crosby, James	Selo Hatchel	Making threats
Mar. 18	Humphries, Charles	Lee County	Attempted assault
May 7	Unknown Negro	Geneva, Geneva County	Rape
July 6	Roe, John	Columbia, Houston County	Attempted assault
July 23	Clark, Elijah	Huntsville, Madison County	Rape
Sept. 12	Floyd, Zed	Wetumpka, Elmore County	Attempted assault
Oct. 2	Thomas, Winfield	Electric, Elmore County	Attempted assault
Oct. 30	Abbamathy	Duke, Calhoun County	Assault

8

1901

Jan. 5	McAdams, Louis	Wilsonville, Shelby Co.	Murderous assault
Mar. 6	Davis, Bud	Moulton, Lawrence County	Offense unknown
May 6	Mayes, Ed	Selma, Dallas County	Sheltering a murderer
May 6	Mayes, 'Dic'	Selma, Dallas County	Sheltering a murderer
May 6	Dawson, Robert	Selma, Dallas County	Sheltering a murderer
May 11	Williams, William	South Side	Theft
May 11	Unknown Negro	Leeds, Jefferson County	Mistaken identity
May 30	Reeves, Frank	Butler County	Attempted Rape
June 16	Harris, George	Limestone County	Arson
July 15	Herman, Alexander	Courtland, Lawrence Co.	Murder
Aug. 2	Bentley, Charles	Leeds, Jefferson County	Murder
Aug. 7	Pennington, John	Enterprise, Coffee Co.	Rape
Sept. 3	Fourney, William	Chestnut, Monroe County	Rape
Dec. 6	Three unknown Negroes	Opp, Covington County	Race prejudice

14

1902

Mar. 24	Ziegler, William	Locality undetermined	Criminal assault
Apr. 6	Reynolds, William	Tuscumbia, Colbert Co.	Murder
June 25	Campbell, Willy	Locality undetermined	Attempted murder
Nov. 3	Harris, Samuel	Salem, Lee County	Murder
Dec. 20	Bishop, Scott	Marbury, Autauga Co.	Murder

5

1903

June 24	Diggs, Andrew	Scottsboro, Jackson Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 15	Young, Charles	Locality undetermined	Attempted rape

Lynchings in Alabama

(Continued)

1903

(Cont'd.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Nov. 30	Davis, Phillip	Locality undetermined	Murder
Nov. 30	Carter, Walter	Locality undetermined	Murder
Nov. 30	Thomas, Clinton	Locality undetermined	Murder

5

1904

Apr. 16	Sims, Ruben	Little River, Baldwin Co.	Murder
May 1	Hall, Gaines	Kingston, Coffee Co.	Rape
June 22	Pope, Ephrein	Lamison, Wilcox Co.	Rape
July 1	Jones, John	Altoona, Etowah Co.	Rape
Aug. 7	Bell, Ed	Near Selma, Dallas Co.	Murder
Sept. 7	Maples, Horace	Huntsville, Madison Co.	Murder

6

1905

Mar. 14	Plowly, Edward	Pine Apple, Wilcox Co.	Murder
Mar. 14	Plowly, William	Pine Apple, Wilcox Co.	Murder
Aug. 25	Latt, Oliver	Tunnel Springs, Monroe Co.	Murder

3

1906

Feb. 11	Richardson, Bunkie	Gadsen, Etowah County	Rape and murder
Feb. 20	Pedigrie	Andalusia, Covington Co.	Rape
Apr. 29	Brown, William	Riensi	Murder
Oct. 6	Robinson, Richard	Prichard Station, Mobile Co.	Rape
Oct. 6	Peters, Henry	Prichard, Station, Mobile Co.	Rape
Oct. 20	Dove, Daniel	Locality undetermined	Attempted rape

6

1907

Jan. 4	Unknown	Midway, Bullock County	Attempted rape
Mar. 24	Harding, Cleveland	Florence, Lauderdale Co.	Attempted rape
Mar. 26	Unknown	Hartford, Geneva County	Rape
Apr. 29	Calhoun, Eben	Pittsview, Russell Co.	Murderous assault
Aug. 27	Lipsey, John	Pickensville, Pickens Co.	Rape
Sept. 5	Johnson, Jerry	N. Birmingham, Jefferson Co.	Rape
Sept. 22	Cossett, Moses	Prichard Station, Mobile Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 2	Sumroll, Abram	Vinegar Bend, Washington Co.	Murder
Nov. 2	Lucas, Henry	Vinegar Bend, Washington Co.	Complicity in murder

Lynchings in Alabama

(Continued)

1907

(Cont'd.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Nov. 3	Quigleton, Fred	Talladega, Talladega, Co.	Murder
Nov. 30	Saunders, Newt	Opp, Covington Co.	Rape

11

1908

Jan. 9	Franklin, Cleveland	Dothan, Houston County	Robbery and shooting
Apr. 6	Clayton, Walter	Bay Minette, Baldwin Co.	Rape
Aug. 8	Miller, William	Brighton, Jefferson Co.	Dynamiting
Oct. 21	Stover, Tom	Halselle, Choctaw County	Attempted rape

4

1909

Jan. 22	Robertson, Douglass	Mobile, Mobile County	Murder
Jan. 24	Davenpprt,	Leighton, Collier County	Barn burning
Feb. 1	Unnamed Negro	Bolivar, locality undetermined	Attempted rape
Apr. 25	Thomas,	Near Birmingham, Jefferson Co.	Rape
Sept. 4	Balaam, Joshua	Jackson, Clarke County	Murder
Sept. 4	Balaam, Lewis	Jackson, Clarke County	Murder
Nov. 24	Rolston, Ray	Anniston, Calhoun Co.	Murderous assault
Dec. 20	Montgomery, Clinton	Magnolia, Marengo County	Murder

8

1910

May 26	Matson, Jesse	Calera, Shelby County	Murder
July 3	McKenny, Henry	Dothan, Houston Co.	Attempted rape
Aug. 1	Wallace, William	Axia, Mobile County	Rape
Sept. 14	Glover, Isaac	Springville, St. Clair Co.	Murder
Oct. 4	Withers, Bush	Sanford, Covington Co.	Rape
Oct. 8	Negro	McFall, Calhoun Co.	Rape
Oct. 9	Richardson, Grant	Centerville, Bibb Co.	Rape
Oct. 9	Dell, John	Montgomery, Montgomery Co.	Murder

8

1911

Feb. 12	Peterson, Iver	Eufaula, Barbour County	Attempted rape
Aug. 30	Unnamed Negro	Clayton, Barbour County	Murder

2

Lynchings in Alabama

(Continued)

1912

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Jan. 28	Chandler, John	Bessemer, Jefferson Co.	Murder
Feb. 19	Unnamed	Dothan, Houston County	Murder
Aug. 5	Verge, Sam	Locality undetermined	Murder
Aug. 28	Unnamed	Near Gadsen, Etowah Co.	Murder
Nov. 2	Smith, William	Bessemer, Jefferson Co.	Murder
Nov. 18	Berney	Wetumpka, Elmore County	Murder
Dec. 7	Curtis, Azariah	Butler, Choctaw County	Murder
Dec. 20	Unnamed	Cuba, Sumter Co.	Murder

4

1913

Jan. 3	Carson	Selma, Dallas County	Unnamed offense
Aug. 28	Unknown Negro	Kilgore, county unknown	Unnamed cause

2

1914

Mar.
Mar. 29	Young, Charles	Clayton, Barbour County	Murder
Dec. 19	Jones, William	Fort Deposit, Lowndes Co.	Murder

2

1915

Jan. 1	Hartley, Dock	Greenville, Butler County	Burglary
Jan. 4	Smith, Edwin	Wetumpka, Elmore County	Murder
Jan. 4	Smith, William	Wetumpka, Elmore County	Murder
Jan. 1 8	Deeley, Herman	Taylorsville, Bartow Co.(?)	Murder
May 5	Hatch, Jesse	Fulton, Clarke County	Attempted rape
Aug. 10	Fox, James	Locality undetermined	Murder
Aug. 17	Jackson, "Kid"	Hope Hull, Montgomery Co.	Poisoning mules
Aug. 17	Russell, Henry	Hope Hull, Montgomery Co.	Poisoning mules
Aug. 17	Unnamed Negro	Hope Hull, Montgomery Co.	Poisoning mules

9

1916

Jan. 28	Burton, Richard	Boyds, Sumter County	Burglary

1

1917

July 16	Unidentified Negro	Reform, Pickens County	Burglary
July 23	Hibbler Poe	Pickens County	Attempted rape
July 23	Powell, William	Letohatchee, Lowndes Co.	Threat to kill

3

Lynchings in Alabama

(Continued)

1918

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
June 21	Womack, John	Red Level, Covington County	Attempted rape
Nov. 10	Bird, William	Sheffield, Colbert County	For making unruly remarks
Nov. 12	Whiteside, George	Sheffield, Colbert County	For killing officer of the law

3

1919

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Mar. 15	Cage, Cicero	Ralph, Tuscaloosa County	Attempted rape
June 17	McMillan, James	Greene Pond, Bibb County	Attempted rape
June 22	Foukal, Frank	Bay Minette, Baldwin Co.	Murder
Aug. 1	Robinson, Argo M.	Whatley, Clarke County	Charged with demanding that when addressed title Mister be used.
Sept. 29	Phifer, Miles	Montgomery, Montgomery Co.	Rape
Sept. 29	Croskey, Robert	Montgomery, Montgomery Co.	Rape
Sept. 30	Temple, John	Montgomery, Montgomery Co.	Killing officer of the law

7

1920

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Jan. 15	Waters, Jack	Florala, Covington County	Rape
Mar. 11	Smith, Wilbur	Legrand, Montgomery County	Rape
July 30	Spinks, Sills	Grimes, county unknown	Murderous assault
July 30	Jennings, Juster	Grimes, " "	Murderous assault
Aug. 9	Wood, Monroe	Near Newville, Henry Co.	Insulting woman
Sept. 15	Windham, Alto	Near Hartford, Geneva Co.	Insulting woman
Oct. 14	Reeves, Select	Greenville, Butler Co.	For striking man

7

1921

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Jan. 15	Beard, William	Jasper, Walker County	Complicity in murder
July 28	Jordan,	Silas, Choctaw Co.	Shooting man to death

2

1922

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Jan. 10	Jenkins, William	Eufaula, Barbour County	Using insulting language to white woman.
Dec. 2	Teague, George	Crenshaw County	Complicity in murder of white man

2

Lynchings in Alabama

(Concluded)

1923

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
July 13	McBride, William	Adamsville, Jefferson Co.	Frightening school children.

1924

1925

Dec. 16	Cole, Grant	Montgomery, Montgomery Co.	Insulting woman

1926

1927

1928

1929

1930

July 4	Robertson, Jacob	Emelle, Sumter County	Murder

1931

Aug. 25	Quinn, Neal (Negro)	Hayneville, Lowndes Co.	Attempted rape.

1932

1933

[redacted]	Harden, A. T. (Negro	Blocton, Bibb Co.	Murder
	Pippen, Dan (Negro)	Blocton, Bibb Co.	Murder
	[illegible]ss, Dennis (Negro)	Tuscaloosa, Tuscaloosa Co.	Attempted rape.

1934

Aug. 23	Unidentified Negro man	Birmingham, Jefferson Co.	Insulting woman. Did not come into hands of the law.

LYNCHINGS IN ALABAMA

1936

1937

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Feb. 2	Wes Johnson	Abbeville, Henry Co.	Criminal assault

1940

May 9	O'Dee Henderson	Fairfield, Jefferson Co.	Altercation w/ white man
June 28	Jesse Thornton	Luverne, Crenshaw Co.	Disrespectful to officer

LYNCHINGS IN ARKANSAS

1900-1934

40

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
May 26	Unknown Negro	West Point, White County	Robbery
June 12	Brodie, John	Lee County	Attempted murder
June 17	Mullens, Nat	Earle, Crittenden Co.	Murder
June 17	Jenkins, S. A.	Searcy, White Co.	Suspected robbery
June 19	Woodward, William	Searcy, White County	Murder
Dec. 21	Unknown Negro	Arkadelphia, Clark Co.	Rape

6

1901

Feb. 20	Berryman, Peter	Mena, Polk Co.	Assaulting a white person
Mar. 23	Stunly, George	Pocohantos, Randolph Co.	Murder
Apr. 6	Hearn, May	Osceola, Mississippi Co.	Murder
May 13	Key, Lee	Knoxville, Johnson Co.	Race prejudice
Aug. 1	Seigler	Rosston, Nevada Co.	Murder

5

1902

Mar. 10	McCoy, Horace	Foreman, Little River Co.	Criminal assault
Aug. 1	Newton, Lee	Locality undetermined	Attempted rape
Sept. 5	Wilson, Hog	Stephens, Ouachita Co.	Rape
Oct. 20	Young, Charles	Forrest City, St. Francis Co.	Rape and murder
Nov. 20	Wells, Elijah	Wy County Cross County	Murderous assault

5

1903

Mar. 20	Robertson, Frank	Bradley, Lafayette Co.	Arson
Apr. 6	Turner, John	Warren, Bradley Co.	Attempted rape
Apr. 25	Thompson, Alexander	Gurdon, Clark Co.	Murderous assault
July 22	Gilbert, John	Locality undetermined	Murder
July 22	Unknown	Locality undetermined	Murder
Sept.	Hellem,	Luxora, Mississippi Co.	Assaulted colored girl
Oct. 6	McCollum, Edward	Sheridan, Grant Co.	Murderous assault

1904

Feb. 18	Days, Glence	Crossett, Ashley County	Murder
Mar. 26	Smith, Jas.	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice

Lynchings in Arkansas
(Continued)

1904

Mar. 26	Smith, Charles	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Baldwin, Mack	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Bailey, Abe	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Flood, Garrett	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Johnston, Killis	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Carter, Perry	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Griffin, Henry	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Griffin, Walter	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Flood, Randall	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Baldwin, William	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Madison, William	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Mar. 26	Hinton, Aaron	St. Charles, Arkansas Co.	Race prejudice
Aug. 31	Two unknown	Stephens, Ouachita Co.	Insulting white woman
Sept. 5	Unknown	Crossett, Ashley Co.	Assaulting whites

16

1905

Jan. 1	Allwhite, Louis	Newport, Jackson Co.	Murder
Jan. 1	Jetton, White	Spring Hill, Hempstead	Murder
Apr. 20	Barrett, John	Askew, Lee County	Murder
July 6	Woodman, James	Locality undetermined	Eloping with white girl
Sept. 22	Brown, Frank	Conway, Faulkner Co.	Mistaken identity

6

1906

Feb. 7	Calton, James	Elmarth, locality undetermined	Murderous assault
~~July 8~~	~~Anderson, William~~
July 8	Anderson, William	Pillar, locality undetermined	Rape
Oct. 7	Blackburn, H.	Argenta, Pulaski	Murderous assault
Oct. 8	Davis, Anthony	Texarkana, Miller Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 29	Unknown Negro	Hot Springs, Garland Co.	Attempted rape

5

1907

Mar. 20	Two colored women	Stamps, Lafayette Co.	Murderous assault
Dec. 5	Hussay, Washington	Augusta, Woodruff Co.	Murder

2

1908

June 20	Williams, Ernest	Parkdale, Ashley Co.	Using offensive language

1

Lynchings in Arkansas
(Continued)

1909

Jan. 18	Hillard,	Hope, Hempstead Co.	Insulting white girl
May 24	Aikens, Albert	Pine Bluff, Jefferson Co.	Rape
Dec. 20	Baily, George	Devill's Bluff, Prairie Co.	Murder

3

1910

Mar. 19	Austin, Robert	Marion, Crittenden Co.	Murder
Mar. 19	Richards, Charles	Marion, CrittendenCo.	Murder
Mar. 25	Jones, "Judge"	Pine Bluff, Jefferson Co.	Insulting women
Apr. 5	Pride, Frank	Locality undetermined	Murder
Apr. 5	Mitchell, Laura	Locality undetermined	Murder
May 14	McLane, "Dock"	Ashdown, Little River Co.	Murderous assault
June 14	Hunter, William	Star City, Lincoln Co.	Insulting white women
July 6	Powell, Sam	Mattig, Union Co.	Robbery and Arson
Nov. 26	Chitwood, Oscar	Hot Springs, Garland Co.	Murder

9

1911

Sept. 9	Dean, Arthur	Augusta, Woodruff Co.	Rape
Oct. 16	Lucey, Nathan	Forrest City, Saint Francis County	Rape
~~Oct. 20~~	~~Lewis, Charles~~
Oct. 20	Lewis, Charles	Hope, Hempstead Co.	Insulting women

3

1912

Mar. 25	Lewis, Sanford	Locality undetermined	Murder
July 5	Williams, John	Plumerville, Conway Co.	Murder
Aug. 20	Franklin, Monroe	Russellville, Pope Co.	Rape

3

1913

June 19	Norman, William	Near Hot Springs, Garland County	Rape
Sept. 5	Simms, Lee	Little Rock, Pulaski Co.	Rape

1

1914

Oct. 28	Davis, Howard	Newport, Jackson Co.	Murder

1

1915

Mar. 2	Gandy, H. M.	Clarendon, Monroe Co.	Stealing hogs

1

Lynchings in Arkansas
(Continued)

1915

(Cont'd.)

Mar. 2	Mansel, Jefferson	Clarendon, Monroe Co.	Stealing hogs
June 15	Haley, Loy	Hope, Hempstead Co.	Murder
Sept. 12	Bowers, Jacob	Carlisle, Lonoke Co.	Murder
Dec. 3	Patrick, William	Forrest City, Saint Francis County	Murder

5

1916

Jan. 22	Unnamed Highwayman	Vandervoort, Polk County
May 27.	Gilman, Felix	Prescott, Nevada Co.	Murder
Aug. 9	Unnamed Negro	Stuttgart, Arkansas Co.	Rape
Oct. 9	Dodd, Frank	Dewitt, Arkansas Co.	Attempted rape

4

1917

Feb. 8	Smith, James	Proctor, Crittendon Co.	Murder
July 31	Avery, Andrew	Garland City, Miller Co.	Robbery
Aug. 9	Jimerson, Aaron	Ashdown, Little River Co.	Murderous assault
Sept. 15	Gates, Samuel	England, Lonoke Co.	Insulting girls

4

1918

June 13	Mitchell, Allen	Earle, Crittendon Co.	Wounding women
Aug. 28	Wagner, Frederick	Near Hot Springs, Garland Co.	Disloyal remarks
Dec. 18	Robinson, Wills	Newport, Jackson Co.	Murdering policeman

3

1919

Jan. 30	Keifer, John	Deer, Newton Co.	Murder
Apr. 25	McIntyre, Samuel	Forrest City, Saint Francis County	Murder
May 21	Livingston, Frank	Eldorado, Union Co.	Murder
June 15	Ellison, Clyde	Star City, Lincoln Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 1	Briggs, Clinton	Star City, Lincoln Co.	Insulting white woman
Sept. 15	Unnamed Negro	Jonesville, Bradley Co.	Found under bed in white man's house
Oct. 7	Johnson, Dr. Elihu	Near Elaine, Phillips Co.	Abetting riot
Oct. 7	Johnson, Dr. Louis H.	Near Elaine, Phillips Co.	Abetting riot
Oct. 7	Johnson, Gibson	Near Elaine, Phillips Co.	Abetting riot
Oct. 7	Johnson, Leroy	Near Elaine, Phillips Co.	Abetting riot
Oct. 20	Wilson, Alexander	Mariana, Lee Co.	Shooting white woman

11

Lynchings in Arkansas
(Continued)

1920

Dec. 26	Thomas,	Jonesboro, Craighead Co.	Killing officer of the law

1

1921

Jan. 27	Lowry, Henry	Modena, Mississippi Co.	Murder
Mar. 15	Tutt, Brownie	Hope, Hempstead Co.	Rape
Mar. 21	Slater, Phillip	Monticello, Drew Co.	Rape
May 11	Smith, Leroy	McGehee, Desha Co.	Attempted assault
Nov. 18	Turner, William	Helena, Phillips Co.	Rape
Nov. 23	Hicks, Robert	Near Lake Village, Chicot Co.	Writing note to white woman

6

1922

Feb. 4	Harrison, Harry	Malvern, Hot Springs Co.	Indecent exposure of person and frightening girls and women
May 19	Owens, Mullen	Texarkana, Miller, County	Murder
July 28	West, John	Hope, Hempstead Co.	Striking man
Aug. 1	Harris, Gilbert	Hot Springs, Garland Co.	Burglary and murder
Dec. 9	Smith, Less	Morrilton, Conway Co.	Murder

5

1923

Jan. 16	Gregor, E. C.	Harrison, Boone Co.	Railroad Striker
Aug. 10	Brooks, Edward	Murphyville, Union Co.	Insulting white woman

2

1924

1925

May 29	Unnamed Negro	Louann, Ouachita Co.	Attempted rape

1

1926

May 26	Blades, Albert	Butler, Mississippi Co.	Attempted rape
Aug. 4	Powell, Charles	Lewisville, Lafayette Co.	Murder

2

1927

May 4	Carter, John	Little Rock, Pulaski Co.	Attacking two white women

1

Lynchings in Arkansas
(Concluded)

1927

(Cont'd.)

June 8	Fleming, Owens	Mellwood, Phillips Co.	Murder
Aug. 26	Pounds, Winston	Wilmot, Ashley Co.	Rape

2

1928

1929

1930

1931

1932

Sept. 15	Tucker, Frank (Negro)	Crossett, Ashley County	Wounding office of law

1

1933

1934

1936

April 29	Willie Kees	Lepanto, Poinsett Co.	Attempted criminal assault

LYNCHINGS IN FLORIDA

1900 - 1935

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
		1900
Mar. 11	Unknown Negro	Jennings, Hamilton Co.	Murder
May 14	Two Negroes	Brooksville, Hernando Co.	Murder
June 10	Unknown Negro	Sneads, Jackson Co.	Suspected murder
June 10	Sanders, John	Sneads, Jackson Co.	Complicity in murder
June 27	Davis, Robert	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Murder
June 27	Thomas, Jack	Live Oak, Suwanee Co.	Attempted rape.
June 29	Barco, James	Panasoffkee, Sumter Co.	Unknown offense
Nov. 27	Williams, Spencer	Lake City, Columbia Co.	Murderous assault.
		1901
Jan. 7	Denson, James	Madison, Madison Co.	Murder
Jan. 7	Denson's stepson	Madison, Madison Co.	Murder
Jan. 16	McKinney, Norman	Dennellon, Marion Co.	Trainwrecking
Feb. 8	Wright, William	Dade City, Pasco Co.	Complicity in murder
Feb. 8	Williams, Sam	Dade City, Pasco Co.	Complicity in murder
May 30	Rochelle, Fred	Bartow, Polk Co.	Murder
Sept. 7	Unknown	Chipley, Washington Co.	Rape
		1902
July 28	Unknown Negro	Bluff Springs, Escambia Co.	Unknown offense
Aug. 1	Williams, Alonzo	San Antonio, Pasco Co.	Rape
Sept. 1	Price, Manny	Newberry, Alachua Co.	Murder
Sept. 1	Scruggs, Robert	Newberry, Alachua Co.	Murder
		1903
Mar. 9	Thomas, Henry	Parish, Manatee Co.	Rape
May 3	Kennedy, Dan	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Murder
May 19	Jarvis, Washington	Madison, Madison Co.	Murder
May 20	Randall, Amos	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Murder
May 20	Gordon, Henry	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Murder
July 21	Greene, Crane	Pine Barren, Escambia Co.	Rape
Oct. 9	Williams, Samuel	Lawby, Bradford Co.	Refusing information
Dec. 5	Lewis, Jackson	nr. Tampa, Hillsborough Co.	Attempted rape
		1904
Jan. 15	Clark, Jumbo	High Springs, Alachua Co.	Rape
May 20	Unknown	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Unknown offense
Sept.6	Bradley, Wash	Bronson, Levy Co.	Murder
Oct. 4	Rivers	Perry, Taylor Co.	Attempted rape
		1905
July 1	Peters, Doc	Cottondale, Jackson Co.	Murder

1906

May 17	Jordan, Frank	Inverness, Citrus Co.	Murder
June 8	Davis, James	Inverness, Citrus Co.	Murder
July 27	Black, John	Locality undetermined	Murder
July 27	Reagin, Wm.	Locality undetermined	Murder
Aug. 21	Bapes, John	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Murderous assault
Nov. 9	Unknown Negro	Madison, Madison Co.	Rape

1907

1908

Mar. 5	Long, John	Newberry, Alachua Co.	Murder
Mar. 19	McMullen, Will	Perry, Taylor Co.	Murder
Mar. 19	Smith, Richard	Perry, Taylor Co.	Murder
Feb. 2	Pitman, Chas.	Greenville, Madison Co.	Suspected murder
Apr. 24	Two Negroes	Mullville, Bay Co.	Shooting
Apr. 24	(one of above)	" "	"
July 29	Shaw, Leander	Pensacola, Escambia Co.	Attempted assault
Oct. 5	Price, Benjamin	Locality undetermined	Rape

1909

Feb. 13	Nader, Jacob	Lakeland, Polk Co.	Rape
Apr. 5	Alexander, David	Pensacola, Escambia Co.	Murder
Apr. 28	Scarborough, Chas.	Bartow, Polk Co.	Attack on woman
Apr. 10	Smith, Jno.	Arcadia, DeSoto Co.	Rape
May 9	Unnamed Negro	Duval County	Rape
June 6	Morris, Maik	Tallahassee, Leon Co.	Murder
June 15	Unnamed Negro	Arcadia, DeSoto Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 26	Anderson, Chas.	Perry, Taylor Co.	Murder

1910

Mar. 7	Ellis, Wade	Tampa, Hillsborough Co.	Murder
Mar. 7	Ellis, Sam	" "	"
Mar. 8	Negro	" "	"
June 11	Matthews, Robt.	Locality undetermined	Rape
July 9	McIntosh, Sam	Kathleen, Polk Co.	Attempted murder
July 30	Negro	Bonifay, Holmes Co.	Murder
July 30	"	" "	"
Aug. 2	Negro	" "	Complicity in murder
Aug. 2	"	" "	" " "
Aug. 2	"	" "	" " "
Aug. 2	"	" "	" " "
Sept. 2	Christian, Edward	Graceville, Jackson Co.	Murder
Sept. 2	Bowman, Hattie	" " "	Complicity in murder
Sept. 20	Ticoretea, Castenego	Tampa, Hillsborough Co.	Attempted murder
Sept. 20	Albano, Angelo	" "	" "
Nov. 26	Lowe, Richard	Mayo, Lafayette Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 26	Matthews, Robt.	Gull Point, Escambia Co.	Rape

1911

Mar. 5	Baker, Galvin	Marianna, Jackson Co.	Threats to kill
May 21	Negro	Lake City, Columbia Co.	Murder
May 21	"	" " " "	"
May 21	"	" " " "	"
May 21	"	" " " "	"
May 21	"	" " " "	"
May 21	"	" " " "	"

1912

Apr. 15	Arline, Sam	nr. Tampa, Hillsborough Co.	Murder
July 14	English, Wm.	Bradentown, Manatee Co.	Insulting white woman
Sept. 15	Murphy H.	Alton, Lafayette Co.	Rape
Nov. 14	Nellis, Preech	Ocala, Marion Co.	Murder
Nov. 19	Archer, Jno.	Ocala, Marion Co.	Murder

1913

July 6	Smith, Roscoe	Yellow River	Murder
July 7	Unnamed Negro	Milton, Santa Rosa Co.	Rape
July 10	Tempers, Kid	Blountsville, Calhoun Co.	Murder
July 23	White, Sam	Haines City, Polk Co.	Attempted rape

1914

Jan. 14	Peek, Lewis and
Jan. 14	unknown companion	Mulberry, Polk Co.	Murderous assault
May 18	Woolsome, James	Gordonville	Attempted assault on woman in hotel.
Nov. 12	Evans, John	St.Petersburg,Pinellas Co.	Murder

1915

Feb. 16	Richards, John	Sparr, Marion Co.	Insulting women
Feb. 28	Reed, William	Kissimmee, Osceola Co.	Rape
July 23	Owens, H. M.	Trenton, Alachua Co.	Popular prejudice
Sept. 7	Thompson, George	Orlando, Orange Co.	Speaking disrespectfully to a white woman.
Dec. 29	Nimrod, Joseph	Reddick, Marion Co.	Attempted rape

1916

Jan. 20	Anderson, Richardson	Ocala, Marion Co.	Murder
Apr. 17	Dykes, John	Vernon, Washington Co.	Murder
Aug. 19	Young, Stella	Newberry, Alachua Co.	Alleged accessory to murder.
Aug. 19	Dennis, Mary	Newberry, Alachua Co.	" " " "
Aug. 19	Dennis, Bert	" " "	" " " "
Aug. 19	McHenry, Andrew	" " "	" " " "
Aug. 19	Haskins, John	" " "	" " " "
Aug. 19	Dennis, James	" " "	" " " "

1917

June 25	Trent, Shepherd	Punta Gorda, DeSoto Co.	Attempted rape.

1918

Feb. 25	Ganzer, Edward	Live Oak, Suwanee Co.	Murder
May 22	Jackson, Henry	Miami, Dade Co.	Throwing white man under train.

1919

Mar. 12	Walker, Joseph	Greenville, Madison Co.	Shooting man
Mar. 14	Johnson, Bud	Pace, Santa Rosa Co.	Rape
Sept. 8	Cook, Bowman	Jacksonville, Duval Co.	Murder
Sept. 8	Marine, John	" "	"
Nov. 28	Mosely, Samuel	Columbia County	Insult to young white woman.

1920

May 7	Scott, M.	nr. Lakeland, Polk Co.	Insulting white woman
Oct. 5	Givens, Rayfield	McClenny, Baker Co.	Implicated in killing a farmer.
Oct. 5	Givens, Benjamin	" "	" " " "
Oct. 5	Fulton, Smith	" "	" " " "
Oct. 5	Duncan, Samuel	" "	" " " "
Nov. 3	Perry, James	Ocoee, Orange Co.	Insisting on attempting to vote.
Nov. 29	Harris, J. B.	Princeton, Dade Co.	Attempted rape.

1921

Feb. 10 ✓	Campbell, Benjamin	Wauchula, Hardee Co.	Attempted rape.
Feb. 12 ✓	Jones, Elijah	Ocala, Marion Co.	Rape
Mar. 14 ✓	Bowles, William	Eagle Lake, Polk Co.	Improper remarks to white woman.
May 9 ✓	Ballinger, Samuel	Starke, Bradford Co.	Murder.
Oct. 1 ✓	Newsome, Ray	Pinetta, Madison Co.	Insulting white girl
Dec. 26 ✓	Head, Manual	Key West, Monroe Co.	Shooting man.

1922

Jan. 17 ✓	Unnamed man	Mayo, Lafayette Co.	Murder
Feb. 24 ✓	Unnamed man	Santa Rosa County	Killed by mob seeking another Negro who had killed a white man in altercation
July 18 ✓	Mock, Oscar	Lake Jennie Jewell, Orange Co.	Murder
Dec. 10 ✓	Wright, Charles	Perry, Taylor Co.	Murder
Dec. 12 ✓	Young, Arthur	Perry, Taylor Co.	Complicity in murder.

1923

Jan. 2 ✓	Carter, Samuel	Rosewood, Levy Co.	Rape
Jan. 5 ✓	Williams, Mingo	Levy County	No charge
Jan. 5 ✓	Gordon, Lesty (woman)	- Rosewood, Levy Co.	No charge
Jan. 6 ✓	Carrier, James	Rosewood, Levy co.	Resisting posse

1923 (cont'd.

Jan. 17	Wilson, Abraham	Newberry, Alachua Co.	Cattle stealing
June 7	Simmons, Henry	Palm Beach, Palm Beach Co.	Murder
June 15	Simmons,	Homestead, Dade Co.	Murder
Aug. 24	Hart, Benjamin	Jacksonville, Duval Co.	Peeping into young woman's window.
Dec. 30	Burnam, Gene	Dinsmore, Duval Co.	No charge.

1924

May 26	Wilson, Bubbers	Fort Myers, Lee Co.	Attempted rape
May 26	Williams, Milton	Fort Myers, Lee Co.	Rape
July 21	Unnamed man and	Lake County	Insulting woman
July 21	companion	" "	" "
Aug. 31	Woods, Warren	Jasper, Hamilton Co.	Murder

1925

May 13	West, Jack	Longwood, Seminole Co.	Attacking child
Nov. 26	Henry, Arthur	Orlando, Orange Co.	Shooting officer

1926

Jan. 11	Williams, Dick	Ocala, Marion Co.	Attack on woman
May 8	Davis, Charles	Hernando County	Murder
May 9	Watson, Parker	nr. St. Petersburg, Pinellas Co.	Alleged burglaries
May 10	Patterson, Henry	Labelle, Lee Co.	Attempted rape
May	Unnamed man	Vero Beach, Indian River Co.	No charge
June	Unnamed man	" " " "	" "
July 11	Unnamed man	Eau Gallie, Brevard Co.	Rape
Sept. 26	Nelson, Samuel	Delray, Palm Beach Co.	Attempted rape
Dec. 27	Buttington, Geo.	Waldo, Alachua Co.	Attempting to extort at pistol point an alleged debt from a white woman.

1927

1928

1929

Feb. 19	Allen, "Buster"	Brooksville, Hernando Co.	Rape
May 17	Romer, E.R.	Lake City, Columbia Co.	Wounded officer of the law
Oct.	Unnamed man	Hernando County	Charge unknown
Nov. 9	Larkins, Will	Quincy, Gadsden County	Rape

1930

Apr. 29	Hodaz, John	Hillsborough Co.	Bombing houses

1931

Aug. 28	Smoke, Charles	Bountstown, Calhoun Co.	Attacking & beating a forest ranger.
Aug. 28	Smoke, Richard	" "	" " " "

Lynchings in Fla.

		1932
June 6	Woods, Henry	Jasper, Hamilton County	Robbery & murder
		1933
		1934
Jan. 30	Johnson, Robt.	Tampa, Hillsborough Co.	Rape. Taken from offices of the law.
Oct. 26	Neal, Claude	Marianna, Jackson Co.	Rape & murder. Taken from jail.
		1935
June 2	Stacy, Reuben	Ft. Lauderdale, Broward Co.	Attacking white woman with a knife.
Dec. 30	Joseph Shoemaker	nr. Tampa, Hillsborough Co.	Alleged communistic activities.
		1936
Sept. 11	Buckie Young	Greenville, Madison Co.	Criminal assault
		1937
July 20	Richard Hawkins : Ernest Powders :	Tallahassee, Leon Co.	Stabbed an officer
Oct. 3	J. C. Evans	Milton, Santa Rosa Co.	Unnatural crime
		. . . . .
		1938
Aug. 9	Otis Price	Perry, Taylor Co.	Criminal assault
		1939
April 1	Miles W. Brown	Panama City, Bay Co.	Murder
April 29	Lee Snell	Daytona Beach, Volusia Co.	running over w. boy
		1943
June 16	Cellos Harrison	Marianna, Jackson Co.	tried for murder 1940 of white woman.
		1945
Oct. 10	Jesse James Payne	Madison Co.	Rape

LYNCHINGS IN GEORGIA

1900-1921

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Mar. 18	Barley, John	Marietta, Cobb County	Attempted rape
Apr. 3	Brooks, Allen	Berryville	Rape
May 4	Jones, Marshall	Douglas, Coffee County	Murder
May 13	Whitney, Alex	Harlem, Columbia County	Murder
May 14	Willis, William	Grovetown, Columbia Co.	Murder
June 9	Adams, Simon	Near Columbus, Muscogee Co.	Attempted rape
June 11	Jefferson, Lenny	Metcalf, Thomas County	Attempted rape
June 27	Hines, Jordan	Molena, Pike County	Unknown offense
July 12	Jennings, John	Caswell	Murder
July 24	Hillsman, Jack	Knoxville, Crawford Co.	Rape
Sept. 8	Welly, Grant	Thomasville, Thomas Co.	Assaulting white woman
Oct. 19	Hardman, Frank	Willaston	Rape
Oct. 24	Guer, James	Liberty Hill, Pike Co.	Race prejudice
Oct. 24	Caleaway, James	Liberty Hill, Pike Co.	Race prejudice
Dec. 8	Rufus, Bud	Near Rome, Floyd County	Murder
Dec. 28	Fuller, George	Marion County	Arson

1901

Jan. 3	Redd, George	Rome, Floyd County	Suspected rape
Jan. 3	Thompson, Sterling	Campbell County	Race prejudice
Jan. 5	Unknown Negro	Near Quitman, Brooks Co.	Rape
Mar. 2	Moody, John	Bryan County	Unknown offense
Mar. 13	Harris, Sherman	Shellman, Randolph Co.	Murder
Mar. 18	Unknown Negro	Randolph County	Murder
Apr. 15	Gordon, Kennedy	Portal, Bullock County	Attempted rape
May 10	Johnson, Henry	Valdosta, Lowndes County	Murderous assault
Apr. 29	Grousleby, William	Elberton, Elbert County	Murderous assault
June 29	Unknown Negro	Georgetown, Quitman Co.	Attempted rape
July 29	Erle, Frank	Vidalia, Montgomery Co.	Robbery
Aug. 10	Unknown Negro	Ways Station, Bryan Co.	Rape
Nov. 1	Unknown Negro	Allentown, Wilkinson Co.	Attempted rape

1902

Mar. 29	Young, Richard	Near Savannah, Chatham Co.	Murder
Apr. 1	Allen, Walter	Rome, Floyd County	Attempted rape
Apr. 22	Young, Harry	Locality undetermined	Unknown offense
July 28	McCauley, Arthur	Locality undetermined	Murder
July 28	Wise, John	Pembroke, Bryan County	Rape

34

8/19

19

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1902

(Cont'd.)

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Aug. 31	Brosin, John	Monticelle, Jasper County	Attempted rape
Oct. 23	Brown, Benjamin	Tallapoosa, Harrison Co.	Rape

1903

Feb. 7	Hill, Lee	Wrightsville, Johnson Co.	Murder
Feb. 24	Fambro, William	Griffin, Spalding County	Insulted white woman
Apr. 23	Rainey, Andrew	Bainbridge, Decatur Co.	Arson
May 22	Hopkins, William	New Bainbridge, Decatur Co.	Rape
June 1	Gorman, Benjamin	Locality undetermined	Murder
June 8	Peavey, Banjo	Fort Valley, Houston Co.	Murder
June 24	McCoy, Garfield	Newton, Baker County	Murder
June 24	McKinney, George	Newton, Baker County	Murder
June 24	Annett, Wiley	Newton, Baker County	Murder
July 14	Claus, Edward	Eastman, Dodge County	Mistaken identity — N.O.
Sept.	Unknown Negro	Whigham, Grady County	Rape
Oct. 16	Unknown Negro	Cordelle, Crisp County	Unknown offense

1904

May 15	Cummings, John	Appling, Columbia County	Rape
June 1	Thompson, Arthur	Arlington, Calhoun County	Murder
Aug. 16	Reed, Paul	Statesboro, Bullock County	Murder
Aug. 16	Cate, William	Statesboro, Bullock County	Murder
Aug. 17	Son of Rogers	Statesboro, Bullock County	Race prejudice
Aug. 17	Rogers, Albert	Statesboro, Bullock County	Race prejudice
Aug. 17	Lesueres, Rufus	Thomaston, Upson County	Assault
Aug. 22	Glover, Jas	Locality undetermined	Rape
Aug. 28	Scott	Rebecca, Turner County	Murder
Aug. 30	McBride, Sebastian	Portal, Bullock County	Race prejudice
Sept. 18	Ware, John	Royston, Franklin County	Murder
Sept. 21	Troy, Jack	Talbotton, Talbot County	Murder
Sept. 21	Marshall, Eward	Talbotton, Talbot County	Murder
Oct. 12	Weaver, Moses	Tifton, Tift County	Murder
Nov. 29	Simmons, Hurbert	Neal, Pike County	Murder

1905

June 29	Aycock, Lon J.	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder
June 29	Robinson, Rich	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder
June 29	Robinson, Lewis	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder
June 29	Elder, Claude	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder
June 29	Allen, Rich	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder
June 29	Yerly, Gene	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder
June 29	Harris, Robert	Watkinsville, Oconee Co.	Murder

36

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1905

(Cont'd.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
June 29	Price, Sandy	Watkinsville, Oconee County	Attempted rape
Oct. 8	Seabright, Thomas	Bainbridge, Decatur County	Rape
Oct. 29	Goodman, Augustas	Bainbridge, Decatur County	Murder

1906

May 14	Womack, William	Eastman, Dodge County	Rape
May 25	Irwin, John	Chipley, Harris County	Murder
July 11	Pearson, Ed	Swainsboro, Emanuel County	Murderous assault
July 31	Carmichael, Floyd	Lakewood — ?	Rape
Sept. 10	Miller, Chas.	Culloden, Monroe County	Attempted rape

1907

May 7	Harris, Charles	Dearing, McDuffie County	Murder
May 21 (5)	Five Negroes	Reidsville, Tattnall County	Race riot
July 1	Posey, "Dock"	Dalton, Whitfield County	Rape
July 2	Herbert, George	Cowen — ?	Murderous assault
Oct. 27	Wilks, John	Byron, Houston County	Robbery

1908

Jan. 9	Coley, Thomas	Goldsboro — ?	Murderous assault
Jan. 9	Webb, Isaac	Goldsboro — ?	Murderous assault
Feb. 17	Unknown Negro	Statesboro, Bullock County	Rape
Feb. 24	Thompson, Gilbert	Statesboro, Bullock County	Rape
	(Alleged rape, proved innocent afterwards)
Feb. 26	Unknown Negro	Valdosta, Lowndes County	Conspiracy to do violence
Mar. 6	Curry, Robertson	Hawkinsville, Pulaski Co.	Murder
Mar. 6	Henry, John	Hawkinsville, Pulaski Co.	Murder
June 27	Wilkins, Walter	Waycross, Ware County	Rape
June 27	Baker, Albert	Waycross, Ware County	Rape
June 27	Unnamed Negro	Hickox, Wayne County	Complicity in rape
July 29	Williams, Alonzo	Choopee, Toombs County	Attempted rape
Aug. 7	Lokie, Charles	Tifton, Tift County	Insulting remarks to white woman
Aug. 25	Williams, Vance	Louisville, Jefferson Co.	Murder
Sept. 5	Towne, John	Damascus, Early County	Rape
Sept. 22	Thomas, George	Ft. Gaines, Clay County	Murderous assault
Oct. 11	White, Henry	Younker, Dodge County	Murderous assault

24

R/TO 9

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1909

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Feb. 22	Three white men	Mineral Bluff, Fannin County	Rape
Mar. 2	Fowler, Joseph	Bakeley, Early County	Murder
May 24	Aikens, Albert	Lincolnton, Lincoln County	Murderous assault
June 22	Cornaker, William	Talboton, Talbot County	Unnamed offense
June 22	Hardy, Joseph	Talboton, Talbot County	Instigation of murder
June 25	Reese, Albert	Cuthbert, Randolph County	Murderous assault
July 1	Unnamed Negro	Barnett, Warren County	Burglary
July 20	Greene, King	Gum Branch, Liberty County	Insulting women
July 31	Anderson, Simon	Wellston, Houston County	Window peeping
Aug. 27	Clark, Benjamin	Tarryto n, Montgomery Co.	Murder
Aug. 27	Sweeney, John	Tarrytown, Montgomery Co.	Complicity in murder
Aug. 27	Clark, B.	Sopertown, Montgomery Co.	Murder
Dec. 1	Harvard, John	Cochran, Bleckley County	Murder

1910

Feb. 20	Lumpkin, Dan	Columbus County	Alleged complicity in murder
Mar. 2	Unnamed Negro	Vidalia, Toombs County	Attempted rape
Apr. 15	Royal, Albert	Amboy, Turner County	Rape
Apr. 15	Jackson, Charles	Amboy, Turner County	Rape
May 27	Wilson, Charles	Albany, Dougherty County	Rape
July 27	Ralent, Evan	Sylvania, Screven County	Attempted rape
July 31	Unnamed Negro	Near Cairo, Grady County	Rape
Apr. 11	Tabor, James	Alamo, Wheeler County	Rape
Sept. 6	Two Negroes	Clarke County	Attempted burglary and murder
Nov. 8	Walker, John	Montezuma, Macon County	Murder
Nov. 8	Barnes, William	Montezuma, Macon County	Murder

1911

Jan. 22	Johnson, William	Vera	Murder
Feb. 6	Kartz, Pearly	Montrose, Laurens County	Attempted murder
Feb. 25	Jones, Robert	Augusta, Richmond County	Murder
Feb. 25	Vease, John	Augusta, Richmond County	Murder
Apr. 7	Hale, Charles	Lawrenceville, Gwinnett Co.	Murder
Apr. 8	Jordan, Dawson	Ellaville, Schley County	Murder
Apr. 8	Pickett, Charles	Ellaville, Schley County	Murder
Apr. 8	Burton, Murray	Ellaville, Schley County	Murder
May 18	McLeod, John	Swainsboro, Emanuel County	Murder
May 21	Smith, Benjamin	Swainsboro, Emanuel County	Murder
May 22	Moore, Joseph	Crawfordsville, Taliaferro Co.	Murder

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1911

(Cont'd.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
June 30	Allen, Thomas	Monroe, Walton County	Rape
June 30	Watts, Foser	Monroe, Walton County	Suspected rape
July 11	McGroff, William	Baconton, Mitchell County	Murder
Aug. 29	Davis, Peter	Fort Gaines, Clay County	Murder
Sept. 5	Unnamed man	Carlton, Madison County	Attempted roberry and murder
Oct. 5	Unnamed Negro	Dublin, Laurens County	Attempted rape
Oct. 11	Chapman, Andrew	Irwinton, Wilkinson County	Attempted rape
Oct. 19	Lovelace, Terry	Manchester, Meriwether Co.	Murderous assault
Oct. 28	Walker, Daniel	Washington, Wilkes County	Murder
Dec. 23	Warren, John	Donald, Liberty County	Murder

1912

Jan. 22	Hemming, Eugene	Hamilton, Harris County	Murder
Jan. 22	Moore, John	Hamilton, Harris County	Murder
Jan. 22	Crutchfield, John	Hamilton, Harris County	Murder
Jan. 22	Hathaway, Belle	Hamilton, Harris County	Murder
Jan. 30	Hamilton, Albert	Cordelle, Crisp County	Rape
Feb. 4	Powell, Charles	Macon, Bibb County	Assualt and robbery
Mar. 21	Burk, Homer	Cochran, Bleckley County	Murder
Apr. 26	Ethridge, Henry	Near Jackson, Butts County	Race prejudice
Aug. 13	Cotton, T. Z.	Columbus, Muscogee County	Murder
Sept. 10	Edwards, Robert	Cummings, Forsythe County	Complicity in murder
Oct. 5	Yarborough	Americus, Sumter County	Rape
Nov. 30	Williams, Chesbley	Cordelle, Crisp County	Murder

1913

Feb.	McDonald, George	Barney, Brooks County	Disorderly
Feb. 28	Two unknown Negroes	Cornelia, Habersham Co.	Murder
May 5	Moore, John Henry	Appling, Columbia County	Firing pistol, disorderly
May 12	Owensby, Sam	Franklin, Heard County	Murder
June 21	Redding, William	Americus, Sumter County	Shooting officer
July 27	Shake, John	Dunbar, Houston County	Burglary and attempted murder
Aug. 25	Swanson, Virgil	Greenville, Meriwether Co.	Murder
Nov. 21	Boyd, General	Walden, BibbCounty	Attempted rape

B/4 3 3D

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1914

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
May 7	Jones, Charles	Grovetown, Columbia County	Suspected burglary
Sept. 26	Brown, Nathan	Rochelle, Wilcox County	Murder

1915

Jan.14	Barber, Daniel	Monticello, Jasper County	Attempted murder
Jan.14	Barber, Jesse	Monticello, Jasper County	Attempted murder
Jan. 14	Barber, Eula	Monticello, Jasper County	Attempted murder
Jan 14	Barber, Ella	Monticello, Jasper County	Attempted murder
Jan. 21	Morris, Peter	Arlington, Calhoun County	Murder
Feb. 4	Culberton, A. N.	Evans, Columbia County	Rape (white physician)
Apr. 16	Sheffield, Ceasar	Lake Park, Lowndes County	Burglary
June 14	Stevens, Samuel	Toccoa, Stephens County	Attempted rape
July 4	Greene, Alonzo	Round Oak, Jones County	Complicity in murder
July 4	Alonzo Green's son	Round Oak, Jones County	Complicity in Murder
July 4	Palmer, Earl	Round Oak, Jones County	Complicity in mrder
July 14	Jackson, Peter	Cochran, Bleckley County	Murder
July 14	Jackson, James	Cochran, Bleckley County	Complicity in murder
July 14	Fambrough, Peter	Cochran, Bleckley County	Complicity in murder
Aug. 16	Frank, Leo (white)	Near Marietta, Cobb County	Murder
Aug. 17	Higgins, John	Amsterdam, Decatur County	Rape
Dec. 20	Bland, Samuel	Eastman, Dodge County	Murder
Dec. 20	Stewart, William	Eastman, Dodge County	Murder

1916

Jan. 21	Seamore, Rodius	Sylvester, Worth County	Complicity in murder
Jan. 21	Seamore, Frank	Sylvester, Worth County	Complicity in murder
Jan. 21	Seamore, Dewey	Sylvester, Worth County	Complicity in murder
Jan.21	Seamore, Major	Sylvester, Worth County	Complicity in murder
Feb. 10	McCorkle, Jesse	Cartersville, Bartow County	Attempted rape
Feb. 10.	King, James	Near St. Mary's, Camden Co.	Murder
Aug. 18	Lewis,	Cat Creek, Lowndes County	Burglary
Sept. 20	White, Henry	Durham, Walker County	Attempted rape
Sept. 21	Hudson, Peter	Cuthbert, Randolph County	Murder
Sept. 27	Shuler, Maxie	Bainbridge, Decatur Co.	Attempted rape
Oct. 4	Conley, Mary	Leary, Calhoun County	Complicity in Murder
Oct. 7	Smith, Charles	Sandersville, Washington Co.	Robbery

1917

Mar. 1	Linton, George	Meigs, Thomas County	Rape
Sept. 18	Moncrief, Rufus	White Hall, Clarke County	Rape

8/4

34

4

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1917

(Cont'd.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Nov. 9	Slater, Jesse	Brooks County	Writing insulting letter to woman
Nov. 17	Johnson, Collius	Sale City, Mitchell County	Disputing with white man
Nov. 17	Johnson, D. C.	Sale City, Mitchell County	Disputing white man
Dec. 15	Dekle, Claxton	Metter, Candler County	Murder

1918

Feb. 18	Crosby, "Bud"	Fayetteville, Fayette Co.	Attempted burglary
Mar. 22	Evans, Spencer	Crawfordsville, Taliaferro Co.	Rape
May 18	Head, William	Brooks County	Complicity in murder and assault
May 18	Thompson, William	Brooks County	Complicity in murder
May 18	Turner, Hayes	Brooks County	Complicity in murder
May 18	Rice, Eugene	Brooks County	Complicity in murder
May 19	Turner, Mary	Brooks County	For making unwise remarks about the lynching of her husband — N.O.
May 19	(About this date)	Brooks County	Chime Riley, Simon Schuman and three unidentified Negroes charged with complicity in murder — Extra
May 25	Cobb, James	Cordele, Crisp County	Rape and murder
May 25	Johnson, Sidney	Valdosta, Lowndes County	Murder
May 24	Calhoun, John	Near Barnesville, Pike Co.	Murder
Aug. 11	Raney, Isaac	Near Miller, Colquitt Co.	Rape
Sept. 3	Gillham, John	Gray, Jones County	Rape
Sept. 24	Reaves, Sandy	Blackshear, Pierce County	Rape

5 Lynchings Extra

1919

Apr. 13	Williams, William	Jenkins County	Complicity in murder
May 2	Brown, Denny	Warrentown, Warren County	Murder
May 16	Walters, James	Dublin, Laurens County	Attempted rape
May 26	Washington, Berry	Milan, Telfair County	Murder
Aug. 1	Kelly, Charles	Wesley, Emanuel County	Unknown offense
Aug. 5	Unknown Negro	Cochran, Bleckley County	For making remarks about the Chicago race riot — N.O.
Aug. 14	Grant, James	Pope City, Wilcox County	Attempted murder
Aug. 27	Cooper, Eli	Cadwell, Laurens County	Incendiary talk
Sept. 10	Cox, Obe	Oglethorpe County	Rape and murder

a/6

a+ 1= 27

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1919

(Cont'd.)

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Sept. 22	Glenwood, Ernest	Lilly, Dooley County	Incendiary talk
Oct. 5	Martin, Moses	Washington, Wilkes County	Boastful remarks about another Negro shooting an officer of the law — N.O.
Oct. 5	Freeman, Moses	Washington, Wilkes County	Misleading members of mob searching for Jack Gordon — N.O.
Oct. 6	Gordon, Jack	Washington, Wilkes County	Attempted murder
Oct. 7	Hamilton, Eugene	Jasper County	Attempted murder
2 Oct. 18 2	Two unknown Negroes	Near Buena Vista, Marion Co.	Offense unknown
Nov. 5	Jones, Paul	Macon, Bibb County	Rape
Nov. 19	Baynes, Wallace	Madison, Morgan County	Murder
Nov. 30	Everetts, Wesley	Wilkinson County	Attempted murder
Dec. 21	West, Charles	Smithville, Lee County	Murder

1920

Mar. 4	Alexander, Cornelius	Pike County	Jumping labor contract — NO.
June 21	Gaithers, Phillip	Rincon, Effingham County	Rape and murder
Sept. 25	Cremer, Felix	Greene County	Complicity in attempted murder
Sept. 25	Unknown Negro	Dooley County	Attempted murder
Nov. 18	Perry, William	Douglas, Coffee County	Complicity in murder
Nov. 18	Ivory, William	Douglas, Coffee County	Complicity in murder
Nov. 18	Ivory, William Mrs.	Douglas, Coffee County	Complicity in murder
Nov. 23	McKelvey, Curley	Worth County	Complicity in murder
Nov. 30	Unknown Negro	Pavo, Thomas County	Rape

1921

Jan. 2	Roland, James	Mitchell, Glascock County	Murder
Jan. 6	Williams, Samuel	Talbotton, Talbot County	Offense unknown
Jan	Unknown Negro	Undetermined locality	Rape
Feb.	Unknown Negro	Undetermined locality	Murder
Feb. 16	Eberhardt, John Lee	Athens, Clarke County	Murder
Mar. 4	Anderson, William	Baker County	Offense unknown
Apr.	Unnamed old woman	Undetermined locality	Complicity in murder
Apr.	Unnamed man	Undetermined locality	Complicity in murder
June 18	Williams, John Henry	Moultrie, Colquitt County	Murder

R/4

28

Lynchings in Georgia
(Continued)

1922

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Feb. 13	Jones, William	Ellaville, Schley County	Complicity in murder
Mar. 12	Williams, Alfred	Harlem, Columbia County	Attempted murder
May 18	Atkins, Charles	Davisboro, Washington Co.	Murder
May 28	Byrd, William	Brentwood, Wayne County	Murder
July 1	Harvey, James	Liberty County	Rape
July 1	Jordan, Joseph	Liberty County	Rape
July 14	Davis, Jacob	Colquitt, Miller County	Rape
July 25	Anderson, William	Ellenton, Colquitt Co.	Attempted rape
Aug. 1	Glover, John	Holton, Monroe Co.	Murder
Sept. 2	Reid, James	Winder, Barrow County	Attempted burglary and assault
Sept. 28	Johnson, James	Near Sandersville, Washington County	Attempted rape

1923

Feb. 3	Butts, George	Hancock County	Attempted murder
Feb. 3	Unknown Negro	Hancock County	Attempted murder
Aug. 17	Harris, Aaron	Cochran, Blackley County	Rape
Aug. 17	Greene, Lee	Wellston, Houston County	Rape

1924

Mar. 18	Hayes, John	Cordelle, Crisp County	Attempted rape
Apr. 3	Thrash, Beach	Woodbury, Meriwether Co.	Murder

1925

Mar. 2	Unnamed Negro	Rocky Ford, Screven Co.	Rape
Sept. 20	Dixon, William	Milledgeville, Baldwin Co.	Murder

1926

Aug. 30	Wright, David	Douglas, Coffee County	Murder

1927

1928

1929

R/6

3

Lynchings in Georgia
(Concluded)

1930

Date	Name	Place	Accusation
Feb. 1	Irvine, James	Ocilla, Irwin County	Rape and murder
July 29	Mincey, S. S.	Ailey, Montgomery County	No charge reported N.O.
Sept. 8	Grant, George	Darien, McIntosh County	Murder
Sept. 25	Kirkland, William	Thomasville, Thomas County	Rape
Sept. 28	Mitchell, Lacy	Thomas County	Reported to have been star witness in case against two white men for attempted rape of a Negro woman. N O
Oct. 1	Clark, John William	Cartersville, Bartow County	Murder

1931

1932

1933

May 12	Kinsey, William (Negro	Warrenton, Warren Co.	Murder
June 12	Thomas, T. J. (Negro)	Newton, Baker Co.	Altercation with white boys
June 17	Marshall, Richard (Negro)	Newton, Baker Co.	Cause unknown
Oct. 23	Davis, Sexis (Negro) (Cephus)	Richland, Stewart Co.	Rape of Negro girl, resisting arrest and wounding officer of law.

1934

Oct. 7	James, Curtis (Negro)	Nones, McIntosh Co.	Implicating others in stealing turpentine and bootlegging it. Did not come into hands of law. NO

1935

Sept 27	Lewis Harris (Negro)	Vienna, Dooly Co.	Forcibly taking prisoner from officer N.O.
Oct 17	"Bo" Bronson, Negro	Moultrie, Colquitt Co.	Shot to death by posse seeking another man NO

1936

Mar 14	Philip Baker, Negro	Chattahoochee County, Cusseta	Rape
Apr 28	Sim Shaw, Negro	Danielsville, Madison Co.	Att. Rape
May 3	John Rushin, Negro	Paris, Thomas Co.	Murder

LYNCHINGS IN GEORGIA

1935

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Sept. 28	Lewis Harris	Vienna, Dooley Co.	Resisting arrest
Oct. 17	"Bo" Bronson	Moultrie, Colquitt Co.	No offense

1936

March 14	Philip Baker	Cusseta, Chattahoochee Co.	Assaulting white woman
April 28	Lint Shaw	Danielsville, Madison Co.	Attempted criminal Assault
May 3	John Rushin	Pavo, Thomas Co.	Attempted assault
Sept. 6	A. L. McCamy	Dalton, Whitfield Co.	Attempted assault
Sept. 12	Tom Finch	Atlanta, Fulton Co.	Resisting arrest
Dec. 23	Mack Henry Brown	Atlanta, Fulton Co.	Insulting white woman

1937

May 25	Willie Reed	Bainbridge, Decatur Co.	Murder and assault white w.

1938

July 6	John Dukes ~~Arab~~	Arabi, Crisp Co.	Killing officer

1940

March 7	Ike Gaston (w)	Atlanta, Fulton Co.	Cruel to wife
Sept. 8	Austin Callaway	LaGrange, Troup Co.	Attempted attack on w.w.

1943

Jan. 30	Robert Hall	Albany, Baker Co.	theft of auto tire, beaten to death by officers of the law en route to jail

1946

July 14	Roger Malcolm + wife George Dorsey and wife	Monroe, Walton Co.	attempted murder of white man by Malcolm

LYNCHINGS IN KENTUCKY

1900-1934

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Oct. 18	Warfield, Fraten	Elliston, Grant County	Attempted rape

1901

Sept. 12	Howard, Frank	Wickliff, Ballard Co.	Murder
Sept. 12	Redd, Sam	Wickliff, Ballard Co.	Murder
Sept. 12	Harris, Ernest	Wickliff, Ballard Co.	Murder
Oct. 2	Fields, Jumbo	Shelbyville, Shelby Co.	Murder
Oct. 2	Garnett, Clarence	Shelbyville, Shelby Co.	Murder
Oct. 31	Esters, Silas	Hodgenville, Larue Co.	Forcing white boy to commit crime

1902

Jan. 11	Mays, Jas.	Spyfield	Criminal assault
Feb. 6	Brown, Thomas	Nicholasville, Jessamine Co.	Criminal assault
Feb. 15	Duly, Bell	Fulton, Fulton Co.	Suspected murder
Mar. 20	Drake, Elijah	Madrid Bend, Breckenridge Co.	Larceny
Mar. 20	Stewart, Jas.	Madrid Bend, Breckenridge Co.	Implicated in larceny
Apr. 10	Blambard, Thomas	Fulton, Fulton Co.	Murder
Apr. 30	Dewley, Ernest	Bradenburg, Meade Co.	Murderous assault
Nov. 16	Buckles, Harlan	Elizabethtown, Hardin Co.	Murder

1903

July 14	Thackson, William	Maysville, Mason Co.	Murder
Oct. 9	Hall, Thomas	Kevil, Ballard, Co	Murder

1904

Jan. 24	Radford, Lewis	Guthrie, Todd County	Murder
June 14	Thompson, Marie	Lebanon Junction, Bulitt Co.	Murder
July 17	Unknown	Locality undetermined	Murder
Aug. 30	Bumpass, Joe	Near Hickman, Fulton Co.	Rape

1905

May 22	Shaw, Robert	Waltman, Hancock Co.	Murder
July 7	Beard, Leon	Normandy, Spencer Co.	Rape

Lynchings in Kentucky
(Continued)

1905

(Cont'd.)

Oct. 12	Leavell, Frank	Elkton, Todd Co.	Attempted rape

1906

Jan. 22	Baker, Ernest	Cadiz, Trigg Co.	Murder

1907

Aug. 16	Clifford, William	Maple Grove, - ?	Rape and murder

1908

May 31	McDowell, Jacob	Providence, Webster Co.	Murder
Aug. 1	Jones, Virgil	Russellville, Logan Co.	Expressing sympathy with murder of white man.
Aug.	Riley, Jos	Russellville, Logan Co.	Expressing sympathy with murder of white man.
Oct. 4	David, Wallace, wife and two children	Hickory Grove, Simpson Co.	Making threats.
Dec. 17	Hill, Elmer	Monticello, Wayne Co.	Cause not given

Begin Bourbon Cours.

1909

Apr. 9	Brame, Benjamin	Hopkinsville, Christian Co.	Attempted rape
June 3	Maxey, Jno.	Frankfort, Franklin Co.	Murder
July 20	Lawson, Albert	Paris, Bourbon Co.	Shooting a sheriff
Aug. 10	Miller, Wallace	Cadiz, Trigg Co.	Attempted rape

1910

Apr. 1	Carroll,	Goff, - ?	By night riders

1911

Jan. 15	Patterson, Wade	Shelbyville, Shelb y Co.	Insulting women
Jan. 15	West. James	Shelbyville, Shelby Co.	Insulting women
Jan. 15	Marshall, Gene	Shelbyville, Shelby Co.	Murder
Apr. 21	Potter, William	Livermore, McLean Co.	Murder
Apr. 25	four unknown whites	Campton, Wolfe Co.	Unknown cause

4 persons

1912

14

Lynchings in Kentucky
(Continued)

1913

July	Two Negroes	Germantown, Bracken Co.	Unknown cause
Sept. 26	Richardson, Joseph	Leitchfield, Grayson Co.	Rape

1914

1915

Jan. 12	Molenndro, P	Lovelaceville, Ballard Co.	Night riders
Feb. 9	Tinker, Thomas	Mayfield, Graves Co.	Murder
June 4	Bell, Arthur	Princeton, Caldwell Co.	Rape
Sept. 10	Johnson, Claude	Hickman, Fulton Co.	Murder
Nov. 26	Buckner, Ellis	Henderson, Henderson Co.	Rape

1916

Oct. 16	Henley, Brock	Paducah, McCracken Co.	Rape
Oct. 16	Durrett, Jesse	Paducah, McCracken Co.	Expressing sympathy with Henley

1917

Mar. 12	Sanders, William	Maysville, Mason Co.	Robbery
May 20	Dempsey, Laurence	Fulton, Fulton Co.	Murderous assault

1918

Dec. 16	Lewis, Charles	Hickman, Fulton Co.	Beating sheriff

1919

1920

Mar. 29	Smith, Grant	Paris, Bourbon Co.	Rape

1921

Mar. 13	James, Richard	Versailles, Woodford Co.	Murder

1922

1923

Lynchings in Kentucky
(Concluded)

1924

Nov. 2	Shannon, Frederick	Wayland, Floyd Co.	Murder

1925

1926

June 15	Kirby, Primus	Guthrie, Todd Co.	Wounding officer of the law

1927

Nov. 30	Wood, Leonard	Whitesburg, Letcher Co.	Murder

1928

1929

Dec. 25	Fugate, Chester	Jackson, Breathitt Co.	Murder

1930

1931

1932

May 31	Merrick, Walter (white)	Princeton, Caldwell Co.	Dynamiting store

1933

1934

Jan. 24	Scott, Rex (Negro)	Vicco, Perry County	Wounding man in altercation. Taken from jail.

LYNCHINGS IN LOUISIANA

1900-1934

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
May 15	Harris, Henry	Lena, Rapides Parish	Attempted rape
June 12	Cobb, Seth	Devalle Bluff, Baton Rouge	Making threats
June 23	Gilmore, Frank	Livingston, Parish	Rape
July 9	Jefferson, Henry	Greene's Bayou, Red River Parish	Unpopularity
July 25	Charles, Robert	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Murder
July 25	Unknown Negro	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
July 25	Thomas, August,	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
July 25	Filean, Baptiste	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
July 25	Taylor, Lewis	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
July 25	Mabry, Anna	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
July 25	Jackson, Silas	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
July 25	Unknown Negro	New Orleans, Orleans Parish	Race prejudice
Sept. 11	Amos, Thomas J.	Cheyneyville, Rapides Parish	Murder
Sept. 21	Bickham, George	Ponchatoula, Tangipahoa Parish	Burglary
Sept. 21	Bowman, Nathaniel	Ponchatoula, Tangipahoa Parish	Burglary
Sept. 21	Elliott, Charles	Ponchatoula, Tangipahoa Parish	Burglary
Sept. 21	Rollins, Isaiah	Ponchatoula, Tangipahoa Parish	Burglary
Oct. 9	Johnson, Wiley	Baton Rouge, Baton Rouge Parish	Murder

1901

Feb. 17	Jackson, Thomas	St. Peter, St. Landry Parish	Murder
Feb. 21	Vital, Thomas	Fenton, Jefferson Davis Parish	Rape
Mar. 5	Davis, William	Blanchard, Caddo Parish	Rape
May 4	Brigman, Felton	Rodessa, Caddo Parish	Rape
May 4	Johnson, Grant	Alden Bridge, Bossier Parish	For keeping a gambling house
June 5	Dickson, Dic	Minder, Webster Parish	Murder
June 20	Smith, Prophet	Bossier, Bossier Parish	Murder
June 20	Moland, F. C.	Bossier, Bossier Parish	Murder
July 15	Thomas, Louis	Girard, Richland Parish	Theft
July 19	Unknown Negro	Crowley, Acadia Parish	Resisting arrest

Lynchings in Louisana
(Continued)

1901
(Cont'd.)

Sept. 1	West, Sam	E. ~~Louisiana~~ Louisiana Parish	Attempted rape
Oct. 12	Morris, William	Balltown ?	Rape
Nov. 24	Thompson, Frank	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Murder
Dec. 7	Poydrass, Sam	Lake Charles, Calcasieu Parish	Murderous assault

1902

Jan. 26	Two Negroes	West Carrol Parish	Murder
Feb. 20	Bibb Oliver	Winona, Winn Co.	Accessory to murder
Mar. 19	Woodward, John	Vidalia, Concordia Parish	Murder
Apr. 10	Franklin, George	Homer, Claiborne Parish	Attempted rape
Apr. 10	Unknown Negro	Victoria, Nachitoches Parish	Murder
May 4	Sims, John	Oak Ridge, Morehouse Parish	Sheltering murderer
May 13	Dublane, Nicholas	Loreauville, Iberia Parish	Attempted criminal assault
Sept. 8	Mobley, Wm.	Winona, Winn Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 26	Lamb, Joseph	Francisville, ½ ?	Attempted rape

1903

Jan. 19	Unknown white man	Locality undetermined	Unknown offense
Jan. 26	Momas, Joseph	Luling, St. Charles Parish	Murder
Feb. 7	Lee, Cornelius	Plaquemine, Iberville Parish	Murderous assault
June 12	Dupree, Frank	Forrest Hill, Rapides Parish	Murder
June 24	Harris, Jack	Concordia Parish	Assault on white man
June 24	Whittle, Lamb	Concordia Parish	Assault on white man
July 26	Sturs, Jennis	Near Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Murder
Oct. 16	Kenny, George	Taylor Town, Bossier Parish	Threats to kill
Nov. 2	Graddvels, Joseph	Taylor Town, Bossier Parish	Murder
Dec. 27	Carr, James	Millview, ?	Murder

1904

May 8	Piper, Frank	Alexandria, Rapides Parish	Making threats
Sept. 18	Allison, John	McGhee Station, West Feliciana Co.	Murder

1905

Apr. 26	Craighead, R.	Homer, Claiborne Parish	Murder
June 1	Wilson, Thomas	Batchelor, Pointe Coupee Parish	Murder
Aug. 12	Unknown Negro	Eros, Jackson Parish	Murder

Lynchings in Louisiana
(Continued)

1905
(Cont'd.)

Nov. 26	Williams, Monsie	Tangipahoa, Tangipahoa Parish	Attempted rape

1906

Feb. 24	Wiltzie, Page	Bienville, Bienville Parish	Suspected rape
Mar. 18	Carr, William	Plaquemine, Iberville Parish	Theft
Mar. 28	Cotton, Corrolle	Red River Parish	Attempted rape
May 8	Whitney, George	Ethel, East Feliciana Parish	Insulting lady
May 23	Jackson, Thomas	Blanchard, Caddo Parish	Robbery
May 29	Rogers, R. T.	Tallulah, Madison Parish	Murder
Aug. 26	Shaugfilet, Alfred	Calhoun, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Nov. 29	Domingo, Huton	Lafayette, Lafayette Parish	Disorderly conduct

1907

Mar. 15	Williams, Flint	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Mar. 15	Gardner, Henry	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Apr. 16	Strauss, Chas.	Bunkie, Avoyelles Parish	Attempted rape
Apr. 17	Kilbourne, Fred	Clinton, East Feliciana Parish	Attempted rape
May 3	Baly, Silas
May 3	Baly, Silas	Bossiers' City, Bossier Parish	Rape
June 1	Johnson, Henry	Echo, Rapides Parish	Attempted rape
June 10	Wilson, James	Gibsland, Bienville Parish	Attempted rape
June 25	Jackson, Mathias	Near Alexandria, Rapides Parish	Rape
June 28	Dorans, Ralph	Ruby, Rapides Parish	Rape
Dec. 13	Unknown Negro	Mer Rouge, Morehouse Parish	Murderous assault

1908

Feb. 5	Mitchell, Robert	Oak Grove, West Carroll Parish	Murder
June 4	Cooper, Bird	Homer, Claibourne Parish	Murder
July 18	Three unnamed Negroes	Jonesville, Catahoula Parish	Suspected arson
Aug. 5	Harris, Andrew	Bethany, Caddo Parish	Attempted rape
Sept. 19	Miles, John	Locality undetermined	Robbery and assault
Oct. 12	Hector, Nicholas	New Iberia, Iberia Parish	Desperado

1909

July 30	Antoine, Emile	Grand Prairie,	Murder
July 30	Thomas, Onexsine	Grand Prairie,	Murder
Aug. 15	Unnamed Negro	Morehouse Parish,	Bringing suit against white man

Lynchings in Louisiana
(Continued)

1909
(Con'td.)

Aug. 24	Way, William	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murderous assault
Sept. 8	Hill, Henry	Mangham, Richland Parish	Rape
Oct. 1	Ard, Aps	Near Greensburg, St. Helena Parish	Murder
Oct. 12	Rodriguez, Michael	Slabtown,	Robbery
Oct. 27	Gifford, Joseph	Floyd, West Carroll Parish	Murder
Oct. 27	Hill, Alex	Floyd, West Carroll Parish	Murder
Nov. 20	Estes, James	Delhi, Richland Parish	Murder
Nov. 27	Rachel, Henry	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Rape

1910

Mar. 14	Denton, Ely	Rayville, Richland Parish	Murder
July 10	Freeman, J. D.	Rayville, Richland Parish	Charge not given
Aug. 25	Porter, Laura	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Keeping disreputable house
Sept. 14	Glover, Isaac	Springfield, Livingston Parish	Murder

1911

Jan. 20	Poulson, Oval	Opalousas, Saint Landry Parish	Murder
July 24	Taylor, Miles	Claiborne, Parish	Murder
Sept. 15	Byrd, Walter	Winnsboro, Franklin Parish	Murderous assault
Nov. 8	Nixon, William	Delhi, Richland Parish	Murder

1912

Apr. 9	Miles, Thomas	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Insulting white women
Apr. 25	Unnamed	Delhi, Richland Parish	Unnamed offense
May 3	Allums, Ernest	Locality undetermined	Insulting white women
Sept. 25	Johnson, Sam	Grand Cane, De Soto Parish	Murder
Nov. 28	Burke, Wood	Benton, Bossier Parish	Murderous assault
Nov. 28	Heard, Jas.	Benton, Bossier Parish	Murderous assault
Nov. 28	Jimmerson, Silas	Benton, Bossier Parish	Murderous assault
Dec. 28	Cadore, "Norm"	Baton Rouge, East Baton Rouge Parish	Murder

1915

Feb. 15	Ryson, Chas.	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Cause unknown
Aug. 27	Comeaux, James	Jennings, Jefferson Davis Parish	Murderous assault

Lynchings in Louisiana
(Continued)

1913

(Cont'd.)

Oct. 22	Eaton, Warren	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Dec. 13	White, Henry	Campville, ?	Being found under bed in white girl's room
Dec. 16	Williams, Ernest	Blanchard, Caddo Parish	Murder
Dec. 16	Williams, Frank	Blanchard, Caddo Parish	Murder

1914

Mar. 17	Turner, Allen	Wynn Parish	Wounding a white farmer
May 12	Hamilton, Edward	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Rape
July 7	Unknown colored man	Slidedell, St. Tammany Parish	Murder
Aug. 5	Holmes, Henry	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Aug. 7	Griffin, Preston	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Aug. 7	Hall, Charles	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Murder
Aug. 9	Unnamed colored man	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Suspected murder
Dec. 2	Lewis, Toobe	Sylvester, ?	Murder
Dec. 2	Durden, Monroe	Sylvester, ?	Murder
Dec. 11	Lewis, Watkins	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Complicity in murder
Dec. 11	Washington, Chas.	Mooringsport, Caddo Parish	Murder
Dec. 11	Henderson, Board	Mooringsport, Caddo Parish	Murder

1915

July 16	Collins, Thomas	Bankie, Avoyelles Parish	Wounding a policeman
Aug. 21	Unknown colored man	Coushatta, Red River Parish	Attempted rape

1916

July 16	Collins, Thomas	Bunkie, Avoyelles Parish
Nov. 15	Grant, James	Melville, St. Landry Parish	Murder

1917

Feb. 28	Hooper, Emma	Hammond, Tangipahoa Parish	Wounding officer of the law
May 11	Brooks, Henry	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Intimacy with white woman
May 11	Ruffin, Marcel	(about) Edgard, St. John the Baptist Parish	Vagrancy
July 29	Rout, Dan	Amite, Tangipahoa Parish	Murder

Lynchings in Louisiana
(Continued)

1917
(Cont'd.)

July 29	Rout, Jerry	Amite, Tangipahoa Parish	Murder

1918

Jan. 26	Nelson, James	Benton, Bossier Parish	Being intimate with white woman
Feb. 26	Lewis, James	Delhi, Richland Parish	Participation in fight between white and Negro
Feb. 26	Jones, James	Delhi, Richland Parish	Participation in fight between white and Negro
Feb. 26	Powell, William	Delhi, Richland Parish	Participation in fight between white and Negro
Mar. 16	McNeal, George	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Robbery and rape
Mar. 16	Richards, John	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Robbery and rape
Apr. 22	Williams, Clyde	Fawndale,	Assault with intent to murder
June 18	Clayton, Georgia	Mangham, Richland Parish	Murder
Aug. 7	Hall, "Bubber"	Bastrop, Morehouse Parish	Attempted rape

1919

Jan. 18	Thomas, Henry	Grand Bayou, Red River Parish	Murder
Jan. 29	Smith, Thompson	Columbia, Caldwell Parish	Murder
Feb. 14	Fortner, William	Bossier, Bossier Parish	Murder
Apr. 29	Holden, George	Monroe, Ouachita Parish	Writing insulting letter to white woman
Aug. 29	McCarty, Lucius	Bogalusa, Washington Parish	Attempted rape
Sept. 6	Unnamed colored man	Mer Rouge, Morehouse Parish	Attempted rape
Oct. 25	Jackson, Gus	Near Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Charge not given 1920

1921

Feb. 2	Werner, George	Port Allen, West Baton Rouge Parish	Dangerously wounding a man
Apr. 15	Williams, Tony	Rodessa,	Rape
Sept. 2	Unnamed man	Athens, Claiborne Parish	Complicity in murder
Sept. 13	Holmes, Gilemsn	Columbia, Caldwell Parish	Robbery and attempted murder
Oct. 25	Gordon, Samuel	Winnsboro, Franklin Parish	Charged with shooting a white farmer

Lynchings in Louisiana
(Concluded)

1922
~~(Cont'd.)~~

Mar. 13	Culpepper, Brown	Holley Grove, Franklin Parish	No charge
July 7	Pemberton, Joseph	Benton, Bossier Parish	Shooting two women
Aug. 30	Rivers, Thomas	Bossier Parish	Rape

1923

Jan. 4	Leggett, Leslie	Shreveport, Caddo Parish	Trying to associate with white woman. (Leslie was reported as being a Spaniard)

1924

Aug. 2	Wilson, John	Athens, Claiborne Parish	Murder

1925

Feb. 26	Airy, Joseph	Benton, Bossier Parish	Murder

1926

1927

Apr.	Unnamed Negro	DeQuincy, Calcasieu Parish	No charge reported

1928

June 2	Blackman, Lee	Boyce, Rapides Parish	Being brothers of William Blackman
June 2	Blackman, David	Boyce, Rapides Parish who in battle with officers of the law had slain one of the officers and had in turn been slain in the battle.

1929

1930

1931

Aug. 2	Livingston, Oscar (Negro)	Pointe a la Hache, Plaquemines Parish	Attempted rape

Lynchings in Louisiana
(Concluded)

1932

Nov. 19	House, William (Negro)	Wisner, Franklin Parish	Insulting white women

1933

Jan. 10	Jenkins, Fell (Negro)	Homer, Claiborne Parish	Cause unknown
Feb. 19	Nash, Nelson (Negro)	Ringgold, Bienville Parish	Murder
Sept. 26	White, John (Negro)	Opelousas, Saint Landry Parish	Attempted rape
Oct. 12	Moore, Freddy (Negro	Labadieville, Assumption Parish	Murder

1934

July 9	McLeod, Andrew (Negro)	Bastrop, Morehouse Parish	Attempted rape. Taken from jail.
Aug. 5	Page, Gafton (Negro)	Bethany, Caddo Parish	Attempted rape. Did not come into hands of law.

1935

Jan. 11	Jerome Wilson	Franklinton, Franklin Parish	Murder
March 3	Anderson Ward	Maringuoin, Iberville Parish	Whipped w. man
Nov. 1	Two Negro men	Gretna, Jefferson Parish	Attempted rape

1938

Oct. 13	R. C. Williams	Ruston, Lincoln Parish	Criminal assault-murder

3

LYNCHINGS IN MISSISSIPPI

1900 - 1935

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Mar. 4	Crosby, James	Tutwiler, Tallahatchie Co.	Threats to kill.
Mar. 10	Clayton, Thomas	Hernando, DeSoto County	Rape
Mar. 27	Edward, William	Depp Creek Bridge, Perry Co.	Murder
Apr. 16	York, Moses	Near Tunica, Tunica Co.	Murder
Apr. 19	McAfee, Henry	Brownsville, Hinds Co.	Attempted Rape.
May 1	Ratcliff, Henry	Gloster, Amite County	Attacking white man.
May 1	Gordon, George	Albin, Tallahatchie Co.	Attacking white man.
May 7	Unknown Negro	Amite County	No offense
May 16	Hinson, Samuel	Cushtusha	Assault
June 3	Pete, Dago	Tutwiler, Tallahatchie Co.	Rape
June 10	Askew,	Mississippi, Harrison Co.	Suspected murder.
Aug. 13	Betts, Jack	Corinth, Alcorn Co.	Rape
Sep. 12	Floyd, Zed	Tunica, Tunica Co.	Murder
Sep. 14	Brown, Frank	Tunica, Tunica Co.	Murder.
Sep. 14	Brown, William	Tunica, Tunica Co.	Murder
Sep. 14	Moore, David	Tunica, Tunica Co.	Murder
Oct. 23	Barnes, Gloster	Near Vicksburg, Warren Co.	Murder
Nov. 8	Nabors, Kit	Coahoma, Coahoma Co.	Murder
Dec. 19	Two unknown Negroes	- Arcadia, Issaquena Co.	Murder
Dec. 20	Lewis,	Gulfport, Harrison Co.	Murder.

1901

Feb. 1	Matthews, Warner	Ocean Spgs., Jackson Co.	Rape
Feb. 18	Isham, Fred	Macon, Noxubee Co.	Arson
Feb. 18	Isham, Henry	Macon, Noxubee Co.	Arson
Feb. 26	Knox, John	Scranton, Jackson Co.	Murder
Mar. 20	Bell, Terry	Terry, Hinds Co.	Race prejudice.
Mar. 22	Calvert, Milt	Griffith,	Attempted rape
July 11	Three unknown men	Erwin, Washington Co.	Suspected cattle thieves.
July 11	Ameo, John & Victor-	Erwin, Washington Co.	Offense unknown.
July 20	Philips, Jesse P.	Cleveland, Bolivar Co.	Murder.
Aug. 1	McCray, Betsy	Carrolton, Carroll Co.	Implicated in murder.
Aug. 1	McCray, Ida	Carrolton, Carroll Co.	Implicated in murder.
Aug. 1	McCray, Belfield	Carrollton, Carroll Co.	Implicated in murder.
Aug. 4	Price, William	Carrolton, Carrol Co.	Alleged complicity in murder
Sep. 1	Hill, Richard	Philadelphia, Neshoba Co.	Mu der.
Nov. 4	Unknown Negro	Perry County	Rape

1902

May 13	Muller, Horace	Cookamie County	Attempted murder
July 15	Ody, William	Clayton, Tunica Co.	Attempted rape
July 20	Two Negroes	Cross Roads	Race prejudice
Aug. 4	McDaniel, John	Smithdale, Amite Co.	Lawlessness
Aug. 17	Johnson, Chas.	Walnut Grove, Leake Co.	Rape
Sep. 28	Clark, Thomas	Corinth, Alcorn County	Murder
Oct. 29	Unknown Negro	Estabuchie, Jones Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 1	Unknown Negro	Darling, Quitman Co.	Mu der
Nov. 20	Youngblood, John	Summit, Pike County	Complicity in murder

1902 (cont'd.)

Nov. 20	Unknown Negro	Summit, Pike Co.	Complicity in murder.

1903

Jan. 10	Hollins, John	Drew, Sunflower Co.	Attempted assault
May 3	Bryant, Robert	Vicksburg, Warren Co.	Murder
May 20	Hart, Mose	Corinth, Alcorn Co.	Murderous assault
May 28	Unknown Negro	Woodville, Wilkinson	Arson
June 4	Dennis, Robert	Greenville, Washington Co.	Alleged rape
June 8	Four Negroes	Smith County	Complicity in murder.
June 8	Negro woman	Smith County	Complicity in murder.
June 12	Kincaid, George	Near Cleveland, Bolivar Co.	Murderous Assault.
July 7	Jarrett, Cato	Stouts Crossing	Murder
Sep.	Jones, George	Mayersville, Issaquena Co.	Arson
Sep.	Williams, Will	Centerville, Wilkinson Co.	Murder
Oct. 27	McAlpin, William	Smith County	Murder
Oct. 29	Unknown Negro	Hattiesburg, Forrest Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 5	Adams, Samuel	Pass Christian, Harrison Co.	Rape
Dec. 24	Hilson, Eli	Brookhaven, Lincoln Co.	Race prejudice

1904

Jan. 14	Riley, Bush	Tallula, Issaquena Co.	Murder
Feb. 7	Holbert, Luther & Wife	Doddsville, Sunflower Co.	Murder
Feb. 7	Three unknown white men	Near Doddsville, Sunflower Co.	Murder
Mar. 17	Unknown Negro	Saucier, Harrison Co.	Murder
Mar. 19	Sawyer, Fayette	Cleveland, Bolivar Co.	Murder
Mar. 19	Harris, Burke	Cleveland, Bolivar Co.	Murder
May 24	Unknown Negro	O'Neil, Amite Co.	Murder
June 3	Van Horne	Trail Lake, Ozark Co.	Murder
June 3	Clark	Trail Lake, Ozark Co.	Murder
June 4	Mayfield	Trail Lake, Ozark Co.	Murder
June 26	Dunham, Sterling	Europa, Webster Co.	Rape
July 9	Unknown	Unknown	Attempted rape
July 10	Tucker, Jesse	Houston, Chickasaw Co.	Attempted rape

1905

Jan. 4	Unknown Negro	Benoit, Bolivar Co.	Unknown offense
Mar. 5	Unknown Negro	Helm Station, Washington Co.	Murder
June 25	Mobarly, Pierce	Near Meridan, Lauderdale Co.	Murder
July 19	Harris, Henry	Near Glendora, Tallahatchie Co.	Murder
July 25	Harris, Wm.	Near Glendora, Tallahatchie Co.	Murder
Aug. 4	Lewis, Ed	Hattiesburg, Forrest Co.	Murder
Aug. 4	George, Kid	Hattiesburg, Forrest Co.	Murder

Lynchings in
Miss. - cont'd.

1905 (cont'd.)

Aug. 16	Young, Henry	Lake Cormorant, DeSoto Co.	Murder
Sep. 1	Rees, Alt	Rosetta, Wilkinson Co.	Rape
Sep. 14	James, William	Tallahatchie Co.	Informing
Sep. 19	McDowell, John	Rankin County	Unknown offense
Oct. 10	James, John	Woodville, Wilkinson Co.	Attempted rape.
Nov. 22	Simms, David	Coahoma, Coahoma Co.	Murder
Dec. 11	Green, James	Boyle, Bolivar Co.	Rape

1906

Jan. 17	Unknown Negro	Pinola, Simpson Co.	Attempted rape
May 8	Simms, Sam	Jackson, Hinds Co.	Killing a horse
May 23	Younger, George	Columbus, Lowndes Co.	Murder
June 11	Ambrose, Wood	Prentiss, Jefferson Davis Co.	Murder
June 30	Unknown Negro	DeKalb, Kemper Co.	Alleged rape
Sep. 7	Two Negroes	Laurel, Jones Co.	Attempted rape.
Oct. 6	Unknown Negro	Basin, George County	Rape
Oct. 25	Crompton, Thomas	Centerville, Wilkinson Co.	Murder
Nov. 8	Hinks, "Jet"	Lee County	Murder
Dec. 5	Young, Wes	Near Valley Park, Issaquena Co.	Murder

1907

Jan. 23	Bell, Henry	Greenwood, Leflore Co.	Rape
June 8	Johnson, Abe	Near Yazoo City, Yazoo Co.	Race rioter
June 8	Johnson, Harry	Near Yazoo City, Yazoo Co.	Race rioter
June 9	Fox, Less	Near Yazoo City, Yazoo Co.	Race rioter
July 20	Trice, Andrew	Olive Branch, DeSoto Co.	Murder
July 29	Washington, Sam	Near Vicksburg, Warren Co.	Murder
Oct. 11	Jackson, William	Tunica, Tunica County	Burglary
Oct. 11	Shoots, James	Tunica, Tunica County	Burglary
Oct. 11	Robinson, George	Tunica, Tunica County	Burglary
Oct. 23	Sykes, Henry	Van Fleet, Chicasaw Co.	Insulting women.
Oct. 27	Meyer	Carrolton, Carroll Co.	Complicity in murder
Oct. 29	German, Charles	Near Belen, Quitman Co.	Rape
Dec. 16	Husband, Pat	McHenry, Stone Co.	Rape

1908

Jan. 2	Unnamed Negro	Brookhaven, Lincoln Co.	Murder
Jan. 28	Two unnamed Negroes	- Commerce, (near) Tunica Co.	Murder
Feb. 10	Pigatt, Eli	Brookhaven, Lincoln Co.	Rape
Mar. 10	Poe, David	Van Cleave, Jackson Co.	Incendiarism
Mar. 10	Ranston, Thomas	Van Cleave, Jackson Co.	Incendiarism
Mar. 10	Jenkins, Bros.(2)	Van Cleave, Jackson Co.	Incendiarism
Apr. 5	Burr, John	Wesson, Copiah Co.	Murder
Aug. 28	Williams, John	Ittababa, Leflore Co.	Arson
Sep. 8	Patton, Lawson	Oxford, Lafayette Co.	Murder
Sep. 20	Jones, Charles	Yazoo City, Yazoo Co.	Murder
Oct. 10	Dawson, Dee	Hickory, Newton Co.	Alleged complicity in murder.

1908 (cont'd.)

Oct. 10	Fuller, William	Hickory, Newton Co.	Alleged complicity in murder.
Oct. 10	Johnson, Frank	Hickory, Newton Co.	Alleged complicity in murder.
Oct. 11	Davis, Joseph	Lula, Coahoma Co.	Murder
Oct. 11	Davis, Frank	Lula, Coahoma Co.	Murder
Oct. 15	Jackson, W. J.	Hernando, DeSoto Co.	Theft
Nov.	Hodges, William	Union, Newton Co.	Rape
Nov. 10	Leidy, Henry	Biloxi, Harrison Co.	Rape

1909

Jan. 16	Willis, "Pink"	Poplarville, Pearl River Co.	Attempted rape.
Feb. 9	Buskin, Robby	Houston, Chickasaw Co.	Murder
Mar. 12	Gordon, Joseph	Greenwood, Leflore Co.	Murder
Apr. 11	Montgomery, Horace	Unknown	Murder
Aug. 17	Robinson, William	Greenville, Washington Co.	Unnamed cause.
Oct. 28	Four (unnamed)	Kemper County	Murder
Nov. 25	Chambers, Morgan	Meehan, Lauderdale Co.	Robbery

1910

Apr. 10	O'Neil, Thomas	Meridian, Lauderdale Co.	Murder
June 12	Curl, Elmer	Mastadon	Murder
June 15	Mitchell, Otto	Durant, Holmes Co.	Attempted murder
June 28	Jones,	Braxton, Simpson Co.	Murder
Sep. 1	Thompson, Nicholas	- Armory,	Rape

1911

June 16	Bradford, William	Chunky, Newton Co.	Desperado
Nov. 7	Moseley, "Judge"	Lockhart, Lauderdale Co.	Murderous assault.

1912

Jan. 15	Giles, Neely	Sucarnoochee, Kemper Co.	Murder
Feb. 14	Hamilton, Mann	Starkesville, Oktibbeha Co.	Rape
Apr. 3	Coleman, Alex	Starkesville, Oktibbeha Co.	attempted rape.
May 7	Unnamed	Greenville, Washington Co.	Attempted rape.
May 7	Edd, G. W.	Near Macon, Noxubee Co.	Murder
Dec. 17	Unnamed	Jackson, Hinds Co.	Murderous assault

1913

Jan. 30	Unnamed Negro	Drew, Sunflower Co.	Murder
Feb. 7	Williams, Andrew	Houston, Chickasaw Co.	Murder
Feb. 23	Webb, Willie	Drew, Sunflower Co.	Murder
June 27	Robinson, William	Lambert, Quitman Co.	Murder
July 15	Towner, Samuel	Alligator, Bolivar Co.	Murder
Sep. 21	Crosby, Henry	Louisville, Winston Co.	Annoying a white woman.
Sep. 28	Jones, Walter	Harrison. Jefferson Co.	Murder

1913 (cont'd.)

Sept. 28	Jones, William	Harriston, Jefferson Co.	Murder
Oct. 15	Brownlee, Walter	Hinchcliff, Quitman Co.	Alleged rape, proved innocent.

1914

Feb. 16	McQuirk, Johnson	Love Station, De Soto Co.	Murder
Feb. 24	Petty, Sam	Leland, Washington Co.	Murder
July 14	Bailey, Joseph	Comorant,	Murder
Oct. 25	Miller, Mayshe	Aberdeen, Monroe Co.	Murderous assault.
Nov. 3	Burns, Thomas	Hernando, DeSoto Co.	Murder
Nov. 24	Sullivan, Frederick	Byhalia, Marshall Co.	Arson
Nov. 24	Sullivan, Mrs. Fred.	" "	Arson

1915

Jan. 20	Johnson, Edward	Bicksburg, Warren Co.	Murder & cattle stealing
Feb. 10	Hill, Alexander	Brookville, Noxubee Co.	Murder
May 15	Unnamed Negro	Louisville, Winston Co.	Insulting white woman.
June 28	Unnamed Negro	Cedar Bluffs, Clay Co.	Attempted rape.
July 11	Unnamed Negro	DeKalb, Kemper Co.	Theft.
July 16	Mitchell, William	Sardis, Panola Co.	Murderous assault.
Oct. 11	Two unnamed Negroes	Clarksdale, Coahoma Co.	Murder
Oct. 30	Huyler, Joseph	Columbua, Lowndes Co.	Murder
Nov. 12	Taylor, John	Aberdeen, Monroe Co.	Murderous assault.

1916

Mar. 20	Brown, Jeff	West Point, Clay Co.	Attempted rape
Oct. 6	Nance, Allen	Greenwood, Leflore Co.	Murderous assault

1917

June 2	Haynes, Van	Columbia, Marion Co.	Murder
June 2	Hempton, Pratt	Columbia, Marion Co.	Murder

1918

Jan. 17	Edwards, Semuel	Hazelhurst, Copiah Co.	Murder
Apr. 18	Singleton, Claude	Poplarville, Pearl River	Murder
Dec. 20	Clarke, Major	Shubuta ~~County~~ Clarke Co.	Murder
Dec. 20	Clarke, Andrew	Shutuba, Clark County	Murder
Dec. 20	House, Maggie	Shutuba, Clarke Co.	Murder
Dec. 20	House, Alma	Shutuba, Clarke Co.	Murder

1919

Mar. 2	Greene, Eugene	Belzoria, Humpreys Co.	Killing law officer
May 5	Unnamed man	Pickens, Holmes Co.	Writing improper note.
May 15	Clay, Loyd	Vicksburg, Warren Co.	Attempted rape.
May 21	Moore, Wm.	McHenry, Stone Co.	Murder.
May 28	Unnamed man	Mineral Wells, DeSoto Co.	Attempted rape.
June 26	Hartfield, James	Ellisville, Jones Co.	Rape

1919 (cont'd.)

July 2	Unnamed man	Richton, Perry Co.	For discussing lynching of Jones
July 15	Truett, Robert	Louise, Humphreys Co.	Insulting women.
Sep. 10	Reid, D. B.	Clarksdale, Coahoma	Keeping company with white woman.
Nov. 17	Motley, Robert	Lambert, Quitman Co.	Killing landlord in altercation
Nov. 28	Fosworth, Newville	Foxworth, Marion Co.	Rape

1920

July 4	Spencer, James	Enterprise, Clarke Co.	Cutting man in fight.
Aug. 28	Higgins, Blucher	Corinth, Alcorn Co.	Knocking down guard and escaping convict camp.
Aug. 28	Calicut, Daniel	Corinth, Alcorn Co.	Same charge.
Sep. 12	Echols, Wm.	Quitman, Clarke Co.	Murder.
Nov. 5	Jacobs, Benjamin	Tylertown, Walthall Co.	Rape
Nov. 23	Jacobs, Horsy	Tylertown, Walthall Co.	Rape
Dec. 23	Brown, Coleman	Purvis, Lamar Co.	Murder

1921

Jan. 4	Louis, Robert	Meridian, Lauderdale Co.	Murder
Feb. 4	Unnamed Man	Vicksburg, Warren Co.	Crime not reported.
Mar. 19	Ross, Adolphus	Waterville, Yalobusha Co.	Rape
Mar. 20	Jennings, Arthur	Hattiesburg, Forest Co.	Murder
Apr. 4	Thompson, Sandy	Langford, Rankin Co.	Murder
Apr. 4	Moore, Rachael	Rankin County	Inciting racial trouble
Apr. 14	Marshall, George	Lauderdale, Lauderdale Co.	Threats to kill.
Apr. 26	Unnamed man	Carrier, Pearl River Co.	Rape
June 20	Wimberly, Louis	Rankin County	Rape
June 29	Brown, Clarence	Madison County	No special charge.
June 30	Bellows, Wm.	Canton, Madison Co.	Murderous assault.
July 23	Jones, Casey	Hattiesburg, Forest Co.	Murder.
July 24	Dickson, James	Yazoo City, Yazoo County	Attempted rape.
Sep. 19	McDowell, Edward	McComb, Pike County	No motive reported.

1922

Jan. 29	Bell, William	Pontotoc, Pontotoc Co.	Attempted rape.
Jan. 29	Unnamed Negro	" "	Mistaken identity
Feb. 2	Thrasher, William	Copiah County	Attempted rape.
Mar. 8	Baker, William	Aberdeen, Monroe Co.	Rape.
Mar. 18	Unnamed Negro	Crawford, Lowndes Co.	Rape
Mar. 22	Smith, Alexander	Gulfport, Harrison Co.	Operating house of ill fame from which two white girls were taken.
June 20	Collins, Robert	Summit, Pike Co.	Rape
Aug. 22	Banks, Parks	Yazoo City, Yazoo Co.	No special charge except had been warned to leave neighborhood.
Aug. 22	Barrow, L.	Near Lambert, Quitman Co.	attacking wife of planter.

1923

Jan. 3	Webster, Benjamin	Near Waynesboro, Wayne Co.	Murder.
June 11	Unnamed Negro	Ashland, Benton Co.	Murder
July 29	Minnifield, William	Yazoo City, Yazoo Co.	Attacking and severely wounding woman with ax
Aug. 5	Flotow, Howard	Sardis, Panola Co.	Rape.
Sep. 18	Gray, John	Near Richton, Perry Co.	Shooting and wounding man.
Sep. 29	Unnamed Girl (Negro)	Pickens, Holmes Co.	No charge except was in house which mob attacked in effort to get a Negro boy charged with threatening to strike a white man in a dispute over the interest on 50¢. For details concerning this event see Memphis Commercial Appeal, Oct. 7, 1923.
Oct. 6	Ransberry, A. W.	Leflore County	Charged with beating white man in altercation over debt.
Nov. 19	Hardy, Edward	Tunica, Tunica Co.	Robbery & murder.

1924

July 20	Shelton, Harry	Scooba, Kemper Co.	Attempted rape.
Sep. 20	Taylor, Herbert	Jonestown, Coahoma Co.	Rape.

1925

Feb. 17	Winters, Hal	Sidon, Leflore Co.	Murder
Feb. 17	Simons, John	Sidon, Leflore Co.	Murder
Apr. 21	Buckley, William	Tylertown, Walthall Co.	Attempted rape
Aug. 12	Towns, Sidney	Scobey, Yalobusha Co.	Murder
Sep. 20	Ivey, J. P.	New Albany, Union Co.	Rape
Dec. 19	Coleman, Lindsay	Clarksdale, Coahoma Co.	Murder

1926

Mar. 22	Scott, Jacob	DeSoto County	Making improper proposals to woman.
Apr. 22	Mackson, Harold	Picayune, Pearl River Co.	Murder
May 22	Jefferson, James	Vaughan, Yazoo Co.	Entering house and frightening woman.
July 17	Chambers, Frederick	Goodman, Holmes Co.	Shooting officer of the law.

1927

April	Unnamed Negro	Macon, Noxubee Co.	Murder
April	Unnamed Negro	Macon, Noxubee Co.	Murder
May 20	Anderson, Daniel	Cliftonville, Noxubee Co.	Murder
May 25	Raspberry, Bernie	Leakesville, Greene Co.	Improper conduct with white woman.
June 13	Fox, James	Louisville, Winston Co.	Murder.
June 13	Fox, Mark	Louisville, Winston Co.	Murder.
July 6	Smith, Joseph	Midway, Yazoo Co.	Attempted rape.

Lynchings in
Miss. (cont'd.)

1928

June 29	Bearden, James	Brookhaven, Lincoln Co.	Wounding two white men.
June 29	Bearden, Stanley	Brookhaven, Lincoln Co.	Wounding two white men.
July 2	McElwee, Shug	Summit, Pike County	Rape.
Dec. 26	McCallum, Emanuel	Hattiesburg, Forrest Co.	Striking & wounding man.
Dec. 31	Sheppard, Charles	Parchman, Sunflower Co.	Murder & rape.

1929

May 11	Jenkins, Steve	Macon, Noxubee Co.	Murder

1930

Apr. 23	Harris, David	Rosedale, Bolivar Co.	Murder
Aug. 15	Robinson, George	Raymond, Hinds Co.	Resisting officer of law.
Sep. 10	Lockett, Pig	Scooba, Kemper Co.	Robbing two tourists.
Sep. 10	White, Holly	" "	" " "

1931

Mar. 22	Wiley, Steve (Negro)	Inverness, Sunflower Co.	Attempted rape.
Mar. 29	Johnson, Elijah "	Vicksburg, Warren County	Attempted rape.
Nov. 7	Franks, Coleman "	Columbus, Lo ndes County	Wounding white man.

1932

1933

Apr.	~~McGou~~ Micou, Reuben (Negro)	- Louisville, Winston Co.	Slapping youth.
July 22	Unnamed Negro man	Caledonia, Lowndes Co.	Insulting white woman.
Sep. 18	Roscoe, Richard (Negro)	Minter City, Leflore Co.	Wounding man.

1934

June 8	Stewart, Bill (Negro)	- Alligator, Bolivar Co.	Attempted rape. Taken from officers of law.
June 8	Ward, Snow (Negro)	" "	Attempted rape. Taken from officers of law.
July 16	Sanders, James (Negro)	Bolton, Hinds Co.	Writing insulting letter. Taken from armed citizens.
July 25	Beford, Henry (Negro)	Pelahatchee Brandon, Rankin Co.	Talking disrespectfully. Did not come into hands of law.
Aug. 13	Houey, Smith (Negro)	Michigan City, Benton Co.	Murder. Taken from Office
Aug. 13	Wilkerson, James "	" " " "	" " " "

Isadore Isaac Thomas

Lynchings in
Miss. - (cont'd.)

1935

Mar. 12	Young, Ab (Negro)	Near Holly Spgs., Marshall Co.	Murder
Mar. 29	Allen, Rev. T.A. (N.)	Hernando, DeSoto Co.	Sharecropper activity.
June 22	McGee, R. D.	Wiggins, Stone Co.	Rape.
July 15	Bert Moore	Columbus, Lowndes Co.	Alleged attempted rape.
July 15	Morton, Dooley	" " "	" " "
Aug. 5	Bates, Bodie	Pittsboro, Calhoun Co.	Attempted rape.
Sep. 17	Higginbotham, Elwood	- Oxford, Lafayette, Co.	Murder.

1937

April 13	Roosevelt Towns : Bootjack McDaniels:	Duck Hill, Montgomery Co.	Murder

1938

July 6	Tom McGehee	Rolling Fork, Sharkey Co.	Murder
Nov. 21	Wilder McGowan	Wiggins, Stone Co.	Criminal assault
July 27	Claude Brooks	Canton, Madison Co.	No crime

1939

May 8	Joe Rogers	Canton, Madison Co.	difficulty with white employer

1942

Oct. 12	Charles Lang (14) Earnest Green "	Quitman, Clarke Co.	attempted rape of 13 yr. old white girl.
Oct. 17	Howard Nash	Laurel, Jones Co.	murder

1944

Mar. 26	Rev. Isaac Simmons	Liberty, Amite Co.	whites wanted to take some land away from Simmons and he got a lawyer to defend property

LYNCHINGS IN NORTH CAROLINA

1900-1934

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Mar. 4	Ratcliffe, George	Clyde, Haywood County	Rape
Mar. 22	Ritter, George	Carthage, Moore County	Informer
Sept. 1	Unknown Negro	Forest City, Rutherford Co.	Murder
A

1901

Aug. 21	Hough, Luke	Wadesborough, Anson County	Murder

1902

Mar. 25	Walker, James	Washington, Beaufort County	Murder
June 11	Gillespie, Harrison	Salisbury, Rowan County	Murder
Aug. 25	Jones, Thomas	Seven Springs, Wayne Co.	Rape

1903

July 3	Osborne, John	Charlotte, Mecklenburg Co.	Assaulting white woman

1904

May 19	Unknown	Seaboard, Northampton Co.	Rape

1905

Aug. 27	Moore, John	Clark, Craven County	Murderous assault

1906

May 28	Johnson, J. V.	Wadesboro, Anson County	Murder
Aug. 6	Gillespie, John	Salisbury, Rowan County	Murder
Aug. 6	Dillingham, Jack	Salisbury, Rowan County	Murder
Nov. 15	Harris, William	Near Ashville, Buncombe Co.	Murder

1907

1908

Jan. 12	Unknown Negro	Pine Level, Johnston Co.	For giving poor entertainment. Lynched by Negroes.

Lynchings in North Carolina
(Continued)

1909

1910

May 26	Negro	Charlotte, Mecklenburg Co.	Rape
Oct. 8	Negro	Pelham, Casewell Co.	Robbery

1911

1912

June 25	Beston, Ann	Pinehurst, Moore County	Murder

1913

Aug. 26	McNeely, Joseph	Charlotte, Mecklenburg Co.	Murder

1914

Jan. 27	Wilson, James	Wendall, Wake County	Murder

1915

1916

Jan. 12	Richards, John	Goldsboro, Wayne County	Murder
Apr. 5	Black Joseph	Kingston, Lenoir County	Assisting son to escape.

1917

1918

Mar. 23	Basemore, Peter	Lewiston, Bertie County	Attack on white woman
Nov. 5	Taylor, Georgia	Rolesville, Wake Co.	Rape

1919

Feb. 6	Daniels, John	Jacksonville, Onslow Co.	Murder
Feb. 6	Pettaway, Daniel	Jacksonville, Onslow Co.	Murder
Aug. 21	Tyler, Walter	Near Louisburg, Franklinburg County	Rape
Dec. 27	Greene, Powell	Franklinton, Franklin Co.	Murder

Lynchings in North Carolina

(Continued)

1920

July 7	Roach, Edward	Roxboro, Person County	Attempted rape
Aug. 25	Jeffrees, John	Graham, Alamance County	Rape
Oct.	Artis, Norman	Freemont, Wayne Co.	Peeping through window at woman.

1921

Jan. 24	Williams, Alfred	Warrentown, Warren Co.	Leader in race clash
Jan. 24	Bullock, Plummer	Warrenton, Warren Co.	Leader in race clash
Aug. 3	Whitfield, Jerome	Kingston, Lenoir Co.	Rape
Sept. 18	Daniel, Erma St	Pittsboro, Chatham Co.	Found in room of young white woman

1922

1923

1924

1925

1926

1927

1928

1929

1930

Aug. 19	Moore, Oliver	Tarboro, Edgecombe County	Rape

1931

1932

1933

Aug. 27	Rogers, Dock (Negro)	Burgaw, Pender County	Wounding white persons.

1934

1935

Aug. 3	Govan Ward	Louisburg, Franklin Co.	Chopped off head of w. man

LYNCHINGS IN OKLAHOMA

1900-1934

1900

1901

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
May 10	Chandler, J. L.		Suspected killing cattle
May 25	Campbell, William	Pond Creek, Grant Co.	Murder

1902

1903

1904

1905

1906

May 25	Unknown man	Choctaw Nation, Oklahoma Co.	Murder
July 2	Unknown	Chickasha, Grady Co.	Rape

1907

Mar. 31	William, James	Colbert, Bryan Co.	Attempted rape
Dec. 24	Garden, Jas.	Muskogee, Muskogee Co.	Murder

1908

1909

Apr. 19	Miller, J. B.	Ada, Pontotoc Co.	Murder
Apr. 19	Burrell, D. B.	Ada, Pontotoc, Co.	Complicity in murder
Apr. 19	Allen, Jos.	Ada, Pontotoc Co.	Complicity in murder
Apr. 19	West, Jesse	Ada, Pontotoc Co.	Complicity in murder
June 26	Shennien, Sylvester	Wilburton, Latimer Co.	Murder

1910

Aug. 15	Buckley, Jos.	Weleetka, Okfuskee Co.	Murder
Nov. 15	Unnamed Negro	Mannford, Creek Co.	Murder

Lynchings in Oklahoma

(Continued)

1911

May 25	Laura Nelson and son	Okemah, Okfuskee Co.	Murder
Aug. 24	Carter, Peter	Purcell, McClain Co.	Rape
Oct. 22	Suddeth, Edward	Corneta	Murder
Dec. 6	Walker, Bud	Mannford, Creek Co.	Murder

1912

Jan. 1	Turner, Sam	Muldrow, Sequoyah Co.	Murder

1913

June 13	Simmons, Dennis	Anadarko, Caddo Co.	Murder
Aug. 14	Franklin, Senders	Addmore, Carter Co.	Murder
Aug. 14	Ralston, Harry	Ardmore, Carter Co.	Murder
Nov. 4	Gudjo, John	Wewoka, Seminole Co.	Murder

1914

Jan. 27	Dickerson, Benjamin	Purcell, McClain Co.	Murder
Mar. 31	Scott, Marie	Wagoner Co.	Murder
Aug. 1	Williams, Crockett	Eufaula, McIntosh Co.	Murder

1915

May 9	Ward, Dr. E. B.	Norman, Cleveland Co.	Murder
Aug. 6	Berry, Edward	Shenee, Pottowatamie Co.	Rape
Sept. 4	Washington, Anderson	Wagoner, Wagoner Co.	Attempted rape

1916

Apr. 3	Martin, Oscar	Idabel, McCurtain Co.	Rape
Apr. 9	Dudley, Carl	Lawton, Comanche Co.	Murder
Sept. 29	Foreman, John	Nowata, Nowata Co.	Accessory to murder
Sept. 29	Powell	Nowata, Nowata Co.	Accessory to murder

1917

June 16	Conly, Henry	Holdenville, Hughes Co.	Rape

1918

June 29	McGill, Lougious	Madill, Marshall Co.	Attempted rape

Lynchings in Oklahoma

(Concluded)

1919

1920

Aug. 28	Owens, Thomas M.	Tulsa, Tulsa Co.	Murder
Aug. 29	Chandler, Claude	Oklahoma City, Oklahoma Co.	Alleged murder
Dec. 5	Unnamed Negro	Holdenville, Hughes Co.	Rape

1921

1922

Jan. 17	Brooks, Jacob	Oklahoma City, Oklahoma Co.	Strike breaker

1923

Nov. 5	Dowell, Dallas	Eufaula, McIntosh Co.	Rape

1924

1925

1926

1927

1928

1929

1930

May 31	Argo, Henry	Chickasha, Grady Co.	Attempted rape

LYNCHINGS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

1900-1934

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Jan. 11	Salter, Rufus	West Springs, Union Co.	Suspected of arson
Feb. 17	Burts, William	Basket Mills,	Threats to kill

2

1901

Jan. 16	Robinson, Charles	Elke, Barnwell Co.	Rape
July 14	Haines	Thickety, Union Co.	Murder
July 21	Cornish, William	Port Royal, Beaufort Co.	Murder
Oct. 21	Unknown Negro	Hampton, Hampton Co.	Burglary
Nov. 24	Ladison, John	Anderson, Anderson	Murder

5

1902

June 5	Black, Jas.	Ravenals, Charleston Co.	Murder
Dec. 27	Wideman, Oliver	Troy, Greenwood Co.	Murder
Dec. 27	Wideman, Mrs.	Troy, Greenwood Co.	Murder

3

1903

July 1	Evans, Charles	Norway, Orangeburg Co.	Suspected of murder
July 1	Twobunknown Negroes	Norway, Orangeburg, Co.	Suspected of murder
July 1	Elrod, Rubb	Piedmont, Greenville Co.	Race prejudice
July 20	Butler, Jesse	Aiken, Aiken Co.	Mistaken identity
Nov. 24	Nelson, Charles	Jefferson, Chesterfield Co.	Rape
Nov. 28	Fagler, John	Ross Station	Attempted rape

6

1904

Jan. 15	Lee, "Gen"	Dorchester County	Attempted rape
June 30	Williams, Cairo	Scranton, Florence Co.	Murder
July 5	Taylor, John	Chesterfield Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 24	Unknown	Waterloo, Laurens Co.	Rape
Oct. 1	Morrison, John	Kershaw, Kershaw Co.	Murder

5

1905

Sept. 20	Pendleton, Allen	Abbeville, Abbeville Co.	Murder
Dec. 20	Da Loach, Frank	Barnwell, Barnwell Co.	Murder

Lynchings in South Carolina
(Continued)

1905

(Cont'd.)

Dec. 20	Da Loach, John	Barnwell, Barnwell Co.	Murder	3

1906

June 14	Hughes, Moses	Union, Union Co.	Alleged arson
Aug. 20	Davis, Robert	Greenwood, Greenwood Co.	Rape
Aug. 20	Ethridge, Robt.	Mont Willing	Attempted rape
Nov. 15	Davis, Mark	Near Newberry, Newberry Co.	Murderous assault	4

1907

May 7	Unknown	Marion County	Rape
June 2	Hudson, George	Trenton, Edgefield Co.	Attempted rape and murder	2

1908

Nov. 23	Gilmore, Jim	Luray, Hampton Co.	Attempted assault	1

1909

Jan. 6	Unnamed Negro	Lexington, Lexington Co.	Rape
Jan. 6	Davis, Arthur	Florence, Florence Co.	Dispute with white men
June 11	Samuels, Frank	Branchville, Orangeburg Co.	Murder	3

1910

Nov. 26	Clark, Flute	Little Mountain, Newberry Co.	Murder	1

1911

Oct. 10	Jackson, Willis	Near Greenville, Greenville County	Rape	1

1912

Mar. 15	Dublin, Alfred	Olar, Bamberg County	Arson
Mar. 13	Dublin, Richard	Olar, Bamberg County	Arson
Mar. 13	Rivers, Peter	Olar, Bamberg Co.	Arson
Mar. 29	Whisonant, Fred	Blacksburg, Cherokee Co.	Murder and assault

Lynchings in South Carolina
(Continued)

1912

(Cont'd.)

Mar. 29	Bronson, Joe	Blacksburg, Cherokee Co.	Murder and assault
Nov. 23	Thomas, William	Newberry, Newberry Co.	Murder
Dec. 21	Fitts, Henry	Norway, Orangeburg Co.	Refusal to pay a note.

7

1913

Jan. 23-	Unnamed Negro boy	Manning, Clarendon Co.	Assault and battery
Aug. 11	Puckett, Richard	Laurens, Laurens Co.	Rape

2

1914

July 12	Carson, Rose	Elloree, Orangeburg Co.	Murder
Nov. 24	Wilson, Dillard	Shiloh, Sumter Co.	Suspected murder
Dec. 4	Greene, William	Coward, Florence Co.	Frightening women
Dec. 16	Seymour, Allen	Hampton, Hampton Co.	Rape

4

1915

June 14	Smith, Jules	Winnsboro, Fairfield Co.	Rape

1

1916

Jan. 2	Sims,	Anderson, Anderson Co.	Insulting a white girl
Oct. 21	Crawford, Anthony	Abbeville, Abbeville Co.	For striking white in altercation

2

1917

Aug. 23	Sims, W. D.	York, York Co.	Seditious utterance

1

1918

Feb. 25	Best, Walter	Fairfax, Barnwell Co.	Murder

1

1919

June 21	Smith, Mark	Abbeville, Abbeville Co.	Shooting a deputy sheriff

1

Lynchings in South Carolina
(Continued)

1920

Apr. 1	Robertson, George	Laurens, Laurens Co.	Altercation with white boys	1

1921

June 19	Quarles, Herbert	McCormick, McCormick Co.	Rape
Aug. 24	Allen, William	Chapin, Lexington Co.	Murder
Sept. 8	Butler, Mansfield	Aiken County	Murderous attack on a woman
Sept. 8	Thompson, Charles	Aiken County	Murderous attack on a woman
Oct. 24	Kirkland, Edward	Appleton, Allendale Co.	Killing white farmer in altercation over rent	5

1922

Jan. 3	Unnamed man	Williamsburg County	Intimate with white woman	1

1923 0

1924

April 21	Adams, Luke	Near Norway, Orangeburg Co.	Rape	1

1925 0

1926

Oct. 6	Lowman, Bertha, Clarence and Demmond	Aiken, Aiken County	Killing officer of the law	1

1927

1928

1929

Lynchings in South Carolina

(Concluded)

1930

April 24	Greene, Allen	Walhalla, Oconee County	Attempted rape
June 21	Jenkins, Daniel	Union, Union County	Rape

2

1931

1932

1933

Feb. 19	Jeter, George (Negro)	Aiken, Aiken County	Stealing liquor
July 5	Beady, Norris (Negro)	Clinton, Laurens Co.	Striking white man
Oct. 9	Thompson, Benjamin "	Ninety-Six, Greenwood Co.	Arguing with white men
Nov. 17	Greene, George (Negro)	Taylors, Greenville Co.	Cause unknown

4

1941

Feb 20	Tisdale, Bruce (Negro)	Andrews, Georgetown Co.	No reason given

1947

	Earle, Willie (Negro)	Greenville, Greenville Co.	attempted murder of taxi driver

LYNCHINGS IN TENNESSEE

1900-1934

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Jan. 9	Giveney, Henry	Ripley, Lauderdale Co.	Murder
Jan.9	Giveney, Roger	Ripley, Lauderdale Co.	Murder
Jan. 16	Ganse, Anderson	Henning, Lauderdale Co.	Aiding in excape of murderer
Mar. 23	Rice, Lewis	Ripley, Lauderdale Co.	Testifying for one of his own race
Sept. 10	Reams, Logan	Duplex, Williamson	Attempted rape
Sept. 26	Unknown Negro	Near South Pittsburg, Marion County	Rape
Oct. 3	Williams,	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Robbery

— 8

1901

Feb. 18	King, Fred	Dyersburg, Dyer Co.	Attempted rape
Mar. 16	Crutchfield, Ballie	Rome, Smith Co.	Alleged theft
Mar. 17	Fitzgerald, Isaac	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Rape
Apr. 29	Mallory, Wyatt	Springfield, Robertson Co.	Murder
Apr. 2	Davis, Charles	Smithville, De Kalb Co.	Rape
Apr. 25	Moles, Henry	Near Winchester, Franklin County	Murder
Oct. 4	McClennon, Walter	Huntington, Carroll Co.	Assaulting white man
Oct. 7	Four Negroes	Caney Springs, Marshall Co.	Murder

Fe

— 8

1902

Feb. 6	Whitaker, Enless	Lynchburg, Moore Co.	Murder
May 12	Underwood, Jas.	Decatur, Meigs Co.	Making threats
Oct. 8	Burley, Garfield	Newburn, Dyer Co.	Murder
Oct. 8	Brown, Curtis	Newburn, Dyer Co.	Murder
Nov. 15	Davis, John	Lewisburg, Marshall Co.	Murder

— 5 —

1903

June 24	Jones, Charles	Elk Valley, Campbell Co.	Rape
Aug. 5	Unknown Negro	Lewisburg, Marshall Co.	Unknown offense
Aug. 5	Unknown Negro	Lewisburg, Marshall Co.	Unknown offense
Sept.	Small, Allen	Lynchburg, Moore Co.	Attempted rape
Dec. 10	Brale, Joseph	Ripley, Lauderdale Co.	Murder

— 5 —

Lynchings in Tennessee
(Continued)

1904

Jan. 5	Alexander, Robert	Ripley, Lauderdale Co.	Race prejudice
Apr. 29	Seacey, Thomas	Haywood County	Rape

— 2

1905

Mar. 8	Gwyn, Renee	Tullahoma, Coffee Co.	Theft
Oct. 10	Billings, Luther	Brunswick, Shelby Co.	Attempted rape

— 2

1906

Mar. 19	Johnson, Ed	Chattanooga, Hamilton Co.	Murder
Oct. 29	Estes, George	Heles Point, Lauderdale Co.	Murder

— 2

1907

2 July 22	Two Negroes	Lake Co.	Fighting white man

— 1

1908

Jan. 21	Cole, Walter	Morgan County	Murder
May 8	Garvard, Elmo	Pulaski, Giles Co.	Attempted rape
July 14	Jones, Hugh	Middleton, Hardman Co.	Attempted rape
Aug. 28	Johnson, George	Murfreesboro, Rutherford Co.	Attempted rape
Oct. 19	Taylor, R. E.	Walnut Log, ?	By night riders
Oct. 19	Rankin, Quinten	Walnut Log, ?	By night riders
Nov. 24	Stineback, Marshall	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Murder
Nov. 24	Stineback, Edward	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Murder
Nov. 24	Stineback, Tennis	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Murder

— 9

1909

— 0

1910

Sept. 13	Sharp, William	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 13	Bruce, Robert	Tiptonville, Lake Co.	Attempted rape

— 2

1911

May 25	Sweet, James	Gallatin, Sumner Co.	Murder
June 1	Crumpt, Patrick	White Haven, Shelby Co.	Attempted rape
June 8	Winston, John	Lafayette, Macon Co.	Murder
Dec. 6	Unnamed Negro	Near Clifton, Wayne Co.	Race prejudice

— 4

Lynchings in Tennessee
(Continued)

1912

Feb. 13	Unnamed Negro	Memphis, Shelby Co.	Rape
Feb. 19	Grer, Walter	Shelbyville, Bedford Co.	Murder
Feb. 19	Neal, David	Shelbyville, Bedford Co.	Murder
Feb. 19	Boman, Green	Shelbyville, Bedford Co.	Murder
May 27	Samuels, Jacob	Robertson County	Rape

-5-

1913

Nov. 7	Talley, John	Dyersburg, Dyer Co.	Attempted rape

-1

1914

July 27	Varner, Lew	Clarksville, Montgomery County	Rape

-1

1915

Apr. 28	Brooks, Thomas	Summerville, Fayette Co.	Killing officer of the law
Sept. 4	Wilson, Mallie	Dresden, Weakley Co.	Entering bedroom of white woman

-2

1916

Mar. 6	Whitley, Will	Lebanon, Wilson Co.	Killing officer of the law
Sept. 28	Todme, Wiley	Hohenwals, Lewis Co.	Murder
Sept. 28	Carter, Manual	Hohenwald, Lewis Co.	Murder

-3

1917

Mar. 19	Thomas, William	Halls, Lauderdale Co.	Killing officer of the law
May 22	Persons, Eli	Near Memphis, Shelby Co.	Rape and murder
Dec. 2	Scott, Ligon	Dyersburg, Dyer Co.	Rape

-3

1918

Feb. 10	Lynch, G. W.	Near Estell Springs, Franklin Co.	Killing two men
Feb. 10	McIlherron, James	Near Estell Springs, Franklin Co.	Killing two men

Lynchings in Tennessee
(Continued)

1918

(Concluded)

Apr. 22	Noyes, Berry	Lexington, Henderson Co.	Killing officer of the law
May 19	Devert, Thomas	Erwin, Union Co.	Attempted rape

-4

1919

Oct. 26	Booth, Henry	Humboldt, Gibson Co.	Attempted rape

-9

1920

-0

1921

May 7	Bolling, Berry	Huntsville, Scott Co.	Murdering a woman

-1

1922

Oct. 20	Hartley, Edmond	Camden, Benton Co.	Complicity in murder
Oct. 20	Hartley, George	Camden, Benton Co.	Complicity in murder

-2

1923

-0

1924

Dec. 15	Smith, Samuel	Nashville, Davidson Co.	Murder and attempted robbery

-1

1925

-0

1926

Oct. 8	Bell, Herbert	Dover, Stewart Co.	Murder

-1

1927

Sept. 28	Williams, Tommie	Barrettsville, Shelby Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 11	Choate, Henry	Columbia, Maury Co.	Attempted rape

-2

Lynchings in Tennessee
(Concluded)

1928 — 0

1929

May 29	Boxley, Joseph	Alamo, Crockett Co.	Rape

— 1

1930 — 0

1931

Apr. 17	Smith, George	Union City, Obion Co.	Attempted rape

— 1

1932 — 0

1933

June 8	Boyette, Jerome (white)	Huntsville, Scott Co.	Murder
June 8	Winchester, Harvey (white)	Huntsville, Scott Co.	Murder
Dec. 15	Cheek, Cord,	Columbia, Maury Co.	Attempted rape

— 3

1934

June 24	Wilkerson, James (Richard)	Manchester, Coffe Co.	Striking man. Did not come into the hands of the law

— 1

1935

Nov. 4	Baxter Bell	White Bluff, Dickson Col	Striking w. woman

— 1

1937

Aug. 17	Albert Gooden	Covington, Tipton Co.	Slaying officer

1940

June 22	Elbert Williams	Brownsville, Haywood Co.	Attempting to qualify to vote

1944

Nov 23	James T. Scales (17)	Pikesville Bledso Co.	ax & knife murder of white woman!

LYNCHINGS IN TEXAS

1900-1934

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
		1900
Feb. 11	Sweeny, James	Port Arthur, Jefferson Co.	Murder
Nov. 15	Three Negroes	Jefferson, Marion Co.	Attempted murder
		1901
Feb. 11	Carter, George	Paris, Lamar County	Rape
Mar. 15	Henderson, John	Corsicana, Navarro Co.	Rape
Aug. 1	Unknown Negro	Mobile, Tyler County	Insulting white woman
Aug. 20	Wilder, Abe	Dexter, Cooke County	Murder
Aug. 25	Martinez, Felix	Kenedy, Karnes County	Unknown
Oct. 3	Five Negroes	Harrison,	Quarrel over profit sharing
Oct. 25	Gordon, Galnor	Quitman, Wood County	Murder
Dec. 25	McClinton, J. H.	Paris, Lamar Co.	Unknown offense
		1902
Mar. 11	Bird, Nathan	Luling, Caldwell County	Unknown offense
Mar. 11	Son of Bird	Luling, Caldwell County	Unknown offense
May 22	Morgan, Dudley	Long View, Gregg County	Criminal assault
Sept. 4	Walker, Jesse	Hempstead, Waller Co.	Rape
Oct. 4	Duncan, Utt	Columbus, Colorado Co.	Attempted rape
Oct. 21	Wesley, Jos.	Hempstead, Waller County	Rape
Oct. 21	Barton, Reddish	Hempstead, Waller County	Rape
		1903
Jan. 14	O'Neal, Ransom	Angleton, Brazoria Co.	Murder
Jan. 14	Tunstall, Charles	Angleton, Brazoria Co.	Murder
Apr. 26	Johnson, Hensley	Carthage, Panola Co.	Attempted rape
May 27	Unknown	Kemp, Kaufman Co.	Rape
July 23	Allen, Moony	Beaumont, Jefferson Co.	Murder
July 31	Unknown	Near Alto, Cherokee Co.	Assault
Oct. 1	Davis, Walker	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Murder
		1904
July 30	Larremore, John	Lockhart, Caldwell Co.	Race prejudice by white caps
Aug. 31	Turner, Oscar	Weimar, Colorado Co.	Attempted rape

Lynchings in Texas
(Continued)

1904
(Cont'd.)

[illegible]. 1	Tucker, Oscar	Weimar, Colorado Co.	Rape

1905

Feb. 16	Munes, Carlos	Near Dale, Caldwell Co.	Rape
Feb. 17	Johnson, William	Smithville, Bastrop Co.	Rape
June 20	Simon, Ford	Riverside, Walker Co.	Rape
July 14	Mason, Frank	Golinda, Goliad Co.	Rape
July 29	Unknown Negro	Avery, Bowie Co. Red River	Rape
Aug. 8	Majors, Sank	Waco, McLennan Co.	Rape
Aug. 11	Williams, Thomas	Sulphur Springs, Hopkins Co.	Attempted rape
Aug. 14	Williams, Thomas	Sulphur Springs, Hopkins Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 7	Davis, Stephen	Italy, Ellis County	Rape
Nov. 11	Reese, John	Henderson, Rusk County	Murder
Nov. 11	Askew, Robert	Henderson, Rusk County	Murder

1906

Jan. 10	Harris, Benjamin	Moscow, Polk County	Murder
Apr. 24	Negro	Groesbeck, Limestone Co.	Rape
Apr. 25	Negro	Oakwood, Leon County	Rape
Sept. 15	Frazier, Mitchell	Rosebud, Falls County	Murderous assault
Oct. 26	Pitts, "Slab"	Toyah, Reeves County	Marrying a white woman

1907

July 14	Wilson, Fred	Del Rio, Valverde Co.	Murder
Aug. 6	Hall, Thomas	Goliad, Goliad County	Attempted rape
Nov. 4	Johnson, Alex	Cameron, Milam County	Attempted rape
Dec. 26	Callaway, Anderson	Marquez, Leon County	Attempted rape

1908

Feb. 28	Scott, Clem	Conroe, Montgomery Co.	Attempted rape
Mar. 10	Campbell, John	Navasota, Grimes County	Murderous assault
Mar. 24	Unnamed Negro	Conroe, Montgomery Co.	Attempted rape
Mar. 24	Two unnamed Negroes	Magnolia, Montgomery Co.	Attempted rape
Apr. 9	Fields, Albert	Long View, Gregg Co.	Rape
Apr. 19	Douglas, Jasper	Atlanta, Cass Co.	Rape
May 7	Williams, John	Naples, Morris Co.	Murder
June 22	Evans, Jerry	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder
June 22	Johnson, William	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder

Lynchings in Texas
(Continued)

1908

(Cont'd.)

June 22	Manuel, William	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder
June 22	McCoy, "Rabbit Bill"	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder
June 22	Spellman, Moses	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder
June 22	William Frank	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder
June 22	Williams, Cleveland	Hemphill, Sabine Co.	Murder
July 15	Unnamed Negro	Beaumont, Jefferson Co.	Mistaken identity
July 28	Smith, Tad	Greensboro, Bayou - Harrison	Rape
Sept. 13	Newton, Daniel	Brodeshire Shakire Hallow	Murder

1909

Mar. 7	Ellis, Anderson	Rockwall, Rockwall Co.	Rape
Apr. 27	Hodges, James	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Rape
Apr. 30	"Creole" Mose	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Murder
Apr. 30	Hill, "Pie"	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Murder
Apr. 30	Chase, Matthew	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Murder
May 28	Burnett, Thomas	Abilene, Taylor Co.	Murder
Sept. 13	Unnamed Negro	Bellamy Mead McLennan	Murder
Sept. 13	Unnamed Negroes (2)	Sandy Point, Brazoria Co.	Murder
Dec. 20	Mills, Cope	Rosebud, Falls Co.	Murder

1910

Feb. 2	Unknown Negro	Beaumont, Jefferson Co.	Rape
Mar. 3	Brooks, Holland	Dallas, Dallas Co.	Rape
Apr. 5	Bates, Frank	Centerville, Leon Co.	Murder
June 26	Johnson, Leonard	Rusk, Cherokee Co.	Murder
July 5	Unnamed Negro	Rodney, Navarro Co.	Attempted rape
July 12	Gentry, Henry	Bolton, Bell Co.	Murder and alleged rape

1911

June 20	Mexican Bay	Thorndale, Milan Co.	Murder
Aug. 12	Jones, "Commodore"	Farmersville, Collin Co.	Insulting woman
Oct. 29	Unnamed Negro	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 8	Johnson, Riley	Clarksville, Red River Co.	Attempted rape

1912

Feb. 15	Saunders, George	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Complicity in murder
Feb. 15	Jackson, Mary	Marshall, Harrison Co.	Complicity in murder

Lynchings in Texas
(Continued)

1912

(Cont'd.)

May 25	Davis, Dan	Tyler, Smith Co.	Rape

1913

Jan. 17	Monson, Henry	Paris, Lamar County	Murder
Jan. 23	Stanley, Richard	Fullb right, Red River Co.	Rape
Feb. 25	Perry, Robert	Karnach, Harrison Co.	Horse stealing
June 5	Galloway, Richard	Newton County	Race trouble
Sept. 21	Davis, William	Franklin, Robertson Co.	Murder

1914

Jan. 8	Lee, David	Jefferson, Marion Co.	Murderous assault
Mar. 13	Williams, William	Hearne, Robertson Co.	Murder
June 7	Robertson, William	Navasto, Grimes Co.	Murder
Oct. 17	Durfee, Joseph	Angleton, Brazoria Co.	Murder

1915

May 9	Unidentified Negro	Big Sandy, Upshur Co.	Murder
July 29	Munz, Adolf	Brownsville, Cameron Co.	Murder
Aug. 24	Slovak, John	Shiner, Lavaca Co.	Wife beating
Aug. 29	Richmond, King	Sulphur Springs, Hopkins Co.	Murder
Sept. 14	Six Mexicans	San Bonite and Edenburg Co.	Banditry

1916

Jan. 24	Maxfield, W. J.	Boston, Bowie Co.	Murder
May 5	Dixon, Thomas	Hempstead, Waller Co.	Rape
May 15	Jess, Washington	Waco, McLennan Co.	Rape and murder
June 20	Lorna, Jeronimo	Brownsville, Cameron Co.	Murderous assault
Aug. 7	Brown, Stephen	Seymour, Baylor Co.	Murder
Aug. 19	Lang, Edward	Rice, Navarro Co.	Murder
Oct. 5	Spencer, William	Graceton, Upshur Co.	Alleged murder
Nov. 5	Johnson, Joseph	Bay City, Matagorda	Murder
Nov. 29	Thomas, Buck	Clarksville, Red River Co.	Murderous assault

1917

June 22	Harper, Benjamin	Courtney, Grimes County	Murder
June 25	Sawyer, Charles	Galveston, Galveston Co.	Rape
June 29	Jefferson, Robt.	Temple, Bell Co.	No cause
July 3	Guirdy, Gilbert	Orgage, Orange Co.	Attempted rape

Lynchings in Texas
(Continued)

1917

(Cont'd.)

Aug. 22	Jones, Charles	Near Marshall, Harrison Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 21	Smith, Bert	Goose Creek, Harris Co.	Attempted rape

1918

May 27	Goolsee, Kirby	Woodville, Tyler Co.	Attempted rape
June 1	Cabiness, Mrs. Sarah	Dodge, Walker Co.	Alleged threats to kill
June 1	Cabiness, Bessie	Dodge, Walker Co.	Alleged threats to kill
June 1	Cabiness, Peter	Dodge, Walker Co.	Alleged threats to kill
June 1	Cabiness, Cute	Dodge, Walker Co.	Alleged threats to kill
June 1	Cabiness, Temple	Dodge, Walker Co.	Alleged threats to kill
June 1	Cabiness, Thomas	Dodge, Walker Co.	Alleged threats to kill
June 4	Valentino, Edward	Sanderson, Terrell Co.	Murder
July 27	Brown, James	Ben Hur, Limestone Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 14	Shipman, Chas.	Fort Bend County	Killing landlord in altercation

1919

Jan. 20	William, Bragg	Hillsboro, Hill Co.	Murder
June 17	Walters, Lemuel	Longview, Gregg Co.	No charge reported
July 24	Jennings, Chilton	Gilmer, Upshur Co.	Attempted rape
Oct. 27	Unnamed boy	Crosby, Harris Co.	Charge not reported

1920

May 8	Aliane, Charles	Woodville, Tyler Co.	Threat to kill
June 29	Giles, Washington	Damon Mound, Brazoria Co.	Killing law officer
June 29	Giles, Ezra	Damon Mound, Brazoria Co.	Killing law officer
June 30	Gorder, Jodie	Damon Mound, Brazoria Co.	Assisted Giles
June 30	Anderson, Elijah	Damon Mound, Brazoria Co.	Assisted Giles's brothers to escape
July 6	Arthur, Herman	Paris, Lamar Co.	Murder
July 6	Arthur, Irving	Paris, Lamar Co.	Murder
Aug. 3	Daniels, Elijah	Center, Shelby Co.	Rape

Lynchings in Texas

(Continued)

1920
(Cont'd.)

Sept. 18	Beasley, Oscar	Angleton, Brazoria Co.	Killing law officer
Dec. 22	Vickeroy, Thomas W.	Fort Worth, Tarrent Co.	Killing law officer

1921

Aug. 15	Winn, Alexander	Datura, Limestone Co.	Rape
Oct. 10	McNealy, Wylee	Leesburg, Camp Co.	Attempted rape
Nov. 27	Cade, Henry	Sour Lake, Hardin Co.	Rape
Nov. 30	Murtare, Robert	Ballinger, Runnels Co.	Rape
Dec. 11	Rouse, Fred	Forth Worth, Tarrent Co.	Wounding man
Dec. 12	Newsome, Alonzo	Gladewater, Gray Co.	No charge reported
Dec. 15	Hackney, Curly	Waco, McLennan Co.	Rape

1922

Feb. 5	Durate, Manuel	Cameron County	No charge reported
Feb. 11	Norman, N. P.	Texarkana, Bowie County	Intimidating officer of law
May 6	Curry, Snap	Kirvin, Freestone Co.	Murder and rape
May 6	Jones, Moses	Kirvin, Freestone Co.	Murder and rape
May 6	Cornish, John	Kirvin, Freestone Co.	Murder and rape
May 7	Greene, Shadrick	Kirvin, Freestone Co.	Complicity in murder of girl for which Curry Jones and Cornish were put to death
May 18	Early, Thomas	Plantersville, Grimes Co.	Attempted rape
May 20	Winters, Joseph	Conroe, Montgomery Co.	Rape
May 20	Bozier, Moses	Columbia, Brazoria Co.	Rape
May 23	Wilbon, Gilbert	Bryon, Brazos Co.	Stealing cattle
May 26	Thomas, Jesse	Waco, McLennon Co.	Murder and rape
June 23	Lewis, Warren	New Dawus, Montgomery Co.	Attempted rape
Sept. 7	Johnson, O. J.	Newton, Newton Co.	Murder
Nov.	Unnamed Mexican	Hidalgo County	Had been arrested for some small offense
Nov. 11	Zarate, Elias Villa-real	Weslaco, Hidalgo Co.	Striking man
Dec. 11	Gay, George	Streetman, Freestone Co.	Attempted rape
Dec. 14	Unnamed Negro	Pilot Point, Denton Co.	Horse stealing
Dec. 14	Unnamed Negro	Pilot Point, Denton Co.	Horse stealing

1923

Feb.	Smith, J. G.	Bishop, Nueces Co.	"Trying to act like white man and not knowing his place"

Lynching in Texas
(Continued)

1923
(Cont'd.)

July 5	Bullock, Jesse	Schulenburg, Fayette Co.	Rape
Nov.	Unnamed Mexican	Brazos Co.	Charge not reported
Nov.	Unnamed Negro	Gregg Co.	Charge not reported
Nov.	Unnamed white man	Gregg Co.	Charge not reported

1924

June 7	Smith, Wm. B.	Crockett, Houston Co.	Rape

1925

1926

Mar. 15	Johnson, Frank	Trinity County	Murder
Sept. 7	Nunez, Thomas	Raymondville, Willacy Co.	Charge not reported
Sept. 7	Two sons of Thomas Nunez	Raymondville, Willacy Co.	Charge not reported
Nov. 10	Evans, Scott	Harris County	Complicity in murder
Nov. 10	Brown, Robert	Harris County	Complicity in murder
Nov. 10	Brown, Sylvia (Mrs.)	Harris County	Complicity in murder

1927

Feb. 2	Payne, Tom	Willis, Montgomery Co.	Attempted murder

1928

May 21	Evans, Buddy	Center, Shelby Co.	Murder
June 20	Powell, Robert	Houston, Harris County	Murder

1929

Sept. 1	Williams, Cleveland	Calvert, Robertson Co.	Writing insulting note to white girl
Sept. 1	Unnamed Negro	Calvert, Robertson Co.	Writing insulting note to white girl
Nov. 19	Ratliff, Marshall	Eastland, Eastland Co.	Attempting to break jail and wounding Deputy Sheriff, who later died.

Lynchings in Texas
(Concluded)

1930

May 9	Hughes, George	Sherman, Grayson Co.	Rape
May 16	Johnson, George	Honey Grove, Fannin Co.	Murder
June 17	Roane, William	Bryan, Brazos Co.	Attempted rape

1931

1932

Apr. 1	Tillis, Dave (Negro)	Crockett, Houston Co.	Attempted rape

1933

May 23	Lovell, W. G. (Negro)	Carthage, Panola Co.	Rape
Dec. 7	Gregory, David (Negro)	Kountze, Hardin Co.	Murder

1934

June 23	Griggs, Sonny (Negro)	Newton, Newton Co.	Associating with white woman. Taken from officers of law

1935

Nov. 11	Ernest Collins: Benny Mitchell:	Columbus, Colorado Co.	Criminal assault & murder

1942

July 13	Willy Vinson	Texarkana, Bowie Co.	Suspected rape

Lynchings in Virginia

1900-1954

1900

DATE	NAME	PLACE	ACCUSATION
Mar. 24	Colton, Walter	Emporia, Greensville Co.	Murder
Mar. 24	O'Grady, Brandt	Emporia, Greensville Co	Murder
Apr. 5	Unknown Negro	Southampton County	Arson
Apr. 22	Peters, John	Tazewell, Tazewell Co.	Rape
Sept. 19	Unknown Negro	Arrington, Nelson Co.	Rape
Dec. 8	Long, Daniel	Wythe Co.	Rape

1901

Mar. 22	Unknown Negro	Halifax County	Arson
July 1	Walker,	Lawrenceville, Brunswick County	Rape

1902

Apr. 5	Carter, James	Amherst, Amherst Co	Murderous assault
June 6	Gam, Wiley	Toms Brook, Shenandoah Co.	Attempted rape
June 11	Unknown Negro	Near Newport News, Warwick Co.	Unknown offense
~~July 31~~	~~Craven, Chas.~~	~~Leesburg~~
July 31	Craven, Chas.	Leesburg, Loudown Co.	Murder

1903

1904

Jan. 14	Moseley, Elmer	Sussex County	Murder
May 19	Whitehead,	Unknown	Rape
Aug. 4	Dudley, Andrew	Greenfield, Nelson Co.	Attempted rape

1905

Feb. 20	Henderson, Henry	Ingram, Halifax Co.	Race prejudice

1906

Lynchings in Virginia
(Continued)

1907

1908

1909

Dec. 28	Remington, Henry	Manley,	Murder

1910

Nov. 30	Neal, Mack	Warren, Albermarle Co. ✓	Murder

1911

1912

Aug. 8	Unnamed	Richmond, Henrico Co. ✓	Rape

1913

1914

1915

1916

1917

Aug. 17	Page, William	Lillian, Northumberland Co. ✓	Attempted rape

1918

Nov. 24	Thompson, Allie	Culpeper County ✓	Assaulting white woman

1919

Lynchings in Virginia
(Continued)

1920

Nov. 14	Hunt, David	Wise, Wise County	Attempted rape

1921

Aug. 3	Johnson, Lemuel	Lawrenceville, Brunswick County	Murder

1922

Oct. 12	Carter, Horace	King and Queen Court House, King and Queen Court House Co.	Attempted rape

1924

1925

Mar. 20	Unnamed man	Waverly, Sussex Co.	Rape

1926

Aug. 15	Bird, Raymond	Wytheville, Wythe Co.	Rape

1927

Nov. 30	Wood, Leonard	Wise County	Murder

1928

1929

1930

1931

1932

Sept. 15	Thompson, Shadrick	Warrenton, Fauquier Co.	Rape

1933

1934

VIRGINIA - 4

Rape	2
Attempted rape . .	1
Murder	1

Counties involved:

Sussex	1
Wythe	1
Wise	1
King and Queen House . .	1

3 lynchings involved white women and children

1 lynching involved conflict between men.

LYNCHING RECORD FOR PAST TEN YEARS

1920-1930

ALABAMA - 6

Alledged criminal assault	1
Insulting white woman	2
Frightening children	1
Murder	1✓
Complicity in murder	1✓

4 lynchings involved white women and children;

2 lynchings resulted from conflicts between men.

Counties involved - one lynching each in Barbour, Crenshaw, Lowndes, Jefferson, Montgomery, Sumter.

ARKANSAS - 13

Alledged rape	1
Attempted rape	2
Insulting white women	2
Attacking white woman	1
Murder	4✓
Burglary and murder	1✓
Striking white man	1
Railroad strike breaker	1

6 lynchings involved white women and children;

7 lynchings resulted from conflicts between men.

Counties involved - one lynching in each of the following: Ashley, Boone, Conway, Garland, Hempstead, Hot Springs, Lafayette, Miller, Mississippi, Ouachita, Phillips, Pulaski, Union.

FLORIDA - 37

Rape	4
Attempted rape	4
Insulting or frightening women	3
Attempting to extort alledged debt at pistol point from woman	1
Attack on woman	1
Attacking child	1
Murder	7✓
Complicity in murder	1✓
Shooting officer of the law	2✓
Attacking forest ranger	2✓
Resisting possee	1✓
Cattle stealing	1
Alledged burglaries	1
Wrong man	1
Bombing house	1
No charge (1 woman)	6

14 lynchings resulted from conflicts with women and children

22 lynchings resulted from conflicts between men.

1 woman was lynched.

Counties having lynchings:

Alachua	2
Brevard	1
Calhoun	2
Columbia	1
Dade	1
Duval	2
Gadsden	1
Hamilton	1
Hernando	3
Hillsborough	1
Indian River	2
Lake	2
Lafayette	1
Lee	3
Levy	4 (1 woman)
Marion	1
Orange	2
Palm Beach	2
Pinellas	1
Santa Rosa	1
Seminole	1
Taylor	2

GEORGIA - 26

Rape	8
Attempted rape	3
Murder	7
Attempted murder	3
Attempted burglary and assault	1
Complicity in murder	1
No charge	2

11 lynchings involving women

14 conflicts between men

Counties involved:

Baldwin	1	Liberty	2
Barron	1	Miller	1
Bartow	1	Meriwether	1
Bleckley	1	Monroe	1
Coffee	1	Montgomery	1
Colquitt	1	McIntosh	1
Columbia	1	Schley	1
Crisp	1	Screven	1
Hancock	2	Thomas	2
Houston	1	Washington	2
Irwin	1	Wayne	1

KENTUCKY - 4

Murder	3
Wounding officer	1

4 conflicts between men

Counties involved:

Breathitt	1	Litcher	1
Floyd	1	Todd	1

LOUISIANA - 10

Rape	1
Attempted rape	1
Trying to associate with white woman	1
Shooting two women	1
Murder	2
No charge	4

Parishes involved:

Bossier	3
Caddo	1
Calcasieu	1
Caliborne	1
Franklin	1
Placquémines	1
Rapides	2

4 lynchings involved women and children

6 lynchings involved conflicts between men.

MISSISSIPPI - 49

Rape	8
Attempted rape	5
Alleged attack on women	2
Operating house of ill fame from which 2 white girls were taken	1
Improper conduct with woman	1
Attacking wife of planter	1
Wounding woman with ax	1
Making improper proposal to woman	1
Entering house and frightening woman	1
Robbing two tourists - man and wife	2
Murder	15
Wounding man	5
Resisting officer of law	2
Beating white man	1
No charge	2
Mistaken identity	1

Counties involved:

Benton	1	Perry	1
Bolivar	1	Pikev	2
Coahoma	2	Pontotoc	2
Copiah	1	Quitman	1
DeSoto	1	Sunflower	2
Forrest	1	Tunica	1
Greene	1	Union	1
Harrison	1	Walthall	1
Hinds	2	Wayne	1
Holmes	2	Winston	2
Kemper	3	Yalobusha	1
LeFlore	3	Yazoo	4
Lincoln	2
Lowndes	2
Monroe	1
Noxuber	4
Panola	1
Pearl River	1

23 lynchings involved women and children

26 lynchings involved conflicts between men

NORTH CAROLINA - 1

Rape . . . . . 1 - Edgecombe County

OKLAHOMA - 3

Rape 1
Attempted rape . . . 1
Strike breaker . . . 1

Counties involved:

Grady — 2 lynchings involving women
McIntosh
Oklahoma — 1 involving conflict between men

SOUTH CAROLINA - 4

Rape 2
Attempted rape . . . 1
Intimate with white woman 1
Killing officer of law (1 woman) . . .3

Counties involved:

Aiken . . . 3 — 4 lynchings involving women
Oconee . . .1
Orangeburg .1 — 3 involving conflict between men.
Union . . . 1
Williamsburg 1

TENNESSEE - 8

Rape 1
Attempted rape . . . 3
Murder . . . . . 2✓
Complicity in murder 2✓

Counties involved:

Benton . . . 2
Crockett . . 1
Davidson . . 1
Maury 1
Shelby . . .2
Stewart . . 1

TEXAS - 40

Rape 8
Attempted rape 4
Complicity in murder and rape 1
Writing insulting note to girl 1
Companion of one writing insulting note . . . 1
Murder . . . . . 5✓
Complicity in murder (1 woman) . . . .3✓
Attempted murder 1
Breaking jail, killing sheriff 1
Intimidating officer of law 1
Striking man 2
Stealing cattle 1
Minor offense 1
Horse thieves 2
Trying to act like white man 1
No charge 7

Counties involved:

Brazoria . . .1 — 15 lynchings involved women and children
Brazos 3
Bowie 1
Cameron . . . 1 — 25 involved conflicts between men
Denton 2
Eastland . . .1
Fannin 1
Fayette . . . 1
Freestone . . 4
Grayson . . . 1
Gregg 2
Grimes 1
Harris . . . .4 (1 woman)
Houston 1
Hidalgo 3
Montgomery . . 3
McLennan . . . 1
Newton 1
Nueces 1
Robertson . . .2
Shelby 1
Trinity 1
Willacy 3

THERE IS SO MUCH SOUTH IN THE NORTH OF US AND SO MUCH NORTH IN THE SOUTH OF US, UNTILL IT BEHOOVES NEITHER OF US TO UPBRAID THE OTHER OF US..

OATH OF EVERY AFRO-AMERICAN YOUTH

I will ever and anon fight with America for the emanc[illegible] the enslaved peoples of Europe, Asia, Africa, and [illegible] of the United States of America. The Negro has no [illegible] crasies, altho he is first in war, last in peace, and lea[illegible] of his countrymen. He is law abiding from Alpha to [illegible] rebels not against the Government; he does not plot day [illegible] out to upturn the present or future reigning power, w[illegible] ficial or detrimental to his cause. Some are wont to say [illegible] Negro will refuse because the South is in the saddle at [illegible] Whether or not the Chief Executive be a Democrat or [illegible] Republican or Rap-publican, Prohibitionist or Anti[illegible] Negro admirer, hater or traitor, he is ever constant in [illegible] to his country.

He throws no bombs; he assassinates no Presidents; he [illegible] into plots of intrigue; he is now, henceforth and for[illegible] ready to serve the country of his adoption and ad[illegible] Negro's patriotism is next to his highest virtue (his hig[illegible] is his God). The strains of the Star Spangled Banner [illegible] souls of the black folks like the effulgent rays of the [illegible] the sensetize plates in photography. That the Negro is [illegible] trust and faithful to his trustees is generally conc[illegible] Kranchskoff has said, "To be a patriot to a country that de[illegible] to love a people that despies, is divine." Of such divine [illegible] is the patriotism of the Negro. To be absented of patri[illegible] and fervor during these trying times of our home and [illegible] seems inhuman and illogical. America is the only place of wh[illegible] Negro has any recollection. He has no endearing and [illegible] ties which bind him to any other country save America. [illegible] followed him across the ocean but a stream of his own bl[illegible] such ghastly sights naturally are wont to be forgotten.

We hope when the terror of sea is banished, when the [illegible] cannon cease; when the smoke of battlefield is cleared [illegible] Czardom, Kaiserdom and Serfdom have been effaced [illegible] from the earth, that the whole human family will be [illegible] liberty and not liberties. We hope that the good the Ne[illegible] done and is doing and will continue to do shall not hal[illegible] mark time, but will march onward and upward until the [illegible] the perfect day.

We hope all the deeds will be taken into account [illegible] wards will be distributed in equable quotas. If this fail[illegible] shall have been fought in vain; Democracy will be [illegible] its foundation built on rottenness and corruption.

What the Chief Executive said to the world the Ne[illegible]

America. Not a line nor scarcely a word can be omitted without [illegible] impairing the analogy; his words are these:

"[illegible] no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquest, no [illegible] We seek no indemnities for ourselves, no material com-[illegible] for the sacrifices we shall freely make.

"[illegible] We are but the champions of the rights of mankind. [illegible] shall be satisfied when those rights have been made as secure as the faith and freedom of the nation can make them.

CHRISTIANITY.

While reading the Post, Monday, March 4th, 1918, I noticed an article headed: "Race War Next Feared."

About midway I found these words, "The safety of the white man lies in two things: First, the Allies must hurry up and win this war and see to it that a permanent place is made before the Caucasian race has shot itself all to pieces." Secondly, the white man must Christianize the other races as quickly and as effectually as possible."

My contention is that had the white man himself been Christianized and humanized the veneer of civilization would not have so easily cracked.

The white way of Christianizing uncivilized people is largely responsible for the present great conflict. The war is a boomerang thrown out hundreds of years ago and is now returning from whence it came.

The white man goes to Africa with the Christian Bible in one hand and a rum bottle in the other, and before the poor, ignorant heathen can become Christianized he is paralized.

If the Rev. Martin wishes this process to continue, I doubt if it will ever save civilization.

According to Webster's definition of Christianity, I solemnly believe that if we all practice humanity towards each other, that we will not have missed the real import or meaning.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

While the white race is on its way to the grave the Japanese look on with sinister silence and acquiescent guilt.

The United States Government has no constitutional right to interfere with the lynching of a citizen of the United States but reserves the right to interfere with the mistreatment of foreigners.

I read once where a Frenchman asked an American if it were true that they once burned a man alive in the United States, and [illegible] answered cowardly, "Yes, they did burn one."

A Negro was given three years in penitentiary for the theft of a bicycle and that a white man was given three months for the theft

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
FRANCE
U.S.A.
ENGLAND
GERMANY

[illegible] possible in the same place and by the same judge. SOME [illegible] statement accounts for the overwhelming majority [illegible] convicts in the prisons of the United States.

[illegible] are numbers of white men in Texas living openly with [illegible] women.

There are numbers of colored men in Boston, Mass. married to white women.

There are over fifty thousand Negroes in the white race.

We have had over a dozen civilizations and that the founders and followers of each by their inquitous living have been relegated to the dust and moth of oblivion.

When a Negro stands up for his God given rights white men will invariably say he is bumptious, arrogant and conceited.

Four years of war made the whole world chagrin.

The Negro is so true to T—his country and so loyal to T—his flag that he is a non-entity and an ice-olated mass and out of the pale of consideration in the United States.

If it were possible to shift all the evils, vices and ills of humanity upon the Negro, the major part of the white race would be willing to do it, but as nature has decreed done shall be it not, so shall it be done not.

As nature has decreed that certain things shall be done not, so decreed she that certain things shall be done, namely one—that the Negro shall in the sun have a place

I overheard a conversation the other day, and it went in this wise, "The Negro so far as this war is concerned, is a dead issue." Well, thought I, he may be a dead issue, but if he proves to be, the white race will become putrid from the resultant decomposition of the surcharged atmosphere.

Not a treasonous nor a traitorous deed was ever recorded against a Negro.

The greatest hindrance to suffrage in the District of Columbia is the Negro.

In the midst of a mighty war for world democracy there is wholesale discrimination at Washington, D. C.

There are two colored Generals and a number of Colonels, Captains and myriads of Lieutenants and officers of lower rank in the French Army.

That over forty per cent of the draftees of the District of Columbia was colored. I wonder why don't they get forty per [illegible] of everything else?

President Wilson told the N. A. A. C. P. that he had not heard [illegible] concerning the burning of Jim McIlleron at Dyersburg, [illegible] He asked for a review of the facts after which he expressed the opinion that he could hardly believe that such happened.

Every race, nation, creed and cult have been the spoils after the war, except the Negro.

The Allies have wrestled every inch of Africa from the Germans. I wonder to whom

The white man's civilization is responsible for the ditions of Russia.

Races and Nations, like individuals, have an allotted years to live, after which they lose their usefulness.

The United States government, so far as lynching is extends no further than Washington, D. C.

I wonder why the President don't act on lynching?

I wonder if he thinks he won't be heard or he will be

A modest young white lady, met me the other day and of me alms to aid the Belgian babies. I gave her a said, "I must give the bigger bit to aid the East St. Lo
She said, "May God bless them." I said, "Yes, but like the Belgian babies, they need some earthly help

Of all the unspeakable atrocities attributed to the have not read of the burning of a human being.

The force of law will eventually overcome the law of

If somebody don't stand up square shouldered for that the Negro will stand up square shouldered for his

There'll be no South, if segregation, jim-crowism and continue much longer.

It is said that the war has put civilization back a hun
I contend that the war has put civilization up a hun the man farthest down has advanced more in three ye than he would have in a hundred years of peace.

It is said that civilization has broken down, yet aware of the fact that civilization has not broken up.

Where there is life there is hope. Cheer up, sad h

Civilization is a torch handed down from generation tion and should gain in brilliancy as it goes, but has burned down, but thank God she will never burn up

Where there is a spark left some favorable wind will a flame.

Out of this chaos and confusion there will ultimately peace and prosperity to all mankind.

The contagious disease better known as discrimination
Washington, D. C. and spreads abroad.

I have noticed this placard (to make the world to live in), and I often wonder if that includes little

I can sit at my window in the War Department and across the street, where a government building is in operation, which runs in this wise:

Lavatory. White. Colored.

Remember, (make the world a decent place to live in).

Whenever a Negro commits a crime against society the daily papers print it in serial form, that is, each day we get a bit of it, from the time it happens until the unfortunate victim is either lynched or jailed or acquitted.

By this diabolical method it practically becomes a continuous performance, as soon as the public mind has been virulently embittered and another mite of prejudice added, then anew comes fresh news of another crime which makes it a never ending serial, designated to manufacture prejudice.

Whenever a white man commits a crime against society, we read it today and forget it tomorrow.

I am a full blooded American; every time I hear a band play a national air my blood steams up to the boiling point and I feel as much buoyed up as any one else, but when it is all over and I begin to meditate and reflect, cold chills creep over me.

God hasten the day when I will feel at home in America.

"We call our fathers fools so wise we grow,
No doubt our older sons will call us so."

The above is a well known and well worn axiom that should run in this wise:

We call our fathers wise such fools we grow,
No doubt our older sons will call us so.

Can you imagine our fathers coming up out of their graves and peering at this hell on earth? What would they say? And is this the fruits of all our labors? Ye gods, ye thankless children.

All the Negro needs is a background of an establishment against which to silhouette himself and then and there he will show his worth and weight.

The world is round, and for that reason, everything you do, be it for weal or woe, acts as a boomerang, goes around the world and to you it eventually returns, be you a nation or individual. BELGIUM REMEMBER.

The world was made in harmony and the atoms marched in tune.

What this world needs is more harmony and a better understanding, a better white race, a better black race, a better constitution, a better you and a better me.

The White race says:
Remember Belgium.
The black race says:
Belgium remember.

The real reason why Russia did not pay heed to the United States was that they were well aware of the treatment of the [illegible]-letariat or common people of America. They had been [illegible] East St. Louis affair on the eve of the entering of the [illegible] sion into the United States. And they also knew of the [illegible] and burnings of human beings in our Democratic Repub[illegible] heard the voice of Jacob but assured themselves that [illegible] the hand of Esau.

Enver Pasha Bey, the Turkish envoy from a heathen land [illegible] an official of the United States Government, after being questioned concerning the atrocities of Turks upon Christians: "You [illegible] take the beam out of your own eye and then you could see [illegible] to take the mote out of your brother's eye."

Twenty years ago the Japanese government sent a [illegible] this country and all they received were cat calls and hiss[illegible] entered the United States in disgust and left in despair.

One year ago the Japanese government sent a mi[illegible] United States and they were received hospitably, entertained [illegible] ly and departed peacefully.

Why so different in twenty years?

"WAR IS HELL."

While watching a parade of soldiers in New York, I no[illegible] that they marched cautiously and were as silent as tombs. [illegible] were going to war.

I noticed the great throngs of onlookers, they were as no[illegible] a bunch of drunken sailors. They were going to stay at home.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CRISIS.

Ten millions of leaderless souls are groping in the darkness and in this vaste waste howling wilderness and know not whither or thither to go. Just yesterday they were more than proud of [illegible] unswerving, radical, stand-pat champion of Race Rights in Ame[illegible]

Today they are disgusted, disheartened and brimful of de[illegible] It seems as tho the leaders of the Negro race gradually [illegible] leave us in the night of misery, like the gloom which blots out the stars, one by one from the face of the Heaven and leaves us [illegible] out a ray of comfort or a sign of light to guide our faltering [illegible] steps thru the viscissitudes of this ever-changing life.

Has he sold his own and the birthright of millions for a [illegible] pottage? In reading the last issue of the Crisis, if you will [illegible] carefully, you will find that spokesman of the race toned down [illegible] a minimum.

Before I would have TONED THE CRISIS DOWN I WOULD HAVE TORN IT UP.

In perusing the last issue of the Crisis you can read [illegible]

CHAPTER ONE

THE MIND OF THE LYNCHER

IN FLORIDA some years ago several lynchings and the burning of the Negro section of the town followed the attempt of a Negro pharmacist to vote in a national election. One morning shortly afterwards I walked along the road which led from the beautiful little town to the spot where five Negroes had been burned. Three shining-eyed, healthy, cleanly children, headed for school, approached me. As I neared them, the eldest, a ruddy-cheeked girl of nine or ten, asked if I was going to the place where "the niggers" had been killed. I told her I might stop and see the spot. Animatedly, almost as joyously as though the memory were of Christmas morning or the circus, she told me, her slightly younger companions interjecting a word here and there or nodding vigorous assent, of "the fun we had burning the niggers."

One need not be a sentimentalist to feel that such warping of the minds of Southern children is by far the worst aspect of lynching. All parents appreciate the difficulty of avoiding in home and in school the inculcation of tendencies towards falsehood, deception, and dishonesty in the minds of their children. A careless word of approbation or reproof may find root in the mind of a child, wholly without the knowledge or intent of mother or father or teacher, and bear unwholesome fruit many years later. Psychologists have established that from birth the human mind passes through all racial experience—from savagery through barbarism and upwards to what we term civilization precisely as the human body from conception to birth passes through the reptile, fish, and animal stages.

Imagine, then, the mind of a normal child in a Southern community. Its parents throw about him all the protection and give to him all the guidance and tender care which parents are accustomed to give. A crime is committed or it is alleged that one has been committed. In law-abiding communities it is bad enough to have the crime and the trial of the accused discussed in homes and in the press, worse if there is added the effect of an execution. But in a community where a lynching or perhaps a burning occurs, where thousands of participants and spectators include mothers and children of tender age among them, where there is morbid scrambling for charred bones or links of the chain which held the victim to his funeral pyre, where leaders of the mob are exalted as men of courage and action—the effect upon young minds is almost too appalling to be contemplated. It is entirely within the range of possibilities that such experiences may result in arrestation. In the unconscious of these immature minds are thus sown the seeds of lynching as a panacea which will correct all ills and especially those emanating from Negro sources. Primitive impulses to vengeance of violent character upon those whom the possessors of such minds do not like are thus nourished and form one step to further mob murder. Lynchings justified and extolled, lynchers exalted as men of bravery and forthrightness, efforts at punishment of the lynchers blocked and derided—such frequently repeated acts cannot fail to shape young minds in moulds which seem destined later to demand more victims.

Nearly a century of lynching and nearly five thousand mob murders within less than half a century have done an incalculable harm to American minds and particularly in those states where lynchings have been most frequent. Some of the effect can be seen in the frequency with which the phrase is heard—often from the lips of normal, law-abiding people even in the North and West—"he ought to be strung up to a tree."

Pavlov, the Russian psychologist, found that each succeeding generation of the rats he was observing went with fewer lessons at the sound of a bell to a fixed feeding place. Culturally, something of the same reaction to the use of mobbism affects certain Americans as, genetically, affected Pavlov's rats. Approximately similar conditioned responses actuate the human beings and the animals—the bell acted as an excitant for the joy in causing pain, disease, poverty—these are but a few of the items which lynching has caused to those who practised them. The description of the effect of slavery which Winwood Reade used in The Martyrdom of Man applies with equal force to the effect of oppression as represented by mob-law—"the Fathers of the country ate sour grapes, and the children's teeth were set on edge."

Certain factors which have been largely contributory to the low mental estate of the parts of the country where lynching has flourished are treated in later chapters. These include the influence of evangelical religions, the use by unscrupulous politicians of mythical fear of "Negro domination," the important role of sex, and the strenuous efforts to keep the Negro ignorant and intimidated that he may the more easily be exploited. The present chapter is devoted to an attempt to point out some of the factors which have created and are perpetuating the psychology of the lyncher, actual or potential.

Obviously, the lynching states have suffered most from derelict officials. Until very recent times, and in most of the South, even today, no lyncher has ever needed to feel the slightest apprehension regarding punishment or even the annoyance of an investigation. Even in the few instances where there were arrests and trials, the accused usually had friends on the jury, if not fellow lynchers; in others he knew that jurors and court officials were in sympathy with him or else dared not press the case too vigorously.

Some years ago I reported for a New York newspaper a trial in Alabama of a number of men charged with the lynching of two Negroes. Several court officials freely admitted the guilt of the defendants, but accurately foretold early acquittals. "Nobody around here is ever going to vote for convicting a white man for killing a nigger," one of them told me. "Why go to the expense, then, of holding a trial?" I asked, and received the reply: "What with all the talk up North about lynching, we've got to make some show—we're expecting a lot of money to be invested in business down here when they finish the Muscle Shoals dam."

A second ingredient in lynching-psychology is the human love of excitement. Sinclair Lewis and countless of his imitators have painted in leaden colours the Gopher Prairies of the West, but most of these towns are highly diverting when compared with the average small town in the South. The endless routine of drab working-hours and more drab home life, dominated by a relentlessly vitriolic and ignorant ministry, has little of excitement in it. There is much more than levity in the statement of H. L. Mencken that lynching often takes the place of the merry-go-round, the theatre, the symphony orchestra, and other diversions common to large communities. It is not at all unlikely that, whatever their other shortcomings, the radio and the cheap motor car appearing in the Press of January 27, 1921, bore the head: "KILL NEGRO BY INCHES." Here is what Roddy saw and wrote:

. . . More than 500 persons stood by and looked on while the Negro was slowly burned to a crisp. A few women were scattered among the crowd of Arkansas planters, who directed the grewsome work of avenging the death of O. T. Craig and his daughter, Mrs. C. P. Williamson.

Not once did the slayer beg for mercy despite the fact that he suffered one of the most horrible deaths imaginable. With the Negro chained to a log, members of the mob placed a small pile of leaves around his feet. Gasoline was then poured on the leaves, and the carrying out of the death sentence was under way.

Inch by inch the Negro was fairly cooked to death. Every few minutes fresh leaves were tossed on the funeral pyre until the blaze had passed the Negro's waist. . . . Even after the flesh had dropped away from his legs and the flames were leaping toward his face, Lowry retained consciousness. Not once did he whimper or beg for mercy. Once or twice he attempted to pick up the hot ashes in his hands and thrust them in his mouth in order to hasten death.

Each time the ashes were kicked out of his reach by a member of the mob. . . .

As the flames were eating away his abdomen, a member of the mob stepped forward and saturated the body with gasoline. It was then only a few minutes until the Negro had been reduced to ashes. . . .

William Pickens, in the Nation of March 23, 1921, told of one additional note of consideration shown Lowry by his murderers: " . . . the Negro said never a word except when the mob brought his wife and little daughter to see him burning." Despite the fact that the plans for the execution had been widely published hours before the actual burning, not only was no attempt made to prevent the lynching, but Sheriff Dwight H. Blackwood of Mississippi County, in which Nodena is located, was quoted by the Press to the effect that "Nearly every man, woman and child in our county wanted the Negro lynched. When public sentiment is that way, there isn't much chance left for the officers. . . ."

Mississippi

"She was not sure, but thought he looked like the one who had attacked her," the Memphis News-Scimitar said of the attempted identification by a white girl in hospital when J. P. Ivy, a Negro, was shown to her in September 1925. That slender connexion was sufficient for a mob of Mississippians who, on Sunday, September 20, thus disported themselves. J. L. Roulhac, a reporter for the News-Scimitar, tells the story:

> I watched a Negro burned at the stake at Rocky Ford, Miss., Sunday afternoon. I watched an angry mob chain him to an iron stake. I watched them pile wood around his helpless body. I watched them pour gasoline on this wood. And I watched three men set this wood on fire.
>
> I stood in a crowd of 600 people as the flames gradually crept nearer and nearer to the helpless Negro. I watched the blaze climb higher and higher encircling him without mercy.

I heard his cry of agony as the flames reached him and set his clothing on fire.

"Oh, God; Oh, God!" he shouted. "I didn't do it! Have mercy!" The blaze leaped higher. The Negro struggled. He kicked the chain loose from his ankles but it held his waist and neck against the iron post that was becoming red with the intense heat.

"Have mercy, I didn't do it! I didn't do it!" he shouted again.

. . . Nowhere was there a sign of mercy among the members of the mob, nor did they seem to regret the horrible thing they had done. The Negro had supposedly sinned against their race, and he died a death of torture.

Soon he became quiet. There was no doubt that he was dead. The flames jumped and leaped above his head. An odour of burning flesh reached my nostrils. Through the leaping blaze I could see the Negro sagging and supported by the chains. . . . .

. . . The mob walked away. In the vanguard of the mob I noticed a woman. She seemed to be rather young, yet it is hard to tell about women of her type; strong and healthy, apparently a woman of the country. She walked with a firm, even stride. She was beautiful in a way. . . .

"I'm hungry," someone complained. "Let's get something to eat." . . .

In the same issue of the News-Scimitar was printed another story which reveals the truth of Walter Hines Page's warning of three decades before the burning:

"Gov. Whitfield won't have a lick of luck with any investigation of the burning of Jim Ivy." So declared William N. Bradshaw, of Union County, Mississippi, admittedly a member of the mob that for forty-eight hours sought the Negro accused of criminally assaulting a white girl near Rocky Ford, Miss., Friday morning in a statement to the News-Scimitar this morning. "And furthermore," he continued, "not an officer in Union County or any of the neighboring counties will point out any member of the crowd. Why, if he did, the best thing for him to do would be to jump into an airplane headed for Germany—quick. Sure the officers know who were there. Everybody down there knows everything else. We're all neighbors and neighbors' neighbors." . . .

Appropriately enough, Bradshaw's statement is captioned: "MOB MEMBER LAUGHS AT PROBE."

Had the Governor of Mississippi or any other officials wanted really to take action against the perpetrators of this horrible affair, they need not have depended upon the officers of whom Bradshaw spoke. The News-Scimitar published three "exclusive" photographs of the lynching, in which the faces of at least a hundred members of the mob are easily distinguishable. Yet the coroner's jury returned the expected verdict that Ivy had come to his death "at the hands of a mob, the members of which are unknown."

Georgia

"Southern chivalry" draws no line of sex. An unscrupulous farmer in south Georgia refused to pay a Negro hand wages due him. A few days later the farmer was shot and killed. Not finding the Negro suspected of the murder, mobs began to kill every Negro who could even remotely be connected with the victim and the alleged slayer. One of these was a man named Hayes Turner, whose offence was that he knew the alleged slayer, a not altogether remarkable circumstance, since both men worked for the dead farmer. To Turner's wife, within one month of accouchement, was brought the news of her husband's death. She cried out in her sorrow, pouring maledictions upon the heads of those who had thrust widowhood upon her so abruptly and cruelly.

Word of her threat to swear out warrants for the arrest of her husband's murderers came to them. "We'll teach the damn' nigger wench some sense," was their answer, as they began to seek her. Fearful, her friends secreted the sorrowing woman on an obscure farm, miles away. Sunday morning, with a hot May sun beating down, they found her. Securely they bound her ankles together and, by them, hanged her to a tree. Gasoline and motor oil were thrown upon her dangling clothes; a match wrapped her in sudden flames. Mocking, ribald laughter from her tormentors answered the helpless woman's screams of pain and terror. "Mister, you ought to've heard the nigger wench howl!" a member of the mob boasted to me a few days later as we stood at the place of Mary Turner's death.

The clothes burned from her crisply toasted body, in which, unfortunately, life still lingered, a man stepped towards the woman and, with his knife, ripped open the abdomen in a crude Cæsarean operation. Out tum-bled the prematurely born child. Two feeble cries it gave—and received for answer the heel of a stalwart man, as life was ground out of the tiny form. Under the tree of death was scooped a shallow hole. The rope about Mary Turner's charred ankles was cut, and swiftly her body tumbled into its grave. Not without a sense of humour or of appropriateness was some member of the mob. An empty whisky-bottle, quart size, was given for headstone. Into its neck was stuck a half-smoked cigar—which had saved the delicate nostrils of one member of the mob from the stench of burning human flesh.

South Carolina

On a spring morning of 1925 a sheriff and three deputies set forth from Aiken, South Carolina, to arrest a Negro thirteen miles from town who was suspected of selling whisky. The four reached the house and found Sam Lowman away at the mill having corn ground into meal. Bertha Lowman, his twenty-seven-year-old daughter, and her mother, seeing the white men approach, started to enter the house. Coloured women in the South never feel at ease when white men prowl about their homes. The four white men, dressed in plain clothes and wearing no insignia of their official positions, ran to surround the house. The sheriff struck Bertha Lowman in the mouth with his fist. Her mother started to her daughter's rescue—and was shot through the heart by nineteenth century, when, almost imperceptibly, the number of deaths with torture became increasingly frequent, there was little concern expressed at this sinister change. Public indifference grew until such barbarities were received with but momentary comment—barbarities which would have aroused far greater condemnation had they occurred, not in the United States, but in Mexico, Soviet Russia, or China.

The roots of this sadism were long since planted in American life. James Elbert Cutler in his Lynch-Law cites only three burnings between 1830 and 1840. During the tense years between 1850 and 1860 there were nine burnings, one of them of a woman accused of poisoning her master. The number gradually increased after the Civil War, though the number recorded during the Reconstruction Period was not high in proportion to the number of victims. Cutler found burnings as follows during the last two decades of the nineteenth century and the first few years of the twentieth: 1884, Texas, one; 1891, Texas and Louisiana, one each; 1892, Arkansas, one; 1893, Texas, one; 1894, Kentucky, one; 1895, Texas, one; 1897, North Carolina, one; 1899, Georgia, Mississippi, and Kentucky, one each; 1901, Kansas, one; 1902, Mississippi, three, and Arkansas, Texas, and Colorado, one each; 1903, Illinois and Delaware, one each; 1904, Georgia and Mississippi, two each.

One of the last-named cases reveals the increasing sadism which began to manifest itself more frequently about that time. The New York Tribune of February 8, 1904 tells of a double burning in Mississippi:

Luther Holbert, a Doddsville Negro, and his wife were burned at the stake for the murder of James Eastland, a white planter, and John Carr, a Negro. The planter was killed in a quarrel. . . . Holbert and his wife left the plantation but were brought back and burned at the stake in the presence of a thousand people. Two innocent Negroes had been shot previous to this by a posse looking for Holbert . . . . There is nothing in the story to indicate that Holbert's wife had any part in the crime.

Benjamin Brawley, in A Social History of the American Negro, quotes the Vicksburg, Mississippi, Evening Post—which, obviously, can be relied upon not to add anything to the account of what actually happened—as to a new refinement introduced into the killing of Holbert and his wife—the use of corkscrews. This is the story:

When the two Negroes were captured, they were tied to trees and while the funeral pyres were being prepared they were forced to suffer the most fiendish tortures. The blacks were forced to hold out their hands while one finger at a time was chopped off. The fingers were distributed as souvenirs. The ears of the murderers were cut off. Holbert was beaten severely, his skull was fractured, and one of his eyes, knocked out with a stick, hung by a shred from the socket. . . . The most excruciating form of punishment consisted in the use of a large corkscrew in the hands of some of the mob. This instrument was bored into the flesh of the man and woman, in the arms, legs and body, and then pulled out, the spirals tearing out big pieces of raw, quivering flesh every time it was withdrawn."

One may well imagine that death, even in the form of burning at the stake, must have been welcomed gladly by the man and woman as relief from such bestiality. This is what Mississippians did, not only to Holbert, who, at most, was guilty of killing his opponent in a quarrel, but to Mrs. Holbert, who was innocent of any connexion with the murder.

Georgia staged a double burning in the same year, which aroused widespread discussion at the time. Paul Reed and Will Cato, charged with the brutal murder of a white family, had been duly tried, convicted, and sentenced to death when the mob broke into the court room, seized the prisoners, and burned them.

Here and there such episodes were repeated, mobs apparently vying with each other in devising more fiendish methods of torture. By the end of the first decade of the new century such orgies spread even as far north as Pennsylvania. At Coatesville in that state in 1911 Zach Walker, a Negro, killed a constable in a fight in which he also was severely wounded. Chained to a bed in a hospital, Walker was taken out by a mob, bed and all. Albert Jay Nock, in the American Magazine for February 1913, told how the bedstead broke; how Walker, wounded and helpless, chained to the lower half of the hospital cot, was thrown on a pile of wood, drenched with oil, and burned alive. "When Walker with superhuman strength," wrote Nock, "broke his bonds and tried to escape, they drove him back with pitchforks and fence rails and held him there until his body was burnt to ashes." And when a grand jury refused to indict the members of the mob, the lynchers were given an ovation.

During the same year a successful Negro farmer in Tennessee, who had by his prosperity aroused the jealousy and enmity of poor whites, was ambushed as he drove to town with his daughters to sell a load of cotton. The three were killed, the two girls by hanging and the father by shooting; the wagon was driven under the tree on which the girls' bodies hung, and fire was set to it, burning the bodies to a crisp.

Texas followed in 1912 with another burning. Dan Davis, a Negro charged with rape, was thus executed at Tyler. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch told how Davis calmly asked the mob: "I wish some of you gentlemen would be Christian enough to cut my throat." His request was in vain. Instead there was bitter disappointment, first because those entrusted with the task of starting the fire were deemed too slow, and second because not enough fuel had been provided. A few who dashed away to fetch more wood were rewarded with front-row positions.

Louisiana in December 1914 lynched three Negroes, many others in the same condition saw that as long as there was Negro slavery, so long could whites too poor to own slaves be shunted off into poverty, ignorance, disease, and death.

The Emancipation Proclamation changed all this and placed master and poor white upon the same economic level. From that state came unification of a far more vicious sort—union in a common hatred and fear of the Negro. Belying their boasted racial superiority, both classes, panic-stricken, rushed into movements like the Klan, the White Camelias, and others organized for the same purpose—to "put the Negro in his place." Gone was the old dissent. Douglas Freeman, editor of the Richmond News-Leader, speaking of the present South, says: "Forced to think alike politically, many ceased to think at all." His statement might apply as well to every other phase of post-Civil-War life in the South, for there was a common complex against the Negro which coloured all thought and gave birth to bitter passions that fed the flame of mobbism and led to victims by the hundreds of rope and faggot.

The allegations for which Negroes were lynched rapidly widened in scope. Not only were they murdered by mobs on charges of murder and rape, but for miscegenation, "incendiary language," jilting a girl, unpopularity, refusing to turn State's evidence, being too prosperous for a Negro, "introducing smallpox," to prevent evidence, for testifying against a white man, talking back to a white man, and for every sort of petty offence.

The overthrow of the Negro governments and the removal of federal troops in no wise changed this order of things, but instead intensified the bitterness. Practically every Southern state passed labour and vagrancy laws; "the former masters, working through state legislatures, restored a kind of servitude by means of apprentice, vagrancy, and poor laws." Other discriminatory laws aimed at the Negro and his suppression appeared as the years passed—disfranchisement laws, "Jim Crow" car laws, statutes to prohibit common assemblage in school and even in church. As the forerunner of such efforts to humiliate, oppress, and re-enslave the freedmen, the lyncher's rope and torch appeared.

Other economic forces at work outside of the South contributed to the success of these efforts. There had been far from a united North against slavery and for the war between North and South, as the draft riots in New York showed. The war over, the North was well content to leave the Negro to his fate at the hands of his former masters and the poor whites. The notorious failure of the Freedman's Savings Bank, through which Negroes were robbed of some three million dollars, is an excellent example of indifference in the North to the Negro's future.

This indifference was only in part due to hostility to from the victim. Confessions so obtained would not stand up in any other court. In many cases where the prisoner has been taken from jails or courts, after he has either been found guilty or confessed to his crime, the mob will torture him to extract another confession. Raymond Gunn had confessed to the County Attorney, and the confession had been published in whole or in part in the Missouri newspapers, where it was read by all literate mob members. Yet, before Gunn was burned, he was compelled to confess his hideous crime at the scene. The average mob, however, does not need a confession, convinced as it usually is that the victim is guilty, that it has the right man.

Torture used to extort a confession and torture practised as punishment to fit the crime differ not at all. Hanging and lowering just before death, a favorite Mississippi practice, is used in both instances. Gouging of eyes, cutting off of ears and nose are choice bits of mob mayhem, which may be protracted by cutting off the fingers and toes joint by joint. While the victim is still in the hands of the lynchers, members of the spectator mob often invade the sacred circle and use their pocket knives to stab and cut. Corkscrews have been used to tear the flesh from the body and, in 1930, at Ocilla, Georgia, a mob tried to make its victim swallow a sharpened pole. Wire-pliers are used to extract teeth, and gasoline blow-torches, in 1937, were introduced to peel the skin from the bodies of the mob's two victims.

Death often mercifully intercedes during the protracted tortures, but even death does not stop the bestiality. In the case of Claude Neal the mob exhausted its collective energies in torturing its victim, and was at last compelled to put him to death. It managed to summon sufficient energy to fasten the dead body to the rear of a car and drag it to the scene of the original crime, where it was turned over to other mobs for further mutilation and indignities.

Burning with torture has long been reserved as an especial death for Negroes. As early as 1708, it was recorded that a Negro named Sam, accused of murdering the family of his white master, was burned at the stake at Jamaica, now a part of New York City, and put to all possible torments as a terror to others. Water was given him from a horn fastened to a pole to allay his thirst and so prolong the suffering.

Lynching by burning is the vengeance of a savage past and survives today only in the United States. Even the savage did not devise any death so horrible, even to the spectator, as slow burning. Fire is started at the victim's feet and he is literally burned to death by inches, sometimes remaining conscious until the lower limbs are already in ashes. In the larger lynchcarnivals, especially when the victim is a Negro charged with rape upon a white woman, burning is used because it is more spectacular and because through the shrieks and writhings of the victim the spectator mob is brought into a closer relation to the criminal lynch mob.

Part of the ritual of a well-conducted lynching is the unsexing of the victim. George Hughes was unsexed after death in the presence of women and children. The symbolism is simple: the mob-desire to destroy the symbol of creation. In cases of burning, the victim is unsexed before lynching, and in shooting and hanging, after death. In the case of Wesley Everest the unsexing was an act of purest sadism. There is a ritual followed in this perversion, and, at a certain moment, one of the mob leaders steps forward and performs the operation. In certain cases he may be the father or husband of the original victim.

White women who have been lynched were not degraded before or after death. Negro women who attract the attention of lynchers are, regardless of age, invariably mob-raped before being executed.

Chapter Five

THE JURISDICTION OF JUDGE LYNCH

LYNCHING today is as American as apple pie. The practice does not prevail in Canada or in Mexico. Lynching, hand in hand with the Constitution, follows the flag, and follows it across the mountains and the seas. Canada could not stand as a bar against its introduction into Alaska, and neither the Atlantic nor the Pacific Oceans were wide enough or deep enough to stop the Hanging Judge. In Cuba, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines Judge Lynch set up his kangaroo court and brought in his single decision almost from the minute of American occupation. Even peaceful Hawaii has known the violence of Judge Lynch.[1]

Though Judge Lynch today finds most of his cases in the southern states and the great majority of his victims are Negroes, the Judge is ready at all times and in all sections to bring in his grisly verdict. From Aroostook County, in northern Maine, along the Canadian border to the Pacific Coast, down to the Rio Grande, no section of the country is without the blood-stained marks of lynch-executions. Only four

The Gem of the South has had, since 1882, thirty double and ten triple lynchings. In her record of multiple lynchings Georgia mobs have twice had four victims, and on four occasions they have had five. In December, 1894, a Brooks County mob lynched seven Negroes; in June, 1905, the citizens of Oconee County achieved what they believed to be an all-time high of eight victims, seven of whom were charged with murder and one with rape. In 1918, Brooks County was again drenched with blood, and Georgia's record for mass-lynchings was established with eleven black victims. With this ignominious total she shares second place with Louisiana; Arkansas still holds the unenviable record of having lynched the greatest number at a single ridotto.

The scenes of Georgia's lynch-executions are well-distributed over the state; no one locality, save the ill-famed county of Lowndes, can lay claim to distinction for any numerical score, nor can the state centers of culture and commerce dodge the accusation that, at some time within the last fifty years, their citizens have on occasion pushed aside the legally constituted judiciary and summoned the rump court of old Judge Lynch.

Only in Mississippi and Arkansas do mobs equal Georgian barbarity and savagery in lynch-executions. In April, 1899, Samuel Hose, a Negro farm worker, had a quarrel with his employer over wages due. The farmer was killed and Sam Hose escaped. The mob that sought him lacked, in the minds of the leaders, the required ginger, and the man-hunt was pepped up with the added charge that Hose had raped his employer's widow. When he was captured, the Negro confessed to the murder but refused, even under torture, to confess to the second crime.

"In the presence of nearly two thousand people, who sent aloft yells of defiance and shouts of joy, Sam Hose (a Negro who had committed two of the basest acts known to crime) was burned at the stake in a public road. . . . Before the torch was applied to the pyre, the Negro was deprived of his ears, fingers and other portions of his body with surprising fortitude. Before the body was cool, it was cut to pieces, the bones were crushed into small bits and even the tree upon which the wretch met his fate was torn up and disposed of as souvenirs.

"The Negro's heart was cut in several pieces as was also his liver. Those unable to obtain the ghastly relics directly, paid more fortunate possessors extravagant sums for them." [8]

Georgian vengeance is long, and it will go to any lengths to achieve its grisly ends. On more than one occasion Judge Lynch has proved his court to be the dominant court of that realm, reversing the highest courts and setting aside decisions and sentences that were not in accord with his own limited views. Judge Lynch's court is unlike the legal courts of appeal in that he does not wait until cases are brought to him for a rehearing; in Georgia he has on occasion gone right into the courts of justice and snatched his victims from under the nose of the presiding judge.

[8] New York Tribune, April 24, 1899.

In 1904, two Negroes, Paul Reed and Will Cato, were on trial in Statesboro, Bulloch County, for the atrocious murder of the Hodges, a white family. They had already been convicted and were before the bench for sentence when the mob broke into the courtroom and carried them off. In spite of the plea of the brother of the murdered man that the law be allowed to take its course, the two Negroes were burned to death in the presence of a large crowd. That was April 16. The day following was given over to rioting in which many citizens were beaten because their skins were black, and Albert Roger and his son were lynched for no other reason. Miles away, in the same Bulloch County but in the town of Portal, Sebastian McBride, a respectable Negro, was beaten, kicked, and shot to death for trying to defend his wife, who was confined with a three days' old baby, from a whipping at the hands of a white mob.

In 1908, Statesboro again gave way to its traditional jitters, and on February 17 lynched an unknown Negro on a charge of rape and, a week later, another Negro, Gilbert Thompson, on the same charge. Later, far too late for the two Negroes, they were proved innocent.

Sidney Johnson was a Negro peon whose fine of thirty dollars had been paid by a white farmer. Smith had the reputation of ill-treating his Negro employees, and Johnson rebelled. After having suffered beatings and abuse, the Negro shot and killed his employer as he sat in his window at home; he also shot and wounded Smith's wife.

For this crime a mob of Georgia whites scoured the surrounding country for more than a week, engaged in a hunt for the guilty man. Failing to find him, they began to kill every Negro who could even remotely be identified with either the victim or his slayer. Will Head, Will Thompson, Chime Riley, Eugene Rice, Simon Shuman, Hayes Turner, and three unidentified Negroes helped expiate Johnson's crime. Mary Turner, who was within a month of confinement, loudly proclaimed the innocence of her husband, crying out maledictions on the mob and threatening to swear out warrants for their arrest. She was herself taken out and lynched: hanged head downward while gasoline and motor oil were thrown on her clothing and set afire. Life still lingered in the dead body, and a member of the mob stepped forward and with his pocket knife opened the abdomen. The prematurely born child fell to the ground, and the cruel surgeon then crushed its head with his heel. Before the mob dispersed, further pleasure was derived from using the mother's body as a target for pistol practice.

The murderer, Sidney Johnson, was at length discovered in a house in Valdosta. The house was surrounded by a posse headed by the chief of police, and Johnson elected to shoot it out. Before his ammunition was exhausted, the fugitive had wounded the chief. When the house was entered, he was found dead. His body was mutilated.

When the courts of Georgia are not dominated by mobs, as in the Leo Frank case, or overruled by mob law as in the Bulloch County case related above, they sometimes co-operate with the mob. In 1911, Thomas Allen, a Negro, was in jail on a charge of attempted rape and Foster Watts was being held on a charge of "loitering in a suspicious manner." The Judge ordered Allen brought to Monroe for trial and, though the Judge knew that citizens had organized a mob to lynch the prisoner, refused to accept the troops offered him by the Governor. Allen was sent to Monroe in the charge of two officers; the train was stopped and the prisoner hanged beside the tracks. The mob then proceeded to Monroe and snatched Watts from the jail and hanged and shot him. Judge Brand on a previous occasion had refused proffered troops with the statement that he "would not imperil the life of one man to save the lives of a hundred Negroes."[4]

It is not necessary to commit a crime nor to be suspected of one to be lynched in Georgia. As recently as 1933, in the town of Newton, the body of T. J. Thomas, a middle-aged Negro, was found hanging to a tree. No reason for the lynching could be given, no clues to the slayers could be found, and no arrests were made. Three days later, at the same place, was found hanging the body of Richard Marshall, a middle-aged Negro. No reasons for the lynching could be given, no clues to the slayers were found, and no arrests were made.

These incidents may explain the resolution adopted on November 29, 1937, by the Georgia House of Representatives and sent at once to the Senate. It charged that the Anti-Lynching bill, then pending in Congress, was "manifestly unjust, unfair and would work an oppressive burden upon the entire South."

No comment.

Texas

Recorded lynchings in the Lone Star State are a little confused. The totals do not resolve themselves a white woman by a Negro, Val Bages. Mitchell Curry, a white farmer, hearing that someone was in his cornfield, took two Negroes with him to drive away the intruder. He proved to be a large Negro, and Curry, becoming convinced that he was Bages, gave chase and finally treed him. The man was ordered to remain in the tree while one of his pursuers went for a rope to hang him, but he slid down and was shot to death. Examination showed that his clothing was that worn at the State Insane Asylum at Jackson, and investigation proved that he was an inmate who had escaped a few days before. Wandering at large, he had suffered death for a crime that he had not committed.

[4] The Crisis, August, 1911.

In 1914, at Sylvester Station, three Negroes were lynched for the murder of the postmaster. One, an old man, bore an excellent reputation in the neighborhood; there was no evidence against him and, under duress, he refused to confess to the crime. He was burned at the stake in the presence of a large crowd.

The Houston (Texas) Post, commenting editorially on the lynching, said:

"The conviction is irresistible that the old man who was burned to death had nothing whatever to do with the crime. If he had been guilty, the torture to which he was subjected would have forced a confession, and the wonder is that he did not confess anyhow, in the agony of his roasting flesh, as many innocent victims have done in the vain hope of escaping torture. In all probability the guilty murderers of the village postmaster are at large, while the blood of innocents rests upon the hands of those who took it upon themselves to discharge the functions of the law." [8]

In 1897, William Gordon, of Jefferson, was lynched for disobeying ferry regulations, and, in 1910, Laura Porter, Negress of Monroe, was lynched for keeping a disreputable house.

Lynching offenses in Louisiana include miscegenation, slapping a child, making threats, insulting a lady, vagrancy, and bringing suit against a white man.

Louisiana can boast one of the few lynchings conducted by Negroes. On August 3, 1934, at Caddo Parish, Grafton Page, a thirty-four-year old Negro, was beaten to death by members of his own race because of an alleged insult by Page to a colored girl who had gone out riding with him.

Alabama

Alabama sits pleasantly in the deep center of the Lynch belt and, through the use of the radio and the automobile, her mob-minded citizens can participate in and have participated in lynchings in Georgia,

[8] Thirty Years of Lynching in the United States.

Mississippi, Tennessee, and Florida. The Cotton State has an unenviable record of her own: 375 victims, of whom fifty-five were whites and eight were colored women. Forty-one were unknown in the communities where their bodies were found, but only four suffered death for offenses unknown, and two through mistaken identity. Alabama mobs have had fourteen double and twelve triple lynchings. Lynch-carnivals have claimed four victims four times and five victims twice. In 1891 the citizens of Choctaw County got together and lynched seven white men for outlawry, and therewith established the state's record.

Since the Armistice was signed there have been forty-two persons lynched, of whom twenty-six were shot, three hanged, three beaten to death, one cut to pieces, and one burned. Eight came to their deaths by means unknown to the investigators. Lynching scenes are evenly distributed throughout the state, and such important centers as Montgomery and Birmingham have had seven and four lynchings respectively. Alabama mobs seldom descend to the bestiality exhibited by her sister states of the Lynch belt, and only once in recent years has one run hog-wild; when the smoke cleared away there were four dead Negroes and two dead white men.

Clarence Boyd, filling station operator at Geiger, seven miles from Emelle, picked a bad time to try to collect three dollars and a half that Esau Robinson, Negro, owed him for a second-hand battery. It was July 4, 1930, and a large number of Negroes had gathered at an Emelle Negro church for a picnic. Clarence Boyd happened to be there, and he demanded payment for the battery; when it was refused, he lifted the battery from the Robinson car and placed it in a store at Emelle, refusing to let Esau have it until he had paid for it. Esau left to get the money.

At four that afternoon Esau returned, accompanied by his father, Tom, two brothers, Ollis and King, and a cousin also named Robinson. The Negroes were armed and were drinking. They searched the stores of Emelle until they found Clarence Boyd. Motioning him outside the store, Esau hit him over the head with a bottle. Boyd called to his uncle Grover for help, and as the latter approached, old Tom hit him with a heavy stick. Grover ran to his car for his pistol and began firing at Tom who, though wounded, made his escape. While Boyd was still firing at Tom, either King or Ollis Robinson came up behind him, took aim, and fired. Grover Boyd fell dying, and another member of the Robinson family fired several shots into him. With the exception of Esau, all the Robinsons made their escape. A white merchant held on to Esau and tied him to a post to await the coming of the sheriff.

When the sheriff arrived, he was told that Esau was not the man who had killed Grover Boyd. Leaving the Negro tied to the post, he went in pursuit of the fleeing Robinsons. Some time before midnight Esau was released from the post and shot to death by a mob of less than fifty persons.

The armed man-hunters converged on the home of farmer-preacher John Newton Robinson, brother of Tom and uncle of Esau. John would not give up his gun nor would he permit his house to be searched. In the resulting quarrel he was shot to death and a white overseer, a member of the posse, was killed, probably unintentionally, by a member of the mob. The sheriff, believing that the fugitive Robinsons were hiding in the house, ordered it fired. There were no Robinsons within, and the mob went on with its hunt. On the night of the fifth, Winston Jones, Negro, received a fatal shot at Narkeeta, Mississippi, just across the state line, for failing to stop when ordered. Later in the night a Negro woman, Viola Dial, who was in a car with her husband and three other men, was shot when the driver refused to stop the car at the order of the man-hunters.

For weeks the search for the fugitives went on, but the mob-minded had deserted and the search was brought to an end by State Enforcement Officers. Tom Robinson and his sons, Ollis and King, were taken to Kilby Prison at Montgomery. Others of the Robinson family, including women and children, were confined in Kilby for safekeeping and as witnesses.

Certain Negroes, familiar with the Emelle community, reported that the altercation over the battery was the immediate but not the real cause of the outbreak. According to them, the trouble grew out of the insistence of certain white men upon "running with" the Robinson and other Negro women.

The persistence of Alabama mobs and their high standing in their communities is best shown by the recent ill-smelling Scottsboro cases. Seven colored boys were sentenced to death on the testimony of two disreputable women, neither of whom knew the meaning of the phrase "sexual intercourse" but only of the usual gutter term. Even when one of the girls recanted her story, only a nationwide clamor could obtain new trials for the defendants.

Arkansas

Although Arkansas has achieved the distinction of having been the scene of the largest lynching carnival in the history of the industry, her lynch-executions never for the killing of two fellow humans in what, in this America of ours, must always be called self-defense. But Lowry's skin was black, and for years to come the shadow will darken the state of Arkansas.

(D) The Law Never Had a Chance—Claude Neal

Marianna is a city in Jackson County, in the northwestern part of Florida, on the Alabama border. It is a shabby, down-at-the-heels sort of place and inhabited by shabby people. It is a tourist stopover, and only travelers in the shabbier cars stop even for a night. It has an imposing hotel and some stores, and a few of the tradesmen have built new homes for their families. Saturday is Marianna's big day, when the rural folk come to trade and do their week's shopping, and for that day there is a degree of activity that has its attractiveness. The balance of the week it is, at best, a very dull town.

Marianna itself has been the scene of several lynchings, and Jackson County has many others, two of them double lynchings, to its credit. All the lynched have been Negroes. Wages are low in Marianna, and morals do not achieve an altogether high in Jackson County. White men openly run with colored women, and white women, not openly at all, are known to have colored lovers. The Negroes of Jackson County know this and deplore the practice, and when it is mentioned shake their heads and shuffle out of earshot. The whites deny it and, should the investigator pursue the matter, he is answered with vituperation and threatened with physical violence. It is a lynch country.

It was that way with Lola Cannidy and Claude Neal. Lola was a white girl and Claude a Negro. "For some months," says the white investigator for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, "and possibly for a period of years, Claude Neal and Lola Cannidy had been having intimate relations with each other. The nature of their relationship was common knowledge in the Negro community."

Neal's friends had advised him of the danger of the relationship and had urged him to discontinue it.

On the afternoon of October 18, 1934, Lola disappeared from her home. It is alleged that she told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cannidy, that she was going to water the pigs and to attend to some other chores that were part of her tasks about the farm. The family took no particular notice of her absence when she failed to return in the late afternoon. Her brother, who had been working in a nearby field, reported that he had seen her talking to someone. When she still failed to return that night, a search was begun for her in the vicinity of her home. Early the next morning her body, fully clothed, was found by an uncle, John King, a short distance from her home, badly mutilated about the head and arms and partially covered with brushwood and pine logs. A watch, a ring, a piece of clothing, and a hammer were among the articles discovered near the place where she came to her death.

Several boys testified that they had seen Claude Neal near the scene of the crime that afternoon, and that he had some wounds on his hands that he said he had received while repairing a fence. The first home visited by the sheriff was that of Annie Smith, mother of Claude, just across the road from the Cannidy home. The officers claimed to have found some bloody garments in the house.

A search for Claude Neal was started and he was arrested on a nearby peanut farm. He confessed and implicated another man, Herbert Smith. Smith was arrested and with Neal was taken, as is the custom in the lynch country, to a nearby woods and questioned. It was understood that Neal had had a fight with Smith and Herbert had beaten him. Neal finally admitted that Smith had nothing to do with the crime and that he alone was involved. Smith was subsequently released by the officers.

What Neal told the officers in the woods was not revealed. Later he told a friend that Miss Cannidy had informed him that she wanted to break off their affair, that she did not want him to speak to her again, that if he did so she would tell the whites in the community on him. Neal is reported to have said:

"When she said she didn't want me to speak to her and then told me that she'd tell the white men on me, I just got mad and killed her."

With Neal were arrested his mother, Annie Smith, and his aunt, Sallie Smith. Sheriff W. F. Chambliss, sensing the awakening lynch-spirit, wisely ordered that the prisoners be taken to the jail at Chipley for safekeeping.

Lola Cannidy was murdered Thursday, Neal was arrested Friday, and the big day in Marianna's week became the second biggest day in the city's history and the beginning of a week of shameless mob ferocity. The county men drove their women to Marianna as usual and the women did their shopping as usual. The men resolved themselves into little groups in which the common topic was how to "get the nigger." From that moment a bloodthirsty mob relentlessly pursued Claude Neal. And it must be credited to the Jackson County sheriff that he made every effort within his power to circumvent the mobs. The angry mob at Chipley caused the sheriff to remove Neal to Panama City and the two women to Fort Barrancas at Pensacola. Later Neal was removed by boat to Pensacola, and when a mob threatened that jail, he was moved across the line into Brewton, Alabama, two hundred and ten miles from Marianna.

On October 23 the Marianna Daily Times Courier said:

"In a determined effort to locate the three Negroes held for the murder of Lola Cannidy near Greenwood last Thursday, a relentless mob continued to search the jails of West Florida."

George Cannidy, father of the slain girl, stated to a representative of the same paper:

"The bunch have promised me that they will give me first chance at him when they bring him back and I'm ready. We'll put those two logs on him and ease him off by degrees. . . . When I get my hands on that nigger, there isn't any telling what I'll do."

On the morning of October 26, a mob of a hundred armed men stormed the Escambia County jail, at Brewton, Alabama, and snatched Claude Neal after jailer Mike Shanholster had unlocked his cell. "We'll tear your jail up and let all the prisoners out, if you don't turn him over to us," the mob leaders had threatened. They also told Shanholster that they were going to turn Neal "over to the girl's father and let him do what he wants with him." The mob came in thirty cars all bearing Florida plates, and the prisoner was placed in the first car for the return trip. No attempt was made by officers to follow the mob.

Within an hour of the snatching, the people of Marianna, more than 200 miles away, knew that Claude Neal was in the hands of the mob, and newspapers all over the country were able to print advance announcements of the forthcoming lynching. Word was passed all over northern Florida and southern Alabama that there was to be a "lynching party to which all the white people are invited." Others got their jubilee invitation through the Dothan, Alabama, radio station, which scored another "first" for the radio. The lynching was to take place in front of the Cannidy home.

How many people responded to the invitation is not known. Marianna has a population of about 3,500 and Jackson County has 30,000 all told. But there were cars from eleven states, and the Chipola Hotel and the rooming houses had a hard time finding room for all the guests. To say that 10,000 attended Marianna's lynch-carnival would be stating it conservatively.

While the mob still held the murderer, it was encouraged by word from the law. Deputy Sheriff S. Paul Greene, of Jackson County, stated, "In my opinion the mob will not be bothered, either before or after the lynching." Editorially the Jackson County Floridian feebly said:

"Although many have strongly favored the court of Judge Lynch for the brutal slaying of a Jackson County girl this week, local officers have spared no effort to uphold their oath of office and to protect their prisoner. In many instances this action has been contrary to the wishes of citizens, but the consensus of opinion is that one crime in a week is enough."

The lynch mob, the original group of a hundred that had snatched Neal from the Brewton jail, felt that the secondary or sight-seeing mob was too large for safety, and that it would be better if they attended to the lynching themselves. From the time they had brought him back to Jackson County they had been submitting their victim to various sadistic indignities and finally took him to the woods about four miles from Greenwood.

From time to time during the torture a rope would be tied around Neal's neck and he was pulled up over a limb and held there until he almost choked to death; then he would be let down and the torture would begin all over again. After several hours of this unspeakable torture, "they decided just to kill him."

After death the body was tied to a rope from the rear of an automobile and dragged over the highway to the Cannidy house. Here the sight-seeing mob, estimated at between 7,000 and 10,000, took over. The rope was cut adrift from the car. A woman came out of the Cannidy house and drove a butcher knife into the dead man's heart. Then the crowd passed in review; some kicked the body and others drove their cars over it. Little children, neighbors of the Cannidys, waited with sharpened sticks for the return of the body and, when it was rolled into the road that night, these children drove their weapons deep into the dead flesh.

The sight-seeing mob felt cheated; it had been promised participation in the actual lynching and all it got was the sight of the already lynched body. The explanation given them by one of the lynchers was that they were fearful that someone would be injured in the melee if they brought the prisoner to the waiting crowd. A Cannidy kinsman stated, "the nigger was too low for anyone to be hurt on his account." The secondary mob, to be appeased, burned the home of Neal's mother, Annie Smith, to the ground.

The horribly mutilated body was next taken to Marianna, a distance of ten or twelve miles, and at three o'clock in the morning it was hanged to a tree in the courthouse square. Scores of citizens viewed the body, which was nude until early morning, when someone had the decency to hang a burlap sack over the middle of the body. It was not cut down until about eight-thirty Saturday morning.

As soon as the body was cut down, the members of the mob quickly dispersed. There were not so many Negroes in Marianna that Saturday. The entire week had been one of terror, and all Negroes who could stayed away from the city. Those who were compelled to remain kept to themselves.

Before noon, a white man and a Negro had a scuffle, and the sight of a Negro resisting a white man threw the crowd of loungers into a fury. The black finally tore himself away and took refuge in the courthouse, where he was given protection by a friendly group of white men. The mob clamored for their victim, but were held at bay by a machine gun. The frustrated mob began a systematic attempt to drive all Negroes from the town. It attacked men, women, and children, and several blind persons were ruthlessly beaten. The Negroes started from the town in droves, some running, some crying, all frightened. After emptying the streets, stores, and places of business of Negroes, the mob started for the residential district to drive out the colored maids. One man, whose wife shielded her maid from the mob, said, "Saturday was a day of terror and madness, never to be forgotten by anyone."

The mob also drove the policemen of Marianna from their posts, and during the rioting the town was without police protection. Members of the mob threatened to beat up any member of the force they found. The Mayor tried to deputize some special officers, but was unable to find anyone who would serve. Then the Mayor called the Governor in Tallahassee. In response to his request, a detachment of guardsmen was ordered from Apalachicola, but a rainstorm saved Marianna. At eleven a downpour so dampened the spirits of the mob that it probably prevented further rioting and terrorism. The guardsmen arrived at four-thirty and quickly dispersed the remnants of the mob.

(E) The Five Thousandth—Raymond Gunn

A Texas mob, incited by a woman in a red dress, burned down a courthouse to lynch its victim, and a Missouri mob, led by a man in a red lumberjacket, used a school to make a funeral pyre for Raymond Gunn, who became Judge Lynch's five thousandth recorded victim. Red is a color that irks bulls; it seems to be an appropriate color for the garb of mob leaders.

Raymond Gunn was guilty and he made no effort to conceal it. His crime, that of murder, was committed in a county that had never before had a lynching, had never been laid open to contempt by a mob

U50

The Changing Character of Lynching

acy. The need to hang together in the present days in order to keep from hanging separately later on will hold in abeyance any widespread outbreak of racial violence, but this need, or at least the recognition of it, will pass with the passing of war.

Decrees and edicts by the President protecting the status of Negroes will be honored in the breach unless the white people of the South come to realize that the future of the South and of the Nation depends upon the extending of certain inalienable rights to the Negro race. If the South is saved from a post-war era of violence, bloodshed, lynching, and torture, it will be because sane white Southerners begin now to work for, as well as talk for, the principles of Democracy. But the task is not alone that of the white South. As there are arrogant and unruly white people, so are there arrogant, unruly, and embittered Negroes. The responsibility of Southern Negroes for the kind of South they will live in is as great as is that of the white people, in the same direction and toward the same end.

JESSIE DANIEL AMES.

July, 1942.

Contents

Page

Dark Justice—Daniel Whitehead Hickey VII

INTRODUCTION IX

PART I

THE MOB CHANGES ITS FEATURES 1
- Lynching Concentrates in the Southeast 2
- Mobs Grow Smaller 5
- Mobs Drop Claims of Chivalry 5
- Lynchings for Minor Offenses Increase 5
- Lynchings Are Not What They Seem 8

THE MOB SPIRIT SUBSIDES 10

FORCES, NEW AND OLD, CHECK MOB VIOLENCE 13
- The Southern Press Takes a Stand 15
- The New Deal Reaches Lynchers 15
- State Patrols Curb Mobs 16
- Tuskegee Institute Sees Results of Its Work 17
- National Association for Advancement of Colored People Claims Credit 18
- Commission on Interracial Cooperation Initiates Programs 18
- Southern White Women Deny Lyncher's Claims 19

PART II

"DEFINITIONS ARE DANGEROUS" 22
- The Congress Defines Lynching 22
- The Mob Kills "With Authority of Law" 26
- Is It Murder or a Lynching? 27
- Federal Definition of Lynching is Broadened 29

APPENDIX

I. LYNCHINGS BY STATES, 1931-1941 34

II. EDITORIAL TREATMENT OF LYNCHINGS 51

III. CAN NEWSPAPERS HARMONIZE THEIR EDITORIAL POLICY ON LYNCHING AND THEIR NEWS STORIES ON LYNCHING? 55

IV. TOWARD LYNCHLESS AMERICA 59

V. LADIES AND LYNCHINGS 63

VI. THE WHITE PRIMARY—AN ANACHRONISM IN 1942 69

THE CHANGING CHARACTER OF LYNCHING

PART I

THE MOB CHANGES ITS FEATURES

For four years lynchings had been decreasing in number —from the thirty recorded in 1926 to sixteen in 1927; still lower to eleven in 1928; down to ten in 1929. Prosperity had come and lynchings were going. When the first lynching of 1930 at Ocilla, Georgia, was reported on the first day of February, it did not disturb the public's complacency, though the mob was said to have indulged in acts of excessive brutality. By April, few people even remembered the lynching on February 1. That month of April started well, but ended with three more lynchings, all within less than a week. From spring to October, each month the lynching madness raged. So often the mob struck and so barbarous were the tortures inflicted on the victims that men and women were not able to forget them, even in the tragedies of the first year of the great depression. Prosperity had gone, lynchings were back.

Stirred by the unexpected resurgence of this crime, the Board of Directors of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation planned for the investigation of every lynching occurring that year. To direct this investigation it created a special committee, the Southern Commission on the Study of Lynching—the purpose of which was outlined by the chairman George Fort Milton in the introduction to the "Tragedy of Lynching." "The quest for a preventive can be undertaken only after we have an understanding of what it is that is to be prevented. This necessary analysis of the lynching, its background, circumstances, and meaning, introduces many baffling elements. Is lynching a group response to general factors? Is there a sufficient common pattern to crimes committed a thousand miles apart to enable us to isolate definite contributory causes? What parts do poverty, ignorance, racial emotions play in these mob deaths? What is the social pathology, the emotional history of a lynching mob? Could these things be learned, or any moiety of them, a real beginning toward diagnosis would be made and prescription would swiftly follow."[1]

[1]This was the first scientific study ever made of lynchings, case by case, in the effort to discover the underlying causes and, if possible, to formulate an effective preventive program. It was directed by a group of Southern men composed of George Fort Milton, Editor, Chattanooga News, Chairman; Dr. Howard W. Odum, University of North Carolina; Julian Harris, News Editor, Atlanta Constitution; Alex W. Spence, attorney-at-law, Dallas, Texas; Dr. W. P. King, Book Editor, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Nashville; Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, President of Furman University, Greenvile, S. C.; Dr. R. R. Moton, President of Tuskegee Institute; Dr. John Hope, President of Atlanta University; Dr. Charles S. Johnson, Fisk University, Nashville, and Dr. B. F. Hubert, President, Georgia State College, Savannah.

However, it was not only the number of lynchings in 1930 that marked that year as one of the worst in the last couple of decades. It was the bestial excesses which characterized the mobs. Long and exciting man hunts with frequent use of bloodhounds preceded the capture of the victims; barbarous tortures of living men were inflicted; mutilation of the bodies was indulged in. Women and children were frequently present, not as onlookers but as active participants. So alike was the pattern throughout 1930 that many thought that lynching could be described as a contagious malady, with newspapers acting as carriers of the germ. Then, as though satiated by its very excesses, the mob spirit subsided.

For two years something of a rest period ensued, in which the combined number of lynchings just equalled that of 1930. But in 1933 the number rose sharply to the highest point since 1926. The hopeful note sounded in the introduction to "The Tragedy of Lynching," which declared that once the causes were known "prescription would quickly follow," was lost in the thunder of facts. Lynchings still continued. When in 1936 lynchings again dropped sharply, it was considered merely an accident to which no importance could be attached. But, as each succeeding year brought fewer and fewer lynchings, hope that lynchings were disappearing was renewed.

Lynching Concentrates In the Southeast

With the passage of five years in which this progression downward continued (Graph I) other changes than the decrease in numbers of lynchings were noticed. The first change was the gradual reduction in the number of states involved. Between 1930 and 1935, twenty-one had had one or more lynchings, but between 1936 and 1941 this was lowered to nine,[1] while in the last part of the decade only six states had lynched. In 1940 Mississippi dropped out of the regular lynching states, leaving only Georgia and Florida as "regulars."[1]

Then those whose minds were continuously concerned about lynchings noticed that there was a change in mobs and in their methods. A review of the record shows that this change became marked in 1936, when mobs began generally to be more orderly and to commit fewer lynchings within the definition set out in Federal antilynching bills. Fewer prisoners were taken from officers or jails; fewer victims of mobs were accused of criminal offenses. In 1938, the last man hunt[2] was reported, as were also the last lynchings in which mobs resorted to torture and the burning of the bodies of their victims.[3]

---

[1]See maps, page 3.
[2]Ruston, Louisiana.
[3]Sikeston, Missouri, 1942, shows that this sadism is not gone.

Lynchings were not confined to the South in 1930-1935.

Only the Deep South Lynched in 1936-1941.

Graph I
The Lynch Line Drops

Mobs Grow Smaller

With the decline of the man hunt and of sadism went the decline in the size of the mob. Increasingly, reports indicated that a mob of three, four, fewer than fifteen, "several cars," or "of unknown size" had committed a lynching. With the elimination of spectacular acts, lynchings gradually began to lose their news value, certainly their value to the Associated Press, until by 1939 the charge was made that lynchings had "gone underground" and that the white press was deliberately suppressing stories of lynchings. It is more reasonable to conclude that the change in the type of mob violence and in the character and size of mobs had reduced the news value of most lynchings to that of local murders with only local interest.

Mobs Drop Claims of Chivalry

As mobs changed in their methods, they also changed the claims for their motivation. Less frequently were lynchers saying that protection of white women was involved. So frequently had it been asserted in the past that chivalry inspired lynchings that the nation had come to accept this as the real cause of the majority of lynchings. Newspapers editorially supported this belief; yet, though the percentage of lynchings committed allegedly for the protection of Southern white women has changed little in the past decade, as early as 1936 practically all Southern daily papers had stopped editorially covering lynchers with this cloak of high purpose. Lynchers, themselves, less frequently resorted to this claim.

However, the apologists for lynchers substituted another claim equally as effective. They charged that failure of the courts to convict and punish Negroes who committed capital offenses, especially that of rape, necessitated citizens' taking the law into their own hands. Striking evidence that the public never wholly accepted this as a genuine reason is the long list of lynchings which have been prevented when the accusations were homicide or rape. But after 1936 this excuse also disappeared. Whatever it may signify, the fact is that in 1939, 1940, and 1941 there was not one victim of a lynching who was accused of a capital crime.

Lynchings for Minor Offenses Increase

By 1936 public opinion toward lynching had changed. Neither the protection of Southern women nor leniency of Southern courts was accepted as justification for the acts of lynchers. With this change it became increasingly apparent that minor infractions of the law or of the white man's social code accounted for the majority of lynchings. (Graph II).

With the claim of chivalry and the indictment of the

ACCUSATIONS	1889-1930 NUMBER	1889-1930 PER CENT	1931-1941 NUMBER	1931-1941 PER CENT
RAPE	622	16.7	19	16.1
HOMICIDE	1,399	37.7	27	22.9
ALL OTHER CAUSES	1,672	45.6	72	61.0
TOTAL	3,693	100.0	118	100.0

Graph II
Accusations Against Persons Lynched

courts for negligence dropped as excuses for lynching for capital crimes, the logical result was an increase in the number of lynchings for minor reasons. However, it is worthy of special note that in the last three years, 1939-1941, there have been no lynchings except for minor causes. If this situation remains relatively the same in the future, these three years may mark the beginning of an undirected, unorganized but effective program of systematic suppression of all minority groups. To be prepared for such a development, the South must give more study than in the past to all minor offenses for which Negroes are lynched and to the sections of the South in which they are committed. Already it is known that almost all of them occur in small towns, rural communities, and the open country—areas in which legal control is most difficult to exercise; the power of outside public opinion is weakest; minds and emotions are more generally abnormal. It is here that the most destructive and barbarous interracial conflicts will develop when peace comes.

Adverse public opinion against lynching for any cause must become so widespread as to reach into all Southern communities. That it has penetrated slightly into these isolated and thinly populated districts is evidenced by the changed attitude of local citizens toward giving publicity to a lynching. Formerly, a community not only made no effort to hide the criminal conduct of either the respectable or the hoodlum element of its population, but actually boasted of it if the conduct was held to be necessary to the preservation of the white race or to the maintenance of racial superiority. But communities nowadays that permit a lynching for no reason other than a "service to tradition and race" sees to it that no local correspondent of the nearby metropolitan daily rushes the story out. This small gain, if it be one, may be maintained and increased by continuing to investigate every lynching and every ruthless murder of a Negro by citizens, officers, or posses, and to give the facts to the people of the state and county where the act is committed. For however valid it may be to assume that public opinion elsewhere has effected this change in local attitudes, investigation of some of the lynchings for minor offenses offers no tenable conclusion that it has affected the rigid determination of white citizens to maintain and protect at any cost their absolute social control over the Negro.

* * *

Minor offenses for which the largest number of lynchings was committed in this decade, according to the claims of the lynchers,[1] involved conduct toward Southern white women. As the Association of Southern Women for the [1]Investigations were made in forty-six lynchings in which the news stories gave indications of suppressed facts. In compiling statistics, however, the accusation made by the lynchers is used, even when investigation has revealed other causes or circumstances that indicated justifiable homicide rather than murder.

Prevention of Lynching had at its initial meeting repudiated lynching as necessary to the protection of white women, it seemed well to investigate these claims, to find out to what extent the stories fitted the facts. These investigations showed that white men, determined to get rid of a certain Negro, would accuse him of an attempted sex crime. They knew that officers would approve without question their action for this offense. Local public opinion, controlled by the state of mind of both white men and women excited by an accusation involving implications of sex, would brook no interference from peace officers or state officials. One such case was that of a Negro lynched because he had "winked" at a white woman. In fact, the Negro was afflicted with a tic on one side of his face. In three cases of lynching for alleged attempted rape, the lynched Negroes were guilty of house breaking. One victim was lynched for alleged rape after a Grand Jury failed to indict him for lack of evidence. In another case, the landlord wanted his Negro tenant's Government checks and cotton crop. While in some instances the weight of evidence supported the charge of attempted rape, investigations of many lynchings indicated so strongly that white women, frequently members of lynchers' families, were merely a front for lynchers that no report of a lynching for the protection of a white woman could be accepted as true until it was verified.

The next commonest cause for lynching grew out of difficulties arising between Negro and white men. Ten Negroes were lynched for fighting; ten others, for "being disrespectful to" or "disputing with" white men; six, against whom the lynchers entered no charges; one, for alleged activities in labor organizations; one, by two white men, for a fatal traffic accident; one, in jail for murder pending a new trial ordered by the United States Supreme Court, was lynched in his cell; one, for attempting to qualify to vote; one, tried for murder, was lynched while the jury was deliberating its verdict.

* * *

Of the eleven white persons lynched, five were accused of murder and one of rape; two were active in labor organizations; one was charged with robbery; one, with dynamiting a store; one, with cruelty to his wife. In this last instance, the lynched victim was flogged and left to die of exposure. Though it is generally believed he was the victim of the Ku Klux Klan, this has not been proved.

Lynchings Are Not What They Seem

With the change in the size of the mob, the disappearance of the man hunt, the absence of sadistic torture, and elimination of major crimes as an excuse for lynching, the pattern of lynching had undergone so marked a change by

1936 as to raise doubts of the validity of designating as lynchings certain types of murder. Governor Frank M. Dixon, of Alabama, insisted that the two lynchings in his State in 1940 were not lynchings. State officials of North Carolina and prominent citizens, including Jonathan Daniels, Editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, took the same position on the alleged lynching in 1941 in Gaston County.[1]

Some murders are so shrouded in mystery that their classification as lynching is purely arbitrary, apparently depending upon the personal attitude of the classifier. If the murdered man is a Negro, it is taken as prima facie evidence that his murderers were white men.

A man is out fishing. He discovers a body on the banks of a creek. It is clearly evident that the man was murdered. Maybe his body is riddled with bullets—his feet wired together, his hands tied behind him, his head bashed in. There have been no reports of any trouble in the county. Was he lynched or was he murdered?

A man has given offense to his neighbor. Maybe his cow or his hog has repeatedly broken through the division fence and destroyed the crop. One morning the offending person is reported missing. Weeks pass and still he is missing. No one has seen him for several months. No body is found. Has he been lynched, murdered, or did he leave town?

Another man has an altercation with his employer over a lost tool, or the amount of wages due him, or failure to carry out orders. His body is found one day. It is evident from its condition that the man was put to death. Did he meet his death at the hands of three or more persons? Was he suspected or accused of a crime? Were the officers of the law forewarned of his danger and did they act in collusion with the killers?

The charge, increasingly made against the South, that countless lynchings about which the public knows nothing are committed each year is based upon the known deaths of Negroes in one or more of the briefly outlined instances. They argue that, in the light of the history of the South's treatment of Negroes and in view of the fact that only by accident were the deaths of these Negroes discovered, there are others which never have come to light. However, there is no evidence that countless unknown lynchings take place each year; there is no evidence that they do not take place.

---

[1]The Gaston County lynching was contested by the North Carolina press on the ground that it was the act of "four hoodlums" who went "on a rampage in which they killed a Negro. He was merely the victim of a bunch of drunks." The North Carolina courts acted with speed. Within ten days four men were tried and sentenced to terms from fourteen to twenty-five years. In this respect North Carolina set another record for other Southern states to equal.

THE MOB SPIRIT SUBSIDES

No discussion of lynching is complete without a word or two on prevented lynchings. Officers are freely condemned, and rightly so, when they are suspected of being less than diligent in preventing a lynching, yet the long roll of those who have outthought and outmaneuvered mobs is too frequently ignored. For years the number of lynchings have grown fewer, as have also the number unsuccessfully attempted. (Graphs II, III.)

LYNCHINGS	67	300	189	88	84	30	4
PREVENTED LYNCHINGS	25	194	392	242	340	262	21

Graph III
Mob Spirit Subsides

This phenomenon may indicate that there is a real subsidence in the mob spirit. Busy people have less opportunity to congregate and discuss their grievances and to look for an outlet for their frustrated emotions. They work off their energies in gainful employment and their leisure time is spent in satisfying activities. Back of all mob outbursts are psychological factors which are not responsive to reason.

In 1914 the Department of Records and Research of Tuskegee Institute enlarged its program on lynching statistics to include the number of lynchings prevented. From 1914 through 1919 lynchings committed exceeded the number of lynchings prevented two to one, with the peak of the difference reached in 1918 when for every lynching prevented 3.37 lynchings were committed. Not until 1920 were more lynchings prevented than were committed.[1]

Not enough emphasis has been placed on this phase of mob violence. Counties do not punish leaders of attempted lynchings; officers are grateful if they can circumvent the mob without offending the individuals in the mob. Usually if this can be done by "spiriting the prisoner to an unknown jail" for safekeeping, mobs disperse of their own accord. However, if the leaders refuse to believe the officers, they are permitted to go through the jail and look for the prisoner. Later, when the mob spirit has died out and it is safe to do so, the prisoner is brought back for trial. This is not the only form of appeasement the officers extend to mob-minded citizens. Investigations have disclosed that in more than one prevented lynching a bargain was entered into between officers and would-be lynchers before the trial began in which the death penalty was promised as the price of the mob's dispersal. With the decreasing number of

---

[1]Tuskegee Year Book, Ninth Edition.

[2]Lynchings and prevented lynchings have almost no unexpected or inexplicable variation from the pattern developed in the past fifty years. Yet such a variation appeared in June, 1941, in a "planned" lynching in Georgia. The lynchers, themselves, changed their minds and returned their victim to the Dodge County Jail from which they had abducted him. The mob, seven hundred strong, drove their victim out of town at the head of a procession of 100 cars, then beat him up in an effort to make him confess to an attempted assault on a sixty-five-year-old white woman. After failing to get a confession, they returned him to jail "for want of evidence." Later a jury at Macon acquitted the Negro. Still later, in January, 1942, "Eddie Lee Spivey, only man ever returned alive by a lynch mob," sued the Dodge County sheriff for $5,000 for failure to perform his duties. . . . "Spivey claims the sheriff voluntarily turned jail keys over to the mob . . . so they could come and get him." The suit was settled out of court.

Another variant of the usual in prevented lynchings appears in that at Roxboro, North Carolina. On August 15, 1941, a mob of two hundred stormed the county jail bent on lynching a Negro charged with rape of a white woman. The mob was dispersed. But ten of the leaders were arrested and later indicted for "unlawful assembly and inciting a riot." At the April, 1942, term of court, five were convicted of unlawful assembly and sentenced to the chaingang—two for eighteen months; three for twelve months.

One prevented lynching of no outstanding features has an unusual end. In 1935 in Leake County, Mississippi, a prevented lynching was reported. A Negro, Willie Lewis, was accused of assault with intent to rape. He was removed to the jail for safekeeping. He was convicted and given "life." In May, 1942, Lewis was paroled after serving seven years of a life sentence for a crime of which he was "not guilty." The Governor is expected to give Lewis a full pardon in the near future.

attempted lynchings and with the change in mobs and mob violence itself, no suspicious prevented lynchings have been reported in the last three years.[2]

FORCES, NEW AND OLD, CHECK MOB VIOLENCE

It is easier to discuss the decrease in lynchings as a statistical fact than it is to account for this decrease. The immediate causes of lynchings may be the commission of a grand or petty crime; or some offense to an individual for which revenge is taken; or some defiance of local custom controlling the proper attitude of Negroes toward white people. The remote and hidden causes are more difficult to determine. The Southern Commission on the Study of

Graph IV
Lynching By Months

Lynching supported the belief that the weather was one probable factor (Graph IV), as the majority of lynchings were committed during the three midsummer months, but that "midsummer unemployment, landlord-tenant relations in summer, and other factors greatly modify any all-weather explanation."[1] Other conditions, which the study revealed as characteristic of summer months, modifying the weather factor were idleness following cultivation of crops, two-thirds of the farm workers being wage hands or tenants. "During the slack work summer months, there is a great deal of visiting, loafing, gambling, and general 'carousing about' and inevitably an unusually large amount of crime."[1]

The report pointed out, in developing the landlord-tenant relation as a conditioning factor to the rise of lynchings in summer, that in winter the tenant tends to behave himself in order to get or keep his place, but by summer he has gotten about all he can out of the landlord; his equity in the crop is used up; his industry is lessened as a result. On the other hand, the landlord has still to get his cash returns, for which he is compelled to exercise the closest supervision over the tenant. "Thus in summer, tenants are likely to be more hopeless and antagonistic and the landlords and their overseers more domineering than at other periods of the year."[1]

Other conditions which have contributed to the causes of lynching are crime, for which the rates are highest for Negroes and white people at the lowest economic level, and inadequate police protection for Negro communities which "virtually breeds crime."[2]

On the factor of racial attitudes as one to be reckoned with in listing the remote and hidden causes of lynching, the Southern Commission says: "The public's low estimate of his (the Negro's) worth and consequent indifference to his fate, the ready assumption of his guilt, his ignorance of court procedure, his lack of money and friends and political influence, all make his arrest and conviction easier than that of the white man. In a large measure these are the same factors that produce lynchings."[2]

This is the picture as of 1930. In the next five years, 1931-1935, fall 71 per cent of all lynchings committed in the eleven years from 1931 through 1941. In 1936, the number dropped to eight, above which it has not risen. Had anything happened that could account for this sudden drop —anything that could have changed all other factors in lynching except the weather?

---

[1]"Lynchings and What They Mean," page 12. This pamphlet is an abridged edition of "The Tragedy of Lynching," the 500-page volume giving a detailed report of the findings of the Southern Commission on the Study of Lynching.

[2]Idem. 18.

The Southern Press Takes a Stand

Editorially a few of the largest daily papers[1] of the South had for years waged a vigorous battle against lynching, but with certain reservations. So long as a certain crime was committed by Negroes, lynchings would continue. This reservation was part of the mechanism which helped to fix in the public mind that lynchings for some causes were justified. Smaller daily papers and weekly papers supported this point of view.[2] During the first five years of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching, warnings were issued to Southern women that for their own protection they should abandon their movement against lynching for any cause. Ridicule and sarcasm were used to dissuade them. This was not, however, an unanimous procedure, for certain daily papers supported the women with praise and encouragement. After 1936 there were few daily newspapers which did not condemn any lynching regardless of the alleged crime of the victim.

With the best editorial intentions to blot out lynchings, the press still supported the mob in its news columns.[3] This contradiction in policy in the news columns equalized, if it did not actually nullify, the effect of the editorial column. In these later years, few lynchings make the front pages; even fewer are given banner headlines. Probably no other public-opinion-forming agency has done more to change the public's attitude toward lynching than has the Southern press.

The New Deal Reaches Lynchers

In 1934-1935, when the New Deal created its numerous alphabet agencies to raise the depressed areas above substandard existence, it could have thought of lynching as an evil which would be affected, but such farsightedness is not claimed for it. Nevertheless without regard to intention, a by-product of the program of several of its agencies has been effective in helping to remove some of the causes that the Southern Commission on the Study of Lynching had asserted were factors in lynching. One of these, the Civilian Conservation Corps Camps, took the idle, unemployed, and illiterate or near illiterate youth of both races out of their communities and gave them work under supervision; paid them and their families cash money for this work; taught them reading, writing and a vocation; built up healthy minds in well bodies. The Civilian Conservation Corps removed these actual and potential lynchers[4] from the environment which favored mob violence.

---

[1]See "The Tragedy of Lynching" for the names of some of these papers.

[2]See Appendix II.

[3]See Appendix III.

[4]"Tragedy of Lynching," pages 266-324, points out that in mobs of 1930 'teen age boys were conspicuously present.

The Works Progress Administration did for adults much the same service that the Civilian Conservation Corps did for the boys. Men and women of both races, farm workers thrown into complete idleness and destitution by the Government's crop reduction program, were given jobs—possibly nonessential jobs, such as raking leaves, for which they were paid cash money—more cash money than they had ever had as wage hands on farms. They were thus removed from complete dependency on landlords. The Works Progress Administration was effective in breaking down the landlord-tenant relation to the benefit of Southern society and the tenant, and in a degree to the landlord.

In 1935, another agency, the Resettlement Administration, which later became the Farm Security Administration, was created. Through its service to farmers without regard to race, reputable farm tenants who had been small landowners and wage hands who were once tenants were restored to status; debt-ridden, bankrupt, and poverty-depressed families of both races were given a new lease on life. In 1935, Tuskegee Institute reported the number of lynchings as twenty. In 1936, lynchings had dropped 40 per cent, a drop which continued downward until in 1941 the record of lynchings had fallen 60 per cent.

State Patrols Curb Mobs

Since once before in 1932 the number of lynchings had been as low as eight, only to rise to a new high of twenty-eight the next year, no great importance was attached to this reduction as an evidence of a lasting change in lynching figures. But when 1937 ended and the record was still eight, the Association of Southern Women for the prevention of Lynching, not an organization of too great optimism, began to look for some new situation in the South which might be influencing the lynching spirit. This was found in the spread into Southern states of the national movement to establish state radio police patrols. A survey of state patrol systems early in 1938 disclosed some interesting and encouraging information. In six of the states which had perfected their systems, the state patrol had been called out to protect citizens, disperse mobs, prevent mob violence, and maintain order in tense situations. With increasing efficiency and additional equipment in these states, and with the extension of their duties to law enforcement in the other Southern states, state patrols were enabled to provide police protection, the inadequacy of which the Southern Commission on the Study of Lynching had defined as a factor contributing to the incidence of mobs and lynchings. The organization of state patrols undoubtedly influenced not only the reduction in the number of lynchings, but also the decrease in the number of attempted lynchings.

Tuskegee Institute Sees Results of Its Work

The effect of the New Deal and state patrols on lynchings can be considered only incidental to the purposes for which they were established—something in the nature of an unexpected by-product which possibly would not have been precipitated in full strength had it not been for other movements, long at work, directed specifically to the elimination of lynchings. One of these, and the oldest, is Tuskegee Institute. An educational institution, in the limited meaning of education, it has followed a policy and a strategy throughout its sixty years which have been useful in awakening the South's consciousness to the prevalence of lynching within its borders. It makes no investigations of reported lynchings, nor does it question the truth or falsity of accusations against the victims. Subscribing to several clipping bureaus, the Department of Records and Research accepts the stories the newspapers print. Only when the story of an "underground" lynching is rumored does the Institute put forth efforts to secure confirmation. The Department of Records and Research keeps a permanent statistical record of all lynchings committed in the Nation dating from 1882—the names of the victims, their race and sex; the crimes with which they were charged; the localities, state and county, in which they were lynched; the size of the mob and the manner in which the victims met their death. Twice a year since 1913 the Department has issued to the press a report of bold, terse statistics, giving the number of lynchings for the current year.

How much attention the Southern white press gave to Tuskegee Institute's press service in the early years is not known, but during the last twenty years white newspapers of the South have come to accept its statistics as official; to carry the news releases and to use them editorially either to express relief if no lynching had occurred in their state, or regret that their state had been blackened by mob violence. Southern newspapers have used these reports as the occasion for some of the most scathing editorials against lynchers and lynching which have ever appeared in print.

Not until recent years have the reports been attacked by the South's white press. The basis of the attacks lies in the interpretation of what constitutes a lynching. The public mind throughout fifty years has been shaped to accept certain conditions as characteristic of lynchings—a huge mob of maddened citizens; a Negro criminal guilty of a capital offense; execution with rope and faggot. In these last years, especially the past three, few lynchings have had any of these characteristics. A quiet mob of three white men who flog a Negro to death for having failed to have proper respect for one of the three in the opinion of many white people ought not be classified as a lynching. But, in spite of differences of opinion, the Southern white press will accept the reports from Tuskegee Institute as being as nearly official as a private agency can make them.

National Association For Advancement of Colored People Claims Credit

Next in point of age is the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, a biracial organization which, as its name implies, carries on a program of racial improvement on many fronts. Its membership is composed of white persons, almost all of whom live outside the South, and of Negroes within and without the South. The National Association relies upon the force of the law to advance the cause of the Negro race. Since 1921 it has sponsored Federal antilynching legislation as one point in its program of racial advancement. Sometimes it has concentrated its more spectacular activities on this and at other times seemingly has abandoned it.

From 1933 to 1939, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People directed the major part of its energies to the passage of a Federal antilynching bill. The times appeared to warrant the belief that at last, after more than a decade of intermittent effort, it would be victorious. The bill did not pass, but the N.A.A.C.P. believes that the reduction in the number of lynchings is directly due to the fear that its nearly successful legislative activities put in the hearts of Southern sheriffs and the South generally.

Commission on Interracial Cooperation Initiates Programs

The Commission on Interracial Cooperation, chronologically the next to deal specifically with lynching, has supplemented the activities of Tuskegee Institute with research, investigations of lynchings, and publication of material dealing with lynchings. The membership of the Commission, composed of Southern white people and Southern Negroes, has followed throughout the policy of education and persuasion. Its methods have included conferences with leading religious, civic, and educational organizations and the preparation of literature for these organizations especially adapted to their machinery and program. Convinced that there was a need for more facts on lynching, the Commission authorized the creation and financing of a special committee of Southern men to make a study of each lynching of the year 1930.[1] In 1933, the results of the study were published by the University of North Carolina Press under the title "The Tragedy of Lynching" compiled and written by Dr. Arthur Raper, at that time Research Secretary of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation.[1]

[1]See page 1—footnote.

Before the field work of the Southern Commission on the Study of Lynching was begun, the Commission on Interracial Cooperation invited a group of leading church women to meet in Atlanta to discuss the causes of lynching. This was done in the belief that the excuse that lynchings were necessary for the protection of womanhood offered Southern white women an unusual opportunity to perform a genuine service to the South. Out of this meeting grew the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching,[2] sponsored and financed but not controlled by the Commission on Interracial Cooperation.

Southern White Women Deny Lyncher's Claims[3]

In general, the program of the Southern women has been directed to exposing the falsity of the claim that lynching is necessary to their protection and to emphasizing the real danger of lynching to all the values of the home and religion. Its methods have been in part those followed by the Commission on Interracial Cooperation and in part those devised to meet the situations as women saw them. State Associations have been set up; methods to prevent lynchings developed and followed; investigations made of lynchings allegedly involving crimes against white women; public forums held in small towns and county seats; flyers, pamphlets, posters, one-act plays written, published, and distributed.

By 1940, having tried out and established its most effective methods of education, the Association, through its Central Council extended its program of education of public opinion against lynching to include a presentation of the effect of the white primary on white people.[4] This decision was reached as the result of a growing realization that Negroes as a voteless people in a Democracy were a helpless people, and that this condition of helplessness contributed to a belief in inherent racial superiority on the part of white people and encouraged disregard for the rights of minorities.

One danger that the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching foresaw, as lynching decreased, was that some lynchings, with little reader interest outside the localities where they were committed, would not come

---

[1] Dr. Raper, chief of research and investigation, was ably assisted in the general field of investigation by Professor Walter R. Chivers, of the Sociology Department of Morehouse College, Atlanta. Others who assisted were R. B. Eleazer, N. C. Young, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rhyne, and Orland K. Armstrong.

[2] It is the only one of the four organizations which has had the eradication of lynching as its only purpose.

[3] "Laws and Lynchings." See Appendix V.

[4] "The White Primary—An Anachronism in the Year 1942," a flyer published by the ASWPL. See Appendix VI.

ORGANIZATIONS COMMITTED to a PROGRAM of EDUCATION to PREVENT LYNCHING

January 1942

to the attention of the general public. To meet this situation, the Association has organized its machinery to check on rumored lynchings and to give adequate publicity to the facts obtained.

The thoroughness with which the Association pursues this phase of its work is shown in the investigation of a reported lynching near Savannah, Georgia, in 1939. A local Negro paper had broadcast that a Negro, Charlie Williams, had been lynched. The minutest details of the lynching, even to the number of bullets fired, were given. In spite of this seemingly eye-witness account, the story did not ring true. The Savannah Morning News, August 4, 1939, tells the story of the investigation:

"Georgia's undeserved black mark for a 1939 lynching was erased yesterday afternoon when a city detective sergeant and a Methodist preacher located Charlie E. Williams, husky 33-year-old Negro, alive and hard at work at a fertilizer plant here.

" 'I heard I was lynched but didn't pay any attention to it 'cause I knew I was living.' That was the sage observation of the Negro who was listed as having been lynched by a group of white men at Woodcliffe, Georgia, in Screven County on Saturday night, March 11.

"Detective Sergeant E. A. Fitzgerald located Williams working with a gang of other Negroes on a salvage job at the plant of the Reliance Fertilizer Company on the Louisville Road about four o'clock. Along with Rev. J. O. J. Taylor, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, and several others, Sergeant Fitzgerald had been doggedly on the trail of the Negro for some weeks.

"Williams said when he first heard the report he knew his mother would be worried and wrote her a letter stating he was alive and working in Savannah.

"The Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching was responsible for the investigation."

Though the Commission on Interracial Cooperation in 1935 endorsed the principles of a Federal law, at no time has the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching endorsed or otherwise supported Federal anti-lynching legislation."

PART II

"DEFINITIONS ARE DANGEROUS"

The Congress Defines Lynching

The numerous anti-lynching bills introduced in the Congress over a period of two decades define lynching as the act of a mob of "three or more persons" committed against a person or persons which results in death. There have been wide differences in other details but, after years of seeming experimentation in working out these details so as to bring as many instances of mob action as possible under Federal control, the authors of anti-lynching legislation have accepted one definition more or less unanimously.

> Any assemblage of three or more persons which shall exercise or attempt to exercise by physical violence and without authority of law any power of correction or punishment over any citizen or citizens or other person or persons in the custody of any peace officer, or suspected of, charged with, or convicted of the commission of any offense, with the purpose or consequence of preventing the apprehension or trial or punishment by law of such citizen or citizens, person or persons, shall constitute a "mob" within the meaning of this Act. Any such violence by a mob which results in the death or maiming of the victim or victims thereof shall constitute "lynching" within the meaning of this Act: Provided, however, That "lynching" shall not be deemed to include violence occurring between members of groups of lawbreakers such as are commonly designated as gangsters or racketeers, nor violence occurring during the course of picketing or boycotting or any incident in connection with any "labor dispute" as that term is defined and used in the Act of March 23, 1932 (Sec. 2, 47 Stat. 70, H. R. 1507—Van Nuys).

This definition fits eighty of the one hundred and eighteen lynchings committed during the period 1931-1941, inclusive. In sixty-seven cases, all the conditions set forth in the definition were present: the mob consisted of "three or more persons;" it put to death "without the authority of law;" it seized "persons in the custody of peace officers," who were suspected of, charged with, or convicted of the commission of some offense;" it put to death the persons so seized and thus committed "lynchings." In the remaining thirteen of the eighty lynchings, the persons were not in the hands of the law, but all other conditions were present: the size of the mob, the accusation of a crime against the persons, the death of the victim.

The eighty lynchings are as follows:

State and Town	Race	Accusation	Number in Mob
		1931
Alabama
Haynesville	Negro	Rape	Not stated	Taken from jail
Louisiana
Pointe a La Hache	Negro	Attempted rape	Not stated	Taken from jail
Maryland
Salisbury	Negro	Murder	Community	Taken from officers
Mississippi
Columbus	Negro	Wounding white farmer	Not stated	Taken from convict cage
Inverness	Negro	Attempted rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Vicksburg	Negro	Attempted rape	Not stated	Not in hands of law
Missouri
Maryville	Negro	Rape and murder	Several thousand	Taken from officers
North Dakota
Schafer	White	Murder of six	Eighty	Taken from jail
Tennessee
Union City	Negro	Attempted rape	Several hundred	Taken from jail
West Virginia
Lewisburg	Two Negroes	Murder	Not stated	Taken from jail
		1932
Arkansas
Crossett	Negro	Murder	Not stated	Taken from jail
Kansas
Atwood	White	Rape and murder	Two hundred	Taken from jail
Kentucky
Princeton	White	Dynamited store	Six cars	Taken from jail
Louisiana
Wisner	Negro	Insulting white woman	Fifteen	Taken from officers
Texas
Crockett	Negro	Entering white woman's room	Four men	Not in hands of law 1933
Alabama
Tuscaloosa	Two Negroes	Suspected murder	Fifteen	Taken from officers
Tuscaloosa	Negro	Rape	Six	Out on bond
California
San Jose	Two whites	Kidnapping and murder	Community	Taken from jail
Georgia
Lumpkin	Negro	Assaulted an officer	Not stated	Taken from jail
Warrenton	Negro	Murder	Fifty	Taken from doctor's office

State and Town	Race	Accusation	Number in Mob
Louisiana
Labadieville	Negro	Murder	Not stated	Taken from jail
Opelousas	Negro	Rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Ringgold	Negro	Rape and murder	Not stated	Taken from officers
Maryland
Princess Anne	Negro	Rape	Community	Taken from jail
Missouri
St. Joseph	Negro	Rape	Community	Taken from jail
South Carolina
Clinton	Negro	Altercation with white man	Four	Taken from jail
Ninety-six	Negro	Drawing gun on white man	Four	Taken from jail
Tennessee
Huntsville	Two whites	Murder	Several men	Taken from jail
		1934
Alabama
Birmingham	Negro	Attack on three white women	Not stated	Not in hands of law
Florida
Marianna	Negro	Rape	Community	Taken from officers
Tampa	Negro	Suspected of rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Kentucky
Hazard	Negro	Struck white man	Not stated	Taken from jail
Louisiana
Bastrop	Negro	Accused of attempt to rape	Community	Taken from jail
Mississippi
Lambert	Two Negroes	Attempted rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Michigan City	Two Negroes	Murder	Not stated	Taken from officers
Texas
Newton	Negro	Associating with white girl	Not stated	Taken from officers 1935
California
Yreka	One white	Robbery	Twenty-five to fifty	Taken from jail
Florida
Fort Lauderdale	Negro	Rape and murder	One hundred	Taken from officers
Tampa	One white	Labor leader	Eight	Taken from jail
Georgia
Vienna	Negro	Resisting arrest	Four cars	Taken from sheriff

State and Town	Race	Accusation	Number in Mob
Louisiana
Franklinton	Negro	Awaiting new trial ordered by U. S. Supreme Court	Six-eight	Shot to death in jail
Gretna	Negro	Attempted rape	Three	Shot to death in cell
Maringuoin	Negro	Whipped man	Not stated	Taken from jail
Mississippi
Columbus	Two Negroes	Attempted rape	Thirty-five	Taken from officers
Oxford	Negro	Murder	Fifty	Taken from jail
Pittsboro	Negro	Attempted rape	Not stated	Taken from jail
Slayden	Negro	Murder	Fifty	Not in hands of law
Wiggins	Negro	Rape	Three hundred	Not in hands of law
North Carolina
Louisburg	Negro	Murder	Community	Taken from sheriff
Tennessee
White Bluff	Negro	Slapped white woman in drinking joint	Five	Taken from officers
Texas
Columbus	Two Negroes	Rape and murder	Community	Taken from officers
		1936
Arkansas
Lepanto	Negro	Attempted rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Florida
Greenville	Negro	Rape	Not stated	Not in hands of law
Georgia
Cusseta	Negro	Rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Dalton	Negro	Attempted rape	One hundred and fifty	Taken from jail
Danielsville	Negro	Attempted rape	Forty	Taken from jail
Pavo	Negro	Murder	Two hundred	Taken from officers
		1937
Alabama
Abbeville	Negro	Rape	Twenty-five cars	Taken from jail
Florida
Tallahassee	Two Negroes	Murder	Four	Taken from jail
Milton	Negro	Unnatural crime	Four	Taken from officers
Mississippi
Duck Hill	Two Negroes	Murder	Community	Taken from officers
Tennessee
Covington	Negro	Murder	Six	Taken from officers
		1938
Florida
Perry	Negro	Rape	Not stated	Taken from officers
Georgia
Arabi	Negro	Murder	Community	Not in hands of law

State and Town	Race	Accusation	Number in Mob
Louisiana
Ruston	Negro	Murder and rape	Community	Not in hands of law
Mississippi
Wiggins	Negro	Rape	Two hundred	Not in hands of law
		1939
Florida
Panama City	White	Murder	Four-five	Taken from jail
		1940
Georgia
LaGrange	Negro	Attempted rape	Six	Taken from jail
		1941
Florida
Quincy	Negro	Attempted rape	Six	In hands of law
Georgia
Blakely	Negro	Stealing	Three	Not in hands of law

The Mob Kills "With Authority of Law"

The number of lynchings classified in this Division is small; all but one were committed in the years in which agitation for Federal legislation was renewed and pressed with increasing intensity and with greater expectation of its passage.

Five Negroes met death at the hands of posses and five Negroes were killed by officers of the law. One of these, the case of Claude Brooks, at Canton, Mississippi, 1938, is arbitrarily included as a lynching by Tuskegee Institute. In five of the ten lynchings, the victims were charged with no crime. In only two—Canton, Mississippi, and Fairfield, Alabama—was there protest on the part of citizens or officials against Tuskegee Institute's report. This may indicate that local public opinion does not, at the present time, accept excessive acts of posses as legal acts of duly sworn officials to the maintenance of law and order.

State laws provide that when, in the judgment of the sheriff or other official who is responsible for maintaining order and protecting society, it becomes necessary to increase his force in an emergency, he is authorized to swear in private citizens either individually as deputies or en masse as posses. Their acts, performed for the protection of society, thereupon become acts committed with the authority of the law.

Would the Federal definition apply to these instances in which officers or posses acted as the mob?

Would violation by a mob of the body of a victim killed by an officer or posse constitute a lynching?

Do sheriffs sometimes swear in a posse with the intention of legalizing a murder or lynching?

The following murders, committed "with authority of law" (1931-1941), are classified as lynchings:

State and Town	Race	Accusation
		1932
Florida
Jasper	Negro	Robbery and murder	Killed by posse
		1933
North Carolina
Willard	Negro	Murder	Killed by posse
Texas
Carthage	Negro	Attacking white woman	Killed by posse
Kountze	Negro	Assault and murder of white woman	Killed by officers
		1935
Georgia
Moultrie	Negro	Mistaken identity	Killed by posse
		1937
Georgia
Bainbridge	Negro	Criminal assault murder	Killed by officers
		1938
Mississippi
Canton	Negro	No crime	Shot by two officers by mistake
Rolling Fork	Negro	Murder	Killed by posse of seventy-five 1940
Alabama
Fairfield	Negro	Altercation with white man	Killed in the cell by officers

Is It Murder or a Lynching?

Whenever the body of a white man is found with evidence pointing to death by violence, the white press assumes that murder has been done. When the body of a Negro is found pointing to death by violence, the Negro press assumes that a lynching has been committed. To sustain this latter assumption both Tuskegee Institute and the Negro press take the position that the nature of death proves that it is the work of a mob. In such instances, white persons question the probability of the claim that one person of either race could not kill a man and, for reasons best known to himself, truss up the body, "riddle it with bullets," weight it, and throw it in the river. However, the record of Southern coroners and peace officers in investigations of murder in this Division is such as to lend color, if not legal support, to the claim of the Negro press that Negroes whose bodies are found under suspicious circumstances have been lynched.

The lynchings which come under this classification are as follows:

State and Town	Race	Accusation
		1931
Mississippi
Vicksburg	Negro	Attempted attack on white woman	Body found "riddled with bullets"
		1932
)hio
Ironton	Negro	Threatening two white men with knife	Body found in river, beaten up
'irginia
Hume	Negro	Murder—husband and wife	Body found hanging by neck
		1935 lissisippi
Hernando	Negro	Huey Long organizer	Body found shot, rope around neck
		1936 eorgia
Atlanta	Negro	Familiarity with white woman	Body found trussed—shot 1939 ississippi
Canton	Negro	Altercation with white mill boss	Body found in river shot, trussed 1940 abama
Luverne	Negro	Disrespectful to constable	Body found shot, in state of decomposition
orgia
Atlanta	White	Being cruel to wife	Flogged, body found nnessee
Brownsville	Negro	Trying to register to vote	Body found in river—shot

Federal Definition of Lynching is Broadened

If a person put to death by a group of three or more is accused of no offense, and if he is not taken from jail or from officers, is the group a "mob" and is the act of the group a "lynching" under the Federal definition? This question may appear to be quibbling, but the frequency with which this type of crime is committed and the vigor with which local citizens have denied that it constitutes a lynching give its consideration importance. It is in this classification of lynching that personal interpretation dominates. It is here that records of statistical agencies differ.

Tuskegee Institute and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, working separately, have seldom released to the press reports on lynchings which have agreed.[1] In July, 1940, Tuskegee Institute reported no lynchings for the first six months. The N.A.A.C.P., which issues one report only at the end of the year, attacked the report as false, and declared that actually there had been five lynchings up to July 1. This charge created such confusion that many leading newspapers of both the white and the Negro press pointed out that there was so much divergence in the reports that both Tuskegee Institute and the N.A.A.C.P. were losing the respect of the public. They said that the statistical bodies ought to get together on their reports.

With this in view Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, arranged a conference at Tuskegee Institute for December 11, 1940.[2] Though there was the Federal definition of lynching to guide them, the group was in agreement that, since the Congress, prohibited by the Constitution from enacting legislation on the basis of race, could not designate as a lynching acts of a mob based solely on the race of the victim, the definition should be broadened to cover such cases. This unofficial group at Tuskegee Institute, after consideration of the lynchings in 1940 not covered by the Federal bill, wrote a supplementary definition which met unanimous acceptance by those in attendance. The definition says:

> "There must be legal evidence that a person has been killed, and that he met his death illegally at the hands of a group acting under the pretext of service to justice, race, or tradition."

---

[1]From 1931-1941 inclusive, the N.A.A.C.P. reports 135 lynchings; Tuskegee Institute reports 118.

[2]Present at the conference were Walter White, secretary of the N.A.A.C.P.; Ralph McGill, executive editor of the Atlanta Constitution; McClellan Van der Veer of the Birmingham Age-Herald; Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, Atlanta, and Mrs. W. A. Newell, Greensboro, N. C., director and secretary respectively of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching; Dr. Ira DeA. Reid, professor of sociology, Atlanta University; Dr. Arthur Raper, author of "The Tragedy of Lynching;" Dr. Monroe N. Work, editor of the Negro Year Book and founder of the Department of Records and Research at Tuskegee; Ralph Davis, present director of the Department; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee; Dr. Eli S. Marks, social science department, Fisk University; Howard Lee, Birmingham, secretary of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare; Earl W. Brown, Time, Inc., and Claude A. Barnett, Director of Associated Negro Press, Chicago.

The weakness in this definition lies in the fact that it in effect could be made to convert into a lynching the death of every Negro at the hands of white persons. This was demonstrated in 1941 when the deaths of Melker in Gaston County, North Carolina, and of Tisdale at Andrews, South Carolina, were included in the five lynchings of that year. Jonathan Daniels in the News and Observer insisted that to list Melker's death as a lynching was "reducing lynching statistics into silliness." Certainly the county officers acted promptly in arresting the white men. There were no law's delays in sentencing them, nor time lost in appeals. All of them, within a month of the murder, where serving sentences for manslaughter ranging from fourteen to twenty-five years. The question raised in this instance was whether or not the white men acted "under pretext of service to tradition." Gaston County did not think so; otherwise the white men would have gone free. At Andrews, two of the white men in the fight which resulted in Tisdale's death were sentenced to prison. Was he lynched? The answer to both these questions hinged upon the answer to the question: Were the Negroes killed on "the pretext of service to justice, race, or tradition?" Tuskegee and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said that they were. The Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lyching said they were not.

The classification of three other deaths as lynchings in this Division is open to serious question. At Aiken, South Carolina, 1933, a Negro acting as the agent of white bootleggers was suspected by them of double-crossing. They seized him and put him to death. This was a bootlegger's fight in which the race of the agent may or may not have entered. The next year at Darien, Georgia, two gangs of turpentine bootleggers had a gun fight in which one gang, two of whom were Negroes, surrounded the shack of the leader of the rival gang. When the smoke cleared, the rival had disappeared. There was no evidence that he had been killed. But if he had been, would his death be classed as a "service to justice, race, or tradition?" Near Daytona Beach, Florida, in 1939, a Negro taxi driver struck a twelve-year-old white boy in a traffic accident and killed him. A mob composed of the two brothers of the victim took the Negro from the constable and shot him. Though the race of the driver may have been the deciding factor in his death, this alleged lynching raises the question of the definition of a mob. Tuskegee Institute and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People by including this instance as a lynching indicate that in their judgment two persons constitute a mob. The Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching takes issue with this.

Except for these five cases, lynchings in Division IV are indubitably lynchings—killings committed by a limited number of persons for personal reasons, but understood by the community as disciplinary measures, regrettable but accepted as necessary under the South's social code. No precise legal terms can be applied to these lynchings to distinguish them from murder, yet the South knows the spirit which inspired them. No protests by officials from the governor down can make such murders less than lynchings so long as the community, by its failure to punish the murderers, supports the act as accessories after the fact. Whether or not North Carolina and South Carolina have been blackened without cause by the listing of the murders in Gaston and Georgetown Counties as lynchings, their citizens have demonstrated that they do not support the murderers of Negroes acting "under the pretext of service to justice, race, or tradition."

The lynchings in this division are as follows:

State and Town	Race	Accusation	Number in Mob
		1931
Florida
Blountstown	Two Negroes	Attacking forest ranger, out on bond	Not stated	Ambushed and shot 1933
Georgia
Newton	Negro	No charge	Fifty	Shot and hanged
Newton	Negro	No charge	Fifty	Shot and hanged
Louisiana
Homer	Negro	No charge	Three	Flogged to death
Mississippi
Caledonia	Negro	Familiarity with white woman	Ten	Hanged and body thrown in creek
Louisville	Negro	Engaged in altercation with white	Seventeen	Flogged and shot
Minter City	Negro	Striking a white man and being too smart	Not stated	Body riddled with bullets and dragged through town
South Carolina
Aiken	Negro	Stealing bootleg selling it and keeping money	Four	Flogged to death
Greenville	Negro	No charge	Masked band of men	Shot to death
Tennessee
Columbia	Negro	Cleared by grand jury for want of evidence on charge of rape	Seven	Hanged

State and Town	Race	Accusation	Number in Mob
		1934
:eorgia
Darien	Negro	Turpentine bootleggers	Four	No body found
.ouisiana
Bethany	Negro	Rape of Negro girl	Not stated	Flogged to death
lissisippi
Bolton	Negro	Writing letter to white girl	Three	Shot to death by three male relatives
Pelahatchee	Negro	Speaking disrespectfully to young white man		Flogged to death by Negroes ennessee
Manchester	Negro	Striking white man	Eight	Ambushed and shot
		1936
:orgia
Atlanta	Negro	Resisting arrest shot five times in back	Five	Shot by delegation who took him from his home under pretense of arrest
		1939 orida
Daytona Beach	Negro	Traffic accident	Two	Shot by two brothers of victim 1941 rth Carolina
Gaston County	Negro	Altercation with white man	Four	Shot by four men
uth Carolina
Andrews	Negro	Labor trouble	Two	Shot by brothers of victim

LYNCHING BY STATES

LYNCHINGS	1931	1932	1933	1934	1935	1936	1937	1938	1939	1940	1941	Total
Alabama	1	0	3	1	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	8
Arkansas	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	2
Florida	2	1	0	2	2(1w)	1	3	1	2(1w)	0	1	15
Georgia	0	0	4	1	2	6	1	1	0	2(1w)	1	18
Kentucky	0	1(w)	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
Louisiana	1	1	4	2	4	0	0	1	0	0	0	13
Mississippi	3	0	3	6	7	0	2	3	1	0	0	25
North Carolina	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	3
South Carolina	0	0	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	5
Tennessee	1	0	3(2w)	1	1	0	1	0	0	1	0	8
Texas	0	1	2	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	6
Virginia	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Total South	8	6	24	15	19	8	8	6	3	5	4	106
California	0	0	2(w)	0	1(w)	0	0	0	0	0	0	3
Kansas	0	1(w)	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Maryland	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
Missouri	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
North Dakota	1(w)	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Ohio	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
West Virginia	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
Total United States	13	8	28	15	20	8	8	6	3	5	4	118

(w) Indicates white victims.

APPENDIX

I

LYNCHINGS BY STATES—1931-1941

ALABAMA—8

1931

Haynesville, Lowndes County, August 5: Neal Guinn, Negro, charged with attempted criminal assault on an eleven-year-old white girl, was captured by posse of citizens and shot "thirty-two times."

1932

No lynchings

1933

Tuscaloosa, Tuscaloosa County, August 13: Dan Pippen and A. T. Hardin, Negroes, were taken from officers by a mob of fifteen men and shot. They had been arrested on suspicion in the murder of a white girl.

Tuscaloosa, Tuscaloosa County, September 24: Dennis Cross, a paralyzed Negro, was decoyed from his home at 2 A.M. by a group of six or seven and shot to death. He was out under bond on a charge of assaulting a white woman.

1934

Birmingham, Jefferson County, August 23: Three women crossing a park on the way to church were held up by an unidentified Negro. Two of them were thrown as they scuffleld to get hold of the gun while one ran about a block to a tent meeting to give the alarm. Men hurried from the tent and began chasing a Negro who almost made his escape because of darkness. He was cornered in an alley and shot. He died in the hospital next day without regaining consciousness. All three women identified him. "Police have not decided who fired the fatal shot that killed the Negro."

1935-1936

No lynchings

1937

Abbeville, Henry County, February 2: Wes Johnson, Negro, accused of criminal assault on a white woman, was taken from the custody of Sheriff J. L. Corbitt by a mob in twenty-five cars, hanged, and his body "riddled with bullets." Attorney General of Alabama declared that he would prove "the wrong Negro was lynched." Impeachment proceedings were brought against the sheriff, who was exonerated by a 4 to 2 vote.

1938-1939

No lynchings

1940

Fairfield, Jefferson County, May 9: O'Dee Henderson, Negro, charged with an altercation with a white man, was beaten and then shot to death in his cell by three officers of the law and one civilian.

Luverne, Crenshaw County, June 28: Jesse Thornton, Negro, was overheard speaking disrespectfully of a local peace officer. A week later his body was found, full of bullet holes, in a remote spot on the bank of a nearby stream.

ARKANSAS—2

1931

No lynchings

1932

Crossett, Ashley County, September 15: Frank Tucker, Negro, was taken from jail and hanged from a light pole near center of business district. He was accused of slashing the throat of deputy sheriff.

1933-1935

No lynchings

1936

Lepanto, Poinsett County, April 29: Willis Kees, Negro, accused of an attempted attack on a white woman, was taken from the city marshal by a masked mob and shot to death.

1937-1941

No lynchings

CALIFORNIA—3

1933

San Jose, Santa Clara County, November 27: John M. Holmes and Thomas H. Thurmond, white, were taken from jail by a mob estimated as over 6,000 and hanged in the public square. The two men were under arrest for kidnaping and murdering another white man.

1935

Yreka, Siskiyou County, August 3: C. L. Johnson, white, was taken from jail by a mob of twenty-five to fifty men and lynched. He was charged with the murder of Chief of Police F. R. Daw of Dunsmuir. Johnson was taken twelve hours after the funeral of his victim. "I suppose they talked it over at the funeral and got up the mob," Deputy Sheriff Joe Clark said. Johnson had been moved from Dunsmuir to Yreka for safekeeping.

FLORIDA—15

1931

Blountstown, Calhoun County, August 28: Richard and Charley Smoke, Negroes, charged with attacking forest ranger, out on bond furnished by employer were seized by a mob of unknown size and shot to death.

1932

Jasper, Hamilton County, June 6: Henry Woods, Negro, charged with robbery and murder, was killed by arresting posse, his body "riddled with bullets" and burned.

1933

No lynchings

1934

Tampa, Hillsborough County, January 24: Robert Johnson, Negro, under arrest for stealing chickens was shot to death after being taken from officer, T. M. Graves. The mob traveled in several cars.

Johnson, suspected of guilt in connection with rape on a young white woman was questioned by officers and released on insufficient evidence. He had confessed to stealing chickens some time before.

Marianna, Jackson County, October 26: Claude Neal, Negro, accused of rape and murder, was tortured to death by a small group of men. His body was later hanged on the Marianna Courthouse lawn. He was taken from the jail at Brewton, Alabama, where Florida officers had taken him for safekeeping, and brought back to the Florida County.

1935

Fort Lauderdale, Broward County, July 19: Reuben Stacey, Negro, was taken from Deputy Sheriff Virgil Wright by a mob of 100 masked men, hanged, and shot "seventeen times." He was accused of a murderous assault on a white woman.

Tampa, Hillsborough County, December 4: Joseph Shoemaker, Socialist labor leader, white, was taken from jail in police cars, carried to nearby woods, beaten, and left on the ground half clothed. He was taken to a hospital where he died a week later. Eight men, six of whom were city policemen, were indicted. No convictions.

1936

Greenville, Madison County, September 11: Buckie Young, Negro, charged with attack on a white woman, was shot to death by mob of unknown size. Coroner refused an inquest.

1937

Tallahassee, Leon County, August 2: Richard Hawkins and Ernest Powders, Negroes, charged with stabbing an officer, were taken from the jail two blocks from the Courthouse and shot to death by a mob of four masked men. Governor Cone said, "This is a murder, not a lynching."

Milton, Santa Rosa County, October 3: J. C. Evans, Negro, accused of an "unnatural crime" against a white boy and robbery of a filling station, was taken from Sheriff Joe Allen and shot by a mob of four men, none of whom the sheriff recognized.

1938

Perry, Taylor County, August 9: Otis Price, Negro, charged with alleged rape, was taken from the sheriff by a mob of undetermined size and his body "riddled with bullets."

1939

Panama City, Bay County, April 1: Miles W. Brown, white, convicted of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy, was shot to death after being taken from jail by a band of four or five masked men.

Daytona Beach, Volusia County, April 29: Lee Snell, Negro taxi driver, struck and killed a twelve-year-old white boy on a bicycle. He was taken from an officer and shot to death by two brothers of the accident victim.

1940

No lynchings

1941

Quincy, Gadsden County, May 13: A. C. Williams, Negro, charged with attempted rape upon a twelve-year-old white girl was beaten and his body "riddled with bullets."

GEORGIA—18

1931-1932

No lynchings

1933

Warrenton, Warren County, May 11: Will Kinsey, Negro farm tenant, was taken from a doctor's office, where he had gone to be treated for gunshot wounds, and shot to death by a mob of fifty. Kinsey was accused of firing the shot that killed a white man in a gun battle between two Negroes and four white men, one the landlord.

Newton, Baker County, June 12: T. J. Thomas, Negro, was taken from his home, hanged, and shot a week after a white man died from a gunshot wound in a fight with Negroes. Two Negroes arrested at the time were removed for safekeeping. T. J. Thomas was not in the fight.

Newton, Baker County, June 17: Richard Marshall, Negro, was taken by a mob and carried to the place where a white man had been killed the previous December. He was shot and hanged.

No causes for these two lynchings at Newton were given other than "as examples."

Lumpkin, Stewart County, October 23: Cephus Davis, Negro, was beaten and shot to death by a mob which took him from the Richland city jail. Davis had assaulted an officer who arrested him for drunkenness.

1934

Darien, McIntosh County, October 9: A mob of fourteen turpentine bootleggers, two of them Negroes, surrounded the shack of James Curtis, Negro, another bootlegger, and opened fire. Curtis fired back. Later Curtis was reported missing.

1935

Vienna, Dooley County, September 28: Lewis Harris, Negro, in custody for resisting arrest and forcing Sheriff Bos Vinson to relinquish a prisoner. The sheriff was overpowered by the mob in four cars as he was being taken "somewhere" for safekeeping. The victim was hanged and his body "riddled with bullets." The Vienna News declared editorially that there was no indication of mob action in the town.

Moultrie, Colquitt County, October 17: "Bo" Bronson, Negro, was beaten and shot by a posse hunting for another Negro, believed to have murdered a white man. Bronson died shortly after being admitted to a hospital. He was not implicated in the murder of the white man.

1936

Cusseta, Chattahoochee County, March 14: Philip Baker, Negro, accused of attacking two white women, was hanged, and his body was "riddled with bullets" by a mob which took him from Chattahoochee County officers while he was being transferred from Macon to Columbus.

Danielsville, Madison County, April 28: Lint Shaw, Negro, was shot to death by a mob of forty men eight hours before he was to go to trial on a charge of attempted criminal assault. The mob broke into the jail at Royston, Georgia, where Shaw had been taken for safekeeping, the third in which the prisoner had been held.

Pavo, Thomas County, May 3: John Rushin, Negro, was snatched from a deputy sheriff by a mob of 200 men and shot to death in revenge for the slaying of a white man.

Dalton, Whitfield County, September 6: A. L. McCamy, Negro, accused of an attempted attack on a white woman, was taken from the county jail by a mob of about 150 and hanged. Sheriff J. T. Bryan found the body four hours later on a roadside beneath a tree from which the man had been hanged.

Atlanta, Fulton County, September 12: Tom Finch, Negro, for ten years orderly at the Grady Hospital, was taken from his home under the pretense that he was under arrest. Twenty minutes later his wife was called and told that his body had been dumped at the hospital door. The police department claimed that the Negro had resisted arrest and made an attempt to harm an officer, and that he was shot while fleeing. However, an examination of the hospital records revealed that he "was shot five times in the breast."

Atlanta, Fulton County, December 23: Mack Henry Brown, Negro, apartment house janitor, whose bullet-riddled, handcuffed, and foot-bound body was found floating in the Chattahoochee River at Roswell, Georgia, several weeks after he allegedly insulted an Atlanta white woman by kissing her hand, came to his death as the result of two bullets fired into his body by a party or parties unknown, a coroner's jury decided Tuesday afternoon following a two-day inquest conducted by Paul T. Donehoo, Coroner for Fulton County.

1937

Bainbridge, Decatur County, May 25: Willie Reed, Negro, accused of murdering two white women and assaulting one of them, was killed by local officers, H. G. Pollock and R. A. Stephens, who were returning him to Bainbridge from Dothan, Alabama. His dead body was seized from a Negro undertaking establishment by a mob of 100 and burned, after being dragged through the town behind an automobile.

1938

Arabi, Crisp County, July 6: John Dukes, Negro, after being mortally shot by an officer sent to arrest him for drunk and disorderly conduct, was seized by a mob "estimated at a hand full to several hundred." While still alive, but unconscious, he was dragged down the road several hundred yards, his body saturated with gasoline and burned.

1939

No lynchings

1940

Atlanta, Fulton County, March 7: Ike Gaston, white, was flogged by a gang of masked men and left in such a state of exhaustion that he was unable to make his way home, and died of exposure. The Grand Jury of Fulton County investigated Gaston's murder, but no indictments were returned. He was charged with drinking and being cruel to his wife. His body was found the following morning.

LaGrange, Troup County, September 8: Austin Callaway, Negro, was charged with an attempted attack on a white woman. He was taken from jail about midnight by six masked men and shot to death.

1941

Blakely, Early County, May 6: Robert Sapp, Negro, suspected of stealing from his employer, was beaten unconscious with a club and a piece of machine belting by three men. He died several days later.

KANSAS—1

1932

Atwood, Rawlins County, April 18: Richard Read, white, attacker and slayer of eight-year-old white girl, was taken from the Rawlins County jail by a mob of 200 and hanged. The mob chased the officer from Colby County, where the crime was committed, through Cheyenne County and into Rawlins.

KENTUCKY—2

1931

No lynchings

1932

Princeton, Caldwell County, June 1: Walter Merrick, white, was removed from county jail by an unidentified group in six automobiles late at night, carried into Princeton, and hanged. Merrick was charged with dynamiting a store at Hopson.

1933

No lynchings

1934

Hazard, Perry County, January 24: Rex Scott, Negro, accused of striking a white man, was taken from jail by a mob of coal miners from Knott County, carried to a place opposite a grave yard, hanged, and his body "riddled with bullets."

1935-1941

No lynchings

LOUISIANA—13

1931

Pointe a La Hache, Plaquemine Parish, August 3: Oscar Livingston, Negro, charged with attempted rape, was taken from jail by mob of masked men and his body "riddled with buck shot."

1932

Wisner, Franklin Parish, November 20: The body of William House, Negro, arrested for insulting two white women, was found dangling from a tree twenty-four hours after band of fifteen men had taken him from officers.

1933

Homer, Claiborne Parish, January 12: Fell Jenkins, Negro, was flogged to death by three white men, according to the coroner's report. The report was made without recommendation and no arrests were made.

Ringgold, Bienville Parish, February 19: Nelson Nash, Negro, was taken from officers about an hour after he had confessed to burglary, murder, and attempted rape. He was hanged at the scene of the crime and about fifty bullets shot into his body.

Opelousas, Saint Landry Parish, September 26: John White, young Negro, was taken from officers by a mob and shot to death, his body "riddled with bullets." He was accused of rape.

Labadieville, Assumption Parish, October 11: Freddie Moore, young Negro, was taken from jail by a mob of unknown size sometime after midnight and hanged from a bridge. He was accused of the murder of a young white girl.

1934

Bastrop, Morehouse Parish, July 9: Andrew McLeod, Negro, accused of attempted rape, was taken from jail in broad daylight, hanged on the courthouse square, and throat slashed.

Bethany, Caddo Parish, August 3: Grafton Page, Negro, accused of drunk and disorderly conduct, was flogged to death. He was not in the hands of the law.

1935

Franklinton, Franklin Parish, January 11: Jerome Wilson, Negro, was shot to death in his cell in the Parish jail by a mob of six or eight men. The Supreme Court of the United States had granted Wilson a new trial for the murder of officer Delos C. Wood. Sheriff J. C. Brock said, "There wasn't any lynching. There wasn't any mob. . . . There were just about six or eight men who were going about their business."

Maringuoin, Iberville Parish, March 3: After he had whipped a white man who had drawn a gun on him, Anderson Ward, Negro, was taken from jail by a mob, "riddled with bullets," and hanged to an oak tree, where his body dangled for several hours before relatives were allowed to cut it down for burial.

Gretna, Jefferson Parish, November 1: Two unidentified Negro men, removed from mob-proof parish jail at New Orleans across the river to Gretna, were shot to death in their cell by a mob of three. They were accused of attempted rape.

1936-1937

No lynchings

1938

Ruston, Lincoln Parish, October 13: R. C. Williams, Negro, was taken by a mob of undetermined size and hanged to a tree, "riddled with bullets," and burned. Williams was accused of murdering a white man and raping his companion.

1939-1941

No lynchings

MISSISSIPPI—25

1931

Vicksburg, Warren County, March 29: The body of Eli Johnson, Negro, charged with an attempted attack upon a white woman, was found "riddled with buck shot and bullet hole in head."

Inverness, Sunflower County, March 22: Steve Wiley, Negro, charged with an attempted assault, was taken from officers by a mob of unknown size and hanged.

Columbus, Lowndes County, November 6: Coleman Franks, Negro, was taken by a band of men from a cage in the convict camp, where he was held pending trial for wounding white man after a row, and was hanged.

1932

No lynchings

1933

Minter City, Leflore County, September 18: Richard Roscoe, Negro farmer, was seized at his home by a mob and shot. His "bullet-filled body" was fastened to an automobile, dragged through town and then taken back and deposited in the yard. He was accused of "striking a white man in a fight and being too smart."

Louisville, Winston County, July 18: Reuben Micou, Negro, was taken from his home by a mob of seventeen, flogged, shot and his body thrown into a drainage canal. Micou had engaged in an "altercation" with one of the seventeen.

Caledonia, Lowndes County, about July 10: A Negro tenant, name suppressed by local people, was seized by a "band of men" when he was coming in from the fields, held until after dark, then hanged and his body weighted and thrown into a nearby creek. The Negro was accused of "improper conduct toward a white woman." It was some ten days or more after the Negro disappeared when the body was found.

1934

Lambert, Bolivar County, June 8: Joe Love and Isaac Thomas, Negroes, accused of attempted rape, were taken from officers and hanged.

Bolton, Hinds County, July 16: James Sanders, Negro, was shot by a mob of three "for writing an indecent letter to a white girl." Not in the hands of the law.

Three men—father, uncle, and cousin of the white girl to whom the letter was written—made the following sworn statement in court: After driving the Negro out a certain distance from town, they stopped the car. The Negro grabbed the pistol from the pocket of the father of the girl and began shooting, so they had to shoot the Negro in self-defense. The District Attorney "was present at the trial and recommended that the case be dismissed." A business man said, "It was something that just had to be done."

Pelahatchee, Rankin County, July 24: Henry Bedford, Negro, was flogged to death by a mob of four "for speaking disrespectfully to a young white man." Bedford was seized at his home.

The sheriff, notified a few hours after the flogging, went out and brought the Negro into the hospital where he died the next night. The four white men were arrested immediately. They were given trial in the city court, but were released several days later on bond to await the meeting of Grand Jury, which did not indict.

Michigan City, Benton County, August 13: Robert Jones and Smith Houey, Negroes, who were being brought to Ashland for trial for murder committed more than a year before, were taken from officers by a mob and hanged.

1935

Columbus, Lowndes County, July 15: Dooley Morton and Bert Moore, Negroes, accused of attempted rape were taken from Deputy Sheriff Parker Harris by a motorcade mob of thirty-five men and hanged.

Oxford, Lafayette County, September 17: Elwood Higgenbotham, Negro, was taken from jail at 9:30 P. M., where he awaited the verdict of the jury in his trial for murdering a white man, and hanged by a mob of fifty men. The jury had retired at 6 P. M.

Pittsboro, Calhoun County, August 5: Bodie Bates, Negro, suspected of attempting to attack a white girl was taken from the Calhoun County jail and hanged from a Yalobusha River bridge. Sheriff Jack W. Powell had meager information about the lynching.

Wiggins, Stone County, June 22: R. D. McGee, Negro, was captured by a mob of 300, hanged to an oak tree near the graveyard, "filled full of bullets," cut down and hanged to another tree near the highway. He was accused of criminally assaulting an eleven-year-old white child.

Slayden, Marshall County, March 12: Ab Young, Negro, was captured by a mob of about fifty men at Rossville, Tennessee, brought back and hanged in a school yard three miles east of Slayden. He was accused of killing a white highway employee.

Near Hernando, DeSoto County, March 28: The body of an unidentified Negro, with a rope round the neck and with bullet holes in it, was found in a gully near Hernando. Several of Huey Long's pamphlets "Every Man a King" were found in the pockets. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

1936

No lynchings

1937

Duck Hill, Montgomery County, April 13: Roosevelt Towns and Bootjack McDaniels, Negroes, accused of murdering a white storekeeper, were taken from Sheriff E. E. Wright, as they were being led from the courthouse at Winona after indictment proceedings, and burned to death with blow torches.

1938

Rolling Fork, Sharkey County, July 6: Tom McGehee, Negro blacksmith, was killed in gun battle with a posse of about seventy-five men after the murder of a white planter for whom he worked. Later a mob seized the body, poured gasoline over it, set it on fire, tied it to an automobile, and hauled it down to Rolling Fork.

Wiggins, Stone County, November 21: Wilder McGowan, Negro, "was lynched by a mob of two hundred men for the alleged choking, assaulting, and robbing of a seventy-four-year-old white woman. It was an 'orderly lynching.' Sheriff H. C. Hinton was sure there was 'no shooting and no disorder in the mob.' "

Canton, Madison County, July 29: Claude Brooks was shot by officers when he speeded up his car and refused to halt when ordered. The officers had closed off streets in search of the murderer and robber of a white man. Brooks' companion, Jones, was placed in jail. Officers said both Negroes were innocent of any offense.

1939

Canton, Madison County, May 8: Joe Rogers, Negro, was understood locally to have had some difficulty with the foreman at the sawmill where he worked. Several days afterwards his body was found in Pearl River with hands and feet tied.

1940-1941

No lynchings

MARYLAND—2

1931

Salisbury, Wicomico County, December 4: Mack Williams, Negro, charged with murder of his employer, was taken from a hospital cot by a mob of 2,000, hanged in front of the courthouse, and his body cremated.

1932

No lynchings

1933

Princess Anne, Somerset County, October 18: George Armwood, Negro, was taken from the jail by a mob of over 5,000 men, women, and children, dragged a mile through town and hanged from a tree on the main street and his body burned. Armwood was accused of attacking a seventy-one-year-old white woman.

MISSOURI—2

1931

Maryville, Nodaway County, January 19: Raymond Gunn, Negro, charged with rape and murder, was taken from the sheriff by a mob of several thousand, carried to school house, site of the crime, where he was chained and handcuffed to rooftree, which was soaked with gasoline. The building was then set on fire.

1932

No lynchings

1933

St. Joseph, Buchanan County, November 29: Lloyd Warner, Negro, was taken from jail by four men, hanged and his body burned, while a mob of 7,000 looked on. He was in jail on a charge of rape.

NORTH CAROLINA—3

1931-1932

No lynchings

1933

Willard, Pender County, August 27: Doc Rogers, Negro farmer, was killed by a posse in a gun battle in which a deputy sheriff was wounded. The posse dragged the body around the courthouse square. Later Rogers' house was burned. The Negro and a white bootlegger had an altercation in which the Negro fired into the bootlegger's house.

1934

No lynchings

1935

Louisburg, Franklin County, August 3: Govan Ward, mentally deficient Negro, was taken from Sheriff J. T. Moore by a mob of Negroes and white men, hanged, and his "body riddled with bullets." He had chopped off the head of a white farmer with an ax in what Sheriff Moore said was apparently a mad frenzy.

1936-1940

No lynchings

1941

Gaston County (near Cherryville), April 13: Robert Melker, Negro, fighting with four white men, was shot to death in his home. All four men were convicted and are serving prison terms from ten to twenty-five years.

NORTH DAKOTA—1

1931

Schafer, McKenzie County, January 29: Charles Bannon, white, accused of murder of a family of six, was taken from McKenzie County jail by a mob of eighty men and hanged from a bridge. No shots were fired.

OHIO—1

1932

Ironton, Lawrence County, June 11: Luke Marion, Negro, had drawn a knife on two white men which angered the crowd of white people. Later his body, badly battered, was found in the river. Four white men were arrested at once; twelve others were under suspicion; six were later indicted.

SOUTH CAROLINA—5

1931-1932

No lynchings

1933

Clinton, Laurens County, July 4: Norris Dendy, Negro, was taken from the county jail by four men and hanged. His body was found by Deputy Sheriff Thad Moore seven hours later badly beaten and still hanging. Dendy had been shot once.

Aiken, Aiken County, February 19: George Jeter, Negro, was flogged to death by four white men who accused him of stealing their bootleg liquor, selling it, and keeping the money.

Greenville, Greenville County, November 16: George Green, Negro, was shot to death by a masked, robed band of more than ten after he had been taken from his home. Authorities said they knew of no reason for the slaying.

Ninety-Six, Greenwood County, October 9: Bennie Thompson, Negro, was taken from jail by four men and beaten to death. He was lodged in jail on a charge of drawing a pistol on one of the white men.

1936-1940

No lynchings

1941

Andrews, Georgetown County, February 20: Bruce Tisdale, Negro, was beaten over the head in a fight with five white men and died in hospital five days later. Three of the men were convicted of manslaughter. Case is on appeal.

TENNESSEE—8

1931

Union City, Obion County, April 17: George Smith, Negro, was hanged in the courthouse jail by a mob of several hundred people at 2:30 P. M. He was accused of attemped criminal assault on a young white girl.

1932

No lynchings

1933

Columbia, Maury County, December 15: Cord Cheek, twenty-year-old Negro, was kidnaped by a mob of seven and hanged near the scene of an alleged criminal assault on an eleven-year-old white girl. The Maury County Grand Jury had released Cheek earlier in the day for lack of evidence to indict him.

Huntsville, Scott County, June 8: Jerome Boyette and Harvey Winchester, white, accused of murder, were shot by a mob of several armed men. They were taken from jail.

1934

Manchester, Coffee County, June 24: A Negro, Richard Wilkerson, was ambushed by a mob of eight and shot for striking a white man. He was not in the hands of the law.

A party of white men went to a Negro dance. They had some trouble with Wilkerson in regard to their conduct, reports say, toward a Negro girl. Wilkerson struck one of them. On his way home after the dance, Wilkerson was ambushed by eight white men, shot, stripped of his clothing, and beaten on the head with an axe.

These eight men were convicted of manslaughter and sentenced, but no record of their having served terms is available.

1935

White Bluff, Dickerson County, November 4: Baxter Bell, Negro, struck a white woman who was in a Negro drinking joint. Arrested for assault and battery he was being taken to Ashland to jail when five men—husband of the woman and four relatives—overpowered the constable, took Bell across into Cheatham County. He was found thirty minutes later, dead with a shot through the lungs. The white men were acquitted.

1936

No lynchings

1937

Covington, Tipton County, August 17: Albert Gooden, Negro, accused of slaying an officer of the law, was taken from Sheriff W. J. Vaughn by six men and hanged. The sheriff was taking his prisoner back to Covington from Memphis where Gooden had been taken for safekeeping.

1938-1939

No lynchings

1940

Brownsville, Haywood County, June 22: Elbert Williams, Negro, attempted to qualify to vote. Trouble developed. Later his "bullet riddled body" was recovered from the Hatchie River.

1941

No lynchings

TEXAS—6

1931

No lynchings

1932

Crockett, Houston County, April 2: Dave Tillis, Negro, while being taken to Crockett by his landlord to be turned over to the sheriff—for allegedly entering white woman's bedroom—was seized by four men, hanged to a blackjack tree. Five men were arrested, following investigation by Sheriff J. L. Hazlett.

1933

Carthage, Panola County, May 23: W. C. Lovell, Negro, was cornered and killed instantly by officers and a large mob less than ten minutes after he had attacked a white woman.

Kountze, Hardin County, December 7: David Gregory, Negro, charged with assaulting and killing a white woman, was killed by officers while resisting arrest. The mob of about 400 seized the body, dragged it around for two hours or so, then dismembered and burned it on a bonfire in the Negro district.

1934

Newton, Newton County, June 21: A Negro, Sonny Griggs, was hanged for associating with a white girl. He was taken from the sheriff who was removing him to Orange for safekeeping. The mob was estimated to have been several hundred.

1935

Columbus, Colorado County, November 11: Ernest Collins, and Benny Mitchell, Negroes, were taken from Sheriff Frank Horgemeyer and deputies by a mob of 700 and hanged to a liveoak tree. They were being brought from Houston to Columbus to be tried for criminal assault and murder. County Attorney O. P. Moore said, "I do not call the citizens who executed the Negroes a mob. I consider their action an expression of the will of the people."

1936-1941

No lynchings

VIRGINIA—1

1931

No lynchings

1932

Hume, Fauquier County, July 12: In the early morning of July 12, a farmer and his wife were attacked while sleeping in their home at Hume, Virginia. The report was that the farmer was struck over the head, stunned by a stick of stove wood, and his wife dragged away and left about a half mile from their home where she was found later in a semi-conscious condition. The suspected attacker, Shadrick Thompson, Negro, had been sought in connection with the crime.

On September 15 his body was found near Linden, hanging from a tree. The coroner was immediately notified and viewed the body. "The body, therefore, came into the hands of the law. The law, however, did not retain possession of it, but permitted it to come into the hands of a mob which burned the body, distributing the victim's teeth as souvenirs, and placed his head on exhibition in the town of Warrenton." (From Tuskegee report).

1933-1941

No lynchings

WEST VIRGINIA—2

1931

Lewisburg, Greenbrier County, December 10: Tom Jackson and George Banks, Negroes, charged with killing Constables Joseph H. Myles and Jack Brown, were taken from jail by a mob of fifty and hanged. Bodies were "riddled with bullets."

II

EDITORIAL TREATMENT OF LYNCHINGS*

By JESSIE DANIEL AMES

Editorial treatment of lynchings offers an interesting and revealing study of public attitudes toward this peculiarly American custom. Environment and not personal inclination of editors determines the tone of opinion in almost every instance. As individuals, they are unanimously opposed to mob violence but, as editors who are caught in the general atmosphere of a given trade territory, they do not reflect their own ideas but those of the people upon whose goodwill their papers depend for revenue. They find themselves in the difficult position of a rider who must sit two horses at the same time, one standing facing backward, the other moving rapidly forward unencumbered by the harness of tradition. They must satisfy that part of the watchful public pressing in closest and upon whose approval they must rely for immediate revenue. But, also, they must offer assurances that the show is worth the investment of huge sums of money to that distant public whose worldly possessions are highly essential to the progress and development of the South.

Editors, with few exceptions, condone lynchings by offering reasons for lynchers which are in effect sympathetic excuses defending the right of citizens under provocation to take the law into their own hands and constitute themselves judge, jury, and executioner all at the same time. The exceptions are so few, in fact, that they do not make up even a respectable minority.

Newspapers and Southern society accept lynching as justifiable homicide in defense of society. When defenders of society sometimes go too far in their enthusiasm, as in the Winona, Mississippi, torch lynchings of 1937, public opinion regrets their acts, deplores them, condemns, but recognizes that too much blame must not be attached to lynchers because their provocation is great and their ultimate motives are laudable. This attitude of society in the South—this sympathetic understanding of a barbarous act while regretting the fact—influences editorial opinion.

Outside Agencies Blamed

Editors from time to time refer to the South's "peculiar situation" which must be handled entirely by native Southern people, without interference from "outside agencies." When such interference can be claimed, outside agencies become the spectacular scapegoat for local crime, bearing off into the wilderness all the sins and shortcomings of the community, leaving it . . . well, if not as white as snow, at least as white as it was before the lynching. Could there be any finer defense offered to lynchers than this editorial from a great, liberal, and influential daily paper:

> Their bodies (the Negroes') were riddled with bullets by hotheads who took the law in their own hands for fear that outside interference would block the course of justice. . . . But the maggoty beaks of the belled buzzards of the International Labor Defense League are stained with the blood of the three Negroes whose torn bodies this morning lie in newly turned graves.

The lynching community, to the last man, was quickly informed by its local paper that its citizens were cleared of crime by the press. The local paper, supporting its constituency, took up the defense offered by the Capital City daily in an editorial captioned "The Carpet Baggers of 1933" and carried the idea of patriotism to an amazingly high point of eloquence:

---

*Reprinted from The Public Opinion Quarterly, Princeton, January, 1938.

> They (the Negroes) died at the hands of an unidentified mob but they were LYNCHED by a communistic organization known as the International Labor Defense whose promoters may now enjoy to the fullest the havoc they have wrought.

There is almost visible a tear in the editorial eye for the hapless victims of the "communistic organization."

Nothing could be more delightfully restrained than this editorial rebuke on the same occasion from another state paper. Even a casual reader may detect the editor's dislike for unnecessary violence even in a good cause:

> There can be no justification in flaunting the jurisdiction of the courts and committing murder even to show such a despicable outfit as the International Labor Defense, whose concern is not for the Negroes, that it is not wanted in Alabama.

Sorrowful regret, a few penitential tears, but for the most part an indignant and righteous wrath that a fine community had been forced to such extreme measures to protect society—those were the characteristics of editorial opinion in Alabama on the occasion of this double lynching. Editorial screams of justification were accepted as noble harmonies by the public. In an editorial three days after the lynching, the editor who described the outside agency as "belled buzzards" sighed gratefully in his paper:

> Let us forget the embarrassment we have suffered at the hands of outsiders now that the outside world has agreed that the International Labor Defense shares our blame. A state that does not or cannot offer protection to the most lowly of its residents does not deserve the right to call itself a sovereign state.

All was peaceful again in Alabama. The country and the Alabama editors had accepted the lynchings as painful, regrettable, but excusable under the circumstances, something in the nature of a terrible cauterization of a poisonous snakebite, necessary to the preservation of community life. This accomplished, the editors called on the citizens of Tuscaloosa to clean house. The answer Tuscaloosa made to this appeal was another lynching within six weeks.

Thus were the editors of Alabama and the South again embarrassed. Their amazement and pain were genuine. They cried aloud in their anguish. But Tuscaloosa lynchers were quite logical. Their first sin had been forgiven and their second, like unto the first, also must be forgiven. In a front-page editorial spread over four columns, they found expression in part—even the "law-abiding citizens":

> No lynching can be condoned but Tuscaloosa refused to take full responsibility for the Pippen-Hardin case and it had a right to refuse this responsibility. An outside agency inflamed the people to such a point that the community was tense with fear of racial disorders in which many lives would be lost, so when a handful of men took the matter in their own hands and put those Negroes to death a certain relief was undeniably felt by even the most thoughtful and law-abiding of our citizens.

The Dilemma of Editors

Editors are good citizens. As individuals they condemn lynching. Lynching gives the South the wrong kind of publicity. It makes it a bit more difficult to attract outside capital and to increase immigration of the right people. The South wants all possible "outside" agencies with money to invest to invade its section, but this invasion must come on local terms, chief of which is that the native population must be allowed to handle their "peculiar situation" in the traditional way. Thus must editors sit on the stationary horse while desiring to ride rapidly into the sunrise of progress and prosperity.

Other states, not so spectacularly heckled by Communists as Alabama, find other dangers to the South's "peculiar situation" equally hateful. Undisturbed by revolutionary ideas, Negroes and white people would continue in a state of harmonious living in which all persons of each race find contentment. This harmony is clearly set forth by a Georgia editor:

> But he (the Negro) is still extant in the majority of cases with the inherent negroid characteristics of the common laborer. . . . He is still something of an economic necessity. . . . The problem of dealing with him evolves into making him a fit citizen. . . . It is only appropriate that they (Negroes) live in their present capacity as neighbor citizens in continual peace and friendship.

This peace and friendship, based on a recognition of and respect for a caste system, is the basis of good race relations. Negroes, undisturbed in the philosophical acceptance of their "present capacity" in a white society, go along unharmed and unlynched. Sometimes Negroes forget their status, even to the point where they think they can defend their property against greedy white neighbors. Then they are liable to sudden death. After a lynching in Mississippi, when an old Negro man had questioned the right of certain acts of white people against him, the local county paper delivered editorially a funeral oration addressed to the remaining Negroes, closing with a benediction:

> Negroes must learn—and most of them do know—that they occupy a peculiar place in this land and must keep it. It is hoped that white people will eventually learn better how to handle the minor difficulties for their own salvation and better interest—and thereby save themselves and their loved ones much unnecessary trouble and worry.

Outsiders must see in this editor's mind that lynchings are regrettable, and, what is not so generally recognized, a lot of trouble.

Sometimes even Southern white people forget their caste in this biracial society. When they do, though they are admonished, the outcome may be death to a Negro. A Negro was lynched in North Carolina within these late years. Now, a lynching in North Carolina, because of its rarity, is news. But when one does occur—doubtless through necessity—the same racial attitudes that control in the Deep South are exposed editorially by some papers of that state. Such an exposure is made in this editorial:

> If some white people were not prone to be familiar with Negroes and socialize with them, allowing them reasons to suppose their presence among white people is acceptable, there would still live in the heart and soul of the Negro the fear and dread of swift and sure punishment in case of wrong doing.

Their presence, except as an economic necessity, is not desired. They must be endured and handled as capably as long experience in dealing with an inferior race—made so by God himself—has taught the white people. Nations which might inflate the ego of a Negro and delude him into thinking that he is a man even as other men must be dealt with heroically. When a Negro is lynched he is not lynched by the persons who fire the guns, pull the rope, or light the bonfire, but by white people who betray their own race and also the Negro whom they pretend to love:

> The white and Negro races of the South (editorializes one paper) get along very well and would get along better if the Negro-loving yankee who loves the Negro at long distance and the visionary and fanatical interracialist who coddles the Negro, would take themselves out of the picture.

Education Changes Defenses

Many leading Southern dailies no longer condone lynchings by holding them as necessary to protect Southern womanhood. Editors to some extent have absorbed a few statistics on the alleged crimes which arouse sensitive citizens. However, they have not come to the point in their education, either in their minds on facts or in their emotions on chivalry, to do more than drop the knight-errant explanation of lynching. Since big dailies have a circulation outside the South and their editors and publishers attend national conferences and conventions, they must represent the South in the light that will be most productive of goodwill and large investments. So they dare not lay themselves open to ridicule by defending lynching on the grounds of gallantry. They cannot defend lynching as a necessary form of violence to insure white supremacy. All the country holds the philosopy of white supremacy—North, East, West, as well as South—but nationally it is not good sales talk to advertise that white supremacy can be maintained in the South—the last stronghold of pure Anglo-Saxon heritage—only by force, coercion, and lynching.

The Scottsboro Case, made famous by outside interference, has become a trifle boring, not only to Alabama but to the larger part of the South. It has done the South no good in many ways but it has proved an asset in one notable way. It has furnished Southern editors a dignified and self-righteous basis for excusing lynchers with a line of argument that the whole country appreciates—delays in court procedure, the uncertainty of punishment, the loopholes in the law—conditions prevalent everywhere and universally condemned.

So, the Scottsboro Case contributes to the editorial policy of Southern dailies in solving their problem of sitting still while riding rapidly to a place in the sun. One editorial—and their number is legion—is representative of all editorials in defense of lynching on these grounds:

> Lynching is chiefly attributable to laxity of court procedure and the abuse of the pardon power in the United States. No such outrages against law and order occur in Great Britain and her dominions because British justice is quick and certain. . . . In that difference is to be found the reason why mob violence is an unknown thing in one of the great English-speaking nations of the world but is lamentably frequent in the other.

Dignified in style, elegant in language, balanced in construction, and international in illustration, it holds arguments advanced by J. Edgar Hoover as causes of crime, and applies them deftly and convincingly to lynching. It is a national condition with a special application to the South's "peculiar situation." It satisfies the lynchers with a good alibi for their acts, even if those acts include burning at the stake, or, as happened twice in Georgia in these last two years, the ghastly exhibition of the mutilated dead bodies before lighting the funeral pyre.

Daily papers of the South are beginning to show editorially a growing sympathy toward Federal interference, a sympathy not shared to any noticeable extent by the county weeklies whose local constituencies grapple with the problem of maintaining white supremacy. If the Federal government intervenes in the activities of lynchers, then the burden of stopping lynchings will no longer rest on the South. If two men or officers of the law kill a Negro, that will not be a lynching; but if three or more men and women kill a Negro, that will be a job for the Federal government. The Negro in either case will be very dead. The South can forget the murder but the nation will share the lynching. The pot and the kettle can't call names—a situation greatly desired by Southern editors and their readers.

III

CAN NEWSPAPERS HARMONIZE THEIR EDITORIAL POLICY ON LYNCHING AND THEIR NEWS STORIES ON LYNCHING?

Speech of Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, executive director, Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching, Atlanta, Georgia, at the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association Convention on May 18, 1936.

Lynchings are climactic of type of a violence which is aroused by playing upon fear and hate in human relations. Emotions which precipitate lynchings are identical with those which plunge nations into war. Without hate and fear it would not be possible to stage a lynching or a war.

The surest method to follow in developing hate and fear to the point of violence, whether in precipitating a lynching or a war, is the use of stories of sex crimes committed by the people who are to be killed on the women of the people who are to do the killing. Men and women alike see in outraged womanhood their own mothers or wives or sisters, and they are moved by an invincible force to mete out punishment to the vandals. Something of Arthurian chivalry stirs men's minds; they wear the colors of their own womanhood into a battle for all womanhood.

As it is in war, when true stories of sex violation are lacking, fictitious accounts of imaginary assaults against innocent women by brutish enemies are published, so it is in lynchings. As wars have their roots in economic conditions, greed and avarice, so also have lynchings. "My country right or wrong" furnishes the motive in wars; preservation of white supremacy, in lynchings. In both, a whole people lose for the benefit of the few.

Editors do condemn lynchings. They condemn even particular lynchings. Their handling of such crimes is dignified and logical. On no other subject have editorials and editors risen to greater heights of eloquence in stronger language. But the very nature of the editorial, its dignity and its balanced phrases, restricts its effect on public opinion and its influence on human conduct.

The editorial writer competes in a losing battle with his news stories. He is lost to the public while that public reads on his front page—in language that fairly bristles with expressions calculated to awaken the ever-present fear and hate in the less-privileged members of the white race—a dramatic and inflammatory account of some violation of the white man's code by a "giant Negro." Front page space is not enough. Lest some might fail to see or read the story, streamer headlines, of an inch or more in height, catch the eye of any careless loiterer. Whatever the editor may say after this is like the silent fall of dew after a terrific hail storm.

Mencken Is Quoted

Quite apropos is the statement made by H. L. Mencken last month to the American Publishers Association, as it was reported in Time: "The editorial page . . . has been going downhill steadily for 50 years. It enlists good men, and sometimes brilliant men, and they work hard and faithfully. On even the worst paper, the editorial page . . . shows more careful writing than any other page, and not infrequently it shows wider information and sounder judgment. Yet how many read it and heed it? Write a scathing editorial on any subject you fancy. Print it on your editorial page. You will get a few letters, and a few of your local bores will call up—no more. Then take exactly the same editorial and reprint it next day on your first page . . . and with appropriate headlines. If you get less than ten times as many letters, call me up in Baltimore with the charges reversed, and a case of Maryland rye will be at your disposal."

Because some Southern women are greatly concerned about lynching, we are on the alert to discover some effective method of approach to the public which will build a new public opinion toward this crime. It is my opinion that in the beginning not one of us thought of the press in any light other than an ally. We read editorials. When one is printed condemning lynching or recognizing our disinterested efforts in applying an educational program against lynching, we feel greatly strengthened for the time being. We are not as a whole over-critical of the press. I think we—even those of us who do not know Mr. Kipling's writings so well—are inclined to agree with him when he says:

> Remember the battle and stand aside
> While Thrones and Powers confess
> That King over all the children of pride
> Is the Press, the Press, the Press.

We hasten to express our appreciation for every editor who strengthens our purpose a bit by his unqualified condemnation of lynching. We are grateful for editorial commendation of our courage and nobility in openly working against lynching. Again I repeat: We are grateful. But we are coming to see that editorials are not getting us far along our road. Naturally believing in the power of the press, we are interested in the dynamo which generates the power. Some of us think the front pages and the news columns are the dynamo, and we would like to reach the men who control this power.

Will Irwin Cited

Will Irwin says in his book "Propaganda and the News," page 84: "More than twenty years ago I sat with a group of American publishers, talking shop. Conversation turned to the decline of the editorial as a social and political force. 'My front page is my editorial,' said one of the company. 'The headlines are mine,' said another."

You know what these gentlemen of the press mean. Some of us women who are readers only are learning what they mean.

Possibly one of the most pronounced failures on the part of the press to deal fairly in the news columns is illustrated in the story of a prevented lynching in Conroe, Texas, a small town not far from Houston. Streamer headlines and space were given to the story: "Hunt Negro After Child is Attacked," "Child Assailed as She Returned Home After Taking Sister to School," "Hunt Negro After Girl is Attacked," "Hundreds Seek Conroe Negro in Attack," and subheads: "Girl of About Fourteen Victim of Attack," "Fugitive is Believed in River Bottoms," "Feeling is Intense as Posse Scours Woods," "Girl Sobs Story."

Whatever the nearby metropolitan papers had to say editorially, if anything, was said so vaguely and so generally that their words have been lost to memory in the vivid recollection of the clamor of the front page headlines and space. In addition, this story represents another and equally potent method of propaganda both in war and in lynching. I refer to the suppression of essential facts which if given equally emphasized publicity might crack the hard shell of hate and fear and let in a ray of reason.

This story dropped out of the papers at the end of the second day. No Negro was captured. No "barbecue" was pulled off. Nobody was arrested or held. The story just disappeared without one word of explanation. One paper carried this paragraph which was a clue to the whole story:

> "They (the bloodhounds) weren't getting anywhere—the man didn't seem to be going anywhere. He just kept crossing and recrossing the river. As a result of this the dogs sort of lost interest in the affair and more dogs were phoned for. Well, the second set of dogs got on the job early in the night. They would pick it up and lose it right away and about 10:30 they checked out."

The bloodhounds each time traced the trail back into the body of the white posse. The quality of the paragraph quoted and the nearbyness of the metropolitan press to the town leads one to conclude that either the papers had their own representatives on the field or the re-write man was a knowing fellow with a sense of irony. These papers which carried this story have been for years editorially opposed to lynchings.

We know that men of the press know a very great deal more about people than we do. They know more about the emotions of people than we do. So whatever we learn after several years of study we are safe in concluding that our news is old news to the fourth estate.

Place of Different Stories

When a story is lacking in spectacular features which earn it headlines on the front page, it is found tucked away somewhere on an inside page, no more conspicuous in type or heading than is given to editorials. But suppression of facts feature these stories and to such an extent that the press is unwittingly developing another alibi for lynching. We have discovered this fairly recently in current news stories.

Any intelligent Southern newspaper man knows that when a jury of Southern white men gives a Negro one year in prison or one year on the chaingang for criminal assault or attempted criminal assault upon the person of a white woman or child, there is something which needs to be explained. These short penalties for this revolting crime, given without full publicity as to the facts involved, are proving a doubledistilled poison to Southern life. Men and women, in increasing numbers, point to these short penalties as evidence that the courts of the South are controlled by Communists who believe in social equality and intermarriage. This fear of Communistic control of our courts intensifies racial fear, or the other way about.

That there is propaganda by suppression is illustrated by two such cases of short sentences:

Last fall the papers carried a news story of a Negro who had received one year in prison for attempting to assault a twelve-year-old child, the daughter of a white farmer. This needed study. A prominent woman citizen of the State in which the crime allegedly was committed visited the town. From the white merchants and city officials she learned of the good character of the Negro—his prompt payment of bills, his industry, and his sobriety. She also learned, from the same people, of the questionable character of the white man. After his Negro tenant was sent to prison for one year, the white farmer took all the crops of the Negro, as well as his chickens and hogs, leaving the Negro's wife and children without support. The news story gave the white child's age as twelve. When the Negro was tried, he was tried for attempted assault not on the twelve-year-old daughter but on her eighteen-year-old sister.

This year, the day after a Negro was lynched for alleged criminal assault, another Negro in the same town was given one year on the chaingang for a similar crime. The lynching of the first Negro was justified by the public on the ground that had he not been lynched he would have received a sentence of only one year. The papers have not yet carried the story of the suppressed facts. What force would have been placed in our hands for removing the halo of chivalry around lynchers and building respect for courts had the papers made public the story of the white woman and white man who supported themselves through selling a young white girl to any man with the price, without regard to race or color!

Diversion of the public mind from the savage revenge of the mob by emphasizing the heinousness of the crime committed by the victim of the mob excuses any excess of torture. Men and women see in the outraged victim of a "black brute" their own mothers or sisters, wives or daughters. Anonymous letters, demanding to know "How would you feel if that had been your daughter or sister?," have been received too often for us to overlook the effect these news stories have on the minds of men and women.

Descriptions in Newspapers

In describing the victim of an assault, newspapers use such words as "young, lovely, innocent, devout in her religious life, loving, affectionate; now broken and ruined, a glorious future of proud womanhood destroyed and blasted." Men are stirred. No one with a drop of "red blood" in his veins will stand back! If they hesitate, there are women and girls milling around, demanding that they show themselves as heroes, and not yellow cowards.

This method of propaganda has been used successfully over a long period of years—that all white women of the South are categorically pure and noble and sacred, and all white men of the South are defenders of this purity, nobility, and sacredness against spoilation by a Negro. I was brought up on this theory. As a woman of mature years, I discovered that there were white women like those in the Scottsboro case and the Marianna, Florida, case. Even later have I become acquainted with the type of white men involved in the lynchings at Newton, Texas, and Marianna, Florida, in 1934, and the recent one at Danielsville, Georgia.

Cannibalism of mobs, revolting souvenir collections carried by lynchers, sadistic acts inspired by diseased and poisoned minds—these facts are played down if they are mentioned at all, while justification is given for any extreme measure of cruelty which a maddened mob may devise. "It was terrible," one white woman remarked about the mob at Marianna, Florida, "but nothing that could have been done to the Negro would have been too much."

In Will Irwin's "Propaganda and the News," almost every statement he makes about propaganda and war, the place of the press in creating hate and arousing fighting blood, can be paralleled with similar stories of propaganda and lynching—ways of turning on racial hate and fear and arousing the savage in white men. It seems to me that the Southern press has helped to cultivate the field of public opinion which is now fertile for seeds of communism and fascism. Lynchings are spectacular incidents of the complete destruction of law and the courts while the mass rules. Hatred, the essential ingredient for murder and lawlessness, is never completely dormant. Methods of propaganda—or technique, as sociologists call it—for stirring up this hatred have become so much a part of our method of control that unconsciously, because of familiar outlines, newspapers which now seek to change this in their editorial columns print news stories of lynchings which satisfy the state of the public mind; suppress details that reveal the white man as something less than chivalrous; divert attention from his acts of savagery; emphasize and support the emotions of hate and fear; and in other subtle ways feed the doctrine of group superiority, as an attribute of birth, to those of our race who have failed to achieve individual superiority over their Negro neighbors.

IV

TOWARD LYNCHLESS AMERICA*

By JESSIE DANIEL AMES

An old Hindu proverb says that "the view depends upon the point of view." The point of view in considering lynching and conditions during recent years is of importance. If one sees lynching as an isolated crime unrelated to social conditions, then that person with this point of view undoubtedly considers punishment of the community in which the crime is committed the surest and, possibly, the one way to stop lynching.

On the other hand, if one sees lynching as a symptom of violent social disease which afflicts not the community alone in which the lynching occurs but a whole section of country, then that person considers that the disease must be cured to destroy the symptom. In other words, to those who believe lynchers are criminal devils, inherently wicked and depraved, then punishment, swift, severe, and sure, appeals; to those who believe lynchers are born into a social and economic system which turns them to acts of brutal violence, then change of the system appeals. Indeed, the view depends upon the point of view!

Lynching a Diminishing Crime

If people who lynch are born evil, then there is little point in discussing conditions during recent years. It must be concluded at once that lynchers have died off—they have not been punished for murder—or they have been miraculously regenerated. No one in his right mind will argue seriously that lynch-minded individuals have suddenly resolved overnight to stop lynching. Yet something must be taking place that is changing them. For lynchings have decreased so remarkably—from 3,080 in the decades 1882-1901 to 295 in the decades 1920-1939, and from 231 in 1892, the highest annual record, to 3 in 1939, the lowest—that it is clearly a diminishing crime in the United States. Going back of these figures, however, the observer may conclude that it is also a vanishing crime, for while in 1933 there were twenty-eight lynchings in eleven states, in 1939 there were three lynchings in two states.

Possibly lynchers are beginning to sense the change in public opinion which no longer supports them unreservedly. Maybe they recognize that their acts are not accepted as evidences of chivalry. Then, too, in addition to a changed public opinion which discourages their extralegal methods, their economic conditions are improving. Neither of these factors operates instantly or separately. They become potent gradually over a long period of time. So, in order to understand conditions affecting lynchings in recent years, it is necessary to go back another decade to 1920.

South Takes a Stand

It was in the year 1919-20 that the South decided to do something in earnest about the problems of its biracial society. For ten years slow and apparently ineffective efforts to improve conditions through education were carried on. In that time it seemed as though nothing was evident except talk. To be sure the talking was done as much by Negroes as by white people and, even more important, Negroes were talking to the white people in person. Nor were they careful of the sentiments and emotions of their white brethren. The idea of holding conferences and meetings on an interracial basis gained support among Southern church leaders, men and women, educators and private citizens, until by 1930 thousands of Southern white people had met and talked with Southern Negroes, had sat down together and frankly discussed conditions affecting the lives of Southern people.

*Reprinted by permission of American Council on Public Affairs, Washington, D. C.

About this same time, too, the seeds of a new public opinion were beginning to be sown in Southern colleges. Then it was that these institutions began to liberalize their curricula to include sociology, economics, and political science—subjects with current and local applications. The young people reaching college age twenty years ago were an awakening group of future citizens. The war had made them restless and disobedient to the mores of the pre-war period. In addition, they were the third generation removed from the experiences of Reconstruction and their emotions of sectionalism and race prejudice were not so deep that they were blinded intellectually to the conditions of the present. Race relations, introduced with misgivings in a few of the colleges as a dangerous experiment in education, became popular courses which have spread in the last ten years to more than 75 white Southern colleges. The first students introduced to race relations are today men and women in their middle thirties. They and those who have reached maturity in later years hold opinions on conditions in the South's biracial society which are affecting public opinion on lynching and the causes underlying mob violence. The Southern colleges, reaching into more and more homes of the low, middle, and upper middle classes, are inevitably, if occasionally reluctantly, helping to destroy the old mores of the South.

Woman Suffrage Affects Attitudes

Far-fetched as the statement may appear, the enfranchisement of women in 1920 has contributed its mite to a new public opinion on lynching. The South did not accept suffrage for women; it acquired it in spite of the fight-to-the-last-ditch stand taken by both the Southern press and Southern politicians. That Southern women should have been slow to exercise the ballot as a weapon in the fight to make the world a better place for children was a natural consequence of the oft-repeated and generally accepted statement that no real lady would degrade herself by participating in politics. But younger women, growing to maturity, educated in the increasing numbers of co-educational schools, did not accept the dictum of the man-made society. They and those others who had fought for political freedom were seeking the proper medium for reaching the mass of women. They, being Southern born and bred, turned naturally to the one organization with which they were familiar—the church. They knew that the church was powerful, and they knew, also, that the strong hold of the church on social conditions could best be broken within the church itself. So in the church, the one recognized sanctuary for women's undisturbed activities, Southern women became active in race relations and law observance in their own land while they continued their work to extend the Kingdom of God to foreign lands.

Whatever else may be said about Southern women, it cannot be said that they lack the moral courage to act according to their convictions even though those convictions may run contrary to social custom. Certainly, investigation of lynchings in person was about the most contrary act they could have committed. But they had to have some understanding of lynchers and they had to have it first-hand. When from their own investigations of lynchings, allegedly committed to protect Southern womanhood, they found that they were used as the shield behind which their own men committed cowardly acts of violence against a helpless people, they took the only action they could. They pledged themselves to educate against lynching in the towns where they lived and to publish by word of mouth the facts about women and lynching. It was at this point that woman suffrage made its contribution to the decrease in lynching and the changing of public opinion. For these women spoke as citizens who had the assurance born of the knowledge that they had the power to affect the political lives of local and county politicians whose bread and butter depended upon the will and the wishes of their constituents. The politicians also knew it.

Church Women Change Situation

The influence of church women on the lynching situation is not a conjecture. It is a fact. In 1931 when they launched their campaign against lynching, some Southern editors expressed scorn—"It will be just as easy to stop lynching by resolutiing against it as to prevent war by denouncing it"—or warnings "that they were doing a vain and useless thing." Nine years later, in 1939, not one of the three lynchings committed involved an offense against Southern womanhood—nor were there more than a few small newspapers expressing other than appreciation for the "courageous work" done by the women of the South.

These—interracial meetings, schools, the church and home, the press and Southern women as an organized bloc—are all contributing factors to a changing public opinion in the South toward lynching. To which one is due the most credit depends upon the point of view of the proponents of each. But regardless of credit, lynching is decreasing and disappearing by the initiative and support of Southern white people. Lynchers are no longer held in esteem and they are beginning to feel it.

But the would-be and have-been lynchers are themselves growing less committed to lynching than formerly. For the real conditions which have instigated most lynchings in the past have, themselves, been changing. Poverty, disease, illiteracy, starvation from one generation to the next, until malnutrition could be mistaken as an hereditary disease, have so afflicted the rural white and Negro South that hope of rising out of their desperate conditions was dormant if not dead. "Corn" and white supremacy have been the sole physical and emotional releases in the lives of most of the white rural population; "corn" and subtle aggression, the only physical and emotional releases of the depressed Negroes. Living side by side, under these stimulations, conflict has been inevitable.

Lynching and Price of Cotton

Past history of lynchings disclose that in periods of depression, when the price of cotton is down, this conflict is intensified. Lynchings increase. The landlords want all the cotton, or as one Georgia editor expresses it, "Now has come the season when the tenant farmer who has made the best crop will be run off from his crop." Under these circumstances mob violence eases the emotional pressure of disappointment and despair of the poor whites and scares the Negroes off the land. True to form, the first year of depression—1930—showed an increase of lynchings from ten in the year 1929, the lowest record of any previous year, to 21 the next year. Up to 1936, in fact, the barometer of lynchings moved in inverse ratio to the price of cotton. But in 1936, with the price of cotton still low, lynchings dropped to a new record and, since that year, lynchings have continued to decrease, each year setting a new low record.

The New Deal and Lynching

What happened that changed the course of lynching history? Nothing but hope, the most potent of forces in human existence, hope of better things in the lives of those who lynch and are lynched—the forgotten members of the American people. And here it is that the Federal Government enters the campaign against lynching, not with a flashing sword of vengeance but with promise of a better day for the rural farm laborers of the South. Work relief from the Federal and State Governments put these people to work and reduced idleness and boredom and, equally as important, gave them a little cash money to spend with white merchants. The much-vaunted American pride did not deter them from accepting charity from tax money.

They were working for the government for money and they did not have to work for just anyone for a pitiful roof and a pellagra-inducing diet. The Farm Security Administration offered them a chance to own something of their own for the price of the labor they had been doing for practically nothing in the past. Their children could go to school like other children. The Federal Government, in its entire agricultural program of work, home ownership, proper diet, and health clinics, entered the field against lynching.

White people still feel their racial supremacy as a sacred and inherent trust, but they are beginning to occupy their minds with the more pressing and important problem of living and earning and spending rather than with that of finding a Negro to lynch to prove their supremacy. Negroes long at the bottom of the pile, are beginning to dig themselves out from under, and standing erect; no longer are they moved by the desire to arouse the equally helpless white man to dangerous acts. The Federal Government has not finished its work in the field of preventing lynchings, but it has made a good beginning, as is indicated by the fact that in 1939 not one of the three lynchings was committed in strictly rural communities.

Public opinion against lynching and the Federal Government in its socio-economic program are beginning to convince the South that Booker Washington was a sage of the greatest wisdom when he warned the South that "You cannot hold another down in the ditch without staying in the ditch with him."

V

LADIES AND LYNCHINGS*

By LEWIS T. NORDYKE

The remarkable story of the campaign against lynching which is being carried forward by forty thousand southern women, backed by two million members of social, civic and religious groups. A Texas journalist reports on the promise of better human relations which distinguishes this quiet but determined movement for "self-reconstruction."

Mob violence, masquerading as the champion of southern womanhood, is petering out below the Mason and Dixon Line. And the weaker sex is largely responsible. Nine years ago a small group of thinking women who had long realized that there was more bloodthirst than knight-errantry in howling mobs, organized the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching. Today, backed by women's social, civic and religious groups that have more than two million members in the southern states, the women are massed in one of the most effective social programs ever attempted in the United States and certainly one of the most vital and constructive movements in the South—that of preventing white men from lynching Negroes for any cause whatsoever.

The word "southern" in the association's name is significant, for the program is a native one, conceived, developed and expanded into a South-wide movement by southern-born women. In a strict sense, the movement is part of the final work of reconstruction, the righting of wrongs growing out of slavery and the Civil War.

The accomplishments of these southern women are not widely known, even in the South. The women have worked quietly—very quietly in comparison with the notoriety of lynching mobs bent on murder. Through personal effort, pressure on state officials and peace officers, and with the help of church, social and other organizations, they have greatly affected the South's whole approach to the problem of race relations.

Demolishing the Myth of Mob Chivalry

Statistics tell part of the dramatic story of the patient anti-lynching campaign. In the eight years previous to the founding of the women's association, there were 211 lynchings in the nation. In 1930, the year the association was founded, there were twenty-one lynchings in the South. Records of Tuskegee Institute show that in the first eight years the women were organized there were 105 lynchings, only half as many as in the previous eight years. There were thirteen lynchings in 1931, eight in 1932, twenty-eight in 1933, fourteen in 1934, twenty in 1935, eight in each of 1936 and 1937 and six in 1938, the lowest year on record.

Moreover, the records show that in forty instances sheriffs and police officers, many of them committed in writing to the women's program, prevented lynchings in 1938—saving three white men, forty-nine Negro men and a Negro woman from mobs. In each of these officially recorded cases, the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching was on the job, not up front in a dramatic, headline way, but quietly functioning where action counted.

To outsiders the most surprising thing about the anti-lynching drive is that southern women are responsible for it. The remark of one northerner who heard for the first time of the association's program was, "Why, that is peculiar. Isn't the primary purpose of lynching to protect white women?" To this question thousands of southern women have answered for nearly ten years with an emphatic, "NO."

The first thing the association's organizers set out to do was to destroy the fiction that men lynch in women's names. Here is the organization's declaration and personal pledge:

---

*Reprinted from Survey Graphic, November, 1939, for Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching, 710 Standard Building, Atlanta, Georgia.

"We declare lynching is an indefensible crime, destructive of all principles of government, hateful, and hostile to every ideal of religion and humanity, debasing, and degrading to every person involved. Though lynchings are not confined to any one section of the United States, we are aroused by the record which discloses our heavy responsibility for the presence of this crime in our country. We believe that this record has been achieved because public opinion has accepted too easily the claim of lynchers and mobsters that they were acting solely in the defense of womanhood. In the light of facts, we dare not longer permit this claim to pass unchallenged nor allow those bent upon personal revenge and savagery to commit acts of violence and lawlessness in the name of women. We solemnly pledge ourselves to create a new public opinion in the South, which will not condone, for any reason whatever, acts of mobs or lynchers. We shall teach our children at home, at school and at church a new interpretation of law and religion; we will assist all officials to uphold their oath of office; and, finally, we will join with every minister, editor, school teacher and patriotic citizen in a program of education to eradicate lynching and mobs forever from our land."

That pledge is not an idle one. Nearly 40,000 of the leading white women of the South have signed it and have fought for the principles involved, including the statement that men do not lynch in the South to protect the flower of southern womanhood.

When, on November 1, 1930, two dozen southern-born women met in Atlanta, some amazing facts about lynchings were placed on the council table. Guarding against possible consequences of acting in haste on what might be a half-baked idea, the small group had made an exhaustive survey of lynching. Here are some things they learned:

Since 1886, a total of 4297 persons had been lynched in the United States, most of them in the South—but only 21 per cent of the victims had been lynched for crimes against white women.

Women had been present at all lynchings of recent years and in a number of cases had participated. Some of the women were mothers with young children who, on several occasions, were actually balanced precariously on parents' shoulders so as to have a better view. Young boys and girls were contributing their numbers to the mobs, both as spectators and as leaders.

From 1922 to that autumn of 1930, there had been 211 lynchings, 204 of them in the South. But only 29 per cent of the victims had been accused of crimes against white women.

Then came the questions that electrified the conference: What did the other 71 per cent of the victims do to provoke the murderous wrath of mobs? Why do white men lynch Negroes? In a tense moment, the women saw what had been traditionally known as southern chivalry stripped down to sadistic barbarism. In the economic, social and racial significance of the problem lay the real challenge.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames of Atlanta, today executive director of the association, an even dozen of that pioneer group pledged themselves to do all within their power to prevent lynchings and to change public opinion to abhor instead of countenance mob murder. The women decided they had two jobs. First to carry on an educational program between outbursts of violence; second, to act quickly when a mob formed, or when there was a threat of a mob. The first they considered of greater importance, and they wrote into their minutes:

"The time to prevent lynchings is before the mob forms. Investigations have disclosed that no county in the South is free from the shadow of a possible lynching. Because the county is the important unit of government, intensive activities are planned to be carried out by women in each county seat before a mob ever threatens."

And this the women set out to do. Each of the dozen original members was prominent in church work and each knew that in the South church women are beyond any doubt the dominating force. So to the church organizations the women went for assistance. The response was great. Hundreds of southern women offered their aid. Prominent women like Mrs. Attwood Martin of Louisville, who is well known as a novelist under the name of George Madden Martin, joined actively in the work and placed their influence behind the program.

Then the women started work—talking, writing letters, distributing printed circulars, interviewing officers and state officials, addressing organization meetings—with the ambitious goal of interesting every organization of men and women in every county in the South in the campaign against lynching.

There was ridicule. There were threats. Organizations which had made the terrorizing of Negroes their chief business since the Civil War opposed the women, inspired sinister warnings or sent them under their own official letterheads. In no few communities the women were ordered not to speak. In other communities officials demanded that talks be written and censored locally before the women might speak.

"Many of the women were threatened," Mrs. Ames said. "I know women who wouldn't tell their husbands of the threats because they feared their families would insist that the women quit the work. Women went into communities in which there had been lynchings. Many of the people were surly, belligerent. When we take into consideration the fact that some of the lynchings had grown out of politics and crooked business deals, we can understand that the women were by no means safe at all times. They knew of the constant danger, and they didn't forget to pray."

The Momentum of Education

By good chance the women struck at an opportune moment. For years some of the leading newspapers of the South had fought mob murder. Such editors as Grover Hall of the Montgomery Advertiser, Mark Ethridge of the Louisville Courier-Journal, Virginius Dabney of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and many others had made a strong fight against lynching.

State officials, particularly the governors, in several states had taken a reasonably firm stand against lynching and held sheriffs responsible for lynchings in their counties. In the cities of the South other individuals and organizations, such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, had long been waging anti-lynching campaigns. There was a growing awareness of the social and economic implications of the spirit created by lynching. "Outside" criticism had begun to offend the sensibilities of southern people and make them more self-conscious about charges that lynching was the act of barbarians. In short, public opinion was not unprepared to accept the surprise move made by the southern white women. And, from the start, the women gave thankful credit and offered their full cooperation in all anti-lynching movements, except the drive for a federal anti-lynching bill, which because of the women's program of applying pressure to southern sheriffs, they neither favored nor opposed.

Perhaps the most important part of their work—the part that shocked a large section of the public into a changing view of the lynching problem—was that of gathering and publicizing facts about lynchings. The records in Mrs. Ames' office in Atlanta show that in more than one instance innocent Negroes were lynched on non-existent grounds at the instigation of white men who coveted the crops the Negroes had cultivated.

Here are some of the officially recorded facts the women publicized in newspapers and in printed circulars:

Nine of the 84 mob victims in the 1931-35 period were not accused of any crime and 25 others were accused of minor offenses.

Near Moultrie, Ga., Bo Brinson, an unaccused Negro, was killed at his home by a mob looking for John Henry Sloan, who had killed a white man.

In Baker County, Ga., a Negro killed a white bootlegger at a Negro dance. When the "right man" couldn't be found, two unaccused Negroes were lynched as an object lesson.

In Cheatham County, Tennessee, a Negro was lynched for slapping a white woman who was drinking beer in a Negro store.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., a helpless Negro paralytic was lynched on the charge of attempted rape.

In Greenville County, S. C., a Negro was shot to death in his home at midnight by a masked mob after he had repeatedly asked for a settlement for his crop.

Revelation of such facts, Mrs. Ames said, aided the Association in battering down opposition and winning popular public approval; and this, of course, represented a decided change in public opinion. As a result, the ranks of the women crusaders increased by thousands.

Mrs. Mullino Prevents a Lynching

How do some 40,000 crusading southern women work? On Christmas Day, 1934, Mrs. Ames was preparing for holiday festivities. Her telephone rang. An Associated Press editor informed her that a Negro had killed an officer in Schley County, Georgia, and that a mob was forming. Mrs. Ames rushed to the office. She discovered that the Association had no signatures in Schley County. But in adjoining Macon County lived a member of the Georgia Council of the Association, Mrs. F. M. Mullino of Montezuma. Mrs. Ames telephoned Mrs. Mullino, who stopped preparation of her Christmas dinner and started telephoning everyone she knew in Schley County, urging each to bring pressure on the sheriff to prevent a lynching.

A short time later, Mrs. Mullino was informed that the Negro was in a swamp in her own county. She called the sheriff and his deputies, and a number of ministers and other public-spirited citizens, urging them to aid in preventing mob action. Until mid-afternoon she stayed at her telephone. Finally the Negro was captured—by officers. That Christmas Day was not blackened by a lynching in Georgia. The law took its course. Had Mrs. Mullino gone to the mob and pleaded for restraint she would have been taunted. She knew that. She knew, too, that a sheriff, even though disposed to carelessness in such cases, couldn't afford to take any chances after dozens of influential voters had demanded that every possible precaution be taken to insure a constitutional trial for the accused Negro.

That is only one of dozens of examples of the women's quick work. Early in their campaign they realized that the sheriff was the key man. It was up to him to handle any mob forming in his county. The women approached practically every southern sheriff, asked each to sign a pledge to do all within his power to prevent lynchings. Some of the sheriffs shrugged off the matter as "just another one of them things." But the women did not stop there. They went about their work of obtaining the signatures of influential persons, of talking anti-lynching in schools, churches and at public meetings, of distributing circulars giving facts on lynchings and asking the public to help prevent mob law.

Southern women know local politics. No strange woman from the central state office called on a sheriff in the counties of the fifteen states. Nothing like that. A woman voter living in each sheriff's own county went to him about the lynching matters, and that is about as firm political pressure as can be applied. Each time there was a crime, or an accusation which might lead to a lynching, the women went into swift action. The sheriff started getting calls from influential voters and visits from prominent men and women who demanded that he protect the Negro, take him to an unnamed jail if necessary. Some of these calls came from governors who had been informed by Association members of possible attempted violence. In some southern states a governor can remove a sheriff who loses a prisoner to a mob. In certain instances southern governors have called out the militia to protect accused Negroes.

A Basic Approach to Race Relations

At the end of 1937 the southern women issued a startling statement entitled, "Where Were the Peace Officers?" It declared: "All eight victims of lynchings in 1937 were in the hands of peace officers. In seven of the lynchings, investigations indicate, officers were either in the mob or were in collusion with the mob."

Here is a typical message sent all persons who have committed themselves to the anti-lynching program. "Do you know your sheriff? Have you talked with your sheriff? If it is an election year, have you talked with the candidates for sheriff? Have you asked each candidate what he will do to prevent lynchings if elected? The voters will decide for or against lynchings this year."

The results have been extraordinary. To date 1229 southern peace officers in fifteen states have written their signatures to pledges to educate against lynching and to prevent mob action.

Many sheriffs have volunteered their pledges. In asking the sheriffs to sign pledges the women do not intend to intimate they think the sheriffs would countenance lynchings. All they want is cooperation, and most peace officers are giving it. A recent issue of the Texas Sheriffs Association's monthly magazine bitterly attacked lynching as murder and urged Texas sheriffs—there are 254 of them—firmly to aid in stamping out all such outrages.

The women have not limited their pressure to sheriffs. They have used the same methods on governors, legislators and other state officials. In Kentucky, 2000 women demanded repeal of the "gallows festival" law, which provided public hangings for men convicted on charges of rape. The law was repealed. The law, which made the crime of rape punishable by hanging in the county where the offense was committed, had been intended to quench the lynching spirit by demonstrating publicly that the law had taken its course, but the practice became distorted and was marked by many shockingly shameful celebrations, at which, as one southern newspaper pointed out, morbid appetite grew by what it fed on.

The women's work has included some activities more strenuous than signing petitions and applying pressure. They have faced howling mobs bent on lynching Negroes. Their pleadings were seldom heeded or even heard, but the women did all they could. Another dangerous job has been that of visiting the scenes of lynchings and collecting the real facts.

In cases—particularly those actually involving crimes against white women—in which the Association has stepped into the scene, members have been taunted with:

"What if it were your daughter? What if it were you?"

To these jeering questions the women can reply with facts from the records. In 1936, the seven-year-old daughter of an Alabama woman, who was committed to the program, was attacked by a Negro. The mother, clinging tenaciously to her ideals and principles at a time when it would have been understandable had she succumbed to a profoundly human desire for revenge, prevented mob violence by her appeal that the law take its course.

Two aged sisters, who had only read of the southern women's program, pleaded with a posse of men in a Texas village in 1938 not to attempt to lynch a Negro who had attacked them. The sisters made their plea from beds in which their injuries confined them.

The Association has its central council in Atlanta with Mrs. Attwood Martin as chairman and Mrs. Ames as director. There are thirteen council members at large, and each of the fifteen states has an independent council. The women work without pay and have planned their organization so shrewdly that it has none of the drawbacks common in ordinary guilds. They have carefully avoided strict rules of organization. "Much of the ineffectiveness of reform movements," said Mrs. Ames, "arises from the determination of the leaders to set up an organization into which are gathered only like-minded people, thereby cutting them off from making converts." And they have carefully avoided the mistake of getting too far ahead of public opinion. "Knowing at the start," said Mrs. Martin, "that if we went too fast, moved ahead of public opinion in a particular locality, it would be the Negro population that would suffer, we have refrained from overzeal until sure of our support."

And all along, every day of the year, the quiet educational program in which thousands of women have relayed the Association's message to high schools and colleges, Sunday schools and churches, social, religious and patriotic clubs has been carried forward. Even the drama has been used in this earnest educational campaign. The Association sponsored a one-act play contest, in which the subject was limited to anti-lynching. "Country Sunday" by Walter Spearman, teacher of journalism in the University of North Carolina, and "Lawd, Does Yo' Undahstan'?" by Ann Seymour, teacher in the schools of Palestine, Tex., were the winners. The plays were widely produced by Little Theater groups, and Miss Seymour's play was included in "Representative One-Act American Plays of 1938," which had a circulation of more than 20,000. The women have not been able to estimate the number of persons the message of the plays reached, nor do they have any idea how many thousands their constant flow of printed circulars on lynching and its prevention have affected.

The central office now sends out more than 10,000 pieces of literature upon direct request each year. Requests for information on the work have come from India, China, Africa, England, and the Philippines.

In order to accelerate the work, the Association has requested Mrs. Ames to develop a study book of methods on the education of the public against lynching and its prevention. All the methods the women have found in ten years to be successful—ways of carrying on the educational program when there is no mob to combat, and action necessary when there is danger of a mob—will be included in the handbook. In addition there will be factual discussions of the racial problem in the South. With this book in the hands of thousands of women, each worker will benefit by the Association's past experience in combating lynching. And the goal of the women is 100,000 signatures and pledges of cooperation from every sheriff in the South.

It is the hope, the prayer, the intention of these thousands of southern women that not far in the future they will look at the first page of their morning newspaper and see an item something like this:

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., Dec. 31—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute reported today that for the first time since the Civil War no lynchings occurred during a year in the United States.

VI

THE "WHITE PRIMARY"

An Extra-legal Institution

"White primaries" are not created specifically but are under State laws authorizing party primaries.

These laws empower political parties to prescribe other qualifications for voters in party primaries in addition to those prescribed by law for general elections.

State Executive Committees of the Democratic Party of the South have ruled consistently that participation in Democratic Party primaries be limited to qualified "white voters."

This rule is adopted anew each election year by State Democratic Executive Committees prior to the dates set for holding primaries.

The Primary and the Supreme Court

Up to May, 1941, the Supreme Court of the United States had held that a primary was a system for the nomination of candidates for office and, not being an election, was not subject to regulation by the Federal Government.

In May, 1941, the Supreme Court of the United States appears to reverse its previous decisions:

> . . . a primary election which involves a necessary step in the choice of candidates for election as representatives in Congress, . . . is subject to congressional regulation as to the manner of holding it . . . the right to participate through the primary in the choice of representatives in Congress . . . is the same . . . as the right to vote at the general election.

The "White Primary" is not an issue in the decision of the Supreme Court given in the preceding paragraph, but it may constitute a precedent which could be used in the suit on the "White Primary" which is on its way to the Supreme Court from Texas.

In February, 1941, the Executive Committee of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching decided to study "the effects of disfranchisement of Negroes on the personality and attitudes of white people."

* * * *

In November, 1941, the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church approved the recommendation of its Committee on Christian Citizenship in the Division of Christian Social Relations to work to "remove all barriers to the use of the franchise such as . . . the white primary."

ASSOCIATION OF SOUTHERN WOMEN FOR THE PREVENTION OF LYNCHING

710 Standard Building

Atlanta, Georgia

Printed January, 1942

THE "WHITE PRIMARY"

AN ANACHRONISM IN THE YEAR 1942

December 8, 1941, the United States declared war on Japan. In the same week war was declared on Germany and Italy.

In that week the United States became the ally of all nations and races fighting for the principles of democracy as opposed to the principles of totalitarianism.

The United States became the ally of every nation and every race at war which we call "colored," as well as the ally of the British Empire and the Soviet Government of Russia.

The United States believes the nations of the Western Hemisphere must stand together against a common foe.

The citizens and governments of some of these nations of the Western Hemisphere are "colored."

★ ★ ★

For the dominant political party in a third of the United States to rule that in 1942 only qualified "white voters" shall be allowed to participate in the selection of the officials of our democratic government would be an anachronism too dangerous to democratic principles and Christian ideals to be preserved for the sake of old days and old ways.

Georgia Farmers'
Market Bulletin
Tom Linder Commissioner

Miss. Anna Holden
1440 No. Emory Rd. NE
Atlanta, 6, Ga

VOLUME 38 WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1953 NUMBER 81

FOREIGN TRADE AND FARM PROBLEMS

Editorial By TOM LINDER

News items coming out of Washington tell us that Secretary of Agriculture Benson proposes to put a stop to imports of many agricultural products into this country.

It is high time that someone begin to be interested in the welfare of the United States. Too long our national policy has been to take care of the balance of the world figure of our imports of meat and meat animals over our exports would be the equivalent of at least two million head of ordinary beef cattle.

In addition to these imports into the United States, there is no telling the amount of meat the taxpayers of this country have purchased from Argentina and other countries for our armed forces and allies over-seas.

DAIRY PRODUCTS, 1951

During 1951 we imported dairy times the farm income approximately. This can of course be affected to some extent by war and by government spending, but even with that the ratio remains relatively the same. Falling farm prices means within twelve months a falling off in business; a falling off of employment; falling off of governmental revenues. Falling farm prices means high interest rates. You will note even now that the government is raising interest rates on government bonds because it is becoming increasingly difficult to find buyers for those bonds. Any deliberate forcing down of farm prices is like knocking the

Editorial By TOM LINDER

News items coming out of Washington tell us that Secretary of Agriculture Benson proposes to put a stop to imports of many agricultural products into this country.

It is high time that someone begin to be interested in the welfare of the United States. Too long our national policy has been to take care of the balance of the world

The American public had been made to believe that the American farmer was producing surpluses of crops and that he was receiving large benefits of taxpayers' money from the Federal Government. Let's see what some of the facts are.

1950 and 1951

During the calendar years of 1950 and 1951 the United States exported agricultural products amounting to $6,913,000,000. During the same two years we imported agricultural products in the amount of $9,151,000,000.

Our imports exceeded our exports by $2,238,000,000.

It must be remembered, however, that much of our exports consisted of processed and manufactured agricultural products, while most of our imports consisted of raw products. For this reason the volume of our imports in pounds, bushels, bales, boxes, etc must have been five to six times as much as our exports amounted to in pounds, bushels, bales, boxes, etc.

MEAT AND MEAT ANIMALS

During the years 1950 and 1951 and eleven months of 1952 we exported 397,752,000 pounds of meat. During the same period we imported 960,779,000 pounds of meat. This showed that we actually imported 563,027,000 pounds more than we exported. These figures, however, do not include the hundreds of thousands of meat animals brought in from Mexico and Canada. I do not have before me the actual figures on imports of beef animals, but I do remember that when the Mexican border was opened last year the initial quota was something more than 500,000 head of beef cattle. I would say that a minimum figure of our imports of meat and meat animals over our exports would be the equivalent of at least two million head of ordinary beef cattle.

In addition to these imports into the United States, there is no telling the amount of meat the taxpayers of this country have purchased from Argentina and other countries for our armed forces and allies over-seas.

DAIRY PRODUCTS, 1951

During 1951 we imported dairy products consisting of cream, whole milk, buttermilk, condensed and evaporated milk, powdered milk, powdered buttermilk, and powdered cream in the amount of $24,554,439.52. These dairy products came from Canada, The Netherlands, Union of South Africa, The United Kingdom, Denmark, Switzerland, Australia, New Zealand, Sweden, Turkey, Norway, Lebanon, Belgium, France, Germany, Austria, Finland, Italy, Mexico, Dominican Republic, Ireland, Malta, Argentina, Portugal, Hungary, Uruguay, Cuba, The Azores, and Greece. The heaviest shipments came from Italy, Switzerland, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Denmark, Canada, Argentina and France in the order named.

Taking into consideration the low prices prevailing in the countries from which these products came, these imports alone would amount to as much in volume as all of the butter, cheese and powdered milk now held by the Commodity Credit Corporation in Washington. No wonder Mr. Benson has a headache.

FALLING FARM PRICES

For several months now you have been reading in the newspapers and hearing on the radio of the steady decline in farm prices in the United States. Most everyone knows that farm prices and farm production are the basis of our national economy.

When we import foreign products it is not merely a question of the American farmer losing the job of producing these products, neither is it merely a question of prices the consuming public pays at the market place. The results of these imports are much more far reaching than any of these things. The total national income is total wages total salaries, total profits — total income from all sources. The national income is seven times the farm income approximately. This can of course be affected to some extent by war and by government spending, but even with that the ratio remains relatively the same. Falling farm prices means within twelve months a falling off in business; a falling off of employment; falling off of governmental revenues. Falling farm prices means high interest rates. You will note even now that the government is raising interest rates on government bonds because it is becoming increasingly difficult to find buyers for those bonds. Any deliberate forcing down of farm prices is like knocking the pillars from under the house. When you remove the pillars, the house falls of its own weight.

INTERNATIONALIST AND COMMUNIST ARE EQUAL THREATS TO THIS COUNTRY

Every communist is an internationalist, and every internationalist can answer for himself.

Individual or corporation, or even the government itself, when engaged in unnecessary foreign trade is pulling down the house which we call America.

Some place the internationalist and the free traders have to be stopped if America is to survive.

FIVE DAYS AGAINST EIGHTY-THREE YEARS

From the beginning of this Republic in 1789 through the year 1871 the United States grew from thirteen ragged colonies into a great nation. During those years we purchased and paid for all the land from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean, including the Louisiana Purchase. We purchased and paid for Florida. We purchased and paid for Alaska We fought the War of 1812 with Great Britain. We fought the Mexican War. We fought the great conflict between the States from 1861 to 1865. We built great cities and railroads. Yet during the entire eighty-three year period we are told the total amount of taxes going into the United States Treasury amounted to $5,418,000,000

During five days last month the Federal Government received taxes amounting to $5,583,000,000, or 165 mil-

(Continued on page Four)

GEORGIA MARKET BULLETIN

Address all items for publication and requests to be put on the mailing list and for change of address to STATE BUREAU OF MARKETS, 222 STATE CAPITOL, Atlanta.

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1953

Notices of farm produce and appurtenances admissible under postage regulations inserted one time on each request and repeated only when request is accompanied by new copy of notice.

Under Legislative Act the Georgia Market Bulletin does not assume any responsibility for any notice appearing in the Limited space will not permit insertion of notices containing more than 35-40 words, not including name and address. Bulletin, nor for any transaction resulting from published notices.

Tom Linder, Commissioner
Published Weekly at
114-122 Pace St., Covington, Ga.
By Department of Agriculture
Notify on FORM 3578--Bureau of Markets, 222 State Capitol — Atlanta, Ga.

Entered as second class matter August 1, 1937 at the Post Office at Covington, Georgia under Act of June 6, 1900. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103 Act of October 8, 1917.

Executive Office State Capitol
Editorial and Executive Offices
State Capitol, Atlanta, Ga.
Publication Office
114-122 Pace St. Covington, Ga

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Oliver Grain Master Combine No. 15, with continental water cool motor, on rubber, 2 rubber sheets, 6 ft. blade, good cond., no junk, cut 2 light crops. Write, or phone 140 nights 8:00 o'clock. E. L. Davis, Butler, P. O. Box 258.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Bolen - Huski 3 hp Garden Tractor with turn plow, cultivator, single plow, cutting harrow, sickle bar, 42 in mower, $225. Henry Carney, Jasper, (off Refuge Rd.)

David Bradley Garden Tractor with plow and other fix-

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

John Deere 12 A Combine, good running cond., priced right for immediate sale. A. G. Ellis, Alpharetta, Rt. 2, Box 266. Phone 2293.

One used J. D. No. 12-A Combine, bag type, used less than 50 hrs., and 1 new John D. 12-A Combine, bag type, with motor. Priced to sell. J. O. Bass, Eastman, RFD 1.

Complete Peach Harvesting Equipment, packing shed machinery, consisting of brushing machine, roller grader, sizer, Friend Spray Machine, and all necessary equipment, for sale or trade. Hamilton Ralls, Hogansville.

Used Intl. Combine, Motor powered, good cond., ready for service, reasonable. Mrs. Major F. Fowler, Fayetteville. (Nights call Ve. 8323 Atlanta, or days, Fayetteville 4551).

-1947 Farmall A Tractor, good motor, tires, fully equipped, planters, corn, beans, cotton, cultivators(used 1 time), 2 disc IHC trailer plow on 6 ply tire, priced right. See at farm. W. A. Maddox, Sr., Winder, Rt. 4.

One Farmall A 48 Model Tractor, 1st. class cond., lights, starter, good rubber, cultivating equip., 2 disc Hester plow, $700. at my farm. Alvin Harrison, Dearing.

Int. H Tractor, good cond., with 2 disc plow, dbl. sec. disc harrow, bush and bog harrow, mowing machine, planter, guano, cultivators, for sale or trade for smaller tractor with no cultivation equipment. G. H. Davis, Rome, Rt. 2, Bell's Ferry Rd.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY WANTED

Want 5 or 6 hand Cotton Chopping hoes, good shape,

PLANTS FOR SALE

Genuine Marglobe and Rutger Tomato Plants, moss packed, good count, $2. M del.; Government insp. and treated Red Skin P. R. Potato, seed grown from vine cuttings, $4. M del.; 2 M up, $3.75 M. L. D. Lightsey, Screven, Rt. 2.

Coastal Bermuda Stolons, 85c M. Aproved by P. M. A. Digging daily. None shipped. C. C. Brand, Montezuma, Rt. 1. Phone 4934.

Rutger Tomato, certified, tested, mossed, 50c C; $2. M. FOB. Good county. Can ship large orders. Dewey Thornton, Screven, Rt. 1.

Rutger Tomato, certified, tested moss packed, 50c C; $2. M. FOB. Good count. Can ship large orders. Frank Chancy, Screven, Rt. 1.

Long Wide Leaf Bull Face Tobacco Plants, 75c C; Sage and Catnip, $1. doz.; Mastodon Ever bearing Strawberry, $1. C; Little Rice Pea Seed, 35c cup; Pumpkin, 40c cup; Gourd Seed, 35c pack; Imp. Spanish Peanuts, $5. Bu. L. J. Ellis, Cumming, Rt. 5.

Early Jersey, Chas. Wakefield Frostproof Cabbage, ready 300, $1.; $2. M;Rutger Tomato, 500, $2.; $2.50 M; 50c C. Del. Otis Conner, Pitts.

Chas. Wakefield, Early Jersey Wakefield, and Golden Acre Cabbage, fresh, green, and White Bermuda Onion Plants, 300, $1.; 500, $1.25; $2. M; Rutger Tomato, $2.50 M; 50c C. PP. Prompt. R. Chanclor, Pitts. $7. M; 5000, $30.; Red Skin P.

Certified Bunch P. R. Potato, R. Potato, running vine var., $3.50 M; 5000, $15. PP. E. H. Hall, Arabi, Rt. 1.

Certified Coastal Bermuda Stolons, $1.75 per bag; 75 cu. ft. by truckload at my farm. Blue tag with each purchase. Don C. Nail, Baxley, Rt. 3.

Tifton Coastal Bermuda

PLANTS FOR SALE

Certified Govt. Insp. Treated Bunch P. R. Potato, $1.25 C; 500, $4.; $7. M. PP. in Ga. Moss packed. Late April, May, June del. R. M. Fussell, Milan.

Early Flat Dutch, Charleston, Jersey Wakefield Cabbage, 300, $1.; 500, $1.25; $2. M. Del. No chks. C. W. Smith, Gainesville, Rt. 2.

Condon, Giant Mastodon Strawberry, $1. C; Black Raspberry, May Cherry, Muscadine Grape Vines, 6, $1. Add postage. Mrs. Mae Turner, Gainesville, Rt. 6.

Hazlenut Bushes, 75c doz.; Yellow Root Plants, 2 doz., $1.; Mtn. Huckleberry, bearing size, 85c doz.; Yellow Roots, washed, clean, $1. per 4 lb. large Box full. Add postage. Mrs. Nancy Henderson, Ellijay, Rt. 3, Box 49.

Ga. insp. and treated Cooperskin P. R. and Red Skin PR Potato Plants, $5. M. Del. Good plants. Prompt shipment. Ready April 15th. Carroll Lightsey, Screven.

Govt. insp. and treated Copperskin and Red Skin P. R. Plants, $5. M. Prompt shipment. Ready April 15. L. C. Lightsey, Screven, Rt. 1.

Rutger and Marglobe Tomato, field grown, small or large, moss packed, prompt shipment, 200, 75c; $2. M; Long Hot Cayenne, and Calif. Wonder Pepper, 200, $1.; $4. M. J. M. Mullis, Broxton, Rt. 2.

Rutger and Marglobe Tomato 200, 75c; 500, $1.25; $2. M; Calif. Wonder, and Long Slim Hot Pepper, 200, $1.; 500, $2.; $3. M. Ready. Del promptly. Moss packed. J. P. Mullis, Broxton, Rt. 2.

Hazlenut bushes, 75c doz.; Mtn. Huckleberry plants, bearing size, 85c doz.; Yellow root, 65c doz.; Plum bushes, 5 for $1.; Vinca, $1. C. Add postage. Mrs. Howard Easley, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

provided for in Section 1103 Act of October 8, 1917.

Executive Office State Capitol
Editorial and Executive Offices
State Capitol, Atlanta, Ga.
Publication Office
114-122 Pace St. Covington, Ga

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Oliver Grain Master Combine No. 15, with continental water cool motor, on rubber, 2 rubber sheets, 6 ft. blade, good cond., no junk, cut 2 light crops. Write, or phone 140 nights 8:00 o'clock. E. L. Davis, Butler, P. O. Box 258.

One 1951 Allis- Chalmers Combine with pickup attachments, used 1 - 1/2 season, $850. J. D. Tiller, 7 or 9 disc, $250. Both good cond. J. M. Harrison, Oconnee, Wideacres Farm.

1953 Ford Tractor used lesh 50 hrs, also 2 disc tiller, planters, cultivators. W. B. Workman, Atlanta, 346 Kenzie Court. Ch. 1850.

14 in. Roller Cane Mill, in iron frame at bargain price, at my home. J. P. Rentz, Adel, East 4 St.

12 Disc Cutaway Harrow and Black Mare 1200-1400 lbs., gentle, for sale. Lewis Reese, Sharon.

One 5 Deck Elec. Brooder, $20. W. G. Waggoner, Marietta, 1138 North Aircraft Dr. Tel. 9-5475.

Garden Tractor with attachments, for sale or exch. for Ford Tractor. Stanley Christian, Atlanta, 2309 Boulevard Dr., S. E. De. 5753.

Good 2 Disc Trailer Plow for Farmall Super A Tractor. Homer H. Aikens, Blairsville, Rt. 1.

J. D. Side Delivery Rake, rubber on rear wheels, good cond., new paint, $125. B. F. Smith, Colbert.

J. D. Tractor for sale or trade for equal value. Jess Jackson, Douglasville, Rt. 1.

Intl. H & M Cultivator and Planter (2 row), Ford Tractor 7 ft. Mower, tractor mounted, for sale. G. F. Sparling, Leesburg, Box 116. Phone 4201.

Allis - Chalmers G Tractor with mould board plow and cultivator, 1 horse drawn harrow, entire lot -495. John B. Rawls, College Park, Rt. 2. Ca. 4183.

One Allis - Chalmers with planters and cultivators, good as new $800., One 6ft. Combine with motor in good cond., $7000. A. T. Stewart, White Plains.

Farmall M Tractor, has recently had complete overhaul and new paint, $1200. Lloyd C. Caswell, Americus.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Bolen - Huski 3 hp Garden Tractor with turn plow, cultivator, single plow, cutting harrow, sickle bar, 42 in mower, $225. Henry Carney, Jasper, (off Refuge Rd.)

David Bradley Garden Tractor with plow and other fixtures, $100. Anna Shaffer, Augusta, Rt. 2, Box 481.

Farmall H. Tractor, startter, lights, power take-off and pulley, good tires, has lift, like new, also cultivator, $895. FOB. Ross Maddox, Winder, Rt. 4.

One 42 Intl. Combine in good cond. except it needs new aprons cond. except it needs new aprons, $300., FOB. farm Alex Barfield, Louisville.

WC Allis - Chalmers Tractor with cultivators, planters, 2 disc plow. Also 1 A Farmall Tractor and 2 disc plow, priced to sell. No letters. See: D. G. Wood, Adairsville. (Come after 6:00 P. M. or on Sundays, 4 mi. W. Adairsville).

42 Model WC Allis - Chalmers Tractor, new tires, and 2 disc plow, priced to sell. F. S. Brinkley, Marietta, Rt. 4.

One 7 ft. Jeoffory Scooter Plow (or Granham - Hoeme), used very little, $225. C. C. Campbell, White Plains.

One 30 Farmall Tractor, 6 disc tiller, dbl. sec. cutaway smoothing harrow, and seeder box in fair shape, $1000; AC All - Crop Combine, fair shape, $550. R. J. Henderson, Morrow, Rt. 1, Box 65 A.

J. D. 12 A (6 ft.) Combine with motor, A-1 cond., $900.; Allis Chalmers 60 Combine, $500.; J. D. KC Heavy Duty 6 ft. Harrow, $200.; J. D. Disc Tiller on rubber, $300. Norman Johnson, Warrenton.

No. 7 McCormick - Deering Mule Mowing Machine, late model, runs in oil, almost new, 2 blades, 4-1/2 6 ft., $75. Will not ship. L. B. Law, Leslie, Rt. 2.

2 Roe Tractor with PTO pulley and cultivators, drag harrows, for sale or trade for smaller tractor or garden tractor; Also 500 chick brooder. Geo. Orton, Brunswick, Rt. 2, Box 186 B.

Farmall A Tractor, 2 disc turning plow, cultivator, $550. Roy H. Barron, Rome, 705 Ave. A. Phone 28361.

8 Bush and Bog Disc 5/16 X 24 Z 1-1/4 for sale. Fred Hindsman, Douglasville, Rt. 1.

One Farmall A 48 Model Tractor, 1st. class cond., lights, starter, good rubber, cultivating equip., 2 disc Hester plow, $700. at my farm. Alvin Harrison, Dearing.

Int. H Tractor, good cond., with 2 disc plow, dbl. sec. disc harrow, bush and bog harrow, mowing machine, planter, guano, cultivators, for sale or trade for smaller tractor with no cultivation equipment. G. H. Davis, Rome, Rt. 2, Bell's Ferry Rd.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY WANTED

Want 5 or 6 hand Cotton Chopping hoes, good shape, cheap. Give price. Will pay express. Y. J. Ivie, Atlanta, 1088 Sanders Ave., S. E. Ma. 3995.

Want used attachments for Gravely Garden Tractor, reasonable, in good condition. Henry Kilburn, Americus, Rt. 2, Box 151.

Want all-purpose Cultivator and planter for Ford Tractor, 1st. class cond., within 75 mi. State best price. A. E. Porter, Dalton, Rt. 3.

Want good used reel type mower to fit David Bradley Garden Tractor, in good shape. W. B. Heats, Sycamore.

Want 1 man Automatic Pickup Baler and Side Delivery Rake in good condition. L. P. Singleton, Fort Valley, Rt. 3. Phone 772.

Want Coastal Bermuda Grass Transplanter, in good cond. State price, condition, and type. James W. Veal, Cedartown, Rt. 3.

PLANTS FOR SALE

Govt. insp. and treated Red ond Copperskin Potato, $4.50 M. Full count. Prompt shipment. Luther Griffis, Odum, Rt. 2.

Certified La. Copperskin Potato Plants, $4 M; Copperskin Bunch Potato, April del., $6. M. B. B. O'Berry Surrency.

Govt. insp. P. R. Red and Copperskin Potato, $4. M, FOB. Ready in Apirl. No COD. Wade Aycock, Surrency.

Rutger, Marglobe, Milglobe, Brimmer Tomato, ready, 75c C; $5. M; 5000 and over, $4. Will ship. No chks. Phone 2828-R. T. L. Edwards, Albany, 407 Mercer Ave.

Marglobe, Rutger Tomato, full count, good plants, moss packed, shipped, 75c C; $1.45 M. Del. Buncum Lightsey, Surrency, Rt. 2.

P. R. Potato Plants, Imp. La. Copperskin, State insp., ready to ship, 5000, $20. F. G. Tyre, Bristol.

Early Jersey, Chas. Wakefield Frostproof Cabbage, ready 300, $1.; $2. M;Rutger Tomato, 500, $2.; $2.50 M; 50c C. Del. Otis Conner, Pitts.

Chas. Wakefield, Early Jersey Wakefield, and Golden Acre Cabbage, fresh, green, and White Bermuda Onion Plants, 300, $1.; 500, $1.25; $2. M; Rutger Tomato, $2.50 M; 50c C. PP. Prompt. R. Chanclor, Pitts.

$7. M; 5000, $30.; Red Skin P. Certified Bunch P. R. Potato, R. Potato, running vine var., $3.50 M; 5000, $15. PP. E. H. Hall, Arabi, Rt. 1.

Certified Coastal Bermuda Stolons, $1.75 per bag; 75 cu. ft. by truckload at my farm. Blue tag with each purchase. Don C. Nail, Baxley, Rt. 3.

Tifton Coastal Bermuda Stolons, well established sod and P. M. A. approved for Webster, Stewart and Terrell Co. Del. our farm at price of 60c M. Any quantities. J. F. Leonard, Preston, Lenwood Acres. Phone 632.

Early bearing Strawberry, $1. C; Crabbapple, Currant, 30c ea.; Cuttings of Bronze Scuppernong, Black Muscadine, 50c doz. $1.25 orders prepaid in Ga. Add postage on small orders. No COD nor chks. Mrs. Effie Smith, Austell, Rt. 3, Gordon Rd.

Mtn. Huckleberry, 50c doz.; Large Blakemore Blackberry, Raspberry, 6, $1.; Kudzu Plants, 10c ea.; Catnip, 25c doz.; Also tender Striped Half Runner Garden Beans, 45c cup. Plus postage. Mrs. Otis Mashburn, Cumming.

Govt. insp. P. R. Potato Plants, Cooperskin, vine grown, 5000, $20. B. D. Brannen Bristol.

Govt. insp. P. R. Potato Plants, Copperskin, vine grown, 5000, $20. B. D. Brannen, Bristol.

Certified Rutger Tomato, $3.-50 M. Can fill large orders. Mrs. Jesse F. Johnson, Cordele, Rt. 2.

Rutger Tomato, ready, $1.75 M del. Moss packed; Also Red or La. Copperskin Potato, ready, $4. M. del. All good plants. Full count. Prompt shipment. W. G. Murray, Odum, Rt. 2.

Marglobe, Rutger, and New Stone Tomato Plants, $1.75 M; Moss packed, govt. insp. Red and Pink P. R. Potato, $4. M. Del. Ready. Prompt shipment. Omar Lightsey, Screven, Rt. 2.

Marglobe and Rutger Tomato, 200, 75c; 500, $1.25 ; $2. M. Del. Prompt shipment. Full count. Lou Eva Mullis, Broxton, Rt. 2.

Mtn. Huckleberry, bearing size, 85c doz.; Hazelnut Bushes, 75c doz.; Yellow Root, 65c doz.; Red and Yellow Plum Bushes, 3, $1.; Wild Blackberry Plants, $1. doz. Add postage Mrs. Manda Henderson, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

ment. Ready April 15. L. C. Lightsey, Screven, Rt. 1.

Rutger and Marglobe Tomato, field grown, small or large, moss packed, prompt shipment, 200, 75c; $2. M; Long Hot Cayenne, and Calif. Wonder Pepper, 200, $1.; $4. M. J. M. Mullis, Broxton, Rt. 2.

Rutger and Marglobe Tomato 200, 75c; 500, $1.25; $2. M; Calif. Wonder, and Long Slim Hot Pepper, 200, $1.; 500, $2.; $3. M. Ready. Del promptly. Moss packed. J. P. Mullis, Broxton, Rt. 2.

Hazlenut bushes, 75c doz.; Mtn. Huckleberry plants, bearing size, 85c doz.; Yellow root, 65c doz.; Plum bushes, 5 for $1.; Vinca, $1. C. Add postage. Mrs. Howard Easley, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

Copenhagen, Chas. W., Early Jersey cabbage, White Bermuda onion and colard, Marglobe, Baltimore, and Rutger, tomato plants, 500, $1.25; $2. M. Full count, roots wrapped, strong plants. Satis. guar. E. L. Fitzgerald, Fitzgerald, Box 662.

Cert. Marglobe and Rutger tomato plants, 40c C; $3.50 M. plus postage. Egg plants, hot and sweet pepper, 20c doz. No COD orders under $5. Ready. Alton Palmer, Leary, Rt. 2, Box 3-A.

April del. red and copperskin potato plants, $4.50 M; govt. insp. Also Rutger tomato plants, $2.50 M. del. Moss packed, full count, prompt shipment. Luther Griffis, Odum, Rt. 2.

Rutger tomato plants, 500, $1.50; $2.50 M., 2000 and up, $2.25 M. Del. Now ready, moss packed, prompt shipment. Also booking orders for red or La. copperskin potato plants for April and May del. $4. M. W. G. Murray, Odum, Rt. 2.

Pink skin P. R. potato plants, $5. M. del. Govt. insp. treated, ready for shipment in April. Money orders only. L. L. Lightsey, Surrency, Rt. 2.

Rutger and Marglobe tomato plants, 200 75c; 500, $1.25; $2. M. Field grown on new land. Cal. wonder hot pepper plants, 200, $1.; 500, $2.; $3. M. Del. Prompt shipment. J. P. Mullis, Broxton.

Govt. insp. P. R. potato, $4. M; Marglobe, Rutger, New S., tomato plants, moss packed, $2. M. del. Prompt shipment. Oma Lightsey, Screven, Rt. 2.

Cert. Rutger tomato plants, open field grown, ready, $3. M. Moss packed. PP in Ga. S. J. Hardee, Surrency, Rt. 2.

Rutger tomato plants, $2.50 M. Del. Moss packed, prompt shipment. No checks. J. S. Murray, Odum.

Marglobe, Rutger, and New Stone Tomato Plants strong, moss packed, $1.25 M; 2 M up, $1.; Govt. insj. and treated P. R. Red and Pink Skin Potato, $4.-50 M del. Can fill large orders. No chks. W. R. Lightsey, Screven.

Hog Prices Paid At Various Markets

APRIL 3	NO. 1	NO. 2	NO. 3	NO. 4
Toombs County Stockyard, Lyons	$20.75	$20.25	$19.30	$16.90
Cordele Livestock Sale Barn, Cordele	$21.19	$20.37	$19.27	$18.00
Smith Bros. Stockyard, Bartow	$21.25	$19.55	$18.75	$00.00
Flint River Livestock Auction, Bainbridge	$20.55	$00.00	$00.00	$00.00
Sylvania Stockyard, Sylvania	$21.00	$20.00	$18.95	$17.00
Ocilla Livestock Co., Ocilla	$20.71	$20.55	$19.60	$17.75
Smith Stockyard Co., Thomson	$20.10	$19.85	$18.00	$00.00
APRIL 4
Emanuel County Stockyard, Swainsboro	$20.65	$20.00	$19.00	$17.00
Washington County Marketing Ass'n. Sandersville	$20.85	$19.50	$18.41	$00.00
APRIL 6
Jesup Stockyard, Jesup	$21.09	$20.45	$19.95	$00.00
Seminole Livestock Auction Mkt., Donalsonville	$21.10	$22.70	$19.50	$00.00
Henry Shuman Jr. Stockyard, Hagan	$21.00	$20.50	$19.50	$00.00
Swainsboro Stockyard, Swainsboro	$21.05	$19.95	$18.80	$00.00
Georgia Farm Products Sale Corp. Thomaston	$21.50	$20.50	$19.40	$19.30
Bleckley Livestock Auction, Cochran	$21.25	$19.65	$18.00	$17.20
Millen Livestock Market, Millen	$21.00	$20.00	$19.00	$17.00
Muscogee Livestock Co., Columbus	$20.75	$19.80	$00.00	$00.00
Carroll County Livestock Sale Barn, Inc. Carrollton	$22.00	$21.00	$00.00	$00.00
		Heavies . . .		$19.50
Sutton Livestock Co., Sylvester	$20.89	$20.71	$19.52	$17.60
Jepeway and Craig Comm. Co., Dublin	$20.90	$20.20	$19.40	$00.00
Columbus Stockyard, Columbus	$20.95	$20.00	$18.50	$00.00
Chatham County Stockyard, Savannah	$21.00	$20.50	$19.10	$00.00
Dodge County Stockyard, Eastman	$20.55	$20.10	$18.65	$00.00
Coffee County Livestock Company, Douglas	$20.74	$20.53	$19.26	$17.30
Metter Livestock Market, Metter	$20.41	$19.85	$18.85	$00.00
Farmers Livestock Cooperative Ass'n. Soperton	$20.60	$20.20	$00.00	$00.00
Emanuel County Stockyard, Swainsboro	$21.05	$20.50	$19.25	$17.25
Farmers Stockyard, Sylvania	$20.80	$20.00	$18.65	$00.00
Farmers Stockyard, Arlington	$20.95	$20.75	$19.51	$17.50
Mitchell County Livestock Co., Camilla	$20.79	$20.54	$20.00	$00.00
Troup Livestock Ass'n., Inc., LaGrange	$21.10	$20.10	$18.20	$15.10
Farmers Livestock Auction Co., Inc. Nashville	$20.85	$20.58	$19.61	$18.35
Appling County Stockyard, Baxley	$20.77	$20.22	$18.87	$00.00
APRIL 8
Union Stockyard, Albany	$20.75	$20.30	$19.81	$18.35
Coosa Valley Commission Co., Rome	$21.50	$19.10	$17.00	$16.70
Tattnall Livestock Co., Glennville	$20.83	$19.86	$19.16	$00.00
Producer Cooperative Livestock Exchange Statesboro	$21.00	$20.45	$19.10	$00.00
Seaboard Stockyard, Colquitt	$20.80	$20.40	$19.45	$00.00
Turner County Stockyard, Inc., Ashburn	$20.85	$20.15	$19.35	$00.00
Hazlehurst Livestock Market, Hazlehurst	$20.77	$20.03	$18.76	$00.00
Vidalia Stockyard, Vidalia	$20.81	$20.31	$19.35	$00.00
APRIL 9
Claxton Stockyard, Claxton	$21.00	$20.50	$19.25	$00.00
Dublin Livestock Comm. Co., Dublin	$21.11	$20.10	$19.05	$00.00
Farmers Livestock Co., Inc., Douglas	$20.71	$20.38	$19.34	$17.94
Wayne Co. Livestock Market, Jesup	$21.12	$20.50	$19.95	$00.00
Valdosta Livestock Co., Valdosta	$20.99	$20.90	$19.70	$00.00
Peoples Livestock Market, Cuthbert	$20.94	$20.51	$19.35	$17.80
Fitzgerald Livestock Auction Co., Fitzgerald	$20.90	$20.70	$19.65	$00.00

Swainsboro Stockyard, Swainsboro	$21.05	$19.95	$18.80	$00.00
Georgia Farm Products Sale Corp. Thomaston	$21.50	$20.50	$19.40	$19.30
Bleckley Livestock Auction, Cochran	$21.25	$19.65	$18.00	$17.20
Millen Livestock Market, Millen	$21.00	$20.00	$19.00	$17.00
Muscogee Livestock Co., Columbus	$20.75	$19.80	$00.00	$00.00
Carroll County Livestock Sale Barn, Inc. Carrollton	$22.00	$21.00	$00.00	$00.00
		Heavies . . .		$19.50
Sutton Livestock Co., Sylvester	$20.89	$20.71	$19.52	$17.60
Jepeway and Craig Comm. Co., Dublin	$20.90	$20.20	$19.40	$00.00
Columbus Stockyard, Columbus	$20.95	$20.00	$18.50	$00.00
Chatham County Stockyard, Savannah	$21.00	$20.50	$19.10	$00.00
Dodge County Stockyard, Eastman	$20.55	$20.10	$18.65	$00.00
APRIL 7
Dawson Livestock Sale Barn, Parrott	$20.88	$20.50	$19.75	$00.00
Jones Neuhoff Commission Co., Macon	$21.36	$20.60	$19.50	$00.00
McRae Livestock Market, McRae	$20.91	$20.14	$18.95	$00.00
Smith Stockyard Co., Augusta	$20.80	$20.30	$18.50	$00.00
Statesboro	$21.00	$20.45	$19.10	$00.00
Seaboard Stockyard, Colquitt	$20.80	$20.40	$19.45	$00.00
Turner County Stockyard, Inc., Ashburn	$20.85	$20.15	$19.35	$00.00
Hazlehurst Livestock Market, Hazlehurst	$20.77	$20.03	$18.76	$00.00
Vidalia Stockyard, Vidalia	$20.81	$20.31	$19.35	$00.00
APRIL 9
Claxton Stockyard, Claxton	$21.00	$20.50	$19.25	$00.00
Dublin Livestock Comm. Co., Dublin	$21.11	$20.10	$19.05	$00.00
Farmers Livestock Co., Inc., Douglas	$20.71	$20.38	$19.34	$17.94
Wayne Co. Livestock Market, Jesup	$21.12	$20.50	$19.95	$00.00
Valdosta Livestock Co., Valdosta	$20.99	$20.90	$19.70	$00.00
Peoples Livestock Market, Cuthbert	$20.94	$20.51	$19.35	$17.80
Fitzgerald Livestock Auction Co., Fitzgerald	$20.90	$20.70	$19.65	$00.00
Sumter Livestock Ass'n, Inc., Americus	$20.90	$20.40	$19.75	$18.50
APRIL 10
Effingham County Stockyard, Springfield	$20.75	$20.50	$19.40	$00.00
Smith Bros. Livestock Co., Bartow	$21.10	$19.80	$18.15	$00.00
Tifton Livestock Co., Tifton	$20.95	$20.68	$19.55	$19.00

PLANTS FOR SALE

Strong Rutger and Marglobe tomato plants, $2.50 M. FOB. M. F. Jones, Metter, Rt. 1.

Wakefield and Dutch Cabbage, plants, 45c C; $1.95 M; white half runner, tender beans, 50c cupful. Miss Lee Crow, Gainesville, Rt. 2.

Rutger, Marglobe Tomato, good plants, moss packed, full count, shipped by return mail, 75c C; 1.50 M. Del Hiram Lightsey, Surrency, Rt. 2.

Rutger and Marglobe Tomato, moss packed, $2. M. Del.; Govt. insp, treated Red Skin P. R. Potato, seed grown from vine cuttings, $4.00 M. Earlish Lightsey, Screven, Rt. 2.

Marglobe and Rutger Tomato, 7 in., stocky, grown in open field, seed treated, no grasses, 500, $1.25; $2. M for truck loads. Phone 3751 for quick service. I. L. Stokes, Fitzgerald.

Coastal Bermuda Stolons, by truckloaded at my farm, 75c M; 100,000 or more, 65c M; By express not prepaid, $1.50 M. D. L. Harrison, Blackshear. Tel 3713.

Marglobe, Baltimore, Rutger Tomato, and Spring Copenhagen and Early Jersey Cabbage, and Collard Plants, del. in Ga., 500, $1.25; $2. M. Tomatoes not delivered. Mossed roots, full count, prompt shipment. E. L. Fitzgerald, Fitzgerald, Box 662.

Harris Special Tobacco Plants, $1.50 M. at bed; $3. PP. Ready. John Daniel, Ocilla.

Bunch P. R. Potato, April, May, and June delivery, 500, $4. $7. M. Parcel Post prepaid in Ga. packed. Treated and State insp. J. E. Sims, Mystic.

PLANTS FOR SALE

Rutger Tomato, from fresh 1st. yr. seed, strong stocky plants, damp moss packed, 50c C; $3. M; Bell Pepper, 25c doz. Add postage. Mrs. J. R. Brannen, Statesboro, Rt. 1.

Broad Leaf Sage, Plants, 5, 60c; 10, $1. PP., No chks. Miss Lillian Hardin, White, Rt. 1.

Rooted Certified Rutger Tomato, $3.50 M; $2.50 M at bed. Can fill large orders. Damp paper and moss wrapped. Leon L Johnson, Cordele, Rt. 2.

Pink and Copperskin P. R. Potato, $4.50 M. Del. in April. No chks. L. L. Lightsey, Surrency, Rt. 2.

Large White Heading Variety Collard Plants, ready, 50c C; $2.50 M. FOB. Mrs. J. L. Hall, Americus, Rt. 2.

Lucretia Dewberry, earliest of all bearers of large fruit, good rooted plants, $5. C; $40. M; Lemon Balm, rooted, $5. C. Mrs. C. M. Robinson, Greenville.

Govt insp. Red and Copperskin P. R. Plants, 1-4 M, $5. M; 5 M or more, $4. M. No COD filled. FOB. Ready April 15th. D. M. Cason, Bristol.

Certified Govt. Insp., treated, Bunch PR Potato Plants, $1.25 C; 500, $4.; $7. M. PP in Ga., Fla. moss packed. Later April, May, June delivery. R. M. Fussell, Milan, Rt. 2

Govt. insp. P. R. Red and Copperskin Potato, 5000, $20. FOB. No COD. A. L. Turner, Bristol.

Red and La. Copperskin P. R. Plants, govt. insp., 5000, $20. No COD. Ready April. J. C. Tyre, Bristol.

PLANTS FOR SALE

Marglobe Tomato, open field grown, $2. M. FOB; Rudy King Calif. Wonder Sweet, and Long Pod Cayenne Hot Pepper, $3.50 M; 75c C. Del. W. G. O'Quinn, Surrency, Rt. 2.

Rutger, New Stone, and Marglobe Tomato, good plants, full count, ready, $2. M; 50c C. Moss packed. Del. Woodrow Lightsey, Screven.

P. R. Potato, certified La. Copperskin, $4. M. Can fill large orders; Also Rutger and Marglobe Tomato, $2. M; Calif. Wonder, and Red Slim Cayenne, $3.50 M. Moss wrapped and prompt shipment. D. J. Thornton, Screven.

Booking orders for certified Rutger Tomato, resistant to fusarium wilut, $3.75 M. Cheaper at field. Damp moss wrapped. Mrs. Jesse F. Johnson, Cordele, Rt. 2.

P. R. Potato, govt. insp, imp. yellow skin, good count, ready, 5000, $20. No. COD. Lester Crawford, Bristol.

Rutger Tomato, ready, good plants, full count, moss packed, no checks, $2. M; 75c C. Del. Can fill large orders. George Griffis, Screven, Rt. 1.

Marglobe Tomato, good plants, fullcount, $2. M; 75c C. Del. Moss packed. W. L. Griffis, Screven, Rt. 1, Box 186.

Govt. insp. Red Skin P. R. Plants, $4.50 M. No chks. Prepaid. Paul Lightsey, Scerven.

Rutger and Marglobe Tomato Plants, good count, from certified seed, $2.50 M. FOB. M. F. Jones, Metter, Rt. 1.

Imp. Broad Leaf Sage Plants, $1.25 doz. Mrs. N. N. Skinner, Waco, Rt. 1.

PLANTS FOR SALE

Catnip Plants, 40c doz. Add postage. Mrs. I. K. Billups, Swainsboro, Rt. 1, Box 160.

Large White Artichoke Plants ready to ship, $3. C. Plus postage. Mrs. W. B. Green, Atlanta, 543 Cameron St., S. E.

Gov. imp. P. R. potato plants 5 M. $20.; Marglobe and Rutger tomato, $2. M; sweet pepper, $4. M. Del. Claude Tyre, Surrency.

Broccoli, Brussels Sprouts, Beets, Lettuce, Kale, Carrots, 2 doz. 35c; Cauliflower, Bell, Pimento and Hot peppers, Pan American tomatoes, Celery, Asparagus, Parsley, and Artichoke plants, 25c doz. Add postage. Mrs. H. V. Franklin, Register.

Rutgers tomato from Cert. seed on new land, $2.25 M; Black Beauty eggplant, $3. M. All Exp. Collect. Harold Hyers, Hazlehurst, Rt. 3.

Marglobe tomato plants, $3. M; Copperskin potato, $4. M; copperskin potato, 100 to hill, $4.50 M. Postpaid. Full count. Marvin Mullis, Surrency, Rt.

BEANS AND PEAS FOR SALE

Mixed Bunch and Half Runner Butterbeans, 1952 crop, good for eating or planting, 6 large cups, $1.10; $2. per 12 cups. Mrs. T. O. McMillian, Dacula, Rt. 1.

White Lady Peas, 35c lb.; 10 lb. or more PP; Clay Crowders, 25c lb. 10 lb. or more, 10c lb. or more, 20c lb. Add postage. No COD. R. T. Blalock, Adairsville, Rt. 2.

BEANS AND PEAS FOR SALE

About 5 b. Cream Crowder Peas, weevil treated, at my farm on lower Roswell Rd., near Mt. Bethel Church. Will not ship. A. E. Eavenson, Marietta, Rt. 2. Phone Roswell 3115.

15 b. Blackeyed Crowder, White with Brown Eye Peas, name unknown, free of weevils 15c lb. Exch. for calves. Will not ship. 1-1/4 mi. W. Chatsworth near the old Dalton and Chatsworth Hwy. William Willis, Chatsworth, Rt. 2.

Cream and White Weeks Half Runner and Little Pink Peanut Beans, 35c cup; Exch. 2 cups for 5 print sacks or 5 whitte. Ea. pay postage; Salet Peas, 60c cup. Add postage. Mrs. Jemima Crump, Talking Rock, Rt. 3.

Blue Java Peas, 35c lb.; Green or Dry Peppermint Plantts, 35c doz. Add postage. P. B. Brown, Ball Grond, Rt. 1.

White Bunch Butterbeans, 30 cp; Col. Half Rnner and Few Whites, 60c pt. also Yellow Crooked Neck Squash Seed, 15c Tbl. Add postage. Mrs. Samuel Caine, Cumming, Rt. 5.

White Tender Cornfield Bean Seed, 45c measring cp; Few good Colored Cornfield, 40c measreing cp. Add postage. Alice Harris, Ellijay, Star Rt.

400 lb. sound New Era Peas, 10-20 pct. mixed with Brabham, $6. lb. FOB in 2-1/2 lb. lap bags. Recleaned, all harvested withot rain white hlls. N. P. Bassett, Fort Valley. Phone 716.

35 b. Black, Hay and Feed Peas, sound, very prolific, $7.-50 bu.; 14 bu. Imp. Brab., pure, sound, and 2 bu. large Black Crowders, $7.50 bu. FOB. Marvin Moore, Buena Vista.

Foreign Trade And Farm Problems

(Continued from page One)

lion dollars more in five days than was taken in during eighty-three years.

In spite of this they tell us there will be a large deficit this year in the Federal treasury. They tell us taxes cannot be reduced. They have changed their minds since last November.

Eisenhower plays golf. Truman played the piano. The world plays us for a sucker. Wall Street is afraid the war will stop in Korea. We trade the Chinese fifty prisoners for one American.

The United Nations, controlled by foreign elements, is installed in our midst and like a cancer in our vitals makes us afraid to move. We spend billions of dollars to make atom bombs, and explode them over great waste lands, while our boys are short of ammunition in the front lines in Korea because we are afraid that our hired friends wouldn't like it if we used them to save the lives of boys who have been conscripted and sent around the world to fight.

God Save America!

TOM LINDER

Commissioner of Agriculture

BEANS AND PEAS FOR SALE

15 lbs. Lady Finger Peas, 60c lb. PP. Mrs. Fred Yelton, Appling.

Red Speckled Crowder and Java Peas, 25c teacup. No less 4 cups shipped. G. T. Brown, Ball Ground, RFD 1.

170 bu. Tenn. or Clay Peas, reclean, 90 pct. pure, 95 pct. germ., $7. bu. at my farm 1 mi. E. Tennille. H. C. Gilbert, Tennille, RFD.

Tender Blue Pole Beans, 2 cups, $1.; Early Brown 2 crop 6 weeks Peas, White Table Crowders, 5 cups, $1.; White and col. Bunch and Col. Running Butterbeans, 4 cups, $1.10; Col Running Butter Peas, 2 cups, $1. Add postage. Mrs. Clearnce McMillian, Dacula.

Speckled, and Silver Hull Crowder Peas, 40c pt.; White and Colored Butterbeans, 35c pt.; Also White Spansh Peanuts, 45c qt. Add postage. Ezra Caine, Cumming, Rt. 5.

4 b. Yellow Crowder Peas, best table variety, $8. b.; 2 b. Lady Finger, 15c lb. E. L. Cooper, Btler, Rt. 1, Box 24.

SEED AND GRAIN FOR SALE

15 lbs. good Citron Seed, $1. lb. Ralph Jones, Cadwell.

Old Time Jones Watermelon Seed, grows 50 and 60 lbs., $1.25 lb. E. W. Bellamy, Carnesville, Rt. 1.

White Mush Peas, Green Okra Seed, 40c cup; 3 cups, $1.; Red Speckled Crowder and White Blackeyed Peas, 35c cup; 4 cups, $1. Add postage. Clinton Smith, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

Citron Seed, $1. lb. Will ship COD A. L. Thompson, Cadwell.

Citron Seed, $1. lb.; Honey Rock Cantaloupe, 50c teacup; White Bunch Butterbeans, 25c teacup; Banana Muskmelon, 30c Tbl.; Also Mtn. Huckleberry Plants, bearing size, 2 doz., 75c. Add postage. Rosie Crowe, Cumming, Rt. 1.

40 lbs. Black Diamond (white seed) Watermelon Seed, $1.50 lb. Parcel Post prepaid. Joe R. James, Douglasville, Rt. 1.

Hand selected good Watermelon Seed, mixed, early and late varieties, and Muskmelon, 50c measuring cup; Sunflower, Old Fashion large Pumpkin Seed, Cinnamon Tubers or

EGGS FOR SALE

Speckled Guinea Eggs, 18, $1.65; 36, $3.20. PP Parcel Post. Mrs. Ed Stone, Adairsville, Rt. 2.

Chinese Ringneck Pheasant Eggs, 20c ea. at my house. J. A. Moore, Atlanta, 2181 Flat Shoals Rd., Rt. 3.

African Guinea Eggs, $1.50 per setting. Now available. Jess Jackson, Douglasville, Rt. 1.

Booking orders for Bob White Quail Eggs to be shipped in June, 80 pct. fertility, from 2 yr. old birds, 25c.; $22.50 per C. B. A. Pollock, Marietta, Rt. 3, c/o Green Acres Farm.

Purebred B. B. and B. B. Mammoth Bronze Turkey Eggs, from free range stock, $4.50 doz. PP. Mailed in metal mailing egg boxes (returnable). Mrs. Bessie Baggett, Hiram.

Black Bronze Turkey Eggs, 25c ea.; $3. doz. at my farm. Mrs. W. H. Maddox, Danville, Rt. 2.

Purebred Buff Cochin and Dark Cornish Bantam Eggs, $2.50 per 18. Parcel Post. C. H. Overby, Columbus, 3609 - 14th. Ave.

Dark Speckled Guinea Eggs, $1.50 per setting of 15. PP.

FARM HELP WANTED

Want middle age or elderly couple to live in home and do general or truck farm work. Good place. J. B. Mosley, Austell.

Want at once unencumbered white woman to live in home with family of 3 adults and do light farm work on farm for room, board, $10. weekly. Give full particulars. Mrs. Eva Knowles, Byron, Rt. 2.

Want 1 or 2 H share cropper, 50-50 basis. Nice, smooth, fertile land, bale of cotton per acre. Riding cultivator. Good 4 R house, plenty wood, water, mail and school bus Rt. Near church. Good community. Dr. W. J. Green, McDonough, Rt. 2.

Want experienced man and wife, or father and son to handle 50-60 cow dairy. Must be honest and sober, start in two weeks. L. T. Callaway, Madison, Rt. 2.

Want man or couple capable of managing a 9000 to 10,000 broiled farm. Will pay $1. per day and 25 pct. of net profits, or on halves. 1 R tenant house, wired for stove, city water. Clyde Cookerly, Ringgold, Rt. 1.

POSITIONS WANTED

57 yr. old man wants job on cattle, chicken or hog farm. Have 2 sons to drive tractors, Good 4 or 5 R house, lights, water, wood, pasture, barn. 6 in family (all grown), honest, sober. Have to be moved. Prefer close to town and regular work. Jim Dotson, Jonesboro, Rt. 1, Box 421.

Want job on farm, wife and 2 boys, 3 to work. Can operate any kind farm machinery. Experienced truck, poutlry, and cattle farming. Need 3 or 4 R house, lights, on school bus Rt. Desire day work and some patches. Can furnish good references. Move at once. Richard Wilson, Atlanta, 246 Glenwood Ave., S. E.

Want work as supervisor and laborer on large beef cattle or poultry farm. Born and reared on farm. Married. A graduate of local high school and attended the Univ. of Ga. College of Agriculture. References if desired. Available May 1st. R. M. Maddox, Winder, RFD 4.

Want job on farm for home, laundry, board, and salary. Charlie R. Lewis, c/o Mrs. Maude Watts, Doraville, Rt. 1.

White man, 36 yrs. old, with wife, 6 children, wants job as Tennille, RFD.

Tender Blue Pole Beans, 2 cups, $1.; Early Brown 2 crop 6 weeks Peas, White Table Crowders, 5 cups, $1.; White and col. Bunch and Col. Running Butterbeans, 4 cups, $1.10; Col Running Butter Peas, 2 cups, $1. Add postage. Mrs. Clearnce McMillian, Dacula.

Speckled, and Silver Hull Crowder Peas, 40c pt.; White and Colored Butterbeans, 35c pt.; Also White Spansh Peanuts, 45c qt. Add postage. Ezra Caine, Cumming, Rt. 5.

4 b. Yellow Crowder Peas, best table variety, $8. b.; 2 b. Lady Finger, 15c lb. E. L. Cooper, Btler, Rt. 1, Box 24.

SEED AND GRAIN FOR SALE

Black Diamond Watermelon, and Jumbo Cantaloupe Seed, 60c lb.; Okra, 75c lb. Mrs. C. H. Sledge, Byron.

Red and White Speckled Crowder Pea Seed, 30c cup; 4 cups, $1. del. Exch. 4 cups for 4 print sacks. Each pay postage. Mrs. T. L. Frost, Bowdon, Rt. 2.

Sericea Lespedeza, clean, scearified, $35. Cwt. FOB. F. C. Garrett, Fort Gaines.

1500 lb. 1952 crop Sericea Seed, scarified, 99.59 pct. pure, germ. 79 pct., 30c lb. L. P. Williams, Austell, Rt. 3, Box 101.

Lady Finger, Purple Hull Peas, and Half Runner Bean Seed, 25c large cup. FOB. Mrs. Will Howell, Mitchell, Rt. 1.

9000 lbs. Brown Top Millet Seed, 16c lb.; 300 lbs. small percent Johnson Grass, 14c lb.; 2800 lbs. Kobe Lespedeza, 96 pct. pure, 85 pct. germ., 23c lb. Prices FOB farm. No order shipped less than 100 lbs. M. T. Morrow, Newborn.

2000 lbs. Sericea Lespedeza Seed, 99.68 pct. pure, 85 pct. germ., no noxious weed seed, 32c lb. in 100 lb. bags. FOB. Mrs. Estelle Johnson, Rome, RFD 4, Phone 2-0516.

Mixed Gourd Seed. Write for price. Mrs. T. B. Thomas, Rocky Ford, Rt. 1.

Ky. 31 Fescue Seed, 99 pct. pure, 93 pct. germ., $20. Cwt. Cecil Travis, Riverdale, Phone Fayetteville, 5581.

Calico Bunch Butterbeans, 35c cup. PP. Exch. 3 cups for 3 print sacks alike. Each pay postage. Mrs. W. H. McWilliams, Lithonia, Rt. 3.

Recleaned Brown Top Millet Seed, free of any noxious weed seed, 20c lb. Norman Johnson, Warrenton.

Gourd Seed, 3 pkts., 40c; Garrison Wateremelon, 15c pkt.; $1.50 lb. PP; Also have Gourds, Martin, Dipper, Dishrag, $3. doz.; Small sizes, $1.50 doz. Earl Stuckey, Blackshear.

on Smith, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

Citron Seed, $1. lb. Will ship COD A. L. Thompson, Cadwell.

Citron Seed, $1. lb.; Honey Rock Cantaloupe, 50c teacup; White Bunch Butterbeans, 25c teacup; Banana Muskmelon, 30c Tbl.; Also Mtn. Huckleberry Plants, bearing size, 2 doz., 75c. Add postage. Rosie Crowe, Cumming, Rt. 1.

40 lbs. Black Diamond (white seed) Watermelon Seed, $1.50 lb. Parcel Post prepaid. Joe R. James, Douglasville, Rt. 1.

Hand selected good Watermelon Seed, mixed, early and late varieties, and Muskmelon, 50c measuring cup; Sunflower, Old Fashion large Pumpkin Seed, Cinnamon Tubers or Gourd (dipper) 15c doz. Mrs. Ethel Sanders, Buchanan, Rt. 2.

Gourd seed, 3 pkts. 40c; Garrison watermelon seed, 15c pkt. $1.50 lb.; Also Martin, Dipper and Dishrag gourds, $3. doz. PP. Earl Stuckey, Blackshear.

Sugar Crowder peas, treated, 25c lb.; Nancy Hank melonseed, $1.50 lb.; also sundried horse apples, 50c lb. Add postage. J. E. Pettyjohn, Summerville, Rt. 4.

Hale's Best Cantaloupe, and Stone Tomato Seed, 75c cup; 10c pack; Yellow Crookneck Squash, 10c Tbl.; Cucumber, 5c Tbl.; 3 cups only Striped Half Runner Bean, 45c large cup. Mrs. Clyde Logan, Austell, Rt. 2, Hillcrest Dr.

Tender Speckled Half Runner Bean Seed, 50c large cup; Long Green Okra, 40c large cup. Add postage. Mrs. J. B. Woody, Pisgah, Star Rt.

300 lbs. Genuine Cannonball Black Diamond Watermelon Seed. State tested, 90 pct. germ., $1. lb.; Original Ga. Sweetheart Melon, $2. lb. Kenneth W. Birdsong, Gordon.

Yellow Meat Watermelon Seed, $1.50 lb.; 75c half pound; Collard, and 1 lb. Red Running Butter Peas, 50c lb. Exch. for dried apples, free of core, peel and worms. Mrs. Chas. Shrum, Fitzgerald, Rt. 1, Box 108.

White and Colored Butterbeans, mixed, 30c lb.; Martin Gourd Seed, and Jumbo Pumpkin, 15c doz.; 2 doz., 25c. Also White and Red Spanish Peanuts, $1.50 pk. Add postage. Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Martin.

White Bunch Butterbeans, last year's seed, and Dark String Bean, 60c qt. Add postage. Mrs. T. A. Stowers, Tifton, Rt. 2.

EGGS FOR SALE

Mammoth Broad Breasted Bronze Turkey Eggs, 50c ea.; Also 10 Mammoth B B Bronze Hens, and 1 Tom, 50c lb. Mrs. Mrs. J. C. Broome, McBean.

Booking orders for Bob White Quail Eggs to be shipped in June, 80 pct. fertility, from 2 yr. old birds, 25c.; $22.50 per C. B. A. Pollock, Marietta, Rt. 3, c/o Green Acres Farm.

Purebred B. B. and B. B. Mammoth Bronze Turkey Eggs, from free range stock, $4.50 doz. PP. Mailed in metal mailing egg boxes (returnable). Mrs. Bessie Baggett, Hiram.

Black Bronze Turkey Eggs, 25c ea.; $3. doz. at my farm. Mrs. W. H. Maddox, Danville, Rt. 2.

Purebred Buff Cochin and Dark Cornish Bantam Eggs, $2.50 per 18. Parcel Post. C. H. Overby, Columbus, 3609 - 14th. Ave.

Dark Speckled Guinea Eggs, $1.50 per setting of 15. PP. Henry Jr. Dupree, Acworth, Rt. 1.

Northern Bobwhite Quail Eggs and Baby Quail. Herbert Moss, Atlanta, 1989 Baker Rd., N. W. Phone BE 7938.

HONEY BEES AND BEE SUPPLIES FOR SALE

75 Colonies Italian Bees in 8 frame hives, 3-5 supers on each, all combs built on wired foundation, $6. ea. colony. W. P. Moore, Ailey, Rt. 2.

11 hives good Italian Bees in 8 frame style gums, all with 1 super, 1 extra hive, $50. for lot. E. C. Kittle, Temple, Rt. 1.

Good Table Honey, $2.50 gal. del. in Ga.; in 65 lb. lard can, $9. FOB. J. T. Holland, Sparks, (U. C. 41).

Fancy Chunk Comb Honey, also strained packed in 2 1/2 lb. big mouth jars, 12 to case, 30 lbs., $8.10 case; 2 cases, $14.50. Exp. charges prepaid in Ga. E. J. Lewis, Nahunta.

Special Wrayswood Honey, clear, strained, no comb, packed in 2 1/2 lb. wide mouth jars (12 per case), $7. per case. FOB. farm. Call Madison 2603, or write: R. B. Curtis, Farmington.

New Bee Supers for sale. E. H. Hawkins, Atlanta, Rt. 1, Box 1639.

FARM HELP WANTED

Want large family to share crop 100 A good land; tractor and team of horses. Wages for 3 hands when not in crop. Fred Barber, Jonesboro, P. O. Box 206. Phone No. 3111.

Want single, sober, white man from country for poultry farm work, not over 45 years old. Private room, board, $65. month. Mrs. Helen Street, Atlanta, Rt. 2.

Want experienced tractor driver on farm. Lloyd C. Caswell, Americus.

Want 1 or 2 R share cropper, 50-50 basis. Nice, smooth, fertile land, bale of cotton per acre. Riding cultivator. Good 4 R house, plenty wood, water, mail and school bus Rt. Near church. Good community. Dr. W. J. Green, McDonough, Rt. 2.

Want experienced man and wife, or father and son to handle 50-60 cow dairy. Must be honest and sober, start in two weeks. L. T. Callaway, Madison, Rt. 2.

Want man or couple capable of managing a 9000 to 10,000 broiled farm. Will pay $1. per day and 25 pct. of net profits, or on halves. 1 R tenant house, wired for stove, city water. Clyde Cookerly, Ringgold, Rt. 1.

Want white man and wife to live on premises, care for livestock, garden, yard, etc. House, lights, water, phone furnished, $25. weekly salary. Mondays off. Must have own car and be Christians. D. E. Estes, Atlanta, Fulton Co. Court House. WA 5310 Ext. 232.

Want man and wife to work on chicken farm for house, lights, wood, water, milk cow, truck patches furnished. Jess Jackson, Douglasville, Rt. 1.

Want married man to help on vegetable farm near Atlanta. Pay man $5. daily, nice house, elec., garden, pasture, an wood. R. F. Sams, Clarkston, Phone 43-7322.

Want middle aged, unencumbered white woman for light farm chores on farm with small family. Contact: J. H. Donaldson, Fort Valley, RFD 1.

Want single man, not over 40 for work on farm. $2.50 daily. Don't write. Come see. G. B. Ham, Cobbtown.

Want farm family to operate farm in high state of cultivation in which 40 acres land has already been plowed with a tractor, land suitable for cotton or corn. Shares or wages. W. J. Saunders, Jenkinsburg.

perienced truck, poultry, and cattle farming. Need 3 or 4 R house, lights, on school bus Rt. Desire day work and some patches. Can furnish good references. Move at once. Richard Wilson, Atlanta, 246 Glenwood Ave., S. E.

Want work as supervisor and laborer on large beef cattle or poultry farm. Born and reared on farm. Married. A graduate of local high school and attended the Univ. of Ga. College of Agriculture. References if desired. Available May 1st. R. M. Maddox, Winder, RFD 4.

Want job on farm for home, laundry, board, and salary. Charlie R. Lewis, c/o Mrs. Maude Watts, Doraville, Rt. 1.

White man, 36 yrs. old, with wife, 6 children, wants job as caretaker or overseer on cattle or other farm (except on dairy). Experienced any kind tractors. Know how to operate and keep up equipment. Need House, lights, water, plus good salary. Have to be moved. Ralph Lynn, The Rock, Rt. 1.

Want to raise chickens on halves for some good man. Write or see. Carl Grant, Ellijay, Rt. 5.

White man, wife, 4 children, oldest boy 12 yrs. old wants job on general farm. 2-3 R house lights, water, etc. Salary or on halves. Phone WA 2350. Elisha Taylor, Atlanta, 318 Cooper St., S. W.

30 yr. old man with 5 children wants job driving tractor or truck, or doing any kind farm work. Need 4 or 5 R house, water, lights, have to be moved. Can move at once. Eddie Spears, Woodstock, Rt. 1, c/o Jas. R. Spears.

Want job on farm within 15 mi. Atlanta in good settlement, near school and church. 4 R house or larger, wired for stove, running water. 50-50 basis. Don't drink nor use profanity. 7 in family. Have to be moved. Letters ans. Arnold Loftin, Powder Springs, Rt. 1.

PIEDMONT HEREFORD ASSN., SALE

The Piedmont Hereford Assn., will hold their spring sale at the Northeast Georgia Livestock Barn, Athens, Wednesday, April 22, at 12:00 Noon EST. 70 head, Horned and Polled . . . 25 bulls, 45 females consisting of open and bred heifers, cows and cows with calves by side offered. Cattle will be in barn Tuesday 21st., prior to sale. Write: Gordon Dudley, Athens, P. O. Box 1466.

ANNUAL SPRING SALE

The Georgia Guernsey Breeders Association will have their annual spring sale at the Livestock Arena, Macon Fairgrounds, Wednesday, April 22, at 1 P.M.—36 females of fine quality from outstanding breeders offered. W. W. Denny, Sec.-Treas., Canton.

Georgia Farmers'
Market Bulletin
Tom Linder Commissioner

VOLUME 39 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1953 NUMBER 9

EXPORTS, IMPORTS AND TAXPAYERS

MISS. Anne Holden
1440 No. Emory Rd. NE
Atlanta, 6, Ga

Editorial By TOM LINDER

During the seven years from 1946 1952 inclusive, our total exports amounted to eighty-nine billion dollars. During the same seven years, our total imports amounted to fifty-four billion dollars. This means the taxpayers had to absorb twenty-nine billion dollars in order to export eighty-nine billion dollars. In addition to this, the general public had to pay a profit of approximately twenty-five billion dollars when they bought these imported goods at retail. This made a total cost to taxpayers and the general public of fifty-four billion dollars for the privilege of exportmen and other government officials, to say nothing of newspapers and radios, show one of two things to be true—either they are grossly ignorant of the facts or they have an ax to grind by misrepresenting the truth.

1936 TO 1945 INCLUSIVE

In 1936, Roosevelt was elected for his second term. He was elected again in 1940 for his third term and in 1944 for his fourth term.

During that ten years, 1936 to 1945, we had pig killing, wheat burning, and crop reductions generally to get rid of so called surpluses of farm products.

HEALTHY F[illegible] TRADE

Everyone who ha[illegible]er studied the subject knows that fo[illegible] foreign trade to be healthy, exports and imports must be in substantial balance. That is, we must ship as much one way as we do the other way.

If we import more than we export, we have a drain on our national economy. If we export more than we import, we likewise have a drain on our national economy. Either will produce a national depression if continued long enough in large amounts.

THE AMERICAN FARMER IS BEING ELIMINATED

AND TAXPAYERS

Miss. Anna Holden
1440 No. Emory Rd.
Atlanta, 6, Ga.

Editorial By TOM LINDER

During the seven years from 1946 1952 inclusive, our total exports amounted to eighty-nine billion dollars. During the same seven years, our total imports amounted to fifty-four billion dollars. This means the taxpayers had to absorb twenty-nine billion dollars in order to export eighty-nine billion dollars. In addition to this, the general public had to pay a profit of approximately twenty-five billion dollars when they bought these imported goods at retail. This made a total cost to taxpayers and the general public of fifty-four billion dollars for the privilege of exporting eighty-nine billion dollars. To state it another way, every dollar's worth of exports cost us 60c, besides the production costs.

INDUSTRIAL EXPORTS

During those seven years, industrial exports were sixty-four billion dollars and industrial imports were twenty-nine billion dollars. This gave us a net balance of industrial exports of thirty-five billion dollars. We exported thirty-five billion dollars more industrial products than we imported. Since other nations had no money with which to pay for this thirty-five billion dollars excess of industrial exports, it is fair to assume they were absorbed out of taxpayers' dollars in the form of grants to foreign countries.

AGRICULTURAL EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

During the same seven years, total exports of agricultural products amounted to twenty-four and a fraction billion dollars, while imports of agricultural products amounted to twenty-four and a fraction billion dollars. This shows that all agricultural exports and imports paid their own way insofar as dollars were concerned and cost the taxpayers nothing.

In view of the above statements verified from official government report, namely, "Foreign Agricultural Trade," printed in May, 1953, it is astounding to hear those who should know better claiming that agricultural exports are a burden on the taxpayer.

In view of the above official figures, statements by the President, Congressmen and other government officials, to say nothing of newspapers and radios, show one of two things to be true—either they are grossly ignorant of the facts or they have an ax to grind by misrepresenting the truth.

1936 TO 1945 INCLUSIVE

In 1936, Roosevelt was elected for his second term. He was elected again in 1940 for his third term and in 1944 for his fourth term.

During that ten years, 1936 to 1945, we had pig killing, wheat burning, and crop reductions generally to get rid of so called surpluses of farm products.

During those ten years, we fought the Second World War. Everyone remembers the cry that food will win the war and write the peace. Restrictions were generally removed and farmers were told to raise all the food they could to feed the world and especially our Allies over seas. The American people thought they were producing great surpluses for overseas shipments and that we were actually feeding our Allies. All this was a fiction of politics. Let us see what the record shows. And, I mean the record of the United States Government.

During that ten years, 1936 to 1945, our total exports of agricultural commodities amounted to less than twelve billion dollars. During the same ten years, our imports of agricultural products amounted to more than fourteen billion dollars. Actually, we imported two and a quarter billion dollars in agricultural products more than we exported. Please let me repeat. During the ten years of 1936 to 1945 inclusive, we imported two and a quarter billion dollars more of agricultural products than we exported.

Keep in mind that all of this has been the record under the operation of so-called Reciprocal Trade Agreements. As I have repeatedly stated in the Market Bulletin, the so-called Reciprocal Trade Agreements was a device from the beginning to have one tariff policy for the farmer and a different tariff policy for industry. It was intended from the beginning to pauperize the farmers of America and force them down to a common level with the balance of the world while maintaining, at the same time, an American standard for industry.

HEALTHY FOREIGN TRADE

Everyone who has ever studied the subject knows that for foreign trade to be healthy, exports and imports must be in substantial balance. That is, we must ship as much one way as we do the other way.

If we import more than we export, we have a drain on our national economy. If we export more than we import, we likewise have a drain on our national economy. Either will produce a national depression if continued long enough in large amounts.

THE AMERICAN FARMER IS BEING ELIMINATED

We have shown you that during the seven years from 1946 to 1952 our total exports amounted to more than eighty-nine billion dollars while our total imports amounted to more than fifty-four billion dollars, leaving a net of exports over imports of thirty-five billion dollars.

In order to make our imports balance our exports for those seven years, it would be necessary for American agriculture to shut down completely for twelve months. The surplus amounts to more than a whole year's income for all agricultural products.

During the ten years preceeding the seven years, the excess of exports over imports amounted to thirty-six billion dollars. This would mean that all agriculture in the United States would have to shut down for another twelve months. In the meantime, an additional surplus of exports would accumulate.

The basic fact is this country has been over-industrialized. The Internationalists and the Communists (they are the same people in many cases) are destroying the economy of America more effectively through over-industrialization than they could by armed conflict.

How any farmer or farm organization could endorse so-called Reciprocal Trade Agreements is beyond understanding.

It is understandable how the Chamber of Commerce of the United States could favor such a measure. It is understandable how the big moguls of inter-

(Continued on page 4)

GEORGIA MARKET BULLETIN

Address all items for publication and requests to be put on the mailing list and for change of address to STATE BUREAU OF MARKETS, 222 STATE CAPITOL, Atlanta.

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1953 ACTIVE MEMBER

Notices of farm produce and appurtenances admissible under postage regulations inserted one time on each request and repeated only when request is accompanied by new copy of notice.

Under Legislative Act the Georgia Market Bulletin does not assume any responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin, nor for any transaction resulting from published notices.

Limited space will not permit insertion of notices containing more than 35-40 words, not including name and address.

Tom Linder, Commissioner
Published Weekly at
114-122 Pace St., Covington, Ga
By Department of Agriculture
Notify on FORM 3578--Bureau of Markets, 222 State Capitol — Atlanta, Ga.

Entered as second class matter August 1, 1937 at the Post Office at Covington, Georgia under Act of June 6, 1900. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103 Act of October 8, 1917.

Executive Office State Capitol
Editorial and Executive Offices State Capitol, Atlanta, Ga.
Publication Office
114-122 Pace St. Covington, Ga.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

One 2¾ hp Bolin Huski Garden Tractor with turn plow, cultivator gear and mowing bar, $200.00 cash at my home. 2 mi. Courthouse. O. C. Mingledorff, Douglas, Rt. 3.

Intl. 30-35 HP Power Unit, used to operate grist mill and corn sheller on farm, with 40 ft. endless 6 in. belt, excellent

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Allis-Chalmers WC Tractor and mounted mower, good cond., for sale. Mrs. C. B. Glover, Newnan, 50 Jackson St., Tel. 162.

1948 VAC Case Tractor, planters, cultivator, 2 disc plow, Rome 8 disc bush and bog harrow, John Blue cotton duster, good cond. N. E. Rick-

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Used 8 Can Milk Cooler, $100.00 at my farm. Marvin M. Martin Jenkinsburg.

13 Row Grain Drill (J.D.) on steel wheels, good cond., for sale. L. C. Sparks, Carnesville, Rt. 1.

One 1950 Model Super A Tractor and equipment for sale R. D. Powell, Hazlehurst, Rt. 2.

1951 Ford Troctor, planters, cultivators, 8 disc B & B, and 20 disc tandem harrow, 2 disc tiller, terrace, and gang plow, mower, cutoff saw A-1 cond. Sell one or all. 1 1/2 mi. E. Temple, Hwy. 78. W. P. Simth, Temple, Rt. 1.

One 70 Oliver Tractor and King 8 Disc Bush and Bog Harrow, $800.00; L. A. John Deere Tractor with cultivators, $600; Both have starters and lights; J. D. 120 Combine, power takeoff, $300.00. Located Hwy. 27 between Cedartown and Bremen, North of river. James D. Hall, Buchanan, Rt. 1.

12 gas brooders in good condition cheap at my place, 4 mi. N. Dalton. Tom F. Yancey, Dalton, Rt. 5.

Inal. 30-35 Hp Power Unit with 40 ft. endless 6 in. belt, used on farm to operate grist mill and corn sheller, excellent cond., $185.00 at my farm Douglas Slaton, Richland, Rt. 2. Tel. 35J3.

1950 Model A-J. D. Tractor, cultivator, harrow, planters, etc., excellent cond. See at Cordele. Contact J. O. Gornto, Waycross, Box 24.

1952—B Model J. D. Tractor, planters, cultivators, K B A smoothing harrow, Burgress harrow, 5 disc tiller, John Blue cotton Duster, worked 35 acres cotton 1952, and 37 Acres cotton, 4 acres corn 1953, 1st class cond. Guy C. Gordan, Bogart, Rt. 1. (Eastville).

1 H Wagon at my place $35. Mrs. W. D. Herring, Lake Park.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

5 Disc J. D. Tiller on rubber, broke about 200 acres in new condition, powr trol $245. David Simpson, Cochran, 302-6th St.

One 1952 Super C Farmall Tractor, good tires, A-1 cond., $1250.00. A. D. Wiley, Carnesville, Rt. 3.

1952 model M. John Deere Tractor, planters, cultivators, 2 disc plow, pickup type Rome 8-23 in., B & B harrow, David Bradley tractor wagon, all very good condition. E. W. Steed, Winder, Rt. 4.

S. C. Case Tractor, 12 disc B & B harrow, 24 disc tendem harrow, 4 disc tiller (Athens), 8ft. IHC binder, run 6 days. Grady H. Ridley, LaGrange, 206 Ridge Crest Rd.

B-Allis-Chalmers Tractor, cultivators, bush and bog harrow, bottom plow, $500.00, or part payment in cattle; McCormick-Maunre Spreader, No. 200, good cond. Sacrifice. Ross Maddox, Winder.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY WANTED

Want a feed mill in good condition, priced to sell, within 100 mi. radius preferably. To be used with Ford Tractor. C. O. Taft, Kirkland.

Want 403 H or 403 series used J. D. Disc Plow. Joel H. Sanders, Newnan, Rt. 2.

Want set of Clover Concave's for A-6 Case Combine. Tel. 1030, Tifton, or write. D. A. Law, Chula.

Want farm blacksmith's anvil, bellows or blower, tongs, hammers and other tools to equip complete farm use shop. Roger Thompson, Marietta, RFD 3, (Mt. Bethel Community). Tel. 9-5959.

Want steel wheels, front and rear, or rear only for F20 Intl. Tractor. Must be within 50 mi. Atlanta. J. E. Wood, Hapeville.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY WANTED

Want 1 Cycle Mower for Allis-Chalmers WD Tractor to operate with power takeoff. Contact. Jesse F. Mitchum, Griffin, c/o Jesse's Pharmacy.

Want J. D. 7 ft. No. 5 Mower for planters and fertilizer attachments for Jonh Deere M. T. Obie Youngblood, Molena, Rt. 1.

Want front lift and loader for Ford Tractor, the entire assembly. Aubrey Brooks, Griffin, Rt. 5, Box 165. Tel 7596 after 4 PM.

Want one row tractor, Farmall or Allis-Chalmers with planters, cultivators, and one small harrow. Give price. B. M. Pugh, Woodbury, Rt. 2.

Want medium size tractor, any make, within 25 miles Lawrenceville or Winder. Must be cheap. Fletcher Smith, Auburn, Rt. 1.

Want one set cultivators, planters, and distributors, for Farmall C Tractor. Good shape. Cheap for cash. L. W. Hudgins Bremen, Rt. 2, Box 18 A.

SEED AND GRAIN FOR SALE

Arlington and Cokers Victorgrain (48-93) Oats, recleaned, sacked, $1.25 bu.; Calhoun Barley, recleaned, sacked, $1.75 bu. Prompt RR shipment. L. L. Singleton, Fort Valley, Rt. 3. Tel. 772.

Col. and White Bunch Butterbeans, 4 cups, $1.00; Col. Running medium size, and extra large butterbeans for eating or plant, 3 cups, $1.00; Also old shallot plants, $1.00 C. Add postage. Mrs. Clarence McMillian, Dacula, Rt. 1.

1953 crop Pensacola Bahair germ. and purity in new 100 lb. germ. and pudity, in new 100 lb. bags, 20c lb. Virgil T. Barber, Nashville.

Ky 31 Fescue Seed, 99.3. pct pure, 95 pct. germ., 1953 crop, 11c lb. FOB my farm. G. W. Darden, Watkinsville.

of October 8, 1917.

Executive Office State Capitol
Editorial and Executive Offices
State Capitol, Atlanta, Ga.
Publication Office
114-122 Pace St. Covington, Ga.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

One 2¾ hp Bolin Huski Garden Tractor with turn plow, cultivator gear and mowing bar, $200.00 cash at my home. 2 mi. Courthouse. O. C. Mingledorff, Douglas, Rt. 3.

Intl. 30-35 HP Power Unit, used to operate grist mill and corn sheller on farm, with 40 ft. endless 6 in. belt, excellent cond., $185.00 my farm. Douglas Slaton, Richland, Rt. 2.

1951 Ford Tractor, cultivator, plows, planters, distributors, rotary hoe attach., pulley, power cane mill with 18 in. upright rollers, all geared to Ford Tractor, $1650.00 FOB my farm 18 mi. SE Valdosta. Jas. E. Culpepper, Lake Park, Rt. 3, Box 124. Tel. 1800.

2 H Bagwell Wagon, practically new, complete with brake and body, $100.; Also one Bay Mare Horse, 10 yrs. old, 1200 lbs., works well anywhere, $75. T. A. Darracott, Gainesville, Rt. 1.

Used Intl. Combine for sale or trade for cattle, chickens, or hogs. Roy Bishop, Locust Grove. Tel. La. 3456.

One Deep Well Digging Outfit, good cond., for sale or trade for Ford Tractor and equipment. Oliver Varnedore, Nicholls, Rt. 1.

One Belt Pulley for Ford Tractor, good cond., $35.00; Folding Type Weeder, $100.00; Plow (2 disc), good cond. $175. All for Ford or Ferguson Tractor. C. N. Edwards, Hawkinsville, 259 Commerce St.

Moline 2 H Wagon, 2¾, good rims and tires, $30.; 17 tooth Spring Tooth Harrow, Dbl. Sec., good cond., $20. Other farm tools. 1 mile No. Winston. Horace Darnell, Sr., Winston, P. O. Box 105.

1952 Super C Farmall Tractor, cultivators, planters, fertilizer attach., 3 disc No. 8 Intl. tiller, 5 ft. harrow, used very little, for sale at my place. Geo. D. Barfield, Louisville, Rt. 3.

1946 Ford Tractor with Dearborn harrow, hydraulic lift, good cond., $675. About 6 mi. Hollingsworth on post road. Troy Pruitt, Homer, Rt. 1.

1 Row Tobacco Setter for Ford or Ferguson Tractor, good cond., used very little, Iron Age make. Letters ans. Ira F. Pittman, Barney, Rt. 1.

1 H Wagon, Oliver Turn Plow, horse drawn drag pan, good hay rake, for sale at my place. W. J. Porter, Doraville, Rt. 2. Tel. 47-2332, or Atlanta phone Wa. 4627.

SECOND HAND MACHINERY FOR SALE

Allis-Chalmers WC Tractor and mounted mower, good cond., for sale. Mrs. C. B. Glover, Newnan, 50 Jackson St., Tel. 162.

1948 VAC Case Tractor, planters, cultivator, 2 disc plow, Rome 8 disc bush and bog harrow, John Blue cotton duster, good cond. N. E. Rickenbaker, Newnan, Rt. 3, Tel. 2061.

Allis-Chalmers G. Model Tractor, hydraulic lift, cultivators, distributors, new, never used. Joe Sikes, Glennville.

6 disc Athens Tiller with seeder box, 8 disc King bush and bog harrow, 6 ft. J. D. dbl. disc harrow, used very little, good cond. Wray Smith, Sparta. Tel. 4921.

Moline Tractor, 5 disc tiller, tandem harrow, 5 ft. J. D. combine, New Holland Corn shucker and sheller, tractor drawn plant setter, cart, potato digger, corn binder, fertilizer spreader, hammer mill, etc. $2000.00. FOB farm between Woodbury and Greenville. S. C. Owen, Woodbury.

H. G. Oliver Crawler and Harrow, for sale or trade for cattle. Graham Glover, Rome, Summerville Rd.

1948 WC Allis-Chalmers 2 Row Tractor on rubber, with starter, lights, power lift, power takeoff, complete with planters and cultivators, 4 disc tiller, Taylor, and Athens Harrow, Section Harrow, 6 row cotton duster, $1200.00. See J. R. Barnett, Commerce, 14 Little St.

Super C Farmall Tractor, used very little, 2 disc plow, subsoiler, bush, and smoothing harrow, loading conveyor, and cutoff saw, cheap. E. J. McGinnis, Alpharetta, Rt. 1, Box 146. Phone 4737.

Large Roller Mule Drawn Cane Mill for sale or exch. for livestock, corn, wheat, etc. Shellie D. Branch, Glennville, Rt. 1.

1952 W. D. Allis-Chalmers Tractor, subsoiler, harrow, slightly used, $1200.00, and assume payment. Lee B. Black, Stockbridge. Tel. 3182.

One Intl. 9 can Dairy Milk Cooler, almost new, $350.00. Garner F. Hart, Warrenton, Rt. 3

No. 42 Intl. Combine, good running cond., for sale cheap; Also Turner Peanut Picker, needs some repair. W. B. English, Montrose, Rt. 1.

with 40 ft. endless 6 in. belt, used on farm to operate grist mill and corn sheller, excellent cond., $185.00 at my farm Douglas Slaton, Richland, Rt. 2. Tel. 35J3.

1950 Model A-J. D. Tractor, cultivator, harrow, planters, etc., excellent cond. See at Cordele. Contact J. O. Gornto, Waycross, Box 24.

1952—B Model J. D. Tractor, planters, cultivators, K B A smoothing harrow, Burgress harrow, 5 disc tiller, John Blue cotton Duster, worked 35 acres cotton 1952, and 37 Acres cotton, 4 acres corn 1953, 1st class cond. Guy C. Gordan, Bogart, Rt. 1. (Eastville).

1 H Wagon at my place $35. Mrs. W. D. Herring, Lake Park.

1 H Wagon in good shape, and mule drawn Hay Baler (IHC), cheap for cash. E. A. Powers, Blackshear.

9 1/2 hp Frazer Tractor, disc plow, disc harrow, and cultivator, bargain, $300.00 for lot FOB. Chas S. Goodlin, Ben Hill, 2145 Camp Ground Rd. Atlanta phone Am. 2206.

Allis-Chalmers Combine with motor, A-1 cond., $1000.00. Seven miles East Stone Mtn. at Snellville. J. M. Jones, Grayson 1946 Ford Tractor with hydraulic lift, Dearborn harrows, good cond., $675.00 cash. Troy Pruitt, Homer, RFD No. 1.

Allis-Chalmers Tractor G, disc plow, cultivator, cutting harrow, all good cond., $575.00 at my home, 2 mi So. Chickamauga. L. B. Hamilton Chichamauga, Re. 2.

1952 WD Allis-Chalmers Tractor, 60 AC Combine, good shape, New No. 3 AC Power Mower with 6 ft. blade, all for $2500. J. P. Hodnett, White Plains.

2H Wagon, $35.00; Stalk Cutter, $20.00; Walking Cultivator, $50.00; 12 Oliver Turning Plow, $5.00. All 1st class cond. Sam J. Bozeman, Rydal, RFD 2.

One 2 H Wagon, fair cond,. reasonable. May be seen, Mrs. Abe Banks, Fayetteville, Rt. 3.

1950 Ford Tractor, 2 disc plow, A-1 cond., used only one season to farm 60 acres. Mrs. John Faulkner, Augusta, 1911 Elizabeth Dr.

Allis-chalmers B Tractor, hydraulic life, power takeoff, cultivators, harrow, belt pulley, $350.00 cash. Robert W. Evans, Durand, Box 25.

One 1946 "A" Farmall, planters, cultivators harrow,, tiller, seeder box, duel rear tires, good cond.. $800.00; 4 Disc Intl. Tiller on rubber, new disc and bearings, $200.00. Can be seen on Sat. or Sunday only. Mrs. B. E. Gay Mitchell.

Avery 4 Disc (3ft) plow on iron wheels, with wheel weights, ton, Fort Valley, Rt. 3. Phone good cond., $125.00 L. P. Singleton, Fort Villey, Rt. 3. Phone 772.

with a feed mill in good condition, priced to sell, within 100 mi. radius preferably. To be used with Ford Tractor. C. O. Taft, Kirkland.

Want 403 H or 403 series used J. D. Disc Plow. Joel H. Sanders, Newnan, Rt. 2.

Want set of Clover Concave's for A-6 Case Combine. Tel. 1030, Tifton, or write. D. A. Law, Chula.

Want farm blacksmith's anvil, bellows or blower, tongs, hammers and other tools to equip complete farm use shop. Roger Thompson, Marietta, RFD 3, (Mt. Bethel Community). Tel. 9-5959.

Want steel wheels, front and rear, or rear only for F20 Intl. Tractor. Must be within 50 mi. Atlanta. J. E. Wood, Hapeville, 3665 Ga. Ave.

Want an electric incubator, 150 or 200 size, good cond. C. L. Holcombe, Martin, Rt. 2.

Want to exch. good tobacco oil burners and J. D. harrow, for pulpwood saw, bottom plow For J. Deere A tractor,Or will buy. Must be in good condition. Mrs. T. H. Johnson, Boston, Rt. 1. (Old Parker Place).

Want Ford Mower and Rake for 1952 tractor; Also seeder and fertilizer distributor. Willis A Shanks, Macon, 746 Mulberry St.

Want one F-30 Farmall Tractor in good condition. Give best price. Guy E. Still, Statham, RFD No. 1.

grain (48-93) Oats, recleaned, sacked, $1.25 bu.; Calhoun Barley, recleaned, sacked, $1.75 bu. Prompt RR shipment. L. L. Singleton, Fort Valley, Rt. 3. Tel. 772.

Col. and White Bunch Butterbeans, 4 cups, $1.00; Col. Running medium size, and extra large butterbeans for eating or plant, 3 cups, $1.00; Also old shallot plants, $1.00 C. Add postage. Mrs. Clarence McMillian, Dacula, Rt. 1.

1953 crop Pensacola Bahair germ. and purity in new 100 lb. germ. and pudity, in new 100 lb. bags, 20c lb. Virgil T. Barber, Nashville.

Ky 31 Fescue Seed, 99.3. pct pure, 95 pct. germ., 1953 crop, 11c lb. FOB my farm. G. W. Darden, Watkinsville.

Old Fashion Cutshort Cornfield, and White Half Runner Garden Bean Seed, 50c large cup; Exchange 2 cups for 4 print sacks alike on each orders. Add postage. Mrs. Pearl Wilson Carters, Rt. 1.

Ky. 31 Fescue, passed field inspection for certification, 17c; Rescue, 10c lb.; Chapel Hill Rescue, 13c lb.; Dixie Crimson Clover, passed inspection also, 20c lb.; Arlington Oats, $1.15 bu. C. D. Wood Bowdon.

Good White Tender Half Runner Bean Seed, 55c cup; 2 cups, $1.00; Red Speckled Crowder Peas, and White Blackeye, 30c cup; 4 cups, $1.00. Add postage. Mrs. Carl Smith, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

COMPLETE DISPERSAL AUCTION

A Complete Dispersal at Auction of the Reg., herd of Polled Herefords of M. G. Lee, on U. S. Hwy., 82, two miles West Cuthbert, on Monday, Nov. 23rd. Sale beginning 12 NOON. For information, write, W. E. Aycock, Moultrie.

3RD. ANNUAL HEREFORD SALE

Sumter Hereford Assn., 3rd Annual sale—Horned and Polled Herefords—10 bulls and 31 females (open and bred heifers, cows with calf at side and rebred), all from popular and proven bloodlines—Livestock Sales Barn, Americus, Tuesday, Nov. 24th. For information, call or write, Dee Smith, Americus.

PECAN AUCTION SALES IN GEORGIA

The 1953 Pecan Auction Sales now being held weekly will continue throughout the selling season at the following places CAIRO—State Farmers' Market—Tuesdays and Fridays.—Cordele—State Farmers' Market—Wednesdays and Saturdays.—Vidalia—Ga. Pecan Auctions—Tuesdays and Saturdays, 11 A. M. and 2 P. M.

SEED AND GRAIN FOR SALE

100 bu. good oats, 90c bu. 7 mi. E. McDonough on late Henry Duffey Farm. Hiram C. Duffey, McDonough, Rt. 2.

Texas Rescue Grass Seed, recleaned, in 50 lb. bags, 85 pct. germ., 98 pct. pure, no noxious weeds, 12 1/2c del. in Ga. Murray Allen Avera, Rt. 1.

1953 crop Ky. 31 Fescue Seed, recleaned, tested, 99 pct. pure, 94 pct. germ., $18.50 Cwt. Cecil Travis, Riverdale, % Pine Crest Acres. Tel. Fayetteville, 5581.

Turner's Bancroft Seed Oats, pure, recleaned, graded, 90 pct. germ., high yielding for grain or grazing, $1.40 bu. sacked in even wt. 4 bu. bags L. M. Turner, Royston.

Pomegranate Seed, 10c thimbleful and self addressed stamped envelope. Miss Dorothy Pate, Tallapossa, Rt. 1.

Ky. 31 Fescue Seed, grown from cert. seed, recleaned in 50 lb. bags, 87 pct. germ., 14c lb. Felton Denny, Carrollton, Rt. 3.

Tift 14 Rustproof oats, 90 pct. germ., $1.00 bu. combine run; Recleaned in new 4 bu bags, $1.20 bu. Duke Lane, Fort Valley.

40 bu. Cokers Victorgrain Oats and Wheat, mixed, about 1/5 Wheat, 4 5 oats $1.25 bu. E. O. Sayer, Winston.

Chapel Hill strain Rescue Seed, recleand, dried, in 50 lb. bags, 99 pct. pure, 82 pct. germ., no weed 12 1/2c lb. Pensacola Bahia Grass, recleaned, 95 pct. pure, 88 pct germ., 20c lb. in 100 lb. bags. John Peacock, Cochran, Rt. 2.

SEED AND GRAIN FOR SALE

Red Nest Onions, $1.25 gal. Or exch. 1 gal for 4-100 lb. print sacks alike. Mrs. A. M. Lane, Vienna, Rt. 1.

Reseeding Dixie Crimson Clover, 99.41 pct. pure, 94.5 germ., $20.00 Cwt.; Blue Lupine, this year's crop, tested for germ. and purity, $4.00 Cwt. Norman Johnson, Warrenton.

PLANTS FOR SALE

Missionary and Klondike Strawberry Plants, $1. C. Exch. for clean feed sacks at 25c for white, 30c for print. Ea. pay postage. Sold only in Ga. Lizzie A. Mills, Folkston, Rt. 2, Box 1.

1 yr. old Asparagus Crowns, $1. doz. Del. Mrs. H. V. Franklin, Register.

Genuine Blakemore and Klondike Strawberry, $1. C; $7. M; Lawton Blackberry, $1. doz.; $7. C. T. H. Graves, Fayetteville.

Jersey, Charleston, and Copenhagen Cabbage, Flat Sweet Bermuda Onion, and Ga. Collard Plants, 300, $1.; 500, $1.25; $2. M. Del. PP; 5000, $7.50 exp. collect. I. L. Stokes, Fitzgerald.

Frostproof Chas. Wakefield and Early Jersey Cabbage, 500, $1.50; $2.25 M. Del. Prompt shipment. E. C. Waldrip, Flowery Branch, Rt. 1.

Plenty of Kudzu. Come dig up. Cheap for cash. R. C. Moore, Rockmart, Rt. 3.

Garrett Streamliner Everbearing Strawberry, $2. C; 500, $9.; $17.50 M. Shipped prepaid. Cash with order. Supply limited. C. J. Garrett, Bremen.

PLANTS FOR SALE

Klondike Strawberry, $1. C; Blakemore Blackberry, Raspberry, 6, $1.; Mtn. Huckleberry, 4c doz.; Yellow Sugar Fig Sprouts, $1. ea.; Muscadine Vines, 40c ea.; Concord Grape, 25c ea.; large Elberta Peach Seed, 35c doz. Plus postage. Mrs. Otis Mashburn, Cumming.

Sage and Catnip Plants, $1. doz.; Also Long Wide Leaf Bull Face Tobacco Seed, 75c Tbl.; Gourd Seed, 3 packs, $1.; Okra, $1. lb.; Small Gourds, $2.50 doz.; Add postage. L. J. Ellis, Cumming, Rt. 5.

Jersey and Chas. Wakefield, Copenhagen Cabbage, and Collard Plants, $2.50 M; 500, $1.50; 300, $1. Del. Tel. 4-5079. B. F. Mallard, Savannah, Rt. 5, Box 528.

Large Red Jumbo Strawberry Plants, $1. C; $8. M. Add postage. Prompt shipment. Mrs. E. E. Clark, Gainesville, Rt. 8.

Strawberry, from cert. Missionary and Mastodon, $1. C. PP. Damp packed. Tom Kittle, Carrollton, Rt. 5.

Blakemore Strawberry, $1. C; $9. M. PP in Ga. Mrs. John Howard, Cleveland, Rt. 1.

Charleston Wakefield and Early Jersey Cabbage, and Collard, $1.50 M. FOB. M. F. Jones, Metter, Rt. 1.

Large Everbearing Strawberry, $1.35 C; Brown Scuppernong Vines, 2, 75c; Also Garlic Bulbs, 50c doz. Add postage. Mrs. Mary E. Hudson, Macon, Rt. 2.

Streamliner Everbearing Strawberry, 25c doz.; $1.75 C; 500, $7.; $12. M; Mtn. Huckleberry, bearing size, $1. C. Prepaid. Mrs. B. T. Thornton, Bowdon.

PLANTS FOR SALE

White Crystal Wax Bermuda Onion Plants, green, fresh (pencil size) 350, $1.50; 500, $1.25; $2. M. Del. Parcel Post; 5 M, $7. Exp. Ship daily. Satis. guar. F. F. Stokes, Fitzgerald.

Fine Blakemore Strawberry, from inspected stock, not mixed, $1. C; 500, $4.; $7. M. PP in Ga. No Fla. orders. Mrs. A. M. Grier, Alto, Rt. 1, Box 155.

Leading varieties Chas. Wakefield, Copenhagen, Early Jersey, White Bermuda Onion, and Ga. Collard Plants, 500, $1.25; $2. M. Will mix orders. Full count, prompt mailing. E. L. Fitzgerald, Fitzgerald, Box 662.

PEANUTS AND PECANS FOR SALE

Large Red Peanuts, 2-4 in hull, washed, dry, $2. pk.; $6. bu.; Blue Java Peas, 25c lb. in 5 lb. lots or more. Add postage. P. B. Brown, Ball Ground, Rt. 1.

Large Red Peanuts, $2. pk.; $6. bu.; Blue Java Peas, Red Speckled Crowders, 25c lb. in 5 lb. lots. Add postage. G. T. Brown, Ball Ground, Rt. 1.

Peanuts: Large White Spanish, $1.50 pk.; $5. bu.; Red, 2-4 in hull, $1.75 pk.; $6. bu.; Also long cone, dried Hot Pepper, $1.50 lb.; Popcorn, 20c lb. 5 lb. up. All 1953 crop. Mrs. Claude Edmonds, Toccoa, Rt. 1.

Large selected, thin shelled Stuart Pecans, hand culled to one big size and one A-1 quality golden nut meat, guar., 45c lb. PP to 1st. and 2nd. zone. 5 lbs. up. H. M. Moorman, Lovett.

PEANUTS AND PECANS FOR SALE

Large, well filled Stuart Pecans, del. by parcel post, 40c lb. in zone 1 and 2, and 45 in zones 3, 4, and 5. Geo. A. McArthur, Albany, 1503 Dawson Rd.

1953 crop Schley Pecans, sound, clean, 10 lb., $4. Del. in Ga.; 100 lbs., $35.; Stuarts, 10 lbs., $3.; 100 lbs., $25. FOB. J. M. Jones, Grayson.

PECANS AND OTHER FRUIT TREES FOR SALE

Seedling Chinquapin Bushes, $1. doz.; Large size, 5, $1.25; Muscadine and Scuppernong Grape Vines, 10, $1.50; Fox Grape Vines, 5, $1.25; 2 dif. kinds Blueberry, $1.25 doz.; Hazelnut Bushes, $1. doz. Mrs. F. M. Eaton, Dahlonega, Rt. 1.

Hazelnut Bushes, Raspberry, $1. doz.; Chioquapin, $2. doz.; Muscadine, rooted, 6, $1.; Mtn. Huckleberry, 50c doz.; Sassafras with good roots, 20c ea.; 4, $1.; May Cherry, 50c ea. Mrs. D. M. Hollaway, Dahlonega, Rt. 1.

Mtn. Huckleberry, bearing size, 2 doz., 75c; Large Klondike Strawberry, 75c C; Large Field Dewberry, bearing size, 50c doz.; Blue Damson Plum Sprouts, Muscadine Vines, 45c ea.; Also small Clearstone Peach Seed, 35c doz. Add postage. Rosie Crowe, Cumming, Rt. 1.

Apple Trees, 1 yr. old, 35c ea.; 2 yr., 45c ea.; 1 yr. peach trees, 35c ea.; 1 yr. pear, cherry, plum, apricot, 60c ea.; 2 ft. size chestnut and pecan, $1.50 ea.; Grape vines, 25c ea. Del. State insp. T. M. Webb, Ellijay.

Hog Prices Paid At Various Markets

October 26	NO. 1	NO. 2	NO. 3	NO. 4
Jepeway-Craig Comm. Co., Dublin	22.00	21.10	21.05	20.45
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Swainsboro S/Yd., Swainsboro	20.50	19.60	18.64	19.00
Seminole L/S Auction, Donalsonville	20.10	19.70	19.00	19.80
Ocilla L/S Company, Ocilla	20.10	19.80	19.35	18.40

Ky. 31 Fescue Seed, grown from cert. seed, recleaned in 50 lb. bags, 87 pct. germ., 14c lb. Felton Denny, Carrollton, Rt. 3.

Tift 14 Rustproof oats, 90 pct. germ., $1.00 bu. combine run; Recleaned in new 4 bu bags, $1.20 bu. Duke Lane, Fort Valley.

40 bu. Cokers Victorgrain Oats and Wheat, mixed, about 1/5 Wheat, 4—5 oats $1.25 bu. E. O. Sayer, Winston.

Chapel Hill strain Rescue Seed, recleand, dried, in 50 lb. bags, 99 pct. pure, 82 pct. germ., no weed 12 1/2c lb. Pensacola Bahia Grass, recleaned, 95 pct. pure, 88 pct germ., 20c lb. in 100 lb. bags. John Peacock, Cochran, Rt. 2.

$7. M; Lawton Blackberry, $1. doz.; $7. C. T. H. Graves, Fayetteville.

Jersey, Charleston, and Copenhagen Cabbage, Flat Sweet Bermuda Onion, and Ga. Collard Plants, 300, $1.; 500, $1.25; $2. M. Del. PP; 5000, $7.50 exp. collect. I. L. Stokes, Fitzgerald.

Frostproof Chas. Wakefield and Early Jersey Cabbage, 500, $1.50; $2.25 M. Del. Prompt shipment. E. C. Waldrip, Flowery Branch, Rt. 1.

Plenty of Kudzu. Come dig up. Cheap for cash. R. C. Moore, Rockmart, Rt. 3.

Garrett Streamliner Everbearing Strawberry, $2. C; 500, $9.; $17.50 M. Shipped prepaid. Cash with order. Supply limited. C. J. Garrett, Bremen.

Strawberry, from cert. Missionary and Mastodon, $1. C. PP. Damp packed. Tom Kittle, Carrollton, Rt. 5.

Blakemore Strawberry, $1. C; $9. M. PP in Ga. Mrs. John Howard, Cleveland, Rt. 1.

Charleston Wakefield and Early Jersey Cabbage, and Collard, $1.50 M. FOB. M. F. Jones, Metter, Rt. 1.

Large Everbearing Strawberry, $1.35 C; Brown Scuppernong Vines, 2, 75c; Also Garlic Bulbs, 50c doz. Add postage. Mrs. Mary E. Hudson, Macon, Rt. 2.

Streamliner Everbearing Strawberry, 25c doz.; $1.75 C; 500, $7.; $12. M; Mtn. Huckleberry, bearing size, $1. C. Prepaid. Mrs. B. T. Thornton, Bowdon.

$6. bu.; Blue Java Peas, 25c lb. in 5 lb. lots or more. Add postage. P. B. Brown, Ball Ground, Rt. 1.

Large Red Peanuts, $2. pk.; $6. bu.; Blue Java Peas, Red Speckled Crowders, 25c lb. in 5 lb. lots. Add postage. G. T. Brown, Ball Ground, Rt. 1.

Peanuts: Large White Spanish, $1.50 pk.; $5. bu.; Red, 2-4 in hull, $1.75 pk.; $6. bu.; Also long cone, dried Hot Pepper, $1.50 lb.; Popcorn, 20c lb. 5 lb. up. All 1953 crop. Mrs. Claude Edmonds, Toccoa, Rt. 1.

Large selected, thin shelled Stuart Pecans, hand culled to one big size and one A-1 quality golden nut meat, guar., 45c lb. PP to 1st. and 2nd. zone. 5 lbs. up. H. M. Moorman, Lovett.

Muscadine, rooted, 6, $1.; Mtn. Huckleberry, 50c doz.; Sassafras with good roots, 20c ea.; 4, $1.; May Cherry, 50c ea. Mrs. D. M. Hollaway, Dahlonega, Rt. 1.

Mtn. Huckleberry, bearing size, 2 doz., 75c; Large Klondike Strawberry, 75c C; Large Field Dewberry, bearing size, 50c doz.; Blue Damson Plum Sprouts, Muscadine Vines, 45c ea.; Also small Clearstone Peach Seed, 35c doz. Add postage. Rosie Crowe, Cumming, Rt. 1.

Apple Trees, 1 yr. old, 35c ea.; 2 yr., 45c ea.; 1 yr. peach trees, 35c ea.; 1 yr. pear, cherry, plum, apricot, 60c ea.; 2 ft. size chestnut and pecan, $1.50 ea.; Grape vines, 25c ea. Del. State insp. T. M. Webb, Ellijay.

Hog Prices Paid At Various Markets

October 26	NO. 1	NO. 2	NO. 3	NO. 4
Jepeway-Craig Comm. Co., Dublin	22.00	21.10	21.05	20.45
Waycross L/S Mkt., Waycross	20.40	20.03	19.30	19.00
October 27
Farmers Co-op L/S Assoc., Soperton	20.30	19.70	19.35	19.95
Jones-Neuhoff Comm. Co., Macon	21.00	21.40	20.90	19.80
October 28
Ragsdale-McClure Comm. Co., Rome	22.70	20.50	19.50
Hazlehurst L/S Mkt., Hazlehurst	19.39	18.95	19.00	19.70
Coosa Valley Comm. Inc., Rome	21.90	21.00	20.50	19.00
October 29
Valdosta L/S Co. Inc., Valdosta	19.35	18.80	18.85	20.00
Ragsdale-Long Comm. Co., Quitman	19.67	18.96	18.20	19.00
Nahunta L/S Market, Nahunta	19.75	19.05	18.55	18.75
Effingham Co. S/Yd., Springfield	19.65	19.00	18.10
Dublin L/S Comm. Co., Dublin	19.85	19.25	18.82	20.01
Bulloch Co. Stockyards, Statesboro	19.75	18.76	18.25	19.00
Barrow Co. Auction, Winder	20.50	19.00	17.00
Bainbridge S/Yd. Inc., Bainbridge	19.50	18.75	18.40	19.85
October 30
Toombs Co. Stockyard, Lyons	20.19	19.42	18.55	19.00
Wrightsville Stockyard, Wrightsville	19.70	19.20
Tifton Stockyards Inc., Tifton	19.73	19.35	20.10	21.00
Thomasville Stockyards, Thomasville	19.90	19.30	19.00
Sylvania Stockyards, Sylvania	20.35	19.55	19.10	20.50
Smith Stockyard, Thomson	20.50	20.00	19.20	19.10
Smith Bros. Stockyard, Bartow	19.80	18.85
Pierce Co. Stock Market, Blackshear	20.77	19.92	19.15	19.65
Flint River L/S Auction, Bainbridge	19.95	19.00	18.45
Cordele L/S Comm. Co., Cordele	19.98	19.31	18.80
Co-op L/S Exchange, Statesboro	20.85	19.91	18.80	19.65
Candler L/S Market, Metter	20.54	19.87	20.00
October 31
Washington Co. Mkt. Assn., Sandersville	20.17	19.40	18.80
Emanuel Co. S/Yd., Swainsboro	21.00	20.10	19.00
November 2
Shuman L/S Market, Hagan	20.62	20.00	19.38
Swainsboro S/Yd., Swainsboro	20.50	19.60	18.64	19.00
Seminole L/S Auction, Donalsonville	20.10	19.70	19.00	19.80
Ocilla L/S Company, Ocilla	20.10	19.80	19.35	19.40
Muscogee L/S Company, Columbus	21.50		22.10
Millen L/S Market, Millen	20.50	20.00	19.40	20.00
Jesup Stockyard, Jesup	21.01	19.92	19.05	19.00
Dodge Co. S/Yd., Eastman	20.05	19.30	18.35
Columbus Stockyard, Columbus	20.40
Chatham Co. Stockyard, Savannah	20.50	20.00	19.20
November 3
Appling Co. Stockyard, Baxley	20.17	19.64	18.75
Troupe Co. Sales Barn, La Grange	20.10	19.90	19.00	17.20
Smith Stockyard, Augusta	20.85	20.25	19.90	19.00
Elbert L/S Auction, Elberton	22.00	20.75	19.00
Tattnall L/S Co., Glennville	20.50	19.65	18.85	19.35
Farmers Stockyard, Sylvania	20.50	19.80	20.00	20.10
Dawson Livestock Co., Dawson	20.11	19.83	18.80
Coffee County L/S Co., Douglas	20.12	19.26	18.75	18.76
Mitchell Co. L/S Co., Camilla	19.99	19.51	19.10	19.45
McRae Stockyard, McRae	20.50	19.18	18.51	17.00
Metter L/S Market, Metter	20.34	19.60	19.05	19.70
November 4
Peoples Livestock Mkt., Cuthbert	20.31	19.81	19.00	20.00
Moultrie L/S Co., Moultrie	20.05	19.65
Claxton Stockyard, Claxton	21.00	20.05	19.55
Wilkes County Stockyard, Washington	21.20	20.80	19.50	19.00
NE Ga. L/S Auction Barn, Athens	21.00 21.50	20.00	20.00 22.00	18.00 20.00
Ragsdale-Long Comm. Co., Lakeland	20.25	19.41	18.80	18.60
Union Stockyard, Albany	19.95	19.20	19.20	19.55
Turner Co. Stockyard, Ashburn	20.20	19.65	19.95
November 5
Sumter L/S Assoc. Inc., Americus	20.35	19.25	19.40	20.40
Farmers L/S Co., Douglas	19.90	19.41	18.76	19.05
Pelham Stockyards, Pelham	19.75	19.76	19.44
Seaboard Stockyard, Colquitt	20.01	19.96	19.10	19.10

EXPORTS, IMPORTS AND TAXPAYERS

(Continued from page 1)

national finance and industry could favor such a measure. It is understandable how a man like Mr. Allen Klein, President of the National Farm Bureau, being a member of the Federal Reserve Board in Chicago and closely identified with the Internationalists, might be in favor of such a measure. Just how any actual dirt farmers could endorse Reciprocal Trade Agreements is beyond understanding. Nevertheless, through all these years, farm organizations have sent regularly their representatives to Washington to endorse the extension of this anti-American measure.

Whenever a farmer votes for or endorses trade agreements, he is voting to put himself out of business.

TOM LINDER
Commissioner of Agriculture

PECAN AND OTHER FRUIT TREES FOR SALE

Fig bushes, 25c, 50c, $1. sizes. Mrs. W. E. Wooten, Camilla.

Crabapple, red, yellow plum, cherry, hickory nuts, 6, $1.; Muscadine vine, 25c ea.; Purple and celestial figs, 50c—$1. ea.; Blackberry, dewberry, gooseberry, huckleberry, 75c doz. Add postage. Exch. for sacks; Also Garlic Bulbs, 50c doz. Mrs. Grady Brewer, Toomsboro, Rt. 1.

Sugar June Pear Bushes, 3, $1.75. Mrs. L. E. Sanders, Buchanan, Rt. 2.

Catnip, and Sage, 6 bunches, $1.; Crabapple, May Cherry Trees, Beechnut and Hazelnut Bushes, ea. 6, $1. Add postage. Mrs. Mae Turner, Gainesville, Rt. 6.

HAY AND STRAW (WHEAT, OATS, ETC.) FOR SALE

Lespedeza Hay also 65 bales Crab Grass Hay (approx. 225 bales of both), 85c per bale at farm. Ross Maddox, Winder, Rt.

HOGS FOR SALE

Good OIC Hog, about 250 lbs., for sale or trade for young fresh in milch cow. Roy West, Newman, Rt. 4, Box 237.

OIC Pigs, from reg., short nose, blocky type stock, reg. buyer's name, treated, shipped, $20. ea. Plus shipping chrgs. Some cheaper at my farm located 5½ mi. N. Commerce. Paul J. Cain, Commerce, Rt. 1.

OIC pigs, 8 wks. old, choice breeding stock, reg. buyer's name, short nose, blocky, treated, from prize winning stock, $20. ea. Mack Patrick, Voc. Ag. Teacher, Rabun Gap.

SHEEP AND GOATS FOR SALE

Saanan Milk Goat, hornless, gentle, good milk, now giving one quart, never goes dry, ready to breed. Sacrifice for quick sale. G. T. Durham, East Point, 3467 Whipple Ave. CA-6277.

Milk Goats, all bred, start freshening in Dec. for sale. Karl Dayhoof, Hamilton, Rt. 1.

RABBITS AND CAVIES FOR SALE

Guaranteed Chinchillas not rabbits). Pedigreed, NCBA registered, young pairs, proven pairs, singles (Not rabbits). L. L. Hudson, Savannah, 1910 E. Macon St.

2 ped. Dutch Bucks, 4½ mos. old, from good strain, 1 brown and white, $3.25; 1 Black and White, $4.50. Both good markings. R. Lamar Brantley, Wrightsville, Rt. 2.

2 nice Buck Rabbits, 8 mos. and 14 mos. old, one tan, other white, for sale or exch. for 2 bred mother rabbits, Belgium Gray or Red Rufers. Mrs. N. T. Ryan, Tallapoosa.

About 8 White Rabbits, $1.25 ea.; Also 2 White Ducks, $1.50 ea. at my place. Otis Barnett, Atlanta, 613 Glenwood Pl., S. E. Di-3119.

FARM HELP WANTED

Want good 2 H farmer on 50-50 basis with his own equipment. Good 4 R house, elec., school and mail rt. Tobacco, cot-

FARM HELP WANTED

Wanted experienced reliable truck farmer. No drinkers, colored; Share 50 pct. Furnish 5 R house, water, elec., mule and tools. Near good trucking center. Good propasition if can qualify. Phone day El. 9190; Night De. 1975, or write. E. T. Brown, Avondale Estates, P. O. Box 123.

Want white or colored family with 2 adult men for 2 H crop on halves; work when not in crop; Extra good land. 5 R house wired for elec. Stove, mail and bus line in front of door. White community. Will pay for looking after 30 head cattle. W. T. Ray, Athens.

Want man to operate cattle farm for $100.00 monthly and house. See. Johnson Usry, Stapleton.

Want col. man and wife, without children preferably, to work on farm, near Atlanta. House with lights and water. 50-50 basis. Must have good references, as to ability and character. Dr. Robt. E. Latta, Atlanta, 905 Medical Arts Bldg. Tel. La. 1666.

Want good farmer on 50-50 basis, 3-3/4 A tobacco, about 30

POSITIONS WANTED

Want single man, 60 yrs. old, wants job on farm raising cattle or chickens, repairing barns and farm houses, for room, board, salary. Bona Overby, Buford, Rt. 3.

Man and Wife want 1 H farm on 50-50 basis. Prefer South Ga. Experience in tobacco, corn, cotton, etc. Chas. T. Adams, Atlanta, 782 Central Ave., S. W.

Man with wife, 3 children, wants job milking 35-40 cows. Desire place where I can have hogs, and raise small crops. 12 yrs. exp. dairying. Have to be moved. Come see at Ed Knights Dairy. J. M. Price, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

Want job on farm, preferably dairying, 4-5 R house for self, my mother, and 2 small children. W. M. Johnson, Griffin, Rt. 4, Box 41C.

Want job on farm looking after chickens, hogs, and cattle. Also do carpenter and garden work. J. A. White, Atlanta 866 Argonne Ave., N. E. At. 6558.

Want fram for 1954 for standing rent, within 25 mi. radius of Macon or Atlanta. Consider poultry farm. John B. Horne Eastman.

Also Guinea Bunny, see doz. Mrs. Grady Brewer, Toomsboro, Rt. 1.

Sugar June Pear Bushes, 3, $1.75. Mrs. L. E. Sanders, Buchanan, Rt. 2.

Catnip, and Sage, 6 bunches, $1.; Crabapple, May Cherry Trees, Beechnut and Hazelnut Bushes, ea. 6, $1. Add postage. Mrs. Mae Turner, Gainesville, Rt. 6.

HAY AND STRAW (WHEAT, OATS, ETC.) FOR SALE

Lespedeza Hay also 65 bales Crab Grass Hay (approx. 225 bales of both), 85c per bale at farm. Ross Maddox, Winder, Rt. 4.

500 bales hay, baled without rain, combination Bermuda, Dallas Grass, Lespedeza and Ladino Clover, $25.00 ton. Trade for reg. polled Hereford bull. H. J. Parham, Newnan, Rt. 2. Tel. 1989M2.

Baled Bermuda and Lespedeza Hay, $35.00 ton. L. P. Singleton Fort Valley, Rt. 3. Phone 772.

Standard size Lespedeza-Bermuda Hay, highly fertilized, 80c per bale, or priced reasonably by ton. Dr. Eugene Mather, Athens, Rt. 3. Tel. 3869M.

Lespedeza, Sericea and baled Oat hay, 80c per bale, also oat, wheat and rye straw, 50c bale. FOB Farm, 6 mi So. Royston. See, P. S. Cape, Royston, Rt. 2. (Olin W. Guin, Owner).

HOGS FOR SALE

Reg. Tamworth boars for Service. Belfair King, Production Record sire, and Belfair Jack, younger herd sire; also production Record litter of 11 Reg. Tamworth pigs for sale. John P. Demsey, Rome. Belfair Farm, Rt. 2.

OIC Pigs, 8 wks. old, choice breeding stock, reg. in buyer's name, short nose, blocky, treated, from prize winning stock, $20. ea. Mack Patrick, Voc. Ag. Teacher, Rabun Gap.

Hampshire Boar and Gilt Pigs, out of Marietta Girl No. 1513936 (she's from litter of 14 from Model Farm Peer 547215, and Gay Peggy 1062710), good foundation stock, ready Dec. 30th., $27.50 ea. Reg. buyer's name. Clyde Blaylock, Marietta, Rt. 2.

One Reg. Prize Winning Black Poland Boar, 8 mos. old, 250 lbs., cholera immune, $100.; also 10 wks. old, pigs $25. ea. Come see. Will ship. J. R. Mullis, Cochran.

Reg. SPC Fall Boars and Gilts, by The Skyper, service boars and bred gilts, by Master Grand, by Grandmaster, bred to Commanda by Enchanter, satis. guar. Quitman Barrs, Eastman.

OIC pigs, 8 wks. old, choice breeding stock, reg. buyer's name, short nose, blocky, treated, from prize winning stock, $20. ea. Mack Patrick, Voc. Ag. Teacher, Rabun Gap.

SHEEP AND GOATS FOR SALE

Saanan Milk Goat, hornless, gentle, good milk, now giving one quart, never goes dry, ready to breed. Sacrifice for quick sale. G. T. Durham, East Point, 3467 Whipple Ave. CA-6277.

Milk Goats, all bred, start freshening in Dec. for sale. Karl Dayhoof, Hamilton, Rt. 1.

2 young Milk Goats, already bred, $30. for both; 1 Billy, very gentle, $10.; Also Guinea Pigs for sale. Lockard Bell, Atlanta, 2677 Pharr Rd., N. E. Cr. 4390.

About 150 bred Ewes, beginning to lamb, common grades averaged 5 lbs., wool per head at shearing, $12. ea. Sell all or none. E. F. Dean, Odum.

4 dairy goats, 2 Togs. milking (sell one), 2 dry, one white due to freshen Dec. 1st., other a Tog. about ready to breed, sell either; Also Tog. Buck for service. Consider trade. No shipments. Letters ans. 1 mile So. on Hwy. 29. G. P. Cochran, College Park, Rt. 3, Box 224.

RABBITS AND CAVIES FOR SALE

40 or 50 Rabbits, mostly purebred NZW, NZR, (Red, White, Blue Registration), and Champagne; About 3 Chinchillas, 2 Californians, for sale. Contact. H. L. Corbett, Atlanta, 366 Inman St., S. W. RA-1760.

NZW Bucks and Doe Rabbits, 4-12 mos. old, for sale or exch. for 1 good buck not related to mine. C. W. Page, Atlanta, 149 N. Ave., N.E. At. 6452.

Rabbits: 1 Sr pair Giant Chichilla (doe bred) $10.; 1 Sr. NZW Doe, bred, $5.; Sr. Angora Does, gred, $7.50; Angora Bucks, $7. ea. Ship anywhere. John Fields, Griffin. 1018 W. Poplar St.

65 mixed grown rabbits, mostly does, and 17 friers, for sale cheap. Y. W. Phillips, Roberta, Rt. 2.

Purebred 1 NZW Giant Doe with 10-2 wks. old young, 1 pr. 9 mos. old NZW Giants, 1 Pr. 9mos. old Gray Giants, large, $12. Exch. for Buff Cochin or White Silkie Bantams. Cannot Ship. 3 mi. Marietta. Harold Rich, Marietta, Rt. 6, Mitchell Dr. Tel. 8-0686.

Nice purebred Grey Giant Chinchilla Rabbit Does, 8 mos. old, $3.50 ea.; 3, $9. FOB. Write. J. O Adams, Ty Ty ings. R. Lamar Brantley, Wrightsville, Rt. 2.

2 nice Buck Rabbits, 8 mos. and 14 mos. old, one tan, other white, for sale or exch. for 2 bred mother rabbits, Belgium Gray or Red Rufers. Mrs. N. T. Ryan, Tallapoosa.

About 8 White Rabbits, $1.25 ea.; Also 2 White Ducks, $1.50 ea. at my place. Otis Barnett, Atlanta, 613 Glenwood Pl., S. E. Di-3119.

FARM HELP WANTED

Want good 2 H farmer on 50-50 basis with his own equipment. Good 4 R house, elec., school and mail rt. Tobacco, cotton, peanut allotments. Contact. Mrs. D. L. Glausier, Doerun, Rt. 1, Box 140.

Want good settled white or colored woman unencumbered to live in farm home of eldely white lady, and do light fram chores on farm for board, room, small salary. See Mrs. Ora Cain, Buford, Rt. 2.

Want good man for good pebble farm on 3rds. and 4ths. basis, 17 A peanut allotment, good cotton allotment. Located near Hatley. Mrs. A. M. Adams, Cordele.

Want colored man with wife to help farm for wages; Man to farm with tractor 30-60 A corn, cotton, peanuts, tobacco, shares or wages. Good house and lights. No drunks. Start December. W. M. Gay, Abba.

on halves; work when not in crop; Extra good land. 5 R house wired for elec. Stove, mail and bus line in front of door. White community. Will pay for looking after 30 head cattle. W. T. Ray, Athens.

Want man to operate cattle farm for $100.00 monthly and house. See. Johnson Usry, Stapleton.

Want col. man and wife, without children preferably, to work on farm, near Atlanta. House with lights and water. 50-50 basis. Must have good references, as to ability and character. Dr. Robt. E. Latta, Atlanta, 905 Medical Arts Bldg. Tel. La. 1666.

Want good farmer on 50-50 basis, 3-3/4 A tobacco, about 30 A farm land, about 3000 turpentine cups or more. E. A. Powers, Blackshear.

Want reliable, sober person for farm, 63 A, water, pasture, large fruit orchard. 2 houses (large, and small). Standing rent. Mrs. Roy Conner, Atlanta, 2535 House Circle, N. E. Tel. Ex. 5739.

POSITIONS WANTED

Single man, past 50, wants job on farm working with poultry, or as caretaker. T. E. Smith, Atlanta, 1048 Allene Ave., S. W.

Man wants work on farm for rest this year and 1954. Experienced. Can operater tractor, tend hogs and cattle, etc. Desire year around job. O. C. Foskey, Vienna, Rt. 3.

Man with wife, 3 children, wants job milking 35-40 cows. Desire place where I can have hogs, and raise small crops. 12 yrs. exp. dairying. Have to be moved. Come see at Ed Knights Dairy. J. M. Price, Ellijay, Rt. 3.

Want job on farm, preferably dairying, 4-5 R house for self, my mother, and 2 small children. W. M. Johnson, Griffin, Rt. 4, Box 41C.

Want job on farm looking after chickens, hogs, and cattle. Also do carpenter and garden work. J. A. White, Atlanta 866 Argonne Ave., N. E. At. 6558.

Want fram for 1954 for standing rent, within 25 mi. radius of Macon or Atlanta. Consider poultry farm. John B. Horne Eastman.

Want job raising broiler chiskens from 10,000 to 30,000 depending on kind of equipment used. Prefer on 50-50 basis. Experienced, white. Letters ans. Doyal Ferguson, Stockbridge, Rt. 1.

49 yr. old man wants good wage job on farm; or good 2 H farm on halves. Have wife, 2 small children, 1 boy 18 yrs. old Ready to move. Milton Mitchell, Vienna, Rt. 1.

Want 2 H farm for next year on 50-50 basis. Have 3 plows to plow. Dovie Clay, Bowdon.

Man and wife, with 13yrs. exp. in milking 50-75 cows day and other dairy work, wants job on dairy. Ref., and good workers House, and reasonable salary. Contact. Ira Smith, Dublin, Rt. 5, Box 244.

Cattle Prices Paid at Georgia Markets

Grade	Thomaston 11-2	Atlanta 11-3	Athens 11-4	Rome 11-4	Atlanta 11-5	Gainesville 10-30
STEERS & HEIFERS
Good	15.00-18.50	15.25-18.00	15.75-17.75	15.75-18.00	15.50-18.25	-
Coml.	12.50-15.00	13.00-16.00	12.00-13.75	12.50-14.00	13.00-15.75	14.10-
Utility	9.50-12.50	9.50-12.50	9.00-12.00	9.00-11.00	9.50-12.50	9.50-11.25
Cutters	8.00- 9.50	9.00-11.00	8.00- 9.50	8.75-10.25	8.60-10.50	7.75- 8.50
CALVES
Good & Choice	13.00-17.75	13.50-18.50	12.75-17.75	13.00-15.00	13.50-17.00	12.75-14.75
Util. & Coml.	9.00-13.50	9.00-14.00	8.75-13.50	9.00-13.25	9.00-14.00	9.00-13.00
COWS
Utility	8.50-10.25	8.50-10.50	8.75-10.75	8.50-10.00	9.00-10.50	8.50- 9.80
C. & C.	6.00- 8.50	6.00- 8.75	7.00- 9.00	6.00- 8.50	6.50- 9.00	6.00- 8.50
BULLS
Util. & Coml.	10.00-11.80	10.00-12.75	9.50-12.30	9.75-11.50	10.00-11.50	-
Cutters	8.00- 9.30	8.75-10.00	8.00- 9.80	8.50- 9.75	8.50-10.00	8.00- 9.25
STOCKERS
Steers & Heifers	9.00-14.60	9.00-17.25	9.00-16.25	9.00-12.00	9.00-14.50	8.50-10.50
Calves	9.00-15.00	8.75-17.00	8.50-14.75	9.00-15.00	9.50-14.75	9.00-15.75

Source of Information
Federal State Market News Service
50 Seventh Street, N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

Marshall Plan

This Generation's

Chance for Peace

SECRETARY OF STATE GEORGE C. MARSHALL

BACKGROUND ON
'The Marshall Plan'

DISTRIBUTED BY

COMMITTEE FOR THE MARSHALL PLAN TO AID EUROPEAN RECOVERY

EMPIRE STATE BUILDING, NEW YORK 1, N. Y.

HENRY L. STIMSON, National Chairman — ROBERT P. PATTERSON, Chairman, Executive Committee

A Presentation of the Issues by

THE FOREIGN POLICY ASSOCIATION

and

The Washington Post

Section VII.....Nov. 23, 1947

	Page		Page		Page
Mutual Interests Dictated It	2	Billions That Didn't Prime	6	Don't Bet on Bumper Crops	11
ERP Demands U. S. Audacity	2	What Europe Needs Most	7	We Can't Snub Our Debtors	12
Europe Must Take Initiative	3	No Alternative But to Try	7	We Must Buy Europe's Wares	13
The "Impatient" Draftsman	3	Recipients Gird for Self Help	8	Keeping "Strings" on Our Aid	15
16 Nations Embrace Plan	4	Cost: $28 Per Year Apiece	9	Congress Clutches the Reins	15
We Examine Our Resources	5	We're Short of Needed Goods	10	$15 Billion Is a Small Ante	16
$11 Billion Already Granted	6	Cost Should Come From Taxes	11	Only Danger Is in Tinkering	16

COMPLIMENTARY

ASIA CALLING

Birthday Number

February, 1948

Vol. II—No. 1

THE MARSHALL PLAN

QUESTIONS + ANSWERS

Committee for the MARSHALL PLAN
To Aid European Recovery
537 Fifth Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL RELATIONS, INC. • WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

ATOMIC PEACE—OR ATOMIC WAR? A discussion of the need for and the chances of getting a workable plan for the international control of atomic energy.

- Visual aids suggestions A description of the development and use of simple visual aids by group discussion leaders.
- Notes on group discussion Notes and comments on discussion group aims, methods, and promotion.
- We recommend A list of recommended books, pamphlets, films, recordings, services, and forthcoming events of value to program chairmen and discussion leaders.
- Working in the field Reports from our community projects.

price 10 cents

SERIES G-122-1947

Single copies 10 cents . . . 12 copies $1.00 . . . 100 copies $7.50

COPYRIGHT, 1947, NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL RELATIONS, INC.

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

69 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK 3, N. Y.

Telephone Algonquin 4-3550

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta, Eugene M. Martin
Baltimore, Carl Murphy
Berkeley, Calif., Buell G. Gallagher
Birmingham, Ala., Dr. E. W. Taggart
Boston, Dr. John B. Hall, Julian D. Steele
Chicago, Earl B. Dickerson, Bishop W. J. Walls
Cincinnati, Theodore M. Berry
Des Moines, Ia., S. Joe Brown
Detroit, Dr. James J. McClendon, R. J. Thomas
Falls Village, Conn., Dr. William Allan Neilson
Greenwich, Conn., Alfred Baker Lewis
Hartford, Conn., Dr. Allen F. Jackson
Jamaica, N. Y., Dr. John A. Singleton
Newark, N. J., Grace B. Fenderson
New York, Lillian A. Alexander, Hon. Jane M. Bolin, Elmer A. Carter, Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, Marion Cuthbert, Russell W. Davenport, Hon. Hubert T. Delany, Douglas P. Falconer, Lewis S. Gannett, John Hammond, Rev. John Haynes Holmes, Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, Dr. O. Clay Maxwell, Mary White Ovington, A. Philip Randolph, Rev. James H. Robinson, Amy E. Spingarn, Arthur B. Spingarn Northampton, Mass., Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., St. Louis, Topeka, Kans., Washington, New York, Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Hon. Charles E. Toney, Dr. Louis T. Wright, S. Ralph Harlow, Roscoe Dunjee, Theodore Spaulding, Dr. J. M. Tinsley, Sidney R. Redmond, Hon. Arthur Capper, William H. Hastie, Charles H. Houston, Dr. Elizabeth Yates Webb

357

May 3, 1945

FORMAL DEMAND MADE FOR RACE EQUALITY AT SAN FRANCISCO PARLEY

American Delegation Asked by Consultants to Press Also for End of Colonial System and for International Bill of Rights

- - - - - - - - - -

San Francisco, Calif.--A formal statement that "the main groups of mankind, commonly called races, are essentially equal in capability of progress and deserve equality of treatment" was presented to the American delegation at the World Security Conference here May 1 by the NAACP consultants Walter White, Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, and Dr. W. E. B. DuBois.

The statement was presented not only to the American delegation but to all other consultants sent here by 42 organizations designated by the State Department.

Branding the colonial system of government as "undemocratic, socially dangerous and a main cause of wars" the statement called upon the United Nations to see that at the "earliest practical moment no nation or group shall be deprived of effective voice in its own government." The complete text of the statement, drafted by Dr. DuBois, reads:

"The main groups of mankind, commonly called races, are essentially equal in capability of progress and deserve equality of treatment, opportunity and respect in the eyes of both science and religion. All men are brothers with rights to freedom of thought, belief and expression; freedom of domicile movement and communication; justice before the courts and equal civil, economic, political and social rights.

"The first duty of civilization is to see to it that no human being is deprived of these rights because of poverty, disease or ignorance. The colonial system of government, however deeply rooted in history and custom, is today undemocratic, socially dangerous and a main cause of wars. The United Nations, recognizing democracy as the only just way of life for all peoples, make it a first statute of international law that at the earliest practical moment no nation or group shall be deprived of effective voice in its own government.

"An international colonial commission on which colonial peoples shall have representation should have power to investigate the facts and implement this declaration under the security council."

Mrs. Bethune and the two NAACP officials are consulting with various foreign delegations, enlisting wherever possible their support for a strong racial equality provision, for an international bill of rights with machinery to implement it, and for the abolition of colonialism.

Some members of the American delegation are favorable to the general idea, but seem reluctant to press vigorously for specific and decisive action.

On May 1, also, all the American consultants drafted a statement to present to the American delegation which contained the phrase "the nations are to assure justice to peoples of their lands." It was read by Dr. Nolde, consultant from the Federal Council of Churches, and was supported by Judge Proskauer of New York, a consultant of Jewish groups.

Immediately Walter White secured the floor and stated that the NAACP consultants and others wanted to make it clear that this phrase should apply to colonial peoples as well as citizens within the home countries.

It becomes apparent, now that the organization problems of the conference are out of the way, that the issues of race equality and of colonial policy are the dramatic ones before the conference, challenging the moral strength of the powers who declare their belief in democracy. It is equally clear that whereas more delegates are coming to recognize the importance of these issues, the inclination among the Americans and the British is to dodge and not meet them head-on.

Telegrams from individuals and interested groups to Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., chairman of the American delegation in San Francisco, urging a strong race equality plank and the abolition of the colonial system, with substitution of an international trusteeship for dependent peoples, will aid the cause.

The NAACP consultants are also holding frequent conferences with many Negro observers here including the Fraternal Council of Negro Churches, Elks and others. In addition, the NAACP is receiving suggestions from 151 Negro and interracial organizations who were invited by Dr. DuBois to submit ideas which could be presented to the American delegation.

ARKANSAS TEACHERS
TAKE SALARY FIGHT TO U. S. APPEALS COURT

5/3/45

St. Paul, Minn.--The fight of Negro teachers in Little Rock, Arkansas, for equal salaries was carried to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the 8th Circuit here Monday, May 7.

The Little Rock teachers filed their original suit February 28, 1942. They charged that Negro teachers with the same training and experience, performing essentially the same duties, are paid less than white teachers of the same grade and experience, and that this differential is due solely to race and color.

The case was tried on its merits September 28, 1942, in the U. S. court for the Eastern district of Arkansas and on March 10, 1944, Judge Trimble decided against the Negro teachers and gave judgment for the defendant school board.

From this decision the teachers are appealing, and their case was presented to the Circuit Court of Appeals here by J. R. Booker of Little Rock, and Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the NAACP in New York.

As examples of unequal salaries the lawyers set forth in their brief that a Negro teacher with 32 years of experience and an AB degree is receiving $884, whereas a white teacher with 30 years of experience and a BS degree is receiving $1634. Other differentials are cited between the white and colored teachers with from one to twenty years of experience, in both elementary and high school.

The Little Rock board of education maintains that all the teachers are paid on an individual basis pursuant to a system of merit and responsibility, but the schedule of salaries shows a sharp break on the basis of race and color.

The Little Rock case is the second one in the past seven or eight years that the NAACP has been handling these cases in which a school board has chosen to go as high as the Circuit Court of Appeals, which is second only to the U. S. Supreme Court. In the other case, arising in Norfol, Virginia, the Circuit Court of Appeals branded unequal salaries on the basis of race as being unconstitutional. This decision raised the salaries of Norfolk Negro teachers a total of $129,000 annually. The decision has been recognized as the ruling opinion in practically all states and many boards of education have been advised by their lawyers not to fight cases in the courts because of this clear-cut precedent.

The Little Rock board of education refused to admit that the Norfolk opinion applied to the local situation and elected to fight it out into the high courts. The Negro teachers are equally confident and determined. If the Circuit Court of Appeals here should decide for the Negro teachers, legal circles believe that the principle will have been so firmly established that equalization of salaries will follow generally throughout the South.

NAACP YOUTH GROUPS
BACK RACE EQUALITY 5/3/45
AT SAN FRANCISCO

New York, N.Y.--Resolutions urging a declaration of racial equality by the San Francisco conference, a permanent FEPC, and non-discriminatory treatment of returning veterans were adopted by the advisory council for youth groups of the NAACP which met here April 28-29. Representatives came from ten communities and colleges as far west as Langston university in Oklahoma, and as far south as Paine college, Augusta, Georgia.

The delegates also voted to hold an essay contest next fall on the subject "Problems of Minority Youth in Our Community and the Solutions." Prizes are to be war bonds and stamps. The meeting was held in the Church of the Master, 122nd street and Morningside avenue, and arrangements were made by Mrs. Ruby H. Hurley, NAACP secretary for youth work.

TRUCK COMPANY
SENDS NAACP $670 5/3/45

New York, N.Y.--Memberships and contributions in the amount of $670 were sent to the NAACP by the 3990th Quartermaster Truck company through Cpl. Theodore Lester. This is the second remittance from this company which sent the NAACP $211 last August.

CONNECTICUT SENATE PASSES
FEPC BILL; GOP Opposes 5/3/45

Hartford, Conn.--A state FEPC bill was passed here last week by the Connecticut state senate by a vote of 25-10. The ten votes against it were cast by Republicans, but five Republicans were among the 25 voting for the bill. The bill now goes to the lower house where the Republicans are in the majority and the prospects are not regarded as bright, although not hopeless. Negro Republican leaders are gloomy, declaring they cannot hold their people in line for the party if the GOP defeats the FEPC bill.

File: San Francisco Conf.

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

69 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK 3, N. Y.

Telephone Algonquin 4-3550

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN
President

MARY WHITE OVINGTON
Treasurer

WALTER WHITE
Secretary

ROY WILKINS
Assistant Secretary

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta, Baltimore, Berkeley, Calif., Birmingham, Ala., Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Des Moines, Ia., Detroit
Eugene M. Martin, Carl Murphy, Buell G. Gallagher, Dr. E. W. Taggart, Dr. John B. Hall, Julian D. Steele, Earl B. Dickerson, Bishop W. J. Walls, Theodore M. Berry, S. Joe Brown, Dr. James J. McClendon, R. J. Thomas
Falls Village, Conn., Greenwich, Conn., Hartford, Conn., Jamaica, N. Y., Newark, N. J., New York
Dr. William Allan Neilson, Alfred Baker Lewis, Dr. Allen F. Jackson, Dr. John A. Singleton, Grace B. Fenderson, Lillian A. Alexander, Hon. Jane M. Bolin, Elmer A. Carter, Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, Marion Cuthbert, Russell W. Davenport, Hon. Hubert T. Delany
New York
Douglas P. Falconer, Lewis S. Gannett, John Hammond, Rev. John Haynes Holmes, Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, Dr. O. Clay Maxwell, Mary White Ovington, A. Philip Randolph, Rev. James H. Robinson, Amy E. Spingarn, Arthur B. Spingarn
New York, Northampton, Mass., Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., St. Louis, Topeka, Kans., Washington
Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Hon. Charles E. Toney, Dr. Louis T. Wright, S. Ralph Harlow, Roscoe Dunjee, Theodore Spaulding, Dr. J. M. Tinsley, Sidney R. Redmond, Hon. Arthur Capper, William H. Hastie, Charles H. Houston, Dr. Elizabeth Yates Webb

357

May 17, 1945

NAACP SEES DANGER TO U. S. MINORITIES AND COLONIALS IN INTERVENTION CLAUSE

San Francisco -

During the next week or ten days will be decided the fate of the proposals which the NAACP consultants, along with many others, have been urging. Very substantial progress has been made in that the Big Four--United States, Britain, Soviet Union and China--are jointly sponsoring some 20 amendments which will be voted upon in plenary sessions by representatives of the 49 nations. These include the following:

An amendment to Chapter I stating the purposes of the International Organization, reading, (the underscored is new material)

> To achieve international cooperation in the solution of international economic, social, cultural and other humanitarian problems and promotion and encouragement of respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, language, religion or sex.

An amendment to Chapter 5 specifying the functions and powers of the General Assembly. (The underscored is new material)

> The General Assembly should initiate studies and make recommendations for the purpose of promoting international cooperation in political, economic, social and cultural fields to assist in the realization of human rights and basic freedoms for all, without distinction as to race, language, religion or sex and also for the encouragement of the development of international law.

An amendment to Chapter 9 dealing with "Arrangements for International Economic and Social Cooperation", reading,

> The Economic and Social Council should set up commissions in the fields of economic activity, social activity, cultural activity, promotion of human rights and any other field within the competence of the Council.

The Social and Economic Council will be the administrative agency of the Security Council and of the Assembly.

Consultants Contend For Specific Definition of Safeguards at San Francisco Conference

A limiting clause considered dangerous and unfortunate, and which NAACP consultants are working assiduously to eliminate or drastically modify reads: "Nothing contained in this charter shall authorize the Organization to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the State concerned or which requires the members to submit such matters to settlement under this Charter."

The United States delegation has proposed an amendment to Chapter V dealing with the functions and powers of the General Assembly which some contend will give the International Organization the right to inquire into "domestic" matters despite the amendment quoted above dealing with principles prohibiting intervention in matters "which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the State concerned." The United States proposal provides, "Subject to the provisions of paragraph I of this Section, the General Assembly should be empowered to recommend measures for the peaceful adjustment of any situation, regardless of origin, which it deems likely to impair the general welfare or friendly relations among nations, including situations resulting from a violation of the Purposes and Principles set forth in this Charter." But it is the contention of the NAACP consultants that this does not sufficiently empower whatever international organization is set up to intervene in what some countries might claim are "domestic matters", but which do endanger peace.

The NAACP consultants have pointed out vigorously that under such a provision, England might, for example, say that conditions in India or Nigeria or the British West Indies are exclusively domestic matters, or the United States might say that the perpetuation of lynching or segregation, which cause colored peoples of the world today to distrust the United Nations, are exclusively domestic matters. To take it out of the realm of race, another Hitler might arise using anti-Semitism or some other form of bigotry and elevate himself to power and thus endanger peace by bringing about another war by claiming that this was purely a domestic matter. NAACP consultants are urging that this section either be eliminated altogether or very greatly modified by a specific but unequivocal definition of what is termed domestic and what is termed a situation affecting world peace.

One of the high points of the meeting of consultants was on May 15th when Mrs. Bethune made a most moving appeal that the future of not only American Negroes but all oppressed peoples must be one of the paramount concerns of the International Organization.

WHITE TO ADDRESS
MEETINGS IN EAST 5/17/45

San Francisco, California - Walter White, NAACP secretary and consultant to the American delegation at the San Francisco Conference, left May 15 by plane to fill speaking and other engagements in the east. Roy Wilkins, NAACP assistant secretary, will substitute until Mr. White's return.

DECISION PENDING IN SOUTH CAROLINA
TEACHERS' SALARY CASE 5/17/45

Columbia, S.C.--In the teachers salary case of Albert Thompson vs the Richland County School Commissioners, NAACP attorneys Edward R. Dudley and Arthur D. Shores of Birmingham, Alabama, brought out under cross examination of board members and the superintendent of schools that despite abolition of differentials based on color in 1941, such schedules still obtain today. The case was taken under advisement by Federal Judge J. Waties Waring in the United States Western District Court of South Carolina.

Thompson, a teacher in the Booker Washington Heights elementary school filed a class suit against the Board in February seeking a declaratory judgment and injunction restraining the board from paying less salary to Negro school teachers and principals possessing substantially equal qualifications, experience and training than to white teachers solely on account of race and color. During the trial of the case, Superintendent Flora admitted that prior to 1941 there was a difference in salaries based upon race with Negroes getting less. However he attempted to justify the present difference in salary on the basis of teacher availability.

The school board maintained that the salary schedule based on race was abolished in 1941 and since that time all teachers were paid on an individual basis. Attorneys Dudley and Shores brought out the fact that no matter how qualified were Negro teachers and principals, salaries were always far below that of less qualified whites. Salaries of $437 per month for white principals and $288 per month for assistants were cited in contrast to $260 per month for a Negro principal holding a Masters degree from Columbia with over 20 years teaching experience. No assistants were provided in the latter instance.

The recertification plan recently passed in South Carolina governing teachers salaries is based on: (1) years of experience; (2) educational qualifications; (3) teachers' rating on the national teachers examination, mandatory now by statute. The good faith in which the plan is being administered, was questioned by Dudley.

BOSTON PRINTERS DISCONTINUE
OBJECTIONABLE POSTCARDS 5/17/45

Washington, D.C.--Tichnor Brothers, Inc., of Boston, Massachusetts, printers of post cards showing local views has advised the NAACP that it will discontinue printing post cards entitled Whipping Post, Dover, Delaware. The objectionable card printed in color, shows a Negro being lashed at the whipping post while a number of men and teen-age white boys look on.

In a letter requesting discontinuance, Leslie Perry of the Washington Bureau NAACP said, "I think you will agree that whipping as a means of punishment is shocking to the present generation of Americans who deeply resent the infliction of cruel and unusual punishment. In these circumstances it is understandable that the use of a Negro whippee in this picture is doubly revolting to the Negro servicemen and women fighting and dying for democracy."

After explanation of the company policy of filling orders for local scenes furnished by the customer, Arthur Tichnor, president of the firm replied, "we certainly are in hearty agreement with you regarding the particular subject you mention showing the whipping post, Dover, Delaware. This is to advise that as far as we are concerned, we will not reproduce this subject again and will advise our customer in Dover, accordingly."

WHITE AND DU BOIS WRITE ON COLONIAL PROBLEMS AT SAN FRANCISCO PARLEY 5/17/45

San Francisco, Calif.--Widely discussed articles of particular interest to the foreign delegation attending the San Francisco Conference are those appearing now in the New York Post by NAACP consultants Walter White and Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, dealing with the major issues of Colonial trusteeship, human rights and the race question in general. The articles are credited with an important role focusing attention on the final problem of the World Security machinery relative to colonial peoples and strategic bases.

In the series which will be available later in pamphlet form, White and Du Bois reveal the negligible practices of purported democracies toward peoples and colonies under their control, which in no wise can be reconciled with the objectives of World War II being fought in the name of "Freedom for all men everywhere."

On the question of the necessity for heavily dominated bases in the Pacific, Walter White queries their need and establishment and challenges the validity of such claims as follows (May 3, issue of New York Post) "How much need will there be for heavily armed bases in the Pacific if (a) all the Allied nations, especially Great Britain and Russia, join in rendering Japan as impotent as they are now rendering Germany, and, (b) if an honest peace which will assure the freedom of men and women of every race, creed, color and national origin throughout the world is drafted and enforced and thereby makes war less necessary and inevitable.

"The second question deals with the mechanics of establishment of such bases not only in the Pacific but at Singapore, Hongkong, the Suez Canal, Manchukuo or the Caribbean. The U. S. Army and Navy, backed vigorously by the Hearst press and certain other organs, are reputedly urging a policy of telling the existing colonial powers that they can do what they will with their colonies--past, present or future--if, in return, they abstain from interfering with American dominance in Pacific bases believed to be necessary to protect the American mainland.

"If it is necessary to ensure world peace by fortification," he says, "why should not their creation and maintenance be entrusted to whatever association of nations may be devised instead of to individual nations? We are doing precisely that in our plans for four-power control of occupied Germany. Why not similar and expanded joint cooperation action in other areas of the world, based upon whatever association of nations which must follow the end of the wars if civilization is to survive?"

Colonials Must Be Heard

Facts and figures to refute the theory that in reality dictatorships were bitterly aligned against democracies in World War II, are impressively presented by Dr. Du Bois (May 4 issue) in pointing out the true status and limitation of the democratic idea. The NAACP Director of Special Research states: "Nor can it be reconciled with any philosophy of democracy that 50,000,000 white folks of the British empire should be able largely to control the destiny of 450,000,000 yellow, brown and black people. And again, inside the same Empire, it is both astonishing and discouraging to find among the leading 'free nations' battling for 'democracy' the Union of South Africa, where 2,000,000 white folk hold 8,000,000 natives and colored folk in a subordination unequalled elsewhere in the world.

"To this we may add the fact that before the present war 73,000,000 Japanese ruled 80,000,000 peoples in Manchukuo, Formosa and other territories without giving them any decisive voice in their government. In France 38,000,000 whites rule 71,000,000 colored peoples in Africa and Asia. Portuguese with 7,000,000 rule 10,000,000 Africans and the United States of America rule 19,000,000 colored people in Alaska and the Philippines."

Moral Power May Be Affected

In essaying the need for effective international machinery to outlaw for all times imperialism and the seeds of bitterness breeding a World War III, Walter White warns (N.Y.Post, May 5)" If the San Francisco conference dodges the issue of freedom for colonial peoples and of colored populations in the United States, West Indies, South America and other parts of the world or if racial imperialism based on 'mandates' and 'protectorates' is perpetuated, the conferees here will merely lay the groundwork for a third and even more disastrous war instead of carving out a durable peace.

"This does not mean a world racial war, at least within measurable time. It will more likely mean a resumption of bitter struggle between the existing nations for air and sea trade routes, raw materials, manpower and spheres of influence, particularly in the colonies.

"That is why the adoption of an International Bill of Rights and the establishment of machinery to make it effective are a basic necessity before the San Francisco delegates. Such a Bill of Rights must be one of the instruments to revise concepts of race theories like Nazism which are almost as current in the United States and Great Britain as they were in Hitler's Germany."

Lynching

1946 saw eight Negro citizens of the United States die at the hands of lynching mobs. Two of the victims were women, while three wer veterans of World War II with overseas service. The NAACP feels duty bound to point out however, that although the lynching record shows eight victims, there is much evidence pointing to the fact that there actually have been many more. These lynchings, taking place in remote southern areas where the residents are terrorized into maintaining silence, are never reported in the press. The Association's investigators are now attempting to clear up the circumstances surrounding several of these "deaths from unknown causes" and it is feared that their findings will increase the 1946 lynching toll.

Lynching Record for 1946

July 20: Rupert's District, Taylor County, Georgia:
MACIO SNIPES, veteran, the only Negro to vote in the Georgia primary from Rupert's District, was shot and killed on the porch of his home by ten white men who pretended they had come to collect a $10 debt.

July 24: Lexington, Mississippi:
The lynching of LEON McTATIE, whose body was found by a Negro fisherman in a Sunflower County bayou, occured on or about July 24. McTatie had been accused of stealing a saddle, a fact later disproved. He was set upon and beaten by six white Mississippi farmers when he denied knowledge of the theft. Sheriff W. L. Murtagh said "it was evident" that McTatie had been thrown into the bayou from a car and that he was dead at the time. His attackers have been apprehended. They deny all knowledge of his death.

July 25: Monroe, Georgia:
ROGER MALCOLM, GEORGE DORSEY, a veteran, together with their wives, WILLIE MAE and DOROTHY, were dragged from a car and shot to death by an unmasked band of twenty white men. Loy Harrison, a well-to-do white tenant farmer who allegedly needed their labor on his farm drove to Monroe on July 25 with three of them to make bond for Roger Malcolm. Malcolm had been jailed in Monroe on a charge of stabbing his former employer, Barney Hester, during a quarrel which arose over the undue attention being paid Mrs. Malcolm by the latter. Malcolm's temporary release was obtained. As the five were returning to Harrison's farm they were halted by a mob. Harrison was held at gun point while the Negro couples were lined up and shot. The coroner reported that at least sixty bullets were used to riddle the victims. Their mutilated bodies, scarcely recognizable, were found sprawled beside a clump of bushes on a lonely road.

August 3: Gordon, Georgia: (NAACP INVESTIGATOR)
JOHN J. GILBERT, participant in unionizing activities of chalk mines, died of "gunshot at the hand of unknown parties" on the morning of August 3rd, about 500 yards from his home while on his regular route to work at 5:30 in the morning. It was rumored in Gordon that his death came as a result of making enemies among the whites by his union activity.

August 8: Minden, Louisiana:
JOHN C. JONES, 28, discharged veteran of European service was found dead two miles from Minden in Dorcheat Bayou. His body had been horribly beaten with "some flat object--such as a wide leather belt or a thick plank", his face and body burned with a blow torch so that his eyes were "popped" out of his head and his light complexion seared dark. His wrists were mutilated with a cleaver and he had been partially castrated. He and his 17 year old companion, Albert Harris, were turned over by the sheriff to a mob in two cars, containing white men and one woman, a few minutes after their release from Minden parish jail, where they had been confined a week for allegedly attempting to break into the house of a white woman who refused to press charges. Jones and Harris were driven to the bayou, where Jones was tortured and killed and Harris beaten and shot in the shoulder. Left for dead, Harris managed to escape, however. Jones, who had brought a German automatic from Europe, had been told by a white neighbor that he would get Jones' gun if he had to kill him to do it.

PRESS SERVICE OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Telephone Longacre 3-6890

RECEIVED JUL 18 1947 Southern Regional Council

ARTHUR B. SPINGARN, President
MARY WHITE OVINGTON, Treasurer
DR. ALLAN KNIGHT CHALMERS, Assistant Treasurer
WALTER WHITE, Secretary
ROY WILKINS, Assistant Secretary

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta, Baltimore, Berkeley, Calif., Birmingham, Ala., Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Des Moines, Ia., Detroit, Ft. Worth, Tex.
Eugene M. Martin, Carl Murphy, Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, Dr. E. W. Taggart, Dr. John B. Hall, Earl B. Dickerson, Bishop W. J. Walls, Theodore M. Berry, Dr. Nathan K. Christopher, Ike Smalls, Dr. James J. McClendon, Dr. George D. Flemmings
Greenwich, Conn., Hartford, Conn., Hyde Park, N. Y., Jamaica, N. Y., Los Angeles, Calif., Newark, N. J., New York
Alfred Baker Lewis, Dr. Allen F. Jackson, Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. John A. Singleton, Norman O. Houston, Grace B. Fenderson, Lillian A. Alexander, Hon. Jane M. Bolin, Elmer A. Carter, Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, Marion Cuthbert, Russell W. Davenport
New York
Hon. Hubert T. Delany, Lewis S. Gannett, John Hammond, Rev. John Haynes Holmes, Hon. Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, Dr. O. Clay Maxwell, Mary White Ovington, Rev. James H. Robinson, Amy E. Spingarn, Arthur B. Spingarn, Dr. Channing H. Tobias
New York, Northampton, Mass., Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., Topeka, Kans., Washington
Hon. Charles E. Toney, Palmer Weber, Dr. Louis T. Wright, S. Ralph Harlow, Roscoe Dunjee, Theodore Spaulding, Dr. J. M. Tinsley, Hon. Arthur Capper, William H. Hastie, Charles H. Houston, Eric Johnston, Philip Murray

25

FOR RELEASE - July 18, 1947

FLAWS REVEALED IN MASSACRE REPORTS

July 18, 1947

Brunswick, Ga., Jul 16th--Investigators from the Brunswick NAACP branch, working quietly in an attempt to assemble the actual facts leading up to the mass murder of seven Negro prisoners at the state prison camp near here, today indicated that they had uncovered several details of a rather sensational nature which varied considerably from reports already published on the Nation's latest anti-Negro outrage. Although a full report has not yet been completed by officials and attorneys of the branch, several facts which are considered highly authentic, have been relayed to NAACP national headquarters in New York City.

According to NAACP investigators, who were rushed to the death camp immediately following the shooting in which six prisoners were killed outright and seven seriously wounded, there had been no sit-down strike of prisoners as originally reported. The men had simply refused to go into the rattle-snake infested swamp waters without boots. They demanded a meeting with the warden where they could explain their objections but this demand was refused by armed guards who were in charge of the work gang. When the men refused to enter the swamp they were told to sit in the road while one of the guards returned to the camp to report the situation to the warden. Only two guards remained with the men who were perfectly aware of the fact that there were fifteen heavily armed guards back at the camp. It was pointed out to the investigators by one of the prisoners, that if an escape had been contemplated it would have been more feasable with only two guards over them than later, when they'd been returned to camp in trucks, under the guns of seventeen guards.

The trucks carrying the prisoners back to camp was followed by the warden, who requested county police who were met on the road, to follow the caravan.

The Negro prisoners were unloaded in front of the barracks where the warden ordered five prisoners to "step out". This the men refused to do when it was obvious to the tightly packed group that the warden was reeling drunk. The warden then ordered 'Pee Wee' Willie Bell to step out "because I'm going to kill you." When Bell refused this order the warden sent for some pick handles. A few minutes later the intoxicated warden spoke to County Police Chief Henderson, who got into his car and drove to Brunswick, sixteen miles away, returning with a sub-machine gun. During all of this time the prisoners made no attempts to escape.

When the police chief returned with the machine gun, the warden reeled into the packed prisoners "holding his pistol with both hands" to get Pee Wee. A few moments later the shooting began. The survivors insisted that the police took part in the shooting. This has been denied by the police. One investigator was certain that the machine gun had been used against the helpless prisoners.

C. M. Moore, president of the local NAACP branch, discussing the "shot while attempting to escape" massacre, stated, "We are not upholding wilfull law violators, but so many rumors have been circulated since this unfortunate affair, we feel that a full sifting of the incident should be made."

Published reports reaching the outside world from the death camp gave a considerably different picture from the NAACP findings. One of the first versions appeared in a local paper where it was reported... "When Warden H. G. Worthy of State Highway Camp No. 18 strode into a group of unruly Negro convicts at about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Willie Bell, a long-timer and reported trouble-maker lunged at him. The warden shot Bell with his pistol and immediately half a dozen other armed prison guards opened fire on the convicts with shotguns and pistols.

(Continued)

"A few seconds later the firing had ceased and five of the colored convicts lay dead, eight others were wounded, one dying during the night at the city hospital. Bell received only a minor wound in the leg.

"Witnesses said at the first shot by Warden Worthy, the prisoners broke in all directions, men scrambled under the nearby bunk house. Three of the dead Negros lay where they fell in front of the bunk house. Another was killed under the house and had to be dragged out, and the fifth managed to crawl under the house to a 10-foot wire fence on the other side. He was shot climbing the fence and fell dead on the outside.

"The wounded lay where they fell, some under the bunk house building, others sprawled in front of it. Fourteen of the group of 27 prisoners in the group were not hit by the bullets and crouched or lay still on the ground as guards rounded them up and herded them into the bunk house."

CONGRESS URGED TO PROBE
REAL ESTATE INTERESTS July 18, 1947

Washington, D.C., Jul 16th--The Washington Bureau NAACP asked the Congressional leaders to institute "a searching investigation of real estate and mortgage investment interests of this country." This request follows close on the heels of President Truman's message to Congress in which the real estate lobby was described as "one of the most stubborn obstacles in the way of any constructive housing program."

In letters to Senator Robert A. Taft, Chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, Senator Charles W. Tobey, Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, and Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic Minority Leader, the NAACP urged hearings on Senate Resolution 139. This resolution, introduced by Senator Glen H. Taylor (D., Utah), would authorize the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to spend up to fifty thousand dollars to completely investigate the activities and methods of real estate groups which have fought rent control and the construction of urgently needed homes for veterans and others.

The letters signed by Leslie Perry declared:

"The Congress should investigate not only the operations of the real estate lobby in Washington but should make a painstaking and searching inquiry into restrictive practices of real estate and mortgage investment interests nationally.

"The opposition of these groups to decent, unsegregated homes has been the greatest single factor in confining Negro citizens to the slums and ghettos. The result has been," Perry wrote, "that the Negro pays more for his home in relation to what he gets, a higher rate of interest, and has the least freedom of choice in buying and renting than any other group in America."

He referred to statements which came out of the 43rd annual convention of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards held June 28 to the effect that many large investors refused to build moderate-rental housing projects for low income or white collar groups simply because New York City has an ordinance which prohibits condemnation benefits or tax exemptions to any project which discriminates against tenants solely because of race, color, or religion. The fact that the New York Association of Real Estate Boards also adopted a resolution opposing the enactment of local non-discrimination laws was called to the attention of the senators.

"In practically every other city and state in the United States," the letters continued, "these rapacious interests are able to manipulate the real estate market so as to effect wholesale discriminations against Negro home-seekers Now that they are no longer able to legally follow their usual undemocrat c practices in New York City, tney stage a sit-down strike.

(Continued)

"In the best interest of millions of American families of all races, colors, religions, and nationalities," the NAACP letters concluded, "we believe that the Congress should immediately inquire into the overall real estate situation."

ANTI-LYNCH DRIVE
LAUNCHED IN HOUSE July 18, 1947

Washington, D.C., Jul 16th--Following the introduction last week of Discharge Petition #9 on the Case Anti-Lynch Bill, H.R. 3488, the Washington Bureau NAACP launched a full-scale drive to secure the necessary 218 signatures to bring the bill to the House floor before the Congress adjourns for the summer.

NAACP officials said that there are more than a hundred members in the House today who had joined in signing a similar discharge petition during the 79th Congress. With the support of these members, together with the large number of newly-elected representatives, the NAACP is hopeful of getting speedy action on the bill.

In direct appeals to more than 200 legislators for action on the anti-lynch bill, the NAACP called on them to "help outlaw lynching by signing Discharge Petition #9."

No figures on the number of Congressmen who signed the petition during the first week have been made public, but it is understood that the response has been good.

JIM-CRO HOSPITAL
UNDER NAACP FIRE July 18, 1947

New York, Jul 17th--The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People restated its uncompromising opposition to any attempts to establish Jim-Crow veterans' hospitals today when Roy Wilkins, NAACP assistant secretary, notified Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) of the Association's stand.

In a message wired to the congresswoman, who is chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee, Mr. Wilkins stated, "The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has noted in the press that the House Veterans' Affairs Committee has approved a bill to establish a hospital for Negro veterans in Franklin County, Virginia. We wish to reaffirm our opposition to the policy of setting up of hospitals for veterans segregated on the basis of color. The United States Army hospitals are on a non-segregated basis. The hospitals on the fighting fronts during wartime were non-segregated. If all men who fought and were wounded for their country during wartime could be treated without segregation surely our Government should not adopt a policy of separating them on the basis of color in veterans hospitals during peace time. We believe that such a policy nullifies the goal which the allied countries fought to achieve namely the destruction of the armies dedicated to the master race theory. We urge your Committee to reconsider its action and to disapprove any policy calling for the segregation of veterans on the basis of race and color."

UMT HEARINGS CLOSE,
ACTION PROTESTED July 18, 1947

Washington, D.C., Jul 17th--The NAACP, through its Secretary of Veterans' Affairs, Jesse O. Dedmon, requested permission to testify before the House Committee on Armed Services holding hearings on Universal Military Training, and upon being denied the right to be heard, the following telegram was sent to Representative W. G. Andrews, Chairman:

"Information received by National Association for the Advancement of Colored People that House Committee on Armed Services of which you are Chairman plans to close hearings on U.M.T. Bill without permitting our organization to appear before said Committee. Our organization made request to appear before this Committee and testify against this most vital piece of legislation and said request has not been acknowledged by your office or Committee. We strongly urge that before your Committee stops hearings on this piece of legislation that our organization be permitted to testify."

SOUTH CAROLINA JUDGES
OPINION HAILED BY NAACP

July 18, 1947

New York, Jul 17th--With editorial comment in the Nation's press, following the recent NAACP victory over South Carolina's Democratic Primaries sleight-of-hand attempt, running the gamut of optimistic applause in the liberal publications to outraged warnings of "social revolution" in Southern journals, NAACP officials were generally agreed that the opinion handed down by Federal Judge J. Waties Waring, of Charleston, S.C., completely exposed bigoted Southern attempts to uphold the theory of white supremacy in a democracy while at the same time it effectively blocked any further attempts to evade the 1946 decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in respect to the so-called Democratic 'White Primaries'. In another opinion Judge Waring aroused the ire of white supremacists when he ruled that South Carolina must admit Negroes to its University Law School unless a separate law school with equal facilities be set up by September. Both cases were brought into the South Carolina courts by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Although the Charleston News and Courier in a series of alarmed editorials warned that the "fundamental rights of all American citizens under the guise of helping a few" were destroyed when Judge Waring ruled that the South Carolina Democratic "club" could not prohibit citizens the right to vote because of race or color, his opinion is considered remarkably democratic. In one section the Federal judge labels hypocrisy when he states..."And so we are faced with the final decision as to whether or not the present Democratic Pary of South Carolina, because it is no longer governed by State statutes, is a private organization and (as was said in argument) must be treated as a private, business or social club, with which the State and National Governments have no concern; or is it after all the determining body in the choice of National and State officers in South Carolina, or to use the old homely illustration, is it the same horse although of a somewhat different color?"

In another section Judge Waring continued..."In these United States the time has passed for a discussion of whether we should have universal suffrage, irrespective of our views as to its desirability. The Constitution and laws of the United States provide for it and forbid discrimination because of race or creed. A free ballot to be freely exercised by all the citizens is the established American way of government."

Completely exposing the bigotry of his section of the nation Judge Waring stated in conclusion..."Since the Classic case Negroes are voting in the Louisiana Primaries. Since Smith vs. Allwright, Negroes are voting in Texas, and even in Georgia since Chapman vs. King Negroes vote in the Democratic Primaries. I cannot see where the skies will fall if South Carolina is put in the same class with these and other states.

To - Dr. Charles S. Johnson with friendly greetings - Oakley C. Johnson

Law Enforcement of Penalties by Law

Oakley C. Johnson
3564 Virgil Blvd.
New Orleans 22, La.

IS THE PUNISHMENT OF RAPE EQUALLY ADMINISTERED TO NEGROES AND WHITES IN THE STATE OF LOUISIANA? *

A Study by Oakley C. Johnson

******

For convenience, this Study is presented under five heads, as follows:

Exhibit I. Statistical: The official figures of executions in Louisiana for rape from 1900 to 1950; and some data from old prison records (1866 to 1889) at the Louisiana State Penitentiary, Angola, La., for comparison. The question posed.

Exhibit II. Legal: Territorial and state laws; pre-Civil War laws; the Black Code; later statutes.

Exhibit III. The Constitutions of Louisiana, territorial, pre-Civil War, Reconstruction, post-Reconstruction.

Exhibit IV. The Social Background in this State with respect to segregation of races, lynching, police brutality.

Exhibit V. The Special Category implicitly reserved for white rapists. Reply to the question posed in Exhibit 1.

******

* Prepared for Attorney Louis Berry, and for Attorneys Alvin B. Jones and Leroy White, in cooperation with the Louisiana Civil Rights Congress. Occasion for this Study was the case of Paul Washington, Jefferson Parish, La., 24-year-old World War 11 veteran, sentenced to die in the electric chair for alleged rape committed March 15, 1948. He was arrested shortly after his discharge from the Army after 21 months overseas, and has been confined in the death cell of the Jefferson Parish jail in Gretna, La., since that time. Washington maintains his innocence...Not only did Paul Washington fight in World War 11, but his five brothers also--every one of them!--served in the armed forces...His wife, Velma, and his 3-year-old daughter, Ella Mae (born two weeks after he was jailed), staunchly defend him...Velma Washington's brother Leonard was lynched in 1941.

JUN 7 1951

EXHIBIT I. Crime Statistics

According to the census of 1940, the population of Louisiana was 2,363,880, including 849,303 Negroes, the latter constituting 35.9% of the total.[1] While we cannot draw from population statistics exact mathematical conclusions about the extent of crime in any section of the population, we are nevertheless justified in assuming that, by and large, the proportion of crime among whites and Negroes, and the corresponding punishments, would roughly correspond to their proportion of the population. This would be modified by the relative social conditions of the two groups, and perhaps other factors; but if Negroes constitute 35.9% of the population, they would commit a not too disproportionate share of the crimes perpetrated, and would receive a not too disproportionate share of the punishments therefor.

In the attached list of persons punished for rape in this state for the years 1900 to 1950, inclusive--a full half-century--there have been, according to the records in the office of the Secretary of State at Baton Rouge,

1) The 1950 census gives Louisiana a total population of 2,683,516, but there is no breakdown into racial categories. That is why the 1940 census figures are used here. There is no reason to suppose that the percentages in the recent census would differ materially from the 1940 census.

exactly 39 executions for rape (hanging up to 1941; electrocution thereafter). Of those put to death, all but two have been Negro. One white man, who confessed to the rape of a 17-year-old white girl who had been crippled from birth, was a railroad worker, Thomas Brady, not a native of Louisiana, and was hanged in 1906; the other white man was a foreigner, Lazar Mehogrvich, hanged in 1907 for the rape of a white woman. Since 1907, a period of 43 years, not one white rapist has been put to death, though 29 Negroes have been.

Of the convicted rapists sentenced to death whose sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, two white men--one-half of all the white rapists sentenced to death--had their death sentences commuted to life imprisonment. It is very difficult to secure commutation for a Negro convicted of rape: The 17-year-old Negro boy, Lewis Young, in the parish of St. John the Baptist, was hanged on October 11,1907,regardless of his youth. Furthermore, the punishment for "aggravated rape" is meted out no matter how supposititious the charge: Sam Wright, a Negro, was hanged in 1900 for "Breaking and entering in the night time,and with a dangerous weapon, and assault with intent to commit rape;" and Bob Burton, also a Negro, was hanged in 1905 for "Breaking and entering dwelling house in night time with intent to commit rape." Similarly with George Stewart (1907), Tobe Stevens (1908), Emanuel Johnson (1909), Henry Slaughter (1914), Jimmie Johnson (1929).

In addition to the number of Negroes officially put to death by the State of Louisiana, there were three others put to death in this state by the United States Government, during World War 11, in 1942: Corporal John Walter Bordenave, 29; Private Lawrence Mitchell, 18; and Private Richard Philip Adams, 25. They are added to the total in the attached list because their punishment took place on Louisiana soil and by means of the state's portable electric chair, loaned for the purpose. These three make a total of 40 Negroes put to death for rape in this state since 1900, as compared to 2 white men.

The QUESTION is: Can we find an explanation for this surprising difference by studying the legal, constitutional, and social history of this state?

Addendum: Following the table of executions for rape during 1900-1950 is a selection of old rape records from the period 1866-1889 of the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola, La.. The following facts are clear from an examination of these old records:

1) From Civil War days until the consolidation of white political control, punishment for rape was imprisonment only, never death; pardoning was frequent; and a differentiation was made between "rape" and "intent to rape".

2) Race differences were noted for the purpose of description, but had not yet hardened into caste differences. 3) After the solidification of white rule politically, the setting up of the death penalty for rape gave opportunity to return to virtual implied re-enactment of the Black Code with its differentiation between punishment for whites and punishment for Negroes.

WHITES Convicted of Rape & Sentenced to Death

(From recorded death warrants in the office of the Secretary of State at Baton Rouge)

NAME	PARISH	DATE SET FOR EXECUTION	COMMUTED
James Hebert alias Frederick Hebert	Cameron	9/11/1903 (Not hanged)	10/27/1903 Life imprisonment
Thomas Brady alias Thomas C. Braden	Rapides	Hanged 12/7/1906
Lazar Mehogrvich alias George Norris	Orleans	Hanged 8/9/1907
William Braxton	Beauregard	6/14/1918 (Not Hanged)	6/14/1918 Life imprisonment

Total Number of Whites

Executed: 2 Commuted: 2

NEGROES Convicted of Rape & Sentenced to Death

(From recorded death warrants in the office of the Secretary of State in Baton Rouge)

NAME	PARISH	DATE SET FOR EXECUTION	COMMUTED
Sam Wright	Jefferson	Hanged 2/9/1900
Will Farmer	Caddo	Hanged 9/7/1900 (After one reprieve)
Moses D. Lewis	Orleans	Hanged 9/23/1904
Amos Holmes alias Oliver Holmes	Iberia	Hanged 7/7/1905
William Young	Richland	Hanged 5/11/1906
Bob Burton	Lincoln	Hanged 8/4/1905
Ed Williams	Ascension	Hanged 2/2/1906
George Stewart alias Montgomery	St. Tammany	Hanged 7/19/1907
Lewis Young	St.John the Baptist	Hanged 10/11/1907
Tobe Stevens	Calcasieu	Hanged 4/24/1908
Charles Madison	Calcasieu	Hanged 3/5/1909
Squire Hawkins	Rapides	10/15/1909 (Not Hanged)	11/9/1909 Life Imprisonment
Emanuel Johnson	Vermilion	Hanged 10/8/1909
Bud Davis	Ouachita	Hanged 12/17/1909
Henry Slaughter	Allen	Hanged 10/2/1914 (After one reprieve)
George Cotton	Calcasieu	Hanged 11/6/1914
Peter Bouy	Avoyelles	Hanged 12/17/1915

NAME	PARISH	DATE SET FOR EXECUTION	COMMUTED
Summa Levine	Vermilion	Hanged 11/2/1917
Preston Miles	West Feliciana	Hanged 6/28/1918
Lucius Brown	Terrebonne	Hanged 8/8/1919
Arthur Williams	Rapides	12/24/1920 (Not Hanged)	10/26/1920 Life imprisonment
Laodis Lincoln	Vermilion	Hanged 2/25/1921
Gus Bracy	Vernon	Hanged 4/22/1921
Willie Johnson alias Willie Kelly	Orleans	Hanged 8/6/1926
Jimmie Johnson	Natchitoches	Hanged 7/26/1929
Edward McKay	Orleans	Hanged 10/4/1929
William Irwin Virgeto	Orleans	Hanged 10/4/1929
Henry Wilson	Richland	Hanged 1/3/1930
John Henry Lee alias Buddy Lee	Catahoula	Hanged 1/29/1932
Jim Edwards	Jefferson Davis	1/29/32 (Not Hanged)	1/21/1932 Imprisonment Hospital for Criminal Insane
Levi Hicks	East Baton Rouge	Hanged 10/19/1934
Dave Johnson	East Baton Rouge	Hanged 3/31/1939
Willie Larkin	Madison	Electrocuted 9/9/1942
William Hamilton	Caddo	Electrocuted 12/3/1942
Anthony Wilson	Orleans	Electrocuted 3/6/1944

NAME	PARISH	DATE SET FOR EXECUTION	COMMUTED
William Ayers	Winn	Electrocuted 6/28/1946
Jesse Perkins	East Baton Rouge	Electrocuted 7/18/1947
Edward Spriggs, Jr.	Iberville	Electrocuted 6/25/1948
L.C. Loyd ,	Tangipahoa	To have been Electrocuted 3/11/1949 (Found dead in cell, a supposed suicide)
Edward Sanford	East Baton Rouge	Electrocuted 12/1/1950

Total Number of Negroes

Executed: 37 Commuted 3

.....

Corporal John Walter Bordenave, 29	New Orleans, La.	Electrocuted 10/30/1942 (At U.S. Army camp)
Private Richard Philip Adams, 25	Columbus, Ohio	Electrocuted 10/30/1942 (At U.S. Army camp)
Private Lawrence Mitchell, 18	Baldwin, Mich.	Electrocuted 10/30/1942 (At U.S. Army camp)

.....

Total Number of Negroes

Executed in Louisiana

during 1900-1950

for alleged rape: 40

SUPPLEMENT from old Angola Prison Records: Notes from the "Register of Convicts Received" from Feb. 13, 1866, to Dec. 29, 1889, listing 9,073 Convicts.

Following are only a selection of typical rape cases, taken first from 1866-7, then from 1876, then from 1885, and finally from 1889 (omitting the intervening years). The crime is either "rape" (not labeled in this list) or "Assault with intent to commit rape". Note difference in punishment between the two.

NAME	DESCRIPTION	DATE SENTENCED & PUNISHMENT	PARDONED
Jesse Wiley	Black	11/9/1866-Life	5/5/1873
Edward Hague	Black	12/10/1866-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")
Theodore Coppersmith	Fair	7/22/1867-Life	4/25/1871
Thomas May	Fair	7/22/1867-Life	7/25/1871
Adolph Withman	Fair	7/22/1867-Life	7/25/1871
Henry Graham	Black	1/29/1868-Life	3/8/1884
Henry Clay	"Grieffe"	3/9/1868-Life	3/8/1878

.....

Nicholas Anderson	Mulatto	6/2/1876-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")
Owen Scott	Black	6/4/1876-Life
Paul Charles	"Dk. Mulatto"	6/16/1876-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")
William Alonzo	Black	6/20/1876-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")

.....

NAME	DESCRIPTION	DATE SENTENCED & PUNISHMENT	PARDONED
John Jones alias Jack Jones	Black	4/30/1885-Life	6/19/1891
Henry Williams	Black	5/5/1885-1 year ("Assault with intent")
Julien Moses	Black	6/19/1885-6 months ("Assault with intent")
John Baptiste	Black	6/19/1885-Life
Young McIver	Black	8/14/1885-10 years	2/25/1893

.....

William Josephine	Black	3/15/1889-6 yrs/1 mo. ("Assault with intent")	2/15/1891
Charles Alexander	"Dk Griff"	4/13/1889-Life	9/30/1899
Frank Reed	Mulatto	10/20/1889-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")
Pat Scott	"Dk. Griff"	10/20/1889-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")
Henry Stokes	Fair	11/2/1889-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")
Henry Miller	Black	12/14/1889-1 yr. ("Assault with intent")
William Johnson	Black	12/14/1889-2 yrs. ("Assault with intent")

.....

EXHIBIT II. LEGAL HISTORY

The present statutes defining and providing for the punishment of rape have a long legal history. On the surface, they provide uniform punishment for aggravated rape; simple rape; and "carnal knowledge of a juvenile" who is more than 12 and less than 17. But there was once a code for the punishment of Negro slaves which was different from that for the punishment of whites; today, the careful classification of "rape" as "aggravated" for Negro offenders and "simple" -- or merely "carnal knowledge" --for white offenders provides the mechanism for carrying on what was formerly explicitly provided by law, namely, the inflicting of severer penalties on black men than on white. Verbally, the laws have changed; but the old practice of differential punishments, having become well established for more than a century, now continues under the disguise of verbal equality.

Louisiana as a colony was at various times under French and Spanish domination, and these colonial regimes have left legal imprints on the law of this state. Louisiana was discovered first by the Spanish in 1541 but settled by the French around 1682, and Negro slaves were imported on or before 1719. By 1724, Louisiana had its Black Code, set up by Governor Jean Baptiste le Moyne de Bienville. Louisiana became a territory of the United States in 1805 and a state in 1812, but it kept its Black Code.

In Orleans Laws, 1804-05, and the Acts of Louisiana, 1806-07 (Louisiana State Law Library), we have the "Acts passed at the First Session of the Legislative Council of the Territory of Orleans," which provide for the punishment of rape: "every person ...duly convicted of any manner of rape" shall suffer "imprisonment at hard labor for life," and any accessory to this crime shall "suffer the same kind of punishment" as the "principal offender." (Pp. 416-454, Chapter 50, An Act for the Punishment of Crimes and Misdemeanors.) Section 33 provides that procedure be "according to and in conformity with the common law of England." (My emphasis.-OCJ.) But Section 47 of this same Act (P. 450) specifically states "That nothing herein before contained shall be construed to extend to any slave or slaves, but that every slave accused of any crime shall be punished according to the laws of Spain for regulating her colonies." (My emphasis.-OCJ.)

The Acts of Louisiana, 1806-07, Chapter 33, P. 150, contain what is called the "Black Code, An Act Prescribing the rules and conduct to be observed with respect to Negroes and other Slaves of this Territory." Section 18 of this Act declares "That the condition of a slave being merely a passive one, his subordination to his master and to all who represent him is not susceptible of any modification or restriction." The slave "owes to his master, and to all his family, a respect without bounds, and an absolute obedience."

The Laws of Spain used in Louisiana Colony were translated and codified in Lislet and Carleton's Partidas, Vol. I and Vol. II, 1820 (Louisiana State Law Library), and contain that portion of La Siete Partidas "considered as having the force of law in Louisiana." In Title 2, Law 8, p. 30, we learn that "a slave cannot legally appear in court, as he has no control over himself, but is under the domination of his master, who is above him." The master "may chastise him by words or blows." In Title 21, Law 6, p. 584, we learn that the master ought not to kill a slave or "cause him to perish by hunger, unless he has found him with his wife, or daughter, or had committed some other similar offense; for then he may kill the slave." (My emphasis.OCJ)

After Louisiana became a state, the provision is put into Article 7, Section 4, of the first state constitution[2] that "All laws now in force in this territory, not inconsistent with this constitution, shall continue and remain in full effect until repealed by the Legislature." The Black Code was not repealed, but remained "in full effect." On March 9, 1827, for example, in the Acts of Louisiana, 1825-27 (Louisiana State Law Library), we find an Act is passed "to amend the thirty-eighth article of the Black Code."

It is particularly notable that Section 40 of the Black Code (Acts of Louisiana, 1806-07, page 188) states: "That free people of colour ought never to insult or strike white people, nor presume to conceive themselves equal to the white; but on the contrary that they ought to yield to them in every occasion, and never speak or answer to them but with respect, under the penalty of imprisonment according to the nature of the offence." This has the very plain meaning that even free Negroes were subject to the Black Code and that they constituted a type of inhabitant midway between Negro slaves and free whites. It is worth noting today, in the 20th century, that the entire Negro people in Louisiana are "free people of colour," and, in the view of those who inherit the Black Code state of mind, are to be punished in a different way if convicted of crime.

2) The state constitution of that time is given in Acts of Louisiana, 1828-30, Louisiana State Law Library.

Following the Civil War, as shown in Acts of Louisiana, 1869-70, pp. 49-51 (Louisiana State Law Library), a new statute provided that rape and other crimes should be punished by imprisonment "at hard labor not exceeding two years nor less than six months, and fined not exceeding two thousand dollars nor less than $500, at the discretion of the court." It was under such a rather liberal statute, and later ones, that the sentences were meted out to the inmates of Angola penitentiary in the examples given previously from the years 1866 to 1889.

When political domination was "restored" to whites after the Rutherford B. Hayes election in 1876, the Black Code was quietly put back into operation in all but name. As the editor of the Louisiana Almanac and Fact Book, 1949-1950, puts it, "Fortunately for the whites and home rule, the Federal troops did not come to the aid of the Radicals as they had before. A sort of bargain between the forces of presidential candidate Hayes (who needed the Louisiana electoral vote to defeat his opponent Tilden) and the state's conservatives," resulted in Hayes backing the white supremacist politicians in Louisiana. "Reconstruction was over," continues the Louisiana Almanac and Fact Book. "...A strong court system was also provided to prevent a repetition of the disregard for law which characterized the previous decade," that is, to prevent the disregard for the Black Code which was thenceforth to be the unwritten constitution of Louisiana courts of justice.

The way Louisiana law became twisted to suit the descendants of slaveholders is very interesting. Jefferson Davis, head of the Confederacy, found New Orleans a congenial place to settle in after his rebellion was defeated; he lived here until his death in 1889, and doubtless was happy that white political rule was set up before his passing. It was a former Confederate general, Francis Tillou Nicholls, who became governor of Louisiana in 1876 when President Hayes made the "sort of bargain" spoken of above. Thomas J. Semmes, a New Orleans lawyer who before the Civil War was an Attorney General of Louisiana, and who-- according to Dr. Mitchell Franklin[3] --was the theorist of Secessionism, settled down after the Civil War to practice law in New Orleans in his own white supremacist way, and eventually became president of the American Bar Association. And Judge John A. Campbell, who while on the U.S. Supreme Court before the Civil War concurred in the Dred Scott decision, devoted himself after the War, as a New Orleans lawyer and jurist, to partially successful efforts to nullify the 14th Amendment.

The career of Alabama-born Judge Campbell is traced in Dr. Mitchell Franklin's article, "The Foundations and Meaning of the Slaughterhouse Cases."[4] Campbell left his U.S. Supreme Court job to support the seceding slave-holding Confederacy,

W. R. Irby

3) Dr. Mitchell Franklin is professor of [redacted] law at Tulane University

4) Tulane Law Review, October & December, 1943 (Vol. XVlll, Nos. 1 & 2). Quotes are from the December, 1943 issue, pp. 227, 229, 237, 245

17. and, like Jefferson Davis, found after the Civil War that New Orleans was a congenial place to live. As the article states, "The task of John A. Campbell...was to overcome the defeat suffered by the southern slaveholders in the Civil War." Campbell attempted "to overcome the 14th Amendment by veering it about to the advantage of the defeated South." Dr. Franklin points out, in discussing the legal controversy over the Slaughterhouse monopoly: "At the very moment Campbell was contending in the Louisiana courts that the 14th Amendment had the broadest possible meaning and hence protected the rights of the anti-monopolists of pursuing their calling, he was also defending the right of a New Orleans theatre to segregate Negro opera-goers, despite a statute of Louisiana which then forbade that form of racial discrimination."

Dr. Franklin points out that the 14th Amendment, which he describes as the "sleeping giant" of the United States Constitution, was in effect put to sleep by the legal trickeries of such ex-Confederate pro-Slavery jurists as Judge Campbell, who not only led Louisiana law in the direction of separate but unequal justice for the Negro but also inspired to a great extent federal coyness in enforcement of the 14th Amendment.

EXHIBIT III. Constitutional History

Louisiana has had nine different constitutions in its history, and what they contain--and what they leave out--explain in part the continued existence of the Black Code as Louisiana's underground constitution.

Huey P. Long, Louisiana's cleverest demagogue, published the texts of all nine of Louisiana's constitutions, so arranged that the reader can compare them article by article, in his Compilation of the Constitutions of the State of Louisiana, 1930. Particularly interesting are the first constitution, that of 1812; the fifth constitution, adopted in 1868, which was the first and last state constitution to contain the full Bill of Rights; the sixth constitution, adopted in 1879 under the leadership of the Ku Klux Klan forces who deleted the most vital parts of the Bill of Rights; and the latest constitution, that of 1921, which is a polished version of the original KKK constitution.

Huey P. Long knew the meaning of the various constitutions. "The Bill of Rights first found its way into the Constitution of Louisiana after the Civil War," he wrote, in his introduction, "in the Constitution of 1868. It was after human slavery had been abolished that the Louisiana Constitution contained certain lines of the Declaration of Independence, reading: 'All men are created free and equal, have certain inalienable rights; among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. To secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.'"

Long continued: "But when the white Southern manhood gained the upper hand in the control of the State's affairs, and convoked the Constitutional Convention of 1879, the lines of Jefferson, in the bill of rights, were changed for words otherwise considered more appropriate and certain for the causes and purposes intended and desired." It is perfectly clear what "purposes" were "intended and desired."

The 1868 Constitution provided, in Article 13, that public conveyances, and places of business and public resort, "shall be opened to the accommodation and patronage of all persons, without distinction or discrimination on account of race or color." This article was taken out of later Louisiana constitutions.

The 1868 Constitution also provided that all children of the state should be admitted to the public schools or institutions of learning "without distinction of race, color, or preious condition." It added: "There shall be no separate schools or institutions of learning, established exclusively for any race by the State of Louisiana."

In place of this we now have, in the 1921 Constitution, Article 12, a provision that "Separate free public schools shall be maintained for the education of white and colored children between the ages of six and eighteen years."

Among the "purposes...intended and desired" by the 1879 Constitution was that of neutralizing and reducing the Negro vote and depriving Negroes of any share in the government.

The constitution of 1898 carried the plan further by introducing the "Grandfather Clause" which for a couple of generations destroyed every Negro citizen's right to vote, or to hold office.

But most effective of all was the tight control of the courts of justice put into the hands of anti-democratic white reactionaries. This was the Black Code, wearing a cloak of invisibility but as powerful as it ever was in pre-Emancipation days.

The chronology of the march of white supremacy and unequal justice may be indicated as follows: In 1876 the unholy alliance of President Hayes and Southern white reactionaries was consummated; immediately began the consolidation of white political power, culminating in the 1879 constitution which in effect nullified the Bill of Rights and the 13th and 14th Amendments; in 1892, the statute providing death as a punishment for "aggravated rape" (i.e.,in practice, of white women and Negro men) went into effect; in 1894, intermarriage between Negroes and whites was prohibited by statute; in 1898, the "grandfather clause" was put into the sonstitution; in 1921, segregation in education,already in effect, was put into the constitution; in 1942, "miscegenation" was defined so as to emphasize the 1894 statute on intermarriage and further facilitate differential punishment for rape.

It is contended here that this development is incompatible with federal constitutional and legal provisions for equal justice; that it is a violation of these provisions; and that persons affected by this violation suffer denial of Constitutional and legal rights.

EXHIBIT LV. Social History

It was in 1867 that the Knights of the White Camelia, an organization to enforce white supremacy, was formed at Franklin, Louisiana, and in 1874 that a similar organization, the White League, was formed at Opelousas, Louisiana. These groups had virtual private armies which fought the Reconstruction government forces and-- with the backing of President Hayes-- defeated the government and set up a "white man's" rule in the state, which exists to this day. The cornerstone of white supremacy is segregation of the races.

Segregation: Since the end of the Reconstruction period and the adoption of the KKK-sponsored Constitution of 1879, segregation of the white and black races has been the law in this state, enforced by constitutional provision, legislative statute, and local regulation, requiring separate schools, separate restaurants, separate toilets and drinking fountains in public buildings, separate seating in trains and buses. In addition, marriage and even co-habitation of Negroes and whites is forbidden by statute.

This separation has made easy the almost complete denial of the vote and of public office to the entire Negro people in this state, 35.9% of the population. The virtual denial of the vote and of public office carries with it the virtual denial of the right to sit on juries, and hence the virtual denial to a Negro defendant of the right of trial by a jury of his peers. It is a serious question whether any trial of a Negro for crime in the prevailing mil ieu of this state could be considered a fair trial.

Lynching: No people can be held down undemocratically through use of democratic political forms except through terroristic tactics, and this is the raison d'etre for lynching. Louisiana members of Congress have steadily opposed anti-lynching legislation. In Lousiana 335 recorded lynchings of Negroes took place between 1882 and 1948, a period of 66 years; a quarter of these lynchings were due to allegations of rape. It is a serious question whether any trial of a Negro for crime by a state which has permitted 335 lynchings of Negroes in 66 years can be considered fair. It is apparent that the 335 Louisiana extra-legal killings of Negroes and the 40 Louisiana legal executions for "rape" are both parts of a system of Black Code justice quite out of keeping with the Federal Constitution and Federal civil rights.

Police Brutality: A natural result of segregation and of white supremacy is police brutality exercised primarily against Negroes, particularly those arrested and charged with crime. Negro newspapers have spoken out against police brutality time and time again.

In its issue of June 19, 1926, the Louisiana Weekly editorialized under the title of "Bullies in Uniform": "Two

New Orleans policemen arrest Negro woman in her home, drag her half-dressed from bed, beat her to pulp and throw her in jail without medical attention." In the issue of December 7, 1929, under the title, "Police Brutality", the same paper said editorially: "Time after time the Louisiana Weekly has called the attention of the authorities to the fact that patrolmen oftimes use Negro suspects and prisoners with utter contempt, treating them worse than one would a stray mongrel dog. Beat them like they were something inanimate." Ten years later, February 11, 1939, under the heading, "No Excuse for Police Brutality," the same paper declared: "Once again New Orleans Negroes and those of human hearts belonging to other races are caught in a dragnet of fear at the animal-like savagery with which Negroes so unfortunate as to be caught in the toils of the law or the long arm of policemen, are being treated. Almost daily, stories of horrible examples of what physical brutality the sworn protectors of the law wreak upon hapless, helpless individuals are brought before the public which, however skeptical, cannot refute the evidence as offered by men's bruised and scarred bodies."

And in the current period, May 13, 1950, right after the election of the Mayor and city officials of New Orleans, the Louisiana Weekly warned editorially: "The members of the Commission should know that Negroes will expect them to be concerned about their welfare during the next four years as they were about the votes in January. ...Should know that Negroes are alarmed and displeased at the readiness of local police to use their clubs and their pistols, frequently without provocation....Negroes do not expect this coroner to find citizens to have died from 'natural causes' where undertakers and private physicians find such persons have been shot through the head or the back." And the paper adds, ironically, in another editorial two months later in a comment on "Those Police Investigations" (July 29, 1950): "If there is anything that is a greater farce than the police department's investigation of its police, we would like to know..."

In a sharply worded editorial August 12, 1950, the Louisiana Weekly indicates the connection between police brutality and Black Code mentality by saying: "Last week we published an excerpt from a letter written over the signature of Criminal Sheriff Grosch. In this letter Mr. Grosch advises his readers that: 'I recently chartered the John J. Grosch Democratic Organization, a political and civil organization. The organization is organized principally to further the cause of white supremacy.'"

The Negro press is right in seeing a connection between segregation and white supremacy on the one hand, and police brutality on the other, and right to see a connection between both and those rape trials in which the death sentence is reserved for Negroes.

As implied in the May 13, 1950, editorial quoted above, police in this state carry brutality to the point of killing at the slightest provocation, and sometimes with no provocation at all. Attention is called to the shooting of Roy Cyril Brooks by Patrolman Alvin Bladsacker in Gretna on February 27, 1948; the killing, before his father's eyes, of the young veteran, Chrispin Charles, in New Orleans, July 4, 1949, by New Orleans policemen Sahuc and Landry; the beating to death of war veteran Eugene Jones by West Bank police in the early morning of Saturday, November 5, 1949, as the man lay handcuffed in a Gretna jail cell; the shooting to death of Eugene Johnson, 24, on So. Rampart St., New Orleans, December 27, 1948, by Officer David Mark of the New Orleans police force; and the shooting and severe wounding by Deputy Sheriff Anthony J. Licciardi, St. Bernard Parish, of U.S. Army Pvt. Matthew Peterson, Jr., as he lay in bed in Meraux, La., on March 8, 1951.

These examples are taken from New Orleans and vicinity, and New Orleans is without doubt the most enlightened and most nearly democratic place in the state. When one goes to those many parishes where not one single Negro dares register to vote, he will find still worse conditions.

It is a serious question whether any trial of a Negro for crime can be considered fair when those who make the arrests, collect the evidence, and keep suspects confined are guilty of so much brutality in the exercise of their routine duties.

EXHIBIT V. Special Category for White Rapists

Very interesting are the comparative facts about the punishment of Negroes accused of rape and of white rapists, particularly white rapists of Negro women or Negro girls.

John E. Rousseau in the Pittsburgh Courier (Louisiana Edition) of March 10, 1951, presents a comparative study of two contemporary rape cases, one in which a Negro rapes a white girl baby-sitter of 13 years of age, and another in which a white man rapes a Negro girl baby-sitter 12 years of age. The Negro, Walter Bentley, 28, of 2013 Marigny St., New Orleans, was found guilty on February 19, 1951, of "aggravated rape" (Article 42), and has been sentenced to death in the electric chair. The white man, Steve Cangelosi, 36, of 228 Brooklyn St., in Jefferson Parish, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced October 27, 1949, for "carnal knowledge of a minor" (Article 80) to one year in the Parish prison.

In opening his article on these two typical cases, Mr. Rousseau asks: "Is Article 42 of the Louisiana Criminal Code designed to protect all females in this state, or does it protect only those females who are members of the white race?" The answer lies not only in the obvious practice of the courts, but in the concealed Black Code which is designed to follow up the segregation of Negroes from whites with the dealing out to Negroes of a separate kind of justice.

The Bentley-Cangelosi contrast is not an isolated example, but it is an unusually public one. There are scores of other more or less hidden instances that, with effort, could be brought to light.

Statutes on intermarriage have further emphasized the survival of slave regulations. In 1825, under slavery, not only was marriage between free persons and slaves forbidden, but also marriage "between free white persons and free persons of color" (Art. 95, Civil Code, 1825). This provision was repealed during Reconstruction, but in 1894, with the revival of white man's rule, a statute (Act 54 of 1894, amending Art. 94, Revised Civil Code, 1870) forbade marriage "between white persons and persons of color." In 1942 (No. 43, Art. 79), this rule was strengthened by defining "miscegenation" as "marriage or habitual co-habitation, with knowledge of their difference in race, between a person of the Caucasian or white race and a person of the colored or Negro race" (Dart's Louisiana Code of Criminal Law & Procedure, 740-79). The 1942 statute thus illegalizes interracial "co-habitation" (common law marriage) as well as formal marriage, that is, it makes any kind of sex relationship between whites and Negroes--with emphasis on white women and Negro men--a criminal offense.

This limitation of marriage provided a new gimmick for carrying out the original White League plan of Black Code justice. It meant that, while a sex relation of a white man with a white woman could be either voluntary or at the worst simple rape, and of a white man with a Negro woman "probably" voluntary but sometimes simple rape, a sex relation of a Negro man with a white woman had no legal standing at all: it must be, in practice and in logic, aggravated rape. The gimmick thus provided a concealed legal foundation for the Special Category of White Rapists, virtually guaranteeing that in practice a white rapist would not receive the death penalty.

The hidden Black Code is the theoretical basis for an unequal administration of justice in Louisiana. The explanation of a ratio of 40 death sentences for rape by 35.9% of the population, during a half-century, to 2 death sentences for that crime by the remaining 64.1%, lies in the Black Code mentality of Louisiana courts and government.

The former legal differentiation between punishment of white criminals and punishment of Negro criminals, which existed in pre-Civil War days, established a practice of unequal justice; this practice was re-established and continued with the setting up of post-Reconstruction "white man's rule"; the practice of unequal administration of the criminal statutes, particularly that providing for the punishment of rape, backed and protected as it is by the segregation and political subjugation of the Negro people in this state, and facilitated by legal and constitutional ambiguities, still continues in all state and local courts.

8/12

THE TROUBLE WITH JOHNNY

TIME: 20 minutes
CAST: 6 or more characters

* * *

Through Johnny's bitter experience, a school group learns that it is each student's responsibility to practice democracy in daily living.

* * *

For additional copies of this play, write to:

Southern Regional Office
ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE
11 Pryor Street, S.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

"THE TROUBLE WITH JOHNNY"

*

A Play in Two Scenes

CAST:

JOHNNY
JOAN
BOB
GEORGE
MISS REYNOLDS, the principal
MISS SMITH, Miss Reynolds' secretary
FOUR GIRLS
FOUR BOYS

This play is designed for presentation either in an auditorium or in a classroom. Though two scenes are called for, they require only the simplest of properties and may be adapted easily for performance with the most limited stage facilities. A change of scene will, of course, offer no problem at all if the play is produced on the stage of the school auditorium. If presented in an ordinary classroom, however, the absence of a curtain may make the change an awkward business; continuity of the play will undoubtedly suffer if scenery has to be moved about in full view of the audience. To avoid this, it is suggested that, space permitting, both the front and rear of the classroom be utilized for playing space. The first scene can be played in the front of the classroom; when the scene changes, the audience can simply turn around in their desks and watch scene two enacted in the rear.

Scene 1

A corner of the school lunchroom. Three tables, each designed to accommodate four persons. The two tables upstage (farthest from the audience) are occupied, each with two boys and two girls, all of whom are eating quietly. At the table downstage Bob and Joan are seated opposite each other. They are eating slowly and do not appear to be very happy. Offstage is the babble of voices and the clatter of dishes. The noise dies away as Joan speaks.

JOAN: (BANGING MILK GLASS DOWN ON TABLE; PEEVED) Well, I don't care what they say, Bob. George Kennedy couldn't help it if we lost the game!

(JOHNNY ENTERS STAGE RIGHT. HIS CLOTHES ARE CLEAN BUT SHABBY, AND THEY IMMEDIATELY STAMP HIM AS A BOY WHO COMES FROM A FAMILY WHERE EVERY PENNY COUNTS. THE CONTRAST BETWEEN HIS CLOTHES AND THOSE OF BOB'S IS NOTICEABLE. JOHNNY IS CARRYING A TRAY OF FOOD; A BOWL OF SOUP, A SANDWICH, AND A GLASS OF MILK. HE LOOKS AROUND, SPIES BOB AND JOAN UP FRONT, CROSSES STAGE TO JOIN THEM.)

BOB: Of course he couldn't, Joan. And I don't think anybody blames him, really. We were just up against a tough team, that's all. Even the coach admitted that.

JOHNNY: (STANDING BESIDE TABLE, STILL HOLDING TRAY) Aw, what does that guy know. He's as dumb as the team.

BOB: (SARCASTICALLY) Well, well, look who's here. Big-mouth Canetto!

JOHNNY: Yeah. Mind if I sit here? (NOT WAITING FOR AN ANSWER, HE PUTS TRAY ON TABLE, TAKES SEAT BETWEEN THE TWO, HIS FACE TOWARD AUDIENCE.)

JOAN: (INDIGNANTLY) If I were you, Johnny Canetto, I'd be careful what I said about Coach Watson!

JOHNNY: (ABOUT TO PUT SPOONFUL OF SOUP IN MOUTH. CONTEMPTUOUSLY) Why should I? He's nothing to me! I don't run around licking his boots like mosta these fellows. I don't play on his team.

BOB: I'll say you don't. He wouldn't have ya.

JOAN: (NODDING HER HEAD EMPHATICALLY) You said it, Bob. The coach wouldn't stand for him.

JOHNNY: Oh, yeah? Why wouldn't he stand for me?

JOAN: Because you're a trouble-maker, that's why. Always getting into fights. Everybody in school knows what you are.

JOHNNY: (LAUGHING DISDAINFULLY) But I win the fights I get into. That's more than you can say for George Kennedy. The way he blew up yesterday and lost that game for us ---

JOAN: (VERY ANGRY, SHAKING FORK AT JOHNNY) That's not true, and you know it. George did not blow up. He did his very best, and it was no fault of his we got beat.

JOHNNY: (SARCASTICALLY) Look who's talking. Of course you'd say that. You think everything George Kennedy does is wonderful--perfect!

JOAN: George Kennedy is a gentleman! That's more than I can say for you!

JOHNNY: Oh, so you think George Kennedy's better than I am. I'm not as good as George, huh? Is that what you think?

JOAN: I don't think it. I know it. You prove it every time you open your mouth!

JOHNNY: (DETERMINEDLY) Well, maybe I'll show you how good I am.

JOAN: (SUSPICIOUSLY) What do you mean?

JOHNNY: (VAGUELY, WITH A SWAGGERING GESTURE OF THE SHOULDERS) Oh...you'll find out.

BOB: (IMPATIENTLY) Oh, don't pay any attention to him, Joan. He just likes to hear himself talk!

JOAN: (TURNING BACK TO HER FOOD) I guess you're right. But Johnny makes me mad! (TO JOHNNY) Who do you are anyway, talking about George Kennedy like that?

BOB: (HALF-RISING IN HIS CHAIR AND LOOKING OFFSTAGE RIGHT, AND LEFT) I wonder what's keeping George. He said he would join us for lunch.

JOAN: He will. He had to see Coach Watson first. Something about next week's game.

BOB: (SITTING DOWN AGAIN) Well, anyway, Joan, we certainly had a turnout yesterday. Can't say the team doesn't have the school behind it.

JOAN: How many you suppose were there?

BOB: Oh, 500 or more, all told.

JOHNNY: (DISDAINFULLY) I wasn't there. You didn't catch me there.

JOAN: You're never there! Don't you ever want to see the team play?

JOHNNY: (DISDAINFULLY) Those guys? Naw..I've got better things to do.

JOAN: (SHRUGGING, TO BOB) Miss Reynolds never misses a game. Have you noticed?

BOB: Yeah. Boy, she's always there, cheering with the rest of us.

JOAN: I think we're real lucky, having a person like Miss Reynolds for principal.

BOB: Yeah....(HE RISES IN HIS SEAT AGAIN AND LOOKS OFFSTAGE RIGHT, SEARCHING. SUDDENLY HIS FACE SMILES IN RECOGNITION. HE WAVES) There's George now. (CALLS) Oh, George!

GEORGE: (OFFSTAGE RIGHT) Be with you in a minute.

BOB: (SITTING BACK DOWN AND TURNING TO JOHNNY) Since you dislike George Kennedy so much, I don't suppose you'll be wanting to sit at the same table with him. Why don't you go eat someplace else?

JOHNNY: (RESENTFULLY) I know you want to get rid of me! But I'm staying, see?

JOAN: (SHRUGGING) Here comes George now.

BOB: (FOLLOWING HER GAZE) Golly, he's got enough food on that tray to feed an army.

GEORGE: (CLOSE OFFSTAGE) Gangway everybody! This tray is heavy. (ENTER GEORGE STAGE RIGHT. NEAT, WELL DRESSED BOY--THE SON OF A WELL-TO-DO, PRIVILEGED FAMILY. SMILING. HE COMES ON STAGE IN BACK OF JOHNNY, MOVING TOWARD TABLE)

BOB: Here, George, come around here. (GESTURING FOR GEORGE TO COME AROUND JOHNNY AND JOAN AND TAKE SEAT OPPOSITE JOHNNY. GEORGE STARTS TO DO AS BOB SUGGESTS, GETS HALFWAY AROUND THE TABLE WHEN HE TRIPS AND FALLS TO THE FLOOR. THERE IS THE CRASH OF BREAKING DISHES, ETC. BOYS AND GIRLS AT OTHER TABLES TURN ROUND IN THEIR CHAIRS, COMMENT EXCITEDLY.)

BOYS AND GIRLS: (AD-LIBBING) What happened? Did you see that? He was tripped. I know he was. I saw him fall. Who is it? Who? George Kennedy?----etc. etc.

JOAN: (AS GEORGE RISES TO HIS FEET. DISTRESSED) Oh George, did you hurt yourself? And just look at your shirt! (FOOD HAS SPILLED ALL OVER GEORGE'S SHIRT FRONT) It's ruined!

BOB: (HELPING GEORGE UP) What made you trip, George?

GEORGE: (BREATHLESS BUT ANGRY) You...wanta know...what made me trip? Well, I'll tell you. (POINTS TO JOHNNY) He...Johnny...that dirty rat tripped me. He deliberately stuck out his foot so I'd fall over it!

CROWD: (AD LIB REMARKS) Johnny Canetto! That guy again! Won't he ever learn! What a dirty trick! Etc. Etc.

JOHNNY: Could I help it if you don't know how to put one foot after the other?

GEORGE: (FURIOUS) Are you gonna sit there and tell me you didn't trip me. Why, you sorry...(MOVES MENACINGLY TOWARD JOHNNY. JOHNNY RISES) I'll knock your ugly teeth in---JOHNNY PUSHES BACK HIS CHAIR, COMES ROUND TO MEET GEORGE. GEORGE SWINGS, JOHNNY DUCKS. THEY TUSSLE, FALL TO THE FLOOR TOGETHER. CROWD FORMS AROUND THEM.)

JOAN: (ALARMED) Oh, Bob, make them stop!

BOB: Not yet. Let George get a good sock at him first.

JOAN: But I'm afraid George'll get hurt.

BOB: Don't worry. George can take care of himself. (SUDDENLY LOOKS OFFSTAGE LEFT, GROWS PANICKY, SUCKS IN BREATH QUICKLY) Uh-oh. Here comes Miss Reynolds.

MISS REYNOLDS: (AS SHE ENTERS STAGE LEFT) What in the world is going on here? (CROSSING STAGE QUICKLY) Get up off that floor this instant. The idea! (GEORGE AND JOHNNY GET TO THEIR FEET, PANTING AND SOMEWHAT SHAMEFACED)

JOHNNY: (DEFENSIVELY) George hit me first!

MISS R: (DISAPPOINTEDLY) Oh, Johnny Canetto! Again, Johnny? I thought, after the last time.....

JOHNNY: But I didn't start the fight, Miss Reynolds. George did!

GEORGE: Yes, Miss Reynolds. I started the fight...after he'd upset me with a tray full of food.

JOAN: That's right, Miss Reynolds! We saw it. George is right.

MISS R: Well, we'll get to the bottom of this in my office. Come along with me, Johnny! (MOVING OFFSTAGE RIGHT) I want you too, George. And Joan....you and Bob better come along. I'll want to hear your side of the story, too. (SHE EXITS, FOLLOWED BY JOHNNY, GEORGE, BOB, AND JOAN. BOYS AND GIRLS RESUME SEATS AT LUNCHROOM TABLES, EXCITEDLY DISCUSSING INCIDENT, AS CURTAIN FALLS.)

* * *

SCENE TWO

Office of the principal, Miss Reynolds, a few moments later. A desk is just offstage center. Behind it is a chair, and beside it, to stage right, another chair. Three more chairs are arranged close to the desk, or against the wall, at stage left. On the desk are a 3x5 card file, assorted books, papers, etc. As curtain rises, door at stage right opens, enter Joan, followed by George, Bob, and Johnny. Miss Reynolds speaks behind them.

MISS R: You all find seats, please. (SHE ENTERS, CLOSES DOOR BEHIND HER, SITS IN CHAIR BEHIND DESK. JOAN, BOB, AND GEORGE CROSS TO STAGE LEFT, MOVE CHAIRS ABOUT TO SUIT THEMSELVES, TAKE SEATS TO STAGE LEFT OF MISS REYNOLDS' DESK. AFTER THEY'RE SEATED, JOHNNY SITS IN THE LONE CHAIR AT STAGE RIGHT. IMPRESSION FROM STAGING IS THAT THE GROUP HAS CHOSEN UP SIDES--JOHNNY AGAINST THE OTHER THREE. MISS REYNOLDS' DESK SHOULD BE SLIGHTLY TO STAGE RIGHT SO AS TO PRESERVE BALANCE

IN STAGE COMPOSITION, BEFORE SPEAKING, MISS REYNOLDS LOOKS FROM JOAN, BOB, AND GEORGE ON HER LEFT, TO JOHNNY ON HER RIGHT. SHE REFLECTS A MOMENT, THEN SPEAKS)

MISS R: I don't do this very often. I usually like to talk to my bad (SMILES) boys individually. (TO JOHNNY) But I've talked to Johnny by himself before--several times. (SHE SHAKES HER HEAD DESPAIRINGLY) I thought it might be good this time for a few of us to talk it out together.

JOAN: (POUTING) I don't see why, Miss Reynolds. It wasn't our fault.

MISS R: (POINTEDLY) No? (PAUSE) Well, it's certainly no secret what a problem we've got here. Johnny, how many times have you been sent to my office since you entered this school?

JOHNNY: (SULLENLY) I dunno. A good many times I s'pose.

BOB: He's been nothing but a trouble-maker ever since he came here.

JOHNNY: (QUICKLY. TO BOB) Nobody has to make trouble around this school. Not with guys like you asking for trouble all the time.

MISS R: (SEVERELY) Let's not have that kind of talk. (SILENCING THEM WITH A LOOK. PAUSE) Now how shall we begin? First thing, maybe a look at the record would be of help. (SHE PULLS OPEN 3x5 CARD FILE, THUMBS THROUGH A NUMBER OF CARDS, PULLS OUT ONE AND EXAMINES IT) According to this, Johnny, you came here last September from New Orleans.

JOHNNY: That's right. We moved here when daddy got a job in the new mill.

MISS R: (STILL STUDYING CARD) Since you enrolled here, you've been reported for bad conduct on an average of twice a month. (READS) September 27 -- starting fight in locker room -- Oct ----

GEORGE: (INTERRUPTING) I remember that fight. (TO MISS REYNOLDS) Some of the boys were getting dressed, just talking together and minding their own business, when all of a sudden Johnny comes tearing out from the next row of lockers and lights into the whole pack of 'em.

JOHNNY: (ANGRILY) That's not true. Maybe if you'd been there, you'd know it's not true.

MISS R: What do you mean it's not true? You did have a fight in the locker room, didn't you?

JOHNNY: Sure, there was a fight, but -- (SHRUGGING, SITTING BACK DISGUSTEDLY IN CHAIR) Oh, what's the use.

MISS R: (RESUMES READING) October 9 -- breaking window in Miss Blake's room -- October 24 -- disturbance in assembly -- November 4 -- disorderly conduct at football game -- November 20 -- damaging apparatus in science room -- December 6 -- starting fight at club meeting -- January 13 -- (PAUSES, REGARDS JOHNNY REFLECTIVELY) Shall I go on?

JOHNNY: That's enough.

MISS R: Well Johnny, if the record means anything, that makes you the worst boy in school.

JOHNNY: (DEFIANTLY) All right! So I'm the worst boy in school!

MISS R: It's nothing to brag about, Johnny. In some schools you'd be expelled for a record like that.

JOHNNY: Go on and expel me, why don't you? I hate this school anyway.

MISS R: (QUIETLY, WITH GREAT EFFORT TO BE PATIENT) I'm not going to expel you, Johnny. The other boys and girls get along in this school. You can too. Now, I think it's time we found out what the matter is. (PAUSE) Why do you think you get in so much trouble?

JOHNNY: (PROMPTLY) I lose my temper.

MISS R: Why, Johnny?

JOHNNY: They just make me mad, that's all.

MISS R: The other students make you mad? Do the other students say things you don't like?

JOHNNY: Sometimes they do.

MISS R: What sort of things, Johnny?

JOHNNY: Oh...lots of things. They call me names. (GETTING ANGRY; GESTURING TOWARD BOB, JOAN AND GEORGE) Well, just look at 'em. They think they're better than I am. They say I'm not good enough for 'em.

JOAN: (INDIGNANT) Why, I've never said anything like that in my life!

JOHNNY: Oh no? Well, you might as well have, the way you talk. It's very clear what you think of me.

BOB: Well, suppose it is! It's true. You're not as good as we are.

JOHNNY: (RISING MENACINGLY) I am, see. I'm as good as any of you. (CLENCHING FISTS AND TAKING STEP FORWARD) And I'll fight anybody who says I'm not!

MISS R: (RAPPING DESK LOUDLY WITH RULER) Boys! Boys! (THEY QUIET DOWN. SHE REGARDS THEM ATTENTIVELY FOR A MOMENT, AND THEN SPEAKS AFTER SOME DELIBERATION) Tell me, Johnny. How did you get along in school before you moved here?

JOHNNY: Fine. I got along swell. I had lots of friends in New Orleans. Mike Frazetti for instance. Mike and I used t'play on the baseball team together. He played second base and I played shortstop.

GEORGE: (INCREDULOUS) You played baseball? Why didn't you come out for the team here, then?

JOHNNY: (COLDLY) I did try out -- (PAUSE) -- once.

GEORGE: But why --? (GIVES IT UP, SHAKES HIS HEAD, LOOKS TO MISS REYNOLDS)

MISS R. Excuse me a moment. (SPEAKS IN DIRECTION OF DOOR) Oh, Miss Smith.

(ENTER MISS SMITH STAGE RIGHT. SHE STANDS WITH DOOR AJAR.)

MISS SMITH: Yes, Miss Reynolds?

MISS R: Bring me the transfer record on Johnny Canetto, will you please?

MISS SMITH: Just a minute. (SHE EXITS, CLOSING DOOR AFTER HER)

JOHNNY: (MORE TO HIMSELF THAN TO ANYBODY IN THE ROOM) I had lots of friends in New Orleans.

MISS R: I seem to remember that you made fairly good grades in New Orleans, too.

JOHNNY: (SUDDENLY IMPATIENT) Oh Miss Reynolds, this isn't doing us any good. Why don't you go ahead and do what you're going to do and get it over with?

MISS R: (WITH A FRIENDLY SMILE) It won't take long, Johnny..... Tell me about your friends in New Orleans.

JOHNNY: There's not much to tell. We went to school together. Went to the same church, most of us. And we used to play together almost every afternoon.

MISS R: I suppose you miss them very much.

JOHNNY: I'll say I do.

(ENTER MISS SMITH)

MISS SMITH: (CROSSING STAGE TO PUT FILE FOLDER ON MISS REYNOLDS' DESK.) Here's the record on Canetto. Will that be all?

MISS R: (OPENING FOLDER AND BEGINNING TO SCAN CONTENTS) Yes, thank you.

(EXIT MISS SMITH. MISS REYNOLDS READS SILENTLY FOR A MOMENT, HER FACE GRADUALLY ASSUMING AN EXPRESSION OF SURPRISE AND INCREDULITY. AS SHE READS FURTHER, SHE SAYS "MY, MY" TO HERSELF EVERY NOW AND THEN. FINALLY, SHE LOOKS UP AND SHAKES HER HEAD IN WONDER. WHILE THIS IS GOING ON, JOHNNY SITS RESENTFULLY IN HIS CHAIR; JOAN, BOB, AND GEORGE EXCHANGE EXPRESSIONS OF CURIOSITY.)

MISS R: I think you'll be interested in this. It's the report the school in New Orleans sent on Johnny when he transferred here last fall.

JOAN: (SARCASTICALLY) Does that include a report on his manners?

MISS R: No, Joan. But if I were keeping a record on your manners, you wouldn't look very good today.

JOAN: (BLUSHING) Excuse me.

MISS R: (DROPS HER EYES TO THE FILE FOLDER, BEGINS TO READ FROM RECORD) Johnny averaged excellent in all his studies. Excellent in general science, excellent in Latin, excellent in French, excellent in algebra, very good in English ---

JOAN: (TAKEN ABACK) Why Miss Reynolds, Johnny's hardly passing those same subjects here.

BOB: I bet that school in New Orleans was easier.

MISS R: (SHAKING HER HEAD) No. If anything, the schools in New Orleans are harder.

GEORGE: I don't understand. (TO JOHNNY) Why were you so smart in New Orleans but so -- so dumb here?

MISS R: Johnny not only made good grades, George. Listen to this. (RESUMES READING) "He was president of the chemistry club, secretary of the student body, shortstop on the baseball team, and he won a gold medal for debating. His home room teacher has written this comment: "Johnny has been a splendid student and a most cooperative citizen of our school." (LOOKS UP FROM JOHNNY'S TRANSFER RECORD, STUDIES THE THREE BEFORE HER. PAUSE) ... Well, what do you think of that?

GEORGE: (ASTONISHED) I don't know what to think. That doesn't sound like the Johnny Canetto who tripped me a half hour ago.

JOAN: (WONDERING) I can't believe it.

GEORGE: It's not the same boy, that's all. (TO JOHNNY) What's happened to you, Johnny? Why've you changed so?

JOAN: Are you sick, Johnny? Have you been sick since you moved here? Sometimes people get sick and ---

GEORGE: (RUBBING HIS JAW AND SMILING RUEFULLY) He doesn't fight like a sick man.

JOHNNY: (ANGRY AGAIN) There's nothing wrong with me. It's y'all. (SNEER) You all think you're so smart.

MISS R: Well, obviously, Johnny, you're not very happy here. You were happy in New Orleans, though, and that must account for your excellent record there. Johnny, I really want to help. (PAUSE) Try to to tell me why you're not happy here.

JOHNNY: (EMBARRASSED SLIGHTLY) I don't know. I guess I just don't feel like I belong here. They treat me like dirt.

MISS R: How, Johnny? What do you mean?

JOHNNY: It's the way they talk about me. (TURNING TO JOAN, BOB, AND GEORGE) Don't think I haven't heard you.

MISS R: What do they say about you, Johnny?

JOHNNY: Oh, they say I'm not worth bothering with. They say my father is a dirty, sneaking foreigner and we oughta go back where we came from.

MISS R: (ASTONISHED) They do! (TO BOB, JOAN, AND GEORGE) Is this true?

GEORGE: (EMBARRASSED) You know how people talk, Miss Reynolds. Sure, some of 'em have been talking like that about him.

MISS R: (FIRMLY) Have you?

GEORGE: Well -----

MISS R: (SADLY) How terrible! George, how could you.....

BOB: But golly, Miss Reynolds. What'd you expect us to say after the way Johnny's been acting?

JOHNNY: Whatta you mean -- after? Miss Reynolds, they started talking about me like that the first week I came here. I didn't do a thing. I wanted to be friends but they wouldn't let me....Look....I, oh what's the use. I'll never get along in this school.

MISS R: (WITH GREAT SYMPATHY) What were you going to tell us, Johnny? Something happened during the first week you were here?

JOHNNY: That's right. That fight in the locker room. (TO GEORGE) Just listen now; this is how it really happened, if you want to know. (TO MISS REYNOLDS) It was about me joining the Science Club. I wanted to join, but the members had to vote on me. They were talking about me one afternoon in the locker room. They couldn't see me -- I was over dressing in the next row of lockers -- but I could hear everything they said. One guy was repeating my name.....(SNEERINGLY) "Johnny Canetto." -- like that. "Johnny Canetto," he says. "Sounds like a foreigner to me. Where'd he come from anyway?" And then another boy says, "Out of some gutter. Have you seen the kind of clothes he wears? They look like he picked 'em up off some garbage heap." And then this third boy says, "Oh, I ---"

JOAN: (INTERRUPTING) Your clothes never made any difference to me. The reason I didn't like you was you were always getting in fights, and it looked to me as if they were all your fault.

JOHNNY: Well, that's what these guys were saying about me. This third boy, he ---

MISS R: (INTERRUPTING) Just a minute Johnny. Who were these boys?

JOHNNY: (EMBARRASSED) Oh just some of the crowd...Nobody in this room.---You don't want me to tattle, do you Miss Reynolds?

MISS R: No Johnny. Never mind. Go on.

JOHNNY: Well, then another guy said, "Oh I know about him. His old man works in the thread mill. My daddy hired him last week. Runs a loom or something." "Well," says this first boy, "I don't know what you think, but I'm not voting him into our club. I don't like greasy foreigners." "Me neither," says another one. "There's something sort of sneaky about 'em. Besides, whatta we know about Johnny Canetto? Anybody with a name like that!"

MISS R: (TOUCHED) That was the way that they were talking about you, was it?

JOHNNY: Almost word for word. I stood there listening to them, getting madder all the time, and finally I couldn't stand it any longer. I went over and told 'em what I thought. That's how the fight started.

GEORGE: (CONTRITE) Gee, I didn't know that, Johnny.

BOB: Me either. I always thought -----

JOHNNY: Well, that's how it was, Miss Reynolds --- right from the beginning. Even before they knew me, they were saying I was no good. I had a foreign sounding name, I had just moved to town, and my daddy works in a factory. So right off the bat, they decided I was beneath them.

MISS R: I'm ashamed, really ashamed. I didn't think my children could behave like that.

JOAN: It doesn't make sense, when you come to think of it. To judge a person by the sound of his name, or by what his father does for a living. Oh Johnny, I'm so sorry.

BOB: I'm sorry, too. Maybe if we hadn't fallen for all that junk about your being a foreigner -- maybe if we'd given you a chance -- we'd have a decent shortstop.

GEORGE: (TO JOHNNY) Is that why you never came back for another tryout?

JOHNNY: Sure. They made it pretty clear I wasn't wanted. You think I wanted to hang around and be insulted?

MISS R: About today, Johnny. Did you trip George? Or did he merely stumble over your feet?

JOHNNY: I tripped him.

MISS R: Why?

JOHNNY: The same old business. Joan and Bob kept talking about how wonderful George was, and how no account I was. George is so handsome, George is so perfect. Joan kept saying how wonderful George is till I couldn't take it any more.

JOAN: I never realized ----

MISS R: So you decided to show George up? Make him look silly?

JOHNNY: (NODDING) Something like that.

MISS R: I know how you must have felt, Johnny. But do you think you were helping the situation by acting like that?

JOHNNY: How do you think I should have acted?

MISS R: Johnny, they have treated you very badly. There's no doubt about that. But fights don't help. That one in the locker room -- that fight didn't make you feel any better, did it? You've gone around with a chip on your shoulder ever since -- daring people to knock it off. You got into more and more fights and made more and more enemies.

JOHNNY: (BITTERLY) It's easy for you to talk, Miss Reynolds. You don't know what it is to move to a new town and be lonesome and want to make friends in school. You can't understand how it feels not even to be given a chance -- to have people call you names and say you're no good.

MISS R: I know. I know. But don't you see -- you made things worse instead of better by getting into trouble all the time? You made people believe you really were good-for-nothing by the way you acted.

JOHNNY: What would you have done, Miss Reynolds?

MISS R: Well, I hope I'd have said to myself, "These people are being stupid and unfair. But I'll show them I'm just as good as they are. I'll prove it by getting good marks and volunteering for school activities and by keeping a good conduct record."....If you'd done that, actually you would have proved yourself better than they. Because you'd have been behaving like an intelligent adult while they were acting like bad-mannered, not-too-bright children.

JOHNNY: You think if I'd have done that, they would've learned to like me?

MISS R: I'm sure of it.

JOHNNY: (DOWNCAST) Well, I guess it's too late now.

GEORGE: (RISING AND WALKING CROSS STAGE TO THE RIGHT OF JOHNNY'S CHAIR. ADDRESSING JOHNNY) No it isn't, Johnny. Not for you, it isn't....Look, I'm sorry those guys in the locker room gave you such a raw deal, and got you started off here that way. I'm sorry I didn't have any better sense than to go along with the things they said about you. I'm just as sorry as I can be.

JOHNNY: I'm sorry, too. I'm sorry I tripped you.

GEORGE: Look Johnny -- I know I don't deserve it, but will you forgive me? Will you forgive us all? Will you give us another chance?

JOHNNY: What do you mean?

GEORGE: I mean another chance to be friends with you.

JOHNNY: (BEWILDERED) Sure, I ---

GEORGE: I know you have every good reason not to want to be friends with us now, but -- Joan, Bob, and I -- we know how silly and unfair we've been -- and we're going to see to it that everybody else in this school realizes what a bad mistake they've made.....I'll, I'll -- I know what I'll do. I'll see that you're elected to the Science Club. I'll submit your name at the next meeting and tell everybody how awful we've behaved, and if they won't let you in then, I'll resign. I don't want to be in any Science Club that judges people so unscientifically

BOB: And I'll resign with you, George.

JOHNNY: No....don't do that. I don't want the guys to think I'm a --- (PAUSES, CONSIDERING) On the other hand Miss Reynolds, maybe that would be a good place to start, huh? If I got in the Science Club and worked hard, maybe I could begin to make people change their minds about me.

MISS R: (SMILING) That's an excellent idea.

JOHNNY: (SMILING) Gee, thanks, George. Thanks a lot.

JOAN: (CALLING QUIETLY) Johnny.

JOHNNY: Yes?

JOAN: The girls' Home Ec Club is having a party next week. You'll come, won't you Johnny?

JOHNNY: You want me to come? (JOAN NODS; JOHNNY BLUSHES) Sure, I'll be there. (SMILES HAPPILY)

MISS R: (LOOKING AT WRIST WATCH) It's almost time for your next class, you all.....I think we know what's been causing Johnny's trouble -- and I think we know what to do about it....You can go now.

(JOHNNY, BOB, AND JOAN RISE, MOVE TOWARD THE DOOR WITH GEORGE)

JOHNNY: Thank you, Miss Reynolds.

BOB: Thank you, Miss Reynolds.

GEORGE: Thank you, Miss Reynolds.

(MISS REYNOLDS NODS TO EACH AS HE EXITS. JOAN PAUSES AT DOOR, TURNS, COMES BACK HALFWAY TO MISS REYNOLDS' DESK)

JOAN: Miss Reynolds?

MISS R: Yes, Joan.

JOAN: (HALTINGLY) This taught me a lesson -- all this. I feel so awfully ashamed...You know, I really didn't know how Johnny's trouble got started...I didn't realize how mean we were being to him ----- (SHUDDERS) We've been dreadful! Why, we condemned him even before we got a chance to know him -- all because his skin was dark and he has a foreign-sounding name.....What silly reasons!

MISS R: Yes they are silly, Joan. But some people are judging other people in just that fashion all the time. Nobody knows how much heartsickness -- how much hatred ---- they must cause.

JOAN: (WITH DECISION) Well, I've learned my lesson. Hereafter, I'm going to take people one by one, just as they come. And I'm going to judge 'em for themselves. I'm going to like 'em or dislike 'em for what they are-- not for what their parents might be, or what their religion is, or anything like that. (PAUSE) I'm going to remember that each human being is a very special individual.

MISS R: (SMILING VERY WARMLY) You've got the right idea. Just remember that part of our American heritage is respect for individual worth.

JOAN: What about Johnny, Miss Reynolds? Do you think he will change for the better now?

MISS R: Change, Joan? I'm sure of it. He'll change -- and he'll change faster as the group warms up toward him... I think in no time at all Johnny Canetto will be the same splendid, cooperative person he was in New Orleans-- especially if you and Bob and George do all you say you're going to do. (PAUSE) I think years from now, when people ask me about Johnny, I'll be able to say, "Johnny Canetto? Why, he was one of the best boys in school."

(CURTAIN)

ous generalizations regarding the Negro's behavior during the Civil War. Historians, if at all mentioning the Negro in their accounts of the war, describe him as an "element of strength" to the Confederacy, as "patiently submissive" (Rhodes, Phillips), as having "supported unanimously" the slavocracy (Cotterill).

But the facts contradict these fables. For two hundred years the American Negro people waged a persistent struggle against the diabolical system of chattel slavery, which was devised and continued for their super-exploitation. For sheer courage and ingenuity this conflict has never been surpassed in all the vast history of man's revolutionary struggles. In this desperate battle the Negroes carried on agitational and propagandistic work; they committed sabotage, they mutilated and killed themselves and their children rather than submit; they fled wherever there was a promise of freedom; they poisoned their masters, set fire to plantations, assassinated their oppressors; they conspired and rebelled, they waged guerrilla warfare, they gave up their lives fighting for the freedom of their people. And they eagerly grasped the opportunity offered by the Civil War to accentuate their struggles.

It is important to observe that at no period were these rebellious activities more widespread, and of deeper political significance (very often involving poor whites and even, at times, calling for a redistribution of the land, work animals and tools, as well as the end of slavery) than during the ten years immediately preceding the outbreak of the Civil War. It is beyond the scope of this brief study to recount the numerous plots and revolts which occurred. However, as an example, let us mention the events of this nature which took place in 1860, the last year before the slaveholders' rebellion.

Early in July fires swept over and devastated many cities and counties in northern Texas. Slaves were immediately suspected and arrested. They were beaten, tortured and executed by the scores. White men were invariably reported as being implicated, and there were frequent notices of their being beaten and executed together with the slaves. Listing the counties in which plots were reported, cities burned and rebels executed will give an idea of the extensive character of the trouble and help explain the abject terror it aroused: Anderson, Austin, Dallas, Denton, Ellis, Grimes, Hempstead, Lamar, Milam, Montgomery, Rusk, Tarrant, Walker and Wood. The reign of terror in Texas lasted for about eight weeks.

Before it was over, reports of disaffection came from other areas. In August a conspiracy among the slaves, again with white accomplices, said to have been inspired by a nearby band of outlawed runaway slaves, was uncovered and crushed in Talladega county, Alabama. About one hundred miles south, in Pine Level, Montgomery county, of the same state, in that same month, the arrest of a white harness-maker was reported for "holding improper conversation with slaves." Within five months serious trouble was reported from that region.

Meanwhile, still in August, plots were uncovered in Whitfield, Cobb and Floyd counties in northwest Georgia. Said the Columbus, Georgia, Sun of August 29: "By a private letter from Upper Georgia, we learn that an insurrectionary plot has been discovered among the Negroes in the vicinity of Dalton and Marietta and great excitement was occasioned by it, and still prevails." The slaves had intended to burn Dalton, capture a train and crash on into Marietta some seventy miles away. Thirty-six of the slave leaders were imprisoned and the entire area took on a war-like aspect. Again it was felt that "white men instigated the plot," but, since Negro testimony was not acceptable against a white man, the proof against them was here felt to be insufficient for convictions. An-

January 26, 1861, declared that "Disunion [would be] the doom of slavery," while the Louisville Daily Journal of the same day felt that "Disunion [was] the necessary antecedent of abolition." Two weeks later the Raleigh, North Carolina, Standard warned that in a civil war the slaves "will become restless and turbulent. . . . The masses will at length rise up and destroy everything in their way. . . . The end will be—Abolition!"

In other words, certain leaders within the South were aware that docility and contentment were not characteristic of the Negro slave. And these men accurately foretold the future: the slaves did, in the Civil War, find and grasp their great opportunity to achieve that for which they had always fought—freedom.

Let us examine in detail the methods by which the Negro people helped to achieve this great end.

II. NON-SLAVE STATES

Notwithstanding the strategic declaration of the Republican Party that an intact union was the sole aim in the Civil War, Abolitionists, both Negro and white, promptly saw that the slaveholders' rebellion was the slaves' great opportunity. They therefore immediately agitated for the right of the Northern Negro to take an active, direct part in the destruction of the Confederacy. In 1861, Negroes in New York City formed themselves into a military club and held regular drill, until stopped by the police, in anticipation of fighting with the Federal forces. In Pennsylvania Governor Curtin refused an offer from free Negroes to go into the South and stir up slave revolts. It is certain, too, that some Negroes, passing themselves off as whites, served and fought with the Union armies from the opening of the war.

Just a few days after the fall of Fort Sumter, a free Negro of Washington, D. C., Jacob Dodson, offered his services and those of three hundred other Negroes for the Union army, but this was refused (April 29, 1861). Later during the same year another Negro, a physician of Battle Creek, Michigan, G. P. Miller, made a similar offer, but it also was rejected.

The presence and agitation of the Negroes was proving embarrassing to certain Republican leaders who were intent upon preventing open rebellion among Northern Democrats and border state inhabitants; therefore, propaganda in favor of Negro colonization in Africa became very prominent. Indeed the government set up a colonization department to carry through the idea. But, as earlier in our history, the movement collapsed because of the hostility of those who were to be colonized. Robert Purvis, a Philadelphia Negro, declared in August, 1862, that the Negroes would not leave:

> ...we were born here, and here we choose to remain.... We were coaxed and mobbed, and mobbed and coaxed; but we refused to budge...this is our country as much as it is yours, and we will not leave it.

However, Purvis added, the Negroes were ready and eager to fight for their country.

It was in that same month, August, 1862, that the Federal government made its first hesitating movements towards the enlistment of Negroes. And, notwithstanding very considerable discriminations, to be detailed elsewhere, over eighty-two thousand Northern Negroes fought for the Union forces.

Negroes were the leaders in the recruiting of their own people. An Ohio Negro leader, John M. Langston, de-were free) lived within the Confederacy and, indeed, formed over forty per cent of the total population. It is impossible to understand the outcome of the Civil War without examining the behavior of that forty per cent, and the behavior of the Confederate government with regard to it.

WAS THE SOUTH UNPROTECTED?

Let it be immediately understood that the conventional story about the unprotected condition of the slave South is utter poppycock.

Slave laws and customs provided for division between domestic and field slaves, and between the field drivers or foremen and the rank and file workers. No slave could testify against a white, no slave might resist a white, no slave might go anywhere, or buy anything or sell anything without his owner's written permission. No slave was to carry arms of any kind. No slave was to be taught or learn how to read or write, and all writing and talking with a "tendency" to create disaffection was strictly forbidden. No assembling of slaves was allowed without express permission from the authorities, who uniformly required whites to be present. Every plantation with a certain number of slaves (varying from twenty to about fifty, according to place and time) was to have at least one adult white male upon it, and every rural district within the South was to be patrolled at stated periods (usually once in two or four weeks) by bodies of armed, mounted men. Every city had its patrol and guard and Negro curfew hour. Militia and volunteer military groups of a high degree of efficiency pervaded the slave area and saw frequent service in suppressing or overawing slave rebelliousness. The old Southern titles of Colonel and Major were not used merely for euphony or from politeness, but represented real military proficiency. Espionage and a religion with one message—docility—aided in the enslavement of the Negro people.

All this, in tightened form, and more, prevailed throughout the Confederacy during the war years.

The slavocracy invoked its religion with redoubled assiduity and warned its victims time without number of the dire sin of flaunting its rule; be meek and obedient. The whites attended the open religious meetings of the slaves and were pleased to hear prayers for the Confederacy, uttered, as the slaves knew, with tongue in cheek. Once when a Negro preacher prayed for the slavocracy with marked vehemence and apparently with great sincerity, his slave brethren, after the services, reproached him as a traitor. He replied: "Don't worry children; the Lord knew what I was talking about." But in the depth of the night and within their hovels, the slaves prayed for, and indeed, often to, Abraham Lincoln, so that, as a Negro remarked, "If the prayers that have gone up for the Union army could be read out you would not get through them these two weeks."

The favorite espionage method among the Confederates was for men to dress in the uniform of the Federal army and go among slaves asking for aid or information. And, too often, the slave would be deceived and furnish either or both, whereupon he would, most unceremoniously, be hanged.

Safeguards prevalent in the pre-war South were added to and strengthened. In the first conscription act of the Confederacy, passed in 1862, a provision exempted one adult male, owner or overseer, for every twenty slaves. In March, 1864, notwithstanding the fact that man-power was then Secessia's crucial problem, it was found necessary to exempt one white male for every fifteen slaves. These provisions not only weakened the Confederacy by

This will account for the boldness and celerity of the enemy's movements."

In 1864 the Confederate General Winder urged severe punishment for a captured Negro guide because: "It is a matter of notoriety in the sections of the Confederacy where raids are frequent that the guides of the enemy are nearly always free Negroes and slaves."

Two of the most famous of these Negro spies and guides were James Lawson and that almost incredibly courageous woman, Harriet Tubman, both of whom time and again went into Confederate territory and returned with invaluable information and, often, more fugitive slaves.

Some of the fugitives, particularly those from fortification work, escaped with valuable goods, such as tools, horses, or even guns and ammunition. Indeed Charleston fugitives in May, 1862, presented the Union forces with a completely equipped Confederate gunboat. The leader in this exploit, an exploit that captured the attention of the nation, was a slave pilot, Robert Smalls. With eight comrades and five women and three children, he stole onto an unprotected gunboat, the Planter, in Charleston harbor, and piloted it past the port's batteries by giving the proper signals. They then avoided bombardment from the blockading Union fleet by raising a white flag. The gunboat fought for the Union, and Robert Smalls' professional skill as a pilot, acquainted with Southern waters, was also of great value to the same cause.

THE NEGROES AS SOLDIERS

In August, 1862, a vacillating Federal government, bombarded by appeals from white and Negro leaders—like Wendell Phillips, Elizur Wright, Frederick Douglass, Robert Purvis—seeing slavery disappearing from the loyal border states, and appreciating the great military significance of thousands of strong black arms, initiated the enrollment of Negroes as soldiers in the Army of the Republic. One hundred and twenty-five thousand Negroes from the slave states served in the Federal armies. They, together with the eighty thousand from the North, fought in four hundred and fifty battles, with an inspiring and inspired courage that was of the utmost importance in bringing about the collapse of the Confederacy and the abolition of slavery.

For here were over two hundred thousand armed Negro men fighting within a state built upon and dedicated to the proposition that the Negro was, if at all a human being, an innately and ineradicably inferior one, fit only to be a slave. This was why—as the genius of Karl Marx early saw, "A single Negro regiment would have a remarkable effect on Southern nerves"—200,000 armed Negroes shattered the slavocracy's morale and tore away its foundation.

And the Negro soldiers of the Republic fought notwithstanding shameful discriminations and disadvantages. White soldiers received thirteen dollars a month, Negroes received but seven dollars (until July 14, 1864, when the pay was equalized, retroactively to January 1, 1864); there were enlistment bounties for white recruits, none for Negroes (until June 15, 1864); and there was no possibility for advancement into the ranks of commissioned officers for Negroes. Moreover, the military policy of the terrified Confederate government was particularly brutal against its Negro adversaries. The Confederacy never recognized captured Negro soldiers who had been slaves as prisoners of war, and did not accord this status to captured free Negroes until October, 1864. The Negroes were either killed, returned to slavery, or confined at hard labor.

The Confederate General Mercer reported the capture in November, 1862, of four Negro soldiers and suggested as well as at the South, he was largely shut out of remunerative avenues of industry and of opportunities to improve his mental, moral and material condition. He was kept under a social ban and was not recognized as being equal in any respect to his fellow-man of a different complexion. After thus suffering for generations it could hardly be expected that he would feel much enthusiasm in the cause of popular liberty, restricted to the enjoyment of the tyrant race.

But notwithstanding this the Negro accepted the situation in silence, and, with an intense religious fervor, displayed a love for freedom, a willingness to fight and make sacrifice for the common cause of liberty, a valor and intrepidity, even when his own prospect of sharing in it was not promising, that have not been paralleled by any race, under similar conditions, in the history of the world.

From the 5th day of March, 1770, when Crispus Attucks, a Negro, led the American patriots into the main guard of the British line on King Street, Boston, Massachusetts, the Negro has been conspicuous in every movement in which patriotism and courage are essential requisites.

At the battle of Bunker Hill, Major Pitcairn was killed, which proved to be a very serious loss to the British. It was he who was the chief commander of the forces that went out to Lexington and Concord at the time of the famous fight there. He fell at the hands of Private Peter Salem of Colonel Nixon's regiment of the Continental army. This Negro soldier's claim to this honor could not be disputed. There was another Negro soldier who distinguished himself, named Salem Poor, who demonstrated such great courage that fourteen American officers called the attention of Congress to his merits. The memorial was dated at Cambridge,

December 5, 1775, and stated "that under our own observation, we declare that a Negro man called Salem Poor, of Colonel Frye's regiment, Captain Ames' company, in the late battle at Charlestown, behaved like an experienced officer as well as an excellent soldier. The reward due to so great and distinguished a character we submit to the Congress."

The army organized at Cambridge under General Washington had from the start Negroes in it. The historian Bancroft states that free Negroes stood in the ranks by the side of white men.

At the battle of Long Island, in 1776, Negroes fought bravely. Theodore Parker, once alluding to the discovery of the remains of these, remarked: "Now after seventy-five years have passed by, the bones of the forgotten victims of the Revolution are shovelled up, carted off, and shot into the sea, as rubbish of the town. Had they been white men's bones, how they would have been honored with sumptuous burial anew, and the purchased prayers and preaching of Christian divines! Now such relics are but rubbish of the streets."

In the War of 1812 the Negro performed heroic service on land and sea. Commodore Perry said the Negroes in the navy seemed to be absolutely insensible to danger. He solicited and welcomed them into the service of their country. In September, 1814, he issued a proclamation, which contained the words: "As sons of freedom, you are now called upon to defend our most inestimable blessing. As Americans your country looks with confidence to her adopted children for valorous support."

In the War of the Rebellion the Negro performed a very prominent and heroic part. This furnished on a large scale an opportunity to show his loyalty and courage, and he met the highest expectations of his friends. For two years the war had been carried on by the North on the principle of saving the Union without interfering with the institution of slavery, which was really at the bottom of the whole trouble, and while that policy was pursued the prospect of success was dark; but after the proclamation of emancipation was issued, victory seemed almost at once to turn on the side of the Union forces.

By the North, Negroes were not allowed for some time to shoulder the musket in behalf of the cause of freedom. Some predicted that if so allowed they would not begin to compare in efficiency with the white man. But the experiment proved a grand success.

Generally the Negro troops acquitted themselves most creditably as soldiers. Mr. Stanton, then Secretary of War, said of them at Petersburg, Virginia: "The hardest fighting was done by the black troops. The parts they stormed were the worst of all. After the affair was over General Smith went to thank them, and tell them he was proud of their courage and dash He says that they cannot be exceeded as soldiers."

In the War of the Rebellion there were in all 178,975 Negro soldiers in the United States Volunteers, and of these 38,847 were killed, wounded and missing. They took part in 449 battles. Besides the large military force there were 150,000 Negro laborers in other departments. Of the brilliant achievements of Robert Small, of whom the New York Tribune said:

"To this colored man was the nation indebted for the first vindication of its honor on the sea," much might be said. General Benjamin F. Butler, who at first opposed the idea of admitting Negroes into the army, took occasion to say on the floor of Congress: "It became my painful duty to follow in the track of the charging column, and there, in a space not wider than the clerk's desk, and three hundred yards long, lay the dead bodies of three hundred and fifty-three of my colored comrades, slain in the defense of their country, who laid down their lives to uphold its flag and its honor as a willing sacrifice; and as I rode along among them, guiding my horse this way and that way lest he should profane with his hoofs what seemed to me the sacred dead, and as I looked on their bronzed faces upturned in the shining sun as if in mute appeal against the wrongs of the country for which they had given their lives, and whose flag had only been to them a flag of stripes on which no stars of glory had shone for them —feeling I had wronged them in the past, and believing what was the future of my country to them—among my dead comrades there I swore myself a solemn oath: 'May my right hand forget its cunning, and my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, if I ever fail to defend the rights of those men who have given their blood for me and my country this day, and for their race forever,' and God helping me, I will keep this oath."

A radical change of sentiment has taken place in recent years as regards the capabilities and possibilities of the Negro. This sentiment is favorable to him and this is largely due to his honorable record as a soldier and his very successful exploits in the far West in conflict with the hostile Indians and his enviable record made at San Juan Hill and El Caney in Cuba.

attempted to justify the government's reliance upon him.

It is fortunate that the average Negro in the regular army is intelligent and fairly well educated.

Horace Wayman Bivins, son of Severn S. and Elizabeth Bivins, was born in Pungoteague, Accomack County, Virginia, May 8, 1862. He spent his early childhood on his father's farm. At the age of fifteen he was put in charge of an eight-horse farm one mile from Keller Station, Va. His father is a farmer, but has spent much of his time in religious and educational work. He advanced money in 1862 to build a church and schoolhouse at Pungoteague. These were the first buildings erected on the eastern shore of Virginia, for that purpose. Prejudice was so great in that section that the day that the schoolhouse was completed it was reduced to ashes before 10 o'clock that night, and a notice was placed upon his father's door notifying him to leave the country within five days or else he would be hanged by his d——d neck until dead. The following day the old gentleman received information that the Yankees were at Drummondtown, but twelves miles away. He rode to headquarters and reported the transaction to the division commander. He at once sent a part of his staff to investigate the matter. The result was in Mr. Bivins' favor, and he was successful in establishing a school and had it opened the following Monday.

The following narrative was written by Sergeant Bivins while in the Cuban campaign, and it shows that he is a careful observer and faithful historian:

"I entered Hampton School, June 13, 1885, at which place I received my first military training. Having a very great desire for adventure and to see the wild West, I enlisted in the United States army, November 7, 1887, at Washington, D. C. Ten days later I was sent to Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. After receiving a few lessons in mounted and dismounted drill I was assigned to Troop E, Tenth Cavalry. Major Kelley was then captain of the troop. I joined my troop at Fort Grant, Arizona Territory, June 19, 1888. In a few days my troop was ordered to take the field. It was reported that some Indians had left the San Carlos Reservation and were en route to Old Mexico.

"We scouted along St. Pedro River east and west. For thirty days we were searching for Indian trails, but found none. We then returned to the post. On February 22, 1889, my troop was ordered to San Carlos, Arizona Territory. We arrived there after four days' hard march. Our camp was established on the north side and along the Gila River. I was detailed as lineman. I had to ride and keep the telegraph line in good repair between Camp Carlos and Globe, a mining camp about thirty-five miles from San Carlos.

There were two troops of the Tenth Cavalry, F and E; G Troop of the Fourth Cavalry and companies C and G of the Twenty-fourth Infantry. There were several thousands of Indians on this reservation. I often had to ride the line alone, and had to pass within two miles of a band of hostile Indians who had intrenched themselves on the heights opposite Benson's Camp, within twelve miles of Carlos.

"Churchana, an Indian chief, had established his headquarters near Benson's Camp and defied the government to arrest him. We kept a detail of twelve men and one noncommissioned officer at Benson's Camp, two miles from the hostile intrenchment. It was a very unpleasant duty that I had to perform, as often I had to pass this camp in the night.

"April 9, 1889, Lieutenant (now Captain) Watson, Lieutenant Dade and Lieutenant Littebrant of the Tenth, with three troops and sixty Indian scouts, surrounded the hostile camp and demanded their surrender, which was accepted on conditions. The Indian chief was to identify and turn over all the murderers and the government was not to prosecute him. When the fact became known among the Indians that the chief was going to surrender they mutinied, and in the fight four were killed, and the chief was stabbed in several places and was admitted in the government hospital. Lieutenant Watson at daybreak planted two Hotchkiss guns, six hundred yards east of their fortified position, and trained the guns on their works, and thus effected the surrender.

"These same guns helped to form our battery before Santiago, and of which I was gunner.

"After the surrender of the Indians my troop was ordered to change stations with troop I of our regiment. We arrived at Fort Apache, Arizona Territory, October 17, 1889, after a seven days' march over a rough and rocky road. I was detailed as clerk in the regimental adjutant's office, November 10, 1889, and served until made corporal, June 15, 1890. My first target practice with the rifle was at San Carlos. I stood No. 2 in the troop of sixty men although it was the first time that I had ever shot a rifle. I was made sharpshooter in that year, 1889, and have ever since led my troop in marksmanship. I represented my troop in 1892, '93, and '94, winning eight medals and badges at the department competition. I also in 1894 won three gold medals when I represented the Department of the Dakotas at the army competition at Fort Sheridan and carried off the first gold medal.

"Our regiment was ordered to Chickamauga, April 14, 1898. My troop, G, at this time, was in the field. First Lieutenant W. H. Smith and Second Lieutenant

Johnson and thirty-eight enlisted men had been ordered to do patrol duty in the Blackfeet Reservation, which the government had announced would be thrown open for settlement on the 15th of April, 1889.

"When the order came for us to go South, General Henry sent a telegram for the troop to report at the post as soon as possible. The troop arrived at post at 2:30 p.m. on the 16th, looking very much fatigued, having patrolled the Canadian line, a portion of the Rocky Mountains and St. Marys Lake; a part of the time wading through mud and water from two to three feet deep and more than half of the time without anything to eat.

"We left Fort Assiniboine, Montana, April 19th. We were delayed near a little town in Wisconsin about twenty-two hours on account of the burning of a bridge just before we reached it. It was thought that it was burned on purpose to have us lie over there.

"We received great ovations all along the line. Thousands of people were thronged at the places where we would stop and we were treated royally; at Madison, Wisconsin, we were presented with enough flags to decorate our train and were given cigars and many other pleasantries. Our band would play in response to the ovations that were given us from time to time.

"After reaching Illinois we received both flags and flowers from the ladies and sentimentals. I planted one of the flags given me on the crest of San Juan Hill, July 1, 1898. As we neared the South, the great demonstrations became less fervent. There were no places that we arrived in where we were courteously treated.

"The signs over the waiting room doors at the Southern depots were a revelation to us. Some read thus: 'White waiting room.' On the door of a much poorer room we read: 'Niggers are not allowed inside.' We

White, Walter

How Far the Promised Land. New York: The Viking Press, 1955.

Its headline was printed in bold type, and read: HOMES OF EIGHTEEN NEGROES BOMBED BY KU KLUX KLAN IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA., U.S.A. A member of our party who represented influential business interests looked at it, then turned to me in deep discouragement and remarked, "We're wasting our time here. We might just as well take the next plane out and turn Asia over to the Communists."

Later we talked about what would happen to the American industrial civilization should it become impossible for the Western world to import from Asia those minerals and other materials so essential to our own industrial and military production—tin, rubber, tungsten, cobalt, uranium, and so forth, to say nothing of the moral as well as military catastrophe that would accompany loss of the friendship and faith of more than a billion Asians. Someone mentioned the grave danger that, if this happened, Africa would swiftly follow Asia into the orbit of the Soviet Union. But at the time we first saw the headlines we were not able fully to discuss this situation, because we could hear the highly animated talk of the journalists who awaited us inside the club. None of our party needed to be told that the two front-page stories would be the taking-off-point for an interview in a continent where color consciousness runs high, particularly where the United States is concerned. We had learned that a few days before in Pakistan, when lurid stories had come over the cables about the rioting at Peekskill, New York, involving Paul Robeson.

Our fears took no longer to materialize than the time it took for the amenities of introductions. My wife and I remembered the warning that Madame Vijayalakshmi Pandit, sister of the great Pandit Nehru and at that time Ambassador of India to the United States, had voiced to us before we left New York. "You'll find India at its hottest and worst in August, and you'll encounter some of the most persistent and skeptical newspaper correspondents in the world."

We found her admonition an understatement. The questions asked in crisp British accents softened somewhat by Urdu or Hindustani tumbled over one another in a bombardment that neither the heat nor the hum of ceiling fans nor the street noises lessened.

There were questions about Kashmir; about the American attitude toward Communist China; about Point Four aid and its motivation; whether the North Atlantic pact with Europe signified American backing of colonialism in Asian areas such as Indochina and Indonesia; whether the United States planned to use the atom bomb only against dark-skinned peoples. A few of the queries revealed obvious pro-Communist and anti-American convictions or sympathies; most of them, however, were clearly motivated by an honest desire to get at the facts. It was very clear that our questioners were implacable in their hostility to any and every form of condescension or exploitation of Asia by the white Western world and that they were passionately devoted to the social revolution that Gandhi had started and that their beloved Nehru was continuing.

The most persistent and difficult questions were those about the status of the Negro in the United States. These bowled over many in our party. The Indian newsmen appeared to possess encyclopedic knowledge of lynching, disfranchisement, segregation, Senate filibusters against such civil-rights legislation as Fair Employment Practices Committee bills, and the anti-Negro speeches of Americans such as Bilbo, Rankin, Talmadge, and Byrnes. Some of them appeared to be convinced that every one of the fifteen million Negroes in the United States had to get off the sidewalk when a white man came near, lived perpetually in terror of lynching, and generally occupied lower status than the Untouchables of their own country.

George Denny, the leader of the Round the World Town Meeting, turned over the questions regarding race to me as Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, about which, fortunately, some of the journalists had read. It was not an easy assignment. I remember particularly one tart-tongued man who apparently had memorized every detail of every race riot and lynching that had ever occurred in the United States, including some that I had personally investigated. I had to rack my memory to match his familiarity with the facts. There was little effort to conceal his conviction—which some of the other reporters shared —that America is barbarous in its treatment of all non-white human beings.

All of us were handicapped and embarrassed because the facts were indisputable. Some of our party were angered but tactfully reserved their most vigorous comments until later, when we were alone. One American was particularly bitter as he asked, "What business have they attacking us for a few lynchings when they have a caste system here which is worse than our racial discrimination at home?" When I pointed out that the government of India had outlawed discrimination based on caste or religion while our Senate had successfully blocked anti-discrimination laws through filibusters, his anger against our Indian critics was such that he appeared to see no relevance in the comparison.

What appalled us most was the almost total absence of information concerning the hard-won progress that had been made in the fight for racial equality in the United States. All of the newsmen had read of the notable work of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche as mediator in Palestine. Joe Louis as world heavyweight champion was known, though some were interested in him chiefly because the fact that he was permitted to fight and beat white men puzzled them, being a contradiction of what they believed the Negro's status to be. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's consistent, lifelong opposition to prejudices of every sort was familiar to some of the journalists, but they made it clear that they did not believe her to be typical.

Even the presence in the Town Meeting party of Mrs. Edith Sampson, a successful Negro woman lawyer from Chicago, who was to serve later as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, and myself, as Secretary of the NAACP, seemed to have little immediate effect in dispelling the journalists' concepts of the inferior status of the Negro in America. We answered the avalanche of questions as factually and as honestly as we could. It would have been absurd to deny the truth. Bigots had built over the years too damning a record, and that record was better known to our inquisitors than it was to many in our own party. All of us were decent Americans well informed on a variety of subjects, ranging from banking and agriculture through education and fraternal organizations to human rights. Most of the group had left the United States believing that the race problem, if not minor, was at least merely one of a number of questions facing the world. It had been a jolt of considerable proportions for the white members of the group to find themselves in a world where their faces were tiny pale specks among millions of dark faces.

We met the issue by saying something like this: No honest American denies the existence of racial and religious bigotry in the United States, any more than any honest citizen of the Commonwealth of India denies the fact that caste discrimination has not entirely been eliminated in India. Thoughtful Americans are not only heartily ashamed by the continuation of prejudice in their country, but many of them are effectively doing something about it. A few are doing much, more are doing a little, some are doing nothing or are actively working to perpetuate prejudice. In a democratic society where there is freedom of the right to protest against even the government itself, some progress toward abolition of the color line in jobs, voting, the armed services, and education is being made. Not enough of course. But with all its shortcomings a democracy does permit dissent, which is not possible in dictatorship of either left or right. Where all power is vested in a dictator or a small clique, however benevolent its announced objectives, protestants against government usually wind up, I reminded the newsmen, in prison or facing a firing squad.

Another episode that indicated the need to tell the true story of race occurred at a dinner party in Karachi given for us by the vivacious wife of a high government official. Both of them were widely traveled in Asia and Europe but at the time had not visited the United States. With tact and delicacy they and the other Pakistani guests approached questions about race they obviously were eager to ask. Their curiosity and perplexity were measurably heightened by stories in the Pakistan newspapers that my wife and I were an interracial couple, the possibility of such a marriage in the United States being totally at odds with all they had heard. Confusion was compounded for them, apparently, by the fact that my wife is a brunette and I am blond. As we watched the eyes of the guests shift in increasing puzzlement from my wife to me and back again it was apparent that they were trying to figure out which of us was colored.

When finally our hostess accepted me as a Negro, she asked if I would be willing to answer some quite personal questions. I told her she could ask any question she wished.

"How did you obtain an education in the United States?" was her first query.

I told her how, with the aid of my parents and through working during summer vacations, I had paid for the modest formal training I possessed.

Impatiently she brushed aside my reply. "I know all about the Horatio Alger rags-to-riches tradition of you Americans," she told me. "That isn't what I meant at all. What I want to know is how you as a Negro got an education, since it is well known that Negroes in the United States are not permitted to go to institutions of higher education."

I told her about the establishment of Atlanta, Fisk, and Howard Universities after the Civil War, to give Negroes higher education.

She politely cut short my explanation. "Oh, what I meant was that you have laws and customs prohibiting Negroes from attending schools with whites."

Had our hostess been less well informed on a variety of subjects, her incomplete knowledge would have been understandable. But because she represented the best-informed opinion of Pakistan, her views were both disconcerting and startling in revealing American failure to tell the facts about the issue that creates more doubt than any other about America's sincerity among the two-thirds of the world's people who are non-white.

We told her and the other guests that Negroes were barred from tax-supported and private colleges and professional schools only in the South. One of the guests who had been in the United States asked somewhat acidly about the quota system affecting Negroes, Jews, and other minorities, and the domination of campus life by fraternities and conservative boards of trustees. We had to admit that such handicaps to democratic education exist.

But when we told them of the series of legal cases which were even then being carried to the United States Supreme Court—decisions which we were certain would lead to the admission of Negro students to state colleges in Southern States—there was incredulity on the faces of our audience. The following year we could have informed them that ten state universities in the South were open to students on a non-segregated basis, and that Negroes were faculty members of seventy-two non-segregated colleges and universities.

In India, Pakistan, Malaya, and the Philippines we found a willingness to listen to the facts. But when one encounters men and women from the Soviet Union or her satellites, there is usually found belligerent denial that treatment of Negroes in the United States is ever anything but foul. Here is the story of one such encounter.

In 1948 I attended in Paris the meetings of the General Assembly of the United Nations as one of the non-governmental-organization representatives. Of all the issues on the agenda, the most hotly debated were genocide and human rights. I was invited to do a world-wide broadcast over the UN radio on how the efforts for a human-rights covenant and a genocide convention appeared to an American Negro. I gladly accepted, and showed up at the agreed time at the broadcasting station in the labyrinthian bowels of the vast Palais de Chaillot. As I was about to begin, the argumentative chief of the Polish delegation, Juliusz Katz-Suchy, stormed into the studio to demand that he record a broadcast immediately. It seemed that he had been detained from keeping his appointment, which had been scheduled a half-hour ahead of mine. He was told politely that because he was tardy preparations had been made to permit me to do my chore.

uttered by American white people are these: "Sure, I like so and so" (a Negro whom the speaker happens to know); "he's different from most of them," and, "Not that I have any prejudice, but I wouldn't want to have a Negro live next door to me because it would lower the value of my property." In those exceptional cases in which Negroes have moved into white neighborhoods without violent opposition, the coldness and passive hostility that have greeted them on arrival has often changed to warm friendliness and respect, once acquaintance has been established and ignorance dispelled. In such cases it is evident that the prejudice-revealing statements made by whites before any real acquaintance with Negroes are mere unthinking, parrot-like repetitions of a policy line established by leadership often unrecognized and unacknowledged by those who follow it.

The past fifteen years have seen full integration in the armed services of the United States, the Supreme Court's decision against segregation in the public schools, a vastly improved status for the Negro in employment and trade-union relations, increase in the life expectancy and general health of American Negroes—in short, remarkable progress toward full democratic equality in all fields save one, where progress has been spotty and isolated, and where the reactionary enemies of enlightenment seemingly remain firmly intrenched. This field, in which it is difficult to see much concrete evidence that any general advance has been made, is housing.

Why?

Back of the blind, unreasoning prejudices, and the oft-repeated clichés by which they are rationalized, lies a story of careful planning and propagandizing of which many Americans are unaware. Throughout the 1930s and 1940s, when enlightenment was slowly spreading and affecting public opinion to the point at which the long-overdue improvements previously mentioned could be made, in real estate, a strong reactionary force dedicated to segregation in the sacred cause of "keeping property values up," was building up its power. Before 1930 real-estate selling and management were largely unorganized affairs, in which real-estate agents and property owners operated individually or through local associations. With the formation and continuously growing strength of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB), which consisted in 1950 of eleven hundred member boards with 45,539 members paying annual dues of $420,000, the situation changed markedly.

Associated with the NAREB are such organizations as the United States Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Home Builders, the United States Savings and Loan League, the National Association of Lumber Dealers, and others. In combination they have set up what President Truman called the most dangerous lobby in Washington.

Radio and television, the press, college textbooks on selling real estate, "city planning" and real-estate management, the real-estate lobby's incessant pressure on federal legislation—all constantly and without compromise, though often subtly, reiterate the sacred principle that members of "undesirable races" shall never be allowed to live in "good" neighborhoods inhabited, or suitable for habitation, by whites.

Such passages as this occur in texts used in training courses.

> Sometimes a relatively poor location may be so improved and restricted as to greatly enhance its natural value. It is a matter of common observation that the purchase of property by certain racial types is very likely to diminish the value of other property in the section.[1]
>
> Residential values are affected by racial and religious factors. . . . A home utility seeks location near people . . . but always near persons of the same social standing, same races . . .[2]

The prospective buyer might be a bootlegger who would cause considerable annoyance to his neighbors, a madame who had a number of call girls on her string, a gangster, who wants a screen for his activities by living in a better neighborhood, a colored man of means who was giving his children a college education and thought they were entitled to live among whites. . . . No matter what the motive or character of the would-be purchaser, if the deal would instigate a form of blight, then certainly the well-meaning broker must work against its consummation.[3]

[1] The Principles of Real Estate Practice. Ernest McKinley Fisher. New York: Macmillan, 1923. Quoted by Charles Abrams in Forbidden Neighbors, New York: Harper & Brothers, 1955. Mr. Fisher was, at the time the book was published, Assistant Executive Director of NAREB.

[2] The Appraisal of Real Estate. Frederick M. Babcock. New York: Macmillan, 1924. Quoted in Abrams, op. cit.

In what charming company are we classed by NAREB!

A realtor should never be instrumental in introducing into a neighborhood a character of property or occupancy of any race or nationality . . . which will clearly be detrimental to property values in that neighborhood.[4]

Real-estate agents who have been adjudged to have violated this rule by selling property to members of "undesirable" races have been expelled from the Association.

This is but a mild sampling of the solemn poison that is served to students eager to earn the right to call themselves "realtors," a title that is copyrighted by NAREB and may be used only by its members. Many more examples could be cited—this, for instance:

There is a natural inclination of the colored people to live together in their own communities. . . . Property values have been sadly depreciated by having a single colored family settle down on a street occupied exclusively by white residents. . . . Segregation of the Negro population seems to be the reasonable solution. . . . Frankly, rigid segregation seems to be the only manner in which the difficulty can be successfully controlled. . . . The colored people certainly have a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, but they must recognize the economic disturbance which their presence in a white neighborhood causes, and forego their desire to split off from the established district where the rest of their race lives.[5]

[3] "Fundamentals of Real Estate Practice." National Association of Real Estate Boards, 1943. Quoted in Equality of Opportunity in Housing, New York: National Community Relations Advisory Council, 1952, and in Abrams, op. cit.

[4] "Code of Ethics." National Association of Real Estate Boards, 1950. Quoted in Abrams, op. cit.

[5] City Growth and Values. Stanley L. McMichael and R. F. Bingham. Cleveland: The Stanley McMichael Publishing Organization, 1923. Quoted in Abrams, op. cit.

And this:

Southern cities have by hard experience evolved a method of handling the situation which may appear objectionable but which seems to be effective.[6]

One text earnestly lists what might be called "the pecking order" —that is, the degree of undesirability of national and racial groups in a white American neighborhood. In this weird classification there are ten categories, listed in a descending scale of desirability. English immigrants have the honor of being classed as the least undesirable, Mexicans are most to be avoided, and Negroes are listed next to Mexicans in undesirability.[7]

According to Herbert U. Nelson, Executive Vice-President of NAREB (as quoted by Charles Abrams in Forbidden Neighbors), there are now some eight hundred books on the subject. In none which Mr. Abrams examined was he able to find any deviation from NAREB's anti-Negro policy. Courses in real estate, NAREB has announced, are now given in one hundred sixty-five universities and colleges, forty of which have majors in the subject. It is from the classrooms in which these courses are taught that many of today's and tomorrow's "realtors" come, thoroughly indoctrinated with the evils of racism.

The policy of NAREB, thoroughly and constantly reiterated by the real-estate lobby, has been tragically reflected in official government policy by the Federal Housing Administration, which, ever since its formation in 1934, has openly held to a policy of segregation in housing, and has been a staunch protector of the all-white neighborhood. It has published several manuals, which echo the policies of NAREB in such passages as these:

The Valuator should investigate areas surrounding the location to determine whether or not incompatible racial or social groups are present. . . . A change in social or racial occupancy generally leads to instability and a reduction in values. . . . If a neighborhood is to retain stability, it is necessary that properties shall continue to be occupied by the same social and racial class.[8]

[6] Real Estate Fundamentals. Charles T. Male. New York: D. Van Nostrand, 1932. Quoted in Abrams, op. cit.

[7] One Hundred Years of Land Values in Chicago. Homer Hoyt. Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, 1933. Cited by Abrams, op. cit.

Thus, during the decade and a half in which the American Negro was, in most fields, making the most signal advances in his history, his natural desire for a decent home of his own was continuously thwarted by shortsighted economic interests, with the blessing of an agency of the federal government of the world's most powerful democracy.

A number of simple subterfuges have been found that have made it possible to use zoning laws against Negroes, in spite of the illegality of racial zoning. Zoning commissions are given a certain latitude of interpretation and the power to make exceptions. Rules that make building economically impractical, or even impossible, for all save the extremely wealthy may be inserted into the ordinances. Some of these rules may be waived when a builder for whites applies for relief from them, and strictly enforced if the building is for Negroes or members of other unwanted minority groups. Or zoning ordinances may suddenly be changed when it becomes known that "undesirables" plan to build in a neighborhood. In Miami and near Philadelphia formerly residential property was quickly rezoned for industrial use when there was intimation that it was to be used for Negro dwellings. In Birmingham, in 1949, after several Negro houses had been dynamited, a fifty-foot strip of land six blocks long, between Negro and white residences, was zoned for industrial use. In Michigan, after a group of Negroes had bought land on which to build, a suddenly passed zoning ordinance prohibited their building a house on less than a twenty-acre parcel of land!

It may seem out of place, in a book which has been written in order to record the advances made by Negro Americans during the last fifteen years, to record in such detail and so positively the sordid story of reactionary attitudes and their baleful influence on Negro housing.

[8] Underwriting Manual. Washington: Federal Housing Administration, 1938. Quoted in Abrams, op. cit.

Two considerations impel me to do so. One is that the report of most heartening advances toward true emancipation for the American Negro would be unconvincing and distorted unless it included this unhappy story of one of the most important fields of Negro life, in which the slow rate of advance has not by any means kept pace with advances in other fields. The other consideration is more complicated, and perhaps more important.

In judging any movement, two often seemingly separated factors must be taken into consideration. One is the complex of physical facts. The physical facts of most Negro housing are still distressingly bad, partly, as we have seen, because of the determined and intensive efforts of a powerful minority of real-estate and associated interests. The other factor is composed of the changing attitudes of many people, who are influenced by related changes. In this aspect there is no question that the Negro's prospects of better housing have improved tremendously, along with his prospects in other fields. The outlawing of segregation in schools by the Supreme Court, the general smoothness with which integration in the armed services has worked, the steady decrease of discrimination in unions and employment, the acknowledged rise of Negro political power—all point to an inevitable eventual breaking down of housing segregation. The policy of NAREB has outlived its time, and public opinion will inevitably overcome it.

Some evidences of this may be discovered in by-products of some of the most horrible stories of violence in the housing situation that the past decade has produced.

Consider, for instance, the story of the Harvey Clarks of Cicero, Illinois. In the details of force and destructiveness, mob psychology, and support by police of lawlessness rather than decency, law, and order, it is one of the most revolting episodes in American race relations. It would be difficult for a skilled writer of creative fiction to make it seem worse than it was. Yet in the wake of the horror were evidences of the progress in enlightenment that America has made during the last fifteen years.

On July 8, 1951, Harvey Clark and his wife, pleasant and attractive, quiet and industrious, both with college degrees, attempted to move, with their young daughter, Michele, and son, Harvey Jr., into an apartment that they had rented in Cicero, a suburb near Chicago which had long boasted that it had no Negro residents. They were met by a detachment of police headed by Erwin Konovsky, Chief of Police, roughly handled, and told that no "niggers" would ever be allowed to live in Cicero.

Seeking protection from the courts, they were represented by George Leighton, a Negro, a Harvard Law School graduate, and Chairman of the Legal Committee of the Chicago branch of the NAACP. He asked for, and received, from Federal Judge John P. Barnes, an injunction ordering the Cicero police not to interfere with the Clarks' occupying their home, but on the contrary to protect the Clarks against any interference from others.

On July 12, thus "protected," as they thought, the Clarks moved in. As the news of their arrival spread, a mob estimated at from four to six thousand assembled, advanced into the twenty-apartment building, and made a shambles of it. The Clarks' furniture and other personal belongings (including Harvey Clark's honorable discharge from the Army) were thrown into the street and burned in a bonfire. A new piano, bought at considerable sacrifice for the talented young Michele, was hacked to pieces and thrown out the window to add to the flames. The Cicero police stood by, their inaction giving tacit approval to the ghastly savagery.

The physical violence was finally quelled only after Governor Adlai Stevenson rushed units of the Illinois National Guard into Cicero to take over the job the Cicero police had refused to do. A special Grand Jury was impaneled. Two months later it handed down indictments—not of the rioters or the police, but of George Leighton and others who had stood on the side of the Clarks, law, and order!

These fantastic indictments were, of course, challenged at once by the NAACP and were subsequently dismissed. The federal government then stepped into the situation, with the result that seven Cicero officials, including the president of the town council, the city attorney, the fire marshal, a police sergeant, and two policemen, were indicted. The Cook County Grand Jury also indicted Chief of Police Konovsky for misconduct in office.[9]

So much for one of the most shameful episodes in Cicero's somewhat unsavory history. That it could have happened anywhere in the world at any time is a measure of the depths of depravity and unreasoning cruelty to which Homo sapiens—thinking man—can sink. That it could have happened in America, the "bulwark of democracy," "the land of the free and the home of the brave," would be inconceivable to anyone who did not know the dreary history of Negro-white relationships in the United States. That it could have occurred in 1951, in a Northern state, during the fifteen years marked by the greatest progress toward full equality that the American Negro had made in his entire history, might seem, in the minds of the easily discouraged, to negate all the other advances. It might, that is, if they did not know the rest of the story.

Immediately after the event, Barry Gray, a popular and courageous New York radio commentator, invited me to tell on his program what had happened to the Clarks. While we were still on the air a woman listener telephoned to say that she was mailing a check for fifty dollars to start a fund to buy Michele a new piano. Within a few days more than a thousand dollars had been collected. Three piano-dealers offered instruments at wholesale rates. From all over the country, in indignant reaction to the story published by a weekly magazine, money was sent to enable the Clarks to buy new furniture. Norwalk, Connecticut, asked them to be guests of honor at the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city. They were warmly invited to become permanent residents, and a musical scholarship was given Michele.

[9] Konovsky and two others were tried and fined by a federal court, but the sentence was appealed. In 1954 the United States Court of Appeals reversed the decision, citing prejudicial error; and at the request of the Attorney General the federal court dismissed the indictments. (Editor's note.)

The Clarks, however, as a matter of principle, returned to Chicago, determined to continue their efforts until they and any other Negroes could live in Cicero in peace and safety. So universal was the nation's condemnation that Cicero authorities were reported in the press as planning to change the name of the town and employ a publicity expert to refurbish its reputation.

The Clarks have an apartment now—but in a segregated neighborhood.

Mixed with the horror and discouragement innate in the story of the Harvey Clarks and Cicero, there is an element of comfort, and a measure of the change in public attitude—in spite of the intensive and determined efforts of the NAREB and the real-estate lobby and the sporadic outbreaks of their unwitting dupes.

Fifteen years earlier there would undoubtedly have been protests and indignation against the treatment the Clarks received in Cicero. That these would have been less widespread, less voluble, and less effective, is certain. All over America today, in both North and South, non-governmental organizations and individuals are working quietly and effectively to build up public sentiment in support of the right of any American to buy and peacefully to occupy a home anywhere, without exclusion because of race, color of skin, or religion.

New York City, Detroit, Michigan, and Berkeley, California, are illustrative. In 1940 all but a very few of New York's 477,494 Negroes lived in Harlem or the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn. Since then many thousands of them have bought or are renting homes and apartments in various parts of Long Island, Westchester County, and the five boroughs of Greater New York. It would not be accurate to say that this dispersal of population was accomplished wholly without opposition or difficulty, or to assert that the majority of New York Negroes today live elsewhere than in the Harlem and Bedford-Stuyvesant sections. But in a remarkable majority of cases in which individual Negroes have moved into formerly all-white areas, no untoward incidents have occurred. The chief difficulty Negroes have experienced has been in obtaining mortgages and funds for construction outside the so-called Negro areas, because of the discriminatory practices of the FHA and of banks and mortgage companies influenced by the inflexible policy of the groups associated in the real-estate lobby. Several years of unceasing effort by the NAACP and others were required to have removed from the FHA operating manual the clause instructing banks to insure mortgages only in "racially homogeneous" areas.

The success of racial integration in public housing in New York is one of the reasons why its present Negro population of 775,529 is finding it easier to acquire housing in various areas of the city. That energetic champion of public housing, the late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, was equally an energetic foe of segregation. So, too, have been most of the heads of the City Housing Authority. One of the first of them, Langdon Post, was concerned when the integration program was inaugurated lest the first colored tenants admitted be met with violence or other hostility. Nevertheless, he went ahead. Today Negro and white tenants live in peace in every one of the city's housing projects.

The city's major problem rises from the acute need for housing among Negroes and Puerto Ricans. Since vacancies are allotted on the basis of need instead of race, some of the housing projects are in danger of becoming segregated simply as a result of being filled with the most needy, who are so often dark-skinned peoples.

An interesting case study of improvement, both in attitude and in the physical facts of Negro housing, is furnished by Detroit, which has variously been called "the arsenal of democracy," "the grand duchy of Ford," "the world capital of the assembly line," and many other names that it accepts proudly. But this hustling, brawling town has also been called the hotbed of race riots.

Now, however, an extraordinary change is taking place. No one would be so foolhardy as to say that other riots may not occur or to claim that the racial and religious tensions have disappeared—half-car was crushed like an accordion, such was the terrific impact from the head-on crash of the speeding trains.

Despite these and other instances of brutality and intransigent insistence on complete segregation, two major developments took place during the 1940s. The most basic of these was the realization by Americans, and particularly by Negroes themselves, that segregation in travel could no longer be tolerated. Where colored passengers had silently endured being forced to pay first-class fares for third-class or worse accommodations, with all the hazards and embarrassments attendant on such travel, more of them began to fight back. Negroes were fighting and dying for freedom on battlefronts all over the world. Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill were exhorting the free peoples of the world to make whatever sacrifice was needed to save the world from nazism. American Negroes identified themselves totally with the war objectives, but had one additional aim—they were determined to share the freedom for which the world was fighting.

Up to this time they had bitterly resented travel segregation, but had been content, in the main, to obtain equal accommodations. Resignation was replaced by a new resolution to utilize every legitimate means to end the abuses from which Negroes had suffered at the hands of the public carriers, the law, and the white public. To this end two developments came into being: first, to submit no longer in silence; and, second, to fight segregation itself and no longer be content with allegedly equal facilities. "There is separation but it is seldom, if ever, complete," Charles S. Johnson wrote in 1943 in his able Patterns of Negro Segregation, "and accommodations are seldom equal or similar." A firm resolve came unnoticed into the pattern of Negro thinking and action to end both separation and inequality.

The first widely publicized blow was the suit for damages brought in 1937 by Arthur W. Mitchell, Negro congressman from Illinois, when he was ejected from a Pullman car in Arkansas. A measure of the considerable improvement was the fact that Mr. Mitchell, even though a member of the House of Representatives, was able to purchase Pullman accommodations at all in 1937. Even in 1943, Dr. Johnson reported: "Only in exceptional cases are Negroes sold accommodations in Pullman cars; they are ordinarily obtained through some irregular procedure, such as having a white person purchase the reservation, or approaching a friendly railroad official who will sell the reservations without regard for the prohibition features of the laws. . . . The Negroes who occasionally procure Pullman accommodations on trains . . . are given 'Lower 13,' the drawing room; and this is interpreted as providing segregated quarters."

Besides enabling him to travel more comfortably, the "Lower-13" device bestowed one additional benefit on the Negro who occupied such a drawing room—he was usually charged only the price of a lower berth. The irony of such subterfuges was illustrated by the bewilderment of a Southern Railway conductor in a situation in which I was involved. In 1931 I went to Atlanta, accompanied by my four-year-old son, to speak at a meeting celebrating the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation. In discussing the problem of travel, my sister, who was registrar of the Atlanta School of Social Work, told me how she was accustomed to obtaining "Lower-13" accommodations northward out of Atlanta for such Negroes as Dr. Moton of Tuskegee and Dr. John Hope, President of Atlanta University, by telephoning a friendly official of the Southern Railway.

The conversation invariably was almost a ritual. My sister would say, "I would like a lower berth to New York for next Thursday [or whatever day passage was desired] on the Crescent Limited."

The reply would come, "I have reserved a lower. When do you wish to pick it up?"

My sister, being indistinguishable from a white person, would go to the office to pay for a lower berth but receive a ticket for a drawing room.

She suggested that on my return trip to New York I might as well be the beneficiary of the Southern obsession with its own racial superiority. I was delighted to do so, and was pleased to find that the Pullman porter was an old friend with whom I had gone to grammar school in Atlanta. He was most gracious in making my son and me comfortable, and we had a good time talking over old times—that is, until the conductor and his assistant arrived to take our tickets. They could not understand why passengers who were apparently white should occupy choice space costing two and a half times that of a berth.

The porter and I, being opposed also to discrimination against white Americans, did nothing to ease their embarrassment as they sought to find the answer without risking trouble through asking questions that might give offense. Thoroughly baffled, they eventually abandoned their quest and went about their business of taking tickets from the other passengers. They thought they had found revenge when they returned that evening as my son and I were preparing to go to bed. The porter had made up both lower berths. In triumphant anger the conductor told me I would have to pay for an additional full-fare railroad ticket and lower berth if we used more than one berth. When I informed him we would use only one berth he ordered the porter to unmake one berth. The man complied by folding back the mattress.

As soon as the conductors left, the porter restored the berth and told me to lock the door and use both berths. We were scheduled to arrive in Washington at four a.m., at which point the Southern Railway conductor would end his run. By the time we awakened we had left Washington and were on our way to New York, and there was, of course, no difficulty with the Pennsylvania Railroad conductor who was then in charge of the train. For a long time afterward the Southern conductor sought to worm out of my porter friend the reason for my occupying "Lower 13," but his failure was as complete as his bewilderment.

Congressman Mitchell's suit for damages sought to wipe out the practice of denying Pullman accommodations to Negroes. After three years of litigation in lower courts his case was considered by the United States Supreme Court and decided by it in 1940. The court ruled that whether the demand by Negroes for Pullman accommodations be great or small, failure of the railroads to supply equal-though-separate accommodations violated the equal protection guaranteed by the federal Constitution. The court further made it clear that that protection was an individual instead of a group right, which answered the defense contention that the cost of dual service would be prohibitive, since not enough Negroes bought Pullman space to warrant providing an extra Pullman and an extra dining car for each train having such accommodations for whites.

Dr. Johnson described the device used to comply with the court's order this way: "A curtain was hung in the dining car, and it was exposed only enough to indicate the intent to segregate."

But the war played its part in making even this subterfuge difficult to operate. For reasons of climate, many military installations had been located in the Southern states, and more were being erected. These included non-segregated officers' training camps in places such as Fort Benning, Georgia; Fort Sill, Oklahoma; and Fort Hood in Texas. Vouchers for Pullman berths and meals on dining cars were supplied by the War Department in many, if not most, instances to white and colored officers alike and to many enlisted men of both races, especially returning wounded veterans. The number of such military personnel, added to the number of Negro civilians able to travel in Pullmans because of increased employment and wages due to the war, so increased travel that the cost of separating curtains for diners became a sizable item of expense in itself.

There were other problems for the railroads, though unfortunately these were not as frequently encountered as would have been desirable to speed the abolition of silly devices and stratagems.

One of the greatest heroes of the war was a gallant young white Mississippi airman who received nationwide acclaim when he returned, gravely wounded, to the United States to receive from President Roosevelt at the White House the Congressional Medal of Honor. The members of Congress from Mississippi arranged a press conference for the young hero when he reached Washington, at which he related with modest reluctance the experiences that had brought him fame.

The late Senator Theodore Bilbo sought, as was his wont, to bring

A SAMPLE OF LAWS ON THE SEPARATION OF RACES
IN TRANSPORTATION IN THE SOUTHERN REGION

The following statutory provisions are taken from Charles S. Mangum, Jr., The Legal Status of the Negro (1940).

1. "The southern and border states have sought to handle the matter (of racial antipathy) be means of Jim Crow laws and regulations which make it unlawful for any carrier . . . to transport white and colored passengers in the same vehicle or the same portion thereof."

2. "Oklahoma and all former slave-holding states, with the exception of Delaware, Missouri, and West Virginia, have made provision by statute for an enforced separation of the white and Negro races in railways operated in the jurisdiction. . ."

   "Most of the statutes contain provisions punishing the carrier for a failure to carry out the terms of the law, making such a dereliction of duty a misdemeanor."

   Members of one race are not permitted to "remain" in the coach, or coaches, provided for members of another race in the Southern Region without likelihood of penalty or charge of violation of the regulations of these states.

3. "In Georgia a special statute makes compulsory the separation of the races on Pullmans."

4. Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia "give express permission to use partitioned or compartment cars, one portion for whites and the other for Negroes."

   Kentucky, Maryland, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia "require signs designating the race which is to use the particular coach or compartment."

5. The following southern states having railway Jim Crow laws also require separate accommodations on street railways: "Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia. Alabama, Kentucky, and Maryland are exceptions here."

   Note: A recent study of the city of Jacksonville, Florida, showed that the city law does not require separation of races in local bus transportation, but that the races nevertheless follow the usual separation pattern in the use of these facilities.

6. Arkansas, Tennessee, and Virginia "give the conductors on street railways authority to change the line of division between the races," and the statutes of Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina could easily be so interpreted.

7. In statutes relating to Jim Crow accommodations on street cars, Oklahoma and Virginia "exempt from the operation of the statute officers in charge of prisoners"; Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia "exempt company employees engaged in operating the cars"; while Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia exempt nurses in charge of children or infirm persons.

8. "It has been decided that southern steamship companies and those engaged in interstate traffic may make reasonable regulations for the separation of the races on their boats."

9. "Nine states have special Jim Crow laws requiring a separation of races on motor carriers." They are: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, and Virginia. "The Alabama, Mississippi, North Carolina, and Oklahoma acts require separate waiting room facilities at bus stations."

10. "There are no Jim Crow laws applying to air carriers." Commercial air lines "may mix or segregate the races as they wish."

This memorandum prepared by

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, 3, Georgia

P. O. Box 1091
Mobile 6, Alabama
December 15, 1945

Honorable Members Alabama Public
Service Commission
Montgomery, Alabama

Re: Rule T-18

Gentlemen:

Citizens throughout the State of Alabama who sincerely respect democratic principles have expressed keen disappointment that the Alabama Public Service Commission would issue an edict which may be regarded as a retrogressive step through Rule T-18.

This order, Rule T-18, in its present form of language, if put into effect, would disturb reasonably satisfactory bi-racial travel conditions on the railroads of Alabama at this time. It would also raise certain questions of legality which may eventually lead to court action in an effort to prevent emasculation of the travel rights of colored citizens as plainly stated by the U. S. Supreme Court in the McCabe v. Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe Ry., cases.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in South Alabama respectfully urges the Honorable Members of the Alabama Public Service Commission to rescind their action collectively, or the action of the commission, in Rule T-18, which would require that curtains be drawn when colored passengers occupy space in open section of Pullman cars in traveling within or through the State of Alabama.

We also request that the provision which would compel colored passengers desiring dining car service eat in the said type car at other than the regular meal hours, unless curtains drawn, be stricken from the order.

Policies of separate servings of meals would deny to colored passengers the equal service to which they are lawfully entitled.

We urge that Rule T-18 be amended to also include a

A careful investigation conducted by us recently revealed that colored passengers traveling on railroads in the State of Alabama have not been permitted to sit in the lounge section of observation cars.

Likewise, it was found that colored passengers have been often deprived of berth space in Pullman cars for night travel and seat space in Pullman cars for day travel, merely because all enclosed space has been taken by white passengers.

We respectfully urge that the Alabama Public Service Commission insist upon the Railroads providing equal accommodations at all times for white and colored passengers. Such accommodations to be available in Pullman, observation and parlor cars.

Railroads often assign to colored passengers coach equipment that is far inferior in appointment and condition to that provided in same trains for white passengers.

We urge that the Alabama Public Service Commission compel the railroads furnish coaches or section of coaches that are equal in every respect for white and colored passengers who pay the same fares.

Respectfully submitted,

Marshall F. Robinson

Napoleon Rivers

E. L. LeFlore
Executive Secretary

Mobile Branch - National Association
For The Advancement of Colored People

P. O. Box 1091
Mobile 6, Alabama
December 15, 1945

Honorable Members Alabama Public
Service Commission
Montgomery, Alabama

Re: Rule T -18

Gentlemen:

Citizens throughout the State of Alabama who sincerely respect democratic principles have expressed keen disappointment that the Alabama Public Service Commission would issue an edict which may be regarded as a retrogressive step through Rule T-18.

This order, Rule T-18, in its present form of language, if put into effect, would disturb reasonably satisfactory bi-racial travel conditions on the railroads of Alabama at this time. It would also raise certain questions of legality which may eventually lead to court action in an effort to prevent emasculation of the travel rights of colored citizens as plainly stated by the U. S. Supreme Court in the McCabe v. Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe Ry., cases.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in South Alabama respectfully urges the Honorable Members of the Alabama Public Service Commission to rescind their action collectively, or the action of the commission, in Rule T-18, which would require that curtains be drawn when colored passengers occupy space in open section of Pullman cars in traveling within or through the State of Alabama.

We also request that the provision which would compel colored passengers desiring dining car service eat in the said type car at other than the regular meal hours, unless curtains drawn, be stricken from the order.

Policies of separate servings of meals would deny to colored passengers the equal service to which they are lawfully entitled.

We urge that Rule T-18 be amended to also include a

A careful investigation conducted by us recently revealed that colored passengers traveling on railroads in the State of Alabama have not been permitted to sit in the lounge section of observation cars.

Likewise, it was found that colored passengers have been often deprived of berth space in Pullman cars for night travel and seat space in Pullman cars for day travel, merely because all enclosed space has been taken by white passengers.

We respectfully urge that the Alabama Public Service Commission insist upon the Railroads providing equal accommodations at all times for white and colored passengers. Such accommodations to be available in Pullman, observation and parlor cars.

Railroads often assign to colored passengers coach equipment that is far inferior in appointment and condition to that provided in same trains for white passengers.

We urge that the Alabama Public Service Commission compel the railroads furnish coaches or section of coaches that are equal in every respect for white and colored passengers who pay the same fares.

Respectfully submitted,

Marshall F. Robinson

Napoleon Rivers

E. L. LeFlore
Executive Secretary

Mobile Branch - National Association
For The Advancement of Colored People

To: Alabama Public Service Commission- Gordon Persons, President; W.C. Harrison Associate Commissioner; James Perdue, Associate Commissioner; Lamar W iley, Secretary.

From: The Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama.

The Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama has given due consideration to Rule T-18 of the Alabama Public Service Commission, and respectfully submits this memorandum to the Commission to be considered in the revision of this rule at its public hearing in Montgomery, Alabama at 11 AM, on Monday, December 17, 1945.

Preamble:

All Alabamians have been, and will continue to be, a completely integrated part of the global conflict waged against Nazi, Fascist, and Japanese ideologies of the Master and Super-Race. In the course of prosecution of this war, peoples all over the world have turned to the United States of America for leadership in the theory, profession, and practice of democracy -- of equality, justice, and liberty for all. The American people have incteasingly begun to abandon those concepts, practices, and techniques which perpetuate mores, customs, laws, traditions, and rituals contradictory to and inconsistent with the American theory and practice of democracy. The Alabama Public Service Commission's Rule T-18 forces onto citizens of the United States and Alabama special privilege and rights which involve a tilting of democracy towards one segment of the population; no group of citizens can afford to advocate or accept special priveleges and rights, for any group of citizens in the commonwealth and, as a group of citizens interested in the continued forward march of democracy in the United States and Alabama, the Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama regards sections of Rule T-18 as incompatible to democratic precepts, theories, professions, and practices of democracy, as a threat to the continued growth and development of democracy in the State of Alabama, and as unnecessarily embarassing to the colored citizens of Alabama.

The Committee is fully aware that Section 196, Title 48, of the 1940 Code of Alabama requires " all railroads carrying passengers... (to) provide equal but separate accomodations for the white and colored races...". The Committee decries the fact that the Alabama Public Service Commission is faced with the unfortunate and unpleasant task of compelling the colored race to accept separate railroad accomodations. In complying with the law the committee is convinced that the separation of races can and should occur at a very high level, and without undue and unnecessary embarassment to either race. As representatives of the colored citizenry of Alabama, the Committee wishes to inform the Commission that certain sections of Rule T-18 are unnecessarily embarassing to the colored citizens of Alabama. Therefore, the Committee respectfully requests that these embarassing sections be deleted since they do not materially add to the application of the separate but equal provisions of the segregation laws, and not required by the law, nor contributal to the well-being of the colored citizens of Alabama.

Therefore, the Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama respectfully urges the Alabama Public Service Commission to revise its Rule T-18 as indicated in the following proposals.

Proposal One: Since the law is mandatory, the Committee suggests that Item A of Rule T-18, titled DAY COACHES, be revised in such a manner as to specifically and clearly state the following: " Every train carrying day coach passengers shall provide separate cars for white and colored races which shall be equipped with separate but equal and the same accomodations and compartments, separated by permanent partitions and separate but equal and the same toilet and washroom facilities shall be provided for each race."

Proposal Two: Since the law is mandatory, the Committee suggests that Item C of Rule T-18 titled "ALL OTHER TYPE CARS, ETC" be revised in such a manner that it will specifically and clearly state , using the same language adopted in Item B of Rule T-18, certain provisions as regards transportation for members of the white and colored races. Specifically, the Committee requests revision of the following sections of Item C:

Section One: Section One to be revised in such a manner as to specifically and clearly state that; " Every train providing Pullman, observation parlor car, and other such type car service should carry accomodations variously known as "rooms," "Roomettes", "bedrooms", "compartments", or "drawing rooms"; these accomodations shall be equal and the same for white and colored passengers and every train carrying such accomodations shall provide equal and the same facilities for members of the colored race, and such accomodations shall be available at all times to members of the colored race."

Section Two: Section Two to be revised in such a manner as to specifically and clearly state that: " In each case where a colored person requests room or other types of accomodations, such accomodations shall be assigned at the regular tariff rate for such space, and such accomodations shall be provided at all times for members of the colored race."

Section Three: Section Three to be revised in such a manner as to specifically and clearly state the following: "Colored persons requesting berth (upper or lower) or seat space shall be assigned to berths or seats in rooms, roomettes, bedrooms, compartments, drawing rooms, or other types of available accomodations at the regular tariff rate for night service or seat rate for day service, and these accomodations shall be separate but equal and the same, and shall be provided and available to members of the colored race at all times as they are available to members of other races."

Section Four: Section Four to be revised in such a manner as to specifically and clearly state: "If space in rooms or other accomodations is not available, colored persons shall be assigned berths or seat soaces in the open section of the car, and such berths or seat space shall be equal and the same accomodations as those provided for members of the white race, and shall be governed by the same conditions as those operating for members of the white race."

Section Six: Section Six to be revised in such a manner as to specifically and clearly state: "When persons of the colored races enter Alabama on tickets purchased in States which do not have like segregation statutes, and occupy berth or seat spaces in any type Pullman, observation, parlor car, or other type cars, such persons shall not be required to be moved."

Summary

The Committee considers those sections which require the pulling of curtains around colored persons to be unnecessarily embarassing under conditions in which it is clear that these colored persons are segregated from the white race. Thus, the Committee fails to see the necessity, as an instance, of pulling curtains around colored persons when seated at separate tables with partitions between members of the white and colored race.

The Committee regards Item B, Section 5, as an abridgment of the Alabama Code, and as outside of the law.

The Committee regards Item C, Section 6, as unconstituional, and requests that Section Six be completely deleted as outside the jurisdiction of the Alabama Public Service Commission and the State of Alabama.

Respectfully Submitted for the Committee for Equalization of Transport
Facilities in Alabama

Statement Presented to the Alabama Public Service Commission
by
Veterans Committee of the Southern Negro Youth Congress
December 17, 1945

The veterans Committee of the Southern Negro Youth Congress takes this occasion to express its considered opposition to Rule T-18 promulgated recently by the Alabama Public Service Commission, to regulate the segregation of Negro and white passengers on railroads operating within the state, to take effect January 1, 1946.

This group of Veterans of our state is composed of young men and women who have served their country well in the recent war for national liberation and democratic freedom throughout the world. They have learned that the universal technique of the enemies of democracy is to single out as a scapegoat people, whether racial, religious, or national groups-- as the first step in degrading the living standards and liberties of all people in the interests of a few men of power.

The ruling of the Public Service Commission partakes of this pattern. Rather than tackling the patent discrimination which is maintained under the present provisions of the Alabama Code; rather than moving to compel the carriers to abide by the legal provision that facilities shall be equal though separate - the commission proposes to fasten further degrading humiliations on Negro passengers by adopting as law the most offensive (and at present illegal) practices of the railroads.

Thus, the ruling provides that Negro passengers shall not be served in dining cars at the same time as whites, unless curtains are drawn. Under the provision, the railroads are encouraged in the pernicious practice of calling Negroes to meals only after all white passengers have been served, which places Negro passengers under compulsion of taking meals at irregular hours, or at tables which have been transformed into cell-like booths.

Further, the ruling provides that Negro passengers entering Alabama from a state which does not have like segregation laws, and occupying a space in an open Pullman car, must be isolated by drawn curtains. This provision is a direct violation of the concept of equal transportation facilities which have been upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is obvious that the passengers who do not have equal access to all of the facilities of a car which are afforded to others who have paid the same rate suffer from a distinction which is unjust.

Similarly, the provision that Negro passengers requesting Pullman berths or seats should be given compartments or roomettes instead where those are available in an arbitrary act of unjust segregation in that it denies the Negro passengers the type of service they request, and which may be preferred, even though other service is available.

Segregation breeds distrust among all of the people affected. It perpetuates in the minds of whites the false and unscientific notion of white supremacy. It creates in the minds of Negroes a current of bitterness and resentment, born of the knowledge that the system that operates is not intended to foster equality of opportunity and privelege, but rather to penalize Negroes for no reason but that of color. In short, the system is a punitive one.

And it is the most primitive feature of Jim-Crow travel that the Commission seeks to entrench through its latest device, Rule T-18.

This rule will provoke the most determined opposition of the Negro people. If passed against our will and the interests of the majority of the people of the state, it will meet unceasing challenge if need be the Supreme Court of the United States.

Nor is it to be casually assumed that the preponderant majority of white citizens will accept the ruling without question or concern. Even larger numbers of white Alabamians, especially the veterans of overseas combat, know that the result of such actions abroad have been national disunity and civil strife leading to the eventual domination of fascism which wiped out the liberties of all and required the shedding of rivers of blood of the youth of the world for its extermination. We expect that they will increasingly recognize their stake in the fight against such measures which are but an index to the current of nascent fascism within our own midst. As they do, we will have certain assurance that Rule T-18 will not serve as a rule of conduct for American citizens as they travel in the state of Alabama, and that the system which the rule seeks to bolster of primitive Jim-Crow will have a tenure only as infinitissimal fraction of the 5,000 years which the Chairman of the Alabama Public Service Commission wishfully prophesizes for it.

In accordance with the present provisions of the Alabama Code in the light of the established interpretations of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the interests of the white and Negro people of the State (the whole people of the state), Rule T-18 should be rescinded.

The Coordinating Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities
Montgomery, Alabama
December 20, 1945

To All Liberal, Progressive, and Democratic Organizations and Individuals

The Coordinating Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama represents a group of cooperating organizations who have combined efforts in fighting the vicious Rule T-18 recently promulgated by the Alabama Public Service Commission.

Rule T-18 represents the most recent and primitive effort of nascent fascism in our midst to entrench itself through pseudo-legal channels and further degrade and force onto the Negro people a second-class citizenship.

All liberal, progressive, and democratic forces must contantly guard against the rising tide of reaction which is now upon us. Your organization is invited to become a sponsoring and participating member of the Coordinating Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama, and to join us in bombarding the Alabama Public Service Commission with letters, petitions, telegrams, and postal cards protesting Rule T-18 as an insult to democratic citizens and as inviting the railroads to set up special priveleges and rights for one section of the people.

In conducting their fight the Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama has secured the services of Attorney Shores, of Birmingham, Alabama, whose aggressiveness in such fights has been proven time and time again, and most recently in the successful termination of a fight for equalization of teachers salaries in Jefferson County, Alabama. The Coordinating Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities in Alabama estimates its present expences as in excess of $250, and requests that your organization forward to Mrs. M. B. Gaillard, 601 N. 1st Street, Birmingham, Alabama, the organizations treasurer, your organizations contribution to this fight. Various groups and organizations are requested to become sponsoring members of the Coordinating Committee and to contribute at least $10 to the expenses involved in conducting this fight.

The Coordinating Committee protests and regards as degrading those sections of Rule T-18 which:

1. Perpetuate the continued segregation of Negroes and whites
2. Do not specifically compel the railroads to give equal and the same accomodations to Negroes and whites
3. Require curtains to be pulled between Negro and white passengers
4. Degrade Negro nurses of white children by abridging the law and placing them in a special category, through special priveleges granted nurses
5. Compel the railroads to insult and embarass the Negro people entering Alabama on tickets purchased in states which do not have like segregation statutes.

Section 196, Title 48, of the 1940 Alabama Code specifically states that " when persons of the colored races enter Alabama on tickets purchased in states which do not have like segregation statutes...such persons shall not be required to be moved."

Enclosed please find copies of materials which may be of help to you or your organization in joining this fight. Kindly proceed in making a decision immediately, since the public hearing on Rule T-18, is to be held at Montgomery, Alabama, in the Alabama Public Service Commission's Rooms, at 11 AM, January 14, 1946, and the Committee is in need of your aid prior to that time.

Unless the liberal, progressive, and democratic forces attack such vicious affronts to the Negro people, and all other affronts which involve a tilting of democracy away from any segment of the citizenry, a torrent of anti-democratic forces will be unleased which will affect all of the people. We may look upon this Rule T-18 as the trial balloon testing the people and the times. No group of citizens can afford to tolerate this flagrant threat to the forward march of democracy in Alabama.

Kindly inform us of your plans, whether you will become a sponsoring and contributing member of this Committee in the task set so clearly before us.

Sincerely yours

Edward K. Weaver

Edward K. Weaver
Corresponding Secretary for the Coordinating Committee for the Equalization of Transportation
Facilities in Alabama

Address Correspondence to
Edward K. Weaver
Alabama State Teachers College
Montgomery, Alabama

Copies of the following enclosed
1. Rule T-18
2. Statement of protest from the Mobile NAACP
3. Statement of protest from the Veterans Committee of the Southern Negro Youth Congress
4. Statement of protest from the Montgomery Civic League
5. Minutes of the organizational meeting of the Coordinating Committee
6. List of officers and organizations constituting the Committee at this time.

General Steiner

STATE OF ALABAMA
ALABAMA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION
Montgomery, Alabama

Gordon Persons, President
W. C. Harrison, Associate Commissioner
James Perdue, Associate Commissioner

Lamar Wiley, Secretary

Rule T- 18

In the matter of the segregation of white and colored races on railroad passenger trains in compliance with Sections 196 and 197, Title 48 of the 1940 Code of Alabama.

Adopted December 1, 1945 Effective January 1, 1946

The commission having received complaints regarding non-segregation of the white and colored races as provided in Section 196, Title 48 of the 1940 Code of Alabama, on its own initiative has caused to be sent to every railroad operating in Alabama a registered letter requesting a statement of official railroad policy, if any, in connection with the segregation of white and colored races on passenger trains. At the same time, all available information was to be furnished giving any official instructions issued to conductors on this subject. The attention of all railroads was called to Section 196, Title 48 of the 1940 Code of Alabama which reads as follows:

"SEPARATE COACHES FOR WHITES AND BLACKS. All railroads carrying passengers in this State, other than street railroads, shall provide equal but separate accommodations for the white and colored races, by providing two or more passenger cars for each passenger train, or by dividing the passenger by partitions, so as to secure separate accommodations."

The Commission has now received replies from all railroads which indicate that some companies have no official policy, others issue verbal instructions to the conductors and other members of the train crew, while still others have printed rules giving detailed instructions or suggestions as to the proper method of the segregation of the races, so as to generally conform with the laws of the States which have segregation statutes.

The State of Alabama also has in its 1940 Code, Section 197, Title 48, which is as follows:

"CONDUCTOR MUST ASSIGN EACH PASSENGER A SEAT IN THE CAR DESIGNATED FOR HIS COLOR. - The conductor of each passenger train is authorized and required to assign each passenger to the car or the division of the car, when it is divided by a partition, designated for the race to which such passenger belongs; and if any passenger refuses to occupy the car, or the division of the car, to which he is assigned by the conductor, such conductor may refuse to carry such passenger on the train, and for such refusal neither the Conductor nor the railroad company shall be liable in damages. But this section shall not apply to cases of white or colored passengers entering this state upon railroads under contracts for their transportation made in another state where like laws to this do not prevail".

In the meantime, the Commission has requested an interpretation of the segregation laws of Alabama from the Office of the Attorney General and has been advised that the constitutionality of the above stated Sections has been upheld by the Supreme Court of Alabama and that the Public Service Commission [illegible] ity to promulgate the necessary rules and r[illegible] nforcement of the

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED, that on and after the effective date of this order every common carrier by rail operating passenger trains in Alabama shall be gobernED by Sections 196 and 197, Dode of 1940, Title 48, or in lieu thereof, by the following rules and regulations in connection with the handling of passenger traffic.

(a) DAY COACHES - Every train carrying day coach passengers shall provide separate cars for the white and colored races, or carry at least one car on each train with separate toilet and washroom facilities shall be provided for each race.

(b) DINING AND CLUB CARS - (1) All dining and club cars must be equipped with curtains which permit the dining room to be divided into separate compartments. (2) Before starting each meal, the curtains must be pulled to service position, and the steward must place a "reserved" card on each table reserved for colored passengers. (3) White and colored passenger must not be served in dining or club cars at the same time, except in cases where the curtains have been pulled to service position. (4) On request, colored passengers may have meals served in the space they occupy in Pullmans or coaches without additional charge therefor. (5) In cases where colored nurses are traveling with white families in which there are one or more small children, colored nurses may be seated at the table with such children to assist in feeding them and the meal for the colored nurse may be served at the same time. In such cases, no person other than the members of the family group to which the nurse is attached should be seated at the same table.

(C) ALL OTHER TYPE CARS, INCLUDING PULLMAN OBSERVATION AND PARLOR CARS. - (1) Wherever possible, every train providing Pullman, observation, parlor car and other such type car service should carry at least one car providing accommodations variously known as "rooms", "Roomettes", "bedrooms", "compartments" or "drawing rooms". (2) In each case where a colored person requests room or other enclosed accommodations, such accommodations shall be assigned, if available, at the regular tariff rate for such space. (3) Colored persons requesting berth (upper or lower) or seat space, shall be assigned to berths or seats in rooms, roomettes, bedrooms, compartments, drawing rooms, or other types of available enclosed accommodations, if available, at the regular tariff rate for night service or seat rate for day service. (4) If space in rooms or other enclosed accommodations is not available, colored persons shall be assigned berths or seat spaces in the open section of the car, in which case the partitions must be in place and curtains must be drawn at all times. (5) Persons of the white and colored races must not be assigned to spaces in the same section. (6) When persons of the colored races enter Alabama on tickets purchased in States which do not have like segregations statutes and occupy berth or seat spaces in any type of Pullman, observation, parlor car or other type cars, such persons shall not be required to be moved, but partitions must be in place and curtains drawn at all times.

GENERAL - It shall be the duty of the conductor to enforce all provisions of these rules and to make certain that both white and colored passengers remain in the car or division of car designated for the race to which such passenger belongs. A copy of this order shall be furnished to all ticket agents passenger representatives, passenger conductors, trainmen, dining car stewards, lounge and club car attendants, as well as all other necessary employees on trains, and shall be posted in a conspicious place in each car on every train

This order shall not apply to members of the Armed Forces of the United States, in uniform, and traveling on official business.

[illegible] desires to be heard in

[illegible]

[illegible]

Mon[illegible]

IT I[illegible]

shall beco[illegible]

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Located at Montgomery this the first day of December, 1945.

ALABAMA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Gordon Persons
President

W. C. Harrison
Associate Commissioner

James Perdue
Associate Commissioner

Lamar Wiley, Secretary

From: The Coordinating Committee
For Equalization of Transportation Facilities

To: All Liberal, Progressive, and Democratic Organizations and Individuals

Re: Finances

On December 20, 1945, the Coordinating Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities addressed a letter to you requesting you to become a sponsoring member of the Committee, and to fight the vicious Rule T-18 of the Alabama Public Service Commission which is designed to further degrade and force onto the Negro people sub-human status and humiliating conditions while riding the public carriers of the state.

The Committee has engaged the services of Attorney Shores, of Birmingham, Alabama, and estimates its expenses as in excess of $250. Mr. Hosea Hudson, Chairman of the Finance Committee, reports that the $10 requested of sponsoring members of the Committee has not been forthcoming. We need the money now, before the public hearing which will be held in Montgomery, January 14, 1946.

Liberal, Progressive, and Democratic organizations and individuals cannot afford to let $10 stand between them and the successful termination of this fight.

Send your $10 to Mrs. M. B. Gaillard, 601 N. 1st Street, Birmingham, Alabama, Treasurer of the Coordinating Committee for Equalization of Transportation Facilities. Send your $10 today. We need the money now.

Bombard your representatives and senators of the state legislature with letters, telegrams, postal cards, conferences requesting that such humiliating regulations be stricken from the Alabama Code.

The Committee welcomes representatives of the various organizations in joining it, and being present at the Alabama Public Service Commission's public hearing on Rule T-18, January 14, 1946, at 11 A.M. The Committee is holding a brief meeting at the Monroe Street U.S.O., at 9 A.M. on January 14, 1946. You are invited to be present.

Above all, however, send your $10 today.

Edward K. Weaver
Corresponding Secretary
Alabama State Teachers College
Montgomery, Alabama

Mr. Hosea Hudson, Chairman
Finance Committee
428 Short John Street, N.
Birmingham, 4, Alabama

Transp

Section 3(1) ICA – makes it unlawful for a RR in interstate commerce "to subject any partic person... to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage whatsoever."

Supreme Court in Morgan v. Virginia (1946):

In weighing the factors that enter into our conclusion as to whether this statute so burdens interstate commerce or so infinges the requirements of national uniformity as to be invalid, we are mindful of the fact that conditions vary between northern or western states such as Maine or Montana, with practically no colored population; industrial states such as Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey and Pennsylvania with a small, although appreciable, percentage of colored citizens; and the states of the deep South with percentages of from twenty-five to nearly fifty per cent colored, all with varying densities of the white and colored races in certain localities. Local efforts to promote amicable relations in difficult areas by legislative segregation in interstate transportation emerge from the latter racial distribution. As no state law can reach beyond its own border nor bar transportation of passengers across its boundaries, diverse seating requirements for the races in interstate journeys result. As there is no federal act dealing with the separation of races in interstate transportation, we must decide the validity of this Virginia statute on the challenge that it interferes with commerce, as a matter of balance between the exercise of the local police power and the need for national uniformity in the regulations for interstate travel. It seems clear to us that seating arrangements for the different races in interstate motor travel require a single, uniform rule to promote and protect national travel. Consequently, we hold the Virginia statute in controversy invalid.

(The Virginia statute, in so far as it applies to intrastate transportation, was upheld in New v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp. (1947) and Commonwealth v. Carolina Coah Co. (1951).)

Transp.

Federal ~~District Court~~ Ct of Appeals (upheld) in Chance v. Lambeth (1951):

We reach the conclusion that the railroad regulation now before us must be declared invalid. Not only does its enforcement interfere with the uniformity which should characterize interstate carriage from one end of the route to the other, but its irregular enforcement for the convenience of the carrier, dependent upon the number of passengers and the character of accomodations which they purchase, adds to the burden upon the traffic by increasing the confusion and discomfort of the passengers. When white and colored passengers are permitted to ride together for part of their journey through the State of Virginia, and then are compelled to separate and change cars, and when passengers in coaches are segregated on account of race while passengers in Pullman and dining cars are permitted ride together irrespective of race, the burden upon interestate commerce is a s clearly manifest as that imposed by the statute of Virginia which was invalidated in the Morgan case. It is true that the regulation of the carrier was not enacted by state authority, although the power of the state is customarily invoked to enforce it; but we know of no principle of law which requires the the courts to strike down a state statute which interferes with interstate commerce but to uphold a railroad regulation which is infected with the same vice.

The Railroad Company emphasizes the decisions in Chiles v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 218 U. S. 71, 30 S. Ct. 667, 54 L. Ed. 1936, and our own decision in Day v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 171 F. 2d 59, rendered in the interval between the Morgan and Henderson decisions. In both cases the regulation of an interstate carrier segregating the passengers according to race was upheld; but they are not contro ling here since in each case the passenger boarded the vehicle at a place where the rule of the carrier required segregation and he could have taken a seat and retain d it to the end of his journey."

BROOKS HAYS
5TH DISTRICT, ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK OFFICE:
514 FEDERAL BUILDING

Segregation in transportation

MEMBER
FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

SECRETARY:
JOHN S. MCLEES

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Transportation

June 7, 1954

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear George:

Thanks for keeping me advised regarding matters of interest.

I am sending you a memorandum which one of my own staff prepared regarding my statement to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

With regards, I am

Sincerely,

B. Hays

RECEIVED
JUN 9 1954
Southern Regional Council

A Southern Democratic congressman is actively supporting an anti-segregation bill. Representative Brooks Hays of Little Rock, Arkansas, took this position publicly on May 12, almost a week before the Supreme Court rendered its historic decision outlawing segregation in the public schools. The bill which Representative Hays is supporting is much more limited in character, but it does impinge on deep-seated traditions of the Southland. It would provide legal sanctions against segregation in interstate transportation. In endorsing this bill at a hearing of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, Hays's only reservation was a suggested amendment to give state officials a first chance to enforce its policy before federal officers moved in.

What were Brooks Hays's reasons for approving this anti-segregation bill? In the first place, he explained, it was his understanding that Supreme Court decisions of recent years - even before those rendered this month - "make non-segregation in interstate transportation of passengers our national policy . . . and I have come to the conclusion that it is wise for the Congress to make clear the fact that there is a policy of the national community and that interstate travel must be governed by that policy of non-segregation." Moreover, Mays made it plain that he approves this Supreme Court policy for interstate transportation. "The reason it is a right policy, regardless of one's view as to intrastate travel, is because passengers moving from St. Louis, Missouri, to Little Rock, Arkansas, for example, all pay the same fare, but if at the state line one is required to move to another coach, he has not had equal protection under the law."

Hays also referred to international aspects of the question. "As a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, I have gradually swung around to the view that foreign policy is affected. Consider, for example, the colored passenger from another country. I am eager for him to carry back good impressions, although I know the Communists are not going to let any efforts of ours toward justice be fairly presented to the world. I am not suggesting that we make our decisions on the basis of global strategy in this vital struggle with Communism. It is a question of right dealing rather than strategy. But I want those who visit us to have when they go back home the most effective arguments it is possible for them to have when they talk on behalf of our country. I know in interstate travel we can do it."

Attentive members of the Commerce Committee also recognized another reason for Representative Hays's support of the anti-segregation bill in interstate transportation. He regarded it as a kind of test for the future. "I think you may find in this piece of legislation an opportunity to evaluate these sharp conflicts, and that you may rather welcome this as a chance to demonstrate what good legal minds can do with a problem that involves difficult social backgrounds, and you may bring into focus the interesting and variegated social communities that make up this nation." Hays was optimistic. He even registered "a mild dissent from the statement that a lot of people fear this sort of thing. I might point out I have talked only about transportation and I have not suggested a federal statute with reference to segregation policies outside of transportation, and generally with reference to interstate travel. My opinion is that there would not be many islands of resistance to this general policy."

This congressman comes from the same state where only a dozen years ago another member of the House of Representatives, a Negro named Mitchell, was taken off a Pullman in the middle of the night. Mitchell brought suit to invalidate the Arkansas segregation policy on interstate trains, and his success in the Supreme Court was one of the ground-breaking decisions in this field. Other Negroes can now seek to expand this principle by private suit; but new legislation, like the bill for which Mr. Hays was testifying, is now desired so that the government may assume the burden and expense of prosecuting cases.

"In Arkansas itself," Hays explained, "the policy of the Mitchell decision was accepted because of the Court's support," and such an episode as Mitchell's humiliation "is not likely to happen today, partly because train officials and fellow passengers think and act differently." Hays is "right proud, as a citizen of Arkansas, of the progress my state has made . . . In Arkansas now the common practice is to accept non-segregation generally on trains that move interstate, as most of them do. So actually there is little difference between interstate and intrastate travel, that line having vanished on most trains that go through my state. That would be an example of progress."

Hays went on to give strong credit to the Negro leaders themselves for the progress that has been achieved. "If history has recorded anything to impress the American people, it is the way the Negroes of the country have enabled an emerging leadership to state their aspirations in a way, when the complete record is written, that will be a bright page in our history. We are indebted to the conservative — no, I shall not say just the conservative; that has a connotation I do not fully embrace — we are indebted to the leadership of the Negro race that has thought in these terms: One, what is our right as American citizens? They have been vigorous sometimes in presenting that. There might be differences about whether he is correct in his interpretation of what a right is, but we have heard him and we have made progress. Second, we have also made progress in response to group aspirations. Maybe we have made too much of a distinction between social aspirations and legal rights, but I want us to meet both standards, and I think we are. We are making progress in achieving rights that have to be constantly redefined in terms of specific and detailed human relations, and also in a way that gives voice to those aspirations which any people may entertain."

Representative Hays is disturbed, like most Southerners, by the fear that progress in race relations will be disturbed by games of political football, but such uneasiness has not led him to oppose all legislative enactments in this field. "I hope, however, that what we do in the Congress, when we are through with this legislation, will not just be a chapter for political literature for either Republican or Democratic parties — and of course they will make as much use of it as in their discretion they want to, according to the respective merits of it — but I do feel that we should be above party politics in this legislation."

Likewise in the implementation of the bill after it has been passed. Hays is concerned about "political prosecutions." "Will this become a vehicle for political action from Washington? . . The Attorney General would be under certain pressures, some of a political nature, that might inevitably influence him. None but the most perfect Attorney General would be entirely immune to those things . . Even the impression of it being a political prosecution, even when in good faith, hurts. You are much more apt to get effective law enforcement over the years on questions of this kind if the jurisdiction is in the state courts rather than the federal courts.. I personally feel that it would be well to make it clear in the law we pass that the Attorney General is under congressional mandate not to institute actions where the state authorities and state laws are covering this limited field," and are insuring non-segregation in interstate transportation.

So Representative Hays presented the Commerce Committee with the draft of an amendment to that effect. The members of the committee showed great interest in this proposal and interrogated Hays at length about it. Those concerned clearly regarded it as the formula for a possible North-South compromise on civil rights questions. Hays himself had first proposed the formula as an amendment to an anti-lynching bill in 1949. "I think it is a sound principle all the way through. I think, as in lynching, that we should avoid a rigid jurisdictional rule, always thinking in terms of the Federal Government having the power to do something, exercising it and pushing state authorities out. That is not necessarily the best way. I think if we would state it here, it might become a milestone, it might help us relieve some of these tensions between state and federal authorities. To be sure, the bill should assert the federal right and the federal policy, but with recognition of that basic principle of government that the people close to a problem, and officers who are charged with maintaining order in the local community, are the ones best equipped to handle it."

How would the Hays amendment work in practice? If the Justice Department believed that at a particular place there was segregation of passengers traveling in interstate commerce, federal attorneys could bring suit against the responsible company officials in the local Federal District Court. But the Federal judge could then refuse to accept jurisdiction of the case if he found that there was a state law in effect barring such segregation and that the state law enforcement officers were not willfully failing to make prosecutions under that state law. One Southern member of the Commerce Committee protested that "we would be handling the Attorney General quite a dangerous club to hold over the states," to compel them to make and enforce anti-segregation laws of their own. But Hays took a broader view. "I think that if the club idea were to cause us to refrain ultimately from getting into this kind of law-making, we would cut outselves off from some good legal practices. There may be certain other areas besides civil rights in which there need to be directives to the Attorney General not to indulge in "political prosecution."

Members of the Commerce Committee expressed their interest in the broader philosophy which led their Southern colleague to endorse an anti-segregation bill. Hays put it this way: "In situations like this we are both moralist and lawmaker. Sometimes it is important to let the moralist carry some causes and not the lawmakerc... There have been many times when I wanted to agree with someone who differed with me on this conservative approach. I wanted to agree with him substantively, but as a lawmaker I could not consistently do so because, first, this is a dual form of government with some powers reserved to the states, and second, unless the sentiment of the people sustains a certain move, no matter how abstractly noble that objective is, then frustration will follow. There is an old adage that comes to my mind. Sir Henry Maine put it exactly right when he said this: 'Social opinion must always be in advance of the law.' Then he added something that I think may have a certain relevancy here. We constantly have to reexamine policies to see if we are meeting his second statement which is: 'The greater or less happiness of the people depends upon the narrowness of the gulf between them.' The point that I am making is that in the matter of interstate travel, social opinion will today sustain the proposition that a passenger moving from St. Louis to Little Rock, Arkansas, ought to be undisturbed and not segregated in that passage. But it is equally true that this Congress ought not either by direct or indirect means, undertake to prescribe conditions for a city's bus or streetcar service. (That has nothing to do with the moral leader continuing to carry on his educational work regarding the locality.)"

R

Later Mr. Hays gave this homely illustration: "Sometimes politics has retarded us. At the same time, it is like a corn on your toe. There may be other ailments more serious that require the doctor's treatment, but the corn is going to continue to cry out until you do something about it." One of Mr. Hays's colleagues from Arkansas offered the rejoinder: "But at the same time we are trying to do something about this corn, we do not want to develop a bunion, which hurts worse." Hays agreed, but he still supports the anti-segregation bill.

Georgia - H.B. No. 267 of the 1956 Session of the Gen Assembly requires common carriers of passengers in intrastate travel to provide separate waiting rooms and other facilities for the white and Negro races for such passengers. It requires that a separate room labeled "White Waiting Room, Intrastate Passengers" be provided; another must be labeled: "Waiting Room, Interstate Passengers and Colored Intra-State Passengers."

Signed?

Signed (HB No. 268 provides for criminal penalties for intrastate passengers who do not observe the separation of such passengers in waiting rooms by race.)

Miss - H.B. No. 7 - 1956 Regular Session of Legislature requires common carriers of passengers in the state in intra-state travel to provide separate waiting rooms and other facilities for the white and Negro races.

Signed.

HB - No. 12 - Same regarding toilet facilities.

Signed.

HB - No 22 - Provides criminal penalties for intrastate passengers not observing separation by races in waiting rooms.

Signed?

inter between

(later Act. 27)

LA. - H.B. No. 426 of the 1956 session of the Louisiana Legislature provides that common carriers of passengers in the state shall provide separate waiting rooms and other facilities at stations for white intrastate passengers and for Negro intrastate passengers and interstate passengers. Wording must be similar to that prescribed in Ga. law above.

Signed

June 16, 1958

Mr. Gloster B. Current
Director of Branches
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
20 West 40th Street
New York 18, New York

Dear Mr. Current:

Thank you so much for the Report of 28 Branches on Treatment of Negroes in Transportation, which we received today. This material will be very helpful to us and we will forward copies of the report on Waiting Room Desegregation immediately upon its publication.

Sincerely,

Marge Manderson
Research Assistant

MM/blc

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE
20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.
LOngacre 3-6890

June 12th, 1958

Miss Marge R. Manderson, Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E., Room 432
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Manderson:

In replying to your letter of May 27th requesting results of an NAACP survey on treatment of Negroes in transportation, we circulated among our branches in the South and some Western areas, a questionnaire -- a copy of which is enclosed.

We are enclosing a summary report from 28 respondent branches. Because of the pressure of other duties and lack of research facilities, there has been no follow up on this questionnaire. Therefore, the results obtained are rather inconclusive.

Cordially yours,

GLOSTER B. CURRENT
Director of Branches

GBC/rny encls.

NATIONAL OFFICERS

President
Arthur B. Spingarn

Chairman of the Board
Dr. Channing H. Tobias

Vice-Chairman of the Board
Dr. Robert C. Weaver

Vice-Presidents
M. T. Blanton
Dr. Judah Cahn
Norman Cousins
John Wesley Dobbs
Grace B. Fenderson
Lewis S. Gannett
Oscar Hammerstein, II
John Hammond
Dr. John Haynes Holmes
Dr. William Lloyd Imes
Dr. Allen F. Jackson
Hon. Ira W. Jayne
Eugene M. Martin
Dr. O. Clay Maxwell
L. Pearl Mitchell
Hon. Wayne Morse
T. G. Nutter
A. Philip Randolph
Ike Smalls
Bishop W. J. Walls
Andrew D. Weinberger

Treasurer
Alfred Baker Lewis

Assistant Treasurer
Hon. Theodore Spaulding

EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

Roy Wilkins — Executive Secretary
Robert L. Carter — General Counsel
John A. Morsell — Assistant to the Executive Secretary
Clarence Mitchell — Director, Washington Bureau
Henry Lee Moon — Director, Public Relations

Branch Department

Gloster B. Current — Director
Lucille Black — Membership Secretary
Ruby Hurley — Southeastern Regional Secretary
Franklin H. Williams — West Coast Regional Sec'y Counsel
Herbert Wright — Youth Secretary

Branch Field Secretaries

Lois Baldwin
Calvin D. Banks
Serena E. Davis
Medgar W. Evers
Gertrude Gorman
Clarence A. Laws
Charles A. McLean
Christopher C. Mercer
Tarea H. Pittman
Robert W. Saunders
E. C. Washington, Jr.

Herbert Hill — Labor Secretary
James W. Ivy — Editor, The Crisis
Madison S. Jones — Special Assistant for Housing
Edward J. Odom — Church Secretary
Mildred Bond — Life Membership Campaign

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta, Ga. — Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Baltimore, Md. — Lillie M. Jackson, Carl Murphy
Baton Rouge, La. — John G. Lewis, Jr.
Boston, Mass. — Kivie Kaplan
Camden, N. J. — Dr. Ulysses Wiggins
Charlotte, N. C. — Kelly M. Alexander
Chicago, Ill. — Earl B. Dickerson, Wm. Robert Ming, Jr.
Cincinnati, Ohio — Hon. Theodore M. Berry
Cleveland, Ohio — Dr. Nathan K. Christopher
Columbia, S. C. — Rev. James Hinton
Detroit, Mich. — Dr. James J. McClendon, Walter Reuther
East Orange, N. J. — Samuel Williams
Flint, Mich. — Dr. J. Leonidas Leach
Fort Worth, Texas — Dr. George D. Flemmings
Greenwich, Conn. — Alfred Baker Lewis
Kansas City, Mo. — Hon. Carl R. Johnson
Little Rock, Ark. — Daisy Getson Bates
Los Angeles, Calif. — Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Loren Miller
Meridian, Miss. — C. R. Darden
Nashville, Tenn. — Z. Alexander Looby
New York, N. Y. — Dr. Algernon D. Black, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Hon. Hubert T. Delany, Max Delson, Dr. Buell Gallagher, George K. Hunton, Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, Eleanor Roosevelt, Amy E. Spingarn, Arthur B. Spingarn, Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Dr. Robert C. Weaver
Oak Bluffs, Mass. — Dr. S. Ralph Harlow
Oklahoma City, Okla. — Roscoe Dunjee
Philadelphia, Pa. — Dr. Harry J. Greene, Hon. Theodore Spaulding
Pittsburgh, Pa. — Daisy E. Lampkin, Jessie M. Vann
Richmond, Va. — Dr. J. M. Tinsley
Savannah, Ga. — Westley W. Law
Stamford, Conn. — Jackie Robinson
Stillwater, Okla. — Donald Simmons
Washington, D. C. — Dr. W. Montague Cobb, Rt. Rev. Stephen Gill Spottswood

NATIONAL LEGAL COMMITTEE

Lloyd Garrison, New York, N. Y., Chairman

Atlanta, Ga. — A. T. Walden
Birmingham, Ala. — Arthur D. Shores
Boston, Mass. — Herbert E. Tucker, Jr.
Cambridge, Mass. — Benjamin Kaplan
Charleston, W. Va. — T. G. Nutter
Chicago, Ill. — Earl B. Dickerson, Sidney A. Jones, Jr., Karl N. Llewellyn, Wm. Robert Ming, Jr., Loring B. Moore
Cincinnati, Ohio — Hon. Theodore M. Berry
Dallas, Texas — W. J. Durham
Erie, Pa. — William F. Illig
Houston, Texas — Arthur J. Mandell
Ithaca, N. Y. — Milton R. Konvitz
Kansas City, Mo. — Hon. Carl R. Johnson
Los Angeles, Calif. — Robert W. Kenny, Loren Miller
Nashville, Tenn. — Z. Alexander Looby
New Orleans, La. — A. P. Tureaud
New York, N. Y. — Harry Bragg, Bartley Crum, Morris L. Ernst, Osmond K. Fraenkel, James Marshall, Shad Polier, Louis Pollak, Samuel I. Rosenman, Jawn Sandifer, Andrew D. Weinberger, Herman Zand
Philadelphia, Pa. — William Coleman
Richmond, Va. — Oliver W. Hill
Sacramento, Calif. — Spottswood W. Robinson, III
St. Louis, Mo. — Nathaniel Colley, Sidney R. Redmond
Tulsa, Okla. — Amos T. Hall
Washington, D. C. — George E. C. Hayes, George M. Johnson, Edward P. Lovett, James M. Nabrit, Frank D. Reeves, Ruth Wyand
Wilmington, Del. — Louis L. Redding

NATIONAL HEALTH COMMITTEE

Dr. W. Montague Cobb, Washington, D. C., Chairman

Albany, N. Y. — Dr. Joseph B. Robinson
Boston, Mass. — Dr. Edward L. Young
Camden, N. J. — Dr. Ulysses Wiggins
Chicago, Ill. — Dr. A. M. Mackel, Dr. A. W. Mercer
Cleveland, Ohio — Dr. Nathan Christopher, Dr. James E. Levy
Detroit, Mich. — Dr. James J. McClendon
Flint, Mich. — Dr. J. Leonidas Leach
Hartford, Conn. — Dr. Allen F. Jackson
High Point, N. C. — Dr. Murray B. Davis
Kansas City, Kan. — Dr. A. Porter Davis
Los Angeles, Calif. — Dr. Emory I. Robinson
Louisville, Ky. — Dr. Maurice F. Rabb
New York, N. Y. — Dr. Ernest R. Alexander, Dr. Viola W. Bernard, Dr. Russell L. Cecil, Dr. Harold L. Ellis, Dr. Henry C. Falk, Dr. Myra Logan, Judge Myles A. Paige, Dr. C. B. Powell, Dr. Theodore M. Sanders, Dr. Robert S. Wilkinson
Opelousas, La. — Dr. A. C. Terrance
Philadelphia, Pa. — Dr. Harry J. Greene
Richmond, Va. — Dr. J. M. Tinsley
Roanoke, Va. — Dr. Harry T. Penn
St. Louis, Mo. — Dr. James Aldrich, Dr. Arthur Townsend, Jr.
San Antonio, Texas — Dr. C. Austin Whittier
Tulsa, Okla. — Dr. R. C. Bryant
Washington, D. C. — Dr. Millard Dean, Dr. Joseph G. Gathings, Dr. C. Herbert Marshall, Dr. Edward C. Mazique

REPORT OF _____ BRANCH

City: _____

State: _____

ON TREATMENT OF NEGROES IN TRANSPORTATION.
(Fill out and return promptly to National Office.)

The following constitutes to the best judgment of the Branch the current situation in our community:

Population of City: _____ Negro population: _____

RAILROAD TRAVEL

1. Name the railroads servicing your city. (I.E., Atlanta Coast Line, Missouri-Pacific, Illinois Central, etc.):

_____

_____

_____

2. Are interstate passengers (crossing state lines) segregated on the trains or sold tickets in colored coaches only?

Yes ☐ No ☐

3. Give the names of any passengers discriminated against, time, date, place and other details, if possible:

_____

_____

_____

4. Are interstate passengers, crossing state lines, permitted to sit in the formerly white waiting room on an integrated basis?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain

_____

_____

_____

(CONTINUED)

5. Are intrastate passengers (passengers traveling within the state) segregated?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain

_____

_____

_____

6. Have signs in waiting rooms: "Colored" "White" been removed?

Yes ☐ No ☐

7. Are toilet facilities still segregated?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain practice

_____

_____

_____

8. Have orders been issued by the railroads concerning the ICC ruling?

Yes ☐ No ☐

9. Have these orders been publicized in the papers or by signs to be made public?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain

_____

_____

_____

10. Has public notice been given of change in racial practices?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(IF ANSWER IS ''YES'', ATTACH COPY OF ARTICLE, NOTICE, STATEMENT, IF AVAILABLE.)

11. Have ordinances or new city rulings been adopted maintaining segregation in waiting rooms?

Yes ☐ _____ (DATE) No ☐

(IF ANSWER IS ''YES'' GIVE DATE OF SUCH ORDER AND OBTAIN A COPY OF THE ORDINANCE OR RULING.)

(CONTINUED)

12. Are city police attempting to enforce segregation in the waiting rooms?

Yes ☐ No ☐

13. Have Negroes been arrested attempting to use the waiting rooms on an integrated basis?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(GIVE CASES, NAMES, DATES ARRESTED, OFFENSE AND DISPOSITION OF THE CASE: CONVICTION OR DISMISSAL.)

_____

_____

_____

_____

* * *

BUS TRANSPORTATION

1. Name the interstate buslines servicing your city.

_____

_____

_____

_____

2. Are interstate passengers (crossing state lines) segregated on the buses?

Yes ☐ No ☐

3. Give the names of any passengers discriminated against: time, date, place and other details, if possible.

_____

_____

_____

4. Are interstate passengers, crossing state lines, permitted to sit in the formerly white bus waiting room on an integrated basis?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain

_____

_____

_____

(CONTINUED)

5. Are intrastate passengers (passengers traveling within the state) segregated?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain

_____

_____

_____

6. Have signs in waiting rooms "Colored" "White" been removed?

Yes ☐ No ☐

7. Are toilet facilities still segregated?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain practice

_____

_____

_____

8. Have orders been issued by the bus companies concerning the ICC ruling?

Yes ☐ No ☐

9. Have these orders been publicized in the papers or by signs to be made public?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Explain

_____

_____

_____

10. Has public notice been given of change in racial practices?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(IF ANSWER IS ''YES'', ATTACH COPY OF ARTICLE, NOTICE, STATEMENT, IF AVAILABLE.)

11. Have ordinances or new city rulings been adopted maintaining segregation in waiting rooms?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(IF ANSWER IS ''YES'', GIVE THE DATES OF SUCH ORDERS AND OBTAIN A COPY OF THE ORDINANCE OR RULING.)

_____

(CONTINUED)

12. Are city police attempting to enforce segregation in the waiting rooms?

Yes ☐ No ☐

13. Have Negroes been arrested attempting to use the waiting rooms on an integrated basis?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(GIVE CASES, NAMES, DATES ARRESTED, OFFENSE AND DISPOSITION OF THE CASE: CONVICTION OR DISMISSAL.)

* * *

RESTAURANT FACILITIES

While the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling does not outlaw segregated restaurants in station waiting rooms, we would like to have information on the following:

1. Does the train station maintain eating facilities?

Yes ☐ No ☐

2. Are these operated on a segregated or non-segregated basis?

Explain in detail.

(CONTINUED)

CITY TRANSPORTATION

1. Form of transportation used in your city.

Buses ☐ Street Cars ☐ Both ☐

2. Name the company operating bus or street car transportation, and its office address.

_____

_____

_____

3. Name of the president of the transportation company.

_____

_____

_____

4. Has segregation on city busses ended in your city?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(IF ANSWER IS ''YES'', WAS THIS DONE BY TRANSPORTATION COMPANY ORDER?)

Yes ☐ No ☐

BY CITY OFFICIALS?

Yes ☐ No ☐ Both ☐

(OBTAIN COPY OF STATEMENT BY THE COMPANY, OR ORDER OF THE MAYOR, OR ORDINANCE PASSED BY CITY OFFICIALS.)

5. Are Negro passengers permitted to ride unsegregated on bus or street car in your city?

Yes ☐ No ☐

6. Has any ruling been issued by the mayor, city council, police commissioner or other officials requiring segregation?

Yes ☐ No ☐

... or ending segregation?

Yes ☐ No ☐

7. Give date and quote text of ruling. (Obtain copy of such ruling, if available.)

_____

_____

_____

(CONTINUED)

AIR PORTS AND PLANE TRANSPORTATION

1. The nearest airport to your city is located where?

_____

_____

_____

2. What commercial airlines service the city?

_____

_____

_____

3. Are limousines, taxis or other vehicles carrying plane passengers to and from airport operated on a segregated basis?

Yes ☐ No ☐

4. If on segregated basis, what provisions are made for Negro passengers?

_____

_____

_____

5. In the waiting rooms, are Negro passengers required to sit in a segregated area?

Yes ☐ No ☐

(IF "YES", WHAT EFFORT IS MADE TO ENFORCE THIS?)

City Police ☐
Airport Police ☐
Other ☐

Explain in detail

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

(CONTINUED)

RESTAURANT FACILITIES AT AIR PORT

1. Does airport have a restaurant or counter service?

Yes ☐ No ☐

2. Name the company operating restaurant facilities.

_____

_____

_____

3. Are Negroes served?

Yes ☐ No ☐

4. If answer is "Yes", are they served on a non-segregated basis?

Yes ☐ No ☐

5. Give other examples of treatment of Negro passengers in waiting rooms, toilets, restaurant which may not have been covered in previous questions.

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

PERSON MAKING REPORT: _____

BRANCH PRESIDENT: _____

BRANCH SECRETARY: _____

DATE: _____

Please fill out this questionnaire and return promptly to GLOSTER B. CURRENT, Director of Branches, NAACP, 20 West 40 Street, New York 18, New York.

MAT - TRANSPORTATION

REPORT OF 28 BRANCHES ON TREATMENT OF NEGROES IN TRANSPORTATION

A total of 28 branches from fourteen states returned the questionnaire as requested. These branches were:

Little Rock, Arkansas
Wilmington, Delaware
Pensacola, Florida
Tampa, Florida
Coffeyville, Kansas
Cumberland, Kentucky
Lake Charles, Louisiana
Jackson, Mississippi
St. Louis, Missouri
Cape Girardeau, Missouri
Thomasville, North Carolina
Cleveland County, North Carolina
Gastonia, North Carolina
Greensboro, North Carolina
Henderson, North Carolina
Elloree, South Carolina
Memphis, Tennessee
Salem, Virginia
Virginia Union College Chapter
Richmond, Virginia
Franklin County, Virginia
Hanover County, Virginia
Gloucester, Virginia
Norfolk, Virginia
Hampton, Virginia
Wheeling, West Virginia
Huntington, West Virginia

The following 10 branches stated that there was no segregation of interstate nor intrastate passengers on trains or busses:

Little Rock, Arkansas
Wilmington, Delaware
Coffeyville, Kansas
St. Louis, Missouri
Gastonia and Greensboro, North Carolina
Richmond and Norfolk, Virginia
Wheeling and Huntington, West Virginia

These two branches reported complete segregation:

Jackson, Mississippi
Memphis, Tennessee

The following 3 branches reported segregation on intrastate train and bus travel:

Cape Girardeau, Missouri
Thomasville, North Carolina
Ellorree, South Carolina

Two Florida Branches reported segregation on intrastate train travel as well as interstate and intrastate bus travel:

Pensacola and Tampa, Florida

These 2 branches reported segregation in intrastate bus travel:

Florence, South Carolina
Hampton, Virginia

These 3 branches reported segregation on both intrastate and interstate bus travel:

Cumberland, Kentucky
Cleveland County (Shelby) North Carolina
Gloucester, Virginia

Lake Charles, Louisiana reported segregation only in intrastate train travel.

Henderson, North Carolina; Salem, Franklin County and Hanover County, Virginia reported no segregation in interstate train and bus travel but failed to answer concerning intrastate travel.

LOCAL TRANSPORTATION

These 14 branches reported that Negro passengers were not segregated on local busses:

Wilmington, Delaware
Little Rock, Arkansas
Tampa, Florida
St. Louis, Missouri
Cape Girardeau, Missouri
Thomasville, North Carolina
Gastonia, North Carolina
Greensboro, North Carolina
Virginia Union College Chapter
Richmond, Virginia
Norfolk, Virginia
Hampton, Virginia
Wheeling, West Virginia
Huntington, West Vriginia

Seven branches reported that Negro passengers were still segregated on local busses:

Pensacola, Florida
Cumberland, Kentucky
Lake Charles, Louisiana
Jackson, Mississippi
Cleveland County (Shelby) North Carolina
Florence, South Carolina
Memphis, Tennessee

Four branches gave no information regarding local transportation:

Salem
Rocky Mount
Hanover County and Gloucester, Virginia

Three branches reported that there was no local public transportation:

Coffeyville, Kansas
Henderson, North Carolina
Ellorree, South Carolina

RESTAURANT FACILITIES:

The following 11 branches reported segregated eating places:

Little Rock, Arkansas
Jackson, Mississippi
Gastonia, North Carolina
Florence, South Carolina
Memphis, Tennessee
Salem, Virginia
Virginia Union College Chapter
Richmond, Virginia
Hanover County, Virginia
Gloucester, Virginia

These 2 branches reported that only local, privately owned eating places were operated and they were segregated:

Coffeyville, Kansas
Norfolk, Virginia

These 9 branches simply reported that railroads provided no eating accommodations for anyone:

Pensacola, Tampa, Florida
Cumberland, Kentucky
Lake Charles, Louisiana
Cape Girardeau, Missouri
Thomasville, North Carolina
Cleveland County (Shelby) North Carolina
Greensboro, North Carolina
Elloree, South Carolina

The following 4 branches reported that there was non-segregated eating accommodations provided:

Wilmington, Delaware
St. Louis, Missouri
Wheeling, West Virginia
Huntington, West Virginia

These 3 branches made no comment regarding eating facilities:

Henderson, North Carolina
Rocky Mount, Virginia
Hampton, Virginia

WAITING ROOMS:

The following 7 branches reported that segregated waiting rooms were provided for Negro passengers and that their use was enforced:

Tampa, Florida
Lake Charles, Louisiana
Jackson, Mississippi
Cleveland County, North Carolina
Elloree and Florence, South Carolina
Salem, Virginia

These 2 branches reported voluntary segregation in the waiting rooms on the part of Negro passengers:

Pensacola, Florida
Gastonia, North Carolina

These two branches reported that interstate passengers used the same waiting rooms, but that intrastate passengers were segregated:

Memphis, Tennessee
Thomasville, North Carolina

These 13 branches reported that all passengers used the same waiting room:

Coffeyville, Kansas
Cumberland, Kentucky
St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Missouri
Greensboro and Henderson, North Carolina
Virginia Union College Chapter
Richmond and Rocky Mount, Virginia
Hanover County, Norfolk and Hampton, Virginia
Wheeling and Huntington, West Virginia

The Gloucester, Virginia branch gave no information regarding waiting rooms.

34 - The South - General
(new file)

MARK ETHRIDGE on The Hope of the South*

*A speech delivered before the Georgia Academy of Social Sciences, Atlanta, February 16, 1945. Mr. Ethridge is publisher of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, of Louisville, Kentucky.

Additional copies of this pamphlet may be purchased at 5c each

Published by

Georgia Academy of Social Sciences

P. O. Box 725 Atlanta, Georgia

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL ATLANTA, GA. 37

MARK ETHRIDGE ON The Hope of the South

SOMEBODY has truly said that not since 1896 has the country been so much on fire over one man; certainly not in our time, not even over Roosevelt, has the Democratic Party been so badly split as it is at the moment. It is not merely a question whether Henry Wallace should be in the Cabinet; we are witnessing and participating in a great spectacle of political history: the struggle for power inside the Democratic Party. The primary objection to Wallace is not that he is not a good administrator, for that has been disproved; not that he wouldn't know how to make and collect loans, for the Department of Agriculture's record of lending and collecting was better than Jesse Jones' at RFC. It is that Wallace symbolizes and expresses views which challenge all the reactionary elements in the country. His challenge to the Southern reactionaries is all the greater because the Southern tory is the most reactionary man in America; he adds to his economic bourbonism a dismaying cynicism toward civil rights and the democratic process. The Southern bourbons see in Wallace's coming to power the possible destruction of tight little machines which keep them in office and make them able to ignore the popular will, as I shall attempt to prove. They see him as the leader of this "furious new popular will for democracy." Senator Bailey expressed the attitude of the Southern tories when he said, "I'm against Wallace and everything he stands for. I'm against his philosophy. I'm against his principles. I'm against everything about him." Senator George has not said as much, but he has acted the same way.

Let us stand off for a moment and look at the picture as far as the South is concerned to get the pattern and the ironies. Last year conservative politicians, including virtually all the machine leaders, gave the President the worst advice he had ever had politically when they told him that Wallace was through. It was only through the most brazen pressure, the most frantic fire fighting and convention maneuvering that they were able to beat down the popular movement that almost nominated him in spite of the President's disapproval. (There were those of us outside the state who had great pride in the fact that Georgia's liberal young governor was one of the Wallace leaders.)

Wallace was defeated, but, nevertheless, campaigned actively for the ticket. He rallied the disillusioned liberals; he put heart into a people who want something better out of the Democratic Party than boss-ridden cities and tight Southern machines. Of course, the Political Action Committee made a great contribution to the Roosevelt victory. The majority of labor, teamed with millions of other liberals, professional men and women, white-collar workers and farmers, carried Roosevelt into office; he didn't carry them this time. People who were angry at the prospect of the country's slipping back into Harding normalcy and Hoover reaction domestically, and frightened at the prospect of Dewey's having control of our foreign policy, carried the states of Kentucky, which had gone Republican the year before, New York, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and California, all of which had Republican governors. Without those states, some of them carried by a small margin, Roosevelt could not have been elected.

Even if it were true, as Mr. Krock and some of the politicians say, that the C.I.O. elected Roosevelt, it might have been conceded in all decency that labor was as much entitled to a representative in the Cabinet as big business, which opposed him. But, what happened? When Roosevelt was elected through liberal effort, the liberals woke up to the fact that in carrying him back into power they had also guaranteed, through the operation of an obsolete seniority rule that had cynically made Bob Reynolds chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, powerful and important committee chairmanships to the leading Southern reactionaries. Had Roosevelt been defeated in a landslide, certainly all Southern House committee chairmen would have been swept out, and it is entirely probable that Byrd would have lost his chairmanship of Rules; Bailey his chairmanship of Commerce; George his chairmanship of Finance; Connally his chairmanship of Foreign Relations; and McKellar his acting chairmanship of Appropriations.

But see how much further the irony goes. That section of the country which contributed nothing to the election of Roosevelt except the size of the majority—he could have been elected without the electoral vote of a Southern state—now has the power in the Senate, and to a lesser degree in the House, to force him to name as his State Department team a group of reactionaries or mild liberals; to force him to accept a compromise that degrades Wallace and deprives him of the ability to put into operation the only conservative program that has been devised for the post-war period: a program to provide jobs for the people in this country who want to work. Indeed, the Democratic Party at the moment is a schizophrenic Janus; it is not only a split personality, but it is facing both ways.

The simple thesis which I want to expound tonight and to prove, I hope, is that the Southern reactionary senators, in this case those who voted against Wallace on the test vote and more particularly those who are making the effective fight on him because of their great power in the Senate, are, first, ignoring or violating the will of the people as already expressed; two, that they are voting against the immediate and long-term interests of the South; and, three, that their attitude and political philosophy will lead the South further into economic disaster and into a more marked degree of political impotence. (I have already mentioned that we have not been a factor in any Roosevelt election, although we have always voted for him.) I hope to be able to prove that an aggressive liberalism, a disposition to move ahead rather than resist progress, is the only thing that can save the South from a further decline into poverty, illiteracy and backwardness when the post-war boom is over.

What the South Needs

Let us face realistically that the South has the nation's most acute race problem; the highest percentage of absentee ownership (the New Republic recently said that 85 per cent of Georgia is owned by people outside and that 50 per cent of the money on deposit in Georgia banks is owned by Northern capitalists); the greatest degree of political autarchy, in that only 30 per cent of our people vote—17 per cent in Georgia—as against 77 per cent in the rest of the country; that we have the highest percentage of illiteracy; the highest rate of tenancy; a per capita income 60 per cent of the national average and 52 per cent of the East's; that we are penalized on freight rates and that our health conditions are the nation's poorest. If we concede those things, then we must concede that they can not be cured by a static or defensive or a let-us-alone attitude. They must be met by an imagination that encompasses the federal government's helping to balance economy in this country as it has helped to unbalance it by tariffs, unfavorable freight rates and, in the past few years, by the emergency location of war plants. It encompasses imagination such as saved the cotton grower with an A.A.A.; that proposed soil conservation; that set up a program for tenants to buy farms; that operated Farm Security; that instituted Rural Electrification; that set up regional laboratories to study wider uses of our farm and forest products. All these things were the products of the Wallace administration of agriculture.

What Wallace Wants

What would Mr. Wallace want as Secretary of Commerce? Fortunately, he is on record so clearly that only those who have the will to distort it can do so. He wants private enterprise to produce the 60,000,000 jobs which President Roosevelt says will be necessary if we are not to have mass unemployment. He contends that if we can build planes, ships and guns, we can produce houses, cars and clothing. He doesn't want the jobs produced by 20,000 big businesses that will be getting bigger if all the war plants fall into their hands and if the small man doesn't have the credit to finance him; he wants it done by 3,000,000 small business men financed through private credit, backed, if necessary, by government credit such as the V. loans and the FHA loans now have. He wants reciprocal trade agreements, international currency stabilization, international security and all the other devices which will give us both peace and greater employment at home. He wants wages kept high, taxes lowered; he wants rural housing, he wants more hospitals, more clinics, more doctors, particularly in the rural areas; better educational facilities and broader social security protection. He is against monopolies and cartels. He believes that private contractors can build 2,000,000 new homes a year and that private agencies can provide the financing. "He wants new Kaisers, new Fords, new Higginses and new Edisons" to have a chance to develop all the new gadgets which will come to the market after the war.

Where he departs from the pure, free enterprisers is that he takes the position that when unemployment amounts to as many as 3,000,000 people, we begin to have danger and to meet it we should release public works money to build new dams and new projects that are either self-liquidating or add to the general wealth and resources of the country. Besides that, he wants freight rates equalized, he wants poll taxes to go; he wants a more democratic and a more balanced America.

Is any one of these things in contravention of what the Southern majority believes? I contend not. Every Gallup poll that has been taken shows the Southerner much less illiberal than most of his political leaders. It is, moreover, a fact that in no primary and in no election in the South last year in which the New Deal was the issue, did it lose.

In Texas, where the revolt centered, the so-called regulars, who had been able to seize the convention, nevertheless got less than 100,000 votes, against 600,000 for the Roosevelt Democrats. There was, as somebody said, much less rabble to rouse than they thought. Martin Dies, Nat Patton and Richard Kleberg went out of the House fighting Roosevelt in Texas; Rayburn, Patman and Lyndon Johnson won easily as straight New Deal proponents. In Mississippi, a quickly summoned legislature quickly beat down the revolt. In Oklahoma, Stigler was re-elected and Disney defeated on a straight New Deal issue. In Arkansas the progressives put Fullbright in the Senate and Laney into the governorship.

In Alabama, the reactionaries threw their money and their power at Lister Hill in a tough and bitter campaign and he won. Joe Starnes lost his seat because he was anti-administration. In Florida, Pepper was fought by an articulate, well-financed and powerful Byrd-for-President movement and won handily in a primary against three other candidates. In Georgia the senatorial election went by default, but Arnall expressed the innate liberalism of this state both at Chicago and in his subsequent programs.

In South Carolina, "Cotton Ed" Smith was defeated by Olin Johnston, who, with all his faults and prejudices, yet espoused the New Deal cause openly. North Carolina retired Bob Reynolds, and a revolt in his organization troubles Byrd in Virginia. In Tennessee, Priest, Gore and Kefauver, all followers of the President, won against heavy financing and strong opponents. I repeat, there is nothing in the political history of the South for the past year to give any Southern Senate reactionary the argument that in fighting Wallace, and therefore the administration and all it has stood for, he is expressing the will of the people. There is no argument, no comfort for him in the primaries of last year. Even with all its voting restrictions, the South votes liberal when the issue is clearly made. One hope we have is that our young men will not have to feel bound to a dead past or subservient to or sympathetic with powerful interests which have been too active and too influential in politics.

Our Postwar Problems

I believe, and I like to believe, that the primaries are a case of the voter's instinct telling him that his best interest lies in the progressive approach to Southern problems—to problems of economics, labor, agriculture, race, education and health and all the other things that concern us—because I believe deeply that in any other approach lies disaster.

We must realize that to all the problems that we presently have, the war has brought us more that we shall yet have to face. We shall have to absorb something like 4,000,000 soldiers who have left, if all of them return; we shall have to stop the migration that has been so disastrous to us, and we shall have to face the readjustment of 2,000,000 industrial workers, three-quarters of a million of them employed in new enterprises.

The Bureau of the Census estimated almost a year ago that the thirteen Southern states of which we are talking had lost 1,596,000 net in civilian population, in addition to the boys who went out into service. That figure is larger now. The percentages ranged from 14.7 per cent of the total population in Oklahoma to 1.8 per cent in Louisiana. Georgia has lost 125,000 persons, or 4.1 per cent of her population. Kentucky has lost 286,733, or 10.1 per cent, of her people. Of course we are alarmed about it. I don't know what studies, if any, have been made in Georgia, but Dr. Howard Beers, of the University of Kentucky, an eminent rural sociologist, made some very good studies of what had happened in Kentucky. All but three of Kentucky's 120 counties lost population. The 14 Blue-grass counties of which we boast had dropped in 1943 to a lower figure than had been recorded by any census since 1860. There has been little change in population of people 65 and over; the great draining has been from people 15 to 35 and 35 to 44.

One selected magisterial district which is typical of any agricultural state, whether it be Georgia or Kentucky, showed that 130 people had left, 82 male and 48 female, in a six-month period to July, 1943. Only 37 per cent went to the armed forces, 45 per cent to employment outside and 18 per cent to employment inside the state. Limited education, limited mental capacity, or physical disability had kept many at home who wanted to go. Dr. Beers observed that "it is apparent that the district's resources have been depleted. The outmovement of the youngest and ablest workers had left its mark upon the social structure of each community."

Hope might be found in a return movement, but eminent sociologists say that no outmovement ever nearly retraces itself. Here is a typical community and you see what happens. The birthrate has of course declined because the couples who have the children have gone away. The physical level of the community has declined; the intellectual level has markedly declined because the district has exported a great percentage of its educated adults. The people with skills have been drawn out to work in war factories at higher wages, so much so that in smaller towns in Kentucky it is difficult to get agricultural implements repaired. School programs and facilities have been disrupted by the withdrawal of children and church organizations have been affected by losses in membership. The need for provision for welfare of the aged, the handicapped and the young has become more acute in the community because those who provided the normal support directly or indirectly have gone away.

The South has the highest proportion of pauper counties in the country; I imagine that percentage has been greatly increased by the draining off of skilled and semi-skilled men and women to work in war plants in congested urban areas.

It is obvious that both state and federal legislation must take a new pattern and a more vigorous approach if problems of the sort are to be solved. Dr. Beers has the feeling that of course a great many persons will return to the farms when the war is over—perhaps more than we have had—but to be employed and to be kept on farms and in small communities, they must have better homes, better education facilities, better electric facilities, more modern facilities in farm buildings, drainage equipment, soil conservation practices, better country roads and better reforestation practices.

Do those sound like things that will come out of a standpat economy or a states' rights political approach? Indeed not. You will recognize that Dr. Beers has prescribed, to avoid disaster in the agricultural regions of the South, more of the kind of medicine which Mr.

Wallace advocates. Without it, we shall have a continuation of the migration that started in World War I, subsided, and started again when this war broke out. Only half of the people who have gone North this time are Negroes. Spot polls indicate that 65 per cent of them will never come back and that 80 per cent of the young Negroes polled in the South want to go North when the war is over. I don't know what percentage of young whites will come back, but in the 800,000 who have gone we have lost skills, education and the mental and physical vigor that makes them leave the South to look for better conditions. We have continued our custom of making our chief export crop our own people.

It will certainly be of interest to those Georgians who have not been able to get servants and have blamed the lack on Eleanor clubs to know that the answer is fairly simple: they have migrated to the North. In studies of population changes in 51 cities, the Negro migration ranged from 1½ per cent of Negro population to 20 per cent in my old home city of Macon. No wonder the people of Macon can't get the servants they want. Of course the migration is connected with the refusal to hire Negroes in industry generally. They reacted as other human beings would and went North, or to industrial cities in the South where they could get jobs at good wages. Dr. Charles Johnson, the eminent Negro sociologist who is the leading authority on migration, told me two days ago that the rate of Negro movement out of the South has been accelerated.

Industrial Development

I have seen the statement made a good many times that the South has gained percentage-wise in industrial development during the war, but there is no evidence to sustain it. On the contrary, the McCarran committee recently reported in effect that unless the federal government actively uses the Defense Plant Corporation to prevent it, the industrial East will wind up with more than its present 65 per cent of value of manufactures and the South and West, which have between them only 20 per cent, will slip in their standing.

In four years ending July 1 of last year, the United States had put nearly 16 billion dollars into industrial plant facilities. Of this, 4 billion was in the 13 Southern states, or about their correct proportion. Within the South, however, the distribution was far from equitable. Texas, which was fortunate in having Jesse Jones as a citizen, got 31 per cent of that total, although prior to the war North Carolina and Georgia outranked her in industrial employment. The per capita investment of the Defense Plant Corporation in the South ranged from $103.37 for Texas, $100.49 for Louisiana, $63.33 for Kentucky, $27.12 for Alabama, $4.49 for South Carolina, to $1.44 for Georgia and 81 cents per capita for my native Mississippi. In terms of money, Texas got investments of a billion and a quarter dollars for new plants and Georgia got $135,000,000, or slightly more than a tenth. Jesse Jones followed the principle of the rich getting richer if the allocations of Defense Plant Corporations are a criterion. I can understand why a Texas or Louisiana senator would consider Jesse Jones a great benefactor and feel impelled to rush to his defense, but I cannot understand why Senator George, or Senator Byrd, or Senator Bailey would not feel that his people had been taken advantage of. But it is not the worst of the story that Texas, with one-sixth of the population of the area and 9.9 per cent of its factory workers, got 31 per cent of the South's plant expansion. She also got the cream of the crop.

The federal government spent $13,000,000 to build factories for combat and other types of vehicles, easily convertible. Texas got every dime of it. The federal government spent $97,000,000 on iron and steel plants in the South; Texas got $73,000,000 worth. But Texas, with her ports, took only $50,000,000 of the $365,000,000 the federal government spent in expanding shipbuilding capacity.

The Federal Reserve Board of Atlanta, studying the states embraced in its area, says that 86 per cent of the new industry that has come into states in the reserve district was in munitions, metals, shipbuilding, electric power, aircraft and chemicals, while petroleum, timber, synthetic rubber, railway transport and other things account for the remainder. Almost a third of the total is in munitions, of which one plant in Louisville can supply the world in peace time. Metallurgical development, of which Georgia has none, accounts for 19 per cent; shipyards for 11 per cent, power lines for about 9 per cent, most of it spent in East Tennessee; aircraft for about 8 per cent, the largest part of it in Georgia, and so on down the line.

The comment of the Federal Reserve Board was that "Much of the new industrial capacity built in the Sixth District so far in the war promises to be of doubtful usefulness in the postwar period." The bulletin pointed out with a third of the new capacity in munitions, only a small fraction would be needed to supply demands. There will be, of course, no demand for new ships because American tonnage exceeds the pre-World War tonnage of all merchant navies.

"In the long run," the bulletin commented on aircraft, "the outlook is brighter, but in the immediate postwar years the outlook is about as bad for aircraft as for ships. Even an increase of 1,000 per cent in 1946 in comparison with 1941 would produce the need for only 5,000 planes, a few weeks' production."

Metallurgical development, of which Georgia has none, has the brightest promise, but it must be remembered, the board warns, that the principal market for aluminum and magnesium is the aircraft field.

The board's conclusion was that "While some of the new capacity will fit readily into the postwar economic structure of the region, most of it will not. It would seem, therefore, that a soundly based regional economy should be related to the region's own great resources and to a peacetime market structure rather than be tied, as a result of uneconomic conversion of war plants, to capacity designed for a totally different economic situation."

One more observation about war plants. The McCarran committee pointed out that the readily convertible war plants are largely in the East and Midwest and warns against the greater centralization and monopoly and greater control by big interests over government. The report argues eloquently for regional development and for the use of government resources to correct the imbalance between regions. To those who ask, "What, more spending?" Senator McCarran answers, "We have not hesitated to spend 300 billion dollars for war. We can afford to spend a few more dollars in the cause of an American society." Mr. Wallace is not so radical; he argues that it can be done by private investment.

It is obvious from the Federal Reserve Board bulletin and the McCarran committee report that the South is in danger of losing rather than gaining in relation to other sections unless, as the Federal Reserve Board says, there can be regional development. Does that sound like Henry Wallace, who advocates more developments patterned after TVA, which, according to Donald Nelson's speech in Atlanta, raised the income level of the people of that valley in 10 years by 75 per cent against 56 per cent for the rest of the nation? Does that sound like developing our industries with our own raw products and getting freight rates down to do it?

Our Leaders' Records

In everything I have said and in everything I have left unsaid about the problems of the South there is implicit the necessity for a vigorous and progressive approach. But we have not had and do not have on the whole that type of approach. The voting records of all senators and congressmen are readily available, but I was particularly interested in the records of Senators Bailey and George because they are leading the fight on Wallace. Out of 20 possible liberal votes in the New Republic's chart of domestic issues for the last two sessions of Congress, Senator George and Senator Bailey voted conservative eighteen times. Senator George's two progressive votes were for Soil Conservation and the Farm Security Administration. But, because it is of particular interest in Georgia, I have gone back into Senator George's record for several years. On five issues, connected with power, he voted the Gilbertsville of the TVA in Kentucky. He voted against authorizing TVA to issue bonds to buy the property of the Tennessee Electric Power Company; for the McKellar bill which would have hamstrung TVA; against the Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway project, and for the raw Bailey amendment that was designed to force the sale through private channels of power generated at public dams.

Senator George voted against the Wagner Bill to set up low cost housing; he was instrumental in shelving the bill for federal aid to education because Senator Langer wanted to tack a non-discriminatory provision on it. (You will recognize the old game of keeping the white people from getting more education or more health because the Negro might get some, too.) Senator George voted against the wages and hours bill; against the anti-labor spy bill; for the ineffectual Smith-Connally Act; for the Social Security freeze, against cloture to bring the poll tax to a vote and against higher taxes on corporations in the last tax bill. Beyond any of that, although the Atlanta Federal Reserve Board said, in effect, that the development of this region must be planned, Senator George was one of those who led the fight in the Senate to kill the National Resources Planning Board. He emerged from that fight as chairman of the Senate's postwar planning committee. If it has done any planning, I am not aware of it.

I am not singling out Senator George for any sinister purpose. I am not giving you the picture of a wicked man, because I am sure he is not. I am sure he votes his conviction with integrity, although I must observe that his vote would delight the heart of any president of a big corporation. I am giving you the picture of any Southern reactionary—of Senator Byrd, of Senator Bailey, of Senator McKellar, of Senator Connally. The hope of the South does not lie in men like that. They do not represent what its people are thinking and they do not dare advocate the extension of democracy and take their chances on what the people are thinking.

The hope of the South is in men like Wallace, who are ready to fight the centralization which has been a curse to all sections of this country except the East; who are ready to use the credit and resources of this country to develop still more resources in the regions. It lies in governors like Arnall, who is willing to fight in the Supreme Court, in the legislature and before the people for his convictions and his section; in senators like Pepper and Hill, who are willing to carry the fight against reaction, and in a dozen young congressmen from the South who have broken through the domination of political machines and won by direct appeal to their people. The people have demonstrated that they are eager for that leadership.

34- The South

FORTUNE

VOLUME XXVIII NUMBER 1

CONTENTS FOR JULY 1943

1 THE JOB BEFORE US 93

THE DEEP SOUTH LOOKS UP 95
It sees an opportunity, with northern aid, to join the Union. Fear of the future causes much of its current social tension.

THE BOSS 101
Andrew Jackson Higgins, fabulous New Orleans boatbuilder, knows how to get men to do what he wants.

EDITORIAL: "Challenge and response." 104

THE NEW CANADA 107
Shipshaw's hydroelectric power and Steep Rock's rich iron ore are two symbols of Canada's wartime industrial expansion.

"THE LINCHPIN OF PEACE" 108
Mr. Churchill's phrase describes Canada's historic opportunity, but first we and our neighbors must settle some serious problems.
by Bruce Hutchison

2 THE WORKING FRONT

ASSAULT ACROSS THE WATER 117
Our Army's Amphibian Engineers bring new ways and weapons to an old and bloody task of offensive warfare.

"WE CAN JUNK IT OR RUN IT" 121
How the Six Companies boys of the West Coast salvaged Joshua Hendy, a broken-down machinery company in a pear orchard.

FRONT-LINE MEDICINE 125
It cannot save a soldier from instant death, but it restores more of the wounded to useful life than in any previous war.

SURGERY UNDER FIRE 156
A field report from New Guinea.
by Charles Edmundson

3 AMERICA AND THE FUTURE 129

HERO: SIMON BOLIVAR 131
A series of notes on Americans whose careers are relevant today.

ELECTRONICS: A LEVER ON INDUSTRY 133
From radio to radar, electronics is rocketing a $4 billion war business toward a postwar industrial revolution.

ELECTRONICS: A FORTUNE COLLAGE Insert

FERMENT IN EDUCATION 137
How shall we educate? Here, some of the questions that must be determined before American education regains its coherence.

DEPARTMENTS

BUSINESS AT WAR 14
Hollow propellers . . . Quiet, please . . . Concrete expands.

LETTERS TO FORTUNE 38

TRIALS AND ERRORS 64
John L. Lewis plays a lone hand for high stakes.
by Eliot Janeway

FORTUNE'S WHEEL

Seldom has the FORTUNE Art Department been presented with a more challenging assignment than to evoke the image of that mysterious subject Electronics. The results are on the cover and in the folded insert at page 133.

The cover is composed of a thyratron tube (widely used in industry for exact control of electric current) rampant against a field of terra-cotta-colored atoms. In action, the tube glows with the purplish blue light of mercury vapor, faithfully copied from a Kodachrome. The arrangement of stylized atoms was the product of arduous research. It is fashionable, in advertisements and popular scientific papers, to represent the atom as a whirligig symbol—i.e., electronic orbits circling a nucleus in distinct patterns. Fashionable, but no longer scientific. Modern physicists favor the wave-mechanics theory, which holds that the electrons whirl about the nucleus in an infinite number of overlapping orbits, the paths merging in an imaginary blur. That conception was adapted for FORTUNE's cover design (prompted by an excellent diagram in the Journal of Applied Physics). The plus signs represent the positively charged nuclei, from which each atom blends out through a relatively dense "inner orbit" to its more spacious "outer orbit." The cover itself was achieved by an ingenious superimposition of photographs and manipulation of an airbrush. The forty-two atoms represent no particular element. They happen to be copper drawer handles from a New York hardware store.

The insert, first of a projected series of "Techniques for a New World," is an experiment in magazine illustration. Beginning where the somewhat shopworn photomontage idea left off, it is described as a collage, a composition consisting of all necessary art techniques (photographs, paintings, even three-dimensional objects) to achieve a desired result.

Cover and insert required the work, at various stages, of about fifteen persons, including the author of the electronics story, Editor Lawrence P. Lessing, and his research associate, Jean Ford. This month's article is probably the most distinguished in a long list of technological stories produced by Lessing and Miss Ford since they began working as a team in October, 1939. They have reported on forgings and cartels, low-grade ores and nylon, synthetic rubber and plastics, technological mobilization and patents. Next month—unless the Army calls Lessing—they will report on television.

Belated but grateful acknowledgment: to the U. S. Department of Agriculture for data on which we based the map, "The Land As We Use It," in June.

AUGUST: WEST COAST'S SIX COMPANIES • EUROPEAN FORTRESS • MEXICO • TELEVISION'S PROMISE

BOARD OF EDITORS: Patricia Divver, Guy Greer, John K. Jessup, Hubert Kay, Lawrence P. Lessing, Henry R. Luce, Charles J. V. Murphy, Richardson Wood

ASSOCIATES: F. Lawrence Babcock, Gilbert Burck, Charles Edmundson, Katharine Hamill, Herbert Harris, Natasha von Hoershelman, Florence Horn, Herrymon Maurer, Stoyan Pribichevich, William S. Schlamm, Donald Stewart, William P. Vogel Jr., Helen Walker

RESEARCH ASSISTANTS: Isabel Benney, Alice Collins, Rosalind Constable, Anna De Cormis, Jean Ford, Mia Fritsch, Elida Griffin, Virginia Kimball, Janet McEnany, Józefa Malinowska, Jean Potter, Doris Pullen, Helen Vind

ART ASSOCIATES: Deborah Calkins, Betty Anne Dick, J. K. Miller, Alexander Semenoick, Warren Stokes

ART DIRECTOR: Peter Piening EXECUTIVE EDITOR: Albert L. Furth

MANAGING EDITOR: Ralph Delahaye Paine Jr. PUBLISHER: Henry R. Luce

FORTUNE is published monthly by TIME INC., Maurice T. Moore, Chairman; Roy E. Larsen, President; Howard Black, Allen Grover, Eric Hodgins, C. D. Jackson, P. I. Prentice, Vice Presidents; Charles L. Stillman, Vice President and Treasurer; David W. Brumbaugh, Secretary.

FORTUNE will not be responsible for unsolicited manuscripts or illustrations submitted, and it will not return such material unless accompanied by postage. Copyright under International Copyright Convention. All rights reserved under Pan American Copyright Convention. Copyright, 1943, by TIME INC.

Editorial and advertising offices, Time & Life Building, Rockefeller Center, New York 20, N. Y. General Manager, William D. Geer. Advertising Director, W. H. Carey. Production Manager, Kent Rhodes. Yearly subscription $10. Single copy $1. Address Subscription Dept., 330 East 22nd St., Chicago 16, Ill.

ILLUSTRATIONS FOR FORTUNE—JULY, 1943

THE DEEP SOUTH LOOKS UP

P. 94-100—Rico Lebrun.

THE BOSS

P. 101-103—Rico Lebrun.

THE NEW CANADA

P. 106-107—Andreas Feininger.

"THE LINCHPIN OF PEACE"

P. 108—N. Y. Public Library; p. 109—William H. Coverdale Collection, Manoir Richelieu, Murray Bay, Quebec, N. Y. Public Library; p. 110—Metropolitan Museum of Art, N. Y. Public Library; p. 111—William H. Coverdale Collection, John Ross Robertson Collection, Public Library, Toronto, Canadian Pacific Railway; p. 112—N. Y. Public Library; p. 113—N. Y. Public Library (5), European; p. 114-115—Vories Fisher.

ASSAULT ACROSS THE WATER

P. 116-119—Victor DePauw.

"WE CAN JUNK IT OR RUN IT"

P. 120-121—Eliot Elisofon; p. 122—Ansel Adams; p. 123—Joshua Hendy.

FRONT-LINE MEDICINE

P. 124-125—U. S. Navy photographs; p. 126—Acme, Associated Press; p. 127—Associated Press, Acme; p. 128—Associated Press; p. 154—U.S. Navy photograph.

AMERICA AND THE FUTURE

P. 129—Courtesy Pan American Union.

HERO: SIMON BOLIVAR

P. 130—Kodachrome by Laurence Springfield; p. 131—N. Y. Public Library, photograph by Jerry Cooke-Pix.

ELECTRONICS: A LEVER ON INDUSTRY

P. 132—R.C.A. photograph; p. 135—Photograph by Fritz Goro, clouds by Frederic Lewis, montage by the Jefferson Co.

FERMENT IN EDUCATION

P. 136—WPA Art Project; p. 138-139—Kodachrome by Peaty-Powers Engraving; p. 140—Photograph by Griffith J. Davis.

FORTUNE is published by TIME INCORPORATED, Office of Publication, 160 Maple Street, Jersey City 3, N. J. Printed in U.S.A. Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Jersey City, N. J., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates: one year in the U.S. and possessions, Cuba, Mexico, Central and South America, $10; elsewhere $12.

VOL. XXVIII
No. 1

FORTUNE

VOLUME XXVIII NUMBER 1 JULY 1943

1 THE JOB BEFORE US

In the section that follows are two articles about Canada and our own Deep South. They are not meant to be companion pieces. Each is concerned with the specific and unique issues of a huge geographic region. But a thoughtful reader will discern that Canada and the Deep South, in their progress through the labyrinth of history, are fingering a common thread. It is toward integrating their affairs with those of the great central American economy whose boundaries they abut.

Canadians have always been cynical about the "world's longest unguarded frontier." It has not saved them from ruinous tariff wars, or restrained American jingoists from periodically screaming annexation. The memory of these things worries Canadians, at an hour when the relations of the two countries are the best in history. War has sped Canada's industrialization and fortified her political independence. The changes have also made her vulnerable.

In the Deep South the American problem is basically the same: to admit an economically isolated people to a system that tends to treat them as colonial. Here, unless we are forearmed, the race problem, an archaic freight-rate structure, and chronic lack of capital will give rise to the old frustrations as soon as the war boom dies. The American citizen cannot afford to have this happen any more than he can afford to have a weak and disillusioned Canada on his northern frontier.

"With confidence in our armed forces, with the unbounding determination of our people, we will gain the inevitable triumph. So help us God."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dec. 8, 1941

THE DEEP SOUTH LOOKS UP

It sees an opportunity, with northern aid, to join the Union.

FOR the first time since the "War Between the States," almost any native of the Deep South* who wants a job can get one. The region may not have a proportionate share of wartime industry, but it has achieved a degree of industrialization unheard of five years ago. From New Orleans to North Carolina, from Memphis to Miami, the change has quickened imagination and ambition as they have not been quickened since 1861. It is a step toward what Southerners wanted for years—a broad economic basis for the solution of apparently insoluble problems like their Tobacco Roads and race question. But now that they have it, they're worried about how they will keep it—and expand it—in the face of what they

Unless it states otherwise, this article is concerned with the Deep South. For statistical purposes only, Deep South includes Georgia, Florida, Alabama, southern Louisiana and Mississippi, eastern Tennessee. Otherwise, the term designates the region plus South Carolina and western Tennessee.*

INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM NO. 1 The drawing on the left shows the afterpeak of a Liberty ship, preassembled before being hoisted onto the ways at a Panama City, Florida, shipyard. This shipyard was a sand dune sixteen months ago; it hopes soon to turn out ships at the rate of six a month. Southerners wonder what it and other shipyards will do after the war—whether their welders and fitters must go back to sharecropping and subsistence farming. Upon the answer hangs more than a depression.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS on pages 94-103 are by Rico Lebrun, one of the finest draftsmen in America. Assistant professor at Newcomb College, Tulane University, Lebrun was granted leave of absence to make these drawings. He traveled more than 2,000 miles through the Deep South. Of his work he says: "For me the aim is to participate in the living world of all peoples—to grasp this, its significance, and forge it, draw it, illustrate, and give it in terms understandable and, I hope, acceptable to them."

JIM CROW LAWS WORK BOTH WAYS Southern segregation laws forbid each race to use the facilities of the other. In this bus the law is being observed to the letter. But busses and streetcars are so crowded all over the South that the law isn't always strictly observed. Sometimes trouble occurs.

regard as obstacles imposed from the outside. "We must have more than the crumbs from the North's table," say bankers, editors, merchants, liberals, conservatives, radicals, union leaders, white and Negro. Next to the war itself, no topic is hotter in the Deep South today.

Practically all Southerners firmly believe that the South is not exclusively responsible for its low economic status: that ever since the War Between the States, the North has consciously or accidentally exploited it almost as a conquered province. It has been one of the Deep South's many misfortunes to have this thesis advanced by demagogues who could not expound the most patent truth without making it sound ludicrous or suspicious to a tolerably rational person. They worked on the assumption that the South's feudal habits and prejudices represent the peak of white civilization, and regarded questions of economic justice primarily as material with which to inflame constituents who unfortunately had a great capacity for being inflamed.

But southern leaders of integrity and substance, whose numbers are constantly growing, admit the South is not wholly perfect, and believe that one of the greatest hopes for making it better lies in correcting its economic relationship to the rest of the country. "We have exploited both the Negro and the poor whites," they all say. "But we in turn have been exploited. As evidence, remember that the average U.S. per capita income in 1937 was $604; in the South it was $314, and Negroes averaged still less. Even if Negroes enjoyed income equality with the whites, they still would be poor. Until something closer to parity is achieved, the South will remain a problem."

They maintain that the Deep South, economically speaking, has been a "colony": a place from which to extract tons of raw materials (and in more recent years, semifinished goods,

ALMOST ANYPLACE DOWN SOUTH: WAITING TO ENTER A CAFETERIA

HUNDREDS OF SHIPYARD WORKERS

too), and to which to ship pounds of finished products. They aver that the South has not enough good land or enough markets for its farm products to employ all its farmers efficiently. One reason for the inadequacy of markets is the U.S. protective tariff. Foreign countries retaliated with tariffs on U.S. cotton, among other things. So Southerners could neither export all their surplus cotton nor buy cheap foreign manufactured goods. The tariff imposed on the South by the North, in the opinion of many a leading Southerner, was the greatest device for the exploitation of a region ever invented and put into operation by any civilized nation.

Equally if not more unjust today, Southerners insist, are the handicaps on increased industrialization. One is the freight-rate structure, which not only keeps southern industry from competing in northern markets, but discourages entrepreneurs from starting industries except as employers of cheap labor and hence at the cost of the South's buying power. Another handicap is the North's almost complete financial control of the South. The South has been a victim of absentee ownership, Southerners say, ever since the War Between the States, and northern-controlled industries have done as much as any other factor to perpetuate southern social customs northern commentators find so reprehensible. Finally, the federal practice of giving state aid for social security on the basis of matching state expenditures instead of giving it on a per capita basis has both penalized the South for being poor and increased its relative degree of poverty.

Just as his industrial facilities have about doubled during the war, so has the Southerner's awareness of these grievances. The question is now whether the Deep South can hang onto and increase its gains—as it must if it is not to slip back further than it has come. Southerners believe the job will be terribly difficult unless the handicaps are removed. And most know that politically the time for their removal is ripe.

The national campground

When the southern governors organized in 1941 to demand a greater share of war contracts, they complained that the South had become a campground and not an arsenal. This is still partly true. Chiefly because of the mild climate, nearly a third of the U.S. armed forces in training are encamped in the Deep South. The government has spent about $1,500,000,000 or 13 per cent of all expenditures on supply depots and cantonments in the Deep South. The enormous military concentration in Florida has in a way compensated for loss of tourist trade. Miami Beach hotels have been as much as 90 per cent military. Boosters have drawn graphs to show how Florida, which has boomed after every war because soldiers came back to the sunshine, will boom again. Unlike the rest of the Deep South, the Florida east coast has few postwar worries.

In other states, soldier money has also converted cities into the equivalent of tourist resorts. Towns wisely or unavoidably have made the minimum of addition to their service facilities. Many have added little or nothing. Troops are handled as an increment—but an increment nearly as big as the thing added to. Civilians, while still trying to be extremely hospitable, are beginning to grumble that troops on leave are eating up the food and monopolizing entertainment. Landlords prosper as they never have. In places like Macon, where $40 or $50 used to be high for a six-to-eight-room house, single rooms now bring as much. Storekeepers make hay while they can. Soldiers from northern cities, where prices are ordinarily higher, have a hard time finding anything cheap down south.

AT PASCAGOULA LIVE IN TRAILERS

NEGRO AIRMEN TRAINING AT TUSKEGEE, ALABAMA

THE SHIFT CHANGES in the Ingalls shipyard at Pascagoula, Mississippi. A sleepy, pleasant town of 4,000 a few years ago, Pascagoula is now struggling to handle 30,000. Even so, some shipyard workers have to drive a hundred miles or more every day. After the shift has changed, the streets are jammed as badly as any in New York City used to be. Opposite page: the night trick at Alabama Drydock & Shipbuilding Co. in Mobile.

One permanent effect of this military occupation may be a more widespread understanding of the Deep South's problems, or at any rate of its poverty. Another will certainly be the education of Southerners in the services. Even a few of the folks at home are becoming international-minded by firsthand contact. They have seen Russian sailors at Tampa, Dutch flyers at Jackson, Mississippi, and French aspirants at Columbus, Georgia. Recently a group of British sailors shocked poor whites in a coastal town by talking British Labor party politics. The natives thought they were Communists. Says a sign in a bar at Biloxi, Mississippi (a "dry" state): NO DRINKS SERVED AFTER MIDNIGHT TO MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES OF THE UNITED NATIONS. At Macon, Georgia, even southern speech has been affected. Generally the soft southern accent is dominant; crossed with any other it tends to come out on top. But local girls, who would give almost anything to go out with the British air cadets stationed at nearby Cochran field, began to talk with noticeably English accents.

The biggest benefit resulting from the South's military position is the development of aviation. Florida contains upwards of ninety camps and airfields. Miami has been the chief jumping-off-place for Africa. Pan American's Thirty-sixth Street airport, now being enlarged by the Army, will probably be a main terminal for lines to South America after the war. A plane factory (managed by Vultee) is located next door, and natives see in the juxtaposition an almost infallible indication of Miami's prime importance in the new era of international air transport. Miami abounds in people who will solemnly tell you that Miami someday will be bigger than New York City. Skeptics, far in the minority, point out that merely having a yard and roundhouse never converted a railroad division point into a great metropolis, and that many military fields elsewhere are badly located for commercial use. But even the smallest towns near new airports talk glowingly of the ability of the plane to overcome what used to be the handicap of not having railroads and harbors. Provincialism has already suffered measurably. Many Southerners who had been content to let the world slip by, who sentimentally turned their eyes inward to the imaginary glories of an overrated past, are becoming men with world vision.

Of factories and ships

The government's investment in plant and facilities in the Deep South from war's beginning through February, 1943, amounted to $1,100,000,000, or 7 per cent of the national investment in war plants during the same period. The low ratio was of course not the result of discrimination so much as the necessity for producing as fast as possible. To get what they did, Southerners had to prod governors and Congressmen into going to bat for them.

The low percentage is partly compensated for by the fact that the South may have a bigger proportion of the nation's chemical and metalworking plants than it had before the war, but in any case it probably will have a smaller part of total plant capacity. Worse, most of the large war plants are northern-owned or northern-operated, considered as branch factories, and many may be first to be closed in a postwar retrenchment. Still worse, of the $2,300,000,000 worth of prime contracts let in the Deep South through February, approximately half were accounted for by shipyards, few of which hope to have much postwar business. This half almost equals the total annual take of the whole southern textile industry in 1939 and three times its volume in the Deep South.

Southern shipyard cities present some of the most acute population and social problems in the nation. In 1940 the ship and boat yards of the Deep South employed about 7,500 workers. Today the approaching figure is 200,000. About a quarter of them are at Mobile, whose recent housing problem FORTUNE discussed in October, 1942. Next is New Orleans, where 18,000 work for Delta (Liberty ships) and some 9,000 for Higgins. The two boomingest shipyard towns are Panama City, in northwest Florida, and Pascagoula, Mississippi. Panama City had a population of 20,000 in 1940, has some 60,000 today. Pascagoula had 4,000 a few years ago, has some 30,000 today. Chambers of Commerce no longer drag out figures proudly; they hate to look for fear they have jumped overnight.

Workers have been largely recruited from nearby rural areas. People are living in government-built houses, in trailers, in tents, in boats. Rustics who never learned a trade in their lives have now acquired at least part of a skill. Women who never made more than $5 a week now consider $40 fair. Crackers who counted themselves lucky to take in $500 cash in a year can do almost that in a month. "Hit's got me right bothered," said one standing in front of the Hotel Marie in Panama City, "how I'm a-goin' to spend it all."

Panama City is a good example of what happens when a wartime burden that would hardly be noticed in a big city is dumped on a small one. Panama City was on the map before the war. In the twenties it was a raw, fishing and resort village of a few thousand; by 1931, after construction of the biggest pulp mill in Florida, population shot up to 10,000. It grew steadily through the thirties as port facilities were developed and a tugboat building and repair yard was established. But not even the Chamber of Commerce had reckoned on the future achieved. Workers have come to it from all over the U.S. Tyndall Field, one of the A.A.F.'s leading aircraft gunnery schools, and Navy and Coast Guard stations were established nearby. On April 20, 1942, the J. A. Jones Construction Co., now in the shipbuilding business, began work on its Wainwright yard, on St. Andrews Bay two miles west of town. A spacious, well-laid-out yard of six ways employing 13,000 people, it turned out its first Liberty ship before the end of the year. Under

[Continued on page 218]

ALABAMA ALUMINUM The new Reynolds Metals aluminum plant at Listerhill, one of the largest in the U.S., is strategically located close to TVA power and north of Mobile, which is a port of entry for South American bauxite. Alabamans hope it will be a permanent institution.

The Deep South Looks Up

[Continued from page 100]

General Manager H. V. Appen it is prefabricating whole sections of the ships and putting them together in only seventy-two sequences—claimed to be a U.S. record.

There was no time for Panama City to grow much physically. It is still a city of 20,000 doing its best to accommodate 60,000. The J. C. Penney store last year achieved the second largest sales increase of all the Penney stores in the U.S. Broadway sidewalks have never been more crowded than those of Panama City on a Saturday afternoon. Soldiers patrol the streets for an empty café table, then dive for it.

But from a long-term viewpoint, Panama City is lucky not to have expanded more than it has. The military establishments will not be permanent, at least in their present strength. J. A. Jones of Charlotte, North Carolina, who also runs a shipyard at Brunswick, Georgia, has a contract with the Maritime Commission on a cost-plus basis, for the duration only. But because Panama City is a naturally growing town: "We've got a darn good chance to hold half the population and then continue to grow," says John M. Rainey, youthful secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Which would leave Panama City in good shape. But the other half will be the real problem.

The problem will be the same elsewhere. Only a few of the large shipyards in the Deep South hope to survive on any scale. Tampa Shipbuilding, which closed down after the last war, now has a drydock and repair yard. The company fabricates bridges, makes hydraulic mixers and pumps. It hopes to keep going after the war on these, but not the way it is going now. Alabama Drydock & Shipbuilding of Mobile, with more than 30,000 employees, runs the biggest drydock and ship-repair plant on the Gulf, plans to survive on its maritime business as it has since the last war. The city of Mobile, already on the ascendant in 1939 after generations of tranquillity, is very active in postwar planning. It looks forward to a big coastal and South American trade for which it is ideally located. But Alabama Drydock anticipates only part of current volume.

Of those with outstanding prospects there remain Higgins in New Orleans, and Ingalls at Pascagoula, Mississippi, and Decatur, Alabama. These are probably the only two major southern shipbuilders on a contract basis. What Higgins plans to do about postwar business is described on page 101. Bob Ingalls and Bob Ingalls Jr., who run the Ingalls Iron Works in Birmingham and Ingalls Shipbuilding, are not so voluble as Higgins, but they are looking as far ahead. Pioneer in the all-welded ship, Ingalls also pioneered its "300-mile assembly line." It fabricates parts of ships in Birmingham and sends them down to Pascagoula for assembly. Ingalls is concentrating not on Liberty ships but on swift C-3's, which will be the backbone of the competitive postwar fleet. Some are being converted to aircraft carriers as fast as their hulls are completed. Continually experimenting with new methods, Ingalls Sr. says the "biggest job we have is to convince our old-time shipbuilders that they're wrong 90 per cent of the time." He is proud of his conservatism ("conservative people have made the world"), but has novel, not to say radical, ideas for future development. He is working with Chrysler's top-notch production men and engineers and is planning houses, river and coastal boats, and engines. "I'm interested in creating values," he says.

But Higgins and Ingalls are together about 15 per cent of the wartime shipbuilding industry. The rest of the Deep South's industry may have plans, but it has no Higgins or Ingalls. Millions have been invested in a Bell Aircraft plant, which has greater cubic content than any other U.S. aircraft plant. Government-owned, but operated as a branch of a northern business, its future is highly problematical. It is windowless, air conditioned, and its lighting bill alone amounts to some $365,000 a year. The bald fact is that the South seems to contain no capitalist with enough vision to acquire and operate the plant. With the possible exception of the aluminum industry, heavily concentrated in Alabama and Tennessee, the rest of the wartime addition to the Deep South's industrial plant also has dubious prospects. Much of it has been in not readily convertible shell-loading plants. Though the South will have gained a pool of semiskilled labor and machine tools, these may mean little unless somebody arises with a workable program for making and distributing industrial products.

But in southern Tennessee, on the edge of the "literary" Deep South, is the Tennessee Valley Authority. It has put cheap power at the top of the list of southern advantages, has made possible the development of vital wartime light-metal, plastic, and chemical industries. It has increased the average per capita income in the valley 75 per cent since 1933 (against a national increase of 56 per cent). Among the largest producers of phosphates (for fertilizer), it is actively integrating agriculture and industry. Just as it is proving indispensable to the whole nation during the war, so its developments may well prove indispensable to the whole South afterward. "TVA will affect the whole South," predicts David Lilienthal, its Director, "by the contagion of example. People in this region are beginning to think things can be done."

Without more of this, a blind postwar trek back to the farm may occur. The trouble with farming—at any rate traditional farming—is, as we have noted, that it probably never can employ all the southern farmers efficiently. Despite the exodus of farm workers to the armed forces and the factory, southern farmers have planted a huge acreage. Through no fault of their own, sharecroppers still sit around most of the winter, waiting for spring plowing. One reason they are so poverty-stricken, of course, is that they don't produce very much. If they got 90 per cent instead of 50 per cent of the crop, they would still be poor.

Postwar development of farm machinery will doubtless make them more efficient—and throw thousands into unemployment. Development of a more diversified agriculture, to be sure, may result in a greater demand for manpower. Years before the war the South was gradually shifting from soil-exhausting cotton and tobacco to vegetables, fruits, and dairy products, and the war sped up the trend. But the South's single-crop system has been so inefficient that an efficient diversified farm economy would probably demand few more men.

Race against race

In any other region these problems would be less noticeable even if they were greater. What complicates and intensifies them here is that six million of the Southeast's seventeen million people are Negroes. The fundamental fact to remember is that the white's attitude toward the Negro is not peculiar to the South. Because there are so many Negroes in the South, the attitude there is merely more intense and less conscious. The average Southerner just doesn't think at all about the Negro, any more than he ponders the rising and setting of the sun. He just naturally regards the Negro as inferior.

The basic belief of many a Southerner has been well defined by Thomas Dixon, author of The Clansman and two dozen other inflammatory books: "What the South stands for alone against the world is the integrity of the White Race . . . The South must keep open, at all times without fail, an impassable social chasm between the races. If we do not . . . the assimilation [of the Negro] would begin instantly . . . As a race we would pass and a Mulatto mongrel society be built on the ruins . . . A quart of ink can make black fifty gallons of water."

[Continued on page 220]

The Deep South Looks Up

[Continued from page 218]

A second thing to remember is that the white South was for years and years united in its basic attitude toward the Negro. This unity of viewpoint, contradicting the poor white's own economic interests, was born with slavery. The late W. J. Cash, in his great book The Mind of the South, explains the poor white: "The dear treasure of his superiority as a white man has been conferred on him by slavery; and so he saw in the offensive of the Yankee as great a danger to himself as the angriest planter." The War Between the States united the whites more firmly than ever against the Negro, and the North's tragic mishandling of the postwar period cemented the whites. The Yankee was too dumb even to divide them classwise. For years, as everybody knows, he disenfranchised whites and deliberately let what they regarded as African savages run the land. A few Southerners who fought the War Between the States are still living; millions of their children and grandchildren are. Their still glowing resentment far surpasses their ability to reason about the Negro.

Southern politicians, who know the all too human characteristics of their constituents all too well, still run the race issue ragged. "White southern boys . . ." says Governor Sam Jones of Louisiana, "do not improve in morale when they are told that one of the things they are fighting for is social equality of the Negro. They would renounce any such war aim, rightly or wrongly." A prominent southern legislator remarked recently: "If the Republican party would come out on the issue of white supremacy, it would sweep the South." Liberal Mark Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville Courier Journal, then Chairman of the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice (of which more later) had to concede: "He [the Negro] must recognize that there is no power in the world—not even all the mechanized armies of the earth, Allied and Axis—which could now force the southern white people to the abandonment of the principle of social segregation."

Nevertheless, this unity of whites against Negroes is not what it once was. Developed in a feudal agrarian South, it has tended to soften up partly as the result of union activity. Since 1935, it is estimated, nearly one million white Southerners have joined trade unions with 100,000 Negroes. White and Negro members of the U.M.W. in Birmingham are meeting together as industrial equals. Ninety per cent of the members of the Transport Workers Union in New Orleans are Negroes. Both the Farmers' Union and the conservative Farm Bureau have Negro members. Even the A. F. of L. last year set up an "integrated" Transport Workers Union in Mobile.

In constantly harping on white racial unity, demagogues have probably kept it more lively than it otherwise might be. For probably only a small minority of the white Southerners believe that economic and political equality is bound to end in social equality and "mongrelization." Of course, only a very small percentage of intellectual whites believe in total equality for the Negro. The bulk of the whites have no objection to the Negro's attaining a greater degree of economic opportunity, or the right to hold jobs. Despite the official stand on the poll tax, many favor political equality, or the right to vote. But they are against social equality, or the right to mingle with the other race. Unfortunately they really don't think much about it. Sometimes their demagogues denounce social equality when they are really bucking political and economic equality, and the people don't bother to think through the distinction.

What the articulate southern Negro hopes for and wants first of all is the right to take jobs for which he is qualified and the right to vote—some of the very things for which he and whites alike are fighting. He has neither. So he is either very cynical, very indignant, or very discouraged. "Seems like they're only out to lynch Hitler and Mussolini," as one Negro worker doped it out. "That's why the white folks down here got so het up about it right away." Others express their resentment in requests for a better deal from employers, both industrial and domestic. Even the humblest Negro is aware of the gap between what has been promised and what is being given. "Ask any Negro sharecropper or worker what his neighbor is thinking," says one leader, "and if he has sense enough to come out of the rain he will say that the white man cannot lick Hitler with his right hand and keep the Negro down with his left."

The contradictions of the war, in other words, have naturally made the body of Negroes restless. Their leaders reflect their restlessness in various degrees. Many do what they can within the rigid framework of southern customs. In order to get the other equalities, they tactically avoid discussion of the issue of social equality. This is the tradition of schools like Tuskegee Institute and Atlanta University. As Dr. Rufus Clement, president of the latter, puts it: "I think it is foolish to assume that we can reach our ultimate goals tomorrow."

But more and more Negro leaders and white sympathizers are becoming impatient. There are all shades of viewpoints. Labor leaders and organizations like the Southern Negro Youth Congress are concentrating on specific objectives like war jobs and the right to vote, and do not stress social equality. Most white liberals, many represented in the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, are with them. Northern Negro newspapers like the Pittsburgh Courier and Chicago Defender plug the issue of segregation. Less patient are militant little papers like South Today, published by whites who believe that democracy should and can be enforced now. Not to be confused with any of these are demagogues like Ethelbert Broaster of New Orleans, General Messenger of International Reassemble of the Church of Freedom League, Inc.

"The time to act is now"

Meantime, Negroes are having a hard enough time getting economic opportunity. A common attitude is exemplified by the remark of a go-getting foreman at a new shipyard: "I wouldn't hire one of the black bastards," he explained, anxious to show his discernment. "They all right on the business end of a rake or shovel, but they no good on this kind of work. Besides, the whites wouldn't stand for it. One nigger told me the law says I had to hire him—he was a trained welder, and we need 2,000 welders. 'I have to hire you, eh?' says I. 'Well, you insolent, uppity black so and so, you get the hell out of here before I call the po-lice."

It was this kind of attitude, by no means confined to the South, that the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice (FORTUNE, June, 1942) tried to fight. The committee's activities drew letters from Negroes all over. In Jackson, Mississippi, several hundred met in a church and framed a fourteen-page statement on discrimination in a local plant, and sent it to the President and Congress. The committee held enough hearings to establish proof of general racial discrimination in southeastern war industry. One of the worst examples was Gulf Shipbuilding in Mobile. Though Negroes comprise a third of the city's population the Negro percentage of Gulf employees was exactly .0013. The company blamed the A.F. of L. local union; the A.F. of L. blamed the company; training officials blamed everybody else. Today the percentage of Negroes at Gulf Shipbuilding is no more than 8. There have been few Negro training programs anywhere. According to the War Manpower Commission, only 10 per cent of war workers trained in the Southeast since 1941 have been Negroes, and many of them have had to go north for skilled employment.

[Continued on page 223]

The Deep South Looks Up

[Continued from page 220]

When the committee started south in 1942 it got a reception from businessmen hardly more cordial than that accorded Sherman's army. Industrial leaders appealed to Governor Dixon, who tried to head it off. There were rumors of impending "race riots." There was talk of Negro "Eleanor" clubs, which the FBI later found to be nonexistent. In the course of the hearings at Birmingham, rattled white witnesses found themselves saying "yessuh" to Negro interrogators.

The event not only incensed white leaders but provided some with a chance to play anti-New Deal politics. The pressure grew into one of the tensest the South has known since the Atlanta race riot in 1906. Although Mark Ethridge had made his speech of appeasement (already partly quoted) in which he said the committee was not interested in promoting social equality, the politicians were not appeased. Governor Dixon refused to sign an Army contract for prison-made textiles because, he said, the contract required equality for Negroes. Judge Horace C. Wilkinson, a powerful political figure in the state, made a much-quoted and reprinted speech before the Bessemer, Alabama, Kiwanis Club. ". . . There is need of a League to Maintain White Supremacy . . . The time to act is now. An organization should be formed so strong, so powerful, and so efficient, that this menace to our national security and our local way of life will rapidly disappear."

The race line is still taut. There have been numerous minor clashes on busses. Segregation is being more strictly enforced. Several stores in Birmingham have erected partitions and installed cash registers on each side—one for Negroes and one for whites. Some urbanites are forming "home guard" units, and spend spare time at target practice. Out in the Delta of Mississippi, where 80 per cent or more of some counties are Negro, planters too are arming.

Nevertheless, the economic level of the Negro is being considerably bettered. Higgins's plane factory in New Orleans hopes to train and hire thousands of Negroes. Others who want to increase their forces may have to put more Negroes in skilled jobs because no more whites are available. The point is that the manpower supply has grown so lean that even a Negro can get a common job almost any time he wants to. White men and women are moving from service jobs into factories. Negro waitresses and elevator operators, who lost out in the depression in most of the Deep South, are again becoming commonplace. This kind of "upgrading," plus the theoretical opportunity to get jobs in war plants, has created a tight domestic-servant market—and stimulated race friction too.

The South's vaunted low cost of living, at least for the middle classes, has consisted partly of cheap household help. Incomes that cannot afford servants in the North used to be able to hire a ten-hour-a-day Negro maid in the South. But now servants who had been making $5 or less a week are demanding—and getting—$10 and more. Some are even asking to be worked no more than eight hours a day. Others, feeling their oats, are taking their time about everything and staying home whenever they have the urge. Used to spending very little on necessities, they now have money for luxuries. "Ah looked all over town, and declare to goodness ah just can't find me a evenin' dress ah like." This is probably not typical, but the reaction of the southern woman is: "Honey, it's just gettin' so you can't find a good nigger any more, and you can't trust any you do find. Let me tell you about the Eleanor Club that Mrs. Pritchard's Amy Lou belongs to . . ."

The conclusion might be drawn from all this that jobs and industrial opportunity have increased and not reduced racial friction. A recent work stoppage at Alabama Drydock in Mobile, outstanding among southern shipyards for its high ratio (25 per cent) of Negro employees, occurred after Negroes were upgraded. Just who was responsible in the melee between Negroes, whites, and company guards is hard to determine. How, then, is industrialization the answer?

For one thing, the current friction may be explained in terms of fear of the day when war ends. More important—and remarkable—is not that there has been trouble, but that trouble has occurred on so small a scale—that ancient prejudices and habits are being bypassed with so little event. The phenomenon has become more or less common. A few years ago Sam Solomon, a Negro leader in Miami, led Negroes to the polls. The Ku Klux Klan met to handle the situation. But last May, Solomon ran ninth in an election of five city commissioners. Southern Negro leaders met at Durham, North Carolina, last fall to propose a plan for improving race relations. Last April a similar group of white leaders met under Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, to frame a reply. The two groups plan to issue a joint statement.

Race trouble today, however, does emphasize the fact that vast improvement in race relations will not come all at once. "Southern society has grown up inexorably and organically . . ." says the famous Dr. Howard Odum of the University of North Carolina. "It must be clear that it cannot be changed overnight." The problem for the Negro is essentially one of tactics, of educating both whites and Negroes. No matter how fired with a sense of injustice against Southerners, the Negro and his white advocates might well remember that all people are at best imperfect—indeed that the Northerner, had he been in the Southerner's place, would have done everything the Southerner has done.

Where will they go?

Today's troubles are nothing beside what may well occur if Negroes and whites must go back to their old status after the war. For postwar dispersion and displacement are bound to follow race lines. Unless more plans are now made, there will be few jobs, and whites will probably hang onto most of them. Returning white soldiers will have a high priority, and returning Negro soldiers will at least expect a job. A lot of crackers, to be sure, will shuffle into the pine woods and cotton fields to dream about the day of Jubilee and resume their bouts with hookworm. They may or may not feel that a better world should mean an entirely new standard of living for them. But the Negro, however ignorant or ambitionless, can hardly avoid interpreting the systematic displacement of his race by whites as a contradiction of everything he has been told the war was fought for. "Let there be no mistaking of the fact," warns Dr. James Jackson, a director of the Southern Negro Youth Congress, "that for the South there

[Continued on page 224]

PRECISION PARTS

A SHOT IN THE ARM MAY SAVE A SOLDIER'S LIFE

Precious blood plasma for the wounded, serums for the sick, narcotics to deaden pain—yes, hypodermic injections are vital life-savers on every battle front!

Today, the plungers for these hypodermic injectors are made of glass, centerless ground within a tolerance of .0005" for roundness and dimension.

Lives depend upon the accurate grinding of these little pieces of glass.

The accuracy and finish of the centerless grinding is of the utmost importance. Any pitting or irregularity may permit air bubbles to get into the fluid and, in turn, be pumped into the blood stream with fatal results.

Accurately ground glass plays another important part in the war effort, too. Glass "go, no-go" plug-type gauges ground within a tolerance of .0001" are helping manufacturers of vital precision parts for planes, tanks, guns and ships do a faster, better job.

Precision grinding of every type with amazing accuracy, ON A MASS PRODUCTION BASIS!—that's ACE's vital contribution to winning this war. Here is a great American plant with precision tools, centralized responsibility and sleepless ingenuity. Here is where to come for practically every operation in the manufacture of small parts where accuracy is required, both now and after the war.

Inspection of each individual piece!

ACE MANUFACTURING CORPORATION for Precision Parts

1227 E. ERIE AVENUE, PHILADELPHIA

The Deep South Looks Up

[Continued from page 223]

will be no peace after victory until the Negro people are free from all oppression and share equally all opportunities and citizenship rights with their fellow white citizens." Given any kind of leadership, the average Negro's resentment is bound to be noticeable.

Some whites may be watching for just that—and waiting to take out their hard times on the Negro. Movements to "keep the nigger in his place" may be described as a foregone conclusion. Said a state governor recently: "We can't enforce our Jim Crow laws now—we got to kinda wink at them. But when this is all over, we'll fix that." The old round of resentment and persecution may well occur again.

The industrial South

Thus, it seems imperative to maintain and increase the level of the South's industrialization, and to do it without waiting too long after the war. One of the only other ways to equalize the discrepancy between the South's income and that of the rest of the nation, as TVA has pointed out, is the absurd and almost impossible one of deporting millions of people to other sections of the country. The Negro problem, true enough, has a psychological basis that wealth alone cannot completely uproot—any more than formal education can civilize a nation. But little more can be done with the problem until the South achieves a fair degree of prosperity, and a poor white does not have to derive satisfaction from being superior to another race. What some unions have done in getting whites and Negroes together is very significant.

As a first and major step, Southerners hope to see freight (and truck) rates altered before the 1944 elections. The rate structure favors the northeast or "official" territory at the expense particularly of the southern and western regions. It is not necessary to review the topic in detail; suffice to say that originally northern factories needed raw materials; and the southern railroads commendably set low rates on southern raw materials to get the business. They compensated for these low rates by slapping on extra high rates on finished products.

Save for special concessions to favored types of shippers, the structure was not changed as the South gradually acquired industries. So it still costs 50 per cent more to ship an auto storage battery from Jacksonville, Florida, to Washington, D. C. than from Chicago to Washington, six miles farther. The TVA's monumental report on regionalized freight rates, its third on the subject, was published last March. It gives case histories of the effect of higher rates on southern industry. In one case the burden was more than equal to the total factory wages. In another it amounted to as little as 3 per cent of them—but still indicating one reason why southern wages have been necessarily lower than northern wages, and partly why the southern entrepreneurs have been so timid. A legitimate question is whether they will not go on being timid. Most Southerners with money have shown little flair for taking risks, for welcoming that "old harlot Opportunity." Even when the opportunity was there, they tended to invest their money in northern companies.

While the TVA report may be open to some objection in both details and motivation—TVA wants all the postwar power customers it can get—the burden of its arguments has not been successfully challenged. The Interstate Commerce Commission is now headed by Jesse H. Alldredge, formerly of

A THINKING TEAM FOR YOUR BUSINESS

Problem-solving, money-saving teamwork between workers and managers is an accomplished fact today in thousands of American businesses using the Morton Method.

The Method makes a "thinking team" of any organization, large or small, by utilizing all available brainpower. It goes directly to employees for valuable ideas which their on-the-job knowledge of a business enables them to think up.

It's been 15 years since Morton introduced the original Method as the basic way of bringing about successful mental teamwork in any business. What that kind of teamwork has enabled American business and industry to accomplish has been especially evident in the past two years.

Ten thousand establishments have employed the Morton Method since its inception. Resulting money savings total in the millions. Forward-looking executives in rapidly increasing numbers are looking to their "thinking teams" for invaluable help in planning for the future —and they're getting it.

Information on how the Morton Method can create the same kind of teamwork in your organization will be sent on request. Write for it today.

An important instrument for post-war planning.

The MORTON METHOD
SUGGESTION SYSTEM DIVISION
MORTON MANUFACTURING COMPANY
335 N. Leamington Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

TVA, and has held hearings on the rate structure. Last March, moreover, the Board of Investigation and Research, set up by Congress in 1940 to investigate regional rates among other things, published a summary report that analyzed the inequalities and recommended congressional action.

Aside from tariffs and federal aid, which require no further comment, the rest of the southern complaints center in the fact that so much of the South's capital and industrial assets are northern-owned. This argument, in its more parochial versions, is little more convincing than the one that chain stores be abolished because Wall Street owns stock in them.

In other versions it has considerable plausibility. The Southerner pays more interest when he borrows money than entrepreneurs in other sections. Presumably the risk is greater, but the Southerner argues the risk would be the same if southern industry were given the same breaks. The classic example of how northern ownership has affected southern growth is U.S. Steel's subsidiary, Tennessee Coal Iron & Railroad Co. (T.C.I.). Owing to the God-given juxtaposition of coal, iron, and limestone in the hills around Birmingham, iron and steel can be made more cheaply in Birmingham than in any other place in the U.S. Until 1940 the list price was generally not merely the Pittsburgh price for steel, but of course Pittsburgh plus freight. Now that U.S. Steel has modified the basing-point system, southern industry can buy steel at Pittsburgh list prices —but not at Birmingham prices. Some Southerners argue that they are still being robbed of a natural economic advantage, and feel that T.C.I. should be divorced from U.S. Steel and forced to use its competitive position in the open market.

A better South

Informed southern leaders do not expect greater industrialization to solve automatically the Deep South's problems, economic or social. They see in it a chance to put the good will of the region, the progress made so far, on a sound economic basis. That progress has been considerable. Allowing for its starting point, the South has probably come further in the past twenty-five years than the rest of the nation. While other parts of the world were slipping into an orgy of visceral reactions, the South, at least on certain levels, was developing a remarkable capacity for self-criticism and even some tolerance for ideas alien to its traditions. While totalitarians were perfecting the art of legal lynching, the South was gradually abandoning illegal lynching. Whereas the South used to vent its emotions in bombast, it has been channeling them into some of the most arresting novels and stories in the language.

Southern liberals are speaking up boldly. "We must quit playing Ole Massa and Ole Missus (the South is the greatest stage in the world's history)," says Mark Ethridge. "We got into the trouble we are in because intelligence abdicated in favor of sentiment and immediate economics. There is no way out if we stick to sentiment; if we are not ready to abandon every prejudice, or at least re-examine it. Leadership is crystalizing; intelligent people can help . . . by creating the ferment."

More and more men are talking that way, and more and more people are listening to them. In the summer of 1942 cocky Gene Talmadge, who ousted liberal educators at the University of Georgia and used race prejudice in his campaign, was dumfounded to find himself beaten. Credit is due in large part to the fact that people listened not to rabble rousers but to liberals. As Edna Cain Daniel, editor of the Quitman, Georgia, Free Press, puts it: "There was less rabble to rouse than they thought."

72% of all

MONTGOMERY ELEVATORS went to previously
SATISFIED CUSTOMERS

Of all Montgomery Elevators installed during 1941, a typical year, 72% were sold to previously satisfied customers. Many of these firms have used Montgomery equipment over a period of 30 years. This sales record is proof that Montgomery Elevators deliver permanent, satisfactory service. Investigate Montgomery Passenger and Freight Elevators for use in any buildings now being planned for construction after the war. Complete "Elevator Planning Service" available on request!

★ Buy War Bonds and Stamps ★ ★

MONTGOMERY ELEVATOR COMPANY
HOME OFFICE—MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Branch Offices and Agents in Principal Cities

JANUARY, 1953
Vol. 8 No. 1

New South

All material presented in New South may be used freely by other publications. A credit line will be appreciated.

A Progress Report

Race and Suffrage Today

"IN ANY future history of suffrage in the South, the decade of the 1940's will probably be known as the time of an awakening among Negroes and of a change of attitude by many whites toward Negro participation in this phase of government." So began Race and Suffrage Since 1940, a study prepared for the Southern Regional Council in 1948 by the late Dr. Luther P. Jackson.

The claim seems an understatement from the vantage point of 1953. Faced today with the tedious and long-range task of achieving full enfranchisement in every part of the region, we can see even more clearly how far and how fast Negro suffrage advanced in the Forties. In 1940, Southern Negroes who had got past the barriers of poll taxes, qualifications tests, and unfriendly election officials numbered about 250,000 — and most of these had been able to vote only in meaningless general elections. Then, as now, the all-important decisions in the one-party South were made in the Democratic primaries. For practical purposes, the Negro was completely disfranchised.

There was nothing new about this dismal state of affairs; it had existed for a generation. But the complacency with which Negroes had once accepted it was rapidly giving way in 1940 to a new determination. The onset of World War II with its emphasis on democratic values lent added force to the demand for full citizenship, and also did much to prepare the white South for the impending change.

The great achievement which followed was a triumph, in law, for a free ballot unhampered by racial restrictions. As a result, Negro registration in the Southern states climbed to more than a million, bringing in its wake substantial gains in public facilities and an improved political climate in many urban areas.

But those who rejoiced in the early victories have been sobered by the vexing problems which have persisted. There are still broad stretches of the South where Negroes can vote only with great difficulty, or not at all. And, even where the right to vote is secure, ignorance and apathy — those age-old enemies of popular government — seriously impede the Negro's civic progress.

THE "WHITE PRIMARY"

More than fifty years ago, Southern states sought to guarantee the exclusion of Negroes from effective political participation by decreeing that Democratic primaries — the only meaningful elections—should be limited strictly to white voters. The rationalization behind this move was simple — the primary was a purely private affair, and the political party holding it had absolute power to say who might and who might not participate.

Several earlier court decisions weakened this discriminatory arrangement, but it was the Smith v. Allwright decision of 1944 that finally toppled it. In an 8-to-1 decision, the U. S. Supreme Court declared: "The United States is a constitutional democracy. Its organic law grants to all citizens a right to participate in the choice of elected officials without restriction by any state because of race. This grant to the people of opportunity for choice is not to be nullified by a state through casting its electoral process in a form which permits a private organization to practice racial discrimination in the election."

This decision sounded the death-knell of the "white primary," but the end did not come immediately. Diehard leadership in the lower South was not yet convinced that Negroes had to be admitted to the state Democratic parties. South Carolina put the courts to the test with its "private club" plan, which consisted in the repeal of all state laws governing primaries, in order to buttress the argument that the "white primary" was a private function immune to legal action. This subterfuge was struck down by Federal Judge J. Waties Waring in 1947, as was a later requirement that all would-be voters subscribe to an oath of allegiance to "states' rights" and segregation.

Other Southern states which had kept a speculative eye on the South Carolina schemes were forced to abandon all hope of retaining the "white primary." Instead, they turned their attention to Alabama, where a different approach to Negro disfranchisement was showing considerable promise.

REGISTRATION

Unlike the South Carolina plan, which sought to bar Negro voters at the ballot box, the Alabama strategy was to eliminate them at the registration place. The notorious Boswell Amendment, passed in 1946, provided that an applicant must be able not only to "read and write" but also to "understand and explain" any article of the United States Constitution "to the reasonable satisfaction of the board of registrars." The significance of this measure lay in the arbitrary power which it granted local registrars to accept or reject whatever applicants they wished. It meant that they could — and usually did — find that no Negro, however well-informed, could explain the Constitution to their "satisfaction," while all white voters, however uneducated, "satisfied" them perfectly.

So effectively did the Boswell Amendment work that other states, like Georgia, began readying similar measures. But the prospect of a foolproof system of disfranchisement was dashed in 1949 by a federal court decision outlawing the Boswell Amendment as "an attempt to obviate the consequences" of the Smith v. Allwright decision. Alabama has since adopted a watered-down version of the Boswell Amendment, not yet tested in the courts, but its lack of popular support is evident in the fact that it was passed by a scant majority of a few hundred votes.

Unfortunately, however, discriminatory registration practices can exist without the sanction of law. Local registrars are frequently a law unto themselves, particularly in rural areas, since they are subject to no close supervision or direction. They are likely to be heavily influenced in their decisions by the attitudes toward Negro voting which prevail in their communities. Both before and after the Boswell ruling, these officials have served as the custodians of disfranchisement in many a rural county.

The following discriminatory tactics, cited by Dr. Jackson, are still to be found in parts of the South:

(1) Requiring Negro applicants to produce one or more white character witnesses.

(2) Applying severe property qualifications and requiring only Negro applicants to show property-tax receipts.

(3) Strictly enforcing literacy tests against Negro applicants.

(4) Putting unreasonable questions on the Constitution to Negro applicants.

(5) Basing rejection of Negro applicants on alleged technical mistakes in filling out registration blanks.

(6) Requiring Negro applicants to fill out their own blanks, while those of whites are filled out for them by the officials.

(7) Requiring Negro applicants to suffer long waiting periods before the officials attend them.

(8) Evasion — informing Negro applicants that registration cards have run out, that all members of the registration board are not present, that it is closing time, or that the applicant "will be notified in due course."

(9) Deliberate insults or threats by officials or hangers-on.

THE POLL TAX

For many years, the poll tax was popularly regarded as the supreme method of restricting Negro suffrage. This notoriety was not wholly deserved for, though the poll tax does have racial significance, its discriminatory value has never approached that of the "white primary" and biased registration practices. It should be remembered that the poll tax was maintained in the Southern states throughout the years when there was little prospect of mass Negro voting. Its effect then was to restrict the existing electorate by imposing a heavy burden on low-income whites who might wish to vote.

By the time the Negro won the right to vote in the primary, rising incomes and the declining value of the dollar had made the poll tax less of an economic hardship. True, in Alabama where the tax is cumulative, a middle-aged new voter of either race might be faced with a bill for $36.00 — a formidable barrier indeed for many. But more important in terms of discrimination are the red-tape the poll tax imposes and the opportunities it gives biased officials to discourage or disqualify Negroes.

Today, only six Southern states cling to the poll tax in one form or another, and of these, Tennessee has limited the requirement almost to the vanishing point. In the other poll-tax states — Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas, and Virginia — there is strong public sentiment favoring repeal, but so far it has not found effective expression. Attempts to secure federal anti-poll tax legislation have

ESTIMATED NEGRO REGISTRATION IN 12 SOUTHERN STATES, 1947-1952

State	Negroes Registered in 1947	Negroes Registered in 1952
Alabama	6,000	50,000
Arkansas	47,000	65,000
Florida	49,000	125,000
Georgia	125,000	145,000
Louisiana	10,000	100,000
Mississippi	5,000	20,000
North Carolina	75,000	100,000
Oklahoma	50,000	60,000
South Carolina	50,000	115,000
Tennessee	80,000	85,000
Texas	100,000	175,000
Virginia	48,000	70,000
TOTALS	645,000	1,110,000

been equally unsuccessful, though there have been indications that Southern Congressmen would agree to submit the question to the voters as a Constitutional amendment. This would seem a peculiarly cumbersome way of ridding the South of an old evil that has little popular support.

CONTINUING PROBLEMS

If the 1940's are to be remembered as the decade of legal enfranchisement, it is to be hoped that the 1950's may be a decade of citizenship fully realized. There are still a few lingering examples of voting discrimination practiced under cover of law, but the main problems today must be solved in the community rather than the courts. It is well-nigh impossible to find legal remedies for petty evasions, delays, and "errors" of courthouse officials; for disapproving frowns and veiled threats; for routine, but highly selective, purges of registration lists.

This "cold war" of the ballot is now found chiefly in the old plantation areas or "black belt" of the South where Negroes make up a large part of the population. There, a quasi-feudal economy still hangs on. Most Negroes are tenant farmers or hired laborers whose landlords and employers do not look kindly on their voting. Moreover, the Negro who undertakes to qualify and cast his ballot usually must brave the organized resistance of the whole community. He can seldom rely on law enforcement officers and other public officials to support him in his effort to assert his rights.

Shifts in population and agriculture and farm ownership are moving the South steadily away from these outmoded conditions toward a more modern society. As more and more Negroes emerge from dependency to self-sufficiency, from farm tenancy to economic independence, from poverty to basic well-being, obstacles to the ballot prove less formidable. Meanwhile, however, discrimination in rural areas continues to be the most serious voting problem in the region.

By contrast, widespread opposition to Negro registration and voting has all but disappeared in the larger Southern cities. Even six years ago, Dr. Jackson found that, in such metropolitan centers as Atlanta, Memphis, Jacksonville, and New Orleans, Negroes "may qualify with as much ease as they may in any Northern city." Further evidence is afforded by the election of Negro candidates to local offices in nine Southern cities within recent years.

But this admirable state of affairs has not meant in every case the normal integration of Negroes into public life that might have been expected. Again, Dr. Jackson sized up the problem, then just emerging:

'VOTING CONSCIOUSNESS'

In parts of the South, he wrote, "the act of a candidate seeking the support of qualified Negro voters is a common occurrence. Like white citizens, Negroes receive letters from candidates, are visited at their homes, and are addressed in public assemblies. Under these circumstances, a bargaining situation is created whereby Negroes might gain benefits for themselves if they only realized it. Schools, parks, playgrounds, and other facilities might well be the result of this new awareness of the Negro ballot. But office seekers are frequently disappointed to find so few colored persons qualified to participate in a forthcoming election. . . . . It is not always the barriers to voting which disqualify the colored people, but sometimes the absence of a voting consciousness among them."

This problem has, if anything, grown more pronounced in the past few years. Far from becoming a mass threat to white political control, as the demagogues warned, Southern Negroes have not voted in sufficient numbers to assure themselves of impartial treatment. Hence, it is still possible for unscrupulous politicians to use race prejudice as a campaign weapon, even in some areas where Negroes can vote without hindrance. In such cases, the candidate who has decent attitudes on race, and would welcome the support of Negro voters, faces a difficult situation. He is caught between the race-baiting of his opponent and the lack of substantial Negro support at the polls. All this has the unwelcome effect of causing office seekers to conceal or repudiate their enlightened racial views.

Oddly enough, the proportionately small size of the Negro electorate has lent plausibility to the "bloc vote" charge so dear to the hearts of the race-baiters. As every informed person knows, members of any group will vote as a bloc whenever they are singled out for special attack. Negroes are no exception. When they vote solidly against a candidate it is because he has abused their race and opposed their legitimate aspirations. When race is not an issue in a campaign, their votes are distributed about the same as those of white voters.

But the politician who hopes to benefit from race prejudice finds it useful to cry out against "bloc voting." He knows that by doing so he will incur the opposition of almost every Negro voter, but he counts on gaining more votes than he will lose. Too often, that is the outcome. Negroes do vote solidly against the prejudiced candidate, but in too small numbers to insure his defeat. Ironically, he then points to the election returns as proof of his "bloc vote" allegations.

Where does the Negro vote stand today? It is all but impossible to get

(Continued on page 8)

From the Asheville Citizen

'THE SOUTH LIFTS ITS HEAD'

Tuskegee Institute has no lynchings, as such, to report for 1952, according to criteria used in our Department of Records and Research. This is the first time such a report has been made in the 70 years of lynching record keeping, 1882-1952. — Press release, Dec. 31, 1952.

The nation, and thus the South, turned a corner in 1952. As the report of the much-respected Tuskegee Institute, quoted above, so plainly indicates, a form of crime once prevalent in the United States and often peculiar to the South has been "wiped out." In all soberness and conscience it might be said that nothing more astonishing — and heartening — has happened in human relationships in America within the lifetime of most of us now living.

We use the term "wiped out" advisedly. Of course, there may be more lynchings. Yet . . . if it would be reasonable to say that not a single case of cancer or heart disease or tuberculosis occurred within a year, and that hence cancer or heart disease or tuberculosis had been "wiped out," it would be reasonable to say that the ugly crime of lynching has been expunged from the record in America. . . .

To place Tuskegee's report in its proper perspective it is necessary to go back a few years. As recently as 1933 there were 28 lynchings spread over 11 states. By 1946 the incidence of the crime had been reduced to six cases. . . . There was one case in 1947, two in 1948, three in 1949, two in 1950 and again only one last year. Contrary to the fears of sociologists and others who study human behavior patterns, the postwar period did not bring the expected tensions which are manifest in crimes of racial passion.

It may well be argued that the mob with the rope and the torch has been replaced by more subtle forms of group violence against persons. Tuskegee properly calls attention to bombings and attempted bombings directed for the most part against minority groups in the last four years. Sixty-eight instances are cited in 13 states, including five states outside the South. . . .

These crimes are no less sordid or reprehensible in their way. Yet if it is possible to draw a distinction, it is the distinction between the howling, lustful mob and the covert attack by one or more individuals seeking not merely to usurp the function of the law but to vent a warped kind of vengeance on a racial or religious group. This kind of violence has taken place in North Carolina and it has taken place in Ohio. . . .

For the moment, however, we are concerned with overt mob violence. In its old aspect, it is a thing of the past. . . . Education, respect for the law, and most of all an awareness of the rights of the human person under the law — these things have prevailed. The record of a year is a record to be viewed at length with pride just as in the unhappy past it was viewed at length with sorrow and humiliation. The South can lift up its head.

U. S. Secretary of State Tells How Discrimination Hurts World Relations

What effect do racial discrimination and segregation in this country have on our foreign relations? Not long ago, the U. S. Attorney General put this question to the Secretary of State. The Secretary's reply, which was quoted in the Government's brief on the school segregation cases, is here presented.

* * * I wrote the Chairman of the Fair Employment Practices Committee on May 8, 1946, that the existence of discrimination against minority groups was having an adverse effect upon our relations with other countries. At that time I pointed out that discrimination against such groups in the United States created suspicion and resentment in other countries, and that we would have better international relations were these reasons for suspicion and resentment to be removed.

During the past six years, the damage to our foreign relations attributable to this source has become progressively greater. The United States is under constant attack in the foreign press, over the foreign radio, and in such international bodies as the United Nations because of various practices of discrimination against minority groups in this country. As might be expected, Soviet spokesmen regularly exploit this situation in propaganda against the United States, both within the United Nations and through radio broadcasts and the press, which reaches all corners of the world. Some of these attacks against us are based on falsehood or distortion; but the undeniable existence of racial discrimination gives unfriendly governments the most effective kind of ammunition for their propaganda warfare.

The hostile reaction among normally friendly peoples, many of whom are particularly sensitive in regard to the status of non-European races, is growing in alarming proportions. In such countries the view is expressed more and more vocally that the United States is hypocritical in claiming to be the champion of democracy while permitting practices of racial discrimination here in this country.

The segregation of school children on a racial basis is one of the practices in the United States that has been singled out for hostile foreign comment in the United Nations and elsewhere. Other peoples cannot understand how such a practice can exist in a country which professes to be a staunch supporter of freedom, justice, and democracy. The sincerity of the United States in this respect will be judged by its deeds as well as by its words.

Although progress is being made, the continuance of racial discrimination in the United States remains a source of constant embarrassment to this Government in the day-to-day conduct of its foreign relations; and it jeopardizes the effective maintenance of our moral leadership of the free and democratic nations of the world.

Race and Suffrage

(Continued from page 5)

exact figures for each state, since registration and election results are seldom recorded by race. The accompanying table, however, gives the Southern Regional Council's best estimates of Negro registration in 1952, as compared with Dr. Jackson's figures for 1947.

Although the five-year increase is substantial for some states, the overall gain is disappointing. It is particularly so when we consider that the 1947 registration was, in most cases, the fruits of a few months' intensive effort following the enfranchising court decisions. The Georgia drive, for example, was spectacularly successful, coming as it did in the period of initial resistance to Negro balloting. The slight advance made since that time, under much more favorable conditions, appears puny by contrast.

TODAY'S CHALLENGE

To generalize for the whole region, registration among Negro citizens of voting age is only about half as widespread as among white citizens. Virginia furnishes a good example. Of the white citizens of voting age in that state in 1949, 39 per cent were registered; of Negro citizens of voting age, 16 per cent. It must be remembered, too, that registration is not an accurate measure of ballots actually cast. In many recent elections, the proportion of registered Negro voters who have turned out at the polls has been substantially below that of white voters, thus further widening the gap.

Negro organizations and community leaders are not unaware of these problems; in some states they are waging or planning registration and get-out-the-vote campaigns. But there is a pressing need for more such effort, carried on unremittingly in every part of the South.

Twenty years ago, the great roadblocks to Southern democracy were poverty and official denial of constitutional rights. Economic growth and sweeping court decisions have put us well on the way to surmounting both. The challenge now is to build a common citizenship which will make our state and local governments truly responsive to the wishes and needs of all the people. That can be achieved only by informed community action and the fullest and wisest use of the ballot.

Contributions to the Southern Regional Council are tax-exempt.

NEW SOUTH

Published by

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL

63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.

Atlanta 3, Georgia

Marion A. Wright ..... President
Carter Wesley ..... Vice-President
Gordon B. Hancock ..... Vice-President
Alfred D. Mynders ..... Vice-President
A. W. Dent ..... Vice-President
Charles S. Johnson ..... Chmn. Exec. Com.
Leonard Haas ..... Counsel
George S. Mitchell ... Executive Director
Miss Katherine Stoney ..... Sec.-Treas.
Mrs. M. E. Tilly ..... Women's Work
Harold C. Fleming .... Dir. of Information

Subscription rate ..... $1.50 a year

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, JANUARY, 1953

To attain through research and action programs the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the region.

First Negro Policeman In Portsmouth Resigns

Jan & Guide 1-12-52

PORTSMOUTH — Arceleous Elliott has resigned as a patrolman with the City Police Department.

Police Chief L. C. Warren said the Elliott's resignation was effective Jan. 2, and that he resigned because of his health. Chief Warren also revealed that Elliott said he couldn't work nights because he was suffering from stomach trouble.

The Chief explained that he had taken Elliott off all-night duty and that he was working the 4 p. m. to midnight shift. He had also seen day duty directing traffic out at Truxton School before the women school patrolmen were appointed. It was hard to give Elliott straight day duty, the Chief said because he was short of men for night duty.

"The tours of duty are determined on the basis of seniority," Chief Warren said, "I have men with more seniority than Elliott and they have to be kept on night duty."

Chief Warren was high in his praise of Elliott as an officer. "He han been a good police officer and carried out his duties to the credit of the Portsmouth Police Department," he said. The Chief also commended Raphael Clay, the remaining colored patrolman and the three women school traffic guards for "their excellent police work."

Elliott went on active duty as a patrolman in August, 1948, after being appointed in July of that year. He was on the Civil Service qualified list for two years before his appointment.

The patrolman was popular on his beats in the Effingham, County and High streets area as well as in Truxton.

Negro Policemen Are ~~Added~~ To Marion Force

1952

MARION, Jan. 26 (Special)—City Council has voted to add two Negro policemen to the local police force.

The action was taken in response to an appeal of four Negro citizens who appeared before the council and asked that two Negro "walking policemen" be hired because they believed that Negro policemen could correct many situations in the Negro section.

Police Commissioners Aldermen K. O. Bullard and Lavern Cook have received applications for the jobs and have designated Mitchell Holloway and Milford Wright. Holloway will be sent to Conway for a week's training under Negro policemen of that city and will return as a regular, full-time officer. The other policeman will serve in a part-time capacity on week ends only.

Source: Probably Charleston News & Courier

Marion, SC

1 full time, uniform
1 part time, uniform

2

Jan. 1952

RECEIVED
FEB 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

RECEIVED
FEB 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Augusta, Ga.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	8
Number of Negro policewomen	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . Oct. 1, 1950 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Our colored policemen are assigned exclusively in colored sections and their work has been satisfactory up to the present time. There has been no outstanding incidents one way or the other since this program was instituted.

Date Feb. 5, 1952

Signed F. B. Green

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
FEB 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Morganton, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . Nov. 1, 1951 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date February 5, 1952

Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
FEB 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Talladega Ala.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1951 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date FEB 5 - 1952

Signed R D Rutledge

Position Chief,

RECEIVED
FEB 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Columbus Georgia

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1-1-52 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on	Indefinite (Date)

Comments To date their work has been satisfactory. all remarks by the public and officers alike have been complimentary.

Date Feb 7, 1952

Signed R. H. Martin,

Position Sgt. Records & Training

RECEIVED
FEB 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF ORLANDO, FLORIDA.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . January 3, 1951. (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Work has been satisfactory.

Date 7 February 1952

Signed C. M. Rodenbaugh

Position ACTING CHIEF OF POLICE.

RECEIVED
FEB 28 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF _____

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	____	____
Number of Negro policewomen	____	____

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments Guilford County has one full time deputy sheriff. This man was appointed about 15 months ago and is paid a salary. I am happy to say that he is doing a good job and is an asset to the department

Date Feb. 27, 1952 Signed John E. Walters

Position Sheriff
Guilford County
Greensboro N.C.

RECEIVED
FEB 29 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Nashville, Tenn.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes*
Number of Negro policemen	14 ~~12~~	none
Number of Negro policewomen *	12	none
This city has used Negro policemen since (Year)	1948
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on (Date) 	March 1, 1952

Comments *The 12 Negro Policewomen are school Traffic guards.

 We are hiring (2) more negro patrolmen March 1, 1952.

Date 2/28/52 Signed Paul D. Murray

Position Secty. Police Dept

*Please indicate functions of the plainclothes officers--deputies, juvenile delinquency officers, etc.

Juvenile Delinquency Officers do not work under this Dept but directly under the Juvenile Court - some of these are negroes.

RECEIVED
MAR 3 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF STILLWATER

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1	-
Number of Negro policewomen	-	-
This city has used Negro policemen since	1935 (Year)	-
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	- (Date)

Comments

Date Feb. 28, 1952

Signed Homer Boughton
Chief of Police

Position

RECEIVED
MAR 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	0	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments We contemplate employing negro policemen within 90 days. Number to be employed size range from 1 to 5 to start.

Date 3-5-52

Signed John E. Montgomery

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
MAR 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

COUNTY OF Davidson, Tenn. (Nashville)

	Uniform	Plainclothes*
Number of Negro ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ Deputies		7
Number of Negro policewomen		None

This county has used Negro ~~police~~ Deputies since . . . . . Sept. 14, 1952 (Year)

or

This county will hire Negro police on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

The City has employed several Negro Police. I am sorry I am unable to tell you how many, but Com. J. B. Milliron would be glad to give you that information.

Date

Signed Garner Robinson

Position Sheriff

*Please indicate functions of plainclothes officers--deputies, juvenile delinquency officers, etc.

RECEIVED
MAY 19 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Tallahassee, Fla.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	3
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	May 1, 1952 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments Men are being trained and have not yet been assifned to patrol duty

Date May 17, 1952

Signed W. E. Surlbert

Position Chief of Police

Princess Anne County Gets Negro Policeman

JRN & GUIDE 7-12-62

PRINCESS ANNE, Va. — In an unprecedented move last week, Princess Anne County swore in a Negro as a regular county police officer.

In a ceremony in the Circuit Court of Princess Anne County, last Saturday, R. H. West, deputy clerk of the court, swore in Mondoza Holloway, 48-year-old mechanic of London Bridge, Va., as a full-time county policeman.

* * *

OFFICER HOLLOWAY, a lifelong resident of Princess Anne County, is the father of three children; one daughter and two sons. They are: Mrs. Bernice Brown, Roland, 18, and Kevin, 4. They all reside with their father, and Mrs. Holloway, in London Bridge.

The new officer will receive his badge and begin his duties, which include the patrolling of the local beaches and all Negro communities and establishments in the county, on or about July 1, according to the court.

* * *

INSTRUMENTAL IN the appointment of the new county officer was the county's Citizens Committee, composed of leading Negro citizens of Princess Anne.

The committee, headed by W. Francis Taylor, Jr., hotel employee and H. L. Robinson, teacher at the Princess Anne County Training School, has been working on the project for several months.

Also sworn in on Saturday were six special officers, all Negroes, for the area beach patrols.

Princess Anne, Va. Princess Anne County

1 full time, uniform police
6 "Special Officers"

?

July 1, 1962

RECEIVED
JUL 22 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Chapel Hill, N.C.

Number of Negro firemen:

Officers..... _____

Other..... _____

Negro firemen work in

All Negro units _____ Negro neighborhoods _____

Mixed units _____ Mixed neighborhoods _____

This city has used Negro firemen since..... _____ (Year)

or

This city will employ Negro firemen on..... _____ (Date)

Comments

We employ 2 Negro policemen, but have no plans for employing any Negro firemen. The supt. of all of our outside labor force is a Negro.

Date July 21, 1952 Signed Thos D Rose

Position Town Manager

Beaufort Has Deputy Sheriff

Lighthouse

8/2/52

BEAUFORT — Beaufort county has now one deputy sheriff, first officer of the law within the race to been seen here in many years.

The deputy is Danny Brown, a veteran of World War Two, who has been on weekend duty at the Hunting Island State Park, sixteen miles east of Beaufort, since June 1. He works Saturdays and Sundays and on holidays.

In two months of service Deputy Brown reports he hasn't had to effect an arrest on his beat. "The people are pretty well behaved," he said. "Now and then I have had to speak to one or two fellows, but everybody down here seems to come out for a nice time and not for trouble. They've been real nice so far."

Beaufort, SC

Beaufort County

1 deputy sheriff

Aug. 2, 1952

1.

~~South~~ Lighthouse Carolina's Box Scores On Race Law Officers

4/2/52

With the reported additions of three patrolmen at Mullins and Sumter, total, and a deputy sheriff a Beaufort, South Carolina's unofficial total of Negro law enforcement personnel is something like this:

City	Officers
Beaufort (Deputy Sheriff)	1
Charleston (incl. 12 women)	19
Clover	1
Columbia	4
Conway, (incl. 1 Dep. Sheriff	3
Darlington	1
Dillon	1
Florence	3
Hartsville	1
Marion	1
Mullins	1
Rock Hill	2
Spartanburg	2
Summerton	1
Sumter	2
Timmonsville	1
Total: Cities 16	Officers 44

Sumter Gets Two Officers

SUMTER — Starting Friday of this week Sumter's first race police officers recalled here will begin patrol duty.

They are, Eddie Collins Gaillard and Charles Burns, who were chosen from among several applicants for the positions, and whose positions on the Sumter police department were created several monhs ago.

Also: sent to —
Princess Anne County,
Princess Anne, Va.

Beaufort, SC (county)
Dillon, SC
Hartsville, SC
Mullins, SC
✓Summerton, SC
✓Sumter, SC
Timmonsville, SC
✓Conway (Horry County, SC)
✓Lenior, NC (?)

Check on N police
Aug. 4 1952

✓ - 1952 confirmation

4-28-52

NEGRO POLICE IN THE SOUTH
(Supplement to NEW SOUTH listing, 1950)

Additions in cities already employing Negro police:

Chapel Hill — add 1 uniform (total 2)

✓ Augusta, Ga. — 2 uniformed police (making total of 8)

Atlanta, Ga. — 1 policewoman (making total of 7)

Memphis, Tenn. — 2 uniformed police (making total of 16)

omit

✓ Nashville, Tenn. — 7 " " (making total of 14)
12 policewomen (school)

Portsmouth, Va * — 3 " (school)

Daytona Beach, Fla — 1 "

Cities newly employing Negro police:

✓ Ocala, Fla. 11,741 — 1 uniformed police

✓ Orlando, Fla. 52,367 — 2 " "

✓ Tallahassee 27,237 — 3 " "

Wilson, N. C. — 2 " "

✓ Guilford County, N. C. — 1 plainsclothes (deputy sheriff)

Greenville, N. C. — 1 uniformed police

✓ Morgantown, N. C. — 2 " "

✓ Talladega, Ala. — 2 " "

✓ Columbus, Ga. — 2 " "

✓ Stillwater, Okla. — 1 " "

Marion, S. C.* 2-4-52 — 2 " " (1 part time)

✓ Davidson County, Tenn. — 7 plainsclothes (deputies)

✓ Rocky Mount, N. C. — 2 uniformed police

✓ Orangeburg SC — 2 "

*Press report, not confirmed by police chief

Lubbock

Waco

Grand totals:

STATES	CITIES	UNIFORMED	PLAINCLOTHES	POLICEWOMEN
13	90	410	51	34

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

October 4, 1950

NEGRO POLICEMEN IN SOUTHERN CITIES

You will be interested in this most recent tabulation of Southern towns and cities employing Negro policemen. It is based, insofar as possible, on firsthand correspondence with chiefs of police themselves. We are grateful for the cooperation of these officials in keeping an accurate record of this growing practice. The Southern Regional Council will welcome corrections or additions to its figures.

City	Negro Uniformed Policemen	Negro Plainclothesmen	Negro Policewomen
Dothan, Ala.	1
Hot Springs, Ark.	2
Little Rock, Ark.	6
Clearwater, Fla.		2
Cocoa, Fla.	1
*Dania, Fla.	1
Daytona Beach, Fla.	5
Deland, Fla.	2
*Fort Myers, Fla.	2
Gainesville, Fla.	2
*Jacksonville, Fla.	6
Key West, Fla.	2
Melbourne, Fla.	1
Miami, Fla.	39	1
Sanford, Fla.	2
St. Petersburg, Fla.	4
Tampa, Fla.	6
*West Palm Beach, Fla.	4
Atlanta, Ga.	12		6 (school)
1952 check ~~Macon, Ga.~~ Augusta, Ga	2
*Savannah, Ga.	10	4
Lexington, Ky.	2		1
Louisville, Ky.	21	6	2
Owensboro, Ky.	2
New Orleans, La.		2
Gulfport, Miss.	2
Indianola, Miss.	1
Ahoskie, N. C.	1
Asheville, N. C.	3
Burlington, N. C.	2
*Carrboro, N. C.	1
*Chapel Hill, N. C.	1
Charlotte, N. C.	10
Durham, N. C.	10
Fayetteville, N. C.	3
Gastonia, N. C.	5
Goldsboro, N. C.	2
Greensboro, N.C.	7
High Point, N. C.	4
Raleigh, N. C.	4		3 (school)
Reidsville, N. C.	2

City	Negro Uniformed Policemen	Negro Plainclothesmen	Negro Policewomen
Salisbury, N. C.	2
Winston Salem, N. C.	7
Muscogee, Okla.	2
*Oklahoma City, Okla.	7	5
Tulsa, Okla.	9	5	1
Charleston, S. C.	4
*Clover, S. C.	1
Columbia, S. C.	4
Conway, S. C.	2
*Darlington, S. C.	1
Florence, S. C.	2
Rock Hill, S. C.	2
Spartanburg, S. C.	1
Chattanooga, Tenn.	7		1
*Knoxville, Tenn.	9
*Memphis, Tenn.	14
1952 check (Nashville, Tenn.)	7
Amarillo, Tex.	2
Austin, Tex.	6
*Beaumont, Tex.	2
Corpus Christi, Tex.	2
Dallas, Tex.	4
El Paso, Tex.	4
*Galveston, Tex.	9	6
*Houston, Tex.	16	1
Orange, Tex.	2
*Port Arthur, Tex.	10
San Antonio, Tex.	7	4	1
Cape Charles, Va.	1
Newport News, Va.	7	1
Norfolk, Va.	3	5
Petersburg, Va.			1
Portsmouth, Va.	1
Richmond, Va.	7	1	1
Roanoke, Va.	6

	States	Cities	Uniform	Plainclothes	Policewomen
TOTALS:	13	76	363	43	17

* Information based on newspaper account or report from SRC member; not confirmed by Chief of Police in 1950.

Send also to —

SOUTHERN CITIES OF 50,000 or more population that are not on 1952 Negro police list

13

Alexandria, Va.

✓ Baton Rouge, La. No

Birmingham, Ala.

✓ Covington, Ky. No

✓ Fort Worth, Tex. No

✓ Gadsden, Ala. No

Laredo, Tex.

✓ Greenville, SC No

✓ Lubock, Tex. Yes

Montgomery, Ala.

San Angelo, Tex.

Shreveport, La.

✓ Waco, Tex. Yes

✓ Wichita Falls, Tex. No

Jackson, Miss.

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6
Number of Negro policewomen	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	1946 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Very satisfactory

Date August 5, 1952

Signed W. F. Peach
W. F. Peach
Position Chief of Police
Newport News, Virginia

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Greenville, S. C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	None
Number of Negro policewomen	None

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . --- (Date)

Comments _____

Date August 5th, 1952 Signed J H Jenkins Jr

Position CHIEF OF POLICE

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF GADSDEN, ALABAMA

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen
Number of Negro policewomen

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments This department has no negro policemen.

Date 8/5/52

Signed C. Fay Boman
C. Fay Boman

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Dothan, Ala.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1
Number of Negro policewomen	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . ~~Several years~~ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date 8-5-52 Signed Eddie D. Kelly

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Ocala, Florida

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1	None
Number of Negro policewomen	None	None

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . November 1, 1949 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments None

Date August 5, 1952

Signed K.C. Alvarez

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Daytona Beach, Fla.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6	-1
Number of Negro policewomen (part-time School Patrolwomen)	2	-
This city has used Negro policemen since	1930 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments The employing of colored police personnel in the Daytona Beach Police Department has proven most satisfactory, as records reveal that by selective employment, they are able to obtain certain information and produce more efficiency in general, with proper supervision

Date 8/5/52

Signed H. L. Allen

Position Acting Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Clearwater Fla

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since 7-1-1949 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on _____ (Date)

Comments _____

Date Aug. 5, 1952 Signed Jas. T. McClamma.

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Atlanta

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	12
Number of Negro policewomen . . . . . (8)	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	1948 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments 8 Negro School Traffic Policewomen work about 2½ hrs per day on days that schools are in session and are paid for days worked.

Date 8-5-52 Signed T. I. Jenkins

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF SAVANNAH, GEORGIA

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	9	3
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	May 15, 1947 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments Two plainclothes men used on raiding squad.
One plainclothes man used for colored juvenile delinquents.

Date August 5, 1952 Signed Capt. S. E. Baughn

Position Executive Officer

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF High Point, N. C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6
Number of Negro policewomen	1 (School)
This city has used Negro policemen since	~~x~~ 1943 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	? (Date)

Comments We also have one part time Negro Policeman at the colord park and a Negro woman ~~as~~ part time as a ~~EEN~~ School crossing Guard.

Date 8-5-52

Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Reidsville North Carolina

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen	0
This city has used Negro policemen since		August 1, 1950 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments _____

Date August 5,1952 Signed Maurice D Turner

Position Record Clerk

RECEIVED
AUG 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Spartanburg, S.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since (Year)	6/5/1950
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on (Date)

Comments These men work in Colored Section. Have done a very good job.

Date August 5, 1952 Signed Pearl L. Brice

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Rock Hill, S.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen	None

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . July 15, 1949 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date Aug. 5, 1952 Signed F. W. Wolfe

Position Chief of Detectives.

RECEIVED
AUG 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Orangeburg

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	✓ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . Aug. 15, 1952 (Date)

Comments We have employed 2 negro policemen who are now in process of training and are expected to be placed on six months probationary duty as of 8/15/52 There is apparently no reason why both men should not be qualified.

Date 8/5/52 Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

COUNTY OF Horry
(Conway, SC)

	Uniform	Plainclothes*
Number of Negro policemen	2	1 (Deputy).
Number of Negro policewomen

This county has used Negro police since . . . . . 1942 (Year)

or

This county will hire Negro police on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Service Satisfactory -

Date 8-5-52

Signed Watson B. McCottel

Position Deputy Sheriff - Horry Co.

*Please indicate functions of plainclothes officers--deputies, juvenile delin uency officers, etc.

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Conway, S. C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1947 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Negro Policemen have proved to be of great help in the Negro Section of the City.

Date Aug. 5, 1952

Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Sumter, S.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen		2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	August 1, 1952 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments Two Negro Police were put to work on the 1st of August.

Date August 5, 1952 Signed E. E. McIntosh

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 6 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Charlotte - N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	10
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1940 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments Replacements from Civil Service List. Draw same pay as White, same hours etc. Have been very satisfactory

Date 8-5-1952 Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police

CITY OF ST. PETERSBURG, FLORIDA

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4
Number of Negro policewomen	-
This city has used Negro policemen since	3½ yrs. (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	Yes. (Date)

Comments Since our hiring of colored officers, it is a proven fact that our crime has been cut down in the colored section considerably, as well as complaints. We will hire more colored officers when our budget will permit.

Date August 6, 1952

Signed J. R. Reichert

Position J. R. REICHERT
CHIEF OF POLICE

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF GAINESVILLE, Fla.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	3-1-46 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date 8-6-52

Signed William D. Joiner

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Little Rock, Arkansas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1942 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date July 6, 1952 Signed [illegible] Potts

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Miami

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	45	3
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	Sept. 1944 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments These negro policemen are doing good work among their own people. They are not allowed to police in the white sections of the city.

Date Aug. 6, 1952 Signed J. A. Youngblood

Position Ass't. Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF DELAND. FLORIDA.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1,	part time 1,
Number of Negro policewomen	None
This city has used Negro policemen since 1932. .		(Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on		(Date)

Comments At this time we have one full time and one part time Negro Police Officers

Date August 6, 1952 Signed Geo Stone

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Amarillo, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	0
Number of Negro policewomen

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments None

Date August 6, 1952

Signed John J. Amend

Position Inspector of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Galveston, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	11	4
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . About near of 1898
(Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . _____
(Date)

Comments; _____

Date 8-6-52

Signed Wm J. Whitburn

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF San Antonio

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	8	4
Number of Negro policewomen		None
This city has used Negro policemen since (Year)		1917

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on (Date) _____

Comments Work is satisfactory

Date August 6th, 1952

Signed R. D. Allen

Position Chief

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Petersburg Virginia

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen
Number of Negro policewomen		1
This city has used Negro ~~policemen~~ Policewoman since	October 16 1938 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

We have a Negro Policewoman but for several years have not employed a White Policewoman.

She has always been honest and courteous and has always performed Her duties in a most efficient manner with both Negro & White Persons.

Date 8-6-52 Signed Willard C. Taylor Sr.

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
National Council

CITY OF Roanoke, Virginia

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . since June 16, 1946 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments There will be no more employed for the time being as we only have appropriations for six unless one of the six we have would leave for some reason.

Date August 6, 1952 Signed F. H. Webb

Position Acting Supt. of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Fort Worth, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	None
Number of Negro policewomen	None

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . — (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments He do not plan to hire negro policemen in the near future.

Date 8-6-52

Signed Roland R. Howerton

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952

CITY OF Baton Rouge, La.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	0	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	none (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	Unknown (Date)

Comments

Date Aug. 6, 1952 Signed Fred C. Parker Jr.

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 13 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Covington, Kentucky.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	None	None
Number of Negro policewomen	None	None
This city has used Negro policemen since	Never (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	Cannot state (Date)

Comments _____

Date August, 6, 1952

Signed John Bonchor

Position Chief of Police, Covington, Kentucky,

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Summerton SC

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	none	none
Number of Negro policewomen	none	none

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments We have not had a negro policeman for 3 or 4 yrs.

Date 8/6/52

Signed Francis Davis

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Charleston

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	8	1
Number of Negro [redacted] women School Guards	6

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1897 to 1921 all 8/28/50 to date.
(Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . .
(Date)

Comments Negro women school guards first appointed 3/12/51 to date.

Date August 6, 1952

Signed Chris H. Ortmann
Chris H. Ortmann
Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Okla City Okla

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	13	5
Number of Negro policewomen	None
This city has used Negro policemen since	1930 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date 8-6-52

Signed Frank Thurston

Position Executive Secy Okla City Police Dept

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Greensboro, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	9	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . August 1, 1946 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments This department has one Negro officer with the rank of Traffic Investigator who is assigned full time as a driving instructor at Dudley High School.

Date August 6, 1952 Signed Peter L. Williamson

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Winston-Salem, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	11
Number of Negro policewomen	* 2
This city has used Negro policemen since	1941 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	* 3 WOMEN + 1 } as soon as possible approved in budget (Date)

Comments

Date 8/6/52

Signed James D Walker

Position Chief of Police

* School Guards
+ Parking meter checker

2

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Indianola, Miss.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen . . . One	X
Number of Negro policewomen	none
This city has used Negro policemen since	1950 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments Ben Satisfactory so far

Date 8-6-52 Signed W. Lone

Position Chief

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Ahoskie, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	1946 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments This man has proved very successful.

Date 8/6/52

Signed J. A. Bunch

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Fayetteville, N. C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	3
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	Oct. 1, 1949 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Very satisfactory.

Date August 6, 1952

Signed L. F. Worrell

Position L. F. WORRELL
Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Durham, N. C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	10	2
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	1944 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

Date August 6, 1952

Signed H. E. King

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4
Number of Negro policewomen		1

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . Approx. 10 years
(Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . .
(Date)

Comments All appointments to the Police Department are made by Civil Service examination, white and colored.

Date August 6th, 1952

Signed Dudley McCloy

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 8 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Macon Georgia

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4
Number of Negro policewomen

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . June 1948 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Have found use of Negro Police Officers very satisfactory. Hired 2 in June 1948 and on May 15-1952 hired 2 more

Date Aug 6/52 Signed Earl Watkins

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Sanford, Florida

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1
Number of Negro policewomen	None
This city has used Negro policemen since	1944 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date August 7, 1952

Signed Roy G. Williams
Roy G. Williams
Position Chief of Police
City of Sanford, Florida

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Richmond, Va.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	10	3
Number of Negro policewomen		1
This city has used Negro policemen since	May 1, 1946 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

Date Aug. 7, 1952 Signed R. Schwacher

Position Chief Clerk

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Norfolk, Va.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6	2
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 11/7/45 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date August 7, 1952

Signed C. H. Dalby

Position Acting Police Chief

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Waco, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1
Number of Negro policewomen	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1944 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date 8-7-52

Signed J. V. Gunterman

Position Chief of Police

By McCleavelin

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF EL PASO, TEXAS

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1945 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . ----- (Date)

Comments

Date August 7, 1952

Signed W. R. Vinson

Position Chief of Police

CITY OF EL PASO, TEXAS POLICE DEPARTMENT

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Tulsa.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	9	5
Number of Negro policewomen		1

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1915 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . No set date (Date)

Comments We find our negro officers very essential in working with their people.

Date Aug-7-1952 Signed Joe E Phillips

Position Captain of Police.

Tulsa. Oklahoma.

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Louisville, Ky.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	34	5
Number of Negro policewomen	[illegible]	2
This city has used Negro policemen since	1925 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments _____

Date Aug. 7, 1952

Signed Major Wm. G. Kiefer

Position Assistant Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Goldsboro, North Carolina

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1949 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments These two colored policemen are very good at their work. They are cooperative with other officers.

Date 8-7-52

Signed H A Lane

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 12 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF TAMPA FLA.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6	1
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1947 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date 8/8/52

Signed M. C. Beasley

Position Chief of Police.

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Jacksonville, Fla.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	July 1, 1950 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on	Unknown (Date)

Comments

Date August 8, 1952

Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 13 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Orange, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1943 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

Date August 8, 1952

Signed L. Herrington

Position Police Secretary, Records Clerk
Orange Police Department
Orange, Texas

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF LUBBOCK, TEXAS.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . November 16th, 1951.
(Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . .
(Date)

Comments We use Negro Policemen in two shifts - from 2 P.M. to 10 P.M. and 10 P.M. to 4 A.M. These men ride two to a car and work in the Negro Section of town only. We have found our trouble in Negro section has decreased a great deal since we are using Negro Officers and we are very pleased with the experiment.

Date August 8th, 1952

Signed Harold McInnes

Position Chief of Police

Lubbock, Texas.

RECEIVED
AUG 11 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF New Orleans, La.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	6
Number of Negro policewomen	0
This city has used Negro policemen since	6/16/50 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

These negro policemen are assigned to our Juvenile Bureau in plainclothes, but are uniformed men and do have uniforms and at times work in uniforms as well as plainclothes.

Date Aug. 8th, 1952

Signed Alva H Rankin

Position Asst. Supvr. of Personnel

RECEIVED
AUG 13 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Ft. Myers, Fla.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1936 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

Date Aug. 11, 1952

Signed George D. Ballman

Position Lt. Police Dept.

CITY OF Chattanooga Tenn

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	7	0
Number of Negro policewomen . . None
This city has used Negro policemen since	1948 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments They are used only among the Colored Race and are doing a very good job

Date 8-11-52

Signed E E Williams

Position Capt of Vice Squad

RECEIVED
AUG 14 1952
Southern Regional Council

RECEIVED
AUG 13 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Columbia, South Carolina

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	four (4)	none
Number of Negro policewomen	none	none

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments We feel that the colored policemen serve the department well in patroling the colored sections of the City.

Date August 11, 1952

Signed D. Campbell

Position D. J. Campbell, Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 12 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF BURLINGTON N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4
Number of Negro policewomen	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1949 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments

Date 8-11-52

Signed [illegible]

Position Chief of Police.

RECEIVED
AUG 15 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Wichita Falls, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen
Number of Negro policewomen

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments At the present time we do not employee any colored policemen. We have vacancies for two and started employing Negro Policemen in August 1951. They worked a little over 6 months and resigned and since then none have passed the Civil Service Examination. We now have several applicants who will take the test in the very near future.

Date 8-12-52

Signed C. C. Daniel, C. C. Daniel - Chief of Police
By. Secretary
Position

RECEIVED
AUG 18 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Corpus Christi, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1
Number of Negro policewomen	none
This city has used Negro policemen since	April 16, 1937 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments We would hire one more colored policeman but so far the ones that have taken the State Civil Service examination have not been able to qualify.

Date August 12, 1952

Signed James A. Grant

Position Ass't. Chief of Police
Police Department
Corpus Christi, Texas

RECEIVED
AUG 18 1952
Southern

CITY OF Lenoir, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	Aug 1st 1952 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	(Date)

Comments

Starting of Very satisfactory, Working in Colored section.

Date Aug 13 1952 Signed Stanley E. Fisher

Position Chief of Police

CITY OF Carrboro N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2 part time
Number of Negro policewomen
This city has used Negro policemen since	1949 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments They Do a Very good Job.

Date 8-13-52 Signed J. A. Williams

Position Chief.

RECEIVED
AUG 15 1952
National Council

RECEIVED
AUG 18 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF MELBOURNE (Fla.)

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	1
Number of Negro policewomen	NONE
This city has used Negro policemen since	1947 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments VERY GOOD

Date 8-14-52 Signed John H. Thomas

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 19 1952
Southern

CITY OF Asheville, North Carolina

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	3	0
Number of Negro policewomen	0	0

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . February 15, 1946 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments The hiring of Negro policemen has proven to be quite successful.

Date August 18, 1952 Signed C. C. Waddell

Position Chief of Police

CITY OF Dallas, Texas

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen.....	4
Number of Negro policewomen.....	0

This city has used Negro policemen since.... 2-10-47 (Date)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on..... _____ (Date)

Comments Proven Satisfactory

Date 8-14-50.

Signed [illegible]

Position Assistant Chief of Police.

RECEIVED
AUG 16 1950
Regional Council

CITY OF Gastonia, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	4	None
Number of Negro policewomen	0	"
This city has used Negro policemen since	1948 (Year)
or
This city will hire Negro policemen on	1 July, 1948 (Date)

Comments

Date 8/20/52

Signed A M Nunnery Deputy

Position Deputy Clerk of Municipal Court.

RECEIVED
AUG 26 1952
REGIONAL Southern Region

RECEIVED
AUG 25 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Port Arthur

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	None
Number of Negro policewomen	None	None

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1947 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . Unknown (Date)

Comments

Date 8-21-52

Signed G B Douglas

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
AUG 22 [illegible]
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Rocky Mount, N.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	None
Number of Negro policewomen	None	None

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1950 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . No opening (Date)

Comments Both men are doing a good job.

Date 9-12-52 Signed J. L. Nichols

Position Chief of Police

RECEIVED
OCT 20 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF Beaufort, S.C.

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	Two	None
Number of Negro policewomen	—	—

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . 1951 (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . (Date)

Comments Negro Policemen proves to be very helpful in our negro communities.

Date 10-17-52 Signed L P Blount

Position Chief of Police

U — 468
P — 60
W — 43
571

RECEIVED
OCT 27 1952

COUNTY OF Hamemond (Suffolk Va.)

	Uniform	Plainclothes*
Number of Negro policemen . . . . . One .		✓
Number of policewomen . . . . . None .

This county has used Negro police since 1948 (Year)

or

This county will hire Negro police on ✓ (Date)

Comments

Doing a very good job.

Date Oct 23-52

Signed J. H. Culpepper

Position Sheriff of Hamemond Co

*Please indicate functions of plainclothes officers: deputies, juvenile officers, etc.

RECEIVED
NOV 24 1952
Southern Regional Council

CITY OF KINSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

	Uniform	Plain Clothes
Number of Negro policemen	2	none
Number of Negro policewomen

This city has used Negro policemen since . . . . . _____ (Year)

or

This city will hire Negro policemen on . . . . . _____ (Date)

Comments Both are doing a good job in the negro district.

Date November 20, 1952

Signed Marion Haskins
Marion Haskins

Position Chief of Police

SEPTEMBER 1952
Vol. 7 No. 9
New South

All material presented in New South may be used freely by other publications. A credit line will be appreciated.

A Look at FEPC

By Chester S. Davis

FOUR initials—F-E-P-C—may hold the key to the presidency in November.

Those four initials arouse a strong emotional response among millions of Americans who have sometimes had obstacles placed in their way because of their race, color, religion or ancestry.

Those initials produce an equally strong response in a contrary direction from millions of Americans in the South.

Either of these two large groups may be able to sway the presidential election. That is why we are likely to hear a great deal about FEPC during the coming months.

Here in the South the great majority of the people do not like the prospect of a compulsory Fair Employment Practices Commission. But, like it or not, we must recognize the plain fact that there is a chance—perhaps a better than average chance—that we will have to live with such a law. For this is more than an issue over which politicians publicly wrangle and then, quietly in the smoke-filled rooms or, less quietly, in Senatorial filibusters, privately bury.

Today, 11 states and 22 cities have adopted FEPC laws and ordinances. Some 60 million Americans—roughly 40% of our people live in these states and cities. Our two great political parties, unequivocally in 1948 and somewhat timidly in 1952, have endorsed a national Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Under these circumstances it is time we took a long, hard look at the history and performance of fair employment practices legislation over the past ten years.

Until the outbreak of World War I, the Negroes, largest of the nation's minority groups, worked as farm tenants and laborers, small tradesmen, craftsmen and domestic servants. Few held jobs in industry.

Because of the tight labor supply created by World War I, many Negroes found jobs in war production. But, because they worked on the edge of the economy, they did not hold their gains in the post-war years. They were the last hired and the first fired, and by 1940 there were proportionately fewer Negroes in mining, manufacturing, trade and transportation than had been the case in 1910.

This able analysis of the issues involved in fair employment legislation is reprinted, with permission, from the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel. Chester S. Davis is a staff writer for that newspaper.

To varying degrees the story of the Negroes also was the story of the other racial minorities; the Mexicans in the Southwest, the Chinese and Japanese on the West Coast, the Italians, Slavs, Jews, Puerto Ricans and others in the large cities.

When World War II broke out in 1939, the Negro leaders anticipated another opportunity to get their toe in the industrial door. But that opportunity did not come. As late as the summer of 1941, Negroes held only 2.5% of the jobs in industries working on defense and lend-lease production.

Led by A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, the Negroes threatened to "March on Washington" and protest this discrimination.

PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER

President Franklin D. Roosevelt checked that threat on June 25, 1941, by issuing his famous Executive Order 8802. In that order the President banned discrimination for reasons of race, color, creed or national origin in all industries working on government contracts. . . .

It is unfair to report that this Executive Order was issued solely for the expedient purpose of cutting off an embarrassing demonstration by the Negroes. There was more behind it than that.

In 1941, we were edging towards war with Hitler's Germany. One of the factors pushing us was the fury aroused by the Nazi's brutal racial tyranny. It was fitting that the Federal government, the nation's largest employer and keeper of the national conscience, should renounce racial discrimination as a violation of the American creed of equal opportunity.

The war-time Federal Employment Practices Commission was the outgrowth of Executive Order 8802. The Commission had only the power to spotlight instances of discrimination with publicity and invoke (although it never did) the anti-discrimination clause found in all government contracts.

INCREASED JOB OPPORTUNITY

In the period of 1941-45, the job picture for Negroes and other minority groups brightened considerably. The number of Negro women holding clerical jobs went up to five times what it had been in 1940. By 1944, Negroes held 20% of the Federal departmental jobs in Washington. . . .

For the first time large numbers of Negro workers moved into the skilled and semi-skilled jobs and even into white collar positions.

During that period the FEPC in Washington tackled 13,000 cases. Some of them involved individuals, others involved hundreds and even thousands of workers. Most of those cases — some 8,000 — were dismissed because of lack of jurisdiction or a lack of evidence. The other 5,000 were settled on a voluntary basis.

In 1946, this voluntary FEPC program was killed by Congress. The act which did this, however, did not put an end to the Federal government's fight against discrimination.

Today, the Civil Service Commission has a part-time Fair Employment Board. The heads of the various Federal agencies have fair employment officers to advise them. The Department of Defense has continued to attack discrimination in the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Corps.

In December, 1951, President Harry S. Truman created an 11-member Committee on Contract Compliance. This Committee, like the original FEPC, is designed to combat job discrimination based on race, color, creed or national origin in industries working on Government contracts.

All programs, while they are significant, essentially are of an advisory, voluntary nature and they fall far short of an enforceable fair employment practices act.

Ever since 1944, compulsory FEPC laws have been introduced in Congress. Without exception those bills have been blocked by a combination of Southern Democrats, conservative Northern Republicans and that windy weapon known as the filibuster.

CURRENT FEPC BILL

The FEPC bill now pending in Congress was introduced by Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.). This law would apply to any employer hiring 50 or more persons. In order to encourage action by the states, the Humphrey law provides that the Federal government will cede its jurisdiction in those states deemed to have adequate FEPC legislation.

With both the Democratic and Republican parties on record as favoring some sort of fair employment practices law it seems certain that the struggle in Congress over national FEPC legislation will continue and grow increasingly bitter.

In the meantime, the drive for FEPC legislation is gaining ground at the local level. Eleven states (New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Indiana, Wisconsin, Oregon, Washington, Colorado and New Mexico) have adopted fair employment laws. And in the non-FEPC states there are 22 cities — the list includes Chicago, Philadelphia, Minneapolis and Cleveland — with fair employment ordinances.

Judging from the record, these local laws are in part the reflection of a desire to put an end to discrimination in the employment field. But they also reflect an awareness of the fact, best stated by Ralph Waldo Emerson, that "The peoples of the world cannot hear what we say because what we do keeps dinning in their ears."

WORLD-WIDE STRUGGLE

For the past 10 years, the United States and Russia have been engaged in a vast struggle for the allegiance of the minds of men. This struggle is being conducted in a world in which the colored peoples make up roughly 65% of the total population.

In 1944, Wendell Willkie neatly pinned down the issue when he said, "We, as Americans, cannot be on one side abroad and on the other at home. We cannot expect small nations and men of other races and colors to credit the good faith of our professed purpose and to join us in international collaboration for future peace if we continued to practice an ugly discrimination at home against our own minorities."

Since 1944, Russia has hammered unceasingly at this lag between our professed ideals and our day to day practices. John Foster Dulles, former American delegate to the United Nations, puts it this way, "The weakest point in our relations in the United Nations is prejudice in this country.

The American delegation has decided simply to admit it and say we're trying to do something about it."

Until 1941, we tackled the problem of discrimination almost solely through education, hoping that understanding and tolerance would check discrimination. Since 1941 — and particularly since 1945 when New York adopted the first enforceable FEPC law — the problem has been attacked directly and frontally through anti-discrimination legislation.

The laws vary greatly. At least one (that in Akron, Ohio) is merely a statement of public policy. There are others in Indiana and Wisconsin, for example, that are designed along voluntary, educational lines. In Colorado and in several cities the laws carry compulsory features for public employers but are voluntary insofar as private employers are concerned.

MODEL NEW YORK LAW

But most of the laws apply to all employers and the anti-discrimination orders that are issued can be enforced in the courts. The New York law has been a model for most of the legislation in this field.

That law applies to labor unions, public and private employers and employment agencies.

Under the New York law:

1. It is illegal to discriminate in hiring, firing or promoting individuals for reasons of race, color, creed or national origin.
2. It is illegal for a labor union to discriminate in the rights and privileges of members for reasons of race, color, creed or national origin.
3. It is illegal to specify race, color, creed or national origin as a condition of employment in any advertisement or application form.
4. It is illegal for employees to refuse to work with members of a minority group.
5. It is illegal to discriminate against a person bringing an action under the anti-discrimination law.

The New York law is administered by a five-member State Commission Against Discrimination. This Commission can:

1. Receive and investigate complaints of discrimination.
2. Call conferences for the purpose of mediation and conciliation.
3. When conciliation fails, subpoena witnesses and hold public hearings.
4. Issue cease and desist orders (and orders for back pay) that are enforceable in the courts.

All acts of the Commission are subject to court review.

For the past 10 years we have had a vast war and postwar economic boom. The labor market has stayed tight and for that reason the Negroes and other minority groups have gained ground and held that ground.

While these gains have occurred in all states, there is evidence indicating that the gains have been greatest — both in the quantity and the quality of the jobs available to members of minority groups — in areas with FEPC laws. . . .

GAINS UNDER FAIR EMPLOYMENT LAWS

Surveys made in both FEPC and non-FEPC states indicate that in areas covered by anti-discrimination laws more industries report that they employ Negroes and, most important, more industries report that they hire Negroes in semi-skilled, skilled and white collar positions.

But the difference between FEPC and non-FEPC states, while it is clearly apparent, is not as spectacular as you might expect. That fact indicates that these laws have been administered with great care. They have not been used crudely to blast open places in the economy for the minority groups. In the opinion of many minority group spokesman, the progress has been too slow.

Thus far the 11 states with FEPC legislation have handled only 5,000 cases. [Nothing like the flood of complaints that was predicted has occurred.] Roughly 70% involved color or race, 16% involved religion, 8% national origin and 6% a variety of causes.

FEW COURT CASES

Fears that an FEPC law would lead to a mass of shyster-sponsored lawsuits have not proved justified. Of the 5,000 verified cases handled over the past seven years in the 11 FEPC states, only five have reached the public hearing stage and, of those, only four have gone on into the courts. One of the lawsuits (Railway Mail Association vs. Corsi) was carried to the U. S. Supreme Court where fair employment practices legislation was ruled to be a legitimate exercise of the state police power.

One of the most interesting phases of this FEPC development has been the reaction of the employers.

In the beginning employers vigorously fought proposed FEPC legislation. They feared that such laws would deprive them of a fundamental managerial right. They feared a flood of lawsuits. They feared the reaction of their white employees and they feared the reaction of the public.

The state and local chambers of commerce, retail merchants associations and manufacturers associations have opposed FEPC legislation where it has been proposed. So have many of the labor unions, particularly AFL unions and the Railway Brotherhoods.

But where an FEPC law has been adopted in the face of such formidable opposition the results have, in the words of a spokesman for the New York Chamber of Commerce, "confounded its opponents and surprised its friends."

PRAISE FROM BUSINESSMEN

A number of top U. S. corporations have publicly praised these laws.

So have business executives of the caliber of Charles Wilson (General Electric), William Batt (SKF Industries), Henry Luce (Life-Time-Fortune), Spyros P. Skouras (20th Century Fox), Charles Luckman (Lever Brothers) and others.

On February 25, 1950, Business Week announced the results of a survey made among businessmen in FEPC states and cities. The gist of the findings was, "Employers agree that FEPC laws haven't caused near the fuss that opponents predicted. . . . Some employers still think that there is no need for a law. But even those who opposed FEPC aren't actively hostile now."

It must, however, be recognized that this record of performance has occurred in Northern states. Whether you would have the same results if similar anti-discrimination rules were enforced in the South is a hotly disputed matter.

Certainly it is beyond the scope of this article to attempt to answer that question. However, by a discussion of some of the pros and cons involved in

(Continued on page 7)

NEGRO POLICE IN THE SOUTH, 1952

City	Uniformed Police	Plainclothes	Policewomen
Dothan, Ala.	1
Talladega, Ala.	2
Hot Springs, Ark.	2
Little Rock, Ark.	6
Clearwater, Fla.	2
Daytona Beach, Fla.	6	1	2 (School)
Deland, Fla.	1	1
Ft. Myers, Fla.	2
Gainesville, Fla.	2
Jacksonville, Fla.	6
Key West, Fla.	2
Melbourne, Fla.	1
Miami, Fla.	45	3
Ocala, Fla.	1
Orlando, Fla.	2
St. Petersburg, Fla.	4
Sanford, Fla.	1
Tallahassee, Fla.	3
Tampa, Fla.	6	1
West Palm Beach, Fla.	4
Atlanta, Ga.	12		8 (School)
Augusta, Ga.	8
Columbus, Ga.	4
Macon, Ga.	4
Savannah, Ga.	9	3
Lexington, Ky.	4		1
Louisville, Ky.	34	5	2
Owensboro, Ky.	2
New Orleans, La.	6
Gulfport, Miss.	2
Indianola, Miss.	1
Ahoski, N. C.	1
Asheville, N. C.	3
Burlington, N. C.	4
Carrboro, N. C.	2
Chapel Hill, N. C.	2
Charlotte, N. C.	10
Durham, N. C.	10	2
Fayetteville, N. C.	3
Gastonia, N. C.	4
Goldsboro, N. C.	2
Greensboro, N. C.	9
Greenville, N. C.	1
Guilford County, N. C.		1	(Deputy Sheriff)
Highpoint, N. C.	6		1 (School)
Lenoir, N. C.	2
Morganton, N. C.	2
Raleigh, N. C.	4		3 (School)
Reidsville, N. C.	2
Rocky Mount, N. C.	2
Salisbury, N. C.	2
Wilson, N. C.	2
Winston-Salem, N. C.	11		2 (School)
Muskogee, Okla.	2
Oklahoma City, Okla.	13	5
Stillwater, Okla.	1
Tulsa, Okla.	9	5	1
Beaufort County, S. C.		1	(Deputy Sheriff)
Charleston, S. C.	8	1	6 (School)
Clover, S. C.	1
Columbia, S. C.	4
Conway, S. C.	2
Darlington, S. C.	1
Dillon, S. C.	1
Florence, S. C.	3
Hartsville, S. C.	1
Horry County, S. C.	2	1	(Deputy Sheriff)
Marion, S. C.	2
Mullins, S. C.	1
Orangeburg, S. C.	2
Rock Hill, S. C.	2
Spartanburg, S. C.	2
Sumter, S. C.		2
Timmonsville, S. C.	1
Chattanooga, Tenn.	7
Davidson County, Tenn.		7	(Deputies)
Knoxville, Tenn.	9
Memphis, Tenn.	16
Nashville, Tenn.	14		12 (School)
Amarillo, Tex.	2
Austin, Tex.	6
Beaumont, Tex.	2
Corpus Christi, Tex.	1
Dallas, Tex.	4

City	Uniformed Police	Plainclothes	Policewomen
El Paso, Tex.	4
Galveston, Tex.	11	4
Houston, Tex.	16	1
Lubbock, Tex.	4
Orange, Tex.	2
Port Arthur, Tex.	2
San Antonio, Tex.	8	4
Waco, Tex.	1
Newport News, Va.	6
Norfolk, Va.	6	2
Petersburg, Va.			1
Portsmouth, Va.	1		3 (School)
Princess Anne County, Va.	1	6
Richmond, Va.	10	3	1
Roanoke, Va.	6

	States	Cities	Counties	Uniform	Plainclothes	Policewomen
TOTALS	13	94	5	466	59	43

A Look at FEPC

(Continued from page 5)

this controversy, it is possible to provide you with material from which you may be able to fashion some conclusion in your own mind.

Businessmen are particularly fearful that FEPC legislation will deprive them of the right to hire, fire and promote within their own organization.

The FEPC laws deny that right where the hiring, firing or promoting is based on discriminatory reasons of race, color or creed.

The employer is free to set his own standards. He can set them as high as he likes so long as they are reasonable and based on the skill required. Once those standards are set, the FEPC then seeks to assure that they are applied fairly to all applicants, regardless of their color, race or religion.

The FEPC does not, for example, attempt to tell an employer that he must hire so many Negroes or Jews. It does not attempt to tell him which individuals can be hired, fired or promoted. These laws are carefully designed so that they do not protect incompetents.

The purpose of FEPC laws is to guarantee — insofar as is possible — that jobs will be filled on the basis of individual merit and not on a basis of race, religion or color.

It is said, and with a good deal of justification, that an FEPC law marks the breakdown of the entire system of racial segregation. That fact — and it is a fact — is one of the great stumbling blocks in the South.

In FEPC states like New York and Connecticut, the anti-discrimination commissions work in many other fields than employment. They are combating discrimination in the National Guard, in public schools, in public housing and in the use of such public accommodations as hotels and restaurants.

Southern states certainly will balk at extending anti-discrimination laws into those areas.

Another common argument against FEPC legislation is, "You cannot legislate against prejudice."

That really isn't a relevant argument. Prejudice is a personal matter. The FEPC laws are focused on discrimination which is a public manifestation of prejudice.

Of course these laws will not erase prejudice. They aren't intended to do so any more than a law against murder is intended to erase the act of murder. FEPC laws, like murder laws, are intended to make the overt act

SRC ANNUAL MEETING

The Executive Committee of the Southern Regional Council, at its meeting of September 27, postponed the annual membership meeting until Wednesday, February 11, 1953. The Board of Directors will meet on Tuesday, February 10.

— in this case, the act of discrimination — less common.

They place a clear-cut public ban on discrimination. Today racial discrimination is, at least by implication, sanctioned in non-FEPC states. . . .

RACIAL ANTAGONISMS?

There are those who argue that an FEPC, by creating job competition between the races, will arouse racial antagonisms.

The CIO, an organization that certainly is interested in that possibility, strongly favors FEPC legislation. Instead of creating greater competition for the same number of jobs, many CIO leaders feel that an FEPC will create more jobs by enabling a large part of the population to increase their earnings and, thereby, enlarge their buying power.

In the South, even among the leading liberal spokesmen, there is a strong belief that the desired goals can be reached through a voluntary program based on education rather than through a compulsory law.

There is no question that progress is being made against discrimination on a voluntary basis. In Winston-Salem, for example, the fact that we have Negro policemen and firemen is evidence of such progress. Some large corporations with plants in the South, the International Harvester and the Firestone Tire and Rubber plants in Memphis, for instance, have voluntarily banned discrimination in their employment programs.

The question raised by proponents of FEPC legislation is whether the pace of this voluntary progress is sufficiently rapid.

In Cleveland, business leaders, in an effort to head off a proposed FEPC ordinance, launched a rather large-scale anti-discrimination educational campaign in 1950-51. That campaign, while it was widely publicized, accomplished very little in the way of removing discrimination in employment. As a result, Cleveland dropped the voluntary approach and turned to a compulsory FEPC law.

In the South the great question-mark rises from the impact a compulsory FEPC law will have on a society where racial prejudices are powerful and deep-seated.

The fact that FEPC laws have worked with surprisingly little friction in the large Northern cities and in all parts of the nation, excepting the South, does not answer that question.

NEW SOUTH
Published by
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Marion A. Wright	President
Carter Wesley	Vice-President
Gordon B. Hancock	Vice-President
Alfred D. Mynders	Vice-President
A. W. Dent	Vice-President
Charles S. Johnson	Chmn. Exec. Com.
Leonard Haas	Counsel
George S. Mitchell	Executive Director
Miss Katherine Stoney	Sec.-Treas.
Mrs. M. E. Tilly	Women's Work
Harold C. Fleming	Dir. of Information

Subscription rate $1.50 a year

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, SEPTEMBER, 1952

To attain through research and action programs the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the region.

Note re Negro police:

Of the 58 cities in the South with a population of 50,000 or more 45 have Negro police; one of the 13 not employing Negro police generally does, but at present no Negroes have passed civil service exam to fill the two vacancies (Wichita Falls, Tex.)

AH

The Southern PACKET

BOOK LIST

A reprint of 215 titles reviewed or listed from

June 1945 through December 1946

The listings are printed as they originally appeared, with month and year added to show the issue if reviewed in the Packet.

Biography

LILLIE OF SIX-SHOOTER JUNCTION. By Florence Guild Bruce. The Naylor Co. 1946. 232 pp. $3.00. Biography of Lillie Drennan, first licensed woman truck operator in Texas, with much background material on the section of Texas in which she lives.

JAMES MONROE. By W. P. Cresson. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 577 pp. $5.00

SEARGENT S. PRENTISS, WHIG ORATOR OF THE OLD SOUTH. By Dallas C. Dickey. Louisiana State University Press. 1945. 412 pp. $4.00. A prominent name of the 1830-45 period in Mississippi. r. 12-45.

PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. The Dietz Press, Inc. 1944. 69 pp. Paper. Portraits and Biographies of presidents through Franklin D. Roosevelt.

JAMES BOWIE: THE LIFE OF A BRAVO. By C. L. Douglas. Banks, Upshaw and Co. $2.00. The story of the wielder of the famous knife.

THOMAS JEFFERSON, AMERICAN TOURIST. Edward Dumbauld. University of Oklahoma Press. 1946. 266 pp. $3.00. r. 12-46.

MY AUNT LOUISA AND WOODROW WILSON. By Margaret Axson Elliott. University of North Carolina Press. 1944. 302 pp. $3.00. Recollections of a niece who lived in the Wilson household. r. 10-45.

THE JOURNAL OF PHILIP VICKERS FITHIAN. Edited with an introduction by Hunter Dickinson Farish. The Dietz Press. $4.00. Diary of a plantation tutor depicting the social and economic life of Colonial Virginia during the "Golden Age."

A GEORGIA LAWYER. By Stirling Price Gilbert. The University of Georgia Press. 1946. 257 pp. $3.00. Judge S. P. Gilbert. r. 11-46.

NINETY BITS OF NORTH CAROLINA BIOGRAPHY. By C. H. Hamlin. Published by the author. 148 pp. $2.00, cloth binding. $1.25, flexible binding.

WHEN WE'RE GREEN WE GROW. By Jane Simpson McKimmon. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 353 pp. Illustrated with photographs. The pioneer of home demonstration agents in N. C. r. 7-45.

LINCOLN'S OTHER MARY. By Olive Carruthers and R. Gerald McMurty. Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. 1946. 229 pp. $2.50. r. 12-46.

THE FERGUSONS OF TEXAS. By Ouida Ferguson Nalle. The Naylor Co. 1946. 272 pp. $3.00. To be reviewed.

THE JOURNAL OF ANDREW LEARY O'BRIEN. The University of Georgia Press. 1946. 76 pp. $1.50. An Irish schoolmaster in Georgia, 1840-1860. r. 5-46.

BELLE BOYD, CONFEDERATE SPY. By Louis A. Sigaud. The Dietz Press, Inc., second edition. 1945. 254 pp. 9 photographs. $3.00. r. 6-45.

PITCHFORK BEN TILLMAN: SOUTH CAROLINIAN. By Francis Butler Simpkins. Louisiana State University Press. 1944. 577 pp. Illustrated. $4.50 South Carolina's colorful champion of the people. r. 6-45.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS. By Rudolph Von Abele. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. 1946. 337 pp. $4.00. A biography of the outstanding Southern statesman and leader who became Vice-President of the Confederacy. r. 11-46.

WANDERING IN THE WILDERNESS. By E. J. C. Wood. Compiled by William Elliott Wood. Dietz Printing Co. 1945. 288 pp. $3.00. Journal of life in South Carolina, 1852-94, largely personal.

Domestic Arts

THE CREOLE KITCHEN COOK BOOK. By Virginia M. Cooper. The Naylor Co. 1946. 248 pp. $2.50. r. 6-46.

GAY NINETIES COOK BOOK. Compiled, written, and done by F. Meredith Dietz and August Dietz, Jr. The Dietz Press, Inc. 1945. 318 pp. $3.00. "Recipes from books of the 1890's, favorite dishes, etiquette for ladies and gentlemen." Profusely illustrated. r. 12-45.

KEEP YOURSELF IN STITCHES. By Dolores Boland. Drawings by Gertrude Dwyer. Dietz Press. 79 pp. Paper. $1.00. Clever suggestions for the women who want to make smart accessories for their costumes.

BEVERAGES AND SAUCES OF COLONIAL VIRGINIA. By Laura C. Fitchett. William Byrd Press. $2.00.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF NORTH CAROLINA. Edited by York Kiker. State Dept. of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C. 1945. 128 pp. Paper. 40c. Tested recipes featuring dairy products.

CONCHA'S MEXICAN KITCHEN COOK BOOK. By Catharine Ulmer Stoker. The Naylor Co. 1946. 244 pp. $3.00.

Education

UNIVERSAL EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH. By Charles William Dabney. University of North Carolina Press. 1936. 2 Vols. $3.75 each.

THE LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE, SOUTHERN STYLE. By Edwin R. Embree. Published by the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago. 1938. 25 pp. Paper. Gratis.

THE HUMANITIES AND THE COMMON MAN. By Norman Foerster. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 60 pp. $1.50. r. 4-46.

FOREVER GROWING, SOME NOTES ON A CREDO FOR TEACHERS. By Paul Green. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 42 pp. $1.50. r. 1-46.

EDUCATION FOR FREEDOM. By Robert M. Hutchins. Louisiana State University Press.

1943. 108 pp. $1.50. Part of the Edward Douglass White lectures at Louisiana State University by the President of the University of Chicago, with additional material.

A STATE UNIVERSITY SURVEYS THE HUMANITIES. Edited by L. C. MacKinney et al. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 273 pp.. $4.00. Seventeen essays on the humanities in relation to varied fields of college study. r. 12-45.

THE FRUIT OF THIS TREE. By Charles Morgan. Berea College. 1946. 268 pp. $2.50. Background and beliefs which shaped this unusual college. r. 12-46.

BUILDING A BETTER SOUTHERN REGION THROUGH EDUCATION. Edited by Edgar L. Morphet, with the assistance of the Co-ordinators, Chairmen and Executive Committee. The Southern States Works-Conference on School Administratiive Problems. Tallahassee, Fla. 1945. 434 pp. Paper. $1.50. Cloth $2.50. r. 9-45.

SECONDARY EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH. Edited by W. Carson Ryan, J. Minor Gwynn, Arnold R. King. The University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 269 pp. $3.00. The story since the Civil War, thoroughly told. r. 5-46.

LIFE AT SAINT MARY'S. Edited by Katherine Batts Salley. University of North Carolina Press. 1942. 300 pp. $2.50. One Hundredth Anniversary publication of well-known Southern junior college.

The Southern PACKET
Published by
THE STEPHENS PRESS
48 Walnut Street, Asheville, N.C.
Virginia Terrell Lathrop, Editor
Hugh Stanard Don C. Shoemaker
Burnley Weaver, Art Director
George Myers Stephens, Publisher
MONTHLY, $1 per year, 3 years for $2
Entered as second-class matter March 22, 1946, at the post office at Asheville, N. C., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Economics and Sociology

THE SHORE DIMLY SEEN. By Ellis Gibbs Arnall. J. P. Lippincott Company. 1946. 312 pp. $3.00. Ideas, economic, social and political, by Georgia's dynamic governor 1942-46.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS IN THE SOUTHEASTERN STATES IN 1944. By Roscoe Arant. U. S. Department of Commerce. Regional Office: 801 East Broad St., Room 2, Richmond 19, Virginia. 9 pp. Gratis. Paper.

COMMUNITIES FOR LIVING. By F. Stuart Chapin, Jr., in collaboration with Sam Schiller. The University of Georgia Press. 56 pp. 60c. Paper. Physical planning considerations in all kinds of communities, designed to meet postwar problems. Photographs, maps, and charts.

RESEARCH AND REGIONAL WELFARE. Edited by Robert E. Coker. The University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 229 pp. $3.00. Papers from the Southern Research Conference at Chapel Hill, 1945. r. 6-46.

A COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION PROGRAM FOR SMALL COMMUNITIES. By Dan R. Davis. Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. Paper. Six Pages. 1945. Gratis.

WANTEDS A HEALTHY SOUTH. By Dorothy Dickens. Southern Regional Council, Inc. 33 pp. Paper. 25c. r. 9-46.

SOUTHERN PLANTATIONS: A STUDY IN THE DEVELOPMENT AND THE ACCURACY OF A TRADITION. By Francis Pendleton Gaines. Columbia University Press. 1942. 243 pp. $2.50.

DEEP SOUTH. By Allison Davis, Burleigh Bradford Gardner, and Mrs. Mary R. Gardner. University of Chicago Press. 1942. 558 pp. $4.50.

INDUSTRALIZATION AS A MEANS TO SOUTHERN PROGRESS. Institute of Citizenship. Emory University. Georgia State Engineering Experiment Station. 1940. 16 pp. 10c. Paper. (Publications of the Georgia School of Technology.)

ECONOMIC HISTORY OF THE SOUTH. By Emory Quinter Hawk. Prentice-Hall, Inc. 1934 557 pp. $5.00.

OUR COMMON MOORING. By Ellis F. Hartford. The University of Georgia Press. 1941. 83 pp. Prepared for the Advisory Panel on Regional Materials of Instruction for the Tennessee Valley.

SOUTHERN INDUSTRY AND REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT. By Harriet L. Herring. University of North Carolina Press. 1940. 103 pp. $1.00. A working manual for planning groups and chambers of commerce. r. 8-45.

THE WASTED LAND. By Gerald W. Johnson. University of North Carolina Press. 1938. 110 pp. $1.50. A commentary on Odum's Southern Regions. r. 8-45.

BLUE BOOK OF SOUTHERN PROGRESS, 1943-1944. Manufacturer's Record Publishing Co. 2 v. 1943. $1.00, 1944. $2.00. Paper.

INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION IN THE SOUTH. By Broadus Mitchell and George Mitchell. Johns Hopkins University Press. 1930. 298 pp. $2.75.

I'LL TAKE MY STAND: THE SOUTH AND THE AGRARIAN TRADITION. By 12 Southerners. Harpers. 1930. 359 pp. $3.00.

PRODUCTION CREDIT FOR SOUTHERN COTTON GROWERS. By A. E. Nielsen. King's Crown Press. 1946. 198 pp. $2.50. Paper.

FORTY ACRES AND STEEL MULES. By Herman Clarence Nixon. University of North Carolina Press. 1938. 98 pp. $2.50. Photographs from the Division of Information of the Farm Security Administration.

POSSUM TROT, RURAL COMMUNITY, SOUTH. By Herman Clarence Nixon. University of Oklahoma Press. 1942. 192 pp. $2.50.

YOUR CHILDREN, TOO. Southern Conference For Human Welfare, 506 Presbyterian Bldg.,

Nashville 3, Tenn. 1945. 26 pp. Paper. 10c. A simple statement of labor union aims in terms of children and their future in the South. Excellent photographs.

THE SOUTH: AMERICA'S OPPORTUNITY NUMBER ONE. Southern Regional Council, 63 Auborn Ave. NE, Atlanta, Ga. 44 pp. 50c. Six prominent economists analyze agriculture, labor, small industry, markets, foreign trade, freight rates, and housing for the post-war South.

ALL THESE PEOPLE. By Rupert B. Vance, in collaboration with Nadia Danilevsky. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 503 pp. $5.00. A monumental study of population characteristics. r. 7-46.

HOW THE OTHER HALF IS HOUSED: A PICTORIAL RECORD OF SUB-MINIMUM FARM HOUSING IN THE SOUTH. By R. B. Vance. University of N. C. Press. 1936. 16 pp. 15c. Paper. (Southern Policy Papers, No. 4.)

HUMAN GEOGRAPHY OF THE SOUTH; A STUDY IN REGIONAL RESOURCES AND HUMAN ADEQUACY. By Rupert Bayliss Vance. 2nd ed. University of North Carolina Press. 1935. 369 pp. $2.50. (The University of North Carolina Social Study series.)

NEW FARM HOMES FOR OLD. A Study of Rural Public Housing in the South. By Rupert B. Vance and Gordon W. Blackwell, with the collaboration of Howard G. McClain. University of Alabama Press. 1946. 245 pp. (including 187 statistical tables). $3.00. r. 11-46.

PLANNING FOR THE SOUTH: AN INQUIRY INTO THE ECONOMICS OF REGIONALISM. By John Van Sickle. Vanderbilt University Press. 1943. 255 pp. $2.75. Regional planning and the influence of recent population and legislative changes. r. 8-45.

WANTED: THE SOUTH'S FUTURE FOR THE NATION. By Rupert B. Vance. Southern Regional Council, Inc. 30 pp. Paper. 25 cents. The final chapter of All These People. r. 6-46.

PUBLIC WORKS, ECONOMIC STABILIZATION AND THE RURAL SOUTH. By John Valentine Van Sickle. Vanderbilt University Press. 1942. 33 pp. 35c. Paper. (Vanderbilt University Institute of Research and Training in the Social Sciences. Papers No. 2.)

NEW DOMINION SERIES. University of Virginia Extension Division, Charlottesville, Virginia. The leaflets in this series are published monthly January-June and twice monthly July-December, and are distributed free of charge. Series describes experimental approaches to democratic living as practiced in various communities. These are well-written, interesting pamphlets. Representative titles: No. 4, Planning Tomorrow's Community; No. 11, A Planned Rural Community.

MISSISSIPPI FARMERS. By Herbert Weaver. Vanderbilt University Press. 1945. 139 pp. $2.50. A second book resulting from a group of studies on the plain people of the Old South.

FREEDOM UNDER PLANNING. By Barbara Wootton. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 180 pp. $2.00. Planning that makes for freedom of enterprise by alleviating unemployment and inadequate income conditions. r. 1-46.

CHANNELING RESEARCH INTO EDUCATION. By John Eli Ivey. Published by the American Council on Education, Washington, D. C. 1944. 187 pp. $1.50.

EDUCATE A WOMAN: FIFTY YEARS OF LIFE AT THE WOMAN'S COLLEGE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA. Compiled by Virginia Terrell Lathrop. University of North Carolina Press. 1942. 111 pp. $3.00.

Farming and Forestry

BEHOLD OUR GREEN MANSIONS. By Richard H. D. Boerker. University of North Carolina Press. $4.00. A book about American forests. r. 8-45.

PRACTICAL FARMING FOR THE SOUTH. By Benjamin F. Bullock. University of North Carolina Press. 1944. 510 pp., over 200 illustrations. $2.50. r. 6-45.

FERTILIZING PEANUTS. By W. E. Colwell, N. C. Brady, and J. Fielding Reed. Bulletin No. 356, North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, Raleigh, N. C. 1946. 21 pp. Free. Address the publisher.

GRAZING AND CREEP FEEDING CALVES ON NATIVE RANGE. By J. E. Foster, H. H. Biswell, and E. H. Hostetler. Bulletin No. 355, North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, Raleigh, N. C. 1946. 14 pp. Paper. Free. Address the publisher.

LIVING BY THE LAND. By John C. Gifford. Glade House. 1945. 139 pp. $2.50. Farming around the Caribbean. r. 7-46.

MACHINES IN THE COTTON FIELDS. By Arthur Raper. (September, 1946, issue of New South.) Southern Regional Council, Inc., 63 Auburn Ave., N. E., Atlanta 3, Ga. The cotton South's future under mechanical farming by a leading thinker, well illustrated. 34 pp. Paper. 25 cents per copy, 5 copies, $1.00. Address the publisher.

Fiction

TIME LAY ASLEEP. By Carman Barnes. Harper and Bros. 1946. 243 pp. $2.50.

THERE WERE TWO PIRATES. By James Branch Cabell. Farrar, Straus & Co., Inc. 1946. 121 pp. $3.00. A character study of 18th century Spain. r. 9-46.

TOIL OF THE BRAVE. By Inglis Fletcher. The Bobbs-Merrill Co. 1946. 547 pp. $3.00.

SALVATION ON A STRING. By Paul Green. Harper and Brothers. 1946. 278 pp. $2.50. r. 11-46.

SOUTHERN CHARACTER SKETCHES. By Betsy Hamilton. The Dietz Press. 1937. 126 pp.

FOR HERE IS MY FORTUNE. By Amos R. Harlin. Whittlesey House. 1946. 290 pp. $2.50.

JANEY JEEMS. By Bernice Kelly Harris. Doubleday & Company, Inc. 1946. 306 pp. $2.50. The tenant's struggle to be a "title deed" farmer. r. 8-46.

CROSS ON THE MOON. By John Hewlett. Whittlesey House. 1946. 316 pp. $2.75. Rural Georgia's dramatic human problems. r. 11-46.

LOUISIANA IN THE SHORT STORY. Edited by Lizzie Carter McVoy. Louisiana State University Press. 1940. 305 pp. $3.50. Collection of fifteen short stories dealing with Louisiana's rich and varied life.

SHOD WITH FLAME. By Helen Topping Miller. The Bobbs-Merrill Company. 1946. 270 pp. $2.75.

STRAIGHT DOWN A CROOKED LANE. By Martha Byrd Porter. The Dietz Press, Inc. 1945. 234 pp. $3.00. The story of a life in the Virginia-Carolina's of early twentieth century. r. 6-45.

STORM BEFORE DAYBREAK. By Marian Sims. J. B. Lippincott Co. 1946. 295 pp. $2.50.

MOONRISE. By Theodore Strauss. The Viking Press. 1946. 216 pp. $2.50.

TALES FROM THE PLUM GROVE HILLS. By Jesse Stuart. E. P. Dutton & Co. 1946. 256 pp. $2.75.

ALL THE KING'S MEN. By Robert Penn Warren. Harcourt, Brace and Company. 1946. 464 pp. $3.00. The political despot of the Deep South. r. 9-46.

CLOUDY TROPHIES. By Anne Goodwin Winslow. Alfred A. Knopf. 1946. 237 pp. $2.50. Life in a serene southern rural setting. r. 7-46.

Folklore

WORD-LISTS FROM THE SOUTH. Published by the American Dialect Society. 1944. 72 pp. 50c. Contains word lists from Alabama, Kentucky, North Carolina, Virginia, and Missouri, and list of tobacco words.

THE JACK TALES. Told by R. M. Ward and his kindred in the Beech Mountain section of Western North Carolina and by other descendants of Council Harmon (1803-1896) elsewhere in the Southern Mountains; with three tales from Wise County, Virginia. Edited by Richard Chase. 1943. 202 pp. $2.50. Houghton Mifflin Co., The Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass. r. 7-45.

BUNDLE OF TROUBLES AND OTHER TARHEEL TALES. By Workers of the Writer's Program of the Work Projects Administration in the state of North Carolina. Edited by W. C. Hendricks. Duke University Press. 1943. 206 pp. $2.50.

A GLOSSARY OF VIRGINIA WORDS. By Phyllis J. Nixon. Published by the American Dialect Society. 1946. 45 pp. Obtainable from the Secretary of the Society, Woman's College, UNC, Greensboro, N. C.

FROM HELL TO BREAKFAST. Texas Folk-Lore Society Publications No. XIX. 1944. $2.50. "When a man travels from hell to breakfast, he goes a far piece and covers a lot of territory; he sees the elephant and hears the owl."

Folk Music

SINGING GAMES AND FOLK DANCES. Collected and translated by John C. Campbell Folk School. John C. Campbell Folk School. 1941. 56 pp. 60c. An excellent collection of Scandinavian singing games and folk dances.

OLD SONGS AND SINGING GAMES. By Richard Chase. University of North Carolina Press. 64 pp. Paper. 75c. Tunes, words, directions. Notes and introduction for teachers.

THE STORY OF THE SACRED HARP. By George Pullen Jackson. Vanderbilt University Press. 1944. 46 pp. $1.00.

WHITE AND NEGRO SPIRITUALS. By George Pullen Jackson, J. J. Augustin. 1943. 373 pp. Illustrated with pictures and music. $5.50. Religious songs of the 19th century rural South. r. 10-45.

WHITE SPIRITUALS IN THE SOUTHERN UPLANDS. By George Pullen Jackson. University of North Carolina Press. $4.50. A complete and scholarly work on the tradition of shape-notes and of southern sacred music.

THIRTY AND ONE FOLK SONGS FROM THE SOUTHERN MOUNTAINS. By Bascom Lamar Lunsford and Lamar Stringfield. Carl Fischer, Inc. 1929. Paper. 75c. Typical songs, with piano accompaniment. Interesting explanatory notes.

SONGS OF THE HILL FOLK and four similar pamphlets of about fifteen songs each. Collected by John Jacob Niles. G. Schirmer, Inc. 50c each. Some of the best, with simple and natural piano arrangement.

LOUISIANA FRENCH FOLK SONGS. Collected by Irene Therese Whitfield. Louisiana State University Press. 1934. 159 pp. Cloth.

History

DUCKTOWN, BACK IN RAHT'S TIME. By R. E. Barclay. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 286 pp. $5.00.

MEMORIES OF AN OLD-TIME TAR HEEL. By Kemp Plummer Battle. Edited by his son, William J. Battle. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. Illustrated. $3.00. Picturesque and turbulent years from 1830 to 1880, seen through the eyes of "Pres." Battle of Chapel Hill. r. 11-45.

ONE HUNDRED GREAT YEARS: THE STORY OF THE TIMES-PICAYUNE FROM ITS FOUNDING TO 1940. By Thomas Ewing Dabney. Louisiana State University Press. $4.00.

THE WILSON ERA. YEARS OF WAR AND AFTER 1917-1923. By Josephus Daniels. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 653 pp. $4.00. r. 7-46.

THE CORRESPONDENCE OF BAYARD TAYLOR AND PAUL HAMILTON HAYNE. By Charles Duffy. Louisiana State University Press. 1945. 111 pp. $2.00. Sheds light upon conditions under which writers worked in the post-Civil War North and South. r. 2-46.

HORTICULTURE AND HORTICULTURISTS IN EARLY TEXAS. By Samuel Wood Geiser. University Press in Dallas. 1945. 102 pp. Paper. $1; cloth, $1.50. Fruit culture and sketches of horticulturists, 1938-1910.

THE HIGHLAND CALL. By Paul Green. University of North Carolina Press. 1941. 280 pp. $2.50.

THE FAMOUS CASE OF MYRA CLARK GAINES. By Nolan B. Harmon, Jr. Louisiana State University Press. 1946. 481 pp. $3.50. The sensational New Orleans inheritance case. r. 9-46.

THE SOUTH LOOKS AT ITS PAST. By Benjamin Burks Kendrick and Alex Matthews Arnett. University of North Carolina Press. 1935. 196 pp. $2.00.

THE ANTE-BELLUM CHARLESTON THEATRE. By W. Stanley Hoole. University of Alabama Press. 1946. 230 pp. $3.50. r. 8-46.

W. LEE O'DANIEL AND TEXAS POLITICS, 1939-1942. By Seth Shepard McKay. Texas Technological College Press. 1945. 628 pp. $4.00. r. 9-45.

FLORIDA DURING THE TERRITORIAL DAYS. By Sidney Walter Martin. University of Georgia Press. $3.00. Centeninal Edition.

HISTORY OF VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY. By Edwin Mims. Vanderbilt University Press. 1946. 497 pp. $4.75.

JEFFERSON DAVIS AND HIS CABINET. By Rembert W. Patrick. Louisiana State University Press. 400 pp. $3.75. r. 8-45.

LIFE AND LABOR IN THE OLD SOUTH. By Ulrich Bonnell Phillips. Little, Brown and Company. 1929. 375 pp. $4.00. Awarded the prize of $2,500 offered in 1928 by Little, Brown and Company for the best unpublished work on American history.

BEHIND THE LINES IN THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY. By Charles W. Ramsdell. Louisiana State University Press. 1944. About 166 pp. $2.00. Wartime economic, social and political problems on home front of the Confederacy.

LINCOLN AND THE SOUTH. By J. G. Ramsdell. Louisiana State University Press. 1946. 166 pp. $1.50. r. 4-46.

THE SPRINGS OF VIRGINIA. By Perceval Reniers. University of North Carolina Press. 1941. 282 pp. $4.00. The ante-bellum resorts, with early illustrations. r. 12-45.

RIDDLE OF THE LOST COLONY. By Melvin Robinson. Owen G. Dunn Co. 1946. 64 pp. $1. Another answer to the mystery of Sir Walter Raleigh's lost colony.

TENNESSEE PRINTERS, 1791-1945. By Joseph Hamblen Sears. Privately printed by the Kingsport Press, Inc. 47 pp. Gratis. A review of printing history from Roulstone's first press to printers of the present, and itself a model of good bookmaking.

THE SOUTH AND THE NATION. By George H. Slappey, Haywood J. Pearce, Jr., and Pansy A. Slappey. Stratford House, Inc. 1946. 462 pp. $3.50. History seen from a modern but strictly southern viewpoint. r. 7-46.

TENNESSEE DURING THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR. By Samuel Cole Williams LLD., L.H.D. The Tennessee Historical Commission. 1944. $4.00. With maps, facsimiles, etc.; index.

Juvenile

GOLDILOCKS Y LOS TRES OSOS Y OTROS CUENTOS. Retold in Spanish and illustrated by Helen Harter. Banks and Upshaw and Company. 1945. 128 pp. $1.50. r. 3-46.

BLUE RIDGE BILLY. Written and Illustrated By Lois Lenski. J. B. Lippincott Co. 1946. 200 pp. $2.50. Story of a modern mountain boy and his inborn talent for old-time music. r. 10-46.

PETIE PIG. By Gilchrist and Bonnie Throckmorton. The Dietz Press, Inc.. 1945. 44 pp. $1.50. Paper. Well illustrated, and good text.

MARGO. By Sugar Poling and Ginny Ryan. The Dietz Press, Inc. 1945. 31 pp. $1.50. Bright illustrations, extra large print.

JOCKEY AND OTHER STORIES OF BOY LIFE ON A SOUTHERN FARM. By T. Oregon Lawton. Keys Printing Co. 1928. 190 pp. $1.50.

THE STORY OF THE SOUTHERN HIGHLANDS. By May McNeer. Harper & Bros. 1945. 32 pp. $1.50. Cornelius De Witt's sprightly human lithographs on every page (half are in bright colors) make a rare picture-book with text.

OUR FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS. By Willis A. Parker. Illustrated by George Daniel Hoffman. The Stephens Press. 1945. 32 pp. $1.50. A natural history in sprightly verse with lithograph drawings. r. 11-45.

SOUTHERN REGIONAL LITERATURE FOR CHILDREN (Southern Life and Literary Culture Series No. 3). Directed by Susan B. Riley. George Peabody College For Teachers, Nashville, Tenn. 1945. 34 pp., mimeographed. Paper. 40c. Order from publisher. Ample descriptive lists by states of books with southern heroes or locale, with school grade placements.

TOBE. By Stella Gentry Sharp. With photographs by Charles Farrell. University of North Carolina Press. 1939. 121 pp. $2.00. Life of a southern Negro family told in pictures and simple text.

THE CITY OF ONCE UPON A TIME. A children's true story of Williamsburg in Virginia. By Gilchrist Waring. Illustrated by Elmo Jones. Dietz Press. 1946. 57 pp. $2.00. r. 11-46.

DOLLY MADISON'S SURPRISE. Written and illustrated by Peter Wells. The John C. Winston Co. 1946. 46 pp. $1.25. A child's book for ages six to ten. r. 12-46.

Libraries

SIMPLE LIBRARY CATALOGUING. By Susan Gray Akers. Am. Library Assn., Chicago, 1944. 197 pp. $2.25. Standard practice for most public libraries, adapted for home libraries.

TEACHER-LIBRARIAN'S HANDBOOK. By Mary Peacock Douglas. ..Am. Library Assn., Chicago. 1941. 138 pp. $2.25. Buying, organizing, and maintaining the school library.

MANUAL OF TECHNIQUE IN LIBRARY ORGANIZATION. By Ruby Ethel Cundiff. Peabody Press. 1945. 73 pp. Paper. Starting a library. r. 10-45.

RESOURCES OF SOUTHERN LIBRARIES. Edited by Robert B. Downs. Am. Library Assn., Chicago. 1938. 370 pp. $4.50. A descriptive list by classifications of special book collections in libraries of 13 southern states, plus chapters on manuscripts and periodicals, with large index, bibliography, and list of libraries.

BASIC REFERENCE BOOKS. By Louis Shores. Am. Library Assn., Chicago, 1939. 485 pp. $4.75. How to use library reference material, with a large descriptive list of basic reference books.

THE GEOGRAPHY OF READING. By Louis Round Wilson. Am. Library Assn., Chicago. 1938. 505 pp. $4.00. Texts and charts showing where and how adequate libraries are—and are not. The result of a thorough survey, useful to the citizen working for better libraries.

Poetry

THE FIELDS BEYOND. By Susie Dawson Johnson. University of South Carolina Press. 1945. 81 pp. $2.00. A collection of widely published poems of the seasons, people , meditation. r. 1-46.

THE CENTENNIAL EDITION OF THE WORKS OF SIDNEY LANIER. Edited by Charles R. Anderson and Associates. The Johns Hopkins Press. 1946. 10 Vols. $30.00.

CLODS OF SOUTHERN EARTH. By Don West, Boni and Gaer. 1946. 150 pp. Paper. $2.50. Unusual poems of a teacher and liberal. r. 8-46.

SIDNEY LANIER, POET AND PROSODIST. By Richard Webb and Edwin R. Coulson. University of Georgia Press. 1941. 108 pp. $2.00. Two significant essays on one of the South's greatest poets. r. 4-46.

UNCERTAIN FLIGHT. By E. Eager Wood. The Wayside Press. 1945. 99 pp. A collection of poems written about the simple, every day things of life, by a Virginian who obviously loves his state. $3.00.

Recreation

SHOTGUN SHOOTING. By Fred Etchen. Standard Publications, Inc. 187 pp. $6.00.

BASS FISHING. By Jim Gasque. Alfred A. Knopf. 1945. 206 pp. $4.00. Chiefly upland stream and lake methods, popular style. r. 11-45.

THE FUN ENCYCLOPEDIA. By Elvin Oscar Harbin. Cokesbury Press. 1940. 1008 pp. $2.75. A comprehensive, all-purpose entertainment plan-book for the home, club, school, church, and playground. Suggestions are offered for home recreation, for clubrooms, hobbies, banquets, sports, picnics, indoor and outdoor games, parties, music and musical games, for dramatics, and for puppetry.

KEITH'S RIFLES FOR LARGE GAME. By Elmer Keith. Standard Publications, Inc. 400 pp. $10.00.

RIFLEMAN'S PROGRESS. By Ellis Christian Lenz. Standard Publications, Inc. 205 pp. $8.00.

Race Relations

WHAT THE NEGRO WANTS. Edited by Rayford W. Logan. University of North Carolina Press. 1944. 352 pp. $3.50. Negro leaders of varied views state their opinions. r. 11-45.

UNDERSTANDING OUR NEIGHBORS. Southern Regional Council, Inc,. 63 Auburn Ave., Atlanta 3, Ga. Revised 1945. 32 pp. Paper, 10c. A concise factual handbook on racial groups in the U. S. A., with emphasis on the Negro.

TUSKEGEE AND THE BLACK BELT. By Anne Kendrick Walker. Dietz Press, Inc. $3.00.

Religion

HEADS UP FOR COLLEGE. By Joseph M. Garrison. John Knox Press. 1944. 60 pp. Paper. 40c. The religious life and growth of college students. r. 9-45.

SCIENCE AND THE IDEA OF GOD. By William Ernest Hocking. University of North Carolina Press. 1944. 124 pp. $1.50 The McNair lectures at Chapel Hill, 1940. r. 10-45.

GREAT WRITERS AS INTERPRETERS OF RELIGION. By Edwin Mims. Abingdon-Cokesbury Press. 1945. 176 pp. $1.50. Literature seen as a means by which God has inspired revelation of truth.

LOWELL MASON. "The Father of Singing Among the Children." By Arthur Lowndes Rich. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 224 pages. $3.00. r. 12-46.

PERSONALITIES OF THE PASSION. By Leslie D. Weatherhead. Abingdon - Cokesbury Press. 1943. 183 pp. $1.50. The last associates of Christ as they reveal religious inspiration for today's world. r. 8-45.

Southern Appalachians

SWING YOUR MOUNTAIN GAL. By Rebecca Cushman. Houghton, Mifflin Co. 1934. $3.00. Sketches of life in the Southern Highlands, in blank verse. An unusual, charming, and authentic portrayal of folk life.

FROM MY HIGHEST HILL. By Olive Tilford Dargan. J. B. Lippincott Co. $3.50. Stories of the mountain people, with photographs by Bayard Wootten.

HANDICRAFTS OF THE SOUTHERN HIGHLANDS. By Allen H. Eaton. Russell Sage Foundation. 1937. $3.50. The standard work on handicrafts, with revealing photographs of the people by Doris Ulmann.

THE CHEROKEES. By Horace Kephart. Published by Laura Mack Kephart. 50c. A well written pamphlet of historical and general information, suitable for schools.

OUR SOUTHERN HIGHLANDERS. By Horace Kephart. The MacMillan Co. 1924. $3.50. The father of Smokies mountaineer books, written in the early 1900's.

GREAT SMOKY MOUNTAINS NATIONAL PARK, THE LAND AND ITS PEOPLE. National Park Service. Booklet, 10c, Park Offices, or Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

THE GREAT SMOKIES AND THE BLUE RIDGE. Edited by Roderick Peattie. The Vanguard Press. 1943. 380 pp. $3.75. Varied background material, well illustrated.

SEEING THE SMOKIES. The Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Text by George Myers Stephens. Designed by Burnley Weaver. The Stephens Press. 1946. 15 pp. 67 photographs. Paper. 35c.

THE SMOKIES GUIDE. By George Myers Stephens. The Stephens Press. 1942. 64 pp. paper. 50c. The Great Smoky Mountains National Park; its forests, Indian and white people, animals, and birds. Highway trail, and camping information; a wild flower chart.

HIGHLAND HERITAGE. By E. E. White. Friendship Press. 1937. pp. $. One of the most up-to-date books on the region.

TVA

THE VALLEY AND ITS PEOPLE: A PORTRAIT OF TVA. By R. L. Duffus and Charles Krutch. Alfred A. Knopf. 1944. $2.75. Striking pictures and superbly written text in popular style.

THE TVA: LESSONS FOR INTERNATIONAL APPLICATION. By Herman Finer. International Labour Office. $2.00. A methodical, documented analysis from a detached viewpoint.

TVA: DEMOCRACY ON THE MARCH. By David Lilienthal. Harper & Bros. 1944. $3.00. The broad program and its underlying philosophy stirringly written. Full bibliography.

THE TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY: A STUDY IN PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION. By C. Herman Pritchett. University of North Carolina Press. 1944. $3.50. A readable account of the epoch-making plan in operation.

AN INDEXED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY, CUMULATIVE SUPPLEMENT JANUARY 1943. Compiled by Bernard L. Foy, Technical Librarian. January 1943-December 1944. 60 pp. Mimeographed. Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tenn. Gratis.

A SELECTED LIST OF BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS ON TVA. Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tenn. Two pp. Mimeographed. Gratis.

GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS. A Selected List of References. Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tenn. 1945. 4 pp. Mimeographed. Gratis.

REGIONAL AUTHORITY DEVELOPMENTS. A Selected List Of References, including Legislative Bills Introduced in Congress, 1933-1945. Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tenn. 13 pp. Mimeographed. Gratis.

RESOURCES: A BASIS FOR UNDERSTANDING. Tennessee Valley Authority. Drafted at Request of Committee on Southern Regional Studies and Education of the American Council on Education. Mimeographed. 23 pp. Gratis.

TVA LIBRARIES. A Selected List of References. Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tenn. 1945. 3 pp. Mimeographed. Gratis.

Miscellaneous

THE HERITAGE OF SPAIN. By Nicholson B. Adams. Henry Holt and Company. 1943. 331 pp. $4.00.

FREUDIANISM AND THE LITERARY MIND, By Frederick J. Hoffman. Louisiana State University Press. 1945. 34 5pp. $4.00. r. 10-46.

HISTORY OF THE SHRODE FAMILY IN AMERICA. By I. T. Taylor. Published by the author at Edna, Texas. 1945. 500 pp. $15.00. (Order from publisher). Includes data on Duffy, Jamison, and Maj. James Taylor families.

THE MIND OF THE SOUTH. By W. J. Cash. Alfred A. Knopf. 1941. 429 pp. $3.75. A brilliant analysis and interpretation of the philosophy, temperament and social customs of the South.

LIBERALISM IN THE SOUTH. By Virginius Dabney. University of North Carolina Press. 1932. 456 pp. $3.50.

NEW HORIZONS IN PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION. A Symposium. University of Alabama Press. 1945. 145 pp. $2.00. r. 3-46.

NOWHERE WAS SOMEWHERE. By Arthur E. Morgan. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 234 pp. $2.50. r. 11-46.

OIL AND DEEP WATER. By Kaj Klitgaard. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 182 pp. $2.50 Adventure on a tanker in wartime. r. 1-46.

STAY YOUNG AND LIVE! By J. Clarence Funk ScD. The Dietz Press, Inc. 1943. 125 pp. $1.75. Written as common sense about health in war time, but equally good for peace time.

THE SOUTH: A SUGGESTED READING LIST. Published by George Peabody College for Teachers. 1940. 30 pp. Paper. (Contribution to Southern Life and Literature No. 2).

TAR ON MY HEELS. Bill Sharpe. The Tar Heels. 1946. 229 pp. $3.00. r. 6-46.

SOUTHERN LITERARY CULTURE. An Annotated Bibliography for 1945. By Herman E. Spivey. Published as a supplement to the South Atlantic Bulletin. Vol. XII. South Atlantic Modern Language Asociation. Published at Chapel Hill, N. C.

A NATION'S GETHSEMANE. By Henry Powell Spring. The Orange Press. 1945. 150 pp. A longtime American resident of Germany speaks his mind on its people and their rehabilitation.

PAGES FROM THE BOOK OF EVE. By Eva Pate Stewart. The Naylor Co. 1946. 249 pp. $3.00.

OTHER PLACES. By Elizabeth O'Neill Verner. Bostick & Thornley. Collection of etchings and pencil drawings from all over the world by this well-known Southern author-artist. Large quarto, page size 9" by 12". 1946. $10.00.

Southern States

ALABAMA

A CHECK LIST OF ALABAMA IMPRINTS 1807-1870. By Rhoda Coleman Ellison. University of Alabama Press. 1946. 151 pp. $1.75.

FLORIDA

RECOMMENDED READINGS FOR THE FLORIDA CENTENNIAL. By A. J. Hanna. Union Catalog of Floridiana. 1945. 63 pp. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00. Descriptive booklist by subjects, attractively written, but without names of the book publishers.

GEORGIA

BIRDS OF GEORGIA: A PRELIMINARY CHECK-LIST AND BIBLIOGRAPHY OF GEORGIA ORNITHOLOGY. By Earl Greene, William Griffin, Eugene Odum, Herbert Stoddard and Ivan Tomkins. University of Georgia Press $2.00.

GEORGIA FACTS IN FIGURES; A Source Book. Compiled by Citizens' Fact-Finding Movement of Georgia. University of Georgia Press, 1946. 179 pp.

KENTUCKY

THE LURE OF KENTUCKY. By Mrs. Maude Ward Lafferty. The Standard Printing Co. $3.00. Kentucky history told along the trail of its 17 main highways.

GHOST STORIES OF OLD NEW ORLEANS. By Jeanne deLavigne. Rinehart and Company, Inc. 1946. 374 pp. $3.50.

NORTH CAROLINA

LIBRARY RESOURCES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA. A Summary of Facilities for Study and Research. Edited with a foreword by Charles E. Rush. The University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 264 pp. $3.50. r. 2-46.

NORTH CAROLINA'S NEW INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITY. By Harriet L. Herring. North Carolina State Planning Board. 1945. Paper. 32 pp. Gratis. Photographs by State Department of Conservation and Development.

SOUTH CAROLINA

PRINTS AND IMPRESSIONS OF CHARLESTON. Forty-eight etchings by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner, with an introduction by the artist. Bostick & Thornley. 1945. 78 pp. 9"x12". $7.50. r. 11-45.

SOUTH CAROLINA: ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL. Edited by W. H. Callcott. University of South Carolina Press. 1945. 239 pp. $2.50. Data and analysis. r. 9-45.

TENNESSEE

HISTORIC MADISON. By Emma Inman Williams. Madison County Historical Society. 1946. 553 pp. $5.00.

TEXAS

THOSE TEXANS. By James Farber. 182 pp. $2.50; I GIVE YOU TEXAS. By Boyce House. 100 pp. $1.79; TALL TALK FROM TEXAS. By Boyce House. 104 pp. $1.79. The Naylor Company. Three books of anecdotes of Texas.

TEXAS—PROUD AND LOUD. By Boyce House. The Naylor Company. 1945. 104 pp. $1.79. More Texas jokes, and some annexed.

A CATALOG OF DIME NOVELS AND BOOKS RELATING TO TEXAS & SOUTHWEST. Clyde I. Price, Bookseller, Clarendon, Texas. Gratis. The first inclusion of a distinguished list of booklet and other Dime Novels in a Texiana Catalogue.

CONFERENCE ON THE PROBLEMS OF THE CITY—THE TOWN—AND THE COMMUNITY OF TEXAS. Texas University. (Proceedings of) the conference on the problems of the city—the town—and the community of Texas as they awaken to their own responsibilities. 1944. 84 pp. $1.00, The Conference, University of Texas, Austin 12, Texas.

TEXAS LOOKS AHEAD: RESOURCES OF TEXAS. University Publications, The University of Texas. $1.00.

VIRGINIA

THE MANSIONS OF VIRGINIA 1706-1776. Compiled by Thomas Tileston Waterman. University of North Carolina Press. 1946. 456 pp. $10.00. The grandeur of Virginia well portrayed in picture and text.

MEXICO

GARDENS AND HOMES OF MEXICO. By Cora M. Oneal. Published by Banks Upshaw and Co., Dallas. 221 pp. $3.75. r. 2-46.

MEXICAN VILLAGE. By Josephine Niggli. University of North Carolina Press. 1945. 491 pp. $3.00. Colorful narrative of daily life. r. 11-45.

OF THE NIGHT WIND'S TELLING. Legends From The Valley of Mexico. By E. Adams Davis. University of Oklahoma Press. 1946. 276 pp. $3.00. r. 10-46.

THE SOUTHERN PACKET brings you each month notices of new books published in the South. It will review books of special interest to the region. It will carry a timely list of material on some phase of the South's culture, as well as news on writers, libraries and publishing.

This is your invitation to share in book news from the South as a regular subscriber.

REGISTRATION CLOSING DATES for Southern States

Sources: Election Laws of the 48 States, by Bertram M. Bernard, 1950
You Can Vote, Ethel Y. Black, Absentee Voters Bureau, Democratic National Committee, August 1, 1950.

ALABAMA:

In larger counties the Registration Board meets on the second Monday in June and stays in session until the third Saturday in October. Residents of smaller counties may apply to their County Board on one of 10 days in January, five days in July, or, in odd years, at least ½ day in each precinct from October to December. Annual poll tax is payable between October 1 and February 1.

ARKANSAS:

Poll tax is payable between October 2 and October 1 of the succeeding year. Our sources mention no further registration procedure.

DELAWARE:

Registration dates evidently are selected by the Registration Board. "Registration ...may be affected ...on July 12, 1950, and October 21, 1950, and at least once each week during April, May, and June."

FLORIDA:

Application may be made in January in general election year or at least one day a week during the rest of the year up to 30 days before election. All registration terminates 30 days before and 5 days following the election day.

GEORGIA:

Application may be made not later than 6 months before an election.

KENTUCKY:

If applicant resides in a city of first class, he may register at any time except during the 59 days preceding the Primary and General elections and 10 days thereafter.

LOUISIANA:

Primary registration must be made ...at least 30 days prior to an election. In parishes of over 12,000 people, registration closes 30 days before a general election, and inother parishes, registration for general elections may be made 2 days a week every second month before the election.

MARYLAND:

Closing date varies from county to county. In Anne Arundel, Howard, Montgomery, and Washington Counties, registration may be affected any time except during the 30 days preceding and 10 days following a primary, general, or special election. Closing dates are the same in Baltimore City for primary and special elections; however, registration may not be made during the 45 days preceding and 10 days following a general election. Other counties hold special registration meetings.

MISSISSIPPI:

Registration must be made at least 4 months before any election.

MISSOURI:

(1) Cities of 10,000 -30,000; Registration terminates at 5:00 P.M. on the Wednesday of the 2nd week preceding the election.
(2) Cities of 30,000 to 50,000: The last day of registration is the 25th day before the election.
(3) Cities of 50,000 to 100,000: Closing date - 28 days prior to any primary or general election.
(4) Cities of 300,000 to 700,000: Registration closes on the 4th Friday prior to the day of election.
(5) Cities of over 600,000: Registration closes on the 24th day preceding the election, except in the case of municipal elections, when registration is terminated on the 45th day prior to election.
(6) Counties of 200,000 to 450,000: Registration may be made at any time except 5 weeks prior to and 15 days following a general, special, or primary election.
(7) In counties of 450,000 or over, the Board of Election Commissioners designates days of registration not less than 3 weeks before each election.

NORTH CAROLINA:

Registration may be made from 9 A.M. on the fourth Saturday before an election until sunset on the second Saturday before an election.

SOUTH CAROLINA:

Registration may be made only on dates fixed by the County Board of Registration. (1950: from May 1, 1950 through June 10, 1950, and from August 1, 1950 through August 15, 1950.)

TENNESSEE:

Registration may be made at any time except 20 days prior to an election.

TEXAS:

No registration system exists. Voter presents poll tax receipt, and our source does not indicate deadline for payment of this tax.

VIRGINIA:

Registration may be made at any time except during the 30 days prior to a primary or general election.

WEST VIRGINIA:

Dates for registration vary with and are announced in the magisterial districts.

Suffrage

SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE
20 West 40th Street
New York 18, New York

SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION
Based on Reports Received From 47 Cities by the NAACP

State	City	Steven-son	Eisen-hower	Percentage Stev.	Percentage Eis.	Other Particulars
Alabama	Tuskegee Institute 2 precincts	558	237	70	30
Colorado	Denver 12 predom.Negro prec.	3,827	898	81	19
	9 Negro-Mexican prec.	6,375	4,444	59	41
Connecticut	New Haven 1 predom. Negro ward	1,709	732	70	30
Florida	Miami 15 prec. about 50% Negro	12,146	6,699	65	35	Dade County, Fla.,(Miami), in which Negro voters gave Stevenson a plurality of 6,000, gave Eisenhower a plurality of more than 24,000.
Georgia	Atlanta 7 predom. Negro prec.	4,764	1,594	75	25	In Atlanta's Ward 3-B, the predominantly Negro ward accused of "bloc voting" by Gov. Talmadge, the vote was 1,333 against the county unit amendment and 37 for it.
	Gainesville 1 predom. Negro box	425	7	98	2	In the predominantly Negro ward in Gainesville, the vote on the county unit amendment was 430 against and none for.

2. SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

State	City	Stevenson	Eisenhower	Percentage Stev.	Percentage Eis.	Other Particulars
Georgia (cont'd)						At all Negro voting places in Macon, supporters of both Eisenhower and Stevenson were giving out circulars explaining how to vote for their candidates. At one place, both Eisenhower and Stevenson supporters were giving out sheets telling how to vote against the county unit amendment. A total of 144,828 Negroes registered in Georgia; 11% of the state's total registered voters. In one county there were more Negro voters than white; in two others there were almost as many Negro voters as white.
Illinois	Chicago 6 predom. Negro wards	146,975	62,937	70	30
	Springfield 6 prec.about 50%Negro	1,173	921	56	44
Indiana	South Bend 6 predom. Negro prec.	3,390	886	79	21	St. Joseph County, Indiana, elected three state representatives friendly to the NAACP; also prosecutor and coroner.
Louisiana	New Orleans 21 predom. Negro prec.	10,148	2,575	80	20	Of 232,115 registered voters in New Orleans, 28,005 were Negro voters. Since Stevenson carried New Orleans by about 6,000 votes and the state by 31,000, the Negro vote was undoubtedly of great importance. In

3. SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

State	City	Stevenson	Eisenhower	Percentage Stev.	Percentage Eis.	Other Particulars
Louisiana (cont'd)						a poll at Dillard University, the students and faculty voted 326 for Stevenson and 14 for Eisenhower.
Maryland	Baltimore 23 predom. Negro prec.	61,253	30,776	67	33
Michigan	Detroit 9 prec. with machines	3,681	366	91	9	In Detroit, Negroes voted 91% for Stevenson as compared with his city-wide total of 61%. In one slum area, the vote ran 21 to 1 for Stevenson. In the more prosperous Arden Road area, it was 5 to 1 for Stevenson. Governor Williams and Senator Moody ran ahead of Stevenson in all of these precincts.
Missouri	Kansas City 3 predom. Negro wards	21,535	7,344	75	25	The three Negro incumbents for the Missouri General Assembly were all returned to their seats.
	St. Louis 4 predom. Negro wards	36,388	9,794	79	21
New Jersey	Atlantic City 13 predom. Negro prec.	3,829	1,233	76	24
	Belleville 2 predom. Negro prec.	5,621	3,800	59	41
	Jersey City 2 predom. Negro wards	17,186	13,518	56	44
	Montclair 7 predom. Negro dist.	2,775	1,695	62	38	Montclair's fourth ward, 80% Negro, was the only ward in the city that went for Stevenson -- the others were all overwhelmingly for Eisenhower.

4. SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

State	City	Stevenson	Eisenhower	Percentage Stev.	Percentage Eis.	Other Particulars
New Jersey (cont'd)	Newark 3 predom. Negro wards	14,942	5,561	73	27	In Newark, the Democratic senatorial candidate ran about 200 votes ahead of Stevenson in each of the predominantly Negro wards.
New York	New York City 8 predom. Negro Assembly Districts	241,987	62,043	77	19	Hallinan received 9,519 votes in these N.Y.C. districts, 4% of the total vote.
	Rochester 3 predom. Negro wards	5,751	4,629	55	45
North Carolina	Durham 3 predom. Negro prec.	3,562	498	88	12
	Greensboro 2 predom. Negro prec.	3,037	475	86	14
	Raleigh 3 predom. Negro prec.	2,177	310	88	12
	Wilmington 2 predom. Negro prec.	961	84	92	8
Ohio	Akron 35 predom. Negro prec.	9,948	2,865	79	21
	Canton 10 predom. Negro prec.	3,133	598	85	15
	Cleveland 6 wards with heavy Negro vote	43,845	17,438	72	28

5. SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

State	City	Stevenson	Eisenhower	Percentage Stev.	Percentage Eis.	Other Particulars
Ohio (cont'd)	Cleveland (cont'd) 4 wards with moderate concentration of Negroes	31,837	19,264	62	38
	Columbus 12 predom.Negro prec.	2,834	1,261	69	31
	Toledo 34 predom.Negro prec.	9,561	2,730	78	22
	Youngstown 2predom. Negro wards	10,375	3,322	76	24
Pennsylvania	Philadelphia 10 predom.Negro wards	114,980	42,055	70	30
	Pittsburgh 3 predom.Negro wards	19,969	5,719	78	22
South Carolina	Columbia 1 predom.Negro ward	1,250	109	92	8	The Columbia, S.C. Record editorialized: "Except for the Negro vote, the entire state would have gone for Eisenhower ... Obviously the Negro vote was decisive in S.C. The Negro voters held the balance of power as they predicted they would.
	Darlington 1 Negro ward	509	5	99	1
Tennessee	Chattanooga 4 predom.Negro wards and 3 predom. Negro precincts	2,969	769	79	21
	2 prec. about 50% Negro	946	906	51	49
	Knoxville 8 predom.Negro wards	2,955	1,254	70	30
	Memphis 50 predom.Negro prec.	26,020	12,173	68	32	In Memphis, S.A. Owen, a Negro

SURVEY OF THE NEGRO VOTE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

State	City	Stevenson	Eisenhower	Percentage Stev.	Percentage Eis.	Other Particulars
Tennessee (cont'd)	Memphis (cont'd)					minister running for delegate to the State Constitutional Convention, polled about 17,000 votes -- too few for election but the highest number received by a Negro here in recent history.
Texas	Corpus Christi 7 wards -- mostly Negroes & Mexicans	3,340	369	90	10
	Dallas 5 predom.Negro prec.
	18 other prec. with large Negro pop.	6,242	1,234	85	15	Every section of Dallas except South Dallas and West Dallas went for Eisenhower; these went 85% for Stevenson.
	Fort Worth 10 predom.Negro prec.	3,445	728	83	17
	Houston 20 predom.Negro boxes	21,128	1,618	93	7
	San Antonio 9 predom.Negro wards	7,840	2,491	76	24
Virginia	Newport News 3 predom.Negro prec.	1,371	253	84	16
	Norfolk 6 predom.Negro wards	1,451	240	89	11
	Richmond 21 predom.Negro prec.	8,269	4,253	68	32
Wisconsin	Milwaukee 1 ward about 50% Negro	6,143	1,890	76	24
TOTAL: 47 Cities		956,535	347,600	73%	27%

DECEMBER, 1952

Return to: ~~To~~ Election Laws, Southern Southern Regional Council
Suffrage. X8
FILE COPY

SUMMARY OF ELECTION LAWS OF THIRTEEN SOUTHERN STATES

Additional copies of this Summary may be had by writing to Miss Margaret Fisher, Executive Assistant
The Committee of Editors and Writers of the South
939 Piedmont Avenue, Atlanta, Georgia

County	Negro Registration	White Registration	% Potential Negroes Registered	% Potential Whites Registered	% Negroes Are Of Total Registered	% Population Non-White	% Population Change-County	% Population Change Non-Whit
Abbeville	15	6,000	.1		.2	33.5	-2.1	-22.8
Aiken	1,500	6,500	15.2		19.0	36.4	6.5	- 7.7
Allendale	350	1,900	9.0		15.5	72.3	-9.7	9.5
Anderson	3,000	20,000	30.0		13.0	21.3	2.2	17.5
Bamberg	500	3,450	11.2		13.0	57.8	-6.0	10.3
Barnwell	750	3,500	15.7		17.6	61.7	-14.3	15.6
Beaufort	2,000	3,200	26.2		38.5	57.5	22.5	5.0
Berkley	3,200	5,000	39.4		39.0	63.2	11.5	9.7
Calhoun	-0-	2,500	-0-		-0-	70.8	-9.1	-12.0
Charleston	6,000	4,500	17.0		12.0	41.5	36.1	14.7
Cherokee	1,000	12,000	27.2		13.7	22.1	5.1	- 0.6
Chester	650	9,000	9.58		6.7	42.2	0.1	-11.9
Chesterfield	3,500	10,000	57.8		26.0	39.0	0.8	3.2
Clarendon	1,200	3,500	12.9		25.5	70.9	2.3	1.2
Colleton	1,200	7,200	17.7		14.3	53.3	7.2	7.3
Darlington	9,000	13,000	86.1		40.9	46.4	10.7	2.9
Dillon	4,000	6,000	61.1		40.0	48.3	4.4	1.4
Dorchester	800	5,000	13.9		13.8	55.2	13.4	9.1
Edgefield	800	2,200	18.[illegible]		26.7	59.4	-7.3	-12.1
Fairfield	550	4,000	9.[illegible]		12.1	59.3	-10.0	-13.7
Florence	1,600	15,000	9.[illegible]		9.7	44.9	12.9	12.0
Georgetown	2,100	5,400	28.7		28.0	53.1	20.5	9.7
Greenville	9,000	66,000	52.5		12.0	18.7	23.7	3.6
Greenwood	2,500	12,000	30.8		17.2	30.2	3.9	-15.5
Hampton	350	4,300	7.5		7.7	55.9	3.2	- 0.1
Harry	2,700	18,300	38.7		12.9	26.9	15.1	14.3
Jasper	1,100	1,800	35.5		27.9	65.2	-0.1	1.6
Kershaw	1,000	7,500	14.2		11.9	48.4	-1.9	-10.6
Lancaster	1,500	13,000	29.4		10.3	29.9	10.2	- 5.8
Laurens	700	14,500	9.2		4.6	31.1	6.1	6.3
Lee	1,500	3,000	24.[illegible]		33.3	66.9	-7.0	- 5.0
Lexington	150	15,000	[illegible]		1.0	21.4	23.0	6.0
Marion	1,500	7,000	17.[illegible]		17.2	46.0	10.0	10.2
Marlboro	[illegible]	7,200	[illegible]		14.9	[illegible]	[illegible]	- 8.1

% Population Change Non-White	% Urbanization	% Industrialization	% Tenancy For Negro Farm Operation	Median School Years Completed County	Median School Years Completed Non-White	Median Family Income County	Median Family Income Non-White
-22.8	24.2	36.2	71.0	7.6	4.6	$1,630	$ 530
- 7.7	23.5	33.7	60.2	7.3	4.5	1,705	758
9.5	-	12.2	70.1	5.9	3.9	731	542
17.5	44.7	12.7	85.1	7.7	5.2	2,095	764
10.3	32.9	16.1	70.5	7.2	4.7	981	655
15.6	-	10.3	76.3	6.6	4.4	746	525
5.0	18.8	[illegible]	12.1	6.3	4.0	943	712
8.7	-	22.2	14.4	5.6	3.8	1,048	683
-12.0	-	[illegible]	75.2	6.4	4.3	815	491
14.7	73.0	24.3	9.2	8.7	4.9	1,701	839
- 8.6	35.5	38.6	80.2	6.9	5.1	1,853	945
-11.9	32.0	40.0	73.6	6.9	4.5	1,847	623
3.2	13.3	20.7	63.7	6.5	4.4	1,057	682
1.1	8.6	7.5	74.0	5.9	4.2	943	703
7.3	16.3	15.6	30.3	6.6	4.2	1,042	627
2.9	24.5	24.3	85.1	6.9	4.5	1,400	761
1.4	16.7	11.6	92.6	6.4	4.8	1,327	972
9.1	14.7	24.4	34.2	6.9	4.3	1,172	769
-12.1	15.2	22.6	81.8	7.4	4.8	1,213	657
-13.7	28.5	35.4	53.9	6.9	5.1	1,387	850
12.0	34.7	8.6	81.4	7.6	4.4	1,448	813
9.7	43.2	29.4	28.8	6.4	3.8	1,636	951
3.6	59.9	37.9	73.0	8.4	5.5	2,386	1,249
-15.5	49.4	48.2	73.6	7.9	5.0	2,416	1,113
- 0.1	-	86.4	52.7	6.3	4.2	1,002	707
14.3	15.7	3.1	52.7	6.9	4.4	1,426	908
1.6	-	25.1	31.3	5.2	3.6	1,061	753
-10.6	21.6	21.0	62.3	7.0	4.9	1,310	733
- 5.9	30.9	50.0	72.9	7.5	5.2	2,243	1,007
6.3	10.6	42.2	84.7	7.4	4.6	1,932	726
- 5.0	13.3	9.5	82.4	6.0	4.1	697	459
6.0	29.5	27.0	59.5	8.2	4.9	1,938	918
10.2	35.5	9.9	75.2	6.9	4.9	2,257	854
- 8.1	24.6	18.3	88.4	6.1	4.2	833	446

County	Negro Registration	White Registration	% Potential Negroes Registered	Potential Whites Registered	% Negroes Are Of Total Registered	% Population Non-White	Population Change
McCormick	0	2,025	-		0	62.6	-7.6
Newberry	775	10,000	13.1		7.0	37.2	-5.4
Oconee	2,000	7,000	81.4		22.2	12.2	[illegible].0
Orangeburg	2,200	10,500	14.5		17.3	63.2	[illegible].9
Pickens	900	13,000	38.1		6.6	11.2	[illegible].9
Richland	12,500	31,700	44.0		28.2	35.4	36.0
Saluda	500	3,000	16.8		14.3	42.6	-7.4
Spartanburg	7,000	64,000	39.9		9.9	22.4	17.7
Sumter	1,800	6,100	12.2		22.8	57.3	9.9
Union	1,500	9,500	30.7		13.6	32.1	-0.1
Williamsburg	900	6,500	7.4		12.2	67.6	6.8
York	2,900	22,000	26.6		11.6	31.0	22.0

Population Change Non-White	% Urbanization	% Industrialization	% Tenancy For Negro Farm Operation	Median School Years Completed County	Median School Years Completed Non-White	Median Family Income County	Median Family Income Non-White
-14.9	-	24.3	82.0	6.4	4.1	$1,033	$ 559
-17.0	33.2	35.3	80.9	7.9	4.9	1,757	850
[illegible].2	17.3	35.9	66.8	7.4	5.7	1,195	755
8.8	22.3	13.0	64.9	7.1	4.8	878	544
8.6	15.8	44.0	70.2	7.5	5.5	2,170	1,250
19.2	77.6	11.6	42.2	9.6	5.9	2,031	1,060
-11.2	1.4	24.2	77.1	7.9	4.8	99[illegible]	511
10.4	34.6	40.3	78.6	7.7	5.5	2,255	1,004
2.2	45.1	15.3	65.5	7.8	5.2	1,372	748
-10.6	31.1	48.2	68.7	6.9	4.9	1,977	696
8.7	8.4	5.0	63.8	6.0	4.5	872	655
3.7	49.1	43.3	85.0	7.7	5.1	2,223	889

m

Minutes of the Exec. Committee Meeting, Nov. 1945 at which the recommendations of the special Sub-Committee for the study of the Segregation Report was presented.

ok

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.

Meeting of the Executive Committee

The Executive Committee met at 10:45 A. M. Tuesday November 13, 1945, in the Conference Room of the Southern Regional Council, Atlanta, Georgia. The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Charles S. Johnson, with the following present: Rufus E. Clement, C. H. Gillman, Gordon B. Hancock, Charles S. Johnson, Guy B. Johnson, T. James McNamara, Howard W. Odum, Ira De A. Reid, Josephine Wilkins, and Emily H. Clay, Secretary. Mr. Louis I. Jaffe and Mr. John G. Pollard, Jr., who were present for the meeting of the Board of Directors, were invited to sit with the Committee.

As the first item of business, Dr. Guy Johnson called attention to several items in the by-laws for which he recommended amendments. These were reported as follows:

(1) That the portion of ARTICLE VI, Section 1, which reads,

"The Executive Director and the Associate Executive Director need not be members at the time of their election, but, by virtue of their office, shall become members of the corporation and of the Board with all the privileges of Board members, except that they may not be members of the Executive Committee of the Board," be amended by striking out the words,

"except that they may not be members of the Executive Committee of the Board."

(Purpose of amendment to remove a conflict with ARTICLE V, Section 1.)

On motion, duly seconded-

1. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend the adoption of this amendment to the by-laws.

(2) That the portion of ARTICLE IV, Section 1, which reads,

"Each director elected at any subsequent meeting of the Board shall hold office for four years..."

be amended to read,

"Each director elected at any subsequent meeting of members or of the Board, except such directors as are elected by the Board to fill unexpired terms, shall hold office for four years..."

(Present wording in conflict with the remainder of the Section, since all directors are elected by the members except those who are elected by the Board to fill vacancies.)

On motion, duly seconded-

2. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend the adoption of this amendment to the by-laws.

(3) That the provision concerning a quorum in ARTICLE II, Section 6 of the by-laws be considered with a view to amendment.

After discussion and on motion, duly seconded-

3. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend that ARTICLE II, Section 6, which reads as follows, be deleted:

"At all meetings of members the presence, in person or by proxy, of not less than one-fourth of the entire membership, shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but in the absence of a quorum the members present in person or by proxy at the time and place fixed by Section 3 of this ARTICLE II for an annual meeting, or fixed by the notice of a special meeting, or at the time and place of any adjournment thereof, by majority vote may adjourn the meeting from time to time, but not for a period of over sixty days at any one time, without notice other than by announcement at the meeting, until a quorum shall attend. At any such adjourned meeting at which a quorum shall be present, any business may be transacted which might have been transacted at the meeting as originally notified."

(4) That provision be made in the by-laws for balloting by mail on certain questions.

On motion, duly seconded-

4. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend that ARTICLE II, Section 7, which reads-

"Each member shall have one vote and, except in cases in which it is by the charter or by these by-laws otherwise provided, a majority of the votes cast shall be sufficient to elect and to pass any measure," be amended by the following addition:

"Voting by mail may be conducted on such questions and in such manner as may be provided by the Board of Directors."

(5) That the members discuss the question of the time of the annual meeting and that if a more suitable date can be established the by-laws be amended accordingly.

After discussion and on motion, duly seconded-

5. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend that the portion of ARTICLE II, Section 3, which reads:

"The Corporation shall hold annually a meeting of its members for the election of directors and for the transaction of general business at its principal office in Atlanta at ten o'clock A.M. on the second Wednesday in October..."

be amended to read,

"The Corporation shall hold annually a meeting of its members for the election of directors and for the transaction of general business at its principal office in Atlanta at ten o'clock A.M. on the second Wednesday in November..."

Dr. Guy Johnson suggested that the Executive Committee submit to the members a resolution raising the annual dues for Council membership. It was his opinion that the dues should be not less than $2.00 a year, and he said that there was much to be said for making them still higher.

After discussion and on motion, duly seconded-

6. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend that the annual dues be set at $2.00 for regular members and $5.00 for sustaining members.

It was suggested that members joining toward the latter part of the year be entered for membership for the following year.

Dr. Charles Johnson asked how much effort was being made to enlarge the membership. Dr. Guy Johnson replied that while a good many nominees are being invited, no special campaign was being carried on at the present time, but that Mr. Warwick is now preparing material for use in a membership campaign which we hope to begin early in the year.

Dr. Guy Johnson said that experience during the past year indicates that it is probably unreasonable to expect busy persons who live as far away from Atlanta as Virginia and Texas to attend bi-monthly meetings of the Executive Com-

Dr. Guy Johnson asked that the members consider the question of whether the Charter of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation should be surrendered. After discussion, it was agreed that the Charter should be allowed to continue to its expiration, which will be July 1, 1949.

Another matter of pressing importance, Dr. Johnson said, is the report of the special committee, consisting of John A. Griffin, Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton, Mrs. E. G. Mackay, Benjamin E. Mays, Philip Shulhafer, Guy B. Johnson, and Ira De A. Reid, which was authorized by the Executive Committee at its September meeting, to consider the results of the study of racial separation in transportation in Atlanta. Dr. Reid was asked to report the action taken by the special committee, which had held two meetings. He said that the committee had agreed on the following report to the Executive Committee:

> The committee which you named to discuss the SRC's study of racial separation in transportation in Atlanta and to make suggestions thereon submits the following report:
>
> The purpose of this study of racial separation in transportation was to explore the ways and means of racial separation and discrimination in Atlanta's transportation systems; to show how racial separation works and what people believe about it; and, by interpreting its patterns and practices in the community, seek to devise therefrom techniques for promoting both the theory and the structure of equality under the law.
>
> The evidence we have examined in this study reveals that little if any equality exists under the present interpretation, application, and enforcement of the laws and practices regulating the separation of races in Atlanta's transportation systems.
>
> At the present time, the social temper of the South is such that we must first achieve first steps toward the ultimate goal of equal opportunity for all people in the region. In recognition of this fact, we believe that we may immediately take the following steps of social and legal action:
>
> (a) action designed to actually achieve the equality implicit in the law;
> (b) action designed to discourage, and to seek penalties for, extra-legal and administrative discriminatory practices at tending racial separation.
>
> And, since evidence secured in this study seems to indicate that without the repeal or revision of existing laws equal opportunity for all people is not possible, we further suggest:

(c) the establishment of educational programs designed to promote public thought and discussion of the question, "Can equal opportunity actually be achieved under the 'separate but equal' tradition?"

It is suggested that the above recommendations on the Atlanta transportation study be used as the basis for immediate action in this community in concert with other agencies, if possible, and if this is not possible, by the SRC acting alone.

It is suggested that a full and complete analysis of conflict and undemocratic situations arising under the separate but equal laws of Atlanta be undertaken by the Southern Regional Council. It is our opinion that the next fields of analysis should be those of health and law enforcement and observance.

It is suggested that as these studies are made, and whenever there is sufficient material to warrant and justify action, that the Council initiate such action forthwith by going to the authorities, agencies, or institutions involved, presenting the material and urging corrective action. In making these presentations the Council should enlist the support and cooperation of other agencies, such as the Chamber of Commerce, churches, and civic groups.

It is our belief that this method of social analysis, followed by the social education and action which the problems discovered might suggest, should be used immediately in as many communities as possible throughout the South.

It is suggested that the Executive Committee might act to organize and finance further studies in this field in Atlanta and the South, and that action on this section of the report should be instituted not later than January, 1946.

Regarding the financial support, it was expected that special funds should be secured for such studies.

Dr. Charles Johnson said that it would seem that there are several questions which would be raised if the Executive Committee is interested in going forward with this type of study as originally proposed and authorized: (1) whether it would be considered the basis of a program for action of some sort; (2) whether the Committee is interested enough in it to propose that funds be secured or provided to carry the work farther; and (3) just what should be proposed to the Board of Directors.

Dr. Odum said that he would like to have a discussion and then hear a motion giving authority to seek special funds to carry on this type of study. He was in favor of having the Executive Committee "approve it as a continuing project to be worked out in consultation with the administration of the Council."

On motion, duly seconded-

11. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend to the Board of Directors the continuation of the study of racial separation and discrimination and that funds be sought for its enlargement.

Mr. Pollard pointed out that this is an objective study, presenting facts, and that we want the facts to speak for themselves. We not only want to be sure that the facts are unbiased, he said, but we want to be sure that the public does not feel that they are biased. He suggested the desirability of having other agencies join with us in making similar studies in other communities, so that the findings might be presented on the authority of the local organizations.

After discussion and on motion, duly seconded-

12. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend that the Council seek the cooperation of other agencies in making its observations in those communities where studies are undertaken.

On motion, duly seconded-

13. IT WAS VOTED that the recommendations of the sub-committee be presented to the Board of Directors.

Msgr. T. James McNamara, who had been sitting with the Nominating Committee as Chairman, brought the following report from his committee:

The Nominating Committee recommends that the Executive Committee in turn recommend to the Board of Directors that when members of the Board are elected to the staff their membership on the Board be declared vacant by reason of election to the staff, and that they continue to serve as Board members ex officio.

After discussion and on motion, duly seconded-

14. IT WAS VOTED that the Executive Committee recommend that when members of the Board are elected to the staff their membership on the Board be declared vacant by reason of election to the staff.

The Nominating Committee, likewise, recommends to the Executive Committee that they submit to the Board of Directors an amendment to ARTICLE VI, Section 1, of the by-laws as follows:

Inasmuch as the by-laws require that the Executive Director, Associate Executive Director, Secretary, and Treasurer be elected by the Board of Directors-

That in ARTICLE VI, Section 1, concerning Executive Officers, a sentence reading, "The Executive Director and the Associate Executive Director, Secretary-Treasurer, and Counsel shall be elected by vote of the Executive Committee upon the recommendations of a committee whose function shall be the selection and nomination of these officers," be inserted immediately following the sentence which reads, "The President and the Vice Presidents shall be chosen from among the members of the corporation," and

That the portion of this Section 1, which reads,

"The executive officers shall be elected annually by the Board of Directors at its first meeting following the annual meeting of members, and each such officer shall hold office until the corresponding meeting in the next year and until his successor shall have been fully chosen and qualified..."

be amended to read,

"The President and Vice President shall be elected annually by the Board of Directors at its first meeting following the annual meeting of members. The Executive Director and Associate Executive Director, Secretary-Treasurer, and Counsel shall be confirmed annually by the Board of Directors, upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee. Officers shall hold office until the corresponding meeting in the next year, and until their successors shall have been fully chosen and qualified..."

Because of a lack of time for proper consideration of this recommendation, it was suggested that it be referred directly to the Board without recommendation.

The meeting adjourned at 1 P. M.

EMILY H. CLAY, SECRETARY

APRIL, 1949

To: Dr. Mitchell

From: M. Boyd

RE: The Segregation Study

The first mention of the Segregation Study occurs in the report of the Executive Directors covering the year 1944 and projecting plans for 1945. It says:

> Study of Segregation and Discrimination. We propose that a comprehensive study be carried on throughout the South in the field of legal discrimination and segregation. Itis proposed that ameliorative action be based upon a study of the facts as to human and economic costs of segregation and discrimination. Such a study should provide useful material for molding public opinion on the question of equal opportunity.

Soon after this report was issued, in January 1945, the Board of Directors met and the matter was again discussed. The study was suggested as a major item on the 1945 research agenda. In an effort to cut the number of projects because of lack of finances, each of the proposed projects was evaluated. Charles Johnson and Ira Reid were of the opinion that the segregation study should have priority. Johnson said:

> ...if we can calculate with some convincing accuracy the cost of segregation, where it works, where it doesn't work, where it is breaking down, it would be tremendously valuable, not simply to the student, but to the practical man of affairs who wants to know in terms of dollars and cents what steps to take.

This, then, was the original, comprehensive plan :to study segregation and discrimination on all fronts throughout the South.

When the Study actually got under way in July of 1945, with Ira Reid as Director, the comprehensive study of the entire South had narrowed to a study of racial discrimination and segregation in Atlanta's Transportation System. This was called an "exploratory" study.

Prior to the decision to do an "exploratory" study, there had been considerable "sniffing" of the whole problem of segregation, to see what had been offered to date on segregation, and what methods had been employed to study it.

The Green Box contains extensive bibliography on Segregation, evidence of wide reading, many people's opinion on the cost, economic and "human", of segregation. There is an article by Booker T. Washington which appeared in New Republic in 1915.

There is also a collection of Georgia's Segregation laws.

After this cursory study of the entire picture of Segregation, the more workable, available approach, that of the Atlanta Transportation, was decided upon. Nothing of a similar, methodical study had been done.

A series of Schedules were drawn up. There were special ones for observing Terminal facilities, Terminal services, travel accomodations on busses, trains, airplanes, etc. , for interviewing "persons in authority" such as City Officials or Company officials (Ga. Power, the Terminal Station), and still another schedule designed for interviewing red-caps, Pullman porters, dining car waiters, loaders, and mere travelers. There were forms for reporting incidents which occurred either in the presence of the reporter or were related to him by an informant.

Schedules were used exclusively to gather the information "so that there would be a scientific basis for observation and comparison, and so that the patterns could be observed scientifically rather than emotionally."

When Company, State and City Officials were interviewed, they were asked to comment on the existing law, their own interpretation of the law, and their Official policy in enforcing the law.

The Study required the participation of the observers in the actual travel situation. They rode trolleys, busses, trains, etc. at all times of day and night, sat for hours in the local Terminals to observe the conditions and services rendered there, as well as travelled to neighboring suburbs and satellite towns to see the conditions there. The Green Box contains about twenty pictures taken in the course of the Study and illustrating the conditions discussed in the Text.

The types of carriers included in the Study were: inter and intra-State trains, busses and airplanes; municipal street cars and busses, trackless trolleys, chartered busses,; and other forms of public traction service, such as ambulances, school busses, taxis, and U-Drive-Its. Even eleavators were included. ~~The basic hypothesis for the Study~~

The basic hypothesis for the Study, by which all the data was evaluated, stated that:

> Statutory laws, codes, ordinances, etc., are clear and specific in granting "separate but equal" facilities to colored passengers in public conveyences in Atlanta, while in actual practice, the law, the customs, and administrative policy may permit and even condone discriminations in transportation.

All of the data was organized into the Grand Report which was completed in October, 1945. Subsequently, and as the Report was considered by various organizations and groups, it took several forms. One was an Action Memo which incorporated a few of the most outstanding discrepancies in each branch of the transportation system, and in the enforcment of the law, and stated those approaches that SRC might employ to right the situations. Another form was the shortened version of the Study which was prepared for the Board members and members of the Executive Committee.

At the Annual Meeting in the Fall of 1945, Ira Reid reported on the results of the "exploratory study", calling it an "analysis of how the Separate but Equal theory works in practice." He said that the study had been initiated to see whether action could or should be taken by SRC to seek equalization of transportation facilities. The membership voted that the Segregation in Transportation Study be expanded and applied to other Southern cities and that SRC Executive Committee map plans for action through community groups to seek equalization of transportation facilities under the law.

The Board also voted that the same type of study---showing the effects of race segregation, be made in the fields of health and education. These recommendations were made on condition that funds could be obtained for further research.

Then at the meeting of the Executive Committee, it was decided that a special Sub-Committee would be appointed to study the Report and evaluate its potentiallity. They were to make recommendations to the Executive Committee at the following meeting.

This special Committee met periodically throughout the Fall, 1945 decided that the Action Memo should be drawn up, and that special Memoranda and letters should be sent to "persons in authority" pointing out the situations in their own sphere which could be improved. The persons in authority included: the Chief of Police, City Attorney, Head of the Atlanta Terminal, Greyhound Bus Terminal, President of the Georgia Power Company, etc. They most especially recommended to Dr. Charles Johnson, Chairman of the Executive Committee, that it be a Southwide Study and particularly that it be carried into other fields in Atlanta, Georgia. The Executive Committee approved, subject to obtaining funds.

In the correspondence following this meeting there are several explanations of the Study which were prepared for various Foundations, and even a careful and elaborate estimate of the cost of taking the Study to other cities. None of the Fund requests were successful, to the best of my knowledge, so the whole idea petered out.

Hot on its heels came the Jacksonville Survey, and the beginning of a Segregation study under a different guise.

I believe the Schedule method developed for the Atlanta Transportation Study was the springboard for the Community Survey Manual questionnaire.

Whereas the Segregation Study would have begun with the largest cities, and would have informed only the reporters, observers, and "persons in authority" about the existing discriminatory practices, the Home Town Self Survey informs the whole participating community of a smaller an more workable community.

Though the facts gleaned in the course of the Atlanta Transportation study are obsolete now because of the abnormal conditions during its development, the realization that such a Study could be made is still worth something. It shows that the Self Survey manual can be used in part by a large city. If for instance, the Transportation section of the Manual were to be applied to Atlanta, much the same sort of Report would result as the Transportation Study. The difference would be in the personnel executing the Study. Because citizens of the city would (ideally) participate in getting the facts, the main and most inevitable problem of the 1945 Study would be eliminated, that of getting action after the observation was completed.

LAWS RELATING TO SEGREGATION IN EFFECT IN ATLANTA

I. Definitions. The following pertinent definitions are found in the indicated sections of the Code of Georgia, Annotated:

53-312. "White person" defined. The term "white person" shall include any persons of the white or Caucasian race, who have no ascertainable trace of either Negro, African, West Indian, Asiatic Indian, Mongolian, Japanese, or Chinese blood in their veins.

79-103. Persons of color, who are. All Negroes, mulattoes, mestizos, and their descendants, having an ascertainable trace of either Negro or African, West Indian, or Asiatic Indian blood in his or her veins, shall be known in this state as persons of color.

II. State Laws. The only provisions of state law requiring segregation are the following: in common carriers, 18-205 through 18-210, 18-606, 18-9901, 18-9902, 18-9904 through 18-9906, 68-513, 68-616; in common or public schools, 2-6401, 32-909, 32-937; in convict camps, 77-316, 77-317, 77-613, 77-9904; in listing tax-payers on tax digest, 92-6307, 02-6308; in marriage, 53-106, 63-9902, 53-9903; and in Milledgeville State Hospital, 35-225. However, the following portion of the Georgia Code Annotation should be noted:

92-201. Property exempt from taxation. The following described property shall be exempt from taxation, to wit: . . . all buildings erected for and used as a college, incorporated academy or other seminary of learning, . . . and also funds or property held or used as endowment by such colleges, incorporated academies, or seminaries of learning: Provided, the same is not invested in real estate: and Provided further, that said exemption shall apply only to such colleges, incorporated academies, or other seminaries of learning as are open to the general public: Provided further, that all endowments to institutions established for white people shall be limited to white people, and all endowments to institutions established for colored people shall be limited to colored people: . . . (see 2-5404 also)

III. City Ordinances. The following sections of the Atlanta City Code are of special interest (in each case the date of enactment appears after the section number in parentheses):

66-207 (Feb. 21, 1945). Proprietors of places of public assembly to allot separate seats to be occupied by white and colored persons. It shall be the duty of the proprietor or person in charge of any place of public assembly, where attendance of both races is permitted, to allot different sections or portions to be occupied by colored people. The proprietor or person in charge of such place of public assembly shall be charged with the duty and responsibility of seating white people in portions allotted to white people and colored people in portions allotted to colored people only.

66-208 (Feb. 21, 1945). Patrons of theaters and other places of public assembly required to sit in spaces allotted to the separate races. It shall be unlawful for any patron of a theater or other place of public assembly, whether admission is for a consideration or is free, to sit in any seats allotted to the opposite race, that is white people shall sit in seats allotted by the proprietor or person in charge of such place to white people and colored people shall sit in seats allotted by such proprietor or manager in charge to colored people.

66-209 (Feb. 21, 1945). Penalties. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of Section 66-207 or 66-208 shall come upon conviction in the Recorders Court, be fined not more than $25.00 or imprisoned not more than 30 days, either or both penalties to be inflicted in the discretion of the Recorder.

82-113.1 (Feb. 21, 1945). Whites and colored to be seated separately. That in all theaters, arenas, public halls, auditoriums or other places of public assembly, whether admission is for a consideration or is free, white and colored persons shall sit separate and apart from one another. It shall be the duty of the proprietor of such places of assembly or those in charge of the same, where attendance of both races is allowed, to allot the section or portion of said place of assembly to be occupied by white and colored persons respectively. It shall be a violation of this section for any white or colored person to sit in the portion or section of the place of assembly that has not been allotted or set aside for the respective white or colored races. It shall further be a violation of this section for any person in charge of such place of public assembly, where both races are permitted to attend, not to allot and set apart separate portions or sections of the place of assembly for white and colored persons to sit separately. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall on conviction in the Recorders Court be fined not more than $25.00 or imprisoned for not more than 30 days, either or both in the discretion of the Recorder.

The only other provisions of the City Code requiring segregation are: in barber shops, 37-129, 37-130; in places selling wine or beer for on-premises consumption, 55-217; in playing baseball games, 66-1005; in restaurants, 53-603 through 53-606; in street cars, 85-138, 85-139; in taxicabs and autos for hire, 62-121; in use of cemeteries, 42-302; in use of parks, 68-126.

Segregation

SEGREGATION LAWS

On the following pages is a compilation of some segregation laws in the Southern states. Changes in the law after 1940 have not been included.

This is a compilation of state laws only. Although the local laws are very important and include such things as segregation in theatres, eating places, etc., they are too numerous and varied to be included.

The following books have further information on segregation laws:

1. The Legal Status of the Negro, by C. S. Magnum, University of North Carolina Press, 1940

2. Patterns of Segregation, by Johnson, C.S., University of North Carolina Press.

3. The Constitution and Civil Rights, by Konvitz, Milton R., Columbia University Press.

SEGREGATION LAWS IN THE SOUTHERN STATES

A. PUBLIC BUILDINGS:

1. Schools: All public schools are required by law to have separate buildings for colored and white children in the following states:

Alabama	Kentucky	Missouri	Tennessee
Arkansas	Louisiana	North Carolina	Texas
Delaware	Florida	Oklahoma	Virginia
Georgia	Mississippi	South Carolina	West Virginia
	District of Columbia

In Arizona there are two methods of segregation, either of which may be used, but in any case, segregation is mandatory.

In Maryland it is the duty of the authorities to establish a colored school if there are enough colored students to warrant it.

Segregation per se in Education does not violate the Constitution (14th Amendment) by ruling of the Supreme Court.

A Typical Segregation Law on Education: (Georgia, 1933, #32-937) "Admission to all common schools shall be gratuitous to all children between the ages of 6 and 18 years residing in the subdistricts in which the schools are located. Colored and white children shall not attend the same school; and no teacher....teaching white and colored pupils in the same school shall be allowed any compensation at all out of the common school fund."

2. State Prisons: Segregation is mandatory by statute in:

Alabama	Florida	Virginia
Georgia	Louisiana	Texas
Arkansas	Mississippi	North Carolina

In the other Southern states, it is just a "policy" regulated by the prison officials.

There is mandatory segregation in convict camps in:

Arkansas	Georgia	North Carolina
Florida	Louisiana	Texas

There is mandatory segregation in jails in:

Alabama	Florida	Mississippi
Arkansas	Louisiana	North Carolina

A Typical Segregation Law on Convicts: (Georgia)
"No person controlling convicts shall confine white and colored convicts together or chain them together going to or from their work or at any other time."

3. Hospitals:

Separate institutions for negro insane are required by law in:

Maryland	Virginia	West Virginia
North Carolina	Oklahoma

Separate institutions for the feebleminded are required by law in:

Tennessee	Alabama	Missouri
Mississippi	Kentucky

Separate institutions or segregation within institutions for the blind and deaf are required by law in:

South Carolina	Kentucky	Arkansas
West Virginia	Louisiana	Alabama
North Carolina	Oklahoma	Georgia
Virginia	Texas

B. PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION:

1. The following states have "Jim Crow Laws":

Alabama	Louisiana	Mississippi
Arkansas	Maryland	North Carolina
Florida	Oklahoma	South Carolina
Georgia	Virginia	Tennessee
Kentucky	Texas

2. There are state laws making segregation compulsory on

a. Railways in all the above states except Virginia.

b. Interurban Transportation Lines in:

North Carolina	Texas	South Carolina
Oklahoma	West Virginia	Maryland

c. Steamships in:

Maryland	North Carolina	Virginia

d. Motor Carriers in:

Alabama	Louisiana	North Carolina
Arkansas	Mississippi	South Carolina
Georgia	Oklahoma	Virginia

A Typical "Jim Crow" Law: (Georgia, 1933, #18-206)

"Railroad Companies doing business in this state shall furnish equal accommodations on separate cars or compartments of cars for white and colored passengers and when a car is divided into compartments, the space set apart for white and colored passengers respectively may be proportioned accordingly in the proportion of usual and ordinary travel by each on the railroad or line on which the cars are used. Such companies shall furnish to the passengers comfortable seats and shall have the car well and sufficiently ventilated. Officers or employees having charge of railroad cars shall not allow white and colored passengers to occupy the same car or compartment."

C. PROPERTY

There are no state laws on segregation in ownership of property such as houses, stores, etc. The Supreme Court has ruled that any such law would be unconstitutional under the 14th amendment of the constitution. Such segregation is accomplished by restrictive covenants, whereby citizens make private agreements among themselves not to let Negroes, Jews, Catholics, etc. into a certain section of a city. "That Amendment erects no shield against merely private conduct however discriminatory or wrongful." (Shelley Vs. Kramer, U.S. Supreme Court)

D. INDUSTRY

Segregation in industry is almost wholly in the hands of private business. However, in the

1. Coal Mines in Texas separate bathing quarters and lockers are required by state law;

2. Manufacturing Plants in towns of 1,000 or more, North Carolina law requires separate toilets;

3. Cotton Textile Factories in South Carolina, segregated pay windows, exits, stairs, lavatories, toilets, and drinking utensils are required by law.

Form A.
Number _____

INCIDENT MEMORANDUM

Section I

1. Date of Interview_____ 2. Time of Interview_____
3. Place of Interview_____ 4. City_____ 5.State_____
6. Name of Informant_____ 7.Sex_____ 8.Race_____
10. Address of Informant_____ 9.Age_____
11. Occupation of Informant_____
a. Company_____ b. Station_____
12. Interviewer_____

Section II

INCIDENT:
Date_____ Time_____
Place_____ Line_____

Form B
Number _____

FACTORS TO BE OBSERVED RELATIVE TO PERSONNEL SERVICES IN TRANSPORTATION

1. Name of station _____
2. Waiting Room: white _____ ; colored _____
3. Date _____ ; Time _____
4. City and State _____
5. OBSERVER _____

I Information Service

A. Is personnel courteous? (Consider tone of voice, manner of speech, etc.)

_____

_____

B. Are white and colored passengers served in due turn? _____

_____

_____

_____

II Telegraphic Service

A. Is personnel courteous? _____

_____

_____

B. Are white and colored passengers served in due turn? _____

_____

_____

_____

III Travelers' Aid

A. Is personnel courteous? _____

_____

B. Are white and colored passengers served in due turn? _____

_____

_____

IV Ticket Office

A. Is personnel courteous?_____

B. Are white and colored passengers served in due turn?_____

V Pullman Service

A. How are tickets purchased by Negroes?_____

1. At central or joint ticket office?_____

2. At station?_____

B. How are tickets purchased by white people?_____

1. At central or joint ticket office?_____

2. At station?_____

VI Restaurant

A. Is personnel courteous?_____

B. What is minimum service time?_____

_____

_____

C. List menus (note changes)_____

_____

_____

D. List food prices_____

_____

_____

E. Describe the types and conditions of attendants dress (uniform, etc.)___

_____

_____

_____

F. Describe the condition of the serviceware (linen, silver, etc.)_____

_____

_____

G. Are pests (rodents, insects, etc.) on the premises?_____

_____

H. Are loiterers observed on the premises?_____

_____

I. What is the method of handling food?_____

_____

_____

J. Are the premises sanitary?_____

_____

VII Rest Room: Men_____Women_____(Check one observed)

A. Does room have a regular attendant?_____

_____

B .Does maid or porter work on full-time or part-time basis_____

_____

C. Is the place in sanitary condition?_____

_____

_____

D. Are soap and towels available?_____

_____

E. Is provision made for emergencies, such as sickness? If so, what provisions?_____

_____

VIII Baggage

A. Is personnel courteous?_____

_____

B. Are white and colored passengers served in due turn? _____

_____

IX Miscellaneous

A. Are water fountains in working order?_____

_____Location?_____

B. Counters

1. Are counters in sanitary condition?_____

_____

2. What are the methods of handling food?_____

_____

3. Are white and colored passengers served in due turn?_____

_____

C. Do clocks have correct time?_____

_____

D. Are automatic devices in working order (as coca-cola machines, juke boxes, etc.)?_____

_____

X General waiting area between waiting rooms and gates to carriers.

A. Gate personnel

1. Is personnel courteous _____

_____

2. Does personnel strive to be helpful to passengers? _____

_____

_____

B. Note any acts of segregation in the area _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

XI Boarding of carriers

A. Courtesy and helpfulness

1. Conductor _____

_____

_____

2. Porter _____

_____

_____

3. Other _____

_____

_____

Form M
Number _____

SCHEDULE FOR OBSERVATION OF URBAN AND INTERURBAN STREETCARS, TRACKLESS TROLLEYS AND BUSSES

Urban _____ INTERURBAN_____(check one)

1. Date_____ 2.Point of Origin_____
3. Destination_____ 4.Mode of Transportation_____
5. Time_____ 6.Name of Observer_____
7. Line_____

1

2

3

4

Form N
Number _____

SCHEDULE FOR OBSERVATION OF WAITING FACILITIES
of
URBAN AND INTERURBAN STREET CARS, BUSSES, AND TRACKLESS TROLLEYS

Section I.

1. Facility_____ 2. Location_____
3. Date_____ 4. Time_____
5. City and State_____
Observer_____
Line Served_____

Section II.

I. Waiting Facility
A. Seats
1. Number of available seats_____
2. Number of Negroes seated_____ 3.Standing_____
4. Number of whites seated_____ 5.Standing_____
B. Signs
1. Location_____
2. Wording _____

II.Method of boarding carriers_____
_____

Remarks:

Form O

SCHEDULE OF FACILITIES AND SERVICES ON TRAINS AND BUSSES

1. Point of origin of carrier _____ 2. Destination of carrier _____

3. Point of origin of observer _____ 4. Destination of observer _____

5. Mode of transportation _____ 6. Railroad or bus company _____

7. Carrier number, if any _____ 8. Date of trip _____

9. Trip mileage _____ 10. Hours in transit _____

11. Coaches observed on trains ____ For white _____ For colored _____ (Check one)

SECTION I. FACILITIES AND CONVENIENCES

I. Trains: Facilities

A. Coaches

1. Number provided _____

a. cars _____
b. compartments _____

2. Type — Steel _____ Wooden _____ Streamlined _____

3. Coach or car number (s) _____

4. When built _____ 5. When last reconditioned _____

6. Date of obsolescence _____

7. Proximity to locomotive _____

B. Seating

1. Number of seats _____

2. Type of seats

a. cushioned _____
b. leather _____
c. reclining chair _____

3. Condition of seats — in repair _____ need repair _____

a. seat covers provided _____
b. clean _____ unclean _____

C. Ventilation

1. Windows -- single_____ double _____ manipulation _____

2. Fans -- number _____ location _____

3. Air-conditioning _____

4. Other types of ventilation (check): by open windows___ by open coach doors____ from ceiling _____

D. Wash Room _____ Remark Room _____ (Check one)

1. Wash room

a. separate from toilet _____
b. same room with toilet _____
c. mirrors _____ number _____
d. basin _____ in repair _____ need repair _____
e. soap _____
f. towels _____
g. water available _____

2. Toilet

a. mirrors_____ number _____
b. soap _____
c. towels _____
d. water _____
e. commode -- in repair_____need repair _____

3. Lounge _____ Smoker _____(Check one or both)

a. number of seats _____
b. other conveniences _____

_____

_____

_____

E. Lighting

1. Number of lighting units _____

2. Type of lighting _____

3. Adequate _____ Inadequate _____ (Check one)

F. Miscellaneous

SECTION II. SERVICES AND DENSITY OF TRAVEL.

I. Tickets

A. Are ticket sellers apparently prompt in rendering service to ticket purchasers? _____

B. Do ticket sellers appear courteous in performance of duty? _____

C. Is there at least one ticket seller on duty at all times at ticket window or counter observed? _____

D. What is the method of taking tickets? _____

_____

II. Boarding Passengers

A. Who boards passengers on coach or train observed? _____

B. What is the method of directing passengers to coach or compartment? _____

_____

_____

III. Unloading Passengers

A. Are stops called audibly? _____

B. Do train employees exercise care in awaking sleeping coach passengers? _____

C. What aid is given passengers who are disembarking at points? _____

_____

_____

By whom? _____

IV. Use of Coaches

A. What trainmen occupy seats for considerable period while observer is in transit? _____

_____

1. What duties, if any, do they perform in coach? _____

_____

B. If passengers are standing do trainmen, if seated, relinquish seats to passengers? _____

C. How many seats in the coach are used by trainmen? _____

V. Porter Service

A. What is the mileage of trip taken for observation? _____

B. How many times does the attendant sweep coach, collect waste, etc.? _____

_____

C. List special services rendered by porter or car attendant. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

VX. Dining Car Service

A. What is the exact time dining car waiters make calls for breakfast? _____

Lunch? _____ Dinner? _____

B. How many calls are made for breakfast? _____ Lunch? _____ Dinner? _____

C. Describe the general pattern of service in the dining car. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Note incidents, if any. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

VII. Concession Service

A. How many times does the concessionaire bring wares to coach? _____

1. List commodities offered by concessionaire. _____

_____

_____

_____

B. From what point does concessionaire peddle his wares? _____

VIII. Courtesy of Trainmen

A. Is conductor courteous? (Consider tone of voice, general manner, etc.) _____

_____

Cite act (s) or incident (s) to justify answer. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

B. Is porter courteous? _____

Cite act(s) or incident(s). _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

C. Are other trainmen courteous? _____

List each and cite act(s) or incident(s). _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

IX. Miscellaneous

A. Is smoking permitted anywhere in the coach or compartment? _____

In a smoker? _____

B. Is drinking water available at all times? _____

1. Is it cold? _____

2. Are there paper cups available? _____

3. How many sources of drinking water are in the coach or compartment? _____

C. Are toilets and/or wash rooms sanitary? _____

1. Describe general condition of them. _____

_____

_____

_____

D. Are pillows furnished by trainmen? _____

E. What is the general practice of opening and closing of toilet doors? _____

_____

_____

F. Do cinders fall in coach? _____

G. Are there ornaments in the car? _____

1. If so, describe them. _____

_____

H. Are windows clean? _____

I. What is the general appearance of trainmen's uniforms? _____

_____

_____

J. Overcrowding.

1. How many seats are vacant on car or in compartment between stops? List stops.

From	To	Vacant Seats

2. How many standers are there on car or in compartment between stops?

From	To	Number of Standers

(From)	(To)	(Number of Standers)

FORM P
Number __

SCHEDULE FOR OBSERVATION OF FACILITIES AND SERVICES ON BUSSES

1. Point of origin of carrier_____ 2. Destination of carrier_____

3. Point of origin of observer _____ 4. Destination of observer_____

5. Name of company_____ 6. Carrier company, if any_____

7. Date of trip_____ 8. Trip mileage_____

9. Hours in transit_____ 10. Name of observer_____

I. Method of boarding carriers

A. At station at which observer boarded carrier --(Do races board separately or together? If servicemen are boarded first, does this include Negro service men? Indicate also whether or not Negroes have to push to back of bus through a crowd of standers.)

B. At stations other than one at which observer boarded carrier -- (Designate each station; include points mentioned above.)

C. Along the road at undesignated stops — (Observer should be careful to note any instances when the bus driver does not stop to pick up passengers along the road who have signalled for the bus to stop. This applies to both Negro and white patrons. Degree of crowding in busses should be noted in this connection.)

II. Seating

A. Number of seats on bus _____

1. Number designated for white passengers _____

2. Number designated for Negro passengers _____

a. type of designation (describe) _____

_____

_____

3. Number actually occupied by white passengers as carrier leaves station at which observer boarded _____

4. Number actually occupied by Negro passengers as carrier leaves station at which observer boarded _____

B. Condition of seats

1. Seats either designated for whites or usually occupied by white passengers_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

2. Seats either designated for Negroes or usually occupied by Negroes _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

III. Overcrowding

A. Number of standers on bus as it leaves station at which observer boarded_____

1. Negro _____

2. White _____

B. Number of passengers sitting in other than regular seats (indicate where seated).

1. White _____

2. Negro _____

C. Number of standers along the way (indicate any changes; include name of station or station nearest to which stop is made. Indicate number of Negro and number of white standers; indicate also any changes in number of those seated in other than regular seats.

IV. If Passengers board carriers without tickets, will driver accept cash fare? Indicate procedure at stations and along the road. Record any incidents.

V. When food is sold to passengers through carrier windows, are Negroes also served?

Note any methods of food service to whites and Negroes.

VI. What is the general decorum of the passengers?— Record any human interest stories. Cite incidents to support your conclusions.

VII. What is the general manner of the driver toward the passengers? Cite incidents to support your statement (s).

VIII. Describe waiting rooms for both races at stations along the road. Include particularly rest rooms and eating places.

IX. Record any incidents or observations not included elsewhere.

Will W. Alexander, long a student of interracial relations and of American agriculture, is vice-president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund.

OUR CONFLICTING RACIAL POLICIES

WILL W. ALEXANDER

WHILE there is nowhere any official statement of the policy of this country as to its Negro citizens, an examination of our actual dealing with Negroes indicates that over the years unofficial policies have been developed. In fact, there have been two well-defined policies in race relations and only two.

The first of these is the policy that Negroes shall be educated. Negro education had its beginnings in the activities of Northern churches when, immediately following the Civil War, they established schools for Negroes in the South. These schools have had a profound influence. Their establishment was followed by the inauguration of separate state-supported schools for Negroes in the South, and by the opening to Negroes of schools in the rest of the country. So firmly has the idea of educating Negroes taken hold that today the annual expenditure in the Southern states for the higher education of Negroes exceeds the total income of all private schools for Negroes. The increase in educational opportunity has caused the Negro illiteracy rate to drop from 95 per cent at emancipation to less than 10 per cent today. And the Southern states are showing a tendency to move toward equalization of educational funds for Negro and white schools.

Everywhere the idea of education for Negroes is accepted as part of our American way. Howard, Fisk, and Atlanta Universities have come to take their place as institutions of higher learning which are making an important contribution not only to Negro life but to national life. In the great graduate schools of the North, wherever knowledge is pursued, increasingly Negro scholars are doing creditable work. In many cases these men and women are doing superior work in fields that have nothing to do with Negroes as such; they are contributing to the enrichment of American culture. The superior quality of the educated American Negroes always impresses foreigners as a striking aspect of American life.

FOREIGNERS are also puzzled by America's second policy regarding her Negro population: segregation. Segregation is not only Southern, but national—it varies not so much in degree as in method in different sections of the country. In the South segregation in schools, transportation, entertainment, and community services is maintained by law and by custom. In the North segregation is maintained by social pressure and by such quasi-legal arrangements as restrictive covenants. In connection with many public services, such as hotels and restaurants, segregation is as rigid in the North as in the South. Thus segregation is accepted in all sections of the country to about the same degree that education is provided and accepted.

Reprinted from HARPER'S MAGAZINE, January 1945
Copyright, 1944, by Harper & Brothers. All Rights Reserved.

Much of the uncertainty and tension in connection with our American race relations grows out of the conflict in these policies. Education is the most hopeful aspect of American race relations. Segregation is one of the most puzzling aspects of American life, and one of the most difficult questions in American race relations. It is generally recognized by Negroes as their number-one problem and is insisted upon by many whites as the one thing in the American race scene that can never be modified or dispensed with. Here we have the greatest conflict between our professed democratic doctrines and our actual practice in day-by-day living. Segregation tends to defeat the inspiring work of Negro education. Unless the problem of segregation can be solved, there is no hope of any alleviation of the race problem in America.

II

THE fact that segregation exists is bad enough. To make matters worse the patterns of segregation are so inconsistent as to be completely bewildering to Negroes. Often they cannot tell just what is expected of them. For example, in one railroad station in the South, Negro and white passengers have to board the railroad trains through separate gates; but leaving the trains in this station, they use the same gate.

In some Southern communities, Negroes are supposed to sit in the front of the streetcar or bus in order to maintain racial separation; in others, they must be seated in the rear of the car.

In some office buildings in the South, Negroes have access to the general elevator service. In other buildings, a special elevator is provided which carries both white and colored passengers. Occasionally special elevators marked "Negroes and Freight" are provided.

In the past, the use of Pullmans by Negroes has been usually confined to "Lower 13"—which means that an influential Negro traveler could occupy the drawing room for the price of a lower. Now, in some cities, Negroes can secure Pullman reservations.

Both North and South, Negroes are usually denied service by hotels and restaurants that serve the general public. Occasionally, however, if sponsored by some white person with sufficient influence, they are admitted as a special privilege to limited service. This lack of consistency and uniformity occurs all the way through the pattern of American Negro segregation and is very confusing and irritating to Negroes and to white persons who are with them.

MUCH more important than these vagaries is the fact that segregation has meant inferior service to Negroes. The constitutions of most Southern states require that there shall be equal, but separate, schools for Negroes. But an examination of the expenditures for Negro and white education in those same states, and the cities within the states, indicates that segregation in education has meant not equal but inferior service to Negroes. Studies of nine Southern states in 1940 showed average annual expenditures of $58.69 per white student and only $18.82 per Negro. In Mississippi the discrepancy was much greater—$52.01 compared to $7.36.

In cities North and South, housing is far poorer for Negroes than for whites. Colored people are largely forced to live in slum areas which have been abandoned by other groups. And Negroes who are financially able to secure better accommodations find it almost impossible to do so outside the segregated areas. Residential segregation has forced Negroes to pay higher rents and higher purchase prices for inferior accommodations in every city where they seek housing. Residential segregation, as well as administrative arrangement, has led to a definite tendency in Northern cities toward segregated Negro schools. Since Negroes are usually required to live in the overcrowded sections of these cities, separate schools for Negroes in Northern cities are usually housed in run-down buildings and are similarly overcrowded. In Chicago, sixteen public schools have double shifts—all of them Negro schools.

Where segregation has been enforced in transportation, Negro travelers have had less space per traveler, older and less sanitary cars, less safety, and less courtesy and consideration from the servants of the railroads—not only the ticket sellers but the brakemen and flagmen, who usually occupy much of the space set aside for Negro travelers.

IN MANY ways the most subtle and most damaging form of segregation results from the fact that while educating Negroes for participation in American life, we have denied them free participation in the economic life of the country. Consciously and unconsciously we have developed, both North and South, so-called Negro jobs which tend to freeze Negro employment in the lower income brackets and to exclude Negroes from an opportunity to acquire skills in other than the poorer jobs. This has tended to lead to segregation within the labor movement; this, until the coming of the CIO with its new patterns of organization, was a means of excluding Negroes permanently from large areas of employment in organized industries. It left Negroes little choice but to become strike-breakers, divided the ranks of labor, and weakened the labor movement in America perceptibly. Even when labor unions were friendly, qualified Negroes were often turned away by employers.

There are some white people who assume that we can have two economic systems—one for Negroes and another for whites. A very charming lady in a discussion of the problems of Negro employment said, "Why don't Negroes employ each other?" When it was called to her attention that there were great difficulties as to capital and organization, she said, "Why, Marian Anderson makes lots of money. She could use that to set up business concerns to meet the economic needs of Negroes." This is quoted because it is typical of much of the thinking on this question.

In an effort to solve their economic problems, Negroes have established some business concerns that employ Negroes and serve the Negro community. The Negro insurance companies are the most successful of these enterprises and the best of them have made large contributions to sustaining the economic life of the American Negroes. But to adopt economic segregation as a means of solving the economic problems of Negroes bears on its very face the stamp of futility. There can be no adequate provision for the economic life of these thirteen million Americans except as they share in the general economic life of the country.

III

THE segregation of Negroes in jobs, their exclusion from free access to the ways in which other citizens earn their living, has meant permanent poverty, degradation, and defeat—not only for the majority of Negroes, but for other large sections of the American people One of the causes for the general poverty of the South is the failure to develop the economic potentialities of Southern Negroes. By allowing the Negro to remain at a low economic level, the South has kept itself on the bottom rung of the economic ladder. Slavery was responsible for the plight of the poor white in the South, and the low wages and generally low standards of living for Negroes since Emancipation have added greatly to the difficulty of improving the status of the Southern white worker. He is perhaps the poorest and least skilled white man in the world. He will remain so until better economic advantages are available both for him and his Negro neighbor. Poverty cannot be segregated—North or South. Economic realists in the South admit privately that if the South is to succeed, something must be done about the economic status of Negroes. An effort to deal realistically with the question of Southern poverty will reveal that segregation is wasteful, expensive, and economically unsound.

Segregation has impeded the nation in the use of its manpower in the war effort. When the manpower shortage developed, it was discovered that, because they had been denied free access to work experience, many of our Negro workers were lacking in the required skills. But a greater handicap was the fact that in many plants even qualified workers were not accepted, or were accepted only in the lower, unskilled brackets. Their employment and advancement were opposed by other workers and by many employers, who, despite the long and creditable history of Negro workers in this country, insisted that Negroes could not build ships and planes and guns. Finally the President, in order to meet the emergency, was forced to issue Executive Order 8802, requiring that all war contracts should provide that there should be no discrimination in employment "because of race, creed, or national origin," and that an agency—the Fair Employment Practice Committee—should be set up to enforce this provision. While this has resulted in wider and more intelligent use of Negro labor, much time and manpower had already been wasted by the time the order was issued. And the new arrangement has been only partially successful because of continued opposition and the limited authority of the Committee.

OUR American policy of segregating Negroes has created an almost impossible task for the armed forces. Because of this, in the past the Navy has used Negroes only in the most limited way. The Army has, on the other hand, used Negroes as enlisted men and, to a limited degree, as officers—but always in segregated units. This arrangement has been expensive and difficult to administer, and has limited the use which the Army could make of Negro troops.

Because of the special conditions under which the Negro soldier serves and the attitudes which he encounters outside the Army camps, it is difficult for him to develop a high morale. He feels that he is being asked to give his service and perhaps his life for a country that guarantees him only second-class citizenship. His segregation in the Army symbolizes the limitations he suffers as a citizen. He often feels that he is a limited kind of a soldier—outside military reservations his uniform does not secure for him the respect and consideration given to other men in uniform. In World War II, it has been reported that in some unusual cases prisoners of war have been admitted to eating places in which Negro men in the uniform of their country have been denied service because of their color. If American Negro soldiers could fight in this war in voluntary, unsegregated units of Americans or with the French or Russians, the question of their morale would be less of a problem. They have already made excellent records in combat, and on today's battlefields are proving themselves able fighting men. But our discriminatory policies—our refusal to use them as widely as their capabilities deserve—are handicapping the war effort. The Negro contribution to it would be much greater if we would only allow it to be.

THERE is no better evidence of our conflicting racial policies than in the churches which have been the champions of Negro education. Certainly, what the church has done for Negroes has been largely within the pattern of segregation. This is especially true of the Protestant churches. It seems to be less true of the Catholic church. The difference is to be found in the fact that, in most cases, a Protestant church is to some extent a social organization as well as a place of worship; the Catholic church, with its emphasis on worship, is more nearly an altar before which all men are equal.

On many Protestant churches are announcements to the effect that "all are welcome." A Negro reading this announcement knows that, in most cases, if he turned up at any of the activities he would not be welcome or the embarrassment on the part of the preacher and the congregation would be such as to destroy any sense of spiritual fellowship. These churches give money for the support of Negro schools, hospitals, and orphanages, but would be embarrassed at accepting Negro Christians into full fellowship in their church activities. In most Southern Protestant churches, Negro worshipers would be seated in the gallery or otherwise segregated.

In many American cities, Negro communities have grown by infiltration into old communities formerly occupied by whites. In spite of the fact that Negroes are Protestants and speak the same language as the old congregations, the churches in these areas do not, as a rule, offer any service to the incoming Negroes. The advent of Negroes is not looked upon as an opportunity for service, but as a reason for moving on.

In institutions owned and operated by the church, the segregation pattern is usually accepted—at least in a modified form. One of the largest church-controlled universities in the country, while accepting Negro students, does not allow them to live in its dormitories. Church-controlled hospitals do not, as a rule, admit Negro physicians for practice or train Negro nurses. Many of these church-controlled institutions own real estate, held in the form of endowment. Restrictive covenants as to Negro occupancy usually cover such property.

One of the great inconveniences to Negroes is the general denial of service by hotels and public eating places, in violation of the civil rights laws. The American population is mobile. Our type of life necessitates travel. The result is our remarkable hotel system, upon which large sections of our population depend for comfort and health. In being denied access to this public service, Negroes are greatly handicapped. Anyone who knows the facts wonders how even so distinguished a person as Marian Anderson can stand up under the hardships of travel which she encounters because of the lack of hotel service.

Segregation carried to its logical conclusion is often dramatized by cruel and inhuman aspects. A few years ago a graduate of Fisk University, Miss Julie Dericott, a young woman of charm and culture, was seriously injured in an automobile accident in north Georgia. She was taken to the nearby hospital, where emergency treatment was requested. She was very fair but when it was discovered that she was classified as a Negro, she was refused emergency treatment. She died on the long journey to Atlanta attempting to reach the nearest hospital known to give emergency treatment to colored people.

Recently in Atlanta a Negro girl stepped off the streetcar on one of the wider streets. A speeding driver knocked her down and left her lying unconscious. A crowd gathered and one white woman who had seen the accident requested that an ambulance be called. The ambulance came but the driver, seeing that the victim was a Negro girl, said, "We can't haul a nigger," and drove away, leaving the victim of the accident by the roadside. Such incidents are not isolated. They happen frequently and seem to be an inevitable consequence of segregation as it works out in practice in many sections of America. Most white people are not aware of them.

IV

Segregation in the South not only separates the races but symbolizes the idea of the inevitable inferiority of Negroes. It "keeps the Negro in his place," not only on the streetcars and busses, but in the social and economic system. It is more effective as a symbol than as a means of preventing contact between the races. In fact, racial contacts are more intimate in the South than in any other section of the country. Southerners as a rule do not object to contact with Negroes so long as the idea of Negro inferiority is maintained. Segregation does this. This fact explains why the South has never claimed that under segregation there are equal services for the races.

Under the new pressures that have come with the war to save democracy and the stronger pressures that will come when the war is won, the South will probably attempt to attain equal services within the framework of segregation. There are two reasons why this will not be possible—one psychological and the other practical. There will be resistance in the South to any modification of the symbol of the Negro's inferiority. When a person speaks of the Negro "getting out of hand," he usually means getting out of his inferior status. Therefore, equal service would destroy to some extent one of the chief functions of segregation. If Negroes in the South had equal service under segregation, they would have gone a long way toward "getting out of hand," because the symbolic function of segregation would have lost much of its meaning.

As a practical matter, separate but equal service under segregation cannot be rendered. Such service would require, for example, the duplication of the present most expensive phases of transportation, and the duplication of the state university systems, already poorly supported. Separate and equal services for the races in the South, or any other section, are a luxury which cannot be afforded.

It is generally accepted that human beings behave better in the long run when they enjoy a maximum of freedom. Human relations are certainly more satisfactory when they are a result of free choice. Left with the maximum amount of freedom, white and colored Americans would probably adjust amicably most of the difficulties that arose between them. Under the denial of freedom which segregation enforces, there is constant and increasing friction. An examination of incidents where tension has become acute will indicate that most of the tensions are involved in and aggravated by segregation. Rioting is less frequent in mixed residential neighborhoods than elsewhere. Segregation accentuates unduly the racial factors in our civilization and obscures the wide cultural differences that exist within the racial groups. To many white people, every Negro looks like every other Negro and any white man, no matter how unworthy, is better than any Negro, however distinguished. Segregation tends to make every row between a white man and a Negro, whatever the initial cause may have been, a race quarrel.

Left free, human beings group themselves according to their tastes, interests, and cultural backgrounds. American Negroes are not seeking an opportunity to mingle with whites. They desire freedom and opportunity to live as Americans. If there were no arbitrary segregation, common interests and common backgrounds would probably lead most American Negroes to develop their own way of living and find much of their association among themselves as other groups do.

Whenever the matter of freedom or equal opportunity for Negroes is discussed, the question of intermarriage usually arises. It will probably be sufficient to point out that miscegenation in this country has already gone a long way —chiefly in those very sections where the relations between whites and Negroes have been "least free" and where segregation has been most deeply rooted in law and custom. The majority of our colored people in America today are the result of racial intermixture which has taken place under segregation.

There are some evidences of changes in the pattern of American segregation—small but significant. There are evidences of dissatisfaction with it. One such evidence is the very vehement declaration by some that segregation must not and cannot be modified in any way. The advocates of segregation protest too much. In the very loudness and continuousness of their protests is one of the best evidences that the country is not satisfied, and that segregation is not succeeding.

The change in government attitude is especially significant. In the past the federal authorities, on the whole, accepted the segregated pattern of employment in government. Government work was open to Negroes only in the lower service brackets. There were many Negro messengers, porters, charwomen, but outside of the postal service no Negroes were employed in positions that required education or technical training. Negroes were excluded from restaurants in government buildings. Since the beginning of World War II this has changed, and today there are in government departments large numbers of Negro clerical workers and an increasing number of Negroes doing technical work. Here the educated Negroes are finding an opportunity for work in which they can use the training they have acquired. The federal government will continue to be one of the large employers in the country, and its employment patterns should have real influence on other employers.

In the long run, it may turn out that the new attitude of labor toward Negro workers, as expressed by the CIO, will have more significance than the changes that have taken place in government employment patterns. Officially, the CIO has abolished the color line as to opportunity and privileges for Negroes in it unions. An educational division has been created in part for the purpose of bringing the rank and file of the CIO to accept the idea of the essential unity of all American workers without regard to race. Negro workers are finding in the CIO a champion where they most need it, among the masses of workers to which most Negroes belong. The CIO is, at the moment, the most promising force for correcting the inconsistencies in our racial patterns. Furthermore, its policy is already having an effect upon older, more conservative unions and is giving support to many liberal-minded employers who are willing to give Negro workers a chance.

Another source of encouragement is the growing pressure within and without the South for some kind of change. This will probably lead to an effort to furnish equal but separate services to the races. While such an effort cannot succeed, it will certainly result in some improvement of service to Negroes under segregation. In the long run, it may lead to the modification of the present patterns of segregation in the South. How rapidly and how far these changes will go depends upon many factors, chief of which are the strength of the growing liberal movement in the South and the amount of political influence Southern Negroes acquire.

V

In the acquisition of political power lies one of the Negro's great hopes for improving his status. Certainly the Negro's vote in border and Northern states will hold for him the gains made in government employment. The organized political power of the CIO is on his side; through its affiliation with Negro political groups and its fight in behalf of all liberal movements, it gives the Negro real help in obtaining the things all citizens want. By the strength of their votes and increasing political representation, Negroes could get better schools, housing, health facilities—all the public services. And they could use their influence to assure the enforcement of the civil rights statutes that are already enacted.

For example, New York is America's most liberal city. Negroes in New York have more political influence than in any other city in America. New York is a city of hotels which deny service to Negroes. New York State has good civil rights laws. It would seem reasonable to expect that before much longer, New York hotels may find themselves liberalizing their service to Negro travelers. Such a thing—if it could be brought about—would have an influence that would be far-reaching. To achieve it would be a good use of the power of New York's able Negro political leadership.

Under the Constitution, as liberally interpreted by our present Supreme Court, many of the legal devices by which segregation is protected could no doubt be declared unconstitutional if properly presented to the Court. This has already been done in important fields. Even though the Gaines decision has not yet put any colored students in the University of Missouri, the fact that prevailing systems of segregation in higher education are unconstitutional has caused uneasiness in the states where such systems prevail. Since the Supreme Court decision declaring the "white" Texas primary unconstitutional, it is apparent that political participation of Negroes in the South has been greatly accelerated.

There is no doubt that the Negro vote, the power of labor, and government attitudes can profoundly affect our racial practices. If the church with its strong influence also took a firm stand, the process could be accelerated. And there are some indications that church leaders are becoming aware of the feebleness of their position. One well-known theological seminary in the South has seriously considered service to Negroes. Opposition was so strong that the idea had to be given up. The American Protestant church has ambitions for extension into Africa and Asia. Its racial policies at home stand in the way. Increasing numbers of American church leaders realize the far-reaching effect of American racial segregation on the influence of the church abroad. Because of this, within the next few years the patterns of segregation within the church and church institutions in America may be greatly modified in the direction of a more democratic and more Christian practice. The church has wide contacts with many classes and kinds of people in this country. Whatever it might do in the interest of a policy of non-segregation within the local churches and church institutions would be leaven widely placed in American life.

Most white Americans are puzzled and alarmed by the impatience and bitterness of large sections of our Negro population. They feel that Negroes are no longer pleasant to live with. Whites are inclined to charge this to some subversive influence from the outside. Many Southerners say that agitators from the North are responsible for stirring up Negroes in the South. In other sections of the country, Negro resentment and unrest are usually charged to Communists or whatever bogy happens to be current in the mind of the community.

That there is unrest and bitterness among our Negro population is a fact. This unrest is to be found not just among Negro intellectuals; it exists also in the alleys of our Negro ghettos and among the remote and inarticulate Negro sharecroppers and common laborers. It will not pass with the war. Negroes were probably never so docile as they seemed. The trouble is that they behave like other human beings. In subjecting Negroes to American education we have made them Americans. So completely American are they that they will not submit passively to being pushed around as they are under segregation. Educational opportunity for the common man is a part of the American way of life. In giving it to Negroes, we have let them in on the meaning of democracy. Their unrest under their special limitations is the result not of sinister influence from the outside, but of our education, which, with all its faults, is the best thing in our democracy.

The education of Negroes in America has not been a mistake. Here we see American faith and American idealism at their best. Segregation, on the other hand, is rooted in fear and in doubt as to whether our democratic principles will really work. It remains to be seen whether or not our faith in democracy is strong enough to overcome our fears as to what may be some of its consequences.

Reprinted and Distributed
By
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.
63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

No. 6 March, 1952

THE NORTH CAROLINA RECREATION COMMISSION

Recreation

MINORITY REPORT ON TRANSITION AREAS

RECREATION BOARD OF THE

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

MAY 13, 1952

Responsibilities of Members of the Board

In submitting this report, I wish, first of all, to direct attention to lines 1-5, Section 2, Article II of the By-Laws, Rules and Regulations of this Board, which became effective as revised on October 9, 1951. These lines read as follows:

> "The Board will make every possible and realistic effort toward the removal of racial segregation in public recreation in such sequence and at such rate of progression, as may be consistent with the public interest, public order and effective administration."

Certainly we would like to believe that we have adopted a policy that is realistic and workable. However, since the adoption of this policy, actions taken in the process of opening play areas for the use of all citizens in the communities in which these areas are located, are such as to raise serious doubts as to their wisdom, validity or sincerity. Instead of the progression away from segregation which is the stated policy of the Board, we find contradictions in the practices set up for the operation of open area playgrounds, which completely nullify this stated policy.

Contradictions in the Administration of the New Policy

Let us look at the picture as it actually is, today. As an example:

Garfield playground is located on National Capital Parks land. It was the first playground opened for the use of all the children in its neighborhood. The opening of Rose Park and Garfield playgrounds, was , presumably, an attempt to move toward integration and the elimination of segregation.

What actually happened, however, was the setting up of an interracial play area under a white supervisor, in a "white" recreation area, without the usual rights and privileges of competition with other playgrounds enjoyed by other areas. In Rose Park the situation was the same except that this area was under a Negro supervisor. This left the two "integrated" areas without the highly important competitive aspects of the recreation program except such events as could be arranged between them.

Last summer when the New York Avenue, Raymond and Noyes playgrounds were opened for interracial recreation I again brought to the attention of the Board and of the Recreation Department administration the fact that a new form of segregation was being devised and adopted and put into practice at playgrounds opened for all the children of a community. These less obvious segregation devices are subjecting the children at "interracial" or "integrated" playgrounds to a denial in the participation in area programs which had previously prevailed on these playgrounds. This fact was not denied by the Board members or staff, but the excuse was offered that in the adoption of the new regulation on segregation the old policy had not been discarded in practice. It therefore seems that all that has been accomplished, so far, is the substitution of a furtive and particularly frustrating segregation technique for an open segregation policy.

At a transition committee meeting in the fall, when the Hoover and Langley playgrounds were being discussed, I felt that an honest attempt was being made to begin to think in terms of recreation for all the children in a neighborhood, on the basis of the Board's new policy. At the time, however, I brought up the same question with reference to the elimination of this new and undesirable technique for segregation which had been injected into the pattern of playground operation, and which was threatening to defeat our purpose of the progressive elimination of segregation.

I purposely raised this question in order to be sure that the answer I received at the opening of other play areas, preceding this meeting, still obtained. Since I was assured that the answer did still obtain, I checked my files for the facts on the action of the Recreation Board in the adoption of the new policy. I found that in adopting the new policy, the Board had deleted the original statement which spelled out the operation of the playgrounds on a segregated basis. This being the fact, there is no truth or semblance of truth in the argument that the policy of the Recreation Board requires the use of any techniques designed to project segregation in any form into the operation of any District playground.

In this respect I feel that the Board is grossly unfair to the public in its interpretation of the new regulation, by action in implementing a policy of segregation in any form. While professing to be moving away from an unacceptable pattern, the Board is actually penalizing both white and Negro children who use a facility together, voluntarily, by depriving them of the right of intergroup play and experiences, thus setting on the "freed" or "integrated" areas the stamp of its official disapproval, and lessening the possibility of successful service to their communities.

It was my earnest hope that before our chairman, Mr. Harry S. Wender, discontinued his services with the Board, that the remaining eight playgrounds classified as "transition areas" would have been advanced from this category and listed among the open areas.

I was greatly disappointed after the report of the staff and the recommendations of the Superintendent, Mr. Christiansen, had been received by the ~~Board,~~ Transition Committee at the evident failure to sense the need for sincere and honest action designed to move the playground program toward successful integration.

Ignoring of Citizens' Testimony

Nevertheless I thought that a ray of hope remained in the Boards' agreement to hold a public hearing to get the viewpoint of all interested citizens, and particularly of those who had expressed themselves concerning the play areas in their communities. I hoped that the city-wide groups whose membership is drawn from citizens living throughout the several recreation areas would be permitted to give us the benefit of their thinking both as to the philosophy, and the statistical facts involved in the recommendations of the staff and superintendent. This they were permitted to do, at the last minute, and after mounting pressure and repeated documented refusals by the ~~Board~~ Transition Committee to listen to their representatives.

Since, at this particular transition committee meeting, it had been agreed in the Board that there would be no discussion by members of the committee until after the hearings, I expected that testimony given at the hearings would be an important factor in reaching a final conclusion concerning the recommendations mentioned.

But much to my mortification and dismay the ~~Board~~ Transition Committee completely ignored the petitions of the citizens' representatives, thus presenting to the Washington community, the community of the National Capital, a glaring example of the failure of an arm of their city government to discharge its duty honestly and forthrightly, and to keep faith even with those citizens whom it did invite to testify..

On the basis of the testimony given it was clear that the studies made by the staff were not objective but were patently designed to support the argument of maintaining the racial status quo at the expense of the basic rights of a large group of taxpayers to the extreme disadvantage of these taxpayers.

Admitted Failure to Study Population Needs

There was no refutation of the charge that the Recreation Department had failed to study the population of the Brookland area in connection with its study of play areas needed or already established. In further testimony it was pointed out that the survey made by the Recreation Board of the area south of Rhode Island Avenue, Northeast, for the Langley playground did not include the children and young adults of the Edgewood area. This fact the Recreation Board has admitted. But the children living north of Rhode Island Avenue are also in the Edgewood area and this playground is their natural public play space.

Wheatley-Trinidad Picture Distorted

The testimony of the Trinidad representative concerning the Trinidad and the Wheatley play areas, pointed out the discrepancies between statement and fact in the report of the staff concerning the availability of recreational facilities in these areas.

For instance, the staff report states that due to absence of fencing it would be very difficult to enforce a segregated program for either group, and for this reason recommends operating Trinidad as an open area, but retaining Wheatley, which is fenced in, as a playground for white children only. At this point I should like to direct the attention of the Board to two aspects of this particular situation vitally significant as to the administration's implementation of the Board's stated policy:

(1) On the surface, the decision with reference to Trinidad and Wheatley would seem to be in line with stated policy. But these are the facts:

a. Trinidad, now declared an open area, is an abandoned play area without a vestige of equipment on it, and there are, to my knowledge, neither plans nor proposals to secure any.

b. Wheatley, retained for the use of white children only, is enclosed and well-equipped.

That is the first point.

The second point is that for years there has been racially mixed use of the play facility at both Wheatley and Trinidad. Integrated play at both has long been an accomplished fact, in the absence of restricting personnel. Here is clear evidence of a natural trend in the use of public play facilities in communities of mixed neighborhoods. I cannot accept the interpretation that in such a situation of naturally integrated relationships the duty of the Board is that these relationships should be disturbed and frustrated, thus retarding development toward its own avowed objective, in order to conform to such arbitrary timing as the majority of the Board and the administrative staff shall have determined.

Gerrymandered Boundaries

In reply to my question as to how the staff of the Recreation Board determined the boundaries of the several play areas as exhibited in their report and recommendations to the transition committee, preceding the hearings, I was informed by the Superintendent that the boundaries were determined by the staff according to their thinking as to the areas served by the play facility.

On the basis of testimony, supplemented by my own personal observations, there is sufficient evidence that these boundaries were gerrymandered to achieve certain results, namely the segregation of particular playgrounds. At Turkey Thicket and at Edgewood both in the Brookland area, in the Wheatley and Trinidad area and at Rosedale in the Benning Road, Northeast, area, the boundaries of these playgrounds have been established to emphasize racial lines, and in the case of Brookland, the arbitrary boundaries leave the Negro population excluded from all facilities in its area.

The Superintendent has admitted that the whole of Census Tract 93, which covers the Brookland area, has been completely ignored so far as the provision of recreation facilities for Negro residents is concerned.

No Fixed Criterion of Operation

And may I say here that I consider as specious the argument advanced by some members of the staff that Negro residents of the Brookland area have yards in which their children can play. This contention must stand discredited unless the same criterion is applied to all other areas of the city in which citizens "have yards".

The Board's Difficulties Are Self-Induced

It seems to me that the many difficulties which the Recreation Board has encountered in its administration of the playgrounds are self-induced. It has made trouble for itself by projecting situations which have their genesis in a lack of realization and appreciation for the basic philosophies and ideals underlying all phases of our government, and of the fact that these philosophies and ideals cannot be separated from administrative operations.

The latest unfortunate example of the Board's attempt to separate philosophy from practice is in its consideration of the proposal to open Rosedale playground to all children, with the exception of its swimming pool. It is my contention that, in spite of the fact that the parents of the Negro children in the area, in their concern for the physical safety of their children, have agreed to accept their exclusion from the pool, these children would still be subject to both physical and mental hazards as a result of such action as that proposed. The humiliation of exclusion sustained by these children will take its toll in lowered morale for many years of their lives; and in spite of the concern for their safety on the streets, their rejection at the pool will force many to seek dangerous swimming facilities in the Anacostia River, which annually shows a much higher proportion of Negro than white drownings--most of them children.

At the last White House Conference, President Truman made the statement that "We cannot insulate our children from the facts of civic life." The majority of citizens interested and concerned in the welfare of our children will agree with his thinking.

Why then, does the Recreation Board, simply upon the recommendation of its administrative staff, and without supporting legislation, take action contrary to this thinking and to the law which created the Department of Recreation and its Board.

On the basis of testimony already given to the Board and to the facts here presented and readily verifiable, that the Board reconsider the recommendation of its transition committee; that it carefully review all testimony presented in any form; and that it studiously refrain from prejudging the value of testimony offered and of the groups presenting it, and arrive at a conclusion based on ascertainable facts, and as free as possible from biased opinion.

Respectfully submitted,

Alice C. Hunter

Alice C. Hunter
(Member of the Board)

Recreation

AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE

Community Relations Program
Washington, D. C.

1000 11th St., NW
STerling 6569

No. 3 - May - 1952

Irene Osborne
Alma Scurlock

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

LOOK AND LISTEN — The Americans All broadcast this week will present a program on the Negro child in the District schools. This is important listening! Sunday, May 18, WOOK, 1:30 P.M.

You will also want to see the two-week series "Inside Your Schools", on WTOP - TV, beginning Sunday, May 18, at 4:00 P.M., and following on week-days at 12:45 P.M.

PLANS FOR NEW USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS: The Board of Education has under consideration the transfer of Eliot Junior High School and Fairbrother Elementary School from white to Negro use, and the conversion of the old Terrell Junior High School to use as an elementary school. Negro junior high schools are expected to have a shortage of 2104 seats next year, with even greater shortages predicted for the years following. Transfer of Eliot will provide 918 seats; it will still leave 1000 empty seats in white junior high schools and 6000 in white senior high schools.

The recommended plans for the old Terrell and for Fairbrother are designed to relieve mounting congestion in elementary schools, with the threat of part-time instruction. Terrell is an unsatisfactory building which is being retained as a temporary relief measure. Fairbrother is in a Southwest area urgently in need of new buildings; both white and Negro schools will be overcrowded after the transfer.

At hearings before the Buildings and Grounds Committee on May 6, the junior high school situation was the subject of the most controversy. Several speakers from interracial groups were interrupted when they attempted to show the relation of these problems to the fact of segregation; they were told, "We are not here to discuss integration." Such a ruling meansthat it is impossible to introduce the evidence to show that segregation creates artificial shortages and wasted space.

INTERRACIAL PLAYGROUNDS: The D. C. Recreation Board has approved converting 4 of the city's playgrounds to interracial use: Sherwood, Kenilworth, Trinidad (all formerly white), and Park View (formerly Negro). This brings the total of interracial playgrounds in the District to 12. At the same time, the Board voted to leave Edgewood, Turkey Thicket, Rosedale, and Wheatley as white playgrounds.

Rosedale has been the particular subject of public attention. At hearings on May 7, neighborhood groups in the area of Rosedale presented evidence to show that Negro children have insufficient play space while Rosedale playground is actually being used far under capacity. Over 30 community organizations have supported the opening of Rosedale.

Mrs. Alice Hunter, a member of the Board, presented a minority report at the May 13 meeting in protest of retaining the white policy on four playgrounds. Her report, supported by Board member Edward J. Kelly, stated that the citizens' testimony had been ignored, that population studies were made on the basis of gerrymandered boundaries, and that the Board is proceeding in such a way as to nullify its stated policy of progressive integration.

Mrs. Hunter stresses the fact that interracial play areas are not permitted to engage in competitive activities with other playgrounds except among themselves. The "opening" of a playground actually means the loss of much of the program. Mrs. Hunter calls this practice "a furtive and particularly frustrating segregation technique."

INTERCULTURAL EDUCATION: The Board of Education has approved the "Handbook on Intergroup Education" for use in the schools. The handbook was prepared by an interracial committee of teachers and officers under the direction of Dr. Carl F. Hansen, Associate Superintendent in charge of Curriculum Planning. The Handbook will be placed in the hands of all teachers next year, and the committee will continue to function to consider ways of developing an intergroup program.

The purpose of the program is stated in the Handbook: "The aim of Intergroup Education is to develop a consciousness and appreciation of the dignity, contributions, and basic unity of all the ethnic, racial, religious, social, and economic groups which enrich the American way of life. Its goal is synonymous with the goal of all sound democratic education which is to secure the optimum development of each individual as a member of his present society and to inspire him to work for the improvement of that society.....Intergroup Education cannot depend solely upon textbook and teacher precepts; to be vital, it must provide opportunities for harmonious group living in a favorable environment." (p. 1)

The Handbook does not in itself effect regulations of the school system or establish new procedures. Rather it suggests "educational practices that if intelligently applied, will improve intergroup relations." (p. viii) Recognition is given to the need for cooperation of school and community. Concretely, "Schools should cooperate with established intergroup organizations in the community for the solution of problems in human relations," and "the schools should take responsibility for creating in the community a 'climate of opinion' favorable to the development of wholesome intergroup relations." (p. 13)

CONFERENCE ON SCHOOL INTEGRATION: A nation-wide conference on "The Courts and Racial Integration in Education" was held at Howard University, April 16-18, under the auspices of the Journal of Negro Education. Approximately 350 delegates represented 45 national organizations, 31 schools and colleges, and 5 State Departments of Education, and came from 25 states and the District of Columbia. Speakers and discussion leaders included leading civil rights attorneys, educators, and other leaders in human rights fields.

Litigation in the field of racial barriers in education was highlighted, with attention to other approaches and to the problems incident to integration. The conference included reports on the successful experience of integration in Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, and the University of Kentucky. These reports testify fully to the fact that the job can be done, with forthright leadership and a realistic approach to whatever problems occur. Joseph L. Bustard, Assistant Commissioner of Education for New Jersey, said that the New Jersey experience shows that "the way to integrate is to do it."

Delegates to the conference were impressed by the matter-of-fact agreement that the "separate but equal" doctrine is a myth and that the work of educational integration can and must proceed. The presentations represented an impressive amount of valuable information and serious thought. They should be of interest to everyone concerned with this issue. Proceedings of the conference will be published as the summer yearbook of the Journal of Negro Education. This can be ordered from Dean Charles Thompson, Howard University, for $2.50.

HOW IS INTEGRATION TO BE ACHIEVED? On the local level, Superintendent Corning recently told reporters that it is not his province to recommend the end of the segregated system. "The community, Congress and the courts will have to determine that." We believe the community can help by showing its interest. Won't you attend the next meeting of the Board of Education?

WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 2:30 P.M. - Franklin Building, 13th & K Sts., N. W.

August 14, 1952

Professor Robert B. McKay
Lamar School of Law
Emory University
Emory University, Ga.

Dear Mr. McKay:

Many thanks for your letter.

I have started the machinery with the Urban League in six or seven cities--tentatively, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, New Orleans, Richmond, Atlanta, Louisville--and I have other devices to reach Charleston and Birmingham.

Also, I have written to appropriate State people to get the picture in Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee.

Will let you know results from time to time.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

EMORY UNIVERSITY
EMORY UNIVERSITY, GEORGIA

LAMAR SCHOOL OF LAW

August 8, 1952

Hinchcliffe
814 ~~Dorth~~ Dutton Ave
Mark hotel

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive-Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

This is written in connection with the comment on the legal aspects of segregation in the fields of amusement and recreation which I hope to prepare for you. When we discussed the matter recently, you were kind enough to suggest that you would be able to supplement my legal research with current data from a selected list of cities and some states as to the present status of segregated activities in the recreation and amusement fields. Following are the questions which I believe would be relevant:

Cities:

1. What is the present white-Negro population ratio within your city?

2. Please state what municipally owned or operated facilities are available to whites and to Negroes in the areas of recreation listed below. Please indicate, as to any of the facilities which are segregated, what differences there are, quantitatively and qualitatively, between the white and the Negro accommodations, such as days or hours of operation, price, equipment, service, etc. Your comments on the relative "equality" of facilities will be especially appreciated.

Golf courses (either as part of a park system or independently managed).
Tennis courts.
Swimming pools.
Parks and their facilities generally, including amphitheatres or other activities not elsewhere discussed.
Libraries.
Other facilities.

3. Are there any legal actions bearing on this subject which have been recently concluded, which are now pending, or which are contemplated for the future?

4. Please make any general observations which you believe relevant to the determination of any developing pattern in the field of public-offered amusement and recreation facilities.

States:

1. Please indicate what state parks are available to whites and to Negroes on a segregated, and/or on a non-segregated, basis. Where the parks are available only on a segregated basis, please state your views as to the relative "equality" of the separate facilities, particularly in such matters as location, size, upkeep, services, equipment, price, etc.

2. Has there been any recent state legislation relating to the question of amusement and recreation facilities available to whites and Negroes within the state? Do you know of any proposed legislation in this connection?

3. Please make any generally observations which you believe relevant to a determination of developing patterns in the field of state-furnished recreation and amusement facilities.

I shall appreciate your additions to the above list, or any changes which you believe will elicit the desired information in more useful form.

Sincerely yours,

Robert B. McKay

Robert B. McKay
Associate Professor of Law

August 14, 1952

Mrs. Alice N. Spearman
1511 Laurel St.
Columbia, S. C.

Dear Mrs. Spearman:

Marion Wright has got agreement from the Emory Law School to prepare for their new JOURNAL OF PUBLIC LAW an article on segregation in recreational facilities in the South. The law people want us to collect certain basic facts about sample cities and States. I've got the cities worked out, largely through the Urban League branches. On States it means getting some faithful person to collect the information.

Here's what is needed:

1. Please indicate what State parks are available to whites and to Negroes on a segregated, and on a non-segregated, basis. Where the parks are available only on a segregated basis, please state your views as to the relative "equality" of the separate facilities, particularly in such matters as location, size, upkeep, services, equipment, price, etc.
2. Has there been any recent State legislation relating to the question of amusement and recreation facilities available to whites and Negroes within the State? Do you know of any proposed legislation in this connection?
3. Please make any general observations which you believe relevant to a determination of developing patterns in the field of State-furnished recreation and amusement facilities.

I suggest that McCray would be pretty apt to know the answers to most of those questions.

I know it is a burden, but would you go to see McCray and give his and your best answers to 1, 2, and 3?

I noticed in McCray's paper that he has lately been visiting some of the Negro State parks. So he would be especially attuned to the matter.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM: ec

August 14, 1952

Mrs. Ruby Hurley
Southeast Regional Office, NAACP
624 Masonic Temple Bldg.
1630 Fourth Ave., N.
Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Mrs. Hurley:

You will see from the enclosed what we hope to get.

Would you be so very kind as to supply the answers for Birmingham and send them in to me?

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:sc
Encl.

August 14, 1952

Mr. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

Dear Marion:

Here is some progress on the "Segregation in Recreation" business. We will follow up with Mr. Alston. He is the southern field director of the National Urban League.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec
Encl.

GSM Sept. 15

You are to confer with Harry Alston about Urban League questionnaire. See letter of Aug. 24 to Alston (in special file). If GSM not here, show correspondence to AH and let her go to see Alston.

LA 7262

Call Fri. + check

Mrs. Margaret Price Mullins
(Mrs. S. D., Jr.)

Margaret

1927 Indiana
Houston, Texas

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL

Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.

Atlanta 3, Georgia

August 14, 1952

Mr. Harry Alston
1814 Dalton Avenue
Huntington, West Virginia

Dear Mr. Alston:

Professor Robert B. McKay, at Emory University, has kindly undertaken to do an article in the JOURNAL OF PUBLIC LAW (published by Emory Law School) on "The Legal Aspects of Segregation in the Fields of Amusement and Recreation" in selected Southern cities and States.

Here are the questions he wants answered for selected cities:

1. What is the present white-Negro population ratio within your city?
2. Please state what municipally owned or operated facilities are available to whites and to Negroes in the areas of recreation listed below. Please indicate, as to any of the facilities which are segregated, what differences there are, quantitatively and qualitatively, between the white and the Negro accommodations, such as days or hours of operation, price, equipment, service, etc. Your comments on the relative "equality" of facilities will be especially appreciated.
   - Golf courses (either as part of a park system or independently managed).
   - Tennis courts.
   - Swimming pools.
   - Parks and their facilities generally, including amphitheatres or other activities not elsewhere discussed.
   - Libraries.
   - Other facilities.
3. Are there any legal actions bearing on this subject which have been recently concluded, which are now pending, or which are contemplated for the future?
4. Please make any general observations which you believe relevant to a determination of developing patterns in the field of public-offered recreation and amusement facilities.

I will get the State information through other sources.

Will you be good enough to query your Urban League secretaries in some, at least, of the cities as to this information?

We thought of New Orleans, Richmond, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Atlanta, Louisville, Birmingham, and Charleston as suitable ones. Others, of course, could be substituted. I will try for the Birmingham information through Mrs. Hurley, and in your Charleston trip you would take on this one.

Perhaps you can get some of these answered at the Urban League national meeting. If there is more detail, we will talk when you get back about completing it fully.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

August 15, 1952

Dr. Felton G. Clark
Southern University
Baton Rouge 5, La.

Dear Dr. Clark:

Marion Wright, our Council president, has got a promise from the Emory Law School to write and print an article in their new JOURNAL OF PUBLIC LAW on "Segregation in Recreational Facilities in Southern States and Cities." We are collecting some of the facts. Urban League branches will help on the cities. On the States, I am dependent on what some faithful citizens will find out. Can you make some secure arrangement for getting these questions answered and send them to us?

1. Please indicate what State parks are available to whites and to Negroes on a segregated, and on a non-segregated, basis. Where the parks are available only on a segregated basis, please state your views as to the relative "equality" of the separate facilities, particularly in such matters as location, size, upkeep, services, equipment, price, etc.

2. Has there been any recent State legislation relating to the question of amusement and recreation facilities as available to whites and Negroes within the State? Do you know of any proposed legislation in this connection?

3. Please make any general observations which you believe relevant to a determination of developing patterns in the field of State-Furnished recreation and amusement facilities.

We would be very grateful.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

South Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, Inc.

Dear Mr. Mitchell,

Your letter received as I am about to leave the office to be away for a 2 weeks vacation. I am taking the liberty of 'phoning Mr. McCray & Miss Adele Minahan to request that they answer the 3 questions your latter poses. Miss Minahan once worked in the field of recreation, and is continuously in contact with the state's recreational leaders. However, I do not believe she would consult the party you mention, so that they will no doubt make separate reports. If you want any furthere information and I can help after I get back, have a note here for me.

Sincerely,

Alice N. Spearman

August 26, 1952

Mr. Carter Wesley
Box 3086
Houston, Texas

Dear Mr. Wesley:

Very many thanks indeed for your helpful information about parks.

It is going to take the people at Emory several months to work up the facts they want. So if through the paper you draw in some more material do send it on. It will probably be the most helpful thing we would get.

[illegible] you have opportunity to see Mr. Durham, [illegible]ope you will thank him for us.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

PAGE(S) PARTIALLY ILLEGIBLE

The INFORMER Group of Newspapers

FAIRFAX 8347

THE INFORMER · THE DALLAS EXPRESS · MEMBER A.B.C.

★

P.O. BOX 3086
2418 LEELAND
HOUSTON 3, TEXAS

RECEIVED
AUG 26 1952
Southern Regional Council

August 23, 1952

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue - Room 432
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Upon receipt of your letter of August 15 I wrote to my friend W. J. Durham, who was the attorney in a suit a couple of years ago against the State to open up certain state parks near Tyler, Texas, asking him for information to supply the answers to your letter. I am inclosing herewith a copy of the letter that came from Attorney Durham.

Now with that background, I will add that Attorney Durham inclosed his file copy of a list of the parks--state parks--in Texas, showing a total of 97,000 acres.

So far as I know, there weren't any of these state parks open to Negroes, and even the little side road parks are usually monopolized by whites. I have not noticed any separate facilities provided in any of these roadside parks as put out by the State since the enactment of the law referred to in Mr. Durham's letter. I think I will make an appeal through the paper for citizens to test out these various parks and see if they are open, and if they have separate facilities, but this, of course, will take time and will be too late for your purposes.

I have not heard that any of these state parks have been opened, or that separate facilities have been established in accordance with that special call session law, I am assuming that Negroes are more or less kept out of the parks still.

Best wishes.

Very truly yours,

Carter Wesley

Carter Wesley
/d Incl. 1
cc: Attorney W. J. Durham

THE MARKET
• 2,800,000 PEOPLE
• PLENTY MONEY
• WILLING TO BUY
• AWAITING INVITATION

C O P Y

Law Offices
W. J. D U R H A M
Excelsior Life Bldg.
2600 Flora Street
Dallas, Texas

22 August 1952

Honorable Carter W. Wesley
P. O. Box 3086
Houston, Texas

Dear Carter:

Replying to your letter under date of August 18, 1952, you are advised that Article No. 6070E of the Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, enacted by the 51st first call session of the Texas Legislature, and became effective March, 1950, provides for separate facilities for white and Negro citizens in state owned parks. The board is given authority to make rules and regulations for the use of state parks and the facilities therein by white and Negro races, by providing separate parks and separate facilities within the same park" on such basis as will furnish equal recreational facilities and at the same time protect and preserve harmony, peace, welfare, health and the safety of the state and the community."

Section B of the above Article gives the board the right to close any park in any area in the state, where separate facilities for whites and Negroes cannot be furnished, and it further gives the board power to re-open them when such facilities are available. However, I think the purpose of legislature to escape furnishing Negroes park facilities is found in Section C of the Article, which gives the board the right "to lease annually to the highest bidder any park or any portion thereof, or facilities therein, when deemed necessary or advisable for the protection and upkeep of the property." It occurs to me that the state is seeking here to do indirectly what it couldn't do directly by leasing the park and park facilities to people who will exclude the facilities from the use and enjoyment of the use of Negro citizens.

I am enclosing herewith my office copy of all of the parks and the facilities in the State of Texas. When you have finished with the enclosure, return it to me because it is the only one I have.

I trust this is the information you desire and if I can be of any further service to you, please feel free to command me.

Respectfully,

/s/ Durham

Durham

Approved Mar. 14, 1960
Effective 90 days after Mar. 1

Encl.

Sec. 1 - Sep facilities for whites + N "impartial provision shall be made for both races"

Sec 2 - Right to make rules, close parks or lease

Sec. 3 "The fact that the policy of the state in requiring separate park facilities for white + N citizens is necessary to preserve the public peace + welfare, and to protect the privileges of both the white + Negro citizens in the use of the state parks ...."

SOUTH CAROLINA

STATE COMMISSION OF FORESTRY

COLUMBIA

CHAS. H. FLORY
STATE FORESTER

August 25, 1952

RECEIVED
AUG 28 1952
Southern Regional Council

Miss Adele Minahan
1930 College Street
Columbia, South Carolina

Dear Miss Minahan:

In response to your telephone call, I am glad to give you some pertinent facts regarding our State Parks program as it affects the Negro citizens of our State.

For several years we have had areas for Negroes at four (4) established State Parks - Cheraw, Poinsett, Greenwood and Hunting Island. To these has been added, this past fiscal year, Pleasant Ridge State Park, a 300-area tract in the mountains of Greenville County, now being developed exclusively for Negroes.

The 1951 Legislature made a sum of $50,000 available for land acquisition, and the beginning of development, of a seashore State Park for Negroes in Charleston County. After exhaustive studies of half-a-dozen possible sites, all were rejected for various reasons. The areas that were available were inaccessible and cost of road and bridge construction prohibitive. Accessible areas could not be acquired from the owners. Some sites did not meet with the approval of the Negro groups involved. At the moment we are working with our inter-racial committee toward obtaining a site that may be the answer to our search. For obvious reasons we can make no specific announcement until our plans progress more fully.

Following the Charleston acquisition, one more such area should be obtained to serve metropolitan Columbia and Central South Carolina.

In the long range planning there is a State Park for Negroes on the Clark Hill Reservoir - Hickory Knob State Park, near McCormick and Abbeville.

The facilities at the Negro Parks are being improved and expanded as funds become available. Caretaker residences are being established, dams for swimming and fishing lakes are being built and bathhouses and picnic shelters constructed.

Picnicking, outdoor cooking and play areas are available at all parks. Picnic shelters are to be found at Greenwood, Campbells Pond (Cheraw), and Mill Creek (Poinsett). The shelter at Hunting Island was destroyed by a storm and has not been rebuilt as yet.

Bathhouses are in use at Campbells Pond, Mill Creek and Hunting Island.

The Greenwood development is being abandoned at its present location and a new recreation area will be built at a more desirable location on one of the peninsulas jutting out into Lake Greenwood.

The Mill Creek area of Poinsett State Park offers varied facilities. On one side of the lake is a day-use area with bathing beach, dressing rooms, picnic shelters and play area. Across the lake is a well equipped group camp for boys and girls. This fine facility is used by organized campers including Boy Scouts and the S. C. Orthopedic Camp.

A fine bathing beach is now attracting crowds at Hunting Island since the two new groins have checked erosion and stabilized a firm strand. The new bathhouse-pavillion at Hunting Island has added a popular facility to this ocean park.

The progress at Pleasant Ridge State Park is a little slow. Funds are always a problem, and much had to be done at this mountain area before any showing could be made. A very creditable caretaker's residence has been completed and a very fine dam built to create the mountain lake. Because of the absence of a bathhouse and sanitary facilities, water was not impounded this summer for swimming. A new hard surface access road to serve the area is in the making.

I believe you will be interested in knowing the attendance at the several areas for the past twelve (12) months ending June 30, 1952:

Campbells Pond --	7,725
Greenwood -------	3,480
Hunting Island --	32,056
Mill Creek ------	48,843
Pleasant Ridge --	(Under construction - not formally open to visitors)

I am attaching hereto a map showing location of the several areas and a copy of two activity pictures made this summer at Hunting Island.

Please call on us at any time for information and assistance and we always welcome your interest.

Very truly yours,

C. West Jacocks

C. West Jacocks
State Park Director

CWJ:cfs

South Carolina Citizens Committee on Children and Youth

1930 COLLEGE STREET

COLUMBIA 1, SOUTH CAROLINA

OFFICERS

CHAIRMAN
MRS. W. R. WALLACE
CHESTER

VICE-CHAIRMAN
DR. GEORGE AULL
CLEMSON

SECOND VICE-CHAIRMAN
MRS. WAYNE UNGER
WALTERBORO

SECRETARY
MISS LUCIA MURCHISON
COLUMBIA

TREASURER
MR. T. I. DOWLING
GREENWOOD

COORDINATOR
MISS ADELE J. MINAHAN

MEMBERS OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

MRS. T. K. MCDONALD
WINNSBORO

MRS. J. DERHAM LEWIS
MULLINS

MISS ANNE HENDRIX
(YOUTH MEMBER)
COLUMBIA

MRS. T. B. STACKHOUSE
COLUMBIA

August 25, 1952

RECEIVED
AUG 28 1952
Southern Regional Council

Mr.George S.Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue , N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr.Mitchell:

Alice Spearman asked me to answer your letter of August 14. I regret the delay in answering was waiting for the opportunity to confer with Mr.Jacocks of the State Forestry Commission and Mr.McCray.

I feel that our State Forestry Commission is making an honest effort to " equalize " the park facilities and much progress has been made. I am enclosing a statement from Mr. Jacocks. Under seperate cover sending you pictures and a map showing the location of the parks .

In my conversation with Mr.McCray several days ago he promised to write out the gist of this conversation, however, I have waited several days for this information and I hesitate to delay longer my letter to you. Should Mr.McCray write statement will mail same promptly .

I was surprised to hear Mr.McCray say - "that the Negroes should make more use of the park areas which are now provided by South Carolina before additional areas are provided ." However, I hesitate to quote any one without a written statement.

We have had no recent legislation on recreation except as it applies to certain counties . We do not know of any proposed state legislation.

I trust that this information will be helpful . Will be glad to serve further .

Cordial greetings.

Sincerely ,

Adele J Minahan

August 26, 1952

Dr. Felton G. Clark
Southern University
Baton Rouge, La.

Dear Dr. Clark:

Many thanks for your kind letter of August 21 and for enlisting Mr. Spriggins in the cause.

I am sure that what he and you will send will give us what is needed.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

Segr. in Rec.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY
F. G. CLARK, PRESIDENT
BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA

August 21, 1952

RECEIVED
AUG 25 1952
Southern Regional Council

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

This is in reference to your letter of August 15, in which you seek information for an article which will deal with recreational facilities in southern states and cities.

The key man in recreation and facilities in New Orleans and probably Louisiana, is Mr. E. Belfred Spriggins who is a long-time resident of Louisiana and one actively engaged in recreation.

I am taking the liberty to send your letter to Mr. Spriggins, asking that he answer it directly, and that he gather such general supporting opinions as would reflect the true picture in our state. My belief is that Mr. Spriggins will happily give you the information, points of view and general support needed. In the meantime, I expect to be writing you, adding any general observations that I may be able to gather such as would help make the picture as complete as is possible.

Sincerely yours,

Felton G. Clark.

cc: Mr. E. Belfred Spriggins
Gentilly Gardens Apartments
Gentilly Road
New Orleans, Louisiana

7-1607

CABLE ADDRESS: NACAPEOPLE, N. Y.

LONGACRE 3-6890

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Please direct reply to:
SOUTHEAST REGIONAL OFFICE NAACP
624 Masonic Temple Bldg.
1630 - 4th Ave., No.
Birmingham, Alabama
Telephone Birmingham 3-2887

RECEIVED
AUG 28 1952

August 27, 1952

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.,
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Doctor Mitchell,

Your communication under date of August 14th has just come to my attention since my return to the office from a part of my vacation. Now my secretary is out and it will be another few days before I can get the information you request together and into your hands. I hope that the end of next week will not be too late.

Sincerely,

Ruby Hurley

Ruby Hurley
Regional Secretary

RH/

Recreation 1953 survey

AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE

Community Relations Program

1000 Eleventh Street N.W.
STerling 6569

No. 6 - August - 1952

Irene Osborne
Alma Scurlock

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

The recreation situation in Washington has been a source of so much concern this summer, particularly in the Rosedale area, that we have decided to devote this issue of the Newsletter to a clear statement of fact concerning the Recreation Board and the play areas of the District of Columbia.

Composition of the Board: This body was created by an act of the 77th Congress (Public Law 534) on April 29, 1942. It consists of four citizen members, each appointed by the Commissioners for a term of four years "without regard to race, sex, or creed"; two members representing the Board of Commissioners and the Board of Education; and the Superintendent of the National Capital Parks ex officio. These members serve without compensation.

The Recreation Board determines "all questions of general policy relating to public recreation in and for the District of Columbia", and appoints a Superintendent of Recreation who organizes, administers, and supervises the Board's program through the Assistant Superintendents and the directors of the divisions (One, Two, City-wide, and Neighborhood).

Areas Under Supervision of the Board: "The Board shall have power and authority to adopt, conduct, direct, or cause to be conducted or directed, under its supervision, a comprehensive program of public recreation ..... in major recreation centers, playfields, athletic fields, playgrounds, tennis courts, baseball diamonds, swimming pools, beaches, golf courses, community centers, and social centers in schools, parks, or other publicly owned buildings, as well as other recreational facilities which may be agreed upon between the Board and the agencies having jurisdiction over such facilities."

There are approximately 140 of these areas, 68 of which have been assigned to the District Government by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission under the 1924 law, although the title for these lands still lies in the United States Government (Department of the Interior). It is these assigned areas which have been the subject of jurisdictional claims by both the Department of the Interior and the District Government.

In April, 1952, the Camp case petitioned the Court to decide which of these agencies held jurisdiction over Trinidad playground, one of the assigned areas. However, Judge Pine dismissed the case in District Court without passing upon this question of jurisdiction, holding that private parties do not have the legal standing to raise the issue.

Nineteen park areas are non-segregated or "open" under an agreement, dated August, 1949, between the Recreation Board and the Department of the Interior. These include all golf courses, miniature golf courses, tennis courts, Tidal Basin boating, bicycle rentals, Reflecting Pool Ice Skating Service, Ferry Service (Maine Avenue to East Potomac Park), Potomac clipper Sight-Seeing Boats, Speed Boats and Pentagon Lagoon boating, as well as picnic areas, swimming pools, and day camps within the areas.

Two of the remaining 54 areas are operated by the Board under agreement with the National Housing Authority; four by permission of the D. C. Commissioners; and the rest by permission of the Board of Education. There are no formal agreements between the Recreation Board and either the D. C. Commissioners or the Board of Education.

Policy of Gradual Integration: In its By-Laws as amended on June 14, 1949 (Article 2, Section 2) the Board went on record to "make every possible and realistic effort toward the removal of racial segregation in public recreation in such sequence and at such rate of progress as may be consistent with the public interest, public order, and effective administration." There are varying opinions in the Washington community as to the interpretation of the underlined passages in the foregoing statement. Population trends have so affected the racial composition of many neighborhoods that the Board is constantly faced with the demand to "open" additional playgrounds. To date eleven playgrounds not on Interior land have been declared "open" for interracial use.

In some instances playgrounds have been declared "open" where the neighborhoods are predominantly colored and a minority of white families need recreation facilities for their children. This is true of Park View which was first transferred from white to colored use, and finally declared an open area, as well as Banneker, the only night lighted play area in the District of Columbia. In other instances playgrounds have been declared "open" where Negro residents constitute more than 50% of the population in a neighborhood.

This policy of gradual integration raises many questions as to its effectiveness. Groups favoring integration feel that the Board is moving too slowly, while those with a different point of view feel that it is moving too fast.

Athletic teams from "open" playgrounds are ineligible for competition with teams from playgrounds in either Division One (white) or Division Two (colored). Hence the present arrangement tends to discourage mixed teams even in neighborhoods where children from the two groups live side by side.

Absence of interracial staff, or at least of staff trained in intergroup activities, on the "open" playgrounds fails to place at the disposal of the persons using these playgrounds the means best calculated to insure amicable and understanding participation in an organized program, although in many instances the children of all groups play together on these playgrounds (and on others which are still restricted) when no official is on duty.

Present Membership of the Board: Colonel Frank Collins, Chairman; Mrs. Alice Hunter, Secretary; Mrs. A. O. Hankins; Mr. Henry Gichner; Walter D. Fowler (Budget Officer for D.C.) representing the D. C. Commissioners; Albert Steinem, Member, representing the Board of Education; and Edward J. Kelly, Superintendent of National Capital Parks - ex officio, representing the Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Henry Gichner, newly appointed member of the Board, took oath of office on August 12, 1952. He is well known as a civic leader, and as a baseball umpire. He has taught photography classes for the Recreation Board. Mr. Gichner's forthrightness in standing for recreation services for all citizens without distinction commends him to the community.

Meetings of the Board: The Board meets in the Board Room of the Recreation Department at 3149 Sixteenth Street N.W., the second Tuesday in each month at 2:30 P.M., unless notice is given of a change. Next meeting, Sept. 9, 1952.

The members of this Board serve without compensation the interests of not only ourselves, but our dearest possessions -- our children. Citizens therefore have an obligation to take an interest in and keep the Board informed of the recreation needs and problems of this community. Why not attend the Board meetings and make your contribution to community progress?

New Member of the Board of Education: The recent and surprising resignation of Dr. James A. Gannon came as a shock to the citizens of the community who were unaware of his intention to terminate his twelve years of service on the Board of Education. He has been replaced by Robert R. Faulkner, Esquire, who was appointed immediately by the Judges of the District Court. Mr. Faulkner, an attorney, specializes in tax cases. He is a Catholic, married, and the father of two married daughters, both of whom are graduates of Washington public schools. Mr. Faulkner has expressed a sincere interest in doing a good job for the parents and children of this community.

- - - - -

N O T I C E ! !

The friends of Dr. Phillip Johnson, Board of Education member whose term expired in June, 1952, are tendering him a dinner in recognition of his efforts on behalf of all children of the Washington Community without regard to their race, creed, or color.

TIME: Monday, September 8, 1952, 7:00 P.M.

PLACE. National Press Club, 14th and F Streets N.W.

RESERVATIONS: $4.25 per person

If you would like to share in this tribute, please call Mrs. Margery Ware, Washington Urban League, REpublic 0367, or Mrs. Claude Cowan, LAwrence 6-8056, for reservations.

To Dr. Mitchell

9 -4 -52

From Sue Crank

Re: SEGREGATION IN RECREATION

STATES

South Carolina

Letter of thanks due Miss Adele Menehan and/or Mr. C. West Jacocks for material from South Carolina (State information)

Texas

Letter to Atty. Durham and/or Mr. C. Wesley ~~Carter.~~ The letter from Atty. Durham included description and some interpretation of State law. Actual questions still not answered. Did Mr. Carter include list of parks mentioned by Atty. D.?

Louisiana

No information received. Dr. Clark mentioned sending your letter of Aug. 15 to Mr. E.B. Spriggins, Gentilly Gardens Apartments, Gentilly Road, New Orleans. Perhaps you would like to send a follow-up letter to Dr. Clark or one directly to Mr. Spriggins.

Georgia

No information yet.

TENNEssee

No information. Has cantact been made?

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

CITIES

Atlanta. No information.

New Orleans. No information. (See Louisiana above.)

Charleston. No information. Has contact been made?

Fort Worth. No information. Has contact been made?

Birmingham. No information. Letter from Miss Hurley pending. Rec'd 9-5-52

Louisville. No information. Has contact been made?

Oklahoma City. No information. Has contact been made?

Richmond. No information. Perhaps a follow-up letter to Mr. C.E.Smith

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

CABLE ADDRESS: NACAPEOPLE, N. Y.

LONGACRE 3-6890

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

20 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

Please direct reply to:
SOUTHEAST REGIONAL OFFICE NAACP
729 Masonic Temple Bldg.
1630 - 4th Ave., No.
Birmingham, Alabama
Telephone Birmingham 3-1376

RECEIVED
SEP 5 1952
Southern Regional Council

September 4, 1952

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

This is in reply to your communication of August 14.

1. About 40% of Birmingham's population is non-white -- Total population 326,037 -- 130,142 -- non-white. It is estimated 97% of these are Negro.

2. Recreation facilities in the city of Birmingham as listed in the 1950 Report of the Park and Recreation Board were as follows:

55 - 7 = 48 w/o a Courts

55 Park Areas comprising 1,052.16 acres.
1 Athletic Field and Track -- Legion Field Stadium -- permanent seating capacity 44,198.
15 Hard Ball Diamonds -- 1 lighted.
12 Hard Ball Diamonds have bleacher facilities
9 Soft Ball Diamonds -- all lighted
12 Soft Ball Diamonds not lighted
19 Football Fields
8 Indoor Shuffleboard Courts
12 Outdoor Shuffleboard Courts
48 Horseshoe Courts
24 Volleyball Courts
6 Indoor Basketball Courts
5 Outdoor Basketball Courts
1 Skating Rink
3 Ampitheaters
3 Golf Courses (one 9- and two 18-hole courses)
25 Hard Surfaced Tennis Courts
50 Clay Tennis Courts
6 Swimming Pools
20 Wading Pools --12 with sprays
79 Outdoor Ovens
14 Picnic Areas
10 Community Centers
6 Pre-school Play Centers

31 Summer Playgrounds
1 Hobby Shop -- Arts and Crafts
1 Greenhouse and Nursery
1 Formal Rose Garden
1 Artificial Lake -- fishing and boating
1 Fish Hatchery
Vulcan Monument with significant Exhibit of the Natural Mineral Resources of Alabama.

Of these, the few facilities open to Negroes at all are segregated. There are no more than six or seven parks for Negroes with a minimum of equipment and service according to information we have been able to get.

There is one swimming pool for Negroes at Tuxedo Park. The attached copy of a memorandum prepared by a group of citizens give a slant of the picture.

There is not a good tennis court for Negroes in the city.

A golf course is being constructed on the outskirts of town.

Negroes have two Branch Libraries -- both are inadequate. They cannot use the main library.

Generally, recreational facilities open to Negroes in Birmingham are completely inadequate to meet the need. No suits have been filed as yet, but we are hopeful that we can do something through the NAACP before too much time passes. It has been the tendency of Negroes in the community to ask for separate facilities and accomodations and their requests are given little consideration as should be expected.

Sincerely yours,

Ruby Hurley

Ruby Hurley
Regional Secretary

RH:S

encl

SUGGESTED IMPROVEMENTS FOR TUXEDO PARK

1. One or two drinking fountains on the outer grounds would service large and small groups out there.

2. At present non-swimmers are allowed to use indoor lavatories as a special granted permission. Having lavatory facilities set up outside would be an asset.

3. By pool not being centrally located, attendance is naturally lower. As it is, the pool is located in the extreme western section of the city. Really need at least one other pool centrally located.

4. Pool not so attractive to adults and larger boys and girls, due to no diving board. It should be at least 9 feet or more at the deep end before a diving board would be safe.

5. Its location makes it cost an adult 69¢ -- ~~54¢ car fare~~, 35¢ swimming fee. It costs high school students who live across the city 59¢ to swim.

   Prices run like this: Adults 35¢
   High school students or children above 12 - 25¢
   1:00 to 5:00 P.M. children under 12 years of age 10¢ and 20¢ after 5:00 P.M.
   No 10¢ fee on Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays

6. There are always more boys than girls swimming. The Men's dressing room could be enlarged to accomodate the week-end and holiday crowds.

COPY

Birmingham Gives Negro Citizens Seventh Park Site

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.— (SNS) The seventh park for Birmingham Negro citizens was added when the City Commission announced the creation of a new park in West End, one block north of Lomb Boulevard, City Commission President Cooper Green announced.

Among other recreational projects provided by the City Commission for colored people is the Tuxedo Swimming Pool.

The seven parks and swimming pools have been developed within the past five years.

Property for the new park covers about seven acres and faces two avenues and one street. It is level and will make an excellent play ground and ball diamond. Mr. Green said. It is city land formerly used by the Department of Public Improvement.

Meantime, the Birmingham Branch of the NAACP, in an announcement last week said that it would explore the recreational opportunities provided for Negro and white citizens, and if they were found to be unequal, would make a court test to correct any inequalities. The NAACP's announcement noted that not one of the city owned and operated golf courses was opened to Negro golfers.

10 - 14 - 52

Called Tonsh. N.C.

To Dr. Mitchell

From Sue Crank

Re: SEGREGATION IN RECREATION

Had a personal conference with Mr. Alston of the National Urban League, today.

The questionnaires were sentv out last week. I told him we thought it most effective to have follow-up done from his office. He agreed and promised to do so the first of next week. Told him we would be glad to assist in the follow-up to relieve pressure of his staff and speed up the response. He said he would contact Washington, D.C. at once.

Told him we were trying to make the January issue of the Emory law journal and they would probably have to have the material at the printer's about a month ahead, so we would have to move very rapidly to make their schedule. Warned him that we would be "parked on his doorstep" until all the information was in. He promised his full co-operation.

He is working on a report of recreation facilities for Negroes in several southern cities. While it will not include comparative data, I asked if we might have a copy of it when completed as it might be helpful in developing the article. He consented.

He is planning to visit Charleston, S.C. this month and will try to get information from them while there.

There has been no word from Mr. Spriggins of Louisiana in response to your letter of September 9. You might write him again.

Letters might be sent to agencies responsible for state parks as listed in the BOOK OF STATES mentioned in Anna's memo to you.

Did you send a follow-up letter to Mr. C. E. Smith, Richmond, Va.?

The information from Texas (Atty Durham) was not complete. It gave some description of the State law but nothing on actual facilities. Perhaps it will come in through the Urban League contacts. Otherwise, we may need to make contact with someone there who can furnish the information we need.

wrote C. Warlow Nov. 4. 52 am

Would you please ask Mr. McKay what the time schedule is so we could know definitely?

Mr. Alston would like for you to call him as soon as you return.

Race & Racial Differences
1956-57

CATHOLIC INTERRACIAL COUNCIL

REctor 2-5417 NEWS SERVICE 20 Vesey Street,
New York 7, N.Y.

JESUIT PSYCHOLOGIST FINDS
NO MENTAL DISPARITY BETWEEN RACES

New York, Oct. 22 1956 -- Skin color is no determinant of scholastic standing, the Rev. Joseph F. Donceel, S.J., professor of psychology at Fordham University said in a talk here yesterday.

Basing his conclusions on his experience in teaching psychology in Belgium, the United States and Africa, Father Donceel said that, given equal opportunity and equal intellectual stimulation, white and Negro students achieve equal scholastic grades.

Fr. Donceel spoke at a bi-monthly communion breakfast of the Catholic Interracial Council and the Catholic Laymen's Union at Fordham University, Downtown.

Conducting a course in experimental psychology at the Jesuit scholasticate in the Belgian Congo was an experience which strengthened Fr. Donceel's view that there are no differences in mental capacity between the races. A professor at Louvain University in Belgium, he was asked to give the course to the native Jesuit seminarians in the Congo. Seeking advice on how to adapt this course to the African mentality, he was told by educators who had been in Africa: "Give exactly the same thing you give at Louvain."

Heeding this advice, Fr. Donceel also gave the same examinations and found that the African students rated higher in their tests than the white students at Louvain.

A factor which creates an apparent disparity between white and Negro scholastic ability in higher studies, the Jesuit educator said, is inequality in basic educational training.

Living in the same religious community with African Jesuits, Fr. Donceel "found no real difference" between them and his fellow Jesuits in Europe and the United States.

He said that these future priests find a difficulty in reconciling the "kindness and generosity" of the American people with racial injustices practiced in the United States. To their inquiries in this regard, Fr. Donceel responded that: "At least in the United States the law is in favor of equality, and the law slowly advances."

# #

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS
1133 Broadway, New York 10, N. Y.

NATIONAL URBAN LEAGUE

FOR EQUAL ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

250 Auburn Avenue, N. E. Lamar 7262 Atlanta 3, Georgia

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

President
Robert W. Dowling

Vice-Presidents
Mrs. Bennett Cerf
Sophia Yarnall Jacobs
John Paul Jones
Irvin C. Mollison

Secretary
Thomas G. Young

Treasurer
Orin Lehman

Consultant to the Board
Eugene Kinckle Jones

•

Walter H. Aiken
Sadie T. M. Alexander
Regina M. Andrews
William H. Baldwin
George A. Beavers, Jr.
Lee H. Bristol
Theodore Brown
Benjamin J. Buttenwieser
Mrs. Moise S. Cahn
George D. Cannon
May E. Chinn
Kenneth B. Clark
Mrs. George E. Cohron
William Collins
Joseph F. Cullman III
Dowdal H. Davis
Mrs. MacDonald S. Denman
James Felt
Dorothy B. Ferebee
Lloyd K. Garrison
Sidney Hollander
Mrs. S. Foster Hunt
Raymond E. Jackson
Charles S. Johnson
Aubre DeL. Maynard
Howard H. McNeill
John E. Moseley
Dorothy Paley
Gifford Phillips
Ira DeA. Reid
Roger William Riis
James H. Robinson
Winthrop Rockefeller
Oren Root
Elmo Roper
Mrs. Samuel I. Rosenman
David Rosenstein
Clendenin J. Ryan
Mrs. Alfred H. Schoellkopf
John H. Sengstacke
Louis Simon
George W. Snowden
John I. Snyder, Jr.
Edward Stanley
Mrs. Arthur Hays Sulzberger
Harold Szold
Mrs. Ronald Tree
Beulah T. Whitby
L. Hollingsworth Wood

•

Lester B. Granger
Executive Director

R. Maurice Moss
Asso. Executive Director

RECEIVED
OCT 31 1952
Southern Regional Council

SOUTHERN FIELD DIVISION
Harry L. Alston, Industrial Relations
M. T. Puryear, Vocational Guidance

October 30, 1952

RECEIVED
OCT 30 1952
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Thank you for your letter of October 28, directed to Mr. Alston.

Mr. Alston has been out of the office on field trips, practically the entire month of October. However, I am sure that you will hear from him during the coming week, when he returns to the city.

Follow-up letters have been sent to the Southern Field Affiliates, asking them to reply as soon as possible to the questionnaire which was sent to them - from our office - requesting information re segregation in the fields of amusement and recreation. We should be hearing from them in the very near future.

Sincerely yours,

Shedricka Miller

(Mrs.) Shedricka Miller, Secretary to
Harry L. Alston
Industrial Secretary
Southern Field Division
NATIONAL URBAN LEAGUE

M

Affiliated With National Social Welfare Assembly, National Conference of Social Work, United Community Defense Services, United Defense Fund

Contributions are deductible for income tax purposes.

Recreation survey 1952

Letter to Mr. H. L. Alston (Copy)
From J. Westbrook McPherson,
Executive Director of the New Orleans Urban League
October 31, 1952

Dear Harry:

Am enclosing an excerpt from the Banner and Kerns Study in New Orleans covering public recreation. I think this will cover the information sought in your memo of October 6, re Professor McKay's article in the JOURNAL OF PUBLIC LAW.

Please note following explanations and addenda.

a) With reference to information on page 3, an additional playspot, the James Lewis, Jr. Playspot, has been established since the survey.

b) The information on page 5 concerning public golf facilities, tennis courts, and similar facilities in city parks should be amended to show that Negroes now have the use of these facilities in City Park for two days per week as a result of a recent court decision secured by the NAACP.

c) On page 6, the reference to pollution of waters at Lincoln Beach alludes to a condition of the water which stems from the fact that a number of summer camp houses, which are built in such a way as to stem out over the water, use this portion of the lake for sewerage disposal. In other words, fecal metter is flushed directly into the portion of the lake which has been developed as a beach resort for Negroes.

d) On page 7 reference is made to a possible beach for Negroes at Hayne Boulevard. This is the spot - referred to on page 6 of the excerpt - where Negroes are currently swimming without benefit of beach facilities.

Hope this information will serve the purpose. Pardon tardiness.

J. Westbrook McPherson,
Executive Director

COPY

RECREATION AND GROUP WORK

Public Recreation

In recent years the New Orleans Recreation Department has expanded its facilities considerably to provide recreational and leisure-time activities for both Negro and white youth in New Orleans. The major group work agencies (supported in part by the Community Chest) which have been working in this field include: the Y. M. C. A,, the Orleans Neighborhood Centers, the Boy Scouts, and the Girl Scouts. Several church centers have also had programs designed for cultural development.

The legislated policy of segregation which exists in New Orleans public schools appears to be traditional in many unlegislated areas, including public recreation. Thus, one finds, in New Orleans, some parks, playgrounds, community centers and libraries for use by white persons and others for use by colored persons. All parks, centers, and playgrounds serving Negroes are administered by colored personnel.

The Negro personnel in the public recreation program, February, 1950, consisted of one director and fifteen supervisors, all of which were under civil service. Theseemployees receive in-service training bi-monthly under the supervision of the Negro director.

The city administration and the Council of Social Agencies are aware of the inadequacies, for both Negroes and whites, of the public recreation program. During the past four years encouraging and commendable progress has been made in improving the general situation. The facilities for Negroes have been enlarged to a greater extent than for whites in a situation where facilities were woefully inadequate over a long period of time.

The New Orleans Recreation Department in March, 1950, sponsored the following play areas for white and Negroes:

COPY

Whites		NEGROES
Playgrounds	30	Playgrounds	10
Playspots	7	Playspots	0
Recreation Centers	10	Recreation Centers	2
Football Fields	2	Football Fields	0
Baseball Stadiums	3	Baseball Fields	1
Projects	3	Projects	4

In addition to the provisions for recreation enumerated, selected schools are used as neighborhood playgrounds during certain periods of the year. In 1949, thirty-five white and ten Negro schools were so used.

Among the major additions of the New Orleans Recreation Department between 1946-1950 (showing those for white and those for colored use) are following:

New Recreation Centers 3
- Lyons
- Stallings
- ~~Rosenwald*~~

New Flood Lighting Systems 36

New Football Stadiums 2
- Nord
- ~~Shakespeare*~~

New Field Houses 9
- Hardin
- Lehman
- ~~Thomas Fox*~~
- Sam Bonart
- Nord Stadium
- Delcazal
- Annunciation
- ~~Washington*~~
- Shakespeare*

New Wading Pools 2
- Shakespeare*
- Union Square

New Swimming Pools 9
- Hardin
- Lehman
- Thomas Fox*
- Sam Bonart
- Lyons Center
- Gatto Center
- Recreation Stadium
- Shakespeare*
- Stallings Center

New Baseball Fields..... 2
- P. D. Roehm
- Thomas A. Fox (flood lighted)*

New Playspots 7
- Broadmoor
- Brooks
- Lawrence Square
- Margaret Place
- McDonough
- Octavia Smith

* Designated for Negroes

 Total number of swimming pools for Negroes is 5 in contrast to 1 three years ago

Most of the centers for Negroes are small and have a minimum of equipment and supplies. This is especially true of centers located in the several housing projects where only makeshift space has been provided in a room for the programs. There are a few activities in such centers attractive to older youth or young adults.

The Rosenwald Center, recently completed, will provide for an expanded program. It is one of the best constructed centers in the city and will add greatly to the recreation program in one of the most populous areas inhabited by Negroes.

Special teen-age programs are sponsored on the playgrounds and in all of the publicly supported center buildings. Most of these programs are sponsored by teen-agers themselves under adult guidance. In addition to periodic social dances, other activities include: seasonal parties, choral music, hikes, athletics, picnics, and a limited amount of handicraft activities.

Studies made by the New Orleans Council of Social Agencies in 1946 indicate that there are many congested areas occupied by Negroes which need broad recreational programs. In several populous Negro areas there are playgrounds used little by the few whites in the area but their use is precluded by Negroes because of racial restrictions.

The survey director was taken on a tour of the playgrounds and centers designated for Negroes; and visited a number of the voluntary recreation and character-building agencies. The programs sponsored in most of the centers, even where the facilities were woefully inadequate, indicated that they were well planned. The Negro recreation workers on the public recreation staff have more than average qualifications for the duties they perform. All of those interviewed were college graduates and several had specialized recreation training.

In studying population density maps of the city of New Orleans, it was evident that not until recently was population taken into consideration in planning for the distribution of recreational services for Negroes or whites. The distance which many Negro youth in New Orleans must travel to play areas is a strong determinant for participation or non-usage. Physical barriers and traffic hazards loom as factors in the non-attendance of Negro youth at some of the centers which are available. Negro youth may be seen daily playing in the streets and on sidewalks because the distance to the nearest playground or center is too great. Any long-range program in New Orleans which plans to meet the growing problems of leisure-time activities of Negroes must take these factors into consideration.

See letter

There are a number of recreational facilities in New Orleans under public auspices which are not available to Negroes. Negroes may not use the public golf facilities nor the numerous tennis courts, all of which are in public parks. The facilities of Audubon and City Park are closed to Negroes. Colored persons who desire park and picnicking advantages are compelled to use a portion of the lake front which is approximately eleven miles from the center of the city. Even though the two city parks, just mentioned, spent $48,070 and $235,468 for the period 1946-1948, respectively, funds largely from public taxes, no provisions are made for Negroes. Negroes may visit the zoo; but may not use the comfort stations.

Up to 1946 there were no beach facilities for Negro bathing. A section far removed from the white beach is now used unofficially by Negroes but there are no facilities for changing clothes. Negroes who use this beach must come already dressed in their apparel.

Lincoln Beach, a distance of approximately fourteen miles from the center of the Negro population, is the only partially developed facility for Negroes. Few Negroes patronize this beach because it is reported that the water is polluted. Adjacent to the beach is a commercial park operated by "whites." The unsatisfactory bus schedule makes it difficult for Negroes who desire to use the beach to reach it. In addition to the distance of the beach there are certain physical features which make it undesirable and at times dangerous. The beach is small and steep, a bulkhead projects from the terrain and the water is comparatively rough. The small shelter house is surrounded by water and is reached by a narrow boardwalk from a railroad underpass.

During the course of this survey there was a newspaper discussion about the further development of Lincoln Beach. There was also talk about providing a beach for Negroes next to the proposed housing development to be constructed adjacent to Hayne Boulevard. The co-ordinator of housing for the City of New Orleans stated that such talk was idle chatter because the forces interested in developing that area for housing had no jurisdiction over the water front and no agreement had been reached for beach facilities, which are under the suthority of the Dock and Levee Board.

Negroes feel that they are entitled to more accessible area than is at present provided. They (Negroes) point to the extensive beach developments, which have been provided for "whites" at a tremendous cost to taxpayers, and state that such accomodations as they seek are justifiable requests.

The facilities of the Municipal Stadium and the Municipal Auditorium are open to Negroes only on a segregated basis, even though there are no legal restrictions which preclude their use otherwise.

11 - 5 - 52

To Dr. Mitchell

From Sue Crank

Please call Mr. Alston to determine specifically what cities he expects to visit in the next few days or weeks. Those listed are New Orleans, Richmond, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Atlanta, Louisville, Birmingham (we have heard from Miss Hurley there), and Charleston. Ask him again if he will please get the information "on the spot" from those places he visits and bring it back with him.

In regard to the information on Atlanta, would you like to call or write Mrs. Hamilton at the Atlanta Urban League for this? I think we ought to get started on it. While it ought to be very easy to get, it may take some time.

It would be well to write the State agencies as listed in the BOOK OF STATES for the information on the ones we want. They are: South Carolina, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, and Tennessee. This might be done in addition to the contacts already made since the replies are so slow and sketchy.

11 - 5 - 52

To Dr. Mitchell

From Sue Crank

Please call Mr. Alston to determine specifically what cities he expects to visit in the next few days or weeks. Those listed are New Orleans, Richmond, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Atlanta, Louisville, Birmingham (we have heard from Miss Hurley there), and Charleston. Ask him again if he will please get the information "on the spot" from those places he visits and bring it back with him.

In regard to the information on Atlanta, would you like to call or write Mrs. Hamilton at the Atlanta Urban League for this? I think we ought to get started on it. While it ought to be very easy to get, it may take some time.

It would be well to write the State agencies as listed in the BOOK OF STATES for the information on the ones we want. They are: South Carolina, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, and Tennessee. This might be done in addition to the contacts already made since the replies are so slow and sketchy.

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS
1133 Broadway, New York 10, N. Y.

NATIONAL URBAN LEAGUE

FOR EQUAL ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

250 Auburn Avenue, N. E. Lamar 7262 Atlanta 3, Georgia

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

President
Robert W. Dowling

Vice-Presidents
Mrs. Bennett Cerf
Sophia Yarnall Jacobs
John Paul Jones
Irvin C. Mollison

Secretary
Thomas G. Young

Treasurer
Orin Lehman

Consultant to the Board
Eugene Kinckle Jones

•

Walter H. Aiken
Sadie T. M. Alexander
Regina M. Andrews
William H. Baldwin
George A. Beavers, Jr.
Lee H. Bristol
Theodore Brown
Benjamin J. Buttenwieser
Mrs. Moise S. Cahn
George D. Cannon
May E. Chinn
Kenneth B. Clark
Mrs. George E. Cohron
William Collins
Joseph F. Cullman III
Dowdal H. Davis
Mrs. MacDonald S. Denman
James Felt
Dorothy B. Ferebee
Lloyd K. Garrison
Sidney Hollander
Mrs. S. Foster Hunt
Raymond E. Jackson
Charles S. Johnson
Aubre DeL. Maynard
Howard H. McNeill
John E. Moseley
Dorothy Paley
Gifford Phillips
Ira DeA. Reid
Roger William Riis
James H. Robinson
Winthrop Rockefeller
Oren Root
Elmo Roper
Mrs. Samuel I. Rosenman
David Rosenstein
Clendenin J. Ryan
Mrs. Alfred H. Schoellkopf
John H. Sengstacke
Louis Simon
George W. Snowden
John I. Snyder, Jr.
Edward Stanley
Mrs. Arthur Hays Sulzberger
Harold Szold
Mrs. Ronald Tree
Beulah T. Whitby
L. Hollingsworth Wood

•

Lester B. Granger
Executive Director

R. Maurice Moss
Asso. Executive Director

SOUTHERN FIELD DIVISION
Harry L. Alston, Industrial Relations
M. T. Puryear, Vocational Guidance

November 6, 1952

RECEIVED
NOV 7 1952
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George Mitchell
Executive Secretary
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

As indicated in our telephone conversation yesterday, I am sending you the reports, which I received from the Washington Urban League, Inc. and the New Orleans Urban League regarding the recreational services and facilities in their respective communities.

When you have compiled the information you desire from these reports, please return them to our office so that they might retained in our files.

As soon as I hear from the other Affiliates in the Southern Field Division, I will let you know.

Sincerely yours,

H. L. Alston

Harry L. Alston
Industrial Secretary
Southern Field Division
NATIONAL URBAN LEAGUE

HLA/m

Affiliated With National Social Welfare Assembly, National Conference of Social Work, United Community Defense Services, United Defense Fund

Contributions are deductible for income tax purposes.

Have Sue write
Ga - I wrote Clark
he turned over to Springfield, who did nothing.
GSW write to other man.
SC - 3.P.M. to go to Cola.

11 - 7-1952

To Dr. Mitchell

From Sue Crank

Re: SEGREGATION IN RECREATION

We need more specific information from South Carolina and Washington, D.C. as follows:

South Carolina:

How many state parks are there- for whites? For Negroes? 4
How much money spent on recreation - for whites? For Negroes?
Number and kind of personnel, equipment, services, etc. at each?
How many golf courses, tennis courts, swimming pools, and othe facilities (amphitheatres, stadia, ball parks, etc.).
Libraries and other facilities?
Special emphasis on numbers.

Miss Adele Minahan sent us the material we have which was compiled for her by Mr. C. West Jacocks, State Park Director, State Commission of Forestry, Columbia, South Carolina. Miss Minahan's address is 1930 College Street, Columbia, South Carolina.

Washington, D.C.

Actual total figures of population with number of whites and number of Negroes?
Number and kinds of Federal recreation facilities?
" " " " D.C. gov't " " ?
(Golf courses, tennis courts, parks - their equipment and personnel.
Any other information that would help in descriptions and comparisons.
Actual titles of suits to be filed against the Recreation Department, if possible.

Have you written letters to other State Departments of Recreation? Addresses are in the BOOK OF STATES which Anna has.
You might send a letter or make a phone call to H. L. Alston thanking him for the information received, a greeing to return same after compilation, and emphasizing to him the importance of getting specific, numerical information from his offices, as well as the general statements.

Will speak to Grace Hamilton tomorrow re Atlanta information, and tell her that you will call her Monday to give more details.

Copy of Letter to Mr. McKay
From Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton,
Atlanta Urban League
November 11, 1952

Dear Mr. McKay:

This letter comes in reply to a request from Mr. Alston of the National Urban League for certain information upon recreational facilities for white and Negro residents of Atlanta, Georgia. I regret that it is not possible to answer all of the questions raised with completeness.

The Atlanta Urban League is considering a study and report of municipal recreational facilities for Negroes in Atlanta, and we will be happy to share our findings with you when it is done.

In 1940 the Atlanta Social Planning Council published a "Report on Informal Education and Recreation Programs of Member Agencies - Fulton and DeKalb Counties." The attached inventory of facilities in Atlanta parks and the following paragraph were parts of this report.

> "The tables on park property and facilities according to race served quite obviously reveal the need of park facilities for Negroes. The Park Department maintains a total of 1,449 acres of park facilities but only 16.4 acres may be used by the Negro population. This acreage is made up of one park. Negroes in Atlanta make up 34.6 of the total population."

In the twelve years since this report, Atlanta has opened two additional park areas for Negroes - Anderson and Pittmann Parks. These two parks include one additional swimming pool; two recreational buildings; a baseball diamond, and several tennis courts. No golf courses are available for use by Negro citizens. We do not have information on the extent to which recreational resources for white citizens have been increased during this period. Comments upon the "equality of the facilities" are obviously unnecessary.

There are three branch libraries in Negro neighborhoods maintained by the Atlanta Public Library. Books which are available in the main library may be secured by Negro readers by librarians, but the facilities of main libraries are not available for use by Negroes.

Present Negro population within Atlanta continues to be roughly one-third of the total. Groups of Negro citizens have appealed to the city government for additional park space in one of the most heavily populated areas of the city and for the provision of a golf course. Both of these needs are under consideration by the appropriate bodies, but no specific indication of how soon they may be available has been given.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. G. T. Hamilton
Executive Director

Atlanta Park Inventory*

Facilities

Swimming Pools (5 white; 1 Negro)	6
Golf Courses (4 - 9; 1 - 18 hole)	5
Tennis Courts (27 lighted) (6 Negro)	91
Baseball Diamonds	14
Softball Diamonds	10
Playgrounds	32
Picnic Pavilions	6
Open Pavilions (bandstands)	4
Barbecue Pits	5
Outdoor Kitchens or Grills	10
Horse Shoe Court	1
Skating Rinks or Areas	2
Pony Tracks	2
Greenhouse & Conservatory	1
Zoo	1
Polo Field	1
Cyclorama	1
Dance Pavilions	2
Athletic Fields	6
Electric Fountain	1
Wading Pools	5

*Informal Education and Recreation Programs of Member Agencies - Fulton and DeKalb Counties, 1940, p. 126.

11 - 12 - 52

To Dr. Mitchell

From Sue Crank

Here is the list of names and addresses of State officers of recreation. Please send letters asking for the information from their respective states.

This is how we stand:

SOUTH CAROLINA
We have received some in formation from Mr. Flory through Miss Minahan.

TEXAS
No information yet either from the State officer or Mr. Wesley's newspaper inquiry.

LOUISIANA
No State information.

GEORGIA
We have a map of the State parks.

TENNESSEE
No information of any kind.

11 - 18 - 52

To Dr. Mitchell

From Sue Crank

Re: SEGREGATION IN RECREATION

This is how we stand:

States

Texas - no information; Louisiana - no information for the State; South Carolina - Some information. You thought you might get more through personal contact while you were there. Tennessee - no information; Georgia - no information except a map acquired unofficially.

Anna is sending letters to all state officials, except South Carolina, asking them to please give us the info by Nov. 30.

Cities

New Orleans - info received; Birmingham - info received; Washington - info incompletev and very general; Charleston, S.C. - you will probably get thru your personal contact; Fort Worth, Louisville; Oklahoma City; Richmond - none. Atlanta will be sent from Mr. Alston's office. They have a copy of the material prepared by Mrs. Hamilton, but she must have sent it directly to Emory or something. They are forwarding copy to us.

Did you call Mr. McKay to know when he had to have this material? Perhaps it would be appropriate to send them a letter letting them know where we are and what the difficulties are. If the January issue is not possible, maybe we could make a later one.

Talked to Mr. Alston's secretary to day and told her the cities we had not yet heard from. She said he would probably send out another memo to hurry them up; also would send a note to Washington, D.C. asking for more specific information. I told her that you would be in the office tomorrow and would call Mr. Alston. Please ask him if he got any information "on the spot" from the cities he visited.

Made a copy of the letters and materials that had been sent to him and returned the originals to his office.

— Alston promised STM Nov 19 to push.

Mississippi Park Service

1104 WOOLFOLK STATE OFFICE BUILDING
P. O. BOX 649
Jackson, Mississippi

November 21, 1952

RECEIVED
NOV 24 1952
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of November 19, requesting information concerning recreational facilities available to Negroes in the south, and which is to be published in Emory's JOURNAL OF PUBLIC LAW.

There are nine State Parks in Mississippi which are operated for the whites only, with the negroes being permitted to fish in the lakes in designated areas. There has been no legislation introduced to provide state park facilities for negroes; however, this matter has been under consideration for quite a long time. The Honorable Fielding L. Wright, Governor of Mississippi from 1948 to 1952 made the statement in 1950 that at least two parks should be provided for negroes immediately. This has not been done but we do believe that the 1954 legislature will make provisions for parks for negroes or for facilities within the present parks on a segregated basis.

This writer was discussion leader on the question of State Parks and the Race Problem at the annual meeting of the Southeastern State Park Directors in Albemarle, North Carolina, in the fall of 1950. The consensus of opinion among all State Park Directors and Leaders present was that facilities should be provided for the negroes at the earliest possible date, and that it should be done because they deserved these facilities and not because or until they were forced to provide them. I am enclosing copy of paper prepared for me by Dr. J. L. Reddix, President of Jackson College for Negroes, which I think might be of interest to you.

If we can be of any further assistance, please feel free to call on us.

Very truly yours,
JAMES W. CRAIG
State Park Director
By: A. H. Nall
A. H. Nall
Park Coordinator

AHN:bm

STATE PARKS AND THE RACE PROBLEM

The relationship of state parks to the race problem is the same as the relationship of all state facilities to the race problem. The state by its very nature is obligated to furnish equal facilities for all of its citizens. This is usually done without question for the basic facilities such as roads, police protection, education, et cetera, but there has been a tendency, both in the North and in the South, to make no provisions for colored people in public facilities of a recreational nature. We are all happy that this neglect is decreasing everywhere in recent years. The fact that this subject has a place on this program is an indication of the truth of this statement.

It was only a few years ago when it was questionable as to whether recreation was a function of the state under any circumstances; but the growth of our theory of public school, public roads, and social welfare, over the past centruy has confirmed the theory that the state must be concerned about the well-being of all of its citizens. During the past hundred years, life and living in our society has grown more complex. Modern transportation has increased our neighbors many fold. The percentage of our population living in large cities has increased very sharply. Millions of working people in our cities do not have access to the natural facilities such as the rivers, woods as we once had. Only a small percentage of our population has had the means to own adequate personal facilities for recreation and vacations. In recent years, most of the states and many municipalities have developed parks, playgrounds, and bathing facilities that are accessible to the masses of its citizens at a very low cost, or at no cost at all. The City of Jackson, Mississippi, purchased 30 acres of land three years ago for the purpose of building a municipal park for Negro citizens. The city will spend over a million dollars on this park when it is completed. A swimming pool, a good park house, wading pool, and recreation grounds, have already been completed and landscaped in a modern manner. A city auditorium costing upward of $375,000 is now being built. This auditorium will contain the most modern recreational facilities possible, a branch of the public library, and an auditorium that will seat approximately 2,500 persons. There is already evidence that this development has lowered juvenile delinquency in the City of Jackson. We believe that within a few years, this facility will make juvenile delinquency among Negro youths the lowest of any city in the South.

In the development of our State park facilities, adequate provisions must be made for colored people. There should be no doubt in the mind of any Negro citizen as he drives along the highways of our State as to whether he can use these facilities or not. Definite provisions should be made in every state park for Negro citizens. We should have wisdom and foresight enough to do this before any pressure is applied on state authorities, and in this way, we shall maintain good race relations at all times.

The development of our State park system should be "planned with" and not "for" the colored people. All men take pride in what they help to plan for themselves. When people are given the opportunity to plan things for themselves, they may be relied on, in most cases, to use good common sense in making their plans to accord with established social customs. When the State simply ignores the needs of a large segment of its citizens and makes no provision for their well-being, it tends toward either degrading these citizens or toward making them resentful, suspicious, and ready to listen to ideologies which are foreigh to democracy.

It is an axiom that enlightened men of all races seek the good life.

The good life means a home, a family, a church, equal protection under the law, and some of the beautiful things of life. It was Edwin Markham that said: "What the world needs is more bread, beauty, and brotherhood." The beauty that the world needs includes leisure time, recreation, and even the enjoyment of public parks.

Adequate park facilities tend toward lowering crime among all of the people. A boy that has a good home, a good school, and adequate recreation, is not likely to become a criminal. Most delinquency can be traced to broken homes and inadequate recreation. A few years ago, I saw a statement in the newspaper that the penitentiary of a certain state had balanced its budget and had shown a profit. That institution might have balanced its budget, but it did not show a profit. No penal institution can show a profit to society. The cost of crime in terms of human misery and the suffering of innocent women and children cannot be estimated. Experts have calculated that it cost on an average of more than two million dollars a year to convict and to keep a criminal in prison. States, municipalities, and the Federal Government are justified in spending tax money for the development of recreation for all of the people. Daniel Webster once said:

"Were half the power that fills the world with terror,
Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,
Given to redeem the human mind from error,
There were no need for arsenals and forts."

COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA

SIDNEY S. KELLAM
Director
GEO. PRINCE ARNOLD
Assistant Director

RANDOLPH ODELL
Commissioner of Parks

DIVISION OF PARKS
DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT
RICHMOND 19

BOARD

C. S. CARTER, Bristol, Chairman
L. E. LICHFORD, Lynchburg, Vice-Chairman
E. W. LAUCK, Luray
JAY W. JOHNS, Charlottesville,
RODNEY M. COGGIN, Warsaw
RALPH N. DORSEY, Berryville
ANDREW A. FARLEY, Danville
A. G. LIVELY, Lebanon
G. ALVIN MASSENBURG, Hampton
LEE PASCHALL, Richmond
SHELTON H. SHORT, JR., Chase City
VICTOR W. STEWART, Petersburg
JOEL H. WATKINS, Charlotte C. H.

November 24, 1952

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432,63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

RECEIVED
NOV 26 1952
Southern Regional Council

Dear Miss Holden:

We have your letter of November 19 requesting certain information, which will be included in an article to be published in Emory's JOURNAL OF PUBLIC LAW, and the pamphlet describing your organization and its activities.

(1) (a) The Virginia State Parks available to whites are as follows: 1) Claytor Lake, 2) Douthat, 3) Fairy Stone, 4) Hungry Mother, 5) Pocahontas, 6) Seashore, 7) Staunton River and 8) Westmoreland.

(b) The Virginia State Park available to Negroes is Prince Edward State Park, and there is an organized group camp in Pocahontas State Park available to Negroes.

None of our parks are open on a non-segregated basis.

All facilities in Prince Edward State Park are the same as those in our other parks, that is, the size, type of services, equipment and upkeep are comparable to that of our parks for whites. The facilities in our State Park for Negroes are better than those in our other parks, because they are newer and are of more permanent construction, which requires less maintenance.

(2) There has been no recent legislation in Virginia relating to amusement and recreational facilities available to whites and Negroes and I know of no proposed legislation in this connection.

I hope the above will give you the information you desire.

Yours sincerely,

Randolph Odell

Randolph Odell
Commissioner of Parks

RO:cvr

November 26, 1952

Miss Irene Osborne
American Friends Service Committee
104 C St., NE
Washington, DC

Dear Miss Osborne:

Don't forget you very kindly said you would get me the dope on recreational facilities in Washington.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

November 26, 1952

MEMO TO MISS SUE CRANK

I was told the other day in Washington that by the 1950 census the District of Columbia population is now 35% Negro. What is called the metropolitan area was 24% in 1950.

I saw the right man in Columbia Tuesday.

Following Negro State parks in S. C.

1. Pleasant Ridge. Has a lake, picnic area, one cabin for groups. Also has a caretaker's residence, occupied by the man who is jointly caretaker for that park and for Paris Mountain State Park (white), nearby. I assume he is a white person.

2. At Greenwood State Park there is a Negro area which does not have direct access to the water. At the moment, roads have been cut connecting the Negro area and the lake front, and there are therefore, technically, fishing facilities for Negroes. It is intended to move the Negro area to a lake front position which will be advantageous in many ways. The present facilities in the present Negro area of Greenwood State Park are: picnic tables, fire places, and the aforesaid fishing facilities.

3. Clear Creek, near Poinsett State Park. Swimming, fishing, bathing beach, bath houses, concession stands, picnic tables, and also group camp facilities with recreation building and concession and cabins.

4. At Hunting Island State Park--Bath house and pavilion, beach, picnic tables.

5. Campbell's Pond. Has a Negro area adjoining Cheraw State Park. It has a lake, swimming, bath house, picnic shelter, and fire places. Boating is permitted, but as yet there are no boats except one staff boat. Also dancing facilities there.

In addition to the above five developed Negro areas, the State has appropriated $50,000 for purchase and development in the Charleston area of a Negro park. It has thus far been difficult to find an agreed location, but the State parks people still anxiously wish to establish such a park.

Note that there are playing fields in all five of the Negro parks.

Further note that camping is permitted in all State parks in S. C. except the small one close to Columbia.

Here is further material on the facilities at the various South Carolina parks, white and Negro.

The annual report herewith is now 1½ years old, and is shortly to be succeeded by another, now in manuscript.

On page 59 of the annual report, it is noted that the Pleasant Ridge Park has 300 acres.

The S. C. State Parks Office has promised to send me a list of all the Negro areas with that acreage. With the table on page 59 the comparative acreage could be computed. Elsewhere in the annual report I believe there is other material on facilities.

G. SM.

State Parks Commission

200 NORTH BOULEVARD
BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA

November 24, 1952

RECEIVED
NOV 28 1952
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room #432, 63 Auburn Ave.,N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Holden:

We do not have in Louisiana any state parks available to negroes. There are twelve state park areas for whites, in various stages of development.

We are enclosing pamphlets describing the areas which are in actual operation.

During the last session of the Legislature an appropriation of $50,000.00 was made to the State Parks and Recreation Commission for the purpose of building a negro 4-H camp in Grant Parish, Louisiana. While Louisiana has not as yet seen fit to provide recreational facilities for the negroes, I believe that planning and development of these areas will come in the very near future.

Very truly yours,

William W. Wells

William W. Wells
Director

Encl.

WWW/ec

November 26, 1952

MEMO TO MRS. SUE CRANK

I was told the other day in Washington that by the 1950 census the District of Columbia population is now 35% Negro. What is called the metropolitan area was 24% in 1950.

I saw the right man in Columbia Tuesday.

Following Negro State parks in S. C.

1. Pleasant Ridge. Has a lake, picnic area, one cabin for groups. Also has a caretaker's residence, occupied by the man who is jointly caretaker for that park and for Paris Mountain State Park (white), nearby. I assume he is a white person.

2. At Greenwood State Park there is a Negro area which does not have direct access to the water. At the moment, roads have been cut connecting the Negro area and the lake front, and there are therefore, technically, fishing facilities for Negroes. It is intended to move the Negro area to a lake front position which will be advantageous in many ways. The present facilities in the present Negro area of Greenwood State Park are: picnic tables, fire places, and the aforesaid fishing facilities.

3. ~~Clear~~ Mill Creek, near Poinsett State Park. Swimming, fishing, bathing beach, bath houses, concession stands, picnic tables, and also group camp facilities with recreation building and concession and cabins.

4. At Hunting Island State Park--Bath house and pavilion, beach, picnic tables.

5. Campbell's Pond. Has a Negro area adjoining Cheraw State Park. It has a lake, swimming, bath house, picnic shelter, and fire places. Boating is permitted, but as yet there are no boats except one staff boat. Also dancing facilities there.

In addition to the above five developed Negro areas, the State has appropriated $50,000 for purchase and development in the Charleston area of a Negro park. It has thus far been difficult to find an agreed location, but the State parks people still anxiously wish to establish such a park.

Note that there are playing fields in all five of the Negro parks.

Further note that camping is permitted in all State parks in S. C. except the small one close to Columbia.

Here is further material on the facilities at the various South Carolina parks, white and Negro.

The annual report herewith is now 1½ years old, and is shortly to be succeeded by another, now in manuscript.

On page 59 of the annual report, it is noted that the Pleasant Ridge Park has 300 acres.

The S. C. State Parks Office has promised to send me a list of all the Negro areas with that acreage. With the table on page 59 the comparative acreage could be computed. Elsewhere in the annual report I believe there is other material on facilities.

G. SM.

Planning to vacation in South Carolina?

You have made a wise choice; South Carolina is the vacation goal every year for thousands of tourists from all over the nation. A vacation in South Carolina, with its lakes and streams, and mountains and seashore, is an unforgettable event.

There is a "plus" attraction to a vacation in South Carolina -- the twenty-one parks, maintained by the Division of State Parks. Located in every part of the State, these areas cater to every vacation taste, whether it is an afternoon of picnicking, a camping trip, or a vacation in one of the 58 family cabins.

We are sending you information that will help to make your South Carolina vacation an enjoyable one -- a State Highway map and a descriptive folder on the facilities offered in South Carolina State Parks. We are also enclosing camping information, for we believe that one of the best ways to enjoy the "out-door" life and the natural scenery in South Carolina is on a camping trip.

While you are here, we sincerely hope you will visit one or more of our State Parks -- whether for camping, swimming, picnicking, or relaxation.

If we can be of any further service to you, please do not hesitate to write the Forestry Commission, Division of State Parks, P. O. Box 357, Columbia, South Carolina.

South Carolina's State Parks are open all year.

CAMPING IN SOUTH CAROLINA'S STATE PARKS

WHERE? Camping is permitted in any State Park except at Sesqui-Centennial State Park. Arrangements should be made with the Park Superintendent who will assign an area convenient to water, fireplaces, picnic tables, and toilets.

FACILITIES? All campgrounds have firewood, an open outdoor fireplace, a large picnic table, and level tent site. In the immediate area there is drinking water and toilet facilities. All other park facilities, such as swimming beach, shelter, playfields and so on, are available to the campers.

HOW LONG? These areas are generally open the year round. In most cases, campers are allowed to stay as long as they like, although at certain periods and parks, a two-week limit may be imposed.

RESERVATIONS? No reservations are necessary; camping space is allotted on a first-come-first-served basis.

EXPENSE? There is no charge for camping; although in some parks a small fee is made for trailers where electricity and water are provided.

TRAILERS? We regret we do not have formal developed Trailer Camp facilities at our State Parks, except at Myrtle Beach State Park on U. S. #17, and Cheraw State Park on U. S. #1, where there are established areas in which trailers may be parked and have access to water and toilets. At most of the other Parks arrangements may be made with the Park Superintendent for temporary camping.

Samples
N. & W.

Chairman
HENRY J. CADBURY

Executive Secretary
LEWIS M. HOSKINS

Honorary Secretary
CLARENCE E. PICKETT

American Friends Service Committee

INCORPORATED

Twenty South Twelfth Street

Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

Telephone, ~~KIDTSHOUSE 6-9872~~
LIncoln 3-2773

RECEIVED
DEC 1 1952
Southern Regional Council

November 28, 1952

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Your note to Irene Osborne arrived this morning. The delay in forwarding the material to you has been the result of our lack of secretarial help because of illness, and the fact that we have finally found ourselves typing materials being sent out. With other parts of the program going full blast, this has been a slow process. My apologies.

Sincerely,

Alma Scurlock

Alma Scurlock

Exhibit II

Population ratios: (1950 Census)

White 517, 865 - 64.6% Negro 280,803 - 35% Other 3,510 - .4%

As of October 14, 1952

D. C. Lands: Six areas, three non-segragated, last on 10-14-52- swimming pool not yet decided; one segregated - white use only.

Interior Department Lands:
Nineteen areas, all integrated under agreement with Department of Interior (see Newsletter).

Assigned Lands: S ixty-eight areas have been assigned by National Capital Planning Commission (formerly National Capital Park and Planning Commission.) Use as follows:

White Only - 47 Negro Only - 13 Non-segregated - 8

National Capital Housing Authority:
Two areas under agreement: one declared non-segregated on October 14, 1952; other for use of Negroes only.

Board of Education Lands: (as of June 1952)

White only - 23 Negro Only - 20 Non-segregated - 5

Totals:	White	Negro	Non-Segregated
D.C. Govt	1	--	3
Interior	--	--	19
Assigned	47	13	8
NCHA	--	1	1
Bd. of Ed.	23	20	5
Totals	71	34	36	141 areas

Chairman
HENRY J. CADBURY

Executive Secretary
LEWIS M. HOSKINS

Honorary Secretary
CLARENCE E. PICKETT

American Friends Service Committee
INCORPORATED

Twenty South Twelfth Street

Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

Telephone, ~~RIDgeHouse 6-9377~~
LIncoln 3-2773

104 C Street, N. E.
Washington 2, D. C.
November 26, 1952

Mr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
Room 432 -- 63 Auburn A venue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Irene Osborne handed me your letter of request for information on the recreation system of the District of Columbia. I am enclosing for your information a copy of our August 1952 newsletter which gives a general description of the recreation setup. I am enclosing also Exhibits I and II, the first of which gives the section of the 1924 Law responsible for the jurisdictional dispute mentioned in the newsletter. The second gives an overall glance at the actual division of play areas in the District of Columbia, since the Recreation Board's decision in 1949 to integrate gradually all playgrounds.

On October 16, 1952, four playgrounds were voted "open". One of these was on District of Columbia government land, one on land owned by the National Capital Housing Authority, and two on assigned lands.

Although 280,803 Negroes compose 35% of the population and 521,375 other citizens compose 65% of the population, playgrounds are not proportionately distributed nor do the population figures indicate the real situation insofar as the children of the community are concerned. The recreation system must necessarily be affected by the population factor which has been the source of so much disturbance in our segregated school system. This is the fact that actually there are 8,000 more Negro children of school age in the District of Columbia than white children of comparable age, and I suspect more of preschool age also, sincethe Board of Education statistician has recently stated to the press that white families with pre-school children are the ones who are moving to the outlying areas."

Heretofore the Recreation Board has failed to place integrated teams of directors on playgrounds declared non-segregated, and this has had the effect of almost entirely Negro use of these areas. This does not apply to those areas on Interior land where the Interior Department had brought in Dr. Joseph Lohman to do a real job of preparation.

After the opening of Rosedale playground, however, the Recreation Board placed on this playground, in the area of highest tension, a team of two white and two Negro directors who are faced now with the almost insurmountable task of planning a program and attempting to coax back white children who are being kept off the playground through organized effort. Community groups have offered the Superintendent of Recreation their assistance in this effort, and the help has been accepted.

Swmimming pools operated in the centers under the superivision of the Interior Department are used on an integrated basis, but there are more Negro participants than white. Attendance by white children is increasing slowly, however.

The Recreation Board itself operates two areas with swimming pools, one which has not yet been declared non-segregated, although the Rosedale Playground on which it is located has been so designated, and one other on a playground for white children only.

I hope that the foregoing information and the attached materials will be of some help in the assembling of the article which you mentioned. If you have any suggestions which you feel would be of help to us on the Washington scene, we should be most appreciative of having them from you.

Sincerely yours,

Alma Scurlock

(Mrs.) Alma S. Scurlock
Washington Representative
Community Relations Program

Enclosures

December four, 1953

Mr H D Goode, President
Negro Chamber of Commerce, Inc
703 North DeVillier Street
Pensacola, Florida

Dear Mr Goode:

It was most kind of you to send us a copy of the correspondence with the Florida State Park Service on the matter of non-segregated use of the park facilities of Florida. I agree that you are entirely right and hope the state of Florida will see the light.

We hope to get out a report pretty soon on state park facilities in all the Southern states and I will be sure that a copy reaches you.

Sincerely yours

George S Mitchell
Executive Director

gsm-t
cc: Anna Holden, Research Assistant

RECEIVED
DEC 3
Southern Regional Council

NEGRO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, INCORPORATED
PENSACOLA, FLORIDA
NOVEMBER 28, 1953

Fellow Citizens:

Several weeks ago the Negro Chamber of Commerce of Pensacola, Incorporated launched a project to determine the status of the Negro insofar as use of Wayside Parks as found throughout the State of Florida.

It is our understanding that these parks are built with state funds and are for the use of the public when motoring through Florida or whenever desired so long as the user abides by regulations as set forth.

From the tone of enclosed notarized copies of letlers as received from two of our State Officials, it is without question that use by Negro citizens was not intended from the outset and that an attempt has been made to set aside two or more such places exclusively for members of our race. Imagine the hardship we must face in traveling from Pensacola to Miami in the event we desired to eat our lunches or relax enroute in the open.

You no doubt have witnessed throngs enjoying the facilities of these parks, especially during summer months, as you traveled over the state.

The Pensacola Negro Chamber of Commerce is seeking the support of every Negro organization in Florida and elsewhere, in our effort to break down this undemocratic and discriminatory practice.

We ask further, that you campaign against such by expressing your disapproval, through whatever media you deem effective.

Now is the time to work relentlessly to break down barriers which circumscribe us and tend to hold us as second-rate citizens.

Very truly yours,

H. D. Goode, President

C. J. DaValt, Secretary

703 N. DeVillier St.

, H. D. Goode

May 26, 1953

Florida State Park Service
Tallahassee, Florida

Dear Sirs:

The Negro Chamber of Commerce of Pensacola, Incorporated, is in the process of compiling data relative to points of interest, possibilities of Pensacola, and other related information. Please advise us as to regulations governing the use of Wayside Parks as developed throughout the state. That is, time they might be used, to whom they are available, number throughout the state and location.

An immediate reply will be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

H. D. Goode, President

HDG: ry

CERTIFICATE

STATE OF FLORIDA

COUNTY OF Escambia

I, the undersigned authority, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of an instrument presented to me by Negro Chamber Of Commerce as the original of such instrument.

WITNESS my hand and official seal, this 24 day of November, A. D. 1953.

Notary Public
State of Florida at Large

Notary Public, State of Florida at large
My commission expires June 9, 1956.
Bonded by American Surety Co. of N. Y.

My commission expires

STATE OF FLORIDA
Office of The
ATTORNEY GENERAL
Tallahassee

Richard W. Ervin
Attorney General

August 3, 1953

Dr. H. D. Goode, President
Negro Chamber of Commerce of Pensacola
703 North DeVillier Street
Pensacola, Florida

Re: Use of Wayside Parks

Dear Dr. Goode:

This will acknowledge your letter of July 28, with its enclosures, requesting information with regard to the above.

It is the uniform policy of our office - and please be assured that your matter is not being treated differently - not to give official advice to an individual where it relates to the powers, duties and official responsibilities of public officials who do not request. it. Should we undertake to render official opinions in such regard, it would result not only in unseemly intrusion of this office into the administrative conduct of public officials but would result in endless confusion and difficulty between them and members of the public. The policy is written into the law itself since the Attorney General is permitted to advise public officials and then only in connection with the discharge of their duties.

It appears that the questions you ask relate to the rules, regulations and restrictions of the State Road Department governing the use of wayside parks by members of the public.

Sincerely yours,

Richard W. Ervin
Attorney General

RWE/bfe

CERTIFICATE

STATE OF FLORIDA

COUNTY OF Escambia

I, the undersigned authority, hereby that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of an instrument presented to me by Negro Chamber Of Commerce as the original of such instrument.

WITNESS my hand and official seal, this 24 day of November, A. D. 19 53.

Notary Public
State of Florida at Large

Notary Public, State of Florida at large
My commission expires June 9, 1956.
Bonded by American Surety Co. of N. Y.

My commission expires

OFFICERS:

Richard H. Simpson
Chairman
Sam P. Turnbull
State Highway Engineer
Ralph M. Hartsfield
Secretary
Stephen C. O'Connell
Attorney

STATE ROAD DEPARTMENT OF FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE

June 17, 1953

MEMBERS:

W. Howard Frankland
Tampa, Fla.
Earl P. Powers
Gainesville, Fla.
Richard H. Simpson
Monticello, Fla.
Thomas B. Manuel
Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.
J. Saxton Lloyd
Daytona Beach, Fla.

H. E. Goode, President
Negro Chamber of Commerce of Pensacola
703 N. DeVillier Street
Pensacola, Florida

Dear President Goode:

Your letter concerning restrictions or rules as to use of wayside parks was referred to this Department by the Florida Board of Parks and Historical Memorials.

General rules applicable to the use of parks require the users to cooperate in protecting the property and keeping the site clean. They prohibit overnight parking and it is expected that the park guests will not use intoxicating beverages.

We are enclosing an official map on which is shown the wayside parks now in use. There are two parks designed for use exclusively by Negroes and the parks are so posted. One is on State Road 60, The Courtney Campbell Parkway, and the other is on Little Talbot Island in Duval County (State Road A1A). Three others being planned or developed include one for Bay County, one for Okaloosa County and one for Manatee County.

Wayside parks have generally been developed with cooperation of local communities or civic groups who supply the park site free of cost. Because of shortage of funds when the budget was made up for 1953, it was necessary to restrict this type of development for the current year.

Trusting this information will be of service to you, I am

Very truly yours,

Richard H. Simpson
Chairman

RMH:H:w

CERTIFICATE

STATE OF FLORIDA

COUNTY OF ESCAMBIA

I, the undersigned authority, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of an instrument presented to me by C. J. Davart as the original of such instrument.

WITNESS my hand and official seal, this 24th day of November, A. D. 1953.

Charles F. Nelson

Notary Public
State of Florida at Large

My commission expires

Notary Public, State of Florida at Large
My commission expires Sept. 6, 1955.
Bonded by American Surety Co. of N. Y.

703 N. DeVillier

- H. D. Goode

July 28, 1953

Hon. Richard W. Ervin, Attorney General
State of Florida
Tallahassee, Florida

Dear Mr. Ervin:

Enclosed find photostatic copies of correspondence to and from the Florida State Park Service and the State Road Department of Florida over the signature of Mr. Richard H. Simpson, chairman, dated May 26 and June 17, 1953, respectively.

The contents of above letters have to do with rules, regulations, and restrictions governing the use of Wayside Parks as developed throughout the state.

Mr. Simpson stated that there were two parks designated for us exclusively by Negroes, but failed to indicate the status of the Negro insofar as usage generally.

We are directing this matter to you for an opinion regarding the use of Wayside Parks by any and all citizens traveling in our state.

We trust that the aforementioned request will be given full consideration predicated on a true analysis and interpretation for which your office is noted.

Respectfully yours,

H. D. Goode, President

C. J. DaValt, Secretary

Enclosures: 2

CERTIFICATE

STATE OF FLORIDA

COUNTY OF ESCAMBIA

I, the undersigned authority, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of an instrument presented to me by C. J. DaValt as the original of such instrument.

WITNESS my hand and official seal, this 24th day of NOVEMBER, A. D. 1953.

Charles F. Wilson

Notary Public
State of Florida at Large

My commission expires

Notary Public, State of Florida at large
My commission expires Sept. 6, 1955.
Bonded by American Surety Co. of N. Y.

North Carolina Recreation Commission

DIRECTOR
RALPH J. ANDREWS

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR
JAMES S. STEVENS, JR.

RECREATION SPECIALIST
HAROLD D. MEYER

EDUCATION BLDG. ANNEX—ROOM 134
TEL. 4-3611 EXT. 7431
Raleigh, N. C.

RECREATION SPECIALIST
VIRGINIA GREGORY

RECREATION SPECIALIST
LONNIE POWELL

RECREATION SPECIALIST-SEASONAL A. E. WEATHERFORD

Dec. 4, 1952

RECEIVED
DEC 5 1952
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Sent copy 12-5-52 air mail

Dear Anna,

Your letter to me came while I was on a two weeks trip in the field. One of the men in the office left me a note to let them answer it, a part of it and we may have sent it up to the State Parks Dept. for their help on the first two inquiries - so the long and short of it is that we cannot locate the letter and it has not been answered. Will you kindly send me a copy of the letter and I will see that it is answered immediately and as nearly specific as possible. I'm sorry but t ought it would be a quicker process to have you send me a copy of the letter than to continue to hunt for it. Thanks a lot.

I did see the letter and enjoyed the personal touch - and our State Rec. Conference met in Asheville in Nov. and I just bought up a new supply of baskets. I had intended giving them away for Christmas - but do not see how I can part with a single one. I never see one that I don't think of you. Some gift shops have some pretty Italian ones on display but they just don't seem to have the personality that the Western N. C. ones do.

Thanks for the clipping on Miss Lucy Mason. My family enjoyed it very much. Her father - although she probably wouldn't remember much about it - was a doctor in my family for years. She is a great person.

The Christmas rush is on for me - getting our the Christmas Game Bulletin and getting the Christmas Card from the Commission printed up and sent out. It seems t at to work under pressure is about the only way I get much done.

Please send me the letter - and I am sorry that it got misplaced but with one of my bosses having a baby this week and the other having eye trouble it is hard to get things done.

May the approaching holiday season be a happy one for you and all your family. Do come to see me when you come this way.

Sincerely,

Virginia

Virginia Gregory

NORTH CAROLINA RECREATION COMMISSION

APPOINTED MEMBERS

R. L. McMillan, Chairman, Raleigh

Charles S. Hubbard . . . . . Hillsboro
W. J. Kennedy, Jr., ... Durham
Mrs. John F. Matheson . . . . . Mooresville
Henry M. Milgrom, ... Battleboro
Max A. Parrish, ... Gastonia
R. W. Watkins, ... Boone

EX-OFFICIO MEMBERS

W. Kerr Scott, Governor

Dr. Clyde A. Erwin
Supt. of Public Instruction

Dr. Ellen Winston
Commissioner of Public Welfare

George R. Ross, Director
N. C. Dept. of Conservation and Development

MEMBERS OF ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Russell M. Grumman, Chairman, Chapel Hill

Mrs. Katherine P. Arrington, Art . . . . . Warrenton
Augusta Barnett, Social Events . . . . . Asheville
E. C. Brandon, Jr., Recreation Administration . . . . Burlington
B. G. Brooks, Commercial Recreation . . . . . Raleigh
C. N. Carroll, Institutional Recreation . . . . . Raleigh
Ruth Current, Rural Life . . . . . Raleigh
Harold J. Dudley, Churches . . . . . Raleigh
O. A. Fetch, Tourist and Travel . . . . . Fontana Village
Fred Fletcher, Radio . . . . . Raleigh
Loyd B. Hathaway, Municipalities . . . . . Winston-Salem
Mrs. Maurice Honigman, Music . . . . . Gastonia
A. Elizabeth House, Reading and Storytelling . . . . . Raleigh
C. Walton Johnson, Camping . . . . . Weaverville
John R. Larkins, Negro Groups . . . . . Raleigh
Wally Mars, Veterans . . . . . Monroe
Mrs. Chester A. Marsh, Crafts . . . . . Winston-Salem
G. M. Matlack, Industrial Recreation . . . . . Cramerton
Charles L. McCullers, Civic Groups . . . . . Kinston
Mereb Mossman, Institutions of Higher Learning . . . Greensboro
Rufus Page, Nature Lore . . . . . Elizabethtown
Mayon Parker, Publicity . . . . . Ahoskie
I. E. Ready, Public Schools . . . . . Roanoke Rapids
E. L. Sandefur, Labor . . . . . Winston-Salem
Dr. Ruth Y. Schiffman, Community Chests and Councils . Greensboro
Samuel Selden, Dramatics . . . . . Chapel Hill
L. R. Sides, Youth Groups . . . . . Charlotte
R. E. Stroupe, Sports and Games . . . . . Enfield
Quillen Ward, Industrial Management . . . . . Rocky Mount
C. R. Wood, N. C. Recreation Society . . . . . Durham

12 - 8- 52

To Dr. Mitchell
From Sue Crank

We now have information from six states - Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. There are only two (Georgia and Texas- from which we have to hear.

We are not as well off with regard to the cities. We have heard from four- Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, and Washington - and have yet to hear from five - Charleston, Fort Worth, Louisville, Oklahoma City, and Richmond.

Do you think we are far enough along now to have some conversation with Mr. McKay apprising him of the places from which we have information, the kinds of information, and get some reaction from and with him as to whether we have the most pertinent facts for the article, and some idea as to the form in which he would like to receive the material from this office?

In addition to correspondence received, Anna has discovered additional sources at the libraries which might be helpful in supplementing what we have on hand. Such things as populations, acreages (1949), units (1949), personnel (1948), and expenditures by various states (1948). There are also some decriptions available.

I called Mr. Alston's office today. He and his secretary are out of town. She will be back on Thursday, and he is expected to return on Monday.

Inasmuch as there have been several suits filed in various cities by the NAACP in the field of recreation, what do you think of our approaching them for some of this information, especially for cities? Perhaps Mrs. Hurley in the regional office at Birmingham could be helpful. Atleast, they may be able to refer us to some more fruitful source. Do you know any strategis individuals in the cities who might be asked for this kind of information? I think it would be well worth trying anyway, if it is agreeable with you.

MEMO TO SUE CRANK Dec. 10, 1952

I think you better dig hard for a couple of more cities; then we will show McKay what we've got.

GSM

12 - 8- 52

To Dr. Mitchell
From Sue Crank

We now have information from six states - Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. There are only two (Georgia and Texas- from which we have to hear.

We are not as well off with regard to the cities. We have heard from four- Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, and Washington - and have yet to hear from five - Charleston, Fort Worth, Louisville, Oklahoma City, and Richmond.

Do you think we are far enough along now to have some conversation with Mr. McKay apprising him of the places from which we have information, the kinds of information, and get some reaction from and with him as to whether we have the most pertinent facts for the article, and some idea as to the form in which he would like to receive the material from this office?

In addition to correspondence received, Anna has discovered additional sources at the libraries which might be helpful in supplementing what we have on hand. Such things as populations, acreages (1949), units (1949), personnel (1948), and expenditures by various states (1948). There are also some decriptions available.

I called Mr. Alston's office today. He and his secretary are out of town. She will be back on Thursday, and he is expected to return on Monday.

Inasmuch as there have been several suits filed in various cities by the NAACP in the field of recreation, what do you think of our approaching them for some of this information, especially for cities? Perhaps Mrs. Hurley in the regional office at Birmingham could be helpful. Atleast, they may be able to refer us to some more fruitful source. Do you know any strategic individuals in the cities who might be asked for this kind of information? I think it would be well worth trying anyway, if it is agreeable with you.

MEMO TO SUE CRANK Dec. 10, 1952

I think you better dig hard for a couple of more cities; then we will show McKay what we've got.

GSM

COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA

DIVISION OF PARKS
DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT
RICHMOND 19

SIDNEY S. KELLAM
Director
GEO. PRINCE ARNOLD
Assistant Director

RANDOLPH ODELL
Commissioner of Parks

BOARD

C. S. CARTER, Bristol, Chairman
L. E. LICHFORD, Lynchburg, Vice-Chairman
E. W. LAUCK, Luray
JAY W. JOHNS, Charlottesville,
RODNEY M. COGGIN, Warsaw
RALPH N. DORSEY, Berryville
ANDREW A. FARLEY, Danville
A. G. LIVELY, Lebanon
G. ALVIN MASSENBURG, Hampton
LEE PASCHALL, Richmond
SHELTON H. SHORT, JR., Chase City
VICTOR W. STEWART, Petersburg
JOEL H. WATKINS, Charlotte C. H.

December 15, 1952

Mr. S. F. Crank
242 Boulevard, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Crank:

Under separate cover, we are sending you a booklet on the Virginia State Parks and call your attention to information on Prince Edward State Park, which is the only one we have for Negroes. However, our park season closed on October 1, and none of the facilities in any of the parks will be available again until the middle of May, 1953.

We hope it will be possible for you to drive through Prince Edward while you are in Virginia and see the facilities we have to offer during our operating season.

With best wishes for a pleasant trip,

Sincerely yours,

Division of Parks

Bessie A. Coleman

Bessie A. Coleman

BAC:img

December 15, 1952

Mr. C. West Jacocks
State Park Director
State Commission of Forestry
Columbia, S. C.

Dear Mr. Jacocks:

I am all appreciation for your kind letter of December 12. It very helpfully fills out the information Mr. Ahearn gave me.

We hope that the article on the whole matter can come out in an early issue of the law review published at Emory University.

I make some claim to being a South Carolinian, and rejoice to see the progress made.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

SOUTH CAROLINA

STATE COMMISSION OF FORESTRY

COLUMBIA

CHAS. H. FLORY
STATE FORESTER

RECEIVED
DEC 15 1952
Southern Regional Council

December 12, 1952

Mr. George Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Mr. Ahearn has told me of your visit here several days ago, and I regret I was absent at the time. We are glad that you have occasion to visit some of the sites of our State Park areas for Negroes.

It is somewhat difficult to give you the acreage of the several areas, other than Pleasant Ridge, for they have never been definitely defined. Pleasant Ridge is the only area exclusively for use by Negroes - all other areas are a part of even larger holdings. All are part and parcel of the over-all State Park tracts or surrounded by State Forest areas and no line has been drawn delineating acreages.

It is my estimate, without attempting to measure the area either on the ground or from tract maps, that the five areas for Negroes total approximately 1,000 acres, with additional ground readily available if and when needed.

The Campbell's Pond and Mill Creek areas, each a part of Cheraw and Poinsett State Parks, are surrounded by State Forests and acreage in these two instances does not mean anything, as the use area may be enlarged and spread out as required.

At Hunting Island I presume some 400 acres may be considered as the Negro area. At Greenwood State Park we are going to designate another area for use by Negroes to replace the one now set aside. The new area will be one of the peninsulas jutting out into the lake, and a rough estimate that it comprises approximately 200 acres.

We claim 300 acres for Pleasant Ridge, although it scales out at 299 acres.

I trust this is the information you desire and we will be glad to hear from you at any time.

Very truly yours,

C. West Jacocks
State Park Director

CWJ:cfs

December 18, 1952

Mr. Gordon K. Shearer
Executive Secretary
States Park Board
Austin, Tex.

Dear Mr. Shearer:

May we remind you that we sent you the enclosed request for information on the Texas state park system on November 19.

We realize that this is a very busy time of the year, but we are anxious to secure the information as soon as possible.

If the request should have been addressed to another source, would you kindly forward it to the proper person, or let us know whom to send it to.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

encl.

January 5, 1953

NAACP
20 W. 40th St.
New York 18, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

We would like to have a copy of the December, 1952 issue of THE CRISIS, or a reprint of J. Austin Burkhart's article "Yonder Sits the Rocking Chair," appearing in the December issue.

If there is any charge, please bill us.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

January 8, 1953

Mrs. Ruby Hurley
Southeast Regional Office, NAACP
624 Masonic Temple Bldg.
1630 Fourth Ave., N.
Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Mrs. Hurley:

Mighty good of you to help us out on the business about the parks that Mrs. Grant phoned you for.

Here are the questions we need answered for Charleston and Fort Worth:

1. What is the present white-Negro population ratio within your city?

2. Please state what municipally owned or operated facilities are available to whites and to Negroes in the areas of recreation listed below. Please indicate, as to any of the facilities which are segregated, what differences there are, quantitatively and qualitatively, between the white and the Negro accomodations, such as days or hours of operation, price, equipment, service, etc. Your comments on the relative "equality" of facilities will be especially appreciated.
   a. Golf courses (either as part of a park system or independently managed)
   b. Tennis courts
   c. Parks and their facilities generally, including amphitheatres or other activities not elsewhere discussed
   d. Libraries
   e. Other facilities

3. Are there any legal actions bearing on this subject which have been recently concluded, which are now pending, or which are contemplated for the future?

4. Please make any general observations which you believe relevant to a determination of developing patterns in the field of public-offered recreation and amusement facilities.

Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Jan. 8, 1953

We've pretty well got it in from the States and from four or five of the cities, but we need these two. We will be much in your debt for being in touch with your friends to get it.

Appreciatively,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

FORT WORTH TARRANT COUNTY BRANCH NAACP
915½ Calhoun Street
Fort Worth, Texas

21 January 1953

Mrs. Ruby Hurley
Southeast Regional Office, NAACP
624 Masonic Temple Building
1630 Fourth Ave., N.
Birmingham, Alabama

Dear Mrs. Hurley:

As per your request, note information below, that I trust will be helpful in the survey you are making relative to park and recreational facilities in Fort Worth.

I. Total population of Fort Worth 1950 is 278,778 or 13.31%.

II. a. Four municipally owned and operated golf courses. Also one privately owned and opened to public (Ridgelea.) All of these are for use by white citizens and Negroes have been allowed to use one on special occasion, such as the 19th of June. There is one nine hole course in Greenway Park for Negroes.

b. There are two segregated (Negro) tennis courts in Greenway Park with space for two more which have not as yet been set-up. Others are in white parks for white use only.

c. Greenway Park for Negroes is the principal Negro park, with baseball diamond, nine hole golf course, and two tennis courts. There is a swimming pool for Negroes in Dixie Park, a small neighborhood play area. Negroes visit the zoo, but concessions in the park (Forest Park) are not opened to Negroes only on special occasions.

d. There is no segregation whatsoever in the Public Library.

e. A new Negro park is planned in which a full eighteen hole golf course is promised.

III. Legal action is planned for the use of municipally owned golf courses, but action has been delayed awaiting decision on a similar suit elsewhere in the state.

IV. Any deviation from the pattern of segregation in parks and recreational facilities must be the result of political or legal action, or both.

With kind personal regards, I remain

Very truly,

/s/ Geo. D. Flemmings, President
Fort Worth Branch, NAACP

GDF
:
rhb

January 22, 1953

Mr. A. J. Clement, Jr.
N. A. A. C. P.
Station A, Box 36
Charleston, S. C.

Dear Mr. Clement:

It's a mighty nice thing to be able to send out a request for facts and have them come straight on back in the good, competent NAACP way. My warmest appreciation.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:ec

CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA BRANCH

National Association For The Advancement Of Colored People

RECEIVED
JAN 22
Southern Regional Council

OFFICE OF

A. J. Clement, Jr.
Station "A" Box 36
Charleston, S. C.

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

We have copy of your letter of January 8th., addressed to Mrs. Ruby Hurley, South East Regional Office - National Association For The Advancement Of Colored People.

I have observed the questions set forth in your letter and I will answer them in the order presented.

(1) The present White population in Charleston by the 1950 Census is 39,287. The Non-White population is 30,887.

(2) a. Golf Courses: there is one municipally owned golf course. It is used only by Whites. There has been no definite effort to use it on the part of Negroes. Undoubtedly, because Negroes in this area have shown no inclination for wanting to play golf. We know of no instance where Negroes have attempted to use it and have been denied this use.

b. Tennis Courts: there are tennis courts provided for our White population. No tennis courts are provided for Negroes.

c. Parks: we have three designated areas for Negroes that are called park-playground. "They are in nowise comparable to the park facilities provided for Whites as concerns equipment and improvements thereon." We have two public park areas - Hampton Park and Marion Square - which both races can visit or stroll through. There are times when Band Concerts or some other type of Public Program is given on these parks at which Negroes are apparently welcomed and at which we have no recollection of their being excluded. We have a battery park and a lake front park which have benches scattered over the area. We understand that there have been instances when Negroes have been asked by police officers to move from sitting on these benches and we also know of instances where Negroes have sat on these benches and nothing has been said. It appears that the City Administration has no set policy as to limiting the use of these facilities only to Whites and whatever questions have arisen have usually been caused by the attitude of the particular police officer who might be passing at the time Negroes may have been using these facilities.

Dr. George S. Mitchell
January 20, 1953

d. Libraries: we have the Free Public Library for Whites on Rutledge Avenue and the Dart Hall Free Library for Negroes on Kracke Street. We understand that there is no law that prohibits the use of the Free Public Library and its facilities by Negroes but by custom, Negroes have usually used the Dart Hall Library. Both are County owned and operated. Neither building is what you would call a modern Library but in no instance would the Dart Hall Library compare favorably with the Rutledge Avenue Library as to building, equipment, volume of books, or appearance.

(3) The Local Branch of the National Association For The Advancement Of Colored People has asked the City for tennis courts, improved playground facilities, and has publicly notified our local citizens that they have the right to use the Free Public Library.

The biggest contention in our community at the present time is the matter of a Beach Area that can be used by non-Whites. In spite of the fact that Charleston is a waterfront community, there is no beachfront area for Negroes within fifty miles of this City. Our State has a system of providing State Parks for public use. The nearest one to Charleston that Negroes may use is eighty-four miles from Charleston below Beaufort, South Carolina. We must recognize that a number of the Beach Areas adjacent have been developed for Whites by White Capital and by the laws of our State, Negroes are prohibited from using these facilities.

There is no apparent inclination on the part of our City Authorities to normally provide recreational or any public-community service for Negroes unless the Negroes ask for these specific things or start bringing some type of pressure. Even to date, Negroes have not been allowed to participate in the local Golden Glove Tournament which may be because Negroes have not brought any pressure to participate in this Tournament. We were also ignored in the Voice of Democracy Contest but when pressure was brought by Negroes, Negro students have since been participating.

I think we have a Mayor who is agreeable to the idea of providing Negro citizens with improved facilities, but at the same time, there are certain political considerations that apparently limit his interest and activity where Negroes are concerned.

Very truly yours,

A. J. Clement, Jr.

ajc;lmf

Geo. S. Mitchell with the compliments of the author.

Materials —
The South — Gen.

THE SOUTH'S OPPORTUNITY

By

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS

Reprinted from The South Atlantic Quarterly
Vol. LII, No. 2, April, 1953

THE SOUTH'S OPPORTUNITY

James McBride Dabbs

HUNDREDS OF millions over the world look to the United States for leadership. What has it to offer? I was born and bred a Southerner and thus may speak with some knowledge of that section. What has it to offer in particular? The obvious reply, in a world where the white race has long looked down upon and exploited the colored races and where as a consequence there is rising among the colored races a tide of animosity toward the white race, is that the South might show how the white and black races can live together in equality of opportunity, no longer exploiter and exploited, but fellow citizens in the world's greatest democracy. This is the obvious reply, and the South should do this. I am afraid, however, that we shall not, at least immediately, grapple with and solve our racial problem and thereby astound the enemies of democracy and bolster the faltering faith of the undecided millions.

But racial problems are in part psychological, and a psychological problem may disappear if a related problem is taken up. In the South the emotionalized problem of racial equality might disappear if we should take up seriously another urgent world problem, that of security. As the South becomes increasingly a part of the modern world, the problem of security becomes increasingly ours. But unlike most of the modern world, the South has untapped resources for its solution. The problem of security is essentially a personal problem. It has racial overtones in the South, as witness the growing demand among Negroes for "security of the person"; but this aspect of security is marginal to the modern problem. The consideration on the part of the South of this modern personal problem would, by distracting attention from the racial problem of equality, be the first step in the solution of that problem. Racial problems cease to exist when individuals are considered. In brief, if the South should focus upon the problem of personal security, it would forget the ghost of racial equality.

I said the South has untapped resources—indeed, unique resources—for the solution of the problem of security. Before examining these resources, let us recall the urgency of this problem in the modern world. Insecurity haunts the world; people everywhere long for security. In the West, this security is of two kinds: first, that of the individual, especially security against the loss of job or business, against sickness or old age; second, security of the nation against foreign attack. In the East, the security sought is chiefly against famine, disease, and natural disaster. Over the world as a whole, personal freedom is at a discount, security at a premium: the West would sacrifice some freedom for security; the East demands security now and would put off the problem of freedom, at least of personal freedom, until tomorrow.

We are here concerned mainly with the Western world, for it is in regard to the insecurity which, paradoxically, has developed here that the South may have something valuable to say. We may note also that the desire for security is far more than the desire for safety of person or physical possessions or the continuation of economic well-being. These may be the conscious aims, but underneath them and more important is the desire to belong to some group larger than the family; in the modern world, where the nation has become of paramount importance, it is especially the desire to belong to the nation, to find oneself a part of the nation, to have a place in it. The desire for security is, fundamentally, the desire for an acknowledged place in the social order; it is the desire for status. As such, it recalls the society of the Middle Ages, which was built upon status. As the modern world developed out of the medieval, there was substituted for the condition of status that of free contract. The Middle Ages, though limiting severely the individual's freedom in society, assured him of a place in society. That place, though fixed and often poor, was his, not to be taken from him. Society made itself responsible for protecting him in his place.

The modern world, substituting freedom of contract for the security of status, gave every man the right to whatever place in society he could contract for, could arrange for, could persuade others to give him. This seemed a great advance, and undoubtedly much of our material progress has been due to the energies thus released. But the drawback is that no one is assured of any place, and in times of depression many people actually have none. In such a society a man's place is not guaranteed by society or even dignified by general social approval; it is gained and held by individual struggle. In such a society you like a man personally or not at all; you cannot like him for his place or function, since that has no greater social reference than the man himself. Therefore, from lack of personal knowledge, you cannot like most people or be liked by them; in the absence of general approval you are always insecure.

Modern warfare has a curious relation to this matter of freedom and security. In the first place, it expresses among nations a lack of good will and the resultant insecurity among individual citizens of each nation; it is the logical result of the kind of life the citizens lead. In the second place, it reduces, sometimes drastically, the freedom of all people who participate, though it strengthens their status. Thus, though it jeopardizes the physical security of all, it increases tremendously their psychological security by making everyone important to the state. Each one has his place in the total order; he is not forgotten; he belongs. Modern warfare is at once the partial result of and the temporary solution of modern insecurity. But when the war is over, and the nation no longer needs the total support of every citizen in order to survive, the sense of being part of the group becomes weak. The long-developed and briefly restrained desire for freedom then reasserts itself, and men begin to pursue their separate and insecure ways again. We have seen the bickering, the sparring for advantage, the class and race struggle in the United States since the end of World War II.

It may be urged that in the United States and in all the parliamentary democracies of the West every man has a place in the political order even in times of peace and should find his security therein. Certainly in the United States, with the exception of several minorities chief among which is the Negro in the South, it is true that every man has his place as a citizen. In time of crisis the political order is an effective cement. But in time of peace the political order is generally too vaguely related to economic activities to create an economic order. In our economic order we have freedom of contract, not status: no man has an assured place. Yet our economic life is the very core of our daily existence. We act politically only occasionally; we work—or hope to work—regularly. Our political place is guaranteed; our economic place is not. So far we have not been able to solve the problem of guaranteeing a place to a man without freezing him in it, to give him security in work—economic status—without destroying his freedom to work as he wills. This being the choice, it has seemed much better to most Americans throughout our history to swap the security of status for the choice of winning and holding what we can. Indeed, until fairly recently there was no question. Men were so few and economic needs so great that a man could choose almost any job and find the place of his choice. No one tried desperately to take it from him; if anyone did take it, there were dozens of other jobs open. In general, one did not hold his job against other men but with them, by their consent. In an expanding economic system the total of the private interests did appear to add up to the public interest. The trick was so neat that nobody realized that at the heart of every man there is a public interest which demands satisfaction.

Such a condition no longer obtains. Except in time of total war, preparation for such war, or the rebuilding as by the Marshall Plan of the destruction wrought by an earlier war, there are increasingly more men than jobs. This means that every man tends to take the job he can and hold it as he can. Men do not have economic status, a place in the economic order. Humanly speaking, it is not an order but chaos.

Our unhappiness amid this chaos has caused us in recent years to bring our economic life increasingly under political control through the passage of laws in regard to wages and hours, unemployment and old age insurance, and the right of labor to organize. All such laws limit freedom but extend security. There are those who think that the passage of such laws indicates a loss of pioneering stamina among Americans: the once rugged individualists have now to be taken care of. Perhaps so. But we should remind ourselves that the once rugged individualists found that the freedom they exercised led to some security, whereas we find that the same freedom in our more complex life leads toward chaos. What we are witnessing, therefore, in modern industrial society, is a movement away from unlimited freedom towards some form of security; and real security belongs only to those who have a recognized place in the social order, that is, status.

This brings us back to the South and the universal truth that lies imbedded in her society, however warped by local pressure. The Western world generally began to break with feudalism four hundred years ago. In its long reliance upon freedom of contract, it has pretty well forgotten what status is and the security it brings. The South, however, was feudal until 1865; in some of its attitudes it is feudal today. It possesses, therefore, a living memory of the condition of status and of the resultant security. The most striking evidence of the continuing strength of status in the South is the invidious remark so often made by white Southerners, "I like the Negro in his place." Within this remark there lies embalmed and unrecognized the general truth, we like a man in his place.

Not that the white South generally recognizes this truth it so backhandedly honors. The statement as applied to the Negro means condescension, the sense of superiority, and the determination to maintain interracially the status quo. Nevertheless, one who likes the Negro in his place stands at least in the vicinity of the basic truth, we like any man in his place. If I put this negatively, the statement needs no proof: we don't like any man out of his place, nor do we like to be out of place ourselves. Though the South is increasingly a part of the world of free contract, it yet remembers the truth of status far better than any other section of our country. Relatively strong ties of community and kinship still hold here. Here a man has some value just because he belongs to a family; here there is still some sense of place regardless of achievement. There is much truth in Donald Davidson's lines:

> None here but has his best desire:
> A kinsman's footstep on the walk;
> An old man's laughter by the fire;

Then in our father's house the sleep
Of sons who bide the calm night through,
The living near the long-lost dead
Who yonder without are sleeping too.

For better or for worse, it is still something just to be a Southerner. Over a century of unavailing defense has given us all a sectional status.

But to speak more particularly, my uncle, though offered upon graduation an excellent position at his alma mater, came back to the house in which I write this, his home then, because he considered it his place to run the old plantation, Rip Raps. Possibly he sacrificed a brilliant career; certainly he had no material success as a farmer; nevertheless, he lives in the hearts of many, white and black, as the beau ideal of the Southern Gentleman. I remember the surprise with which, after his death, a neighbor of his recognized the weakening of status in my failure to return immediately to Rip Raps, then mine: "What! James not coming back to the old place?" There are also countless instances of old Negroes, ancient retainers now, being practically supported by their former employers. Say what you will about the employers' owing it to the old people for low wages paid in the past, they are not generous because of a guilty conscience but because they consider it a part of their place to care for those who have grown old in their service.

This emphasis upon place runs through Southern society. I have heard wage hands criticize the "boss" for doing manual labor: they felt he was out of his place. The cause of the emphasis is not merely the ante bellum feudalistic South; it is also the predominantly agricultural South. In the farm economy the wife and children all have their places, as they do not in the industrial economy, though women are gaining ground in modern industry and have always taken an important part in the most powerful Southern industry, textiles. There is point to the story of the mountaineer who, two weeks after he had lost his wife, made a rare journey into the next cove and asked to wed that very day the daughter of a neighbor there. "All right," said the neighbor, "but what's your hurry? Why today?" "Well, you see, I aims to drap corn tomorrow." The modern world in its thoughtless search for freedom has tended to reduce the wife to a sexual mate. Many a Southern farmer, however, still aims for his wife to drop corn tomorrow, or process hog meat, or engage in some other economic function; in brief, to fill her place as an economic partner.

I remember the sense of place I felt as a Southern farm boy when on many a night I heard about bedtime the far-off whistle of the nine o'clock express. I was secure and happy; hearing that plaintive note beneath the stars, I was pleased to learn again that the world out there was going about its business. If I had known the great words of Ulysses, I should have applied them to the engineer, "He works his work, I mine." Thomas Wolfe, though a native of North Carolina, in his reaction to train whistles at night was more American than Southern. They were for him the cry of all those earlier displaced persons, who had lost their spiritual father, their final security. These were the peacetime forerunners of the displaced persons we know, who have been physically displaced by modern warfare. But for me the plaintiveness of the train whistle at night was only that of all faraway, lonely sounds.

All men, of course, have some sense of place and find themselves approving of men who are pre-eminently in their places, though without realizing why they approve them. I am only maintaining that the South is more aware of this value than are other sections. Americans as a whole, however, indicate some realization of the value of place in the high position accorded the soldier in time of war—but in modern war everyone attains status—and the low position accorded him in our unmilitary American past in time of peace: he seemed out of place then. They also indicate it in the general esteem in which they hold my unknown boyhood friend, the railway engineer. It is true that the engineer suggests an invitation to travel—and Americans are born traveling. It is true that he also suggests man's control over material forces, and Americans are enamored of such control. But more fundamental than these appeals is the fact that the engineer represents man on the job, delivering power according to schedule, going somewhere on time. He is not alone; he is the visible focus of an invisible, intricate network of directed power. He implies an order far larger than himself, the implication of which increases the observer's security. The observer feels that the society to which he himself belongs is also functioning in the engineer; valuing that society as the matrix of his own life, he likes the man who represents it.

But such instances are far rarer outside the South than within it. The typical modern man, the non-Southerner, is bewildered by an unanchored and spiritually fruitless freedom and is searching, often unwittingly, for some citadel of security which will give meaning to that freedom. His problem, that of gaining security while maintaining freedom, is extremely difficult. Part of the difficulty lies in the fact that he has left so far behind the status and accompanying security of the Middle Ages and cannot realize just what his unhappy freedom lacks. The South can realize this if it sets its mind to it; for the South was medieval just the other day and stands even now with one foot partly in the Middle Ages. The other is set firmly in the modern world: the South is being industrialized at an unprecedented rate. The growing problem in the South, therefore, as in the modern world, is the problem of security. The possible solution of this problem by the South depends upon focusing within the new industrial scene its clearer experiential knowledge of the value and place of security in the social order.

But to do this the South must have the wisdom and the courage to face this, its real problem, and have done with gnawing the bones of problems now outmoded. There is no chance of industrializing the South and maintaining at the same time the economic and social status quo. The South is set upon industrialization. And soon. Yet many Southerners play around with the impossible task of maintaining the status quo. One of the South Carolinians important recently in bringing the immense Du Pont industry to Camden was at the same time important in the states' rights affair of 1948. Like many others in that movement, he was trying to "keep unchanged the sacred pattern of life in the South." Or so he said. I do not think Du Pont heard that part of the speech. The sacred pattern of life in the South will become something else again as Du Pont industries get hold of it. And necessarily so. Freedom of contract wrecked, perhaps forever, medieval status.

The sacred pattern of life will have to go. And it should. Life itself is sacred, not any particular pattern in which it may express itself, though it has to express itself in some pattern. The sacred pattern of life in the South, praised in 1948, was essentially the pattern of white supremacy; the bald phrase is "keeping the Negro in his place." In so far as we try to keep the Negro in a fixed place, we are trying to do with one hand what with our effort at industrialization we are undoing with the other. We are trying to maintain the fixed status of our feudalistic past, while at the same time we are extending the mobile pattern of our industrial future. In this conflict the industrial future will doubtless win; but, unless we show a greater wisdom than we do today, winning, it will bring with it its typical problem of security. It would be the wise thing for the South to have done with the old problem of feudalistic status, the problem of keeping the Negro in his place, and to devote its energies to the new problem that industrialism is now bringing to the South: how to give every man essential freedom of contract with its resultant release of energy while maintaining for him the security that comes from status, from an assured place in society. We need to discover a new form of status, a status mobile, not fixed. Given the wisdom and the courage, we may be able to pass directly from such security of fixed status as we still possess into the combined freedom-and-security that the Western world is now seeking, without experiencing the intervening period of chaotic freedom. Given the wisdom and the courage. Without this we may make the same mistakes other sections of the West have made, and, proceeding rapidly towards industrialization, we may travel the old road to social chaos. If only we learned spiritual facts as rapidly as we learn physical! When we in the South build an industrial plant, we instal up-to-date machines, not copies of the machines that the industrial North installed a hundred years ago. But we are in some danger of installing with these the social machines or institutions that developed with the original physical machines and that are now by the very effect of those machines outmoded.

I hold, then, only this: that the South, changing now from a society of status to a society of free contract, has before it the evidence of the unhappy state into which unmodified free contract leads, and, if it will examine this evidence, need not follow the old, unsatisfactory road. But to solve this problem of its future, it must forget the problem of its past, the worn-out problem of a fixed status, the so-called Negro problem, and, lifting into the clear light of reason the essential virtues of status, it must discover some way of incorporating these virtues in a free and fluid society. As it does this, it will show both the industrial West and the industrializing East how to be both free and secure at the same time; and it will have solved the problem of racial equality by having let it alone.

Recreation

STATE PARK STATISTICS--1952

EXPENDITURES
SOURCES OF FUNDS
ATTENDANCE
PERSONNEL
AREAS AND ACREAGES
ANTICIPATED 1953 EXPENDITURES

COMPILED FROM THE 1952
ANNUAL RECORDS ON STATE PARKS AND RELATED RECREATION AREAS

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
NATIONAL PARK SERVICE
RECREATION PLANNING DIVISION

AUGUST 1953

December 11, 1953

Mr Bob McKay
N Y U School of Law
Washington Square
New York 3, N Y

Dear Bob,

Recreation material arrived day before yesterday in good shape. Many thanks.

Harold says he will run an article in a couple or more issues of NEW SOUTH--the next two, I believe, are already staked out.

Mr. H. D. Goode, President of the Negro Chamber of Commerce, Pensacola, Fla. sent us a copy of his recent correspondence with the Florida State Park Service regarding Negro use of the state wayside parks. Mr. Goode was informed by the state road department that two wayside parks were set aside for exclusive use of Negroes. Upon further inquiry as to Negro usage of parks not designated for Negroes he received an evasive letter from the attorney general. The Negro Chamber is now enlisting the support of Negro organizations throughout Florida in an effort to break down the present discriminatory practice.

I might add that Florida has a good network of wayside parks--most of which have been built since about 1946.

Sincerely,

Anna Holden
Research Assistant

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF LAW
WASHINGTON SQUARE, NEW YORK 3, N.Y.

FACULTY OF LAW

TELEPHONE: SPRING 7-2000

November 19, 1953

RECEIVED
NOV 23
Southern Regional Council

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.,
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Anna,

By now you must certainly believe that I have no intention of finishing the article on segregation in recreation. Incredible though it may at this time seem to you the contrary is quite the case. Getting established in the editorial, administrative and teaching end of my work here has proved more time consuming than I had originally anticipated.

I hope now that it will be possible over the Thanksgiving weekend to complete my use of your materials (and perhaps complete the article as well), so that I can return the materials to you the first week in December. While certainly I have no claim to keep them any longer, I hope that I may have your indulgence for this additional time.

Please tell Harold that it will in no way interfere with my article for him to go ahead with a treatment in the New South. Indeed I think it would be highly desirable for him to do such an article as soon as possible. If I do not hear from you to request the return of the materials sooner, I shall send them back to you the first week in December.

Please give my regards to others of your staff.

Sincerely,

Bob McKay

Bob McKay

RBMcK:dlk

cl 1411

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF LAW
WASHINGTON SQUARE, NEW YORK 3, N.Y.

FACULTY OF LAW

TELEPHONE: SPRING 7-2000

RECEIVED
DEC 21
Southern Reg.

December 16, 1953

Miss Anna Holden
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Anna,

Thank you for your letter of December 11 giving me the interesting information about the use of state wayside parks in Florida. If you learn other details in this connection, I shall appreciate hearing further.

You will note that the materials which I sent you do not include your typed summary of a number of the articles. I have retained that as an excellent supplement to my own notes and a valuable collation of the materials, on the assumption that you have retained for yourself a copy. I hope this is all right.

You will be interested to know that I have been able to get copies of the briefs of one or both parties in the Holcombe v. Beal, City of Kansas City v. Williams and the Louisville Park Theatrical Ass'n cases. I am still hoping that the Supreme Court will either grant or deny certiorari before the end of January in the two cases still pending, which will tie up the subject fairly completely from a legal standpoint.

Please give my best greetings of the season to the members of the staff.

Sincerely,

Bob

Bob McKay

RBMcK:dlk

STATES--SUMMARY

1. Public recreational facilities are supported in all nine states surveyed, involving the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars per year per state, and serving millions of visitors per year.

   In 1948, for example, the nine states spent a total of $34,035,286. Attendance in the parks in the various states in 1950 ranged from a total of 409,652 visitors reported for Florida to 3,742,818 reported for Texas.

2. The pattern of segregation is dominant in park facilities in all states surveyed. The following variations in the segregation pattern exist:

   a) Exclusive white use of parks--Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. (One exception to this exists in Mississippi; Negroes are allowed to fish in certain lakes in the park system)

   b) Separate Negro parks--Kentucky, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia have constructed or are constructing a separate Negro park or parks set aside exclusively for Negro use, located apart from the white parks.

   c) Separate Negro areas in white parks--Florida, Georgia and South Carolina have allocated sections of some white parks for Negro use. In some cases these have separate entrances.

   d) Separate Negro eating, sleeping, swimming accommodations, but access to scenic wonders of parks--Kentucky Negroes are permitted to visit such natural wonders as Carter Caves, Natural Bridge and Cumberland Falls (all in state parks) but all accommodations are separate.

   One exception to the general segregation pattern in Southern parks exists in Kentucky's historical shrines. The thirteen shrines under the state park division are open to all citizens "with no restrictions imposed."

3. Within the framework of separate facilities Negro facilities are grossly unequal.

   Negroes comprise 22% of the population of the nine states surveyed. Neither the quantity or quality of Negro facilities is in keeping with Negroes' numerical strength.

   Of the 140 parks, covering 986,184 acres, in use in Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, Negroes have the use of three parks and six allocated areas. Total park acreage available to Negroes in these states consists of 7879 acres, plus additional acreage included in the four shared areas in South Carolina and the one shared area in Florida.

At least 17 additional white parks are under construction in these states, compared with one additional Negro park and one allocated area in a white park.

As noted above, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas had no facilities at all for Negroes when this survey was made, despite substantial Negro populations. The Negro population in Mississippi makes up 45% of the total; in Louisiana, 33%. Texas' Negro population is proportionately smaller but numerically larger than Mississippi's.

Where they exist Negro parks are usually not as well developed as white parks. Most are in the beginning states with day-use facilities such as picnicking grounds and shelters, playfields, swimmihg and fishing available. Some have cottages and group camps, but when these are available they are not as numerous as similar facilities in the white parks. Such features as guest lodges, well-equipped tent and trailer ~~park~~ camps , museums and horseback riding are not yet developed in the Negro parks. Very few have restaurants.

Several state park commissioners state that Negro facilities are the same if not better than white park facilities since they are of more recent construction. This might be true of those facilities that are constructed, but throughout the survey we found that white parks have more elaborate accommodations and provide for a greater variation of recreational activities.

It might be well to note here that the white parks, in most instances, have a corner on the historical relics and natural phenomena of the various states. Neither can be duplicated, so that even if the number of Negro parks were proportional to population and facilities within the parks were comparable in quality to the white parks, there would still be inequality resulting from the fact that whites (in private as well as public recreation) got hold of the relics and scenic wonders first.

4. At least some of the Southern states are beginning to seriously consider providing equal state park facilities for Negroes on a segregated basis, and nearly all are aware, if they have not begun to take action, that some facilities for Negroes must be provided.

South Carolina is notable among the few Southern states making a genuine effort to equalize separate park facilities for Negroes. South Carolina now has more areas for Negroes in operation than the other Southern states surveyed and has the longerange goal of equalizing facilities. Tennessee has also made a start in developing Negro facilities and has long-range plans for equalization. Kentucky, with a small Negro population, is building its one Negro park so that all facilities will be comparable to those in the white parks.

Georgia, Florida and Virginia state park commissions have given no evidence that they are contemplating long-range development of equal park systems for Negroes. All three now have one park in use, however, and Georgia has another under construction and has promised a third area in a white park.

While Louisiana and Mississippi had made no effort to provide Negro facilities at the time of this survey, letters from their park commissions indicated that they are at least aware of the need.

A. H. Nall, Park Coordinator for Mississippi Park Service commented on the session on State Parks and Race Problems at the annual meeting of State Park Directors at Albemarle, N. C. in 1950. He said that the concensus of opinion among the directors and leaders present at the session was that Negro facilities should be provided at the earliest date possible because they (Negroes) "deserved" such facilities, not because or until parks departments were forced to provide Negro facilities.

5. As yet none of the states has considered integration of facilities as a means of equalizing park facilities.

Kentucky is somewhat different from the other Southern states in regard to park segregation in that the historical monuments under the park division are open to all Kentuckians, along with several natural wonders. In view of the separate eating, swimming, and lodging arrangements in the "open" parks containing natural wonders they are by no means integrated. Also, the park director in Kentucky, as noted in the detailed description of Kentucky facilities, volunteered his feeling that Kentucky must not go "too fast" in race relations and stated that in the meantime he felt the park division should provide separate facilities--giving evidence that the Kentucky park division is not yet ready to move toward integration of facilities beyond what has already occurred.

6. State park systems in the South are in a period of growth and expansion, as parks are recognized increasingly as drawing cards for tourists and new settlers. Negroes have already gotten a small bit of this general expansion. As long as expansion continues, the time seems ripe for exerting pressure for increased Negro facilities.

Copy of letter to
Mr. Harry L. Alston from Mrs. Margery T. Ware,
Assistant Executive Secretary
Washington Urban League (D.C.)

Following is an answer to your request for recreation information in this city.

Here in Washington the white people represent about sixty-five per cent while Negroes represent about thirty-fice per cent.

Recreation facilities of the Federal Government are open without racial restriction. Most facilities owned by the District of Columbia government are segregated. There is a dispute over some sites brought by the Interior Department for the District. At present the D.C. recreation department operates them on a segregated basis.

You asked specifically about certain facilities. Public golf courses being federal property are non-segregated. Tennis courts fall into three groups: for Negroes, for whites, and open. All federal swimming pools are open, but the two District pools are for whites only. One is in a playground which has just been declared interracial and a recommendation will be made next year on whether it should be open or be held for whites only. All public libraries are open.

Three suits will be filed soon against the Recreation Department to force the opening of District playgrounds.

Several years ago the Recreation Department adopted a policy of "progressive integration" of facilities. The Department operates 15 interracial playgrounds on D.C. land but it still has 125 segregated units. It operates an indoor center and also all but one of its day camps with non-segregation. It also encourages and supervises athletic contests between some "mixed" and some white and colored amateur athletic teams. The Washington Civic orchestra, sponsored by the Department, is also "mixed."

While a private report calculated that at the present rate of de-segregating District playgrounds it would take 40 years. However, the high caliber of support for integration shown at the last recreation department hearing indicates the kind of public opinion which will encourage the Board to progress more rapidly. A conference with the Department has already indicated a more receptive attitude than before the hearing. I might add parenthetically that the swimming pools and the playgrounds which have been opened are operating without incident altho disturbances preceded the decision to open some of them.

This, of course, is not exhaustive but I trust that it will be adequate.

Margery T. Ware

Competitive Activities for Children

A POLICY STATEMENT

No. 7

May 1952

The North Carolina Recreation Commission

33 - Segregation

Do you know about

Segregation in Washington

RECEIVED
SEP 10 1949
Southern Regional Coun

Ghettoes in the Capital

"Washington is not a Southern city, nor a Northern or Eastern or Western city. It is the capital of the nation. . . . For that reason the Committee hopes to cause the widest possible diffusion of its Report outside Washington, so that an aroused national public opinion may impose an effective end to what it rightly calls 'a blot on our nation.' "

—Wilfred Parsons, S.J., in America

"Segregation in Washington" . . . is the most effective pamphlet in content, lay-out, design, and illustration that has come my way in a long time."

—Carey McWilliams, in Common Ground

". . . well documented, temperate in tone, and expressed in very readable copy. . . . The final report is a staggering pyramid of disturbing facts. . . . They are the facts on which America is being judged. The study is a must for anyone who is concerned about that judgment."

—University of Chicago Magazine

". . . Provides even more ugly reading than (the report of the President's Committee) . . . For the first time the increasing growth and depth of the color line in Washington has been made clear."

—The Atlantic

"A rattling good job. . . . Aside from its evidence of inhumanity in the city that considers itself humanity's capital, it contains a good deal of thoughtful and exciting analysis."

—Richard H. Rovere, in The New Yorker

"The dikes of prejudice are crumbling all over the country—except in Washington, the nation's capital, where they are higher than ever before. . . . Kenesaw Mountain Landis 2d's booklet based on a mountain of research reports, is written with . . . the fire of the old baseball commissioner."

—Lewis Gannett, in New York Herald Tribune

"A stinging report. . . . Research work was done by a twenty-two-man staff. . . . It is a report that . . . can't be laughed off.

—Richard Lee Strout, in Christian Science Monitor

Chapter 2

Symbol of Democracy

We fought for the dignity of the individual.
Secretary of State George C. Marshall
Rio de Janeiro, 1947

In the eighty-six years since the abolition of slavery, Washington has become the most important capital on earth. It is the great stage of world events, and the curtain is always up on the play entitled: "Democracy In Action."

Democracy's Great Stage

How do we look across the footlights to the rest of the world? Even if we wished, we could not dim the lights or lower the curtain. In 1947 the following item appeared in a Washington newspaper:

> RUSSIAN NEWSPAPER HITS TREATMENT OF NEGROES HERE
>
> (By the Associated Press)
>
> Moscow, Aug. 21—The newspaper "Trud" said today that Negroes in Washington were "prohibited from attending movies, restaurants, barber shops and beaches where whites were present."
>
> "Let us remember this is all taking place in the city which, according to the reference books, has the residence of the President and the Capitol building in which Congress sits," the article continued.
>
> Trud asked: "Will Washington 'democrats' dare restrict the Liberian Ambassador to movies and restaurants only in the Negro ghetto?"[1]

The Voice of America

Each year Congress appropriates money for "Voice of America" broadcasts to counteract Russian propaganda abroad. But every incident and every court decision affecting Negro rights in this country is front-page news throughout Asia, Africa, and much of Europe. Moreover, the great voice of America is our capital itself. It speaks for us directly to a world audience that is only one-third white.

[1] Washington Evening Star, Aug. 21, 1947. (The answer to Trud's last question is, with occasional exceptions, "yes.")

(Reprint of page of text.)

WE PREACH DEMOCRACY TO THE WORLD—

BUT WE PRACTICE IT IN NATION'S CAPITAL WITH EXAMPLES LIKE THESE —

African foreign minister refused admittance to a white hotel.

Bolivian educator refused service in a chain restaurant.

* Hindu woman refused service at a soda fountain.

West Indian students forced to stand at counter.

Panama visitor asked to leave a white church.

Puerto Rican senator forced to sleep on couch in government office.

 Dark-skinned foreigners are often embarrassed*

OUR WORLD PROMISES

All Nazi race, creed, or political discrimination shall be abolished.
—Berlin Agreement, 1945

World peace necessitates elimination of racial and religious distinctions.
—Act of Chapultepec, 1945

"We fought for the dignity of the individual".
—Secretary of State Marshall, Rio de Janeiro, 1947

(Reprint of one of twelve pages of graphics.)

What Our Booklet Is—

This booklet is a summary of the research findings of the National Committee on Segregation in the Nation's Capital. The study was conducted by a research sub-committee of noted Social Scientists under instruction to investigate the conditions and causes of segregation and discrimination in Washington. A staff of investigators and research analysts prepared the basic monographs after eight months of intensive field work.

It consists of a very readable 76 pages of text, 12 pages of graphics and 3 maps, clearly presenting the facts of Segregation in our Capital in the fields of Employment, both public and private; Housing; Education; Health Services; and Public Accommodations.

In these critical times when the eyes of the world are directed toward Washington, every American will want to read this account of racial practices in the National Capital.

Order from:

JOSEPH D. LOHMAN, Executive Secretary
THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE ON SEGREGATION
IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL, INC.
4901 Ellis Avenue
Chicago 15, Illinois

Individual Copies.....85c postpaid

Quantity prices to organizations, schools and book stores.

21

(DETACH HERE)

The National Committee on Segregation
in the Nation's Capital, Inc.
4901 South Ellis Avenue, Chicago 15, Illinois

Check enclosed_____

Bill me_____

Please send me_____copies of
"SEGREGATION IN WASHINGTON."

Name_____

Address_____

City_____ Zone_____ State_____

9-24-52

SUMMARY OF COURT CASES INVOLVING RACE
WHICH HAVE HAD WORLD-WIDE NOTORIETY

SCOTTSBORO CASE--Prototype of the court cases in the U. S. involving race which have had world-wide notoriety. On Mar. 25, 1931 nine Negro youths whose ages ranged from 13 to 20 were accused of attacking two girls on a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala. On Apr. 9 eight were found guilty of rape and received death sentences; the ninth was tried in the Juvenile Court. Six years of litigation in state and federal courts followed. The Scottsboro case reached the Supreme Court of the U. S. several times. In the course of the trials Ruby Bates, one of the girls bringing charges, repudiated the testimony she had given earlier, declaring on the witness stand that the entire story had been manufactured by the arresting sheriff. The five Scottsboro boys in their teens at the time the incident occurred were finally exonerated in 1937. Four were convicted, receiving 75, 99 and life prison sentances. In 1943 one of the four convicted was paroled; in 1944 two more were paroled. Haywood Patterson, last of the Scottsboro boys in prison, escaped in 1948. The governor of Michigan refused to return him to the Alabama prison in 1950; in 1951 Patterson was convicted on manslaughter charges in Detroit.

WILLIE MCGEE--Willie McGee, charged with raping a white woman in Laurel, Miss. on Nov. 2, 1945, was executed for the alleged crime May 8, 1951. McGee's position throughout the trials was that his intimacies with the womas in question were of a "mutually voluntary" nature. Final conviction came after the case had been in state and federal courts for six years and two earlier convictions had been thrown out because of unfairness of trial. The Supreme Court of the U. S. refused appeals to review the case. McGee was the 29th Negro executed for rape in Miss. since 1907; no white men have received the death penalty for rape in the same period.

TRENTON SIX--On Jan. 27, 1948 William Horner, storekeeper of Trenton, N. J., was beaten to death in his combination store and home. A salesman reported that he saw tow Negroes leaving the store at the time the crime occurred, and a neighbor said she had seen three Negro "teen agers" run from the direction of the store and leave in a car with a fourth Negro boy. Six Negroes were charged with the crime, convicted and sentenced to death. Testimony at subsequent trials indicated that the six Negroes were interrogated over long periods of time (as much as 19 hours at a stretch), held incommunicado, refused legal counsel; that confessions were secured while they were under the influence of drugs. Mrs. Horner, sole witness, stated that she did not recognize the Trenton Six when confronted with them 10 days after the murder; later she changed her statement. In 1949 the New Jersey Supreme Court reversed the verdict of guilty and the death sentence, called for a new trial. At the second trial, held in 1951, four were acquitted, two received life imprisonment. Efforts are being made to secure a retrial for the Trenton Two.

MARTINSVILLE SEVEN--Seven Negroes convicted of raping a white woman in Martinsville, Va. were electroduted in Feb., 1951. The seven were convicted by an all-white jury in separate one-day trials in May, 1949. Despite the efforts of NAACP and other groups concerned the Supreme Court of the U. S. twice refused to review the case. Gov. Battle of Virginia ignored pleas to extend executive clemency. In the last 50 years 45 Negroes have been executed for rape in Virginia; no white men were executed for that crime in the same period. Shortly after the execution of the Martinsville Seven two white men were convicted of raping the bride of a white Naval officer; the defendants confessed; sentences were for 35 and 17 years.

INGRAM CASE--Mrs. Rose Lee Ingram and her sons Sammie(13) and Wallace(15) were sentenced to death at Ellaville, Ga. in Jan., 1948 by an all-white jury for the murder of a white sharecropper. According to the Ingrams' testimony the sharecropper, John Stratford, assaulted Mrs. Ingram with intent to rape. Her sons struck and killed Stratford with the gun he had used to beat Mrs. Ingram. Death sentences were later commuted to life imprisonment.

HENDERSON CASE--Clarence Henderson, Negro sharecropper of Carrollton, Ga., was convicted for the third time in Oct., 1951 for the murder of a Georgia Tech student. The Georgia Supreme Court voided the death sentence for the third time June, 1952 on the basis of insufficient identification. Henderson allegedly shot Carl Stevens, Jr. on the night of Oct. 31, 1948 in a scuffle resulting from Steven's attempts to protect his date from a rape attack. The girl failed to identify Henderson at the first trial, later identified him on the basis of his voice. The murder weapon appeared a year after the slaying in an Atlanta pawn shop and was circumstantially linked to Henderson.

GROVELAND, FLA. RAPE CASE--Mrs. Willie Padgett, 17-year-old farm wife, charged that four Negroes raped her in the early morning of July 16, 1949 near Groveland, Fla. Samuel Shepherd (22), Walter Irwin(22) and Charles Greenlee(16) were convicted of rape Sept. 3, 1949, following an outburst of mob violence in the area. A fourth suspect, Ernest Thomas, was shot to death by a posse two weeks after the incident occurred. Irwin and Shepherd, sentenced to death, received a reprieve from the Supreme Court of the U. S. in 1951. Shepherd was shot to death and Irwin critically wounded in Nov., 1951, while being moved from the state prison at Raiford to the Lake County jail. Sheriff Willis McCall, who protected the Negroes from lynch mobs in 1949, testified that the two attacked him when he stopped the car to fix a flat. McCall was moving the two prisoners at night, unaccompanied by other law officers. The second trial, moved to Ocala, Fla., resulted in a second conviction of Irwin. Appeal for a new trial was denied Mar. 11, 1952.

LEERING SHARECROPPER CASE--Mack Ingram, Negro sharecropper of Yancyville, N. C., was accused of intent to rape a white girl because he "leered" at her at a distance of 75 feet. Ingram was convicted on a reduced charge of assault, with a maximum penalty of two years in prison, June, 1951. NAACP secured a second trial which resulted in a hung jury. A third trial was pending at the end of 1951.

BROOKSVILLE, FLA. JAIL CASE--Sheriff Sim Lowman released David Reese on Feb. 28, 1952 from the Hernando County jail where he had been held a year and a half after being acquitted of a murder charge. Sheriff Lowman said Reese had been held on a verbal order from Judge Fred Hocker as "an accessory and witness" in the case of another Negro. Reese was acquitted of the murder charge July 20, 1950.

HB MP

DEC 17 1952

A Voice from the South

By Sarah Patton Boyle

I AM a southerner and I find racial segregation distasteful, ridiculous and inexcusably undemocratic. There are millions like me and we are multiplying every day. The south does have more than its share of racial bigots who steadfastly refuse to recognize Negro rights, but they are not present in the large numbers generally imagined. A few courageous leaders in key positions could take what appears to be a rocklike tradition and crack it like a shell.

The conviction that all southerners are prejudiced holds the south captive in a tradition which in our hearts we have happily outgrown. Overwhelming evidence points to the fact that wherever nonsegregation has been introduced by a recognized authority, southerners of all classes and temperaments have accepted it with good grace and often with acclaim.

No Headlines for Good Will

The nation's newspapers tend to feature stories of discrimination as practiced in the south. Seldom do headlines or editorials proclaim proofs of southern good will. When a qualified Negro law student had to fight from the lowest to the highest court to dissolve the law which barred him from the University of Texas, the case was front-page material. But later, buried on the back page if mentioned at all, was the news that the students of the University of Texas welcomed him warmly into their midst and shortly elected him chairman of the social committee of the law school.

Similarly, everyone was informed when a bomb was planted on Christmas night 1951 in Mims, Florida. One man was killed, presumably for his efforts to end segregation. But how many knew that earlier in the same year the Florida Student Government Association, composed of student leaders representing all the "white" colleges and universities in Florida, had unanimously approved a resolution calling for the abolishment of segregation in all the state's institutions of higher learning? Or that 95 per cent of the students at the Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, voted to admit Negroes not only to classes but also to dormitories? Or that the Student Federation of Louisiana voted 76 per cent in favor of having Negroes participate in their programs?

A Swelling Tide of Democracy

Nor is the swelling tide of liberal thinking in southern colleges confined to students. A 1949 poll at the University of Oklahoma showed 76 per cent of the students and 100 per cent of the faculty favoring removal of all segregation signs on the campus. The same year, the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., polled the faculties of 143 "white" colleges and universities in 14 southern and border states. Of the 4,000 ballots returned, approximately 70 per cent favored nonsegregated schools; the percentage would doubtless be much higher now.

The incoming tide of democracy is not confined to highly educated groups. In the realm of politics a wholesome trend is apparent. Five Negroes were elected to city councils in North Carolina last year, with such a large white vote that they would have been elected had no Negroes voted for them at all. In Louisiana a Negro ran for the state board of education and carried more white than Negro precincts. This year in Tennessee a Negro physician was appointed to the Knoxville city planning commission and a Negro lawyer to the Nashville board of education. In Florida a Negro minister was appointed to the Miami welfare board and a Negro was elected by an all-white vote to the Dade county medical association. In Richmond a Negro lawyer serves on the city council, another Negro on the planning commission.

In 1950 New Orleans elected as mayor De Lesseps Morrison, a man known to entertain Negroes in his home and characterized as a "nigger lover" by the race-baiting opposition.

Four years ago when Mayor W. B. Hartsfield of Atlanta stated that it was time to add Negroes to the police force, opposition rose like a wall. It was said that Negroes would not respect police of their own race, that white police would resign, that the public would rebel, that any Negro who "strutted the streets in a uniform" would be lynched. But the mayor, who knew his fellow southerners, merely waited for tempers to cool, then put eight Negroes on the force. No white policemen resigned, not one unpleasant incident resulted, and the rate of crimes and misdemeanors in the Negro community dropped by half.

Citizens Hail Success of 'Experiment'

Towns and cities in every southern state except Louisiana now employ Negro policemen. Miami has 41, Louisville 34. And everywhere citizens boast of the success of their "experiment." Even in New Orleans, where Negro policemen are not yet accepted, an instruction booklet for members of the force goes so far as to state, "The delinquency rate is not as high in respectable Negro homes as it is in respectable white homes."

Labor leaders have not found it dangerous, or even in most cases difficult, to erase color lines in labor organizations throughout the south. E. B. Pugh, Virginia state director for the C. I. O., says: "There has never been the slightest friction, as far as I know, between whites and Negroes working together on a nonsegregated basis in the plants or in our union meetings. Negroes are often elected to important offices by a majority white vote. In one of our locals, where five-sixths of the membership is white, a Negro secretary has been elected and re-elected three times. One of my own staff members is a Negro."

On the executive board of the Alabama C. I. O. there are at least five Negro vice-presidents though white delegates outnumber Negroes four to one.

In hundreds of southern towns, long-established organizations for civic, social and spiritual welfare are laying heavy stress on equality and brotherhood for all. Foremost is the Methodist Youth Fellowship, which, spearheaded by their alert and well edited magazine Concern, is putting a strong shoulder to the wheel of interracial brotherhood. The Catholic youth, the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., and the Baptist youth are beating insistently against the bars throughout the south. The Southern Baptist Church, incidentally, has been the first to drop racial bars in every one of its southern seminaries. The ministerial association of Augusta county, Virginia, is more than 90 per cent white, yet recently the Rev. Morris Tynes, a Negro, was unanimously elected president.

Negro Physicians in Hospitals

Few southern hospitals allow Negro doctors to practice in them. Convention says that white patients, especially white women, would object. Yet Emory University's school of medicine, at Atlanta, has established a postgraduate clinic for Negro physicians; Johns Hopkins has admitted Negro physicians to its postgraduate school of medicine; and community hospitals in Virginia and Arkansas have admitted Negro doctors. Certainly not much "objecting" by white women is discernible in the case of such a physician as T. E. Connor, a Negro practicing in Clifton Forge, Alabama, who in 1951 announced that he had already delivered 4,962 babies. More than 70 per cent of his patients are white.

Some months ago several southern nurses walked out of a Catholic hospital in West Virginia when the sister superior refused to discharge three Negro nurses who had been added to the staff. But the hospital stood its ground and received full support from the community and the newspapers.

Another proof of the south's unrecognized readiness to accept our Negro citizens is the widespread practice of bootleg nonsegregation. This is sometimes secret, sometimes open and winked at. Typical of secret violations in a certain southern city was the move of a director of newsboys to engage the public recreation hall several hours each week for the use of his charges. He "forgot" to mention that more than a third of them were black. For three years these youngsters played happily together. The parents of all knew what was happening and none objected. When finally the authorities heard of it and ordered the meetings segregated, the white boys refused to meet at all if their Negro friends were excluded. So the program was dropped.

Techniques of Bootleg Nonsegregation

Techniques for carrying on bootleg nonsegregation are often ingenious. Increasing in popularity is that of making any interracial meeting legal by calling it "private"—for the law usually stipulates "public assembly." Soft chuckles rolled from the three corners of Virginia last year when the city of Richmond called the annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People a "private meeting," despite the fact that it was held in the town's largest auditorium and the public was cordially invited.

And when Adlai Stevenson spoke to the people of Virginia on September 20, 1952, Richmond officials decided that, as he "would be speaking to a Democratic party meeting and not to a public gathering," it was quite all right for the audience to be mixed. More than 5,000 persons, white and Negro, crowded through the wide-open doors of the Mosque theater.

In many places nonsegregation is bootlegged on common carriers by the simple expedient of instructing bus drivers and railroad conductors to allow Negroes to sit where they like unless some white person complains. Complaints are rare. One of the best railroads in the south has not segregated passengers for years.

And although theaters themselves are rigidly segregated by law, Thomas Poag, a Negro, was elected by a 90 per cent white vote to the presidency of the South Eastern Theater Conference.

Everywhere in the south segregation is far more active on paper than in practice, and far more active in practice than in the hearts of white southerners. On paper, for example, Negro and white teachers are completely segregated in Virginia, having two separate state associations. In practice, however, they get together throughout the state for local meetings and conferences. They often meet in school buildings, which are strictly segregated during school hours.

False Assumptions of Prejudice

Much of the south's failure to realize the democratic ideals for which our nation stands can be attributed to a false assumption that everybody else is prejudiced. In 1950, U. S. District Justice A. B. Conger of Georgia called the opposition to nonsegregation in schools the reaction of the "selfish few," and Georgia's largest newspaper, the Atlanta Constitution, backed him up with the statement: "His example should serve to strengthen and encourage the great timorous majority of us who are reluctant to speak our consciences."

A Negro dentist told me that his white practice [illegible] when he moved his office from a busy corner of Main street to an obscure side street. White people, it seems, are personally delighted with his services, but each is quite sure that his friends would disapprove if they knew the color of his dentist.

Harold C. Fleming, director of information for the Southern Regional Council, says, "Give us leaders who evoke the best rather than the worst in us and we will shortly be a united people." Such leaders have already made their appearance and none has been labeled a social outcast. A Georgia woman, Mrs. M. E. Tilly, sat on the President's Civil Rights Commission and was in the forefront of the huge movement of southern churchwomen to end lynching in the south. She is now director of the Fellowship of the Concerned, an organization to end discrimination in the courts, which under her leadership attracted a membership of more than 3,000 southerners within three months. Mrs. Tilly makes no secret of the fact that she thinks segregation in all forms is nonsense. Has she been weighted down with public disapproval? On the contrary, a group of southern women's societies voted her "Woman of Achievement in Social Welfare," and she has received many other awards, having, as one organization put it, "stretched our minds and hearts."

Lillian Smith, also a native Georgian, has for years attacked segregation in articles, speeches and books. Yet she has repeatedly been asked to serve on local boards in her community and owns and directs a fashionable and highly successful summer camp for southern girls. The year Strange Fruit was published, she tells me, she had only 4 withdrawals from her camp and had 40 applications for those 4 places.

The capacity for democracy of the average southerner is far ahead of the restrictions imposed by our laws and our leaders. When dining-car segregation was declared unconstitutional, it was predicted that scenes and even violence would follow. No such thing happened. A typical reaction was that of a dyed-in-the-wool southerner who when seated next to a Negro in a dining car was heard to murmur to his companion, "We'll get used to it."

It is often remarked in the armed services today that when Negroes are added to white units, southerners are the first to drop all symptoms of discrimination and to extend unself-conscious friendship to black G. I.'s. Why not? To northerners, Negroes are strangers; but we in the south were raised by and with Negroes. "The southern people," says Dr. Benjamin Mays, distinguished Negro educator, "are far more ready to move toward racial integration than their political leaders believe."

This sentiment, echoed by countless others who have devoted their lives to the study of race relations in the south, is one that cannot be ignored. Many of us southerners firmly believe that the race problem in the south could be solved if only our leaders would have faith enough in us to put us to the test.

BOOKS

Great Things to Come

THE LIBRARY OF CHRISTIAN CLASSICS. To be completed in 26 volumes. General editors, John Baillie, John T. McNeill and Henry P. Van Dusen. Vol. I, Early Christian Fathers, edited by Cyril C. Richardson. Vol. XXIV, Selections from Zwingli and Bullinger, edited by G. W. Bromiley. Westminster Press.

SCHOLARS have for years been feeling the need of a new collection of the classic literature of Christianity, selected with mature judgment as to what is permanently significant, translated into good modern English where the originals are in other languages (as most of them are), and presented with ample historical and biographical introductions based on the best contemporary scholarship. The two volumes now at hand in pre-publication proof copies, anticipating a publication date in April 1953, give promise that this need will be admirably met by the series now announced.

Serious students of Christian history have never failed to realize the importance of the writings of the "Fathers" as source materials. In recent years there appears to have been a fresh interest in these writings and a new realization that many of them, besides being historically valuable as mirrors of the thought of their own time, have living religious and theological messages for our time. In some quarters also there has been a growing conviction that the category of "Fathers of the Church" needed to be extended beyond its traditional limits and be made to include writers later than the sixth or seventh century; or, if long usage has destroyed the elasticity of that term, then it might be better to speak of "Christian classics."

The massive and magnificent old series of "Apostolic, Ante-Nicene, Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers" has been out of print as long as most readers can remember. Except for a reprint of part of the series from the old plates, it is available, if at all, only through antiquarian bookstores. Its scope was limited, and its scholarship was the very best of three-quarters of a century ago. After some confusion apparently occasioned by conflicting publishing interests, the splendid Roman Catholic series now being issued by "Fathers of the Church, Inc.," has got fairly under way. Already something like 15 of the promised 72 volumes have appeared. The translations are new and some works are included that have never before appeared in English, but the chronological limit seems to be the traditional one. Meanwhile various publishers and editors have offered new editions of separate works or groups of works in the area of patristic literature.

The series now being announced, under the confidence-inspiring editorship of Baillie, McNeill and Van Dusen, will at once gratify and stimulate this quickening interest in the Christian classics. Especially notable is the inclusion of a great body of material from the late medieval, Reformation and post-Reformation periods. Only the first eight (and perhaps part of the ninth) of the planned 26 volumes are devoted to the writers who have generally been listed as the "Fathers," through Augustine. The next six cover medieval thought, with one volume containing works by the frequently neglected late medieval advocates of reform. Then follow ten volumes of the writings of the great Reformers—Luther, Melanchthon, Bucer, Calvin, Zwingli and Bullinger. The last two include works by "Spiritual and Anabaptist" writers and English Reformers. One can think of a few others whom one would like to see included in such a collection—Wesley, for example, and Roger Williams, and William Law, though perhaps these have been brought in under the last two categories.

In any case, this is a much better balanced list of the "Great Books" of the Christian tradition than has hitherto found publication as a series on such an ample scale. The works in languages other than English have been newly translated. Samplings of the two volumes now at hand indicate a successful effort to combine accuracy with readability. The historical and critical introductions to the several works are more extended than is usual in collections of this kind and add greatly to the value of the whole.

This series is going to be well worth watching for. Don't try to buy them now, but make a memorandum of the publication date of the first volume—April 27, 1953.

W. E. GARRISON.

Books in Brief

A LITTLE TREASURY OF WORLD POETRY. Edited by Herbert Creekmore. Scribners, $5.00. The "Little Treasury" series already includes collections of British, American and modern poetry all edited by Oscar Williams, and of love poems and American prose with other editors. This new volume contains translations from the great poets of languages other than English—in fact, 32 different languages. A few of the languages are dead, but most of the poetry is living, in the sense of expressing human emotions which are as deathless as humanity itself. It is doubtless true that every translation of a poem is really a new and different poem, for, while ideas can be transferred from one language to another, the essential quality and personality of a poem are inseparable from the idiom in which it was created. However, the ideas are worth transferring, and something more comes with them. Fortunately, a large proportion of the translators here represented are themselves authentic poets and many are very eminent ones.

THE MIRROR OF LOVE, A REINTERPRETATION OF "THE ROMANCE OF THE ROSE." By Alan M. F. Gunn. Texas Tech Press, Lubbock, Tex., $5.25. Immensely popular in its own time and for two or three centuries thereafter, the Roman de la Rose is still rich in reputation but rather destitute of readers. An interval of half a century separated the writing of the two parts of this medieval masterpiece by two authors 1953?

Materials — Violence

VIOLENCE AND VANDALISM IN ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Date	Source	Incident
2/26/51	Atlanta Constitution	Negro garage was found afire in an East Avenue section where Negro ownership of a home was being protested by white residents of the area. The building had been saturated with kerosene and piles of trash had been heaped against the building. About a half hour later officers returned to the scene and discovered a second fire.
3/25/51	Atlanta Journal	Stick of dynamite was set off in the back yard of a home on East Avenue recently purchased by Negroes. Raw eggs were also thrown on the front porch. In July, two klansmen were indicted for the bombing. The two were arrested and placed under $5,000 bonds.
6/19/51	Atlanta World	House dynamited on Fourth Street, N. W. before new Negro owner moved in. (Negro-white housing tension)
6/28/51	Atlanta Journal	A bomb was exploded on the front porch of an unoccupied house on Fourth Street, N. W., recently purchased by a Negro family.
6/30/51	Atlanta World	Two shots fired into the home of a Negro family on Chicamauga Avenue, S. W. A shot was also fired into the home of a Negro family on Mozley Place, N. W.
2/52		Cross burned in front of Negro home. (Racial tension)
		Catholic church receives bombing threat. (Religious tension)
8/3/53		An unidentified white man hurled gasoline at the porch of a home on Park Street, S.E. in an attempt to set the house afire. The owner, a white woman, said the arson attempt was probably made because she is boarding a couple who recently sold their home to Negroes

2--Violence and Vandalism

8/20/53	Atlanta World	Pharmacy on Simpson Road, N. W. was dynamited.
10/8/53		Three houses damaged from dynamite explosions in Cairo Street area.

Other information from newspaper clippings

10/11/46	Atlanta Constitution	Negro woman jailed on suspicion of malicious mischief after admitting writing threatening notes warning white residents to vacate a Windsor Street house near a Negro residential area.
8/14/48	" "	A group of white residents from the Mozley Park area joined the West Eng Cooperative Association and raised money for the purchase of Association bonds to be used in acquiring real estate where they claimed Negroes were buying the building. A drive was launched to obtain additional members from the area. Real Estate purchased by the Association was turned back to white persons.
10/8/48	" "	Negro real estate agent held to Criminal Court on a charge of cheating and swindling by alledgedly selling houses on Mozley Place, S. W. to other Negroes on the pretext that it would become a Negro neighborhood. (The case was declared a mistrial)

FORT WORTH, TEX.

"There is no segregation whatsoever in the Public Library."

SOURCE: Letter from George D. Flemmings, Pres.
Forth Worth Branch, NAACP
(See RECREATION survey file)

R. H. KING, Associate Director
R. B. ELEAZER, Educational Director

JOHN J. EAGAN, Chairman
WILL W. ALEXANDER, Director

Mrs. LUKE JOHNSON, Director Woman's Work
Miss RUTH REED, Field Worker

ALABAMA

DR. R. R. MOTON
DR. CHAS. H. PRATT
HON. JOHN D. RATHER
MRS. BOOKER T. WASHINGTON

ARKANSAS

DR. O. E. GODDARD
MR. JOHN L. HUNTER
DR. J. H. REYNOLDS

FLORIDA

MRS. MARY MCLEOD BETHUNE

GEORGIA

MR. B. G. ALEXANDER
MRS. ARCHIBALD DAVIS
DR. PLATO DURHAM
MRS. PARKER W. FISHER
MRS. ZENO I. FITZPATRICK
BISHOP J. S. FLIPPER
MRS. J. D. HAMMOND
MR. WALTER B. HILL
MRS. JOHN HOPE
DR. JOHN HOPE
MR. MARION M. JACKSON
MR. THOMAS JOHNSON
DR. M. ASHBY JONES
COL. A. R. LAWTON
MR. H. E. PERRY
HON. E. MARVIN UNDERWOOD
DR. C. B. WILMER

KENTUCKY

BISHOP GEORGE C. CLEMENT
MR. P. C. DIX
DR. JOHN H. LITTLE
DR. HENRY H. SWEETS

LOUISIANA

MR. LEO. M. FAVROT
BISHOP R. E. JONES
MR. H. F. MADISON
MR. EDGAR STERN

MARYLAND

MRS. H. M. WHARTON

MISSISSIPPI

BISHOP THEO. D. BRATTON
MR. B. W. GODFREY
DR. W. S. LEATHERS

MISSOURI

MRS. EFFIE L. CUNNINGHAM
MRS. W. C. WINSBOROUGH

NORTH CAROLINA

MRS. T. W. BICKETT
MRS. CHARLOTTE H. BROWN
MR. EARLE GODBEY
MRS. H. L. MCCRORY
MR. N. C. NEWBOLD
DR. WM. L. POTEAT
MR. J. WILSON SMITH
MR. C. C. SPAULDING

Commission
ON Interracial Cooperation

409 PALMER BUILDING

TELEPHONE WALNUT 0352

ATLANTA, GA.

OKLAHOMA

MR. JOHN R. BOARDMAN
MR. F. M. DEERHAKE

SOUTH CAROLINA

BISHOP K. G. FINLEY
MR. T. B. LANHAM
DR. JOSIAH MORSE
MR. G. CROFT WILLIAMS
MRS. R. S. WILKINSON

TENNESSEE

DR. ISAAC FISHER
DR. EDWIN MIMS
DR. J. W. PERRY
MR. ARCH TRAWICK
DR. W. D. WEATHERFORD
MRS. W. D. WEATHERFORD

TEXAS

MR. L. A. COULTER
DR. J. E. HARDY
MR.. R. L. SMITH

VIRGINIA

MRS. JANIE PORTER BARRETT
DR. R. E. BLACKWELL
BISHOP JAMES CANNON, JR
MR. JACKSON DAVIS
DR. J. H. DILLARD
MR. HOMER L. FERGUSON
DR. JOHN M. GANDY
DR. JAMES E. GREGG
MR. M. W. LEE
DR. S. C. MITCHELL
MRS. B. B. MUNFORD
DR. J. G. VENABLE

THE LAWS OF ATLANTA AND GEORGIA RELATING TO THE SEPARATION OF RACES

Compiled from

Georgia Code, Annotated (1935)

and

Municipal Code of Atlanta (1942)

Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

October, 1945

I

THE GEORGIA CODE

Chapter and Section

2 CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

117 (Article I, Bill of Rights) Paragraph XVII. SLAVERY AND INVOLUNTARY SERVITUDE. - There shall be within the State of Georgia neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, save as a punishment for crime after legal conviction thereof.

118 (Article I, Bill of Rights) Paragraph XVIII. STATUS OF THE CITIZEN.- The social status of the citizen shall never be the subject of legislation.

Cross Reference. - Rights of a citizen, see 79-205.

Judicial Notice of social status and superiority and inferiority of races not prevented by this provision. 2 App. 505 (58 S.E. 899).

Marriage between members of the white and black races, law prohibiting, does not regulate the social status of citizens. 39/321

125 (Article I, Bill of Rights) Paragraph XXV. CITIZENS, PROTECTION OF.- All citizens of the United States resident in this State, are hereby declared citizens of this State, and it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to enact such laws as will protect them in the full enjoyment of the rights, privileges and immunities due to such citizenship.

Profession: Every citizen has right to follow any lawful calling, business, or profession he may select, subject only to restrictions as government may impose for welfare and safety of society. 162/246 (134 S.E. 42)

White and colored races: Distinctions between, as to rights pertaining to citizenship are abolished by Fourteenth Amendment to Federal Constitution, and as to their civil rights, the races stand upon same footing; therefore, whatever rights belong to white concubine or bastard under laws of Georgia belong also to colored concubine or bastard. 78/413 (1-d) (3 S.E. 309)

5002 (Article VII, Finance, Taxation, etc.) Paragraph II. EXEMPTIONS. - The General Assembly may, by law, exempt from taxation all public property; places of religious worship or burial; all institutions of purely public charity; all buildings erected for and used as a college, incorporated academy, or other seminary of learning, and also all funds or property held or used as endowment by such colleges, incorporated academies or seminaries of learning, provided the same is not invested in real estate; and provided, further, that said exemptions shall only apply to such colleges, incorporated academies or other seminaries of learning as are open to the general public; provided, further, that all endowments to institutions established for white people shall be limited to white people, and all endowments to institutions established for colored people shall be limited to colored people....

92-201 (998) of Code contains same provisions.

6601 (Article VIII, Education) Paragraph I. SYSTEM OF COMMON SCHOOLS: FREE TUITION; SEPARATION OF RACES. - There shall be a thorough system of common schools for the education of children as nearly uniform as practicable, the expenses of which shall be provided for by taxation, or otherwise. The schools shall be free to all children of the State, but separate schools shall be provided for the white and colored races. (Acts 1911, p. 46, ratified Oct. 2, 1912)

Editorial Note. -- By the amendment ratified October 2, 1912, the words, "in the elementary branches of and English education only," which immediately followed the word "children", were stricken from this paragraph. Otherwise the paragraph is the same as it was in the original Constitution of 1877.

Cited. 145/408, 409 (89 S.E. 367); 168/86 (147 S.E. 373).
Stated. 160/268 (127 S.E. 868).

Colored person not denied equal protection of laws by decision of State court denying injunction against maintenance by board of education of high school for white children, while failing to maintain one for colored children also, for reason that funds not sufficient to maintain it in addition to needed primary schools for colored children. 175 U.S. 528 (44 L. Ed. 262, 20 Sup. Ct. 197) affirming 103/641 (29 S.E. 488).

7101 (Article VII, Education) Paragraph I. DONATIONS AND GRANTS; APPROPRIATIONS The trustees of the University of Georgia may accept bequests, donations and grants of land, or other property, for the use of said university. In addition to the payment of the annual interest on the debt due by the State to the University, the General Assembly shall from time to time make such appropriations to the University, and high schools, as the condition of the treasury authorizes. (Acts 1920, p. 32 ratified Nov. 2, 1920).

Cross-References - Taxation for public institutions, see 2-4901. State University, see Title 32, Education, Chapter 32-1.

Editorial Note -- This paragraph, as it appeared in the original Constitution of 1877, read as follows: "The trustees of the University of Georgia may accept bequests, donations and grants of land, or other property, for the use of said university. In addition to the payment of the annual interest on the debt due by the State to the University, the General Assembly may, from time to time, make such donations thereto as the condition of the treasury will authorize; and the General Assembly may also from time to time make such appropriations of money as the condition of the Treasury will authorize to any college, or university in this State for the education of persons of color." The amendment of 1920 changed it to read as set out above.

"The annual interest on the debt due by the State to the University," mentioned in the above paragraph, refers to the annual appropriation mentioned in section 1394 of the Code of 1910, first enacted by an Act approved December 21, 1821 (Cobb's Digest p. 1091), guaranteeing a permanent income to the University of not less than $8,000 a year from its bank stock. The bank stock therein referred to was stock purchased in the Bank of the State of Georgia at Savannah with the proceeds of the sale of wild lands owned by the University, pursuant to an Act approved December 16, 1815, (Cobb's Digest pp. 1088-89) of which section 1381 of the Code of 1910, prohibiting the trustees from disposing of such stock without the consent of the General Assembly was a part. The Governor's message of November 24, 1866, states that this bank filed deeds of surrender of its charter in his office between March 13, 1866, and November 24, 1866. The Comptroller General's report of 1869 declares this stock worthless. The income guaranteed by the above-mentioned Act of 1821 was recognized by the above provision of the Constitution as due to the University. Since the University no longer owns any bank stock, sections 1381 and 1394 of the Code of 1910 have not been included in this Code.

Cited. 141/390, 396 (81 S.E. 238).
Name: Act of 1933 (32-101) changing corporate name from "Trustees of the University of Georgia" to "Regents of the University System of Georgia," does not violate this provision. 179/210 (3) (175. S.E. 567)

18 CARRIERS

202 DUTY AS TO RECEPTION OF PASSENGERS.- A common carrier, holding himself out to the public as such, is bound to receive all passengers offered that he is able and accustomed to carry, upon compliance with such reasonable regulations as he may adopt for his own safety and the benefit of the public.

Cited. 74/685; 159 Fed. 960.
Construction: Construing sections 93-304 et seq., 93-309 et. seq., this section and section 18-203 in harmony, the power of a common carrier to make reasonable regulations must yield where regulations have been made by authority of the State, unless they are invalid. 140/817, 827 (80 S.E. 327).

203 WHAT PERSONS MAY BE REFUSED AS PASSENGERS OR EJECTED. - Carriers of passengers may refuse to admit, or may eject from their conveyances, all persons refusing to comply with reasonable regulations, or guilty of improper conduct, or of bad, dissolute, doubtful, or suspicious character. They may refuse to convey persons seeking to interfere with their business or interests.

Colored trainhand may properly be called by conductor to assist in ejecting passenger who ought to be ejected. 90/562 (4) (16 S.E. 352).

Disorderly passenger, using obscene, profane, or vulgar language, has no right to remain on train and be carried, 81/485 (8 S.E. 70); see 132/552 (64 S.E. 549); 89/554 (16 S.E. 69). See 27-213 to 27-215.

204 DILIGENCE REQUIRED OF CARRIERS. - A carrier of passengers must exercise extraordinary diligence to protect the lives and persons of his passengers, but is not liable for injuries to them after having used such diligence.

Cross-reference. Limitation of liability by giving notice, see 18-104. Presumption in case of loss, see 18-102. What is extraordinary diligence, see 105-202.

Violence and insult at hands of fellow passengers or third persons, duty of carrier to use extraordinary care to protect passenger from. 115/836 (42 S.E. 242); 117/63 (43 S.E. 430); 126/814 (56 S.E. 68); 1 App. 557 (57 S.E. 943); 132/552, 558 (64 S.E. 549).

Presence on train of two Negro tramps stealing ride not sufficient to cause employees to anticipate that when brought into train under arrest they might endeavor to escape and make murderous assault upon one to whom carrier owed duty of protection and who was taking no part to prevent the escape. 115/836 (42 S.E. 242).

Insult not necessarily consist in use of language imputing crime; more generally consists in language affecting social status and personal feelings or business relations of person insulted. Id. 500 (3-b)

To call a white man a Negro or intimate that he is of African descent may be an insult. Id. 500 (3-a).

Where one sues for being mistaken for Negro by street car conductor, petition must allege that plaintiff is a white man. 124/693 (53 S.E. 239)

Colored passenger entitled to same protection as white passenger against violent men seeking to molest, outrage, and humiliate him. 89/554 (16 S.E. 69); 126/814 (56 S.E. 68)

205 DUTY OF CARRIERS TO FURNISH EQUAL ACCOMMODATIONS. - Common carriers of passengers for hire shall furnish like and equal accommodations to all persons, without distinction of race, color, or previous condition. (Acts 1870, p. 398).

Cross-Reference -- Penalty for violation of this section, see 18-9901. Venue of suit by person wronged and amount recoverable, 18-606.

Cited. 1 App. 632, 635 (57 S.E. 1007); 3 App. 534, 540 (60 S.E. 278)

Baggage transfer company may be granted exclusive right to enter incoming trains to solicit transportation of passengers and baggage, and it may rent a portion of the baggage room in depot for its use, provided that so doing does not interfere with exercise of any right which any other person may lawfully demand of railroad company as common carrier. 107/636 (34 S.E. 372), followed 128-754 (58 S.E. 452); and see 125/677 (54 S.E. 711).

206 SEPARATE CARS OR COMPARTMENTS FOR WHITE AND COLORED PASSENGERS; SEATS; LIGHT; VENTILATION. - Railroad companies doing business in this state shall furnish equal accommodations, in separate cars or compartments of cars, for white and colored passengers, and when a car is divided into compartments, the space set apart for white and colored passengers respectively may be proportioned according to the proportion of usual and ordinary travel by each on the railroad or line on which cars are used. Such companies shall furnish to the passengers comfortable seats and shall have the cars well and sufficiently lighted and ventilated. Officers or employees having charge of railroad cars shall not allow white and colored passengers to occupy the same car or compartment. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157)

Cross-reference. - Penalty for violation of section, see 18-9902, 18-9903. Cited. 110/771 (36 S.E. 68); 2 App. 499, 503 (58 S.E. 899); 116/845 (43 S.E. 254); 126/814 (56 S.E. 68).

Civil liability of railroad company where white passenger occupied car of colored passengers and injured one of them. 126/814 (56 S.E. 68).

Constitutionality: Statute held constitutional as being general law. 125/287 (2) (54 S.E. 160)

Seats: Whether failure to provide is breach of duty, question for jury; where injury caused, or partly caused, by such failure, fact that for long time sufficient seats had not been furnished and that defendant knew it may be pleaded and proved as negligence as well as aggravation. 3 App. 534 (3) (60 S.E. 278).

As a general rule, carrier operating interurban railroad line is under legal duty to furnish passengers on its cars with seats. 146/264 (1) (91 S.E. 90).

Sick passenger: Section quoted in considering carrier's duty as to sick passenger. 13 App. 464, 465 (79 S.E. 369).

Street cars: This section not applicable to street cars. 27 App. 350 (1) (108 S.E. 313).

207 DUTY TO ASSIGN PASSENGERS TO THEIR CARS: POLICE POWERS OF CONDUCTORS.- All conductors or other employees in charge of passenger cars shall assign all passengers to their respective cars, or compartment of cars, provided by the said companies under the provisions of section 18-206 and all conductors of street cars and busses shall assign all passengers to seats on the cars under their charge, so as to separate the white and colored races as much as practicable; and all conductors and other employees of railroads and all conductors of street cars and busses shall have and are hereby with, police powers to carry out said provisions. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157).

Cross-reference. - White and colored passengers on sleeping cars separated, see 18-210.
Cited. 110/771, 772 (36 S.E. 68); 1 App. 632,635 (57 S.E. 1007); 120/991 (48 S.E. 355); 126/814, 819 (56 S.E. 68).

Arrest: Conductor of street car may arrest passenger for violation of section 18-208. 27 App. 350 (1) (108 S.E. 313).

Insult by conductor in mistaking white man for Negro, while attempting to enforce this section, may render company liable for damages. In enforcing this section, conductor is still the agent of the company, and the liability for his acts is not diminished by delegation of police power. 2 App. 499 (58 S.E. 899).

Sick passenger: Section quoted in considering carrier's duty as to sick passenger. 13 App. 464, 465 (79 S.E. 369).

208 REMAINING IN SEAT, COMPARTMENT OR CAR OTHER THAN THAT TO WHICH ASSIGNED.- No passenger shall remain in any car, compartment or seat other than that to which he has been assigned. The conductor and any and all employees on such cars are clothed with power to eject from the train or car any passenger who refuses to remain in the car, compartment or seat assigned to him. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157).

Cross Reference. - Penalty for passenger remaining in car, see 18-9904. Cited. 126/814, 819 (56 S.E. 68).

Insult in mistaking white man for Negro. 2 App. 499 (58 S.E. 899).

Pass through car: Though passenger's purpose was to, he was guilty if he refused to leave at conductor's request. 110/771 (36 S.E. 68).

Sick passenger: Section quoted in considering carrier's duty as to sick passenger. 13 App. 464, 466 (79 S.E. 369).

209 NURSES AND SERVANTS EXCLUDED FROM OPERATION OF LAW. - The provisions of the preceding three sections shall not apply to colored nurses or servants in attendance on their employers. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157)

210 WHITE AND COLORED PASSENGERS ON SLEEPING CARS TO BE SEPARATED. - Sleeping car companies and railroad companies operating sleeping cars in this State shall have the right to assign all passengers to seats and berths under their charge, and shall separate the white and colored races in making said assignments, and the conductor and other employees on the train to which sleeping cars may be attached shall not permit white and colored passengers to occupy the same compartment: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to compel sleeping-car companies or railroads operating sleeping cars to carry persons of color in sleeping or parlor cars: Provided, that this section shall not apply to colored nurses or servants traveling with their employers. A conductor or other employee of a sleeping car, as well as a conductor or other employee of the train to which a sleeping car may be attached, shall have full police power to enforce this section. (Acts 1899, p. 66).

Cross reference. - Acting as peace officer without authority, see 26-4902. Penalty for employee's failure to eject passengers, see 18-9906.

211 WATER AND LIGHT IN PASSENGER CARS. - Railroad companies shall keep in each passenger car or in any car in which passengers are transported an adequate supply of good, pure drinking water at all hours during the day and night. (Acts 1863-4, p. 132).

Cross-reference.- Penalty for violation, see 18-9907, 18-9908.

212 CINDER DEFLECTORS ON RAILROAD TRAINS. - All railroad companies operating passenger trains or coaches by steam within or throughout this State, are hereby required to put cinder deflectors, the same as are used on Pullman coaches or that will keep cinders from entering the car, upon all windows of passenger coaches, so as to protect the passengers when the windows are raised. (Acts 1912, p. 157).

Cross-reference.- Penalty for violation, see 18-9909.

213 STATION ACCOMMODATION FOR PASSENGERS. - All railroad companies operating passenger trains through county seats and towns and cities having a population of more than 1,000, and stopping thereat to take on and put off passengers, shall keep open at least one hour before the arrival of, and half an hour after the departure of, passenger trains, according to the scheduled time for the arrival of and the departure of said trains, a lighted and comfortable room, between the hours of 6 o'clock P.M. and 6 o'clock A.M., for the comfort and convenience of their passengers. (Acts 1906, p. 101).

Cross-references. - Penalty for violation, see 18-9910. Powers of Public Service Commission, see 93-308. See 133/413 (65 S.E. 890); 119/88 (2) (46 S. E. 71); 11 App. 805 (76 S.E. 364).

Contract by railroad company to locate station at given point is not per se void; contract is enforceable unless shown that there is such a conflict between railroad company's duties to public and its duties under the contract that it is impossible to discharge former without abandoning latter. 13 App. 357, 358 (6) (79 S. E. 187).

Eviction, unjustifiable, of passenger from waiting room in depot maintained by carrier at night, though under no duty to so maintain it, gives rise to cause of action. 33 App. 407 (126 S.E. 736). Waiting room at junction point maintained by both carriers, and eviction by agent of both, acting within scope of authority, both carriers liable. Id.

Heat: In suit against railroad for failure to heat waiting room, erroneous to charge that when plaintiff has shown she was passenger and that she was injured, presumption of negligence arises. 30 App. 621 (1) (118 S.E. 566).

Rule of Railroad Commission with regard to keeping open of depots and stations, held to be reasonable. 10 App. 227 (73 S.E. 523).

Statement by agent of carrier when selling ticket that waiting room at junction point open all night for accommodation of passenger, not binding upon carrier. 33 App. 407 (126 S.E. 736).

Waiting room: Passenger traveling on through ticket preserves status as passenger when in waiting room of depot for purpose of continuing journey upon next train of connecting carrier. 33 App. 406, 407 (126 S.E. 736).

606 FAILURE TO SUPPLY EQUAL AND LIKE ACCOMMODATIONS. - Any railroad violating the conditions of section 18-205, by any of its employees, may be sued in the superior court of the county where the offense is committed, and any person so wronged may recover such sum as the court thinks right and proper in the premises, not to exceed $10,000. (Acts 1870, pp. 427, 428).

9901 FAILURE TO FURNISH EQUAL ACCOMMODATIONS TO ALL. - Any officer, employee, or agent of a common carrier of passengers for hire, or persons who are common carriers, who shall violate the provisions of section 18-205 shall be punished as for a misdemeanor. (Acts 1870, pp. 398).

9902 ALLOWING WHITE AND COLORED PASSENGERS TO OCCUPY SAME CAR OR COMPARTMENT. - Any officer or employee having charge of railroad cars, who shall violate the provisions of section 18-206, prohibiting such officer or employee from allowing white and colored passengers to occupy the same car or compartment, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157).

Cited. 126/814, 819 (56 S.E. 68).

9903 FAILURE TO FURNISH SEATS, LIGHTS, ETC., TO PASSENGERS. - Failure of companies operating and using compartment cars or separate cars to furnish to passengers comfortable seats, and to have the cars well and sufficiently ventilated as required by section 18-206, shall be a misdemeanor. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157).

9904 PASSENGER REMAINING IN CAR, COMPARTMENT OR SEAT OTHER THAN THAT TO WHICH ASSIGNED. - Any passenger violating the provisions of section 18-208, prohibiting any passenger from remaining in any car, compartment, or seat other than that to which he has been assigned, shall be guilty of misdemeanor. (Acts 1890-1, p. 157).

9905 SLEEPING CAR PASSENGER REMAINING IN COMPARTMENT OTHER THAN THAT TO WHICH ASSIGNED. - Any sleeping-car passenger remaining in any compartment other than that to which he may be assigned, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Acts 1899, p. 66).

Cross-reference. - White and colored passengers in sleeping cars separated, see 18-210.

9906 EMPLOYEE FAILING TO ASSIST IN EJECTING PASSENGER FROM SLEEPING CAR. - A conductor or other employee of a sleeping car, or of a train carrying a sleeping car, who shall fail or refuse to assist in ejecting a passenger violating the provisions of section 18-210 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Acts 1899, p. 66).

9907 FAILURE TO KEEP WATER OR LIGHTS IN PASSENGER CARS. - A violation of section 18-211, requiring railroad companies to keep an adequate supply of good, pure drinking water in each passenger car at all hours, and lights during the night for the use of passengers, shall be a misdemeanor. (Acts 1863-4, p. 132).

9908 CONDUCTOR OR AGENT OF RAILROAD FAILING TO FURNISH WATER OR LIGHTS. - Any conductor or agent of a railroad, who, after being requested by a passenger to furnish a sufficient supply of water to the passengers in each car, or light at night, shall pass any depot or station without doing so, may be indicted in any county through which the railroad of which he is agent or conductor runs, and shall be punished as for a misdemeanor. (Acts 1863, 4, p. 132).

9909 FAILURE OF RAILROAD TO INSTALL CINDER DEFLECTORS ON PASSENGER COACHES. - Any railroad company refusing or neglecting to comply with section 18-212, with regard to installing cinder deflectors on passenger coaches, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in the sum of not less than $500 or more than $1,000 for each coach not equipped as required by said section. (Acts 1912, p. 157).

9910 FAILURE TO PROVIDE RAILWAY STATION ACCOMMODATIONS FOR PASSENGERS. - A failure by a railroad company to comply with section 18-213, in relation to a lighted and comfortable room for passengers, shall be a misdemeanor. (Acts 1906, p. 101).

26 CRIMES AND PUNISHMENT -- APPOINTMENT OF PEACE OFFICERS AND DETECTIVES

4902 ACTING AS PEACE OFFICER WITHOUT AUTHORITY. - Any person who shall, without authority, exercise or attempt to exercise the functions of, or hold himself out to anyone as, a deputy sheriff, marshal, policeman, constable, or other peace officer or detective shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to interfere with the police powers granted to conductors of passenger trains, nor shall this and the preceding section apply in times of riot or unusual disturbance, or in other instances provided for by law. (Acts 1890-1, p. 220).

Cross-reference: Police powers of conductors, 27-214.

27 CRIMINAL PROCEDURE -- ARREST

213 POLICE POWER OF RAILROAD TRAIN CONDUCTOR. - The conductors of trains carrying passengers are invested with all the powers, duties, and responsibilities of police officers while on duty on their trains: Provided, nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of any railroad company for the acts of its employees. When a passenger is guilty of disorderly conduct, or uses any obscene, profane, or vulgar language, or plays any game of cards or other game of chance for money or other thing of value, upon any passenger train, the conductor of the train may stop it at the place where such offense is committed, or at the next stopping place of the train, and eject the passenger from the train, using only such force as may be necessary to accomplish the removal; and the conductor may command the assistance of the employees of the company and of the passengers on the train to assist in the removal; and the conductor may cause any person violating the provisions of this section of the laws of this State to be detained and delivered to the proper authorities for trial as soon as practicable. (Acts 1880-1, p. 138).

Cross-reference. - Ejecting passengers, see 27-215. Carrier's duty to passengers, see 18-204. What passengers may be refused, see 18-203.

Arrest of passenger made by officer of law, company is under no duty to inquire into legality of arrest. Where such arrest is illegal but company has no notice of that fact, company not liable to passenger for failure to interfere with officers and prevent arrest, or for stopping train to allow officers to remove prisoner; company is under no duty to see that the officers use only such force as is necessary to make arrest. 117/63 (43 S.E. 430).

See 18-204, catchword arrest.

Assault and battery committed by conductor on passenger, road not liable if passenger's conduct such as to justify act; if conductor's act not justified but mitigated by passenger's conduct, such mitigation inures to company's benefit; but if passenger's words and conduct were such as to arouse conductor's anger and to tend to provoke difficulty, but not such as to justify conductor, company would not be freed from liability. 135/741 (4) (70 S. E. 225), reviewing and modifying former decisions. See 18-204, catchwords violence and assault.

Colored passenger is entitled to same protection against drunken and violent men as white passengers. 89/554 (16 S.E. 69).

Ejection of passenger, with or without ticket, is warranted when he is disorderly or uses any obscene, profane, or vulgar language. 81/485 (1) (8 S. E. 70).
See 18-203 and notes.

Lunatics: Right and duty of carrier with reference to transportation of, 119/230 (46 S.E. 87).

Mistake: Where on account of, wrong passenger ejected, carrier nevertheless liable for the tort; good faith of company's servants in such eviction, available only to defeat punitive damages. 124/357 (2) (52 S.E. 427); see 2 App. 499 (2) (58 S.E. 899).

Protection must be afforded by conductor against violence, injury, or humiliation by third persons, to extent of all the power with which he is clothed by company or by the law, and his failure to afford it, when he has knowledge that there is occasion for his interference, will subject company to damages. 126/814 (1) (56 S.E. 68); 89/554 (16 S. E. 69).

Police power is granted to better enable corporation to protect passengers, but burden of exercising extraordinary diligence in the protection is not diminished in the delegation of police power. 2 App. 499 (2) (58 S. E. 899); see 124/357 (52 S.E. 427); 1 App. 833 (6) (58 S. E. 88).

Shooting and wounding passenger, though conductor not fully excusable for, company not liable if passenger defies conductor and draws pistol, and after being expelled still uses grossly insulting language, on which mutual combat with pistol ensues. 81/485 (2) (8 S. E. 70); but see 135/741 (4) (70 S. E. 225).

Stealing ride: Where person attempting to steal ride is discovered by conductor, latter has right to require such person to come into train and pay his fare, and is not compelled to immediately stop train and eject him; if he refuses to come in and makes assault upon employees with deadly weapon, conductor and other employees are authorized to arm themselves with weapons as may be necessary in order to protect themselves from further assaults. 113/279 (2) (38 S. E. 844).

214 POLICE POWER OF STREET CAR CONDUCTORS AND OTHERS. - The conductors, motormen, and drivers of street railroad cars are invested with all powers, duties, and responsibilities of police officers while on duty on their trains or cars, and while on duty at the termini of their lines: Provided, nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of any railroad company for the acts of its employees. (Act 1890-1, p. 230).

Cross-reference. - Acting as conductor without authority, see 26-4902. Duty of carriers as to passengers, see 18-204.

Arrest: Street car conductor may arrest passenger for refusal to sit in part of car reserved for passengers of his class. 27 App. 350 (1) (108 S.E. 313). Street car conductor cannot arrest passenger for infringement of regulation of Railroad Commission with regard to seating of passengers in absence of disorderly conduct by passenger. Id. 350 (4).

Charge: This section gives in charge in action by street car passenger for injuries inflicted by conductor after arresting such passengers. 141/363 (3) (80 S. E. 993).

Opprobrious language: If conductor strikes one passenger and knocks him against another passenger, injuring latter, it is no defense to suit against company by injured passenger that other passenger had used opprobrious language to conductor. 9 App. 497 (1) (71 S. E. 759).

Tort of conductor in wrongful or illegal discharge of his duty, either as police officer or as servant, carrier not exempt from liability for, because of police power. 1 App. 833 (6) (58 S.E. 88).

215 AUTHORITY OF CONDUCTORS AND OTHERS TO EJECT PASSENGERS, ETC. - When a passenger is guilty of disorderly conduct, or uses any obscene, vulgar, or profane language, or plays any game of cards or other game of chance for money or other thing of value, or is guilty of any disorderly or improper conduct tending to cause a breach of the peace, said conductors, motormen, and drivers are authorized to eject him from the cars, using only such force as may be necessary to accomplish the removal, and they may command the assistance of the employees of the company, and the passengers on such trains or cars, to assist in the removal, and they may cause any person who violates the provisions of this section, or who commits acts in violation of law, to be detained and delivered to proper officers for trial as soon as practicable; and said officers are authorized to exercise the police powers hereby conferred, at the termini also of their lines, while on duty either as conductors, motormen, or drivers. (Acts 1880-1p. 230).

Cross-references.- Police powers of conductors, see 27-213. What passengers may be refused, see 18-203.
Applied: 37 App. 79 (139 S. E. 82).
Charge: This section given in charge in action by street car passenger for injuries inflicted by conductor after arresting such passenger. 141/363 (3) (80 S. E. 993).

1201 WHEN AND HOW VENUE CHANGED. - The defendant in any criminal case in the superior court may move, by petition in writing, for a change of venue, whenever, in his judgment, an impartial jury cannot be obtained in the county where the crime is alleged to have been committed. Upon the motion it shall not be necessary to examine all persons in the county, liable to serve on juries, but the judge shall hear evidence by affidavit or oral testimony in support of or against the motion; and if, from the evidence submitted, the court shall be satisfied that an impartial jury cannot be obtained to try the case, the judge shall transfer it to any county that may be agreed upon by the solicitor general and the defendant or his counsel, to be tried in the county agreed upon. If a county is not thus agreed upon, the judge shall select such county as, in his judgment, will afford a fair and impartial jury to try the case, and have it transferred accordingly. The judge of the superior court of the circuit in which a crime is alleged to have been committed may change the venue for the trial of said case, on his own motion, with or without petition, whenever, in his judgment, the accused party will be lynched, or there is danger of violence being attempted to be committed on said accused, if carried back, or allowed to remain in the county where the crime is alleged to have been committed If a motion by petition shall be made by the accused for a change of venue, said judge shall hear the same at chambers, with or without the presence of the accused, at such time and place as he may direct; and if the evidence submitted shall reasonably show that there is probability or danger of lynching, or other violence, then it shall be mandatory on said judge to change the venue to such county as, in his judgment, will avoid such lynching. The petitioner shall have the right to except to the ruling of the court at such interlocutory hearing and the bill of exceptions when signed shall operate as a supersedeas in the trial of said case, until passed on by the Supreme Court: Provided, that said prisoner shall present said bill of exceptions to the judge hearing said motion within six days after the refusal to grant said motion. Said bill of exceptions shall be filed in the office of the superior court clerk of the county of the alleged crime within two days after being signed by the judge, and said clerk shall transmit said bill and the required record of said case as early as possible and not exceeding ten days from the filing in said office to the Supreme Court. Said case in the Supreme Court shall be heard as soon as possible, taking precedence of all other causes: Provided, that should the Supreme Court not be in session at the time said writ of error is received in said Court it shall be the duty of the clerk of said Supreme Court to at once notify the Chief Justice of said Court, or, in his absence or illness, one of the other Justices of said Court, of the receipt of said writ of error; and it shall be the duty of said Justice to at once convene said Supreme Court for the purpose of hearing said case, and said Supreme Court shall remand said case with directions or pass such final order as may be deemed proper and correct. (Acts 1895, p. 70; 1911, p. 74).

Cross-references. -For constitutional provision, see 2-4401. See also 27-1101. Changes in civil cases, see 3-207. When a writ of error lies, see 6-701. Bills of exception in criminal cases, see 6-904.
Cited. 27 App. 309 (108 S. E. 123).

Lynching or mob violence: On petition for change of venue of one charged with murder, on ground that there was danger of lynching, it was error to refuse change, in view of evidence introduced and failure by State to rebut or deny allegations and evidence of what transpired between mob and sheriff shortly before petition was made. 141/812 (82 S.E. 232).

Where, on application for change of venue, it appeared that in consequence of the inflamed state of the public mind, there was danger of defendants being lynched if brought back for trial, application should have been granted. 141/314 (80 S. E. 1012).

Change of venue because of prejudice of inhabitants of district was improperly denied here in prosecution of Negro for murder of white man. 143/270 (84 S. E. 579).

Evidence here as to probability of lynching or attempt to do violence to accused was sufficient to require change of venue. 145/416 (89 S. E. 370).

It is primarily question for judge to determine from evidence whether or not probability or danger of lynching or other violence exists, and where evidence is conflicting judgment denying motion to change venue will not be reversed, unless manifestly erroneous; where evidence fails to reasonably show probability or danger of lynching or other violence, it is not error to refuse to change the venue. 24 App. 31 (1) (99 S. E. 635); 44 App. 210 (160 S. E. 682).

It was trial court's duty to refuse to put accused to trial in presence of mob whose violence against accused was prevented only by presence of troops. 53 F. (2d) 586.

Mandatory upon judge to whom petition for change of venue presented to change venue of evidence reasonably shows that there is probability of danger of lynching. 33 App. 613, 614 (127 S. E. 302).

32 COUNTY BOARDS OF EDUCATION

909 SCHOOL TERM. SCHOOL PROPERTY AND FACILITIES. - The county boards of education shall have the power to define and regulate the length of the public school terms of their respective counties, and power to purchase, lease, or rent school sites; build, repair, or rent schoolhouses, purchase maps, globes, and school furniture, and make all arrangements necessary to the efficient operation of the schools. The said boards are invested with the title, care, and custody of all schoolhouses or other property belonging to the subdistricts now or hereafter defined, with power to control the same in such manner as they think will best serve the interests of the common schools; and when, in the opinion of the board, any schoolhouse site has become unnecessary or inconvenient, they may sell the same in the name of the county board of education; such conveyance to be executed by the president or secretary of the board, according to the order of the board. They shall have the power to receive any gift, grant, donation or devise made for the use of the common schools within their respective counties, and all conveyances of real estate which may be made to said board shall vest the property in said board of education and their successors in office. It shall also be the duty of said board of education to make arrangements for the instruction of the children of the white and colored races in separate schools. They shall, as far as practicable, provide the same facilities for both races in respect to attainments and abilities of teachers and for a minimum six months length of term time; but the children of the white and colored races shall not be taught together in any common or public school. In respect to the building of schoolhouses, the said board of education may provide for the same, either by labor on the part of the citizens of the subdistricts, or by a tax on their property. The construction of all public school buildings must be approved by the superintendent and board of education and must be according to the plans furnished by the county school authorities and the State Board of Education. (Acts 1919, p. 323). Cited. 123/862 (51 S. E. 617).

937 FREE TUITION: COLORED AND WHITE CHILDREN SEPARATE. - Admission to all common schools shall be gratuitous to all children between the ages of six and eighteen years residing in the subdistricts in which the schools are located. Colored and white children shall not attend the same school; and no teacher receiving or teaching white and colored pupils in the same school shall be allowed any compensation at all out of the common school fund. (Acts 1919, p. 331).

Cross-references. - Compulsory school attendance, see Chapter 32-21. Tuition free, and schools separate for white and colored races, see Constitution, Article VIII, Section I, Paragraph I (2-6601)

34 VOTERS' BOOKS AND OATH

111 RACE TO BE NOTED IN BOOK. - For the purpose of more easily identifying voters, the officers in charge of the voters' book shall note therein, in connection with each signature, the race of the person signing--that is to say, whether white or colored. (Acts 1894, pp. 115, 117).

Cross-references. - Persons of color defined, see 79-103. White person defined, see 53-312.

202 LISTS TO BE FILED WITH COUNTY REGISTRARS; CONTENTS. - Within ten days after closing the voters' books, as provided in section 34-106, the tax collector shall file with the county registrars an accurate and complete copy of the registration list made up as provided in the preceding section, arranged in alphabetical order, and by militia districts and city wards, and also showing the dates in that year when persons will arrive at full age or will have resided in the State and county the requisite time, as sworn to in the voters' books. The list shall also show the race of each person -- that is to say, whether white or colored -- his age, occupation, and residence. (Acts 1894, p. 117; 1908, p. 58; 1913, p. 115).

Cross references. - Tax collector to open voters' books, see 34-101. Inspection and disposition of list, see 34-605, 34-1101.

Stated. 175/85, 86 (165 S. E. 121).

203 LISTS OF PERSONS DISQUALIFIED TO BE FILED. - The tax collector, the ordinary, and the clerk of the superior court of each county shall, before the 20th day of April of each year, prepare and file with the county registrars a complete list, alphabetically arranged, of all persons living in the county on April 10 of that year, who appear to be disqualified from voting by reason of nonpayment of poll taxes, or by reason of idiocy, insanity, or conviction of crime whose penalty is disfranchisement, unless such convict has been pardoned and the right of suffrage restored to him; and said list shall also show the race of such person - that is to say, whether white or colored. (Acts 1899, p. 21; 1908, p. 58. Constitution, Article II, Section I, Paragraph III (2-603).)

35 MILLEDGEVILLE STATE HOSPITAL

225 HOSPITAL TO BE DIVIDED INTO APARTMENTS. - The Board of Control shall see that proper and distinct apartments are arranged for said patients, so that in no case shall Negroes and white persons be together, nor the penitentiary convicts with inmates of any other class; and males and females shall be kept separate. (Acts 1931, pp. 7, 19).

53 MARRIAGE

106 MISCEGENATION PROHIBITED. - It shall be unlawful for a white person to marry anyone except a white person. Any marriage in violation of this section shall be void. (Acts 1927, p. 277).

Cross-references. - Punishment for violation of this section, see section 53-9903. Persons of color defined, see section 53-312. Who may perform ceremony for colored persons, see section 53-212. Penalty for issuing license for intermarriage of white and colored persons, see section 53-9902. White person defined, see section 53-312.
Constitutionality. - Section declared to be constitutional. 41 Fed. 753. Section not violative of Constitution, sections 2-118, declaring that social status of citizen shall never be the subject of legislation. 39/321

Estoppel: Husband is estopped to deny wife's competency to contract marriage on account of race or color where he has lived with her many years as his wife and has procured legislative Act establishing rights of citizenship in her and her children. 60/204.

211 JEWISH MARRIAGES. - Upon request, the ordinary may direct the marriage license to any Jewish minister or other person of any religious society or sect authorized by the rules of such society to perform the marriage ceremony, who shall make return thereon as before required.

212 COLORED MARRIAGES, WHO MAY PERFORM. - Ordained colored ministers of the gospel may celebrate marriage between persons of African descent only, under the same terms and regulations required by the law for marriages between white and colored persons. (Acts 1866, pp. 156, 157).

Cross-references. - Licenses, how granted, see section 53-201. Miscegenation prohibited, see section 53-106.

214 MARRIAGE IN ANOTHER STATE. - All marriages solemnized in another State by parties intending at the time to reside in this State shall have the same legal consequences and effect as if solemnized in this State. Parties residing in this State may not evade any of the provisions of its laws as to marriage by going into another State for the solemnization of the marriage ceremony.

Common law: - There may be common-law marriages in this State between persons who have illegally attempted marriage in another state. 33 App. 260 (125 S. E. 885).

Lex loci governs questions of marriage, but will not be enforced, if it involves anything immoral, contrary to general policy or violative of conscience of State. 34/407 (1).

301 REGISTRATION OF INDIVIDUALS AS TO RACE. SUPERVISION, FORMS, ETC. - The State Board of Health shall prepare a form for the registration of individuals, whereon shall be given the racial composition of such individual, as Caucasian, Negro, Mongolian, West Indian, Asiatic Indian, Malay, or any mixture thereof, or any other non-Caucasian strains, and if there shall be any mixture, the racial composition of the parents and other ancestors in so far as ascertainable, so as to show in what generation such mixture occurred. Said form shall also give the date and place of birth of the registrant, name, race, and color of the parents of registrant, with their place of birth, if known, name of husband or wife of registrant, with his or her place of birth, names of children of registrant with their ages and place of residence, place of residence of registrant for the five years immediately preceding registration, and such other information as may be prescribed for identification by the State Board of Health. (Acts 1927, p. 272; 1933, p. 12).

Editorial Note. - No appropriation to carry this Chapter into effect nor any attempt to put it in operation has been made. It appears to be a dead letter.

303 LOCAL REGISTRATION. - Each local registrar shall personally or by deputy, upon receipt of said forms, cause each person in his district or jurisdiction to execute said form in duplicate, furnishing all available information required upon said form, the original of which shall be forwarded by the local registrar to the State Board of Health, and a duplicate delivered to the ordinary of the county. Said form shall be signed by the registrant, or, in case of children under 14 years of age, by a parent, guardian, or other person standing in loco parentis. The execution of such registration certificate shall be certified to by the local registrar. (Acts 1927, p. 273; 1933, p. 12).

Cross-reference. - Bureau of Vital Statistics, see section 33-1102 et seq.

304 AUTHENTICITY OF STATEMENT. - If the local registrar shall have reason to believe that any statement made by any registrant is not true, he shall so write upon such certificate before forwarding the same to the State Board of Health or ordinary, giving his reason therefor. (Acts 1927, p. 273; 1933, p. 12).

Cross-reference. - Miscegenation prohibited, see section 53-106. Penalty for false statement in application, see section 53-9904.

305 FEE FOR REGISTRATION. - The local registrar shall collect from each registrant a registration fee of 30 cents, 15 cents of which shall go to the local registrar and 15 cents of which shall go to the State Board of Health, to be used in defraying expenses of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics. If any registrant shall make affidavit that through poverty he is unable to pay said registration fee of 30 cents, the local registrar shall receive a registration fee of only ten cents for such registration, which sum shall be paid out of the funds of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, and the State Bureau of Vital Statistics shall receive no fee for such registration. This section shall not apply to the registration of births and deaths, the registration of which is otherwise provided for. (Acts of 1927, p. 274).

306 FALSE REGISTRATION PROHIBITED. - No person shall wilfully or knowingly make or cause to be made a registration certificate false as to color or race, and upon conviction thereof in such case the State Board of Health may change the registration certificate so that it will conform to the truth. (Acts 1927;p. 274; 1933, p. 12).

Cross-references. - Miscegenation prohibited, see section 53-106. Penalty for false statement in application for marriage license, see section 53-9904. Penalty for violation of above section, see section 53-9907.

307 MARRIAGE LICENSE, FORM OF APPLICATION FOR, PROVIDED. - The State Board of Health shall prepare a form for application for marriage license, which form shall require the following information to be given over the signatures of the prospective bride and groom; name and address; race and color; place of birth; age; name and address of each parent; race and color of each parent; and whether the applicant is registered with the Bureau of Vital Statistics of this or any other State, and if registered, the county in which such registration was made. The State Board of Health shall at all times keep the ordinary of each county in this State supplied with a sufficient number of said forms of application for marriage license to care for all applications for marriage license. Each prospective bride and each prospective groom applying for a marriage license shall fill out and execute said application in duplicate. (Acts 1927, p. 274; 1933, p. 12).

308 FILING OF APPLICATION FOR MARRIAGE LICENSE. - Upon such application for marriage license being filed with the ordinary by the prospective bride and groom, the ordinary shall forward the original of such application to the State Board of Health, and retain the duplicate of such application in his files. (Acts 1927, p. 275; 1933, p. 12).

Cross-reference. - Application for license, etc., 53-203.

309 REPORT OF STATE BOARD OF HEALTH AFTER EXAMINATION AS TO REGISTRATION OF APPLICANT. - The ordinary shall withhold the issuing of any marriage license until a report upon such application shall have been received from the State Board of Health. Said report shall be forwarded to the ordinary by the next return mail, and shall state whether or not each applicant is registered in the Bureau of Vital Statistics; if registered, the report shall state whether the statements made by each applicant as to race and color are correct according to such registration certificates.

